ANNUAL SONG FEST
SET FOR TONIGHT
The sisters of Dalphac will sponsor the eleventh annual Greek Sing in the Memorial auditorium tonight at 7:30 P.M. This year there will be 21 MSC fraternities and sororities performing in the contest, including the new ones. The only organization not participating this year is Agora, whose men will usher this evening.

All participants must stand in place, perform with musical accompaniment, sing in at least two-part harmony and at least two songs or a medley build around a single theme, and the act must last from five to seven minutes. In addition, this year the rules have been relaxed so that hand gestures and body movements are allowed but no fast movement.

Five trophies will be awarded, two to each fraternity and sorority and one to the group with the best all-round performance. Some of the most popular entries are last year's winners, sorority Delta Sigma Chi and sorority Tau Sigma Delta, plus others such as Delta Omicron Pi, Kappa Rho Upsilon, Psi Chi, Phi Lambda Ri and Sigma Delta Phi.

Publicity chairman Kathy Ravinsky has announced that tickets for Greek Sing can be purchased from any Dalphac sister for $1.75 and at the door for $1.00. All proceeds benefit Dalphac, as this activity is the only one they sponsor during the year.

Computer to Alleviate Registration Problems

The registration process of Montclair State College will undergo a major change beginning with the fall semester of 1968. The program will consist of complete computer registration.

The work of registration will be completed before the student registers. All the student will have to do is to pick up his completed schedule. (Eventually the schedules may be mailed home.)

Partial Program

The process used now, although employing data processing, is not a partial program using some data processing procedures. Up until and including this spring semester, the upperclassmen began their preparations for the following semester by being blocked in for their major courses. This blocking assures the student of getting the courses he needs. Each department head sorts the student request card. On this card the student lists all the courses he will take for the following semester. There will be no blocking of courses; the pre-registration booklet will list all courses offered for the semester but no class meeting hours.

The IBM 360 computer will take these cards and randomly select courses for each student. At registration the student will pick up his completed schedule. Through the computerized registration, the computer will print class lists, eliminating the need for the yellow class admission cards now used by the upperclassmen.

Foley Encourages Program

The plan to have a fully computerized registration system was encouraged by Mr. Robert Foley, associate registrar, in spring of 1967. After studying the present policies and practices of registration and with faculty members, it was declined that the only way to improve registration was to have a computerized program.

The idea of computerized registration and Mr. Foley, "is not to depersonalize the student, but to make the process of clerical work. By having the students arrange the schedule, the staff will be able to plan better systems that will grow with the college." In this way, it gives the office of registration staff more time to spend with students.

Hartman Replaces Kosier; Now Heads Cafeteria Crew

Mr. Joseph Hartman is the newly appointed director of dining services of Slater Food Service at MSC. Coming to Montclair State from Wall College of Art in Philadelphia, Mr. Hartman is replacing Mr. Walter Kosier.

Mr. Kosier, head of Slater's program at MSC since June, 1964, has been appointed to the position of district manager in upstate New York. He will be in charge of seven colleges.

Mr. Hartman will be in charge of the faculty and student dining areas in Life Hall and Freeman Cafeteria.

Dr. Alpenfels To Discuss Anthropology Questions

NOTED LECTURER TO APPEAR AT MSC ON FEB. 13

Ethel J. Alpenfels, nationally recognized authority on anthropology and social behavior, and professor in the New York University School of Education, will be at MSC as a Danforth Visiting Lecturer on Feb. 13 at 8:00 P.M. in room M-15 (Music Auditorium).

Dr. Alpenfels will give a public lecture on "Anthropology: An Integrating Science for an Integrated World."

The Visiting Lecturers program under which Dr. Alpenfels comes here was initiated in 1957 by the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges, and is supported by a grant from the Danforth Foundation. Its purpose is to assist colleges in their efforts to strengthen liberal education. Each year several men and women of outstanding intellectual stature from this country and abroad are made available to colleges and universities. They remain on campus from two days to a week.

A native of Denver, Colorado, Dr. Alpenfels received her bachelor's degree from the University of Washington and her doctorate from Colorado State College, Greeley. An undergraduate she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and gained national fame as a tennis player.

Before joining the NYU staff in 1948, Dr. Alpenfels taught at Beloit College in Wisconsin in the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee. During the summer of 1955 she taught at the University of Innsbruck in Austria, directing research on the racial origins of Europeans. For the Association of Academic Travel Abroad she has conducted around-the-world tours, as well as tours of the Orient.

THE OBSERVER
by David M. Levine

In our almost bewildering and natural that the question of whether the senior enrollment at the age of 20 and 26 considering grad school, Uncle Sam is looking for you.

