Dungan Charges Presidents
With ‘Unethical . . . Dirty Pool’

RALPH DUNGAN
Has voiced objection to the united efforts of the state college presidents in their desire for local autonomy.

THOMAS RICHARDSON
Together with the other state college presidents offer 100 per cent cooperation for the passage of the local autonomy bill.

By Roberta Kuehl
Staff Reporter

Chancellor of Higher Education Ralph E. Dungan angrily charged that the action of the college presidents was "unethical, repugnant, dirty pool," according to the Sunday New York Times. His statement referred to the drive by state college presidents to achieve fiscal autonomy through passage of Bill S-256 in the state legislature.

He is bitter because the presidents have "negotiated directly with the Legislature," rather than working as "agents of the executive branch" under the Chancellor.

He is preparing his own fiscal autonomy bill that will grant autonomy but will provide the protection that he feels the state must maintain.

"Greater efficiency," improvement in the "quality of work," and a saving of much "time wasted" are the main reasons for the creation of Bill S-256. MSC President Thomas Richardson defined the major problem restricting freedom as the

Partridge Hall Construction Delayed
By Weather, Blasting, Carpenters

Weather, blasting and carpenters have placed the construction of Partridge Hall.
MSC’s newest classroom building, approximately 32 working days behind schedule. According to Mr. William Kervick, assistant business manager, unanticipated subsurface conditions caused by blasting in this area forced the redesigning of the entire foundation of the building and delaying construction. Work which required fair weather was delayed and as winter set in, construction was slowed again. Also, a serious shortage of union carpenters put the expected completion date farther and farther away.

But this is not where the Partridge Hall problems began. Two years ago, the Federal government put a "cost of living freeze" on this area, which banned all construction because of inflationary conditions. Thus, a delay of approximately six months was forced on Partridge Hall plans.

However, according to Mr. Vincent
Calabrese, director of business services,
Partridge Hall has been less of a problem than other buildings. Since it is merely a classroom building, it does not require planning for special facilities.

Optimism is still present since a mild winter without much snow has prevailed.

Gov. Hughes Proclaims 'Negro History Week'

Gov. Richard J. Hughes proclaimed February "American History Month" and this week "Negro History Week." Hughes said he decided to sign the proclamations at a dual ceremony to call special attention to the history of the American Negro, which he said has been "virtually ignored" until recently.

"Just as the American Negro has lived for too long outside the mainstream of American life, so too has he been the forgotten man of American History," Hughes said.

"And, because of this, many of our black citizens have been denied knowledge of the long and proud tradition of which they are a part and which is so essential to their sense of self-esteem."

The governor said the attitudes of many white citizens "have been tragically affected by the distorted view of history which was taught for so long in our schools."

Fortunately, all of this is changing now, and we are beginning to right the balance and seek a fair and accurate picture of the past," Hughes said.

"I am gratified by such signs of progress here in New Jersey as the recent establishment in our State Department of Education of two new agencies—the urban education division and the office of equal educational opportunity—which share a responsibility to vigorously encourage the teaching of Negro history in our schools."

Hughes said he hoped the Legislature will approve a bill which appropriates $60,000 to the department of education to provide in-service training for high school teachers "so that they may better understand and better impart to their students the role of the Negro in American history."

Hughes also said he hoped the Legislature would extend the "Negro History Week" proclamation to all New Jersey counties for the next three years.

Richardson Labels System 'Cumbersonse'

The realization of "autonomy" and "flexibility" would occur if Bill S-256 were passed. No longer would the state colleges be "subjected to unnecessary red tape over promotion of personnel, construction and transfer of funds," as written in the bill.

No longer would a "double standard" exist regarding institutions of higher learning, for the state colleges would have as much general and fiscal autonomy as Rutgers, the State University, presently has.

Much support for this bill exists and increases daily. Last week, the MSC Faculty Council voted unanimously to approve it last month Bob Martinez, SGA president, submitted a bill voicing student legislature support of local autonomy. Also, a petition will soon circulate as a symbol of general MSC student body backing.

