Stronghold

Julia Wolfe talks about her Stronghold, composed for eight double basses, as having “webs of rolling harmonics” at the beginning. I’ve used this to create a collage of movement interspersed with sharper moments. The music is vibrant but pares down to almost nothing, which gave me the freedom to create my own rhythmic tension.

At a certain point in Stronghold, the sound deepens and becomes much richer than anything heard earlier. At the same time, the dance changes and focuses more on the individuals. I wanted each dancer to stand out as an individual but also have a strong group identity.

The ending of Wolfe’s music is just one intense long note, impossible to tell where one bass begins and another ends—it’s one mega bass.

Stronghold:
A fortress,
A protected place,
An area dominated by a particular group,
A place of survival or refuge.

I would like to dedicate Stronghold to my dear friend Bloom (Sue Rosenbloom), who passed away in 2015.

First performed by Richard Alston Dance Company at Theatre Royal Brighton on October 15, 2015.

—Martin Lawrance, Choreographer
Mazur

When Chopin was in Paris as an exile from Poland, his fellow expatriates were particularly important, his close friends in a vast strange city. The Mazurkas, perhaps of all his compositions the most strikingly Polish, are an intense outpouring of longing for his beloved homeland.

Mazur is a dance of friends sharing what they love and what they regret having lost.

First performed by Richard Alston Dance Company at The Place, London on June 10, 2015.

An Italian in Madrid

Domenico Scarlatti left Italy for Lisbon to teach the young Princess Maria Barbara, who was both talented and very serious about music. Betrothed to a Spanish prince, Maria Barbara left for Spain but insisted her Master of Music go too. In Spain Scarlatti was exposed to the vigor and passion of popular Andalusian music and proceeded to write over 500 keyboard sonatas for the Princess. These sonatas display the exotic and colorful influence of Andalusia. So far removed from Italy, Scarlatti perhaps felt free to break musical rules, and the sonatas are not only rhythmically vigorous and hugely enjoyable but also astonishingly inventive. This is music unique in the Baroque era and recognized as the extraordinary work of a master.

The Italian of the title is Scarlatti, and Madrid is where he wrote most of these sonatas. The subject of the dance, however, is a Spaniard in Lisbon. We see first a young Scarlatti in Naples (where he was born) and then we see the Princess in Lisbon, where she receives Prince Ferdinand seeking her hand. Scarlatti watches the Prince's arrival with interest. When the Prince takes his bride to Spain, the Princess demands that Scarlatti goes too. And so the music is born…

Chacony

Chacony is inspired by two pieces of music, the first by Henry Purcell a picture of nobility and formal order, the second a Chacony by Benjamin Britten written in 1945 to mark the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Purcell’s death. As he was about to write the piece, Britten courageously agreed to accompany the violinist Yehudi Menhuin to give concerts in the only just liberated camps of Germany. As a committed pacifist Britten was very shocked by the experience, but the extraordinary response of the camp survivors moved him profoundly. He put his deepest feelings into this intense set of variations, coming from a very dark place but, like Britten himself, remaining steadfastly determined to come through in unshakeable faith. That’s what I’ve tried to put into this piece—a classical formality, almost Balanchinean, in the dance to Purcell, and then a dance that turns everything on its head—a dance of vulnerability and of close mutual support in dealing with a great horror yet finding a way to rediscover a deep faith in humanity.

Purcell Chacony is for Kenneth Tharp, for the past nine years chief executive of The Place and a good friend to me and Richard Alston Dance Company.

Britten Chacony is dedicated to Alan Britten, nephew of the composer, who encouraged and supported my temerity in choreographing to his uncle’s music. He once said to me, “each time I hear of a Britten piece you want to choreograph I think how on earth is he going to do it? But when I see the dance, it all makes sense.” I will miss his wonderful support and his palpable pleasure in his uncle’s remarkable gifts.

Purcell Chacony first performed by Richard Alston Dance Company at Snape Maltings Concert Hall, Aldeburgh on October 21, 2016. Britten Chacony first performed at Alexander Kasser Theater, Montclair State University, NJ, on February 2, 2017.

About the Artists

Richard Alston (Artistic Director/Choreographer) choreographed his first work in 1968 as one of the 12 students of the newly formed London Contemporary Dance School. On leaving in 1972, he formed the UK’s first independent dance group, Strider. In 1975, Alston went to New York to study at the Merce Cunningham Dance Studio. On his return two years later, he worked throughout the UK and Europe as an independent choreographer and teacher.

In 1980, Alston became resident choreographer with Ballet Rambert and was later appointed artistic director, a position he held from 1986 to 1992. In his time there he created 25 dances for the company and was also commissioned to create work for the Royal Danish Ballet (Kingdom of Pagodas, 1982) and the Royal Ballet (Midsummer, 1983).

In 1992, Alston was invited to create a full evening of his own work, including Boulez’s Le Marteau Sans Maître, for the Ballet Atlantique in France. He made another full evening for London Contemporary Dance Theatre at the 1994 Aldeburgh Festival, going on to form his own company when he became artistic director of The Place in 1994.