Commissioned by the President, the Interagency Advisory Committee recommends to all local draft boards that, effective with the next semester, deferments should be granted to students attending graduate school in the natural sciences, health, mathematics or engineering.

With these standards, candidates majoring in the humanities and social sciences would be classified as "1-A" classification. The remaining students in nonscientific courses, however, would probably be women and "4-F" men.

Soviet-American Parallels?

With these new guidelines, there appears a striking resemblance between the Soviet Union's approach to education. American critics constantly decry the Russian materialistic educational attitude, geared only to benefits and the desires of the state. Apparently the new standards in America's draft boards would be shaped along the patterns of governmental and industrial demands.

Profs Protest

The recommendations advanced by the President's committee were met with strong protests from leading educators throughout the nation. In its Dec. 17 edition, The New York Times reported that Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton, urged the committee's grad school recommendations by the President's Committee be met with strong protests. The recommendation of the President's advisory committee presents a clear picture of its prejudices toward the humanities.

Indeed our nation would rather build a mighty military machine and abandon its intellectual freedom.

Other recommendations, anyone?

In 1955-56 she taught NYU's experimental closed circuit television course, "Man's Cultural Heritage." Under a Rockefeller Foundation grant, Dr. Alpelnels did research among the Modoc Indians and also made a study of the life of the Haida Indians of British Columbia. Under auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews she conducted a three year project, "Will Facts Change Attitudes?" She recently served as director of the anthropology team for New York University's Solar Slave Project for India sponsored by the Ford Foundation.

The Admissions Office of MASC has been in a flurry of activity. Among its skills and energies have been directed toward the early admissions program for the entering freshman class of 1972. On Dec. 15, roughly 350 notices were mailed to those interested students who were accepted under the program.

The early admissions program, which is in its second year at MASC, offers many advantages, including the applications of these students before Nov. 1 (which was the last day for the filing of early admissions applications). All students who apply at this time pledge not to apply to other colleges. Records, curriculum and college board scores are determining factors in the processing and the validation of the applications. But there are not the only factors. Simply the fact that the student has shown a marked interest in MASC is a positive point in their behalf. The Admissions Office is simply interested in choosing geniuses under its early admissions program.

Last year, of the early admissions students accepted under the early admissions program, 90 per cent came to MASC. members of the class of 1971. Mr. Alan Buechler, a new member of the Admissions Office, conducted a study this summer of the present freshman class. The records of all students of the incoming class were pulled in order to discover how many students received a grade of D in their senior year of high school. Approximately 150 students received D's, but of these only one student was accepted under the early admissions program. All of the other students receiving D's were accepted under the early admissions program. All students receiving D's were accepted under the early admissions program. All students receiving D's were accepted under the early admissions program. All students receiving D's were accepted under the early admissions program. All students receiving D's were accepted under the early admissions program. All students receiving D's were accepted under the early admissions program.

The benefits of early admissions are many, both for the college and the student. The college benefits because it has a defined nucleus of students for its incoming classes who are surely committed to the college. Although the freshman dropout rate is comparatively low at MASC in comparison to other colleges, the administration has been taking the administration in general and the college in particular, there will be another reason for continuing the early admissions program. MASC has already increased efficiency in admissions at MASC and saved valuable time and expense on the part of the college.

New Technological Advance In Film

Offered Advantages To MASC Students

Montclair State's Audio-Visual Center played host to the Somerset County Media Center Mobile Film Van on Jan. 8 and 9. The Film Van was especially constructed by Edward Dawson, the director and himself an MASC graduate. As part of a federal project under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1960 for the purpose of providing improved audiovisual services for Somerset County.

The van is the only audiovisual facility of its kind in the United States. It is a complete mobile film van with complete television facilities. It includes a studio and fully equipped control room for producing and transmitting television programming. It also includes the potential for picking up remote television signals or including them in video tape or film. The van is actually a modern television studio on wheels and is equipped with all the equipment necessary for recording and transmitting television and film material. It is designed for use by the public schools of Somerset County. A unique project, it afforded the faculty, staff, and students of the college an opportunity to see an innovation in educational media.

A Quarterly Review

by Thomas R. Manning

The new Quarterly has appeared. The magazine seems to have reflected the best efforts so far of the students and the staff to create a literary expression. Properly, statements have been made to set the aims and point of view of the magazine. On the other hand, quite representative of Montclair.

Many students contributed to this issue. There are many new writers and there was a great number of students who evaluated the approximately 200 submissions.

I was happy to see the variety in style and genre that was presented. This was a very much interesting Quarterly than many others.

I have a few complaints to make about this issue and perhaps about most issues of Quarterly in part by Harold Hutchinson. The magazine is generally poor. The sizes of the prints used are out of proportion to relative and size of work. There is too much white in the pages of the magazine.

