Reception Given For D.L. Covey
The reception for Dr. D.L. Covey, the new chairman of the Foreign Language Department, was held Thursday, October 10, at 3:30 p.m. in the foyer of Memorial auditorium.

Invited guests were representatives from the Foreign Language Education, the Chairman of Foreign Languages Department of Montclair State College, an off-campus junior is a member of the majors in the department. Also invited were the retired members of the foreign language staff: Miss Ethel Littlefield, Dr. Walter Freeman, and Miss Valerie Trump.

American Education Week
Many students of Montclair State College will start observing American Education Week early by attending the New Jersey educational seminar, to be held on November 17.

American Education Week will be celebrated by the rest of the college and the state through January 20, the theme being "Education and the Challenge for Change." These themes have been selected as the general theme for the approaching forty-second annual American Education Week.

The program of this year's Atlantic Educational Convention will strongly reflect this general theme. All college and university groups are requested to bring a representative to the meeting. In the meantime be prepared to have school dignitaries and particularly those of the education association. This may be obtained by writing to the convention committee at the membership table outside the cafeteria. The program will be held from 11:30 to 1:30 every day until November 2.

Early Talks Of Travels
Dr. Steven Earley of Montclair's English Department will be speaker at the International Relations Club meeting at 4:00 in the group meeting in Chaplin Hall.

Dr. Earley, who will discuss "The Arab World, with a glimpse of Egypt," has recently returned from his travels in the middle east.

This will be the first in a series of meetings at which the International Relations Club will bring distinguished speakers to the Montclair campus to talk on anthropology, nuclear disarmament, Soviet Russia, Latin America, and international affairs. Also, at the October 21 meeting, plans will be discussed for sending a delegation to Puerto Rico over the Christmas holidays.

All Montclair students are welcome at these meetings.

Student Colleges To Sponsor Leadership Conference
At the Personnel Department Meeting on October 4, 1962, George Schmidt and Ken Wolff proposed an idea for a Montclair Student Leadership Conference to instruct leaders from the college and organizations in Group Dynamics. It would be patterned after the Leadership Conference held by Newark State that past week and Schmidt and Wolff attended.

It was agreed that a conference of this type would make the individual leader sensitive to the social factors and forces which influence the success of leadership in organization activity and provide the leaders with skills enabling them to work with small groups. It would introduce them to new and unfamiliar things they would have to function in as leaders of their own organizations.

Schmidt and Wolff further stated that they felt a conference of this type would be necessary because of the individual growth, maturity, and stimulation of the student group leader. It would provide the various campus groups with a new and helpful conference which would overcome present student apathy. Furthermore, this conference would promote cooperation and student enthusiasm and would have an increased membership.

The purpose of the organization to be promote to bring together individuals from various social studies, in music and the arts, and those interested in social studies, in music and the arts, and those interested in the position.

Student Colleges To Sponsor Leadership Conference
The State College Intercollegiate Board is once more bringing into existence with Montclair being represented by George Schmidt and Ken Wolff.

The first meeting was held October 1, 1962, in the Mills room. All the colleges were represented this year. The group, consisting of college members of the State College Intercollegiate Board, laid the foundation for the organization.

SCIRC is a committee of the SGA of each participating school and is operated to produce harmonious relations between the colleges and the SGA. SCIRC was originally formed in the early 1950's but failed to be successful.

Last year, with the defeat of SGA, the Board of Trustees felt there was a need for an intercollegiate organization. Two colleges (Jersey City and Newark) held out and the year was past before the constitution was adopted.

The constitution states that SCIRC is only a coordinating body and its decisions are not binding to any college. There will be at least six meetings a year, one meeting each school year. The president of the SGA and one other person from the school will serve as representatives, with one carry-over from members of each year.

The main purpose of the organization is to promote to bring together individuals from various social studies, in music and the arts, and those interested in social studies, in music and the arts, and those interested in the position.

Yearbook Needs Name, Present Outmoded
At a special editorial board meeting of the 1963 yearbook staff on Wednesday, October 16, 1962, it was decided that the name "La Campana" was no longer a representative one for Montclair State College.

The board also decided that student opinion should be obtained to ascertain whether the majority of students desired a changed name. A majority were satisfied with the present name, "La Campana.

"La Campana" in Spanish for "The Bell." In 1928, when Montclair State College was originally formed in the early 1920's, "La Campana" was no longer representative in 1928, Is no longer representative in 1938.

Peace Corps Assembly Scheduled for Tuesday
Mr. William W. Warner, Executive Secretary of the Peace Corps, will be the speaker at Peace Corps Assembly scheduled for Tuesday, October 30 to discuss with interested students recent developments in Peace Corps programs. The assembly will be held on the Memorial Auditorium at 10:30 a.m. at which time he will show a film and answer questions.

Executive secretary of the Peace Corps since July 8, 1962, Mr. Warner joined the staff in April, 1961, as area program coordinator for Latin America.

