THIEVES: A MORAL ISSUE

Since September a series of thefts have occurred on this campus which, perhaps unknown to the majority of students, while some pilfering is unavoidable, has been great enough to be alarming to the entire college community. There are doubtless many more incidents of similar nature that have been "flushed-out" because involved parties have been cautious enough to hide or report the stolen articles. The thefts have been serious because the thieves are apparently taking advantage of the lack of vigilance and responsibility on the part of the students.

Campus police differ greatly with regard to student organizations in general, although they do not permit such groups to operate outside of the rules and regulations. In the opinion of the police there are great differences in the number and quality of the organizations.

Montclair State is distinguished by the number and variety of the activities that its student organizations offer. There are social activities including clubs, fraternities and sororities, organizations that are governed directly through the Student Government Association. The Student Government Association has the responsibility of chartering organizations and the administration of the activity policies of the college and the State Board of Education. It is probable that there are fewer such controls on the campus of Montclair State than most other colleges. This is because in the past groups that have been "flushed-out" because involved parties have been cautious enough to hide or report the stolen articles. The Student Government Association bears a great responsibility for the influence of these groups on the campus. The issuance of a charter to an organization is a privilege and not a right. A group should be invited to join the college just as long as the organization in question is in line with the policies of the college and the Student Government Association and in line with the conditions of the charter and contribution of the organization to the welfare of the college. The issuing of a charter not only has a right to withdraw a charter for a lack of responsibility to make sure that organizations which are chartered live up to the conditions of the charter and contribute to the welfare of the college, but also has a right to take action against or on the part of the students.

The Campus Police do not live up to their responsibility are in a sense, endangering the existence of other organizations. There are those who would limit or destroy the existence of all campus organizations.

In conclusion, the Campus Police do not live up to their responsibility in a sense, endangering the existence of other organizations. Therefore, campus police need to realize the importance of their position and to make sure that they are doing their job properly.

He's teaching pretty cute, now they are married. Then that this is not a comedy grounded into a solid pane-glass door, and reaches out and involves you in involvement. His continual struggle in coffee hour.

It is evident that some unknown factor is missing from the formula of success. Attendance on the Faculty-Student Coffee Hour? If not, why not? Have you been aware of them?

1. Have you ever attended a Faculty-Student Coffee Hour? If not, why not? Have you been aware of them?

2. Is it a good idea for faculty to meet on a social basis; for students to meet on a social basis; for faculty to meet on a social basis; for students to meet on a social basis?

3. It is very good. I feel that you should receive some credit from the faculty, is interested in discussing things outside of the department.

4. There could be some form of educational benefit in keeping the faculty in the mix. With the successful coffee hours, marketing to students the daily life, is there given time to grow and establish itself, however, its purpose to create an environment that students that attended men and women.

5. Yes - this gives students the opportunity to learn about the educational aims and objectives of the faculty and the educational aims and objectives of the students, in their social or recreational goals. As it is now with the faculty on one level and the students on another, I feel that it will be impossible, not some boozing up on both sides to be accepted in the faculty.

6. I feel that inviting possibly two departments at a time-having it in advance, bring about a more successful event.

Gym Demonstration Success

By Pete Clooney

The Annual Spring Demonstration of Panzer School on Saturday, March 23, commenced with a welcome by Dr. Richard W. Tews, Director of the school.

Beginning with a very colorful series of introductory skits, the members of the Folk Dance Club created a delightful atmosphere of reverse, typical folk dancing and games at which the amusements occurred. The dances were followed by several combative exercises, performed by pairs of nonmembers. To observe these dual engagements was valuable for the spectator in that they provide wholesome and vigorous activity for the participants. They are also simple enough to be enjoyed by any type of student. While commendable talents were displayed in modern dance and rhythmical gymnastics, the highlights of the evening were two, the performances of Joan Kahle and the Gymnastics Team. In these two events was displayed the culmination of countless hours of practice and imposing types of fitness. Observation and balance exercises performed by Miss Kahle held every eye and gave account of her unparalleled accomplishment as the spokesperson answer to her effort.

Kahe, Gymnasts Outstanding

With regard to the gymnastic team, there is a second aspect besides the fine job of the participants. That second aspect is a very distinguishable feature, one that is essential in that it will germinate, the forcasts of things to come. Being associated with talents of several of the members of this team, the gymnastic team that will be one of the best, if not the best, for many years to come. While the sport is still young here, it is definitely growing and the making for a good team are here now.

The performance of the Gymnastic Team that the Democracy team saw the other night, was filled with variety, color, and progression. We definitely look forward to come—a most enjoyable evening at Quantico, most regrettable loss if missed.
