Wanted: $10 Per Student

With the rising construction costs of one per cent per month, the cost of the future student building has been hiked $450,000 to a total sum of $3.75 million. Mr. Jon McKnight, director of Life Hall, presented this information along with the final plans for the building to the SGA last Friday hoping to secure a campus-wide referendum to approve a $10 union building fee for all students to be instituted in September. McKnight feels that the $10 cost is justifiable because the building will be solely for student use. He again stressed that the architecture and the materials will be of high quality. It will be the only non-institutional building on campus. He compared the MSC building with the recently completed Rutgers union, citing that seven classes of Rutgers graduates paid $30 yearly for a building they knew they would never see.

This fee would be applicable to all students, including those in the summer session. Five years ago, a student referendum was passed to institute a similar fee for a union building. The voting was three to one in favor of the $10 extra cost. However, the state refused to sanction the fee because the building was only in the early planning stage.

A $35 yearly fee is planned after the union building is completed. "If we start next September," stated Mr. Vincent Calabrese, director of business services, "we will be the only college with a fee less than $50."

The possibility of the state taking over maintenance and utility costs of the new building was mentioned by McKnight. He stressed that student support was needed in order to gain the state's confidence in the endeavor. The $35 fee may be lessened in this case.

Ground breaking for the union building is scheduled for fall 1969. It will be built between Mallory Hall and Partridge Hall. Construction is expected to take 24 to 30 months.

The future center for campus activities will be the location of the student union building. Tentatively scheduled for Fall 1969 construction, groundbreaking for the building occurred five years ago.

"An all-state organization would be splendid, providing it does not further centralize higher education."

These are the words of President Thomas Richardson in reaction to a bill that was recently introduced by Assemblyman Peter Moraites, speaker for the Department of Higher Education. The bill is designed to create a division of student affairs, composed of students from the various state colleges. The purpose of the proposed bill is to aid in solving campus problems in the future.

Moraites indicated that his recommendations were based on the report of Chancellor Ralph A. Dungan on recent disturbances at Rutgers. Moraites said that he knows of no other program like his in the United States and if the plan works, it might be a model for other states to follow.

Richardson feels that the proposal is a good one, but that the division would only be successful as an autonomous program.

"The state institutions of New Jersey are trying to break away from the Department of Higher Education; they're moving toward decentralization. A state wide organization established to work on common and specific problems, one that could make and enforce its own decisions, would be a great step forward. But an organization designed to channel its decisions through the state department would be a great step backward."

The division would include one student for every 5000 degree candidates at each state institution of higher education: the state colleges, junior colleges, county colleges, Newark College of Engineering and the medical and dental college. Each school would be entitled to at least one representative, and each campus of an institution would be counted separately. The group would meet at least six times a year and would be aided by a director and staff appointed by the governor.

The division's goal would be to study changing needs of the students, recommend new programs, serve as a clearing house for information and coordinate students at the various campuses.

Bill Would Ease Campus Problems

Communications systems, fire alarms and steam lines are the reasons for the excavations now going on in several areas of the Montclair State campus.

According to Mr. Joseph McGinty, head of the maintenance department, the fire alarm systems consist of a dozen fire boxes, currently being installed on campus. The boxes are all coded for location and are connected to the Montclair fire department alarm system which pinpoints fire locations.

Two years ago a less costly and less elaborate fire alarm system was developed; however, it did not meet state approval and hence a more complex system was developed.

The security department communications system has been installed in three security pickups. Much of the equipment, noted McGinty, including walkie-talkies, is new and up to date. The pickups will receive their messages from the guardhouse which will serve as a base for communications.

Footguards will also be equipped with communication devices. The entire communication system will be coordinated with the Montclair police department.

The digging taking place in front of College Hall is for the installation of a new steam line from the boiler house. According to McGinty, all the digging is necessary for improved protection and comfort on the MSC campus.
Wilkins Resigns
As Head of NSC

UNION — Dr. Eugene G. Wilkins, president of Newark State College for the past 19 years, will resign at the close of the current academic year.