Night Managers Supervise Life Hall

By Judy Manzi

Staff Reporter

Due to the recent rash of thefts and vandalism the position of night manager of Life Hall was established by Mr. Jon McKnight, director. The position went into effect on Jan. 6. The new night managers are Kurt Epps and Greg De Cinque, both seniors.

They have the responsibility of assisting individuals or organizations sponsoring events in Life Hall. If any problems arise concerning these events it is their job to cope with them. They will also inform McKnight of any individual or group who fails to obey the rules concerning the use of Life Hall facilities.

Their duties consist of making frequent rounds of Life Hall, in order to check for unauthorized people in offices and meeting rooms. On these nightly rounds they also check doors and windows, making sure they are locked to prevent break-ins.

They are on duty in Life Hall alternate evenings from 4:30-10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 4:30 through midnight Friday, and on Saturday evenings when events are scheduled for Life Hall.

Essentially, the job of the night manager is to act in the place of McKnight during the evening hours. Previously, there was no one to supervise Life Hall when McKnight went off duty.

Both Kurt and Greg are extremely enthusiastic about their new positions. Since Greg is considering going into the student personnel field this is proving to be a "valuable learning experience" for him.

Greg has stated: "I feel that it's good that the administration is now involving students in some of the responsibilities of the school; by working in the security structure we can eliminate some of the problems other universities are now having."

Curtain Raises This Evening On 'Funny Girl'

By Carol Palshiekiewicz

"Funny Girl" will be presented at Montclair State College February 14. A traveling company of professional actors, the Robert T. Gaus Association, will stage the production.

The performance is being sponsored by the College Life Union Board. It will begin at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

Tickets for the production are $1.50 for Montclair students and $2.50 for others. They are on sale at the box office in the Auditorium and in the activities office.

The musical is based on the book by Isobel Lennart. Julie Styne wrote the music and Bob Merrill is responsible for the lyrics.

Funny Brice's rise to fame as a star attraction of the Ziegfield Follies is the plot of the play. Her marriage and divorce from Nicky Arnstein are covered during the course of the story.

Richardson Sponsored For 'Principal Of The Year'

By Susan Johnson

Staff Reporter

The freshman and sophomore classes are co-sponsoring a drive and dance to select Dr. Richardson WABC’s Principal of the Year. The radio station sponsors this contest each year and the winner is determined by the number of votes or postcards the radio station receives.

The principal's name and a signature are submitted on the postcards with each student encouraged to vote as many times as he or she wants. This year's contest will be held in the early spring. The winning principal's school will receive a color TV and will have a concert performed by big-name groups.

The freshmen and sophomore classes are sponsoring a dance on March 14 based on WABC's contest. The Vendettas will be featured. Admission to the dance might include the requirement of submitting a certain number of signed cards at the door besides a cash fee.

Several other ideas are being considered to keep interest and participation in the contest high. A table will be set up in Life Hall and letters will be sent to fraternities, sororities, organizations and classes about intracampus competition. Whether organizations will compete with other organizations or with classes, fraternities and sororities, has not yet been decided.

MISC Students Study in Denmark

Seven Montclair State College students recently left via Icelandic Airlines for a semester of study in Copenhagen.

The seven are: Raymond Elliott of Ridgewood, a senior mathematics major; Ron Swain of Belford, a sophomore social sciences major; Paul Goley of Newark, a junior business major; Katherine Daley of North Arlington, a junior English major; Dana Todaro of Bloomfield, a junior home economics major; Bonnie Marranca of Roselle, a senior English major; and Nancy Kieser of Westwood, a senior mathematics major.
Stehli Will Perform Original Monologs

One of the oldest active members of Actor's Equity, the actor's union, will give a performance at MSC's Studio Theatre. Mr. Edgar Stehli, a resident of Montclair since 1894, will present several original monologs at 8 p.m. on Feb. 21.

Volunteering to perform free, Stehli stated that he is "tired of movies on television" and that he "likes live audiences."

Stehli was born in Lyon, France, and came to this country when he was three years old. His first professional appearance was in a stock company in Bayonne, New Jersey, where his one line on stage was "Madam, you can wait." In 1922-23 he was with the Theatre Guild in London and He Who Gets Stopped. For three seasons he was a member of the Provincetown Players, one of the most influential groups in the 1920's, with Kenneth McCowan, Robert Edmond Jones and Eugene O'Neill. Here he played in Fashion, an early American play by Anna Cora Mowatt, Congreve's Love for Love and Gilbert and Sullivan's Patience, as well as several of O'Neill's earlier plays.