He served in the Pacific Theater in World War II and, after his discharge, became co-owner and operator of a hotel and a high school teacher in St. Louis, Mo. In 1963, he received a State Department scholarship as Director of Courses at "Centro Cultural Chileno-Norteamericano," Santiago, Chile.

Mr. Warner attended St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H., Princeton University from 1957 to 1960, and received "cum laude" in 1963, and Columbia University Teachers' College.

Cuba Stand

Cuba is a very important country to the United States. It is a major trading partner and has many ties with our country. Unfortunately, Cuba has also been a source of conflict for many years. The United States has tried various methods to bring about change in Cuba, including economic sanctions and military intervention. However, these efforts have not been successful in bringing about a change in the regime. It is important for the United States to continue to support democratic movements in Cuba and to seek peaceful solutions to the conflict.

World View

The world is becoming an increasingly interconnected place. With the rise of the internet and advances in communication technology, people from all over the world are becoming more connected than ever before. This has led to a greater awareness of global issues and a growing sense of global responsibility. The world is facing many challenges, including poverty, climate change, and political instability. It is important for countries to work together to address these challenges and to promote peace and prosperity for all.

November 14, 1962

The world was on the brink of nuclear war in the Cuban Missile Crisis. The United States and the Soviet Union were in a tense standoff over the placement of Soviet missiles in Cuba. The United States had a direct interest in preventing the development of nuclear weapons and the spread of nuclear technology. The Cuban Missile Crisis was a turning point in the Cold War and a reminder of the dangers of nuclear weapons. It also highlighted the importance of diplomacy and cooperation in resolving international disputes.

Acid Comedy Has Impact

The production of Bertolt Brecht's "The Threepenny Opera," a satirical, comic opera that has impacted our present day world in ways that few classics can, has surprised me. I've been a fan of Brecht's for years, but this production has left me speechless.

The music, the acting, the sets, the costumes, everything about this production is perfect. The cast is amazing, and the audience is left wondering what they just saw. It's a must-see for anyone who loves theatre, and a must-watch for anyone who wants to understand the world we live in.

Hikers Lost In Rain In Wapalanne Wood

By Steve Panternak

It looked like rain; nonetheless, twenty-three of Montclair's favorite English majors left their campsite at Wapalanne for a five-mile hike. The night was cold and wet, so we put on our best raincoats and boots. We were all very excited about this hike, and we couldn't wait to get started.

As we started walking, we could see the rain starting to fall. It was heavy at first, but then it started to ease up. We were all talking and laughing, and the rain didn't seem to bother us. We were having a great time.

Eventually, the rain started to pick up again, and we had to put on our hoods. We were all getting wet, but we didn't care. We were having too much fun.

As we climbed up the mountain, the rain started to come down harder. We were all getting soaked, but we didn't mind. We were having a great time.

Finally, we reached the top of the mountain, and we were all wet and tired. But we were also happy. We had completed our hike, and we were proud of ourselves.

In conclusion, we had a great time hiking in Wapalanne Wood. The rain didn't stop us, and we were all happy to have completed our hike. We were all tired, but we were also happy. It was a great day, and we will never forget it.

Actually, she is not too much fun to have around

To get back to tests—sure, they're important, but let's not allow them to get too important. There are, after all, many qualities and talents that simply can't be measured by a test. Is it right to penalize a gifted student whose gifts don't happen to be of the academic variety? Like, for instance, Gregor Sigurdson?

Gregor, a freshman at the New Hampshire College of Tanning and Bellies Letter, has never passed a single test; yet all who know him agree that he is studied with talent like a ham with chop. Does he need a test? Of course he does, he can do a perfect imitation of a scent Janitor. I don't mean just doing the job, no man can do that right. I mean can fly south in the winter. He can pick up B-B's with his toes. He can say "Toy boat" three times fast. He can build a rude telephone out of two empty Marlino packs and 100 yards of butcher's twine. (Of all his impressive accomplishments, this last is the one Gregor likes best—no building the telephone, but emptying the Marlino packs. Gregor doesn't just dump the Marlino out of the pack. He smokes them one at a time—setting back, getting comfortable, savouring each tasty puff. As Gregor often says with a winnie smile, "By George, the makers of Marlino took their time finding this fine flavor, this great filter, and by George, I'm going to take my time enjoying 'em!")

Well, sir, there you have Gregor Sigurdson—articulate humanist, philosopher, Marlino smoker, and freshman since 1899. Will the world—so desperately in need of talent—ever benefit from Gregor's great gifts? Alas, no. He is in college to play.

But even more tragic for mankind is the case of Anna Livia Perilshumann, a fourth-year Annapolis, had talent, no gifts, no brains, no personality. All she had was a knack for picking up B-B's with his toes. He can say "Toy boat" three times fast. He can build a rude telephone out of two empty Marlino packs and 100 yards of butcher's twine.