Wilkins, a member of the board of directors of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), will spend time in Mexico developing a center of foreign studies for the AASCU.

Wilkins has been appointed president emeritus by the Board of Trustees of the college. He will receive a one-year sabbatical and will return to Newark State in 1970 to become director of a new curriculum in international education.

The chairman of the Newark State Board of Trustees, John Kran, has said that the Board will meet in the near future to appoint a committee which would represent faculty of the center college community. This committee would search for a new president for Newark State.

During Wilkins 19 years as president, Newark State has grown from a small teachers college to one of New Jersey's largest state colleges. Newark State currently has an enrollment of over 10,000 in all of its divisions.

One of Wilkins' most important accomplishments was the recent organization of Newark State into a university-status institution. Wilkins, along with the Board of Trustees has devised a system to organize the college into four schools in place of the now-existing departmental system.

Wilkins has been a member of the American Education Association since 1935. He is a member of the editorial committee of the New Jersey Journal of Education and the Association for the Advancement of Science and Technology in Higher Education.

Teacher Corps Gets New Spurt from MSC
By Martin J. Fucito
Education Editor
Montclair State has given a fresh concept to the efforts made to improve urban education by the Teacher Corps. Starting in the fall, the Montclair State-Newark Teacher Corps will provide MSC students with the opportunity to get two years of "on the job training" in Newark high schools.

Prior to joining the Teacher Corps, which is under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has allowed only graduate students to work in secondary schools. The seniors who complete the program will receive a bachelor of arts degree. Many will receive a master of arts degree.

The idea for undergraduate teacher training grew out of MSC's SPURT (Special Program for Urban Teachers) program. Last fall, Dr. Lawrence Kenyon, of the education department and Dr. George King, director of urban projects, visited Washington where they learned that the Teachers Corps was allowing undergraduates to work in elementary schools. Both men suggested that graduates be placed in secondary schools as well.

The Corps accepted the proposal and MSC has begun recruiting people for the program. Approximately 35 students, formed into teams of five each, are due to start in Newark. Who has been designated a target area by both state and federal officials.

The Newark half of the Montclair State-Newark Teacher Corps is run by Dr. Thomas Flagg, director of secondary education in Newark. Flagg, who was graduated from MSC in 1946, sees the function of the Corps as a "massive approach" on a national scale to urban education. Kenyon wants to spread "urban emphasis at Montclair State." He hopes that through the Teacher Corps "we are going to learn how to train Montclair State students to go out and teach."

Kenyon hopes to recruit some black Newark students from all-Negro colleges. He wants to get people who are "indigenous to the Newark area." The racial mixture of the program will be "proportional to the make-up of students, Kenyon claims "a very interesting group of people" are volunteering for the program. Joining the MSC students will be people who have had two years of college and then taught in the Job Corps or Poverty Program. Participants in SPURT and the Urban Education Corps have applied. Letters expressing interest have come in from out of state.

"Think Sun" is Password
For This Year's Carnival
By Jeanne Schneider

"Think Sun" buttons will be worn by Carnival patrons expressing their hope for pleasant weather for Carnival '69. Outdoor entertainment, food, game and souvenir booths will carry out this year's theme "Echoes in Time: May 1919 to 1969." Carnival. Montclair State's largest student activity has been given statewide publicity. The classes of 1935, 1968 as well as neighboring colleges have been invited to the festivities on May 9 and 10.

Carnival will be held from 6 p.m. until midnight on May 9 and from noon until midnight on May 10. Booths of the 36 participating organizations will be set up in the faculty parking lot next to the amphitheatre.

As part of the weekend's entertainment, concerts by MENC (Music Educators National Conference), Sigma Phi Epsilon and Alpha Iota will present "The History of Jazz Development." Sigma Delta Phi's food booth is entitled "The Nina, the Pizza and the Santa Maria." "A Salute to Spats" will be presented by the men of Senate.