I wish the Quarterly much success. The magazine is getting better.

Senate Frat Performs Albee's One-Act Plays

by Leslie Hair

Playwright Edward Albee's pessimistic and sometimes startling view of the middle-class members of American society was presented last weekend when the men of Senate stage three of his one-act plays: The American Dream, The Sandbox, and The Zoo Story.

A satire on the selfishness and emptiness of the American way of life, The American Dream presents Albee's concern for the human being (i.e., a cold hearted-Mommy (Joyce Forseman) who will "sit in a tub of butter," a henchman and borer (Mobs, paper, and sand); the sixty-eight-year-old Grandma (Eileen Smith).

Money and status are the only values they prize. In their search to replace their dead adopted child, Mommy and Daddy make an arrangement with Mrs. Barter (Bennie Miller), a woman who just happened to be visiting the apartment, to adopt a handsome and muscular young man (Andy Newman) who best typifies "the American dream." Unfortunately, he is drained of all genuine feeling. His healthy body is merely a facade which hides the eagerness and emptiness of his soul. Since the play is a comedy, says Grandma, it will end on a "happy note," and they don't want to think about how they want.

The characters of Mommy, Daddy, and Grandma also appear in The Zoo Story and Sandy. In the first play, the two couples are waiting patiently at the seashore while Grandma (Eileen Smith), Bob (Greg Studerus) and Sandy (Zitaileen Smith) are waiting for the moment to go swimming. The play is completed to those attending.

Newman Retreat Brings Advance Into Liturgy

Barbara Schudel

A group of MSC students participated in a weekend retreat on Jan. 5, 6, and 7 at St. Paul's Abbey. Sponsored by the Newman House, the retreat consisted of a balanced program of lectures and group discussions interpersed with time to think and reflect on religion. The retreat at the Queen of Peace Retreat House also shared somewhat in the Benedictine life by participating in the Monastic Compline Vespers and High Mass in the abbey church. The weekend retreat was under the direction of a team of priests whose time was devoted completely to those attending.

Serious ideas of war, prejudice, death, and cruelty were considered. Many of the ideas were contempleted after the discussions themselves: afterthoughts such as "What if you are a sign of a worth while endeavour."

Discussion veered left and right. This writer came away with the idea that the Catholic Church is splitting between the traditional orthodox Catholic and a progressively liberal believer. The decisions which the Ecumenical council must make will shape the entire direction of the Catholic Church in the next few years.

Those participating in the retreat come away with a renewal of faith and a knowledge of contemporary religious ideas.

Exam Rules Revealed

Final examinations are scheduled for the period Jan. 15-27, 1968.

1. At the end of each semester there shall be an examination period, free from classes, when each professor will give a final examination, or evaluation, for each course he teaches.

2. The examination (or evaluation) shall be of a comprehensive nature covering the semester's work, but the form, determined by the nature of the course's subject matter, shall be at the discretion of the individual professor.

3. A double-period (180 minutes) block of time shall be scheduled for each course.

4. Each professor shall utilize the two periods and every student shall be required to remain for at least one period if the examination is written (i.e., the examination should be of sufficient challenge and depth to require the best student a period or more to complete), but if the form is oral, as may be the case in studio or laboratory courses, the length of stay of the individual student may be at the discretion of the professor.

5. The final examination (or evaluation) shall be weighted in relation to the other evaluations which have been made throughout the semester.

6. The institution of a comprehensive final examination shall not replace the practice, long maintained at Montclair, of comprehensive evaluation through periodic tests and other means of measurement of students' progress.

Counterme. positions for men and women have been announced by the Rehabilitation Counseling Center in the career center's continuing efforts to provide an economic opportunity for handicapped men and women through placement in the summer job placement program.

New Jersey's oldest private camp for boys and girls was featured in the spring issue of "New Jersey's New England," an official publication of the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of School Publicity. The piece featured Echo Hill's superb coaching and related careers to its exceptional physical education program. Echo Hill is best known for its success in developing and utilizing the talents of its student athletes.
How We Stand

As with any change in a position of authority, following every "farewell" must come a "hello." But more than this "hello" is the necessity on the part of the incumbent to address his future followers (in this case, "readers") and to state his platform or plan of action for the coming term of office. Although far from being a politician, I also feel this obligation to you, the students of MSC, to reassure you of my intentions during my editorship of the Montclarion.

First of all, it is necessary to explain my position as to what I feel is the purpose of any campus newspaper, involved and dedicated to serve you the student. To elaborate, the Montclarion is published bi-weekly with much "blood, sweat, and tears" and love of the staff to provide you with as much information as possible about campus life and student activities. It also aims at making you aware (if you are not already) of problems of national importance, following every "farewell" must come a "hello." But more than this "hello" is the necessity on the part of the incumbent to reassure you of my intentions during my editorship of the Montclarion.