On Broadway he played "Orcie" for John Barrymore's Hamlet. He created the role of Dr. Einstein in Arsenic and Old Lace, and the role of Grandpere in The Happy Time. More recently he has played in The Devils and Those That Play the Clowns.

During the heyday of radio, Stehli played in most of the major programs. For six years he was Dr. Huu, the scientist of the 25th century on the "Buck Rogers" program. Many of his former fans still greet him by that name.

He has appeared in several movies and on so many television programs that for several years he found himself commuting between Montclair and Hollywood. Now he is writing and performing short skits and monologs.

Partridge Hall Scheduled
For Completion Jan. '70

This, along with the hope of an absence of strikes in the spring, may keep the schedule from falling further behind and some lost time could be regained.

Space in Partridge Hall has been tentatively assigned and by November definite arrangements will be made as to which departments will occupy its office space.

Some "urban renewal" of the grounds in the vicinity of Partridge Hall and the neighboring Fine Arts building will soon be seen. Plans are being developed to improve the "mud area" surrounding these buildings thereby removing an historic landmark and parking area at MSC.

Partridge Hall should be completed by January, 1970.

Seduction Scene Highlights
Rockwood's "Three"

By Chris Mac Murray

A serious seduction scene highlights one of the plays included in "Three" to be presented on Feb. 27 and 28 and March 1 and 3 in Memorial Auditorium. The cast of this one-act play, Jack, or the Submission, written by Eugene Ionesco includes: Jeff Hall, Midge Grier, Bill Higbie, Nancy Parin, R. Scott Watson, Pat Lacarrubba, Cynthia Gary, Greg Doucette and Barbara Sholz.

Act Without Words, written by Samuel Beckett is a one-man pantomime. "Man" is portrayed by Jim Johnson.

The third play, also one act is The Drapes Come by Charles Dizenzo. The cast calls for two women who will be played by Kathy MacAtter and Marceline Decker.

Dr. Jerome Rockwood, of the speech department is directing the three plays that compose "Three." The plays are all modern, from the theater of the absurd. Their respective messages are not delivered in obvious action or plain language. Instead the plays are presented on a totally different level. The plots are unfolded by the employment of grotesque and absurd distortion which results in theatrical metaphor.

The characters are fragmented to produce the effect of real life experience. In relation to the characters, Dr. Rockwood affirms that in real life, we do not understand people as well as we do the characters in literature. In the theater of the absurd, odd pieces of behavior are thrown out to the audience, and each individual must put the pieces together according to his own personal interpretation. There are gaps and voids in the action of an absurd production that are left to be filled in by the viewers.

The playwright's feelings can be interpreted in many different ways. However, there are broad areas of meaning that are usually evident to most of the audience.

A final point is that avant garde production is relatively new at Montclair State. "Three" is representative of contemporary theater and MSC students are encouraged to attend and get a taste of the absurd.

A Crusade Begins

Wanted: A Home For the Homeless

1973

Mark that year down in your little black book. According to plans and projections for the future Montclair State University, a journalism department might be established at that time. But no matter how you look at it, that's a long way off. And no matter how you slice it, today's Montclair State student will be virtually unaffected by those plans slated to begin in

According to a new study released by the University of Kansas School of Journalism there are more jobs in journalism than people. And Dr. Malcolm Applegate, assistant dean of Kansas, recently lamented: "We just don't have enough people to recommend.

Hence, it's apparent that trained journalists and journalism professors may just have to, if all goes according to plan.

But to be realistic, journalism is a discipline that commands the respect of all majors and fields. And by the very fact that Spanish, history and mathematics majors learn and use the tool of journalism in their careers on the MONTCLARION, is proof enough that a journalism department is needed at Montclair State College.

This college, without apologies to anyone, has become a leader and an innovator in New Jersey progressive education. And while we all look forward to a not-to-distant Montclair State University, the administration, at the present time, is grasping with existing departmental reorganizations. What needs to be done now is to introduce a new department, such as journalism.