The men of Phi Sigma Epsilon will be carrying out a pre-historic theme by having a ring toss for stuffed animals. Peanuts and cheese and crackers will be served at part of Tau Omega Phi's "Roaring '20s" booth. KRU (Kappa Rho Upsilon) sisters promise to visit to "The Age of the Barbary Pirates" at their tattooing stand.

Profits from Carnival will benefit the MSC student body through the "Margin for Excellence." How the money will be spent is to be decided after Carnival. Suggestions range from providing scholarships to purchasing display cases.

Trophies will be awarded to the most successful profit-making booths, the three most original booths and the booths judged best in entertainment, food, games and souvenirs.

As the dates of Carnival draw near, volunteers will be needed for booth construction. Interested students should be Jerry Bunn or Joanne Hodde, co-chairmen of Carnival, or leave their names in Student Activities office in Life Hall.

Anti-SDS Student Answers Rudd
By Rich Kemencik
News Editor
Frank Dunn, a Columbia University student, will appear at MSC to answer charges made by Mark Rudd when he spoke here in December. Dunn's lecture is being sponsored on Fri., April 25, by the CINA Partnis Committee, the same group which presented the Rudd lecture.

Presently a first year medical student, Dunn was a senior during last year's disturbances at Columbia. He and a fellow student formed a group called the Majority Coalition which formed as a reaction to the SDS-led strike and building takeovers.

Dunn said of Columbia SDS that it was "a mixed bag with different kinds of kids; some are hard-core radicals, some are sucked in for idealistic reasons and they don't realize the consequences of their actions."

Totally opposed to SDS' answered policy of "coercive non-violence," Dunn said that the term is merely a euphemism for the illegal occupation of campus buildings. He believes that SDS operates under the belief that they (SDS) are always right and their opponents are always wrong. Mainly initiated by sensing wanted about the disruption of their education and their graduation prospects, the Majority Coalition tried to find ways of removing the striking students from the buildings. The Coalition unsuccessfully attempted to stop the flow of food into the occupied buildings. They also intended to decide if the strikers alleged grievances were legitimate ones.

The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. on April 25 in College High Auditorium. There is no admission fee. Dunn hopes to keep his remarks brief and concentrate on answering questions.
Unresponsive Board Members Would Be Ousted Through S-687

Special attention in the Montclairian indicates a move in New Jersey to make school boards more responsive to the will of taxpayers and citizens in general.

A bill has been introduced in the N.J. State Senate which would let citizens force a special election to decide if an unresponsive school board member remains in office. At present, a school board member can be removed only when he moves out of school district or misses three consecutive board meetings without good cause.

The S-687, is sponsored by Senator Hugh A. Kelly of Gloucester Twp. and Senator Frank C. Hallman of Camden. It is being supported by the New Jersey Education Association.

Dr. Ralph Walter

"The public already possesses the power to vote out any elected municipal official. Only the school board member is beyond the reach of the ballot box.

"A school board member can ignore the wishes of the public; he can follow his own whims or eccentricities, he can take actions that actually harm the schools. Yet the parents, citizens and taxpayers of the district do not get a chance to remove him from office until his term expires and he stands for reelection.

"Because most school elections draw only a small percentage of eligible voters, an organized group can elect individual board members, even an entire slate of board members, who are motivated by special interests rather than the good of the schools and students." Kelly added. "Considering the amount of money involved in school budgets; considering the vast responsibility of school boards for hiring, firing and buying; considering the school board's power to shape or limit the future budgets; considering the vast responsibilities of school boards for training, firing and buying; considering the school board's power to shape or limit the future budgets, this action threatens to hurt the schools and students." Kelly concluded.

Kelly added, "No single reason, or even a combination of reasons, can justify the recall of a school board member. Unresponsiveness, inefficiency or irresponsibility are not sufficient grounds for such action."