"Let's to the Editor" will always be welcomed and encouraged, as long as the writer has the courage to sign his real name and uses reason in his vindications. Also, any student or faculty member who has any information of concern or interest would like it to appear in the newspaper is encouraged to bring such information to the Publications Office.

In conclusion, it is expected that this year will be a most profitable one for all involved. Remember, we are here to serve you; help us to help you. Thank you.

Needed But Neglected

The ambitious title of this editorial could suggest any one of a number of ills of mankind which have gone uncorrected by the various responsible parties. Included on such a list (which would continue ad infinitum, since man is never completely satisfied) would be such things as peace, new parking lots, an even lower death rate, civil rights, joy, fresh air, love...

To limit the field, however, let us state that we are speaking of the continued availability of a journalism course in the curricula of MSC. This particular course was offered during the spring, 1967 semester, but it was not this past semester and as yet, there is no indication that journalism will be offered again for spring, 1968.

We of the Montclarion staff would suspect that such a course would be beneficial to the majority of those students just to English majors and not just to Montclarion reporters. Knowing how to write up information in a clear, concise, and intelligible manner is a talent which would be useful in any occupation.

We are sure that someone with knowledge and experience can easily be found to teach such a necessary course. In fact, we have the knowledge that someone has already volunteered. We realize the importance of the improvement of student composition in general and, in particular, to the quality of the Montclarion. Many of the past year's editors and reporters did in fact, take the journalism course conducted by Mrs. Mary McKnight, in charge of public relations at the college, and profited from it.

Nevertheless, a journalism course still has not been included in our curriculum. We do not understand why, since we too realize the need for this course. Let us not be negligent. There are some courses which are expendable and a "waste of time" to the non-major. Why not do away with one of them and not one which could benefit the individual student and the entire college as well?

The College Life Union Board of Montclair State College will sponsor a weekend of "A Winter's Folly" on Feb. 23, 24, and 25.

Regisitration starts here at 9:00 A.M.

Chaoitic Registration: A Thing of the Past

January 12, 1968

State Of The Montclarion

It has become traditional for the Montclarion to evaluate itself at this time when the newly elected staff takes office every January. Last year at this time, the Montclarion had no real staff problem in the area of quality. Last year's staff was made of some inexperienced people who have since learned many of the principles of college journalism. They have become valuable assets to the Montclarion. Many of them now hold positions on the newly-elected editorial board.

Obviously the services of the senior editors will be missed. However, there are many people available who are schooled in many areas of journalism and will do a more than competent job. We find ourselves with a working staff of qualified, creative, competent college journalists, who can make the Montclarion an even more significant contribution to campus communication.

The days of the Justo-writer, the solely off-set produced Montclarion, the glossy two page issue, have all disappeared. The Montclarion continues to take strides in areas of format. Last year at this time the typographical errors made the paper the least readable; today, such errors have become a less important problem. With about long hours of proofreading and more proofreading, the present Montclarion's layout is constantly improving. We now publish on a regular bi-weekly basis. Our advertising is at all time high and continues to climb significantly.

The Montclarion has rejoined the many national and statewide student press organizations. We have become active in the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association. The past year has brought a position on its current executive board. Our exchange circulation has reached meaningful proportions.

Many columns, among them "The President's Desk," "Financial Aids," "It's Your SGA," and "Statement" have become informative additions to the paper. Our contributors have always been grateful to the contributors. Such columns provide a necessary journalistic variety and interest. The establishment of the post of Culture Editor should add to this wealth of special interest columns.

What have we yet to do? Much. Perhaps the most needed contribution we can make to the college is to publish on a weekly basis. This would necessitate a reorganization of the editorial board, a larger staff and greater campus cooperation. The number of photographs in the paper also needs to be increased. One picture can say a thousand words and add to the impact of a story. More competent reliable photographers are needed to reach this goal. The paper also needs more articles of a features nature. We need the cooperation of people in telling us of news and more reporters to get the news.

As I retire from the post of editor-in-chief, I would like to say a few personal words. During my undergraduate career, I have been fortunate and honored to hold the editorships of both Quarterly and Montclarion. I would like to think that much have made advances under my editorial guidance. I have been fortunate in working with creative, enthusiastic advisers and staffs. Mr. Greco, the adviser to the Montclarion, has helped to establish standards of college journalism which have resulted in our continued achievement. I am grateful for his personal help and guidance to me while editor-in-chief. The staff of the Montclarion as previously mentioned, has developed into an extremely competent group of journalists. I am grateful for the help of those editors who were always there, always helping and always ready to aid in making our campus newspaper better. There are so many people throughout the campus who have made the position of editor-in-chief enjoyable, if just by saying "I liked your last issue." I think that Montclarion has made genuine interest. The Montclarion now has a new editor and staff. My very best wishes go to them.