United Effort is 'Six' Strong

Chancellor Ralph Dungan's cry that the state college presidents have formed an "unethical, repugnant, dirty pool" has only shown that Dungan is ignoring the reason for the six-college unity.

At the present time, the college presidents have joined together to stress their immediate need for local autonomy. Their move has drawn together the 25,000 plus state college students to underline the importance of this issue.

Officials from all six state colleges and the students they represent recognize that the present higher education system is drastically archaic and that the elimination of New Jersey state red tape is desirable.

State officials have also recognized the growing need for expanded higher education. Senate bill 256, sponsored by representatives from both major parties, if passed by both houses will give the state colleges the local money control they need.

Dungan claims that he is preparing his own bill to grant certain local autonomy yet "provide protection the state must insist upon for the well-being of its public institutions of higher education." This is rather than alienating the group that he is supporting the state colleges in their unity of local autonomy. Dungan, as chancellor of higher education should be working with the existing administrative policies in order to supply a home for these people.

And if that's not feasible, the editors of this paper are willing to submit ideas to the persons concerned.

Under the fine direction of Assistant English Professor Michael Grieco some strides have already been taken. He has set up three journalism courses on the undergraduate and graduate levels. Grieco, who is currently working toward a doctorate degree, is now pressing for expanded independent study facilities for journalism students.

"I have already approached the administration, at the present time, is grasping with existing departmental reorganizations. What needs to be done now is to introduce a new department, such as journalism."

So apparently, Montclair State has the very rough beginnings of a journalism department. What's needed now is a recognition by the administration that there is, in fact, student interest in journalistic studies.

Hence, the MONTCLARION calls upon Dean Anthony Kuolt, English department chairman Dr. Harold C. Bohn and Mr. Michael Grieco to formulate plans for added journalism studies and to supply a home for these areas.

And if that's not feasible, the editors of this paper are willing to submit ideas to the persons concerned.

The bill must be passed, and it must be passed immediately. However, the INDEPENDENT recommends the investigation of Dungan's guidelines by the state college administrators, to see if the proposals set forth by him are so adverse to their idea of State College autonomy.
Morven's Haunted But Democrats Are Brave

By Robert Comstock

LIFE AT MORVEN is not all it's cracked up to be, Gov. Richard J. Hughes confirmed this week. "The air-conditioning is sometimes broken," he said, and I think the old place is haunted. I keep hearing voices saying 'Keep expenses down' and 'Balance the budget'. Now we've been reduced to considering a tax on muff.'

Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Sills has appeared decidedly more opinion polls when filling the budget account than when he was the Colonial governor. Now he's decided he'll decide by March 1.

5. Atty. Gen. Arthur J. Sills has added 2 billboards up already. He has not announced, however, if he's going to tell about being introduced to a recent newswoman in the next governor. "I said it was too bad I couldn't move that the nominations be closed," quips Sills.

6. Louis Tonti, executive director of the Garden State Park Board, is conducting a professional survey of his prospects which is due for completion Feb. 28. The effusive Tonti is having the time of his life in the role of potential governor, and may extend his campaign a while for the sheer fun of it even if the survey says it's hopeless.

7. REP. FRANK Thompson's "run for Singles by Singles" is now in full swing. He's running the "Three in the Ballot" campaign, and may extend his run as far as he can on the "Queer as a three dollar bill" theory. Between the three girls, he manages one every night, until fate catches up with him.

"Paxton Quigley's Had the Course" sing Chad and Jeremy as the three girls lock him in their dormitory attics and try to love him to death. And they almost succeed. With only sodas and hamburgers to live on, and a lovely body every hour, he becomes a dazed zombie, dreaming on male vitality.

But do not worry, fair maidens, true love wins out. Disillusioned, his one true love goes home. But Paxton Quigley finds her and captures her love forever.

If you like to laugh and don't mind some embarrassment, check out "Three In The Attic." It's the kind of movie that says "tell it like it is" on college campuses today, I guess.