Richard Alston Dance Company started in the autumn of that year, and over the past 22 years Alston has made over 45 dances for the Company. Commissions from other companies have included Sheer Bravado for Ballet Theatre Munich (2006), Walk through a Storm for Ballet Black (2008), Carmen for Scottish Ballet (2009), A Rugged Flourish for New York Theatre Ballet (2011), Even Song for the Holland Dance Festival (2012), All Alight for Phoenix Dance Theatre (2013), Light Flooding into Darkened Rooms remounted on New York Theatre Ballet (2013), Such Longing...

Alston was made Honorary Doctor of Philosophy (in Dance) at Surrey University (1992) and received an Honorary MA from University College Chichester (2003). He was made an Honorary Doctor of the Arts by the University of Kent (2015) and Kingston University (2016). Alston was made Chevalier dans l’Ordre des Arts et des Lettres in France (1995) and received the CBE in the New Year Honours list (2001). Alston received the De Valois Award for Outstanding Achievement from the Critics’ Circle National Dance Awards (2008). He was presented with the Award for Excellence in International Dance by the International Theatre Institute (2012).

He has played many pieces in the Richard Alston Dance Company repertoire since 2001.
Repast Baroque Ensemble has been described as “a graceful, energetic ensemble” by the New York Times, which also cited the ensemble’s “vital performances” and “robust” playing. Their debut CD, Repast, received much positive critical acclaim, such as Audiophile Audition's rave: “[T]hey play like maniacs. The phrasing, spirit, and articulation are wonderful, almost palpable in some instances…and one is hard-pressed to come up with a more engaging program than this.”

Each of Repast’s four core members has an active career in the period-instrument scene, and together they bring a wealth of experience and knowledge to the quartet’s programs. Repast collaborates often with leading instrumentalists and vocalists in order to explore the vast repertoire of the baroque era. The group’s name, meaning a meal or a feast, is a double-entendre: out of the revival of past music comes a delectable experience.

Founded in 2003 in New York City, Repast has performed as part of Miller Theatre’s Bach and the Baroque series and at the Getty Center in Los Angeles; Bargemusic; the Miami Bach Society; the Minneapolis Institute of Arts; Peak Performances; and many other venues. Baruch Performing Arts Center presented Repast in an annual three-concert series from 2004 to 2016. In 2015 Repast added a new concert venue in Brooklyn Heights, and the 2016–17 season marks the beginning of the group’s new Manhattan venue at Advent Lutheran Church on the Upper West Side. Repast has been featured on WKCR and Vermont Public radio, and its CD is aired frequently on radio stations nationally.

Repast’s musicians are committed educators, and the group has presented workshops and lecture-demonstrations at the College of William and Mary, Columbia University, the Brooklyn Queens Conservatory of Music, and Baruch College.

Shanghai Quartet, renowned for its passionate musicality, impressive technique, and multicultural innovations, has become one of the world’s foremost chamber ensembles. Its elegant style melds the delicacy of Eastern music with the emotional breadth of Western repertoire, allowing it to traverse musical genres. Formed at the Shanghai Conservatory in 1983, the Quartet has worked with the world’s most distinguished artists and regularly tours the major music centers of Europe, North America, and Asia. Recent festival performances range from the International Music Festivals of Seoul and Beijing to the Festival Pablo Casals in France, Beethoven Festival in Poland, Yerevan Festival in Armenia, and Cartagena International Music Festival in Colombia. Among innumerable collaborations with noted artists, they have performed with the Tokyo, Juilliard, and Guarneri Quartets; cellists Yo-Yo Ma and Lynn Harrell; pianists Menahem Pressler, Yuja Wang, Peter Serkin, and Jean-Yves Thibaudet; pipa virtuosa Wu Man; and the male vocal ensemble Chanticleer. The Quartet has performed regularly at many of North America’s leading chamber music festivals, including the Santa Fe Chamber Music Festival, Chamberfest Ottawa, and Maverick Concerts, where they recently made their 24th consecutive annual appearance.

The Quartet has a long history of championing new music and juxtaposing traditions of Eastern and Western music. The Quartet’s 30th-anniversary season brought five new commissions: Bullycide, for piano, string quartet, and bass by David Del Tredici (co-commissioned by Peak Performances); Fantasie, a piano quintet by Australian composer Carl Vine; a concerto for string quartet and symphony orchestra by Jeajoon Ryu; Verge Quartet by Lei Liang; and Scherzo by Robert Aldridge, commissioned by Yu Long and the Beijing Music Festival. The tradition continued in 2015–16 with the premiere of Red Lantern, a quintet for string quartet and pipa by Zhao Jiping, China’s most renowned film composer (Raise the Red Lantern; Farewell, My Concubine...), with Wu Man.

The Shanghai Quartet has an extensive discography of more than 30 recordings, including the complete String Quartets of Beethoven and the Schumann and Dvořák piano quintets with Rudolf Buchbinder. In 2003 Delos released the Quartet’s most popular disc, Chinason, a collection of Chinese folk songs arranged by Yi-Wen Jiang. The Shanghai Quartet currently serves as Quartet-in-Residence at the John J. Cali School of Music at Montclair State University, Ensemble-in-Residence with the Shanghai Symphony Orchestra, and visiting guest professors of the Shanghai Conservatory and the Central Conservatory in Beijing.
