Program Notes

Cullberg Ballet continues to challenge the audience’s experience of dance, and by its curious and international collaborations the company changes the dance map. Figure a Sea brings together Cullberg Ballet’s dancers in an artistic master meeting between some of the performing arts’ very greatest: the choreographer Deborah Hay and composer Laurie Anderson.

“Figure a Sea is a meditation on seeing. Seeing music, fleeting incidences, synchronicities, copious input points, collectivity, surprise. It is a space for self-reflection: for seeing oneself seeing,” says Deborah Hay on her work for Cullberg Ballet.

Deborah Hay, iconic American dancer, choreographer, and author, was born in 1941 in Brooklyn. She trained with Merce Cunningham and Mia Slavenska and danced with the Cunningham Dance Company in 1964. Hay belongs to a generation of choreographers who were at the base of the Judson Church Movement in New York in the 1960s, where daily life movements became part of the choreography and untrained people became dancers. This was a change in the history of dance. The group, known as the Judson Dance Theater, became one of the most radical and explosive postmodern 20th-century art movements. Hay focused on large-scale dance projects and later almost exclusively on rarified and enigmatic solo dances based on her new experimental choreographic method. She also choreographed a duet for herself and Mikhail Baryshnikov, Single Duet in 2000.

Laurie Anderson, born in 1947 in Glen Ellyn, IL, is one of today’s premier performance artists. Known primarily for her multimedia presentations, she has cast herself in roles as varied as visual artist, composer, poet, photographer, filmmaker, electronics whiz, vocalist, and instrumentalist. As a composer, she has contributed music to films by Wim Wenders and Jonathan Demme; dance pieces by Bill T. Jones, Trisha Brown, and Molissa Fenley; and a score for Robert Lepage’s theater production Far Side of the Moon. She has created pieces for National Public Radio, the BBC, and Expo ’92 in Seville. Anderson’s awards include the 2001 Tenco Prize for Songwriting in San Remo, Italy, and the 2001 Deutsche Schallplatten prize for Life on a String as well as grants from the Guggenheim Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

In Figure a Sea the dancer and the stage are considered a sea of endless possibilities. The choreography moves between being technically proficient and minimalist in its expression. Nothing happens by chance. Hay challenges, without diminishing, the dancer’s intelligence, beauty, and speed. Ease, accuracy, visibility, ambiguity and uniformity are the work’s key words. Deborah Hay always asks her dancers “What If?” “What if?,” for example, all the cells in a body can create a dialogue with everything that they see. In other words: “I do not look at the world. I participate in it. Not only the eyes see,” but the whole body.

About the Artists

Deborah Hay (Choreographer/Director), iconic American dancer, choreographer, and author, was born in 1941 in Brooklyn. She trained with Merce Cunningham and Mia Slavenska and danced with the Cunningham Dance Company in 1964.
Hay belongs to a generation of choreographers who were at the base of the Judson Church Movement in New York in the 1960s, where daily life movements became part of the choreography and untrained people became dancers. This was a change in the history of dance. The group, known as the Judson Dance Theater, became one of the most radical and explosive postmodern 20th-century art movements. Hay focused on large-scale dance projects and later almost exclusively on rarified and enigmatic solo dances based on her new experimental choreographic method. She also choreographed a duet for herself and Mikhail Baryshnikov, Single Duet in 2000.

Hay is the recipient of a 1983 Guggenheim Fellowship in choreography, numerous National Endowment for the Arts Choreography Fellowships, and the Rockefeller Foundation Bellagio Fellowship in 1996. In October 2009 Hay received an honorary degree of doctor of dance from the Theater Academy in Helsinki, Finland. In 2010, she was awarded a US Artist Friends Fellowship and in 2011, an artist’s grant from the Foundation for Contemporary Arts, based in New York. In April 2012, Hay became one of the 21 American performing artists to receive the inaugural and groundbreaking 2012 Doris Duke Artist Award.

After a two-year research collaboration with Motion Bank, a project of the Forsythe Company, an online interactive website was dedicated to Hay’s choreographic aesthetics. Turn Your F^king Head* is a documentary made in 2012 by British filmmaker Becky Edmunds about Hay’s last Solo Performance Commissioning Project at the Findhorn Community Foundation. Hay’s new book Using the Sky: a dance was launched September 2015.

Laurie Anderson (Composer), born in 1947 in Glen Ellyn, IL, is one of today’s premier performance artists. Known primarily for her multimedia presentations, she has cast herself in roles as varied as visual artist, composer, poet, photographer, filmmaker, electronics whiz, vocalist, and instrumentalist.

Anderson’s recording career includes the albums Big Science, Mister Heartbreak, United States Live, Strange Angels, Bright Red, and the soundtrack to her feature film Home of the Brave. A deluxe box set of her Warner Brothers output, Talk Normal, was released in the fall of 2000 on Rhino/Warner Archives. In 2001, Anderson released Life on a String for Nonesuch Records, followed by Live in New York, recorded at Town Hall in New York City.

Anderson has toured the United States and internationally numerous times with shows ranging from simple spoken-word performances to elaborate multimedia events. Major works include United States I-V (1983), Empty Places (1990), The Nerve Bible (1995), and Songs and Stories for Moby Dick.