The Montclarion is a part of this college's growing, beautiful tradition. Such a tradition makes the hours of writing, proofreading, editing, typing and planning more than worthwhile.

Dear Editor:

Many of your readers feel at times that your articles have gone a little stale and wish they could widen their circle of friends and interests. I feel that we want to be in a shrinking world where international events increasingly affect our everyday lives.

What better way to expand one’s horizons than to correspond with a person of similar interests in a foreign country? In 15 years our Montclair H.S. has produced 750,000 pen friends (it is a figure that astonishes even us!).

Understanding of the United States has been enhanced and many enduring friendships have been established.

Our principal problem is to find enough Americans to match us. How with requests that come from overseas, so we hope you will encourage your students to become pen pals.

Thank you for any help that you may give us, I am sincerest yours,
Frederick M. Winship
President

On Selective Conscientious Objection

Dear Sir:

The confounding anti-draft crusade has recently precipitated a flower avalanche of cliche political philosophizing from every quarter of officialdom. Such orational broadsides implore dissenters to adhere patriotically to the “democratic principle” of majority rule; the “rule of law,” they say, including the Selective Service Act, must be universally supported. What, then, of “minority rights,” also an integral principle?

Query: Are not “laws” essential to essentially two categories: “restrictive” and “restorative,” which, in the man’s infringement on another’s rights, eg. murder, theft, libel; and “service” laws, which regulate the operative?

To be alive does not mean to give a damn!

Since this has been primarily a state teachers’ college, and the intelligence and maturity of the majority is high, Montclair should be alive. Because many of us will be teaching in our country, rest assured that we not do a damn!

Sincerely yours,

Ralph Cato

Montclair is Dying

Dear Editor:

Montclair State college with a student body of over 4,000, is slipping into its grave. The only recent signs of life were a few peaceniks protesting the conflict in Vietnam, a small group which showed displeasure toward a folk-singer’s ideas on American policy in Vietnam and a tiny crescent blowing handful buttons for the basketball games.

Recently, Ralph Dunghan, chancellor of higher education in New Jersey, was quoted in the Montclair Sun as saying “Montclair is a ‘good little institution.’ It appears that a university president who accepted what was said and were quite apathetic to the real situation.

What must we do to bring Montclair’s students out of their smoked glass houses? We see and hear of what we want to do, what we want to say, but just do not give a damn!

Since this has been primarily a state teachers’ college, and the intelligence and maturity of the majority is high, Montclair should be alive. Because many of us will be teaching in our country, rest assured that we just do not give a damn!

Sincerely yours,

Tim Fanning

Ref: A Rebuttal

Dear Editor:

For a few moments we would like the student body and the administration to imagine what the college minus the sororities and the fraternities, to think of Homecomings with two boatloads of people; less than a half hour to go from the homecoming. The student body minus the fraternities and Sigma Chi’s Decade of the 70’s, Sigma Xi’s Tricycle Race, Sigma Delta Chi’s Mystery Bus Ride, etc. The list goes on and on.

For those who dislike fraternities and sororities, it is because they are disenfranchised with their own group, or because they were never asked to join one? With 15 fraternities and 14 sororities, it seems to me that everyone could find a group with whom to identify.

And to “Gaylord Dungan,” it’s singularly hard, he can’t see any further than “Pie.” He might have seen 13 other sororities doing the same thing that day in the baseball park.

Sincerely yours,

Joan Kelly

There is no human contact at all. All leaves are fallen, the grass is gray-green, and there is a wisp of winter in the air. Summer is gone, fall is departing, life is diminishing.

Men turn inward for warmth, defying polar blasts. People put on gloves, and separate further and further apart, more so with every layer of clothing, till at last, in winter blizzards, there is no human contact at all.

Men give thanks, if not for now, for what has been and will be. There is a fall and barrenness, so winter sources in spring and life anew!

LEO R. JOHNSON SPEAKS ON RACIAL STRESS

Editor Note: The following article is a press release received by the Montclairian staff to publicize the sentimental event of several weeks ago, the trial of LeRoi Jones, a Black Power advocate.

Negro poet and playwright LeRoi Jones, recently convicted of carrying weapons during last summer’s riot in Newark, is featured in Evergreen Review No. 50 with an exclusive interview in which he charges the Newark police with wanton brutality and predicts a Black Power victory in the coming elections.