Expanded Program.

Lawn-Paramus, Scotch Plains and West Caldwell-Verona have been tentatively chosen for the internship program. A full-time supervisor will be assigned to each center, provided at least 25 students are enrolled. If there is enough student interest, the program will be funded in part by the New Jersey Urban Education Corps, and students will receive a stipend.Kelly explained that a full semester of work in an urban center will be particularly useful to students who plan to teach in such an area.

The Scotch Plains program, in which 23 seniors were enrolled, was the first of its kind in New Jersey. The new program will be open not only to seniors but also to graduate candidates for certification, Walter said.

Co-op Plans One-Week Hold on Book Sale

Plans to delay the sale of textbooks until the start of classes of each new semester have been proposed by members of the Faculty-Student Cooperative and bookstore management.

Mrs. Doris Asdal, director of the Co-op, stated that the proposed plan calls for the College High book sale to begin with the start of classes of each semester. Up until now, books have been available before classes began.

With this new proposal, students would be informed by their professors of the texts required for each course. Booklists, often found to be confusing due to the large number of sections of many courses and the many editions available of the same book title, would be eliminated. However, bookstore employees, equipped with master lists, would be available to assist all customers.

Mrs. Asdal and Mrs. Bertha Faber, bookstore manager, noted that the new plan would reduce the student's chance of purchasing the wrong books. Bookstore personnel have found that many students purchase books before classes begin and then change course sections or drop courses. Consequently, they wish to return the previously purchased texts. However, if the text has been written in, it cannot be accepted for return or exchange.

Mrs. Faber noted that the College High book sale would continue for a two-week period before the books are removed to the new supply store in planning to be set up. Extra cash registers will be set up to facilitate quick service for customers.

This proposal will be discussed by the Faculty and Administrative Councils and the SGA legislature. Student opinion should be directed to Mrs. Asdal or Mrs. Vincent Calabrese, director of bookstore services.
Pricing Us Out of College

Financial aid is something that every student on this campus could use. Why? Primarily because the college has decided to tax the student with another financial burden.

A $10 fee has been proposed to reduce the ever-increasing cost of the future student union building. Since construction costs are rising monthly, the college must wait until a satisfactory amount of funds are available before building can begin. However, the longer the wait, the more costly the delay becomes.

So, to offset the rise, the college will ask the SGA legislature to approve a $10 union building fee which will become effective as early as this summer.

But even if this proposal is approved, it does not guarantee that construction will begin this fall. (Groundbreaking for the building took place five years ago.)

Obviously the first MSC students to pay dormitory room increase to become effective this September at Montclair and Trenton State. Presently, the ABC Gladiolus Food Service is under contract negotiations and a food increase may result.

And finally, the $10 union building fee has been suggested to further reduce the financial back of the student.

As a state institution, where the state is supposed to subsidize the costs of higher education, why have the students been oversubsidizing the funding?
Reportage: Just Who's Biased Toward Whom?

"There are two men trying to get inside my house and they're scared! My parents aren't home."

The voice was young, about eight or nine years old. It was ten o'clock in the morning when the operator received his call. Three minutes later the police were on the way. The door was found unlocked, the house and a very frightened little boy was being calmed by a tall lanky young man who told him jokes and called his parents.

"My parents aren't home."

That same day the lanky young man along with many other shorter, taller, heavier and older men of his same occupation were on the job. They administered drug education and first aid. Many of them also took enough time for night courses at a local college to make them more professional in their profession.

"Okay, I'm well aware that you all realize who I'm talking about."

I'm sticking my neck out for a group of men that could perhaps receive the award for the most down-graded personalities of the last year. Police, Cops, The Man, Pigs.

"Yes, that's what they call them. Who's 'They'?

"They" is the generic term in use in the 1960s. It's the way they refer to the people and the system they are working in. The object of it is to dehumanize and to devalue the police.