PLAYTIME: In The Attic

American International Films has done it again. Beginning in the 50's with "I Was A Teenage Werewolf," and with Mike Landon, they have continuously turned out budget films with budget ideas. Now they have "Three In The Attic."

By Maurice Moran

Christian Jones and Yvette Mimieux play young lovers who share an interest in a Kafka. Living for a summer in Provencetown, they decide that they belong to one another.

Silent Revolution of Today

Involves Volunteer Tutors

By Donald S. Rosser

New Jersey Education Association

A "silent revolution" is sweeping American schools. Half a million college students of all ages are changing the basic nature of education as it has existed in this country since Colonial times. Who are these "revolutionaries"? Volunteer tutors.

In Europe, tutoring has long been the method used to educate the royal, the noble and the rich. To the English, it was the basis of private schools favored by the upper classes. In the United States however, public education has traditionally mass education - one teacher instructing a room full of children.

Tutoring gives a child the individual attention that teachers, working with an entire class, can only sparingly. Yet, especially for "disadvantaged" children, individual attention can make the difference in keeping abreast learning basic skills, progressing in school and society.

Today's wave of tutoring emerged from the "service to mankind" idealism that swept American college campuses during the Kennedy administration. Many college students joined the Peace Corps. Some became Freedom Riders. Others helped children develop the ability to read, compute and do basic schoolwork in tutorial centers.

In New Jersey, students at Princeton University, Rutgers, the Newark College of Engineering and the six state colleges all organized large and active groups of tutors traveling around the state to work with children needing academic help. In church and civic study centers, high school students, housewives and other educated segments of the community joined the colleges as tutors.

Next, some schools began incorporating tutoring into their curriculum. Pupils in upper grades helped children in lower grades during regular instructional hours or after school.

MOC Presents Celebrated Cellist, Pierre Fournier
Pierre Fournier, French cellist who has been called “the spiritual heir of Casals,” will be presented in Memorial Auditorium on Mon., Feb. 17, at 8:30 p.m. The concert is under the auspices of the Music Organizations Commission; tickets at $2 each will be available at the door.

Mr. Fournier’s program will contain compositions by Locatelli, Bach, Brahms, Homerger, and Tchaikovsky. Leon Pommers will be at the piano.

The artist, who averages over 100 performances a season, has been acclaimed on every continent for his “beautiful tone, infallible technique and deep musicianship.” As orchestral soloist he has appeared with most of the greatest conductors of the era, including Walter, Ormandy, Klemperer and Stokowski.

The artist plays a Bergonzi cello, named “The Godgoon,” which was made in 1722 and is considered one of the most beautiful instruments created by this master.

Why does a perfect size 7 look perfect only 21 days/month?
It has nothing to do with calories. It’s a special female weight gain... caused by temporary weight-water build-up. Oh, you... that uncomfortable full feeling that sneaks up on you the week before your menstrual period. This fluid retention not only plays havoc with your looks but how you feel as well. (It puts pressure on delicate nerves and tissues, which can lead to pre-menstrual cramps and headaches, leaves emotions on edge.)

That’s why so many women take PAMPRIN®. It gently relieves water-weight gain to help prevent pre-menstrual puffiness, tension, and pressure-caused cramps. PAMPRIN makes sure a perfect size 7 never looks less than perfect. Nor feels less than perfect, either.

We get into one bag, say folk..., adds Scott, “then break...”
Winter ... Snow ... Fun

Traying, sledding and snowball fights were the three winter sports which characterized MSC's two snow days this week. Freed from class obligations, students energetically obeyed the laws of nature and went out to play. Students were undaunted by the walk up the amphitheater slopes, were traying and sledding conditions were good to excellent. The quadrangle in front of Freeman Hall became the scene of a well-attended snowball fight in which cords received the worst of it. Many an unwary campus pedestrian good-naturedly accepted his fate as snowballs were lobbed from behind mountainous drifts.

A topic of conversation was also provided by the snowfall. Statements such as, "This is the most snow since . . . ." were debated and many wondered how long it would be before the campus would be cleared.

However, as flakes again appeared on Wednesday, groans and sounds of horror were heard . . . how much snow is too much?