In a special section, “The Black Revolution,” the new issue of Evergreen also features the hits—high points and low points—of Margin for Excellence or various organizations participating.

GOOD?

Having nothing to do the other night, I tuned in barriett F. Lee Bailey’s show on WPIX. David Merrick was interviewed on this particular segment of the show.

Merrick appeared as a snob, mumbling, “Don’t you just love Bailey?” Bailey tried to extract some warmth from the cool, theatrical entrepreneur. When Bailey asked him about the appearance of homosexuals in the theatre Merrick replied tongue in cheek, “this is the first I’ve heard of it.”

It’s too bad that the show was taped before Merrick committed Hari Kari in New York or it was Mala Hirs in Washington? I never did like to keep Good Company.

MUSEUM BUYS

Museum Buys Monet Work
The Metropolitan Museum has acquired a new Monet painting "Terrace at Sainte-Adresse". A pre-impressionist work, the painting shows few signs of the artist’s later impressionist devotion.

Born in Paris, France in 1840, Monet became interested in art at an early age. One of his earliest works "The Picnic" was painted in the spirit of Monet and Courbet whom he greatly admired. By 1874 Monet made his "Impression" public—he began exhibiting his works.

Monet’s “Terrace at Sainte-Adresse” was probably done before 1870 at a time when he was convalescing at the family home at Sainte-Adresse (near Le Havre).

Answering their cries of "encore", her body melted into the rhythm as she sang the wispy, aloof snob. In vain, Bailey tried to keep her awake. In this age of "the pill" it is small wonder there is a movie about one.

Pills to sleep, to wake up, to do whatever you like. Most any work of non-fiction will do. I'll accept most any work of fiction. Ibsen's Hedda Gabler is as good as anything. An expose being written by a diplomat who is in exile in Europe, by someone who is in exile in Washington, I never did like to keep Good Company.

by Bonnie Marranca

Perhaps Valley of the Dolls may be more aptly titled Passion Pills. Dealing with the cruel, hard knocks world of show business, the movie thrives on illusion and cruelty.

Contrary to the novel the movie places more stress on pills and death than on the allure of the green ones, the yellow ones. M innocence is kept awake. In this age of "the pill" it is small wonder there is a movie about one.

Directed by Mark Robson, the movie lacks character development. This is a new and difficult role for anyone.

The Delta chapter at MSC of Phi Epsilon Kappa, national professional fraternity for undergraduate men in physical education, has initiated the following new members: Willard Sabine, William Kulikowski, Neila Jensen, Tony Battaglini, Ronald Poling and Steven Champion.

Membership in Phi Epsilon Kappa is based on academic standing and professional ability. When applying for graduate school, the most important thing to keep in mind is (1) Generally, it is easier to gain acceptance toward an MA in education than in a "pure" subject area, though in most cases the course work can be arranged so there is minimal difference. If you are unsure about your interest or your acceptability to apply to several schools of each type, (2) Western, Midwest and Southern universities are anxious to have Eastern students, particularly the rapidly expanding state schools.

Educator Discusses Changing School Role

by Donald S. Smith

What makes college students revolt against traditional American values? One cause may be "inconsistencies" in American higher education. That's the opinion of Charles U. Smith, chairman of the sociology department at Florida State University. The biggest "inconsistency," he says, is increasing size.

"The highest intellectual achievement is best attained in small classes with regular and sustained personal attention by professors," Dr. Smith believes. But in American colleges, class size, total enrollment, and the distance between student and faculty are growing steadily.

"Already we have universities with over 50,000 students," he notes, "and it has been estimated that the universities of the future will be self-contained educational metropolises with populations up to 250,000.

Another inconsistency, Dr. Smith says, is "the continued rise of admission requirements." Colleges and universities must maintain "respectable" standards, he insists, "but these standards should not be so high as to deny the majority of American youth the privilege of higher education."

A third inconsistency is that the universities that spawned the "given" from which a grammar is interpolated. In his lecture, Dr. O'Neill illustrated this approach through a justification of many of the absurdities of English spelling by accepting the spelling as it exists and deriving rules which fit its pattern.

HARVARD LINGUIST LECTURES

SENIOR ENGLISH MAJORS

Dr. Wayne O'Neill, professor of linguistic education at Harvard University, spoke to the senior English majors concerning new directions in the theory of grammar and its effect on teaching. Dr. O'Neill has had practical experience in this field in special projects in Oregon and in Boston, Massachusetts. After the lecture, Montclair State College students and faculty members met with Dr. O'Neill for over two hours in a discussion of his experience. Dr. O'Neill is of the Chomsky school of transformational generativists, which see language as a science in which the language itself is the "given" from which a grammar is interpolated. In his lecture, Dr. O'Neill illustrated this approach through a justification of many of the absurdities of English spelling by accepting the spelling as it exists and deriving rules which fit its pattern.