"That's just the way that they are, isn't it?"

"Yes, that's just the way that they are. The person is the one that's perceived as if he's a cop. That's the way the system perceives him."

"But a policeman had just better help when one of these so-called 'liberals' gets beaten up in an alley or his house is burglarized or his girl is raped. That's bad. You'd better be there, but they should disappear into the floorboard after. They had better risk their lives getting to an accident on time or confronting an armed killer, but they don't deserve the pay to allow them to work only one job and raise a family in the way that they wish."

They call them "pigs." These men who are trying to make our streets and cities safe are "pigs" who should all be eliminated. But, funny thing, they had just better be there fast when we need them and I'm biased!

The Chris White Quintet, a well-known avant-garde jazz group, recently appeared at MSC under the auspices of the Club Lure series. They offered a program consisting of a concert which was structured around a lecture on the history of jazz and black music. The musical pieces performed by the quintet served to illustrate the points made in the lecture.

Jazz buffs will realize that the combination of Kenny Baron on piano, his brother, Bill, on tenor sax, Bill Coburn on drums and Jimmy Owens playing the trumpet under the direction of Chris White is one hard to beat.

Chris White, who played bass exceptionally well, was quite humorous with his lecture comments. And the jazz that came from Jimmy Owens portends bigger things to come from this young man in the field of jazz.

The most charitable term which can apply to Sidney Poitier's new album, Poitier Reads Poetry of the Black Man, is that of overstatement. It is an overabundance of acting, schmaltz, harp strings and little tinkling bells.

Listening to this album gives one the same sick feeling that it is to be had from sitting through Fiddler on the Roof and other such obvious attempts to exploit the feelings of certain ethnic groups. (One is so often done by members of the groups themselves rather confusing to say the least.)

But perhaps this is a bit too harsh. It could very well be that Mr. Poitier believes that in his album he is mirroring the black man. Unfortunately, he has been as successful in this as has been in portraying the black man on screen.

His fault mainly lies not in the poetry he has selected — although much of it is extremely mild — but in the manner in which he chose to present it. He and Doni Belach read most of it as if they are telling fairy tales to children. Miss Belach in a sweet-ass-voiceraw voice is trying so hard to sound very black and ethnic that it comes off rather comical.

This would not be so hard to take, however, if it weren't for the background music. It must be heard to be believed. In one cut we have Miss Belach emasculating Countee Cullen's "Yet I Do." In another, Hughes "Mother to Son" is recited to the tune of "Once I Felt Like a Motherless Child." The results, needless to say, are dreadful.

This album is not a total waste, though it might make a pleasant gift for a very young child or a very old grandmother.

Dylan done in Joan Baez style

Reviewed By: Diana Wald

Two phenomenal talents come together on this double album with, understandably, mixed results. Any Day Now is a collection of the songs of Bob Dylan as sung by Joan Baez. (Given to all, the listener should come to the album open for new interpretations. Miss Baez is not the type to try the same thing. Every where between her last album and this one a lot must have happened to Joan Baez. There's an experience in her voice now that coupled with her easy honesty and feminine inquisitiveness, makes songs like "Love Is Just a Four-Letter Word" and "North Country Blues" hauntingly real. "Tears of Rage," sung without accompanying music, is a staggering vocal and emotional accomplishment. The beautiful "You Ain't Going Nowhere" is enhanced by the inventive piano of Bill Purcell, former Presley musician. A fine instrumental performance also comes from Steve Sils of the old Buffalo Springfield.

Unfortunately, one of the best songs selected, "I Shall Be Released," is treated worst. It comes off like Kate Smith leading the West Point Glee Club. (Ain't she?"

Generally speaking, however, this album is worthy of your attention. Pick a few misfires (an overly sentimental "I Pity the Poor Immigrant" for example) full only because they try too hard. Dylan's words rarely need that kind of help. The jacket is illustrated by Miss Baez with feeling and simplicity. This "Sad-Eyed Lady" brings to the words of her "Dada King" a freshness and clarity that is sometimes truly inspired.