As a composer, she has contributed music to films by Wim Wenders and Jonathan Demme; dance pieces by Bill T. Jones, Trisha Brown, and Molissa Fenley; and a score for Robert Lepage’s theater production Far Side of the Moon. She has created pieces for National Public Radio, the BBC, and Expo ’92 in Seville. Anderson’s awards include the 2001 Tenco Prize for Songwriting in San Remo, Italy, and the 2001 Deutsche Schallplatten prize for Life on a String as well as grants from the Guggenheim Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

More recent projects include her score for Trisha Brown’s acclaimed piece O Composite, which premiered at the Opera Garnier in Paris in December 2004; Homeland, an album for Nonesuch Records; and the movie Heart of a Dog, which screened at the Venice Film Festival in 2015. Anderson lives in New York City.

Martin Ekman (Sound Design), born 1967 in Stockholm, Sweden, has long experience working in recording studios in Greece and Sweden and has been involved in many projects ranging from rock and pop to traditional and classical music. He is based in Stockholm and works as Sound Manager at Cullberg Ballet. In the sound design for Figure a Sea, space is given to change the use of the captivating music of Laurie Anderson in every specific performance. Furthermore, a great deal of attention has been given to explore in what ways the sound of the room and space where the performance takes place can add unique dimensions to the piece.

Minna Tiikkainen (Lighting Design), born 1969 in Helsinki, Finland, is an award-winning lighting designer. She began experimenting with light while studying fine arts. Her fascination with its immaterial quality led her to enroll at Theater Academy of Finland to study lighting design, where she received her MA in 2002. She then moved to Amsterdam, forging an international career in performing arts. Her work is described as strong in its minimal approach, especially appreciated for its significance for totality of the performance. She has worked with, among others, Nicole Beutler, Jefta van Dinther, Mette Ingvartsen, Keren Levi, and Kate McIntosh.

Marita Tjärnström (Costumes), born 1970, is Cullberg Ballet’s wardrobe supervisor and has created the costumes for works at the company, among them Figure a Sea and the solo Against the Current, Glow, as well as the costumes for works at the Royal Swedish Ballet School.

Mira Mutka (Choreographic Assistant), MFA, works within choreography and dance by initiating, performing, and teaching, often through dances, unreadable writings, and conversations. From a base in Stockholm, Sweden, Mutka is involved in long-term and slow-term collaborations. Recent working environments include ccap (Sadness Extended/Cristina Caprioli), Together Alone (The Celestial Body Series) and Cullberg Ballet (Figure a Sea/Deborah Hay).

Laurent Pichaud (Choreographic Assistant) is a researcher, choreographer, and dance performer based in France. He mainly focuses his research and projects on site-specific works where he can question the use of choreographic tools inside nonspecific artistic fields. His relationship with Deborah Hay is plural: as a dance performer and co-choreographer, he created the duet indivisibilities with Hay in 2011; he also worked as choreographic assistant and translator on the expanded French version of Hay’s book My Body, the Buddhist, which will be published in May 2017. Pichaud received two grants to study Deborah Hay’s archives, which helped him to focus on the use of writing as documentation and transmission tools in Hay’s work. This main study will turn into a PhD next year.

Lisa Drake (Rehearsal Director) graduated from the National Ballet School in Toronto, Canada. Her professional journey in dance began at Nederlands Dans Theater I & II (1987–98). Moving home base to Sweden in 1998, she freelanced as dancer and choreographic assistant with Bullet Proof/Jens Östberg until joining Cullberg Ballet as a performer in 2001. She was awarded the Riksteatern award in 2003 for her performance skills and in 2013 for her contribution to Cullberg Ballet and dance in Sweden. In 2005 an arts grant enabled her to travel to Los Angeles to collaborate with her brother Jeremy, an improvisational musician, for two weeks in an art gallery. They later performed together at Röda Sten, Gothenburg. Since 2009 she has been rehearsal director with Cullberg Ballet. Over the years, Drake has collaborated with choreographers Jiří Kylián, Ohad Naharin, William Forsythe, Mats Ek, Hans van Manen, Nacho Duato, Jens Östberg, Johan Inger, Gideon Obarzanek, Örjan Andersson, Susanne Linke, Stijn Celis, Martha Clarke, Jefta van Dinther, Benoît Lachambre, Trajal Harrell, and Deborah Hay. Drake has been assisting and setting works by Ek, Inger, and Celis for other companies as well as leading workshops. She has made a few small workshop choreographies. Drake is a second-degree Reiki practitioner and is interested in fusing healing with somatic dance work and the art of performance.

Having taken up contemporary dance, he enrolled at the Samovar School in Paris, training in physical theater and clowning, and developing his ideas around burlesque, buffoonery, and grotesque performance. In 2011, he graduated from the School for New Dance Development in Amsterdam. Tanguy explores motion intensity, extreme emotional states, and the shifting musicality of an alert body. He adds to contemporary dance an energetic background that derives from theater and transposes into the former the wildness and openness of clowning. His pieces always feature a flow (bodies, qualities, words) to which the performer has to surrender. Passing through this multiplicity of states, Tanguy reflects on the unpredictable velocity in which we are living. Tanguy has worked both as a dancer and performer for international choreographers including Boris Charmatz, Maud Le Pladec, Deborah Hay, and Ame Henderson. His solo Japan received the ITS Choreography Award 2011. The trio Gerro, Minos and Him, conceived in collaboration with Aloun Marchal and Roger Sala Reyner, received both the 2nd Prize Danse Elargie at the Théâtre de la Ville-Paris in 2010 and the City of Stuttgart’s Dance and Theater Prize in 2013. Tanguy collaborates frequently with the Musée de la Danse, with the choreographers Marzena Krzeminska and Élisa Le Merrer, and with others partners from the department of Côtes-d’Armor.