Montclair State is an anomaly from most state colleges for both the quality of its reputation and the quality of the student body. The most frequent ceiling on many of her students' educational abilities is the ceiling they place on themselves. If you want to go on to graduate school, there is money, a university and the opportunity waiting for you.

CONTA-LENS WETTING SOLUTION IS DIFFERENT
it helps make CONTACT LENSES comfortable

The unique formulation of CONTA-LENS Wettin Solution does more than merely wet the lens. Non-irritating CONTA-LENS lubricates to make lens insertion easier. It coats the lens completely with an anti-reflective, non-clouding, comfortable "cushion" between lens and cornea...between lens and lid. And CONTA-LENS Wetting Solution clings to the lens longer... has more "stay-power" to give contact lens wearers longer, more comfortable wearing time.

Available in 2 ounce plastic applicator bottles at all pharmacies, and wherever contact lenses or contact lens accessories are displayed.

1968: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

Are you still writing "1967" on your papers and letters? I'll bet you are, you scamp! But I am not one to be harsh with those who forget we are in a new year, for I myself have long been guilty of the same lapse. In fact, in my senior year at college, I wrote 1973 on my pay stubs until nearly November of 1974! (It turned out, incidentally, not to be such a serious error because, as we all know, 1974 was later repealed by President Chester A. Arthur in a fit of pique over the Black Tom Explosion. And, as we all know, Mr. Arthur later came to regret his hasty action. Who does not recall that famous meeting between Mr. Arthur and Louis Napoleon when Mr. Arthur said, "Lou, I wish I hadn't of repealed 1874!" Whereupon the French emperor made his immortal rejoinder, "Tipi que nous et tyler tu". Well sir, they had many a good laugh about that, as you can imagine.)

But I digress. How can we remember to write 1968 on our papers and letters? Well sir, the best way is to find something memorable about 1968, something unique to fix our papers and letters? Well sir, the best way is to find something memorable about 1968, something unique to fix... (By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis", etc.)

Open Forum Airs Students’ Views

President Richardson held an open forum on Tues. Dec. 12, 1967. A small crowd of students gathered in the President's office to seek answers to their many questions. Plans for the new Student Union Building were discussed, and projections for the future were told. Consideration was given to the topics of student enrollment, academic courses and the role of faculty in student life. An informative and interesting meeting, students received an abundance of knowledge unknown to the apathetic.

CHRISTIANITY HIT HARD IN SCHONFIELD’S “DOCUMENTARY”
A Book Review
by Lois Tanenbaum

Many people go through an indoctrination period at their church or synagogue where they are taught that Christianity is the best. Some are exposed to comparative religion courses which emphasize too often the differences and not the oneness among religious philosophies. By studying the lives of Jesus and the early church, students get to college they have either “proven” that their religion is the best on earth or they see the failacies of this same teaching and turn away from exploring for themselves. One book should be read by any college student before he decides his faith is the only one possible; this book is The Passover Plot by Dr. Hugh J. Schonfield.

Dr. Schonfield is an English Scholar specializing in the literature of the early Christian era. He is a man whose interest is in the psychic and objective; he is a Jew who looks upon the Jewish people as completely the same as the words of the Old Testament. These points should be considered remembered while reading this book or it may be felt that Dr. Schonfield is attempting to prove an ancient belief.

Schonfield repeats the point many times that destruction is not his purpose; his desire is to achieve an understanding of the fact that so old beliefs have to be altered for the present and future.

Even with such a purpose kept in mind and even when transversed in the study of the Bible, Dr. Schonfield’s “new interpretation of the life and death of Jesus” is eye-opening if not shocking — and it is completely documented with evidence from primary sources.

He points out that the history of Jesus’ death is not the account of a man whose interest is in the true God, but also his dull, commonplace and ruthless portrayal of Mr. Rice is also noted for one of the later plays, Street Scene, for which he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1929. A staunch liberal, Mr. Rice in 1951 came to the defense of several actors who lost their jobs in television and radio when they were accused of associating with left-wing organizations. The actors, who have always opposed political censorship, have taken on the battle to create interest in the program.

The Montclair-Chico exchange program has been well publicized and encouraged at Montclair. Participating students have made movies, presented talks and held social functions to create interest in the program.

Exchange students have formed the Montclair-Chico Exchange Club, where this type of interest at Chico. The club meets once a month with a two-hour presentation of interest.

Value of Program

Montclair students presently participating in the program have repeatedly stressed the value of the program. Jane Wysekl, a senior at Montclair, gives Montclair-Chico exchange program comments, "Being transplanted 3,000 miles means absolutely nothing. The situation, whether you’re 3,000 miles or ten blocks from home, is a living experience. It teaches you how to get along with others and teaches you new things about yourself."