Dioguardi Sets Florida Site For Five Games

Plans to play five exhibition games in Florida during the week of March 24 through March 28 have been announced for MSC's 1969 varsity baseball team by Bill Dioguardi, director of athletics.

The Indians will be playing in Florida for the first time in the school's history.

The exhibition slate will include contests with Miami-Dade Junior College South, Biscayne College and Miami-Dade Junior College North.

The exhibition slate will open on Mon., March 24 with Miami-Dade Junior College South. The second contest is slated for Tues. March 25 with Biscayne College.

The last three tilts will be played on March 26, 27 and 28 against Miami-Dade College. These games will be played at the latter's North Campus diamond located at 11380 N.W. 27th Ave., Miami, Florida.

The Indians will open the regular season on Tues., April 1 at home against Fairfield Dickinson University.

The 1969 season will mark the Indian's 21st under the direction of Bill Dioguardi. The highly successful Indians mentor will step down as head baseball coach at the end of the season in order to give more time to his position as director of athletics.

Dioguardi will be succeeded by Clary Anderson in 1970 as head baseball coach.

The Indians will open the season with a 4-2 record; one greatly improved over their last year's record. But the strong Indian team still won all six events, commanding a 116.95 team score against Cortland's 94.44.

Captain Rick Schwarz led with two first-place finishes in the floor exercise and the high bar, and two second-place finishes in the long horse and the parallel bars. Junior Dave Green came through with two second-place finishes in the floor exercise, MSC gymnasts swept the first three places with Schwarz, Green and Roger Brown. The defiant trio of Schwarz, Green and Russ Spenser lead in the long horse with a 2-3-4 domination of the event.

Indians Sculp Trenton, 71-61

By Ken Tecza

Luther Bowen's 22 points led the Indians of Montclair over Trenton State, 71-61 to mark the 16th Indian win in 18 starts. MSC is also unbeaten in the New Jersey State Conference games, sporting a 7-0 record.

The game was won at the foul line as Montclair was able to convert 17 of 28 compared to seven of 15 for the losers. Both clubs hit for 27 field goals.

Mike Oakes started the Indiana scoring by hitting on a three-point play; Montclair never trailed. The Lions came within one (18-17) on baskets by Al Griffith and Vince Masco. With 6:15 remaining in the first half, Bob Lester's jump shot started the Indians on a spurt of nine straight points putting together a 10-point lead.

Montclair had a 34-28 halftime lead and quickly started off the second half of play on a layup by Bowen from a neat pass by Harry James that put the score 42-28 with 18 minutes left.

Superior rebounding by Lester (13) and Oakes (15) helped put the game out of reach as the Montclair full court man-to-man press forced Trenton into taking the bad shots. Overall the Indians out-rebounded Trenton 48-38.

Harry James, with three steals, stood out on defense.

The Indians next two games - Glassboro away on Saturday and Paterson at home on Tuesday - are both conference games. The Indians will be looking to wrap up the title with these games.

Clary Anderson Forecasts Fall '69 Football

By James

Last week Clary Anderson called a meeting of all football candidates for the 1969 season and announced the upcoming spring practice, the members of his new staff and their team objectives.

Spring practice begins May 9 and will continue for 14 days from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. and tentively on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

The new coaching staff will place a great emphasis on the physical condition of the team, as much so that they hope the team will be ready to scrimmage before the end of spring practice.

"I don't know the game I want to lose," stated Anderson, "the first game is not gonna be any picnic," referring to the opener against East Stroudsburg, one of the toughest small colleges in the East.

Introducing Tom Testa to his new staff, Anderson stated that, "He'll know the 40-odd men in the sophomore line-up." (Testa was freshmen coach last season.) Testa voiced his confidence in the other recruits, but warned the upperclassmen that their "work will be cut out."

Dick Haywood, a new face on the MSC sports scene and a new addition to the football staff, emphasized the importance of each individual's contribution to the total team effort.

Two other additions to the new staff. Tim Sullivan because of coaching commitments and Frank Tripucka because of a business engagement, were both unable to attend the meeting.

Coach Anderson disclosed after the meeting designations of his new staff: Tom Testa, defensive; Frank Tripucka, offensive; Tim Sullivan, line; Dick Haywood, frost coach.