Big Time Buck White will make a thrilling and exciting evening in the theatre. The play, originating in the Watts district of Los Angeles, was brought to off-Broadway by the West. Written by an Italian, Joseph Dolan, it deals with the social issues of our present day American society. Though a white man, it is written from the point of view of blacks, and the characters, though somewhat stereotyped, reveal many of the causes and results of the black oppression of the blacks. Despite an all black cast, the presence of the white man was felt by the audience through the actors. The dialogue was true, flavorful and witty. Lines such as "That's a no-no" and "The plan" brought the house down in roar of laughter.

If you have a little money, a desire to laugh and a strong desire to be a better human being then Big Time Buck White is for you.

The Gimingham Dog by Lenford Wilson is an instant "cool" color play just added racial intermarriage and stir.

The play is a scaled down race riot. There is Grace, a white woman who has grown up but maintains a black militant front, and Vincent, her white husband who maintains an Establishment facade. They both think they've lost the capacity to feel anything. On the day of their official separation, they are harassed by their neighbor Robert, a "hippie," and Vincent's sister Barbara, a ghastly southern belle.

Some of the dialogue is lively and even witty, but too much of it is redundant. Diana Sands was lively and magnetic as Grace, but her constantly controlled sarcasm was unbelievable. Vincent, played by George Grizzard, was weak. His broad physical and vocal gestures were brittle at best. Roy London as Robert also overdid it. Karen Grassle was the best of the four as Barbara. But, overall, the direction of Alan Schedler was poor — busy and confusing.

Some of the fighting was interesting but it was too stylized and needed some weaving. The blocking was aimless and the ruin of the entire anticlimactic second act. To quote Grace: "It's all too sad and boring."
The students, seen on the Montclair State campus on a recent morning and afternoon, comprise only a segment of the college’s population. The other half of MSC participates in the evening division, headed by Robert E. Buechler.

Enrolling 4186 students this semester, the evening division is composed of 3570 graduate students and 616 undergraduates.

In addition, summer school, which is under the auspices of this division, brings the number of different students whose records are handled by the evening division to over 10,000 per year.

The evening school handles its own admissions and all its business matters. MacVane stated: “The operation is unique in that undergraduate evening program is only in its second year of existence, having been instituted in September 1967.

As if the evening students felt that they are part of the college, MacVane said no. He explained that since the majority of them are graduate students, they “are full-time employees some place else. They may come to MSC one or two nights a week, but because of other commitments they do not really become a part of the college.” He said he has seen some of them at basketball games, “but only a limited number participate in college activities.”

MacVane anticipates approximately 2000 students (1800 graduate students and 100 undergraduates) in the summer school program this year.

900 Members in Class of ’73 Enter Under Uncommitted Major

By Susan Dominick, Staff Reporter

“The freshman class of 1973 has been selected from 4800 applicants,” announced Mr. Alan Buechler, acting director of admissions. The enrollment of this class will number approximately 900.

Buechler explained that 85 percent of the applicants were qualified for Montclair State, but only one out of five candidates is accepted because of the lack of space.

A major change in admissions procedures was made this year. “Students are now admitted to the college but not to a specific department,” declared Buechler.

Candidates are selected on the basis of academic ability, recommendation from the high school counselor, class rank and activities. The acting director of admissions noted that it is better for a student to have a strong in one or two activities than to merely acquire a long list of unrelated pursuits. Students are accepted because of the lack of space available to them.

Buechler stated that “more information was required for admissions this year, namely two achievement tests which will be used primarily for placement.”

Applicants who wish to enter the music, physical education or speech departments must also successfully audition for that department. If they do not qualify in the audition, they may still be admitted to the college but will not be accepted for that specific department.