"Adding Machine" Featured As Players’ Next Production
by Leslie Anne Hair

"Modern man versus the Machine Age" will be the topic of the next Players productions. Elmer Rice’s satirical play will be presented on Feb. 29, and March 1, 2, and 4 in Memorial Auditorium at 8:00 P.M. It will be directed by Dr. Jerome Rockwood.

Adding Machine is a satirical and ruthless portrayal of Mr. Zero, a white-collar worker who is fired from his monotonous accounting job (to which he has given twenty-five years of service) to make way for a mechanical adding machine. Returning to his home, Mr. Zero finds he must do the same face-to-face work, but also his dull, commonplace friends (who have numbers from one to six instead of names) that he must deal with. He lacks the initiative and character to break out of the empty vacuum of the factory, faced with the loss of his job, Zero, in a temporary fit of insanity, murders his boss and is executed.

After his death, he enters the next world, where he is joined by his former co-worker, Daisy.

The Adding Machine is an example of expressionistic drama in America. The author uses symbols and fantasy to depict the inner states of the character’s mind. Although it was written in 1923, the play is still current today due to its skepticism about the nature of slavery.

Elmer Rice is also noted for one of his later plays, Street Scene, for which he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1929. A staunch liberal, Mr. Rice in 1951 came to the defense of several actors who lost their jobs in television and radio when they were accused of associating with left-wing organizations. The actors, who have always opposed political censorship, have taken on the battle to create interest in the program.

"The cast for Adding Machine includes Steve Keitz (Mr. Zero), Janet Kimeldorf (Mrs. Zero), Lou Harrison (Angela), Paulette retaliation that 25 new state colleges located at opposite ends of the United States. These schools have always opposed political censorship, have taken on the battle to create interest in the program.

INDIANS ADD A FEATHER TO CAP

by John Danloni

Hitting 55 per cent of their shots from the floor, an underdog Montclair State College basketball team managed to bring about a heartstopping 78-72 overtime win over undefeated, top-seated Monmouth College.

The Indians, Montclair’s fifth in a row, gave the Indians a 7-3 season’s ledger and annexed their second straight Northern New Jersey Kiwanis Classic crown.

While no Montclair cager was hard and shoulders above the field in every game, everyone played solidly throughout the tourney and was a contributor, greatly to the Indian’s final victory.

Another major contribution was the outstanding coaching of Olle Gelston. It was Gelston who made the big move by inserting Mike Oakes, previously the top reserve, into the starting lineup replacing Dave Conroy. Oakes’ fine rebounding and scoring (21 points against Trenton State and 17 in the final) earned him the tourney’s Sportsmanship Award.

Oakes inserted his subs shortly after the half as the team rolled to a 49-36 victory. Bob Gleason paced the Indian attack with 35 points and some fine floor around floor play.

Montclair’s next start against Trenton State, which was participate first half and ran up a 51-59 half-time lead, Gelston inserted his subs shortly after the half as the team rolled to a 49-39 victory. Bob Gleason paced the Indian attack with 35 points and some fine floor around floor play.

Montclair State College, Miller and Luther Bowen. Bowen’s guarding of the tourney’s most valuable player,” Bob Gleason, put on some show in the final with six points, five assists and a record breaking 38 rebounds in the title game and 70 for the tournament.

In his gymnastic career at Montclair State College, Miller has been a standout in floor exercises, side horse, long horse and parallel bars.

A graduate of Wayne High School, Miller captured the wrestling team in his senior year. He resides at 82 Maplewood Avenue, Wayne and is the oldest of seven children.

intramural Council Formed;
Benefits Student Athletes

“Yes, Virginia, there is an intramural council.” These words were overheard late one night behind the library.

It seems that the name (intramural council) was used only about under hush-hush circumstances. One may think that there was no existing council.

The council has been running on a skeleton crew of about five members plus graduate assistant and advisor, John Fischer. This group governs all intramural activities in school and is badly in need of support in its membership. If enough members are added, a new constitution could be written. Also new laws concerning games and participation applications could be formed.

In order to stimulate membership, John Fischer and the council have inaugurated a new ruling with the inception of intramural basketball season. This rule states that all organizations (fraternities and independent groups) who wish to participate in an intramural sport must send a representative to the meetings or forfeit their scheduled game and face suspension from the league.

Bowling will begin sometime in April with football soon to follow. However, in order for these programs to be successful there must be a full member council. Without help, the council and all intramural sports could become a thing of the past.

The council needs the support of all interested students. Meetings are held at 5 P.M. on Monday in the office of the athletic director.