Another change made on this year’s application was the omission of the question concerning teacher education. Since MSC is becoming a liberal arts school, candidates for admission do not have to commit themselves to either preference of teacher education or liberal arts.

There will be 80 daytime and 50 evening TRY students in the entering class, but Buechler assured that this number does not affect the size of the class. The admittance of TRY students does not decrease the quota of regular applicants who will be accepted.

Where asked if the new class is selected on a broader geographical basis, considering Montclair’s future university status, Buechler replied, “there have never been any quotas on counties.” Limited dormitory space necessitates the majority of students coming from the same area.

Mr. Thomas Wilt, assistant professor of music, captured first place in Alpha Sigma Mu’s Mug of the Year contest. Wilt remarked: “It would like to express my sincere thanks to everyone. But I was disappointed that Gov. Richard Hughes made no appearance in his budget for a 12 foot by 12 foot bird cage for my trophies.”

Wilt received 898 votes which amounted to $449. He was presented with a personally engraved trophy and the frat’s circulating trophy. Dick Schwinge, president of the fraternity, and Jim Dale, chairman of Mug of the Year, awarded the trophies and a gift certificate for dinner for two at the Robin Hood Inn.

The runner-up in the frat’s second annual contest was Dr. Morris McGee of the English department. Last year, McGee will also receive a personal trophy. Mr. Mary Army from the biology department, the sole woman contestant, in spite of the fact that she was placed on the ballot the last day, managed to win third place.

The contest which ran from March 24-28 raised $123 to be used for the third annual benefit performance at East Orange Veterans Hospital. Alpha Sigma Mu will hold their benefit on May 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. It will be a variety show featuring the Sinfinia State Band, the Blue Grass Trio and the girls from KEP.

The freshmen and sophomores lead drive to elect Richardson President of Year

Every spring WABC radio sponsors a “President of the Year” contest. This year MSC is doing its best to elect President Thomas H. Richardson to this honorary post. The winner of the contest will be presented with an award at a free concert given by WABC.

The freshmen and sophomore classes have already begun their campaign. At the close of the contest, the sponsoring classes will award the winner the signature, class and organization contributing the most file cards to be used as ballots in the election. Each card is filled out with the president’s name, the school and the signature of the contributor.

A special trophy will be given to the overall high contributor. At present, the leading security is Lambda Omega Tau, with over 14,000 cards turned in, the leading fraternity is Alpha Phi Omega with 5,700. The class of ’72 leads its category with 4,700 cards. First in organizational competition is the Young Democrats with 1200.

The co-chairman in charge of collecting the cards is Woody Mahoney ’72, and Gary Snyder ’71. According to Miss Mahoney, “Much more support is needed to achieve out goal. The whole school will benefit from winning the contest.”

There is a table set up in Life Hall from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. every weekday where students may purchase cards at 10 cents per card. Miss Mahoney urges all student to support the contest.

Closed Door Policy

Stone Hall, men's dormitory, will initiate a close door policy for women's guests for a four-week trial period. This follows in the wake of a similar policy that was first instituted some weeks ago in Webster Hall.

The opening day for the closed door policy is scheduled for Fri., April 25. Stone Hall's Dormitory Council has approved the policy and they have assumed full responsibility. Should the four-week experiment be approved, Dorm Council reserves the right to review the policy every year.

Basically, the policy requires that female guests be signed in and out upon entrance and exit. A knotted necktie on the room doorknob will signify that a female guest is in the room.

The official hours for the policy are as follows: Friday, 4:30 p.m. - midnight; Saturday, 10 a.m. - midnight; and Sunday, 1:30 p.m. - 7 p.m.

Dorm Council has stated that if a resident fails to follow the provisions of the closed door policy, they will recommend that the resident be expelled from the dormitory.

Stone Hall's unique bathroom situation has stood as a major obstacle to the institution of a closed door policy last semester or earlier this semester. In Stone Hall, there are only two bathrooms on the second floor. During closed door hours, one bathroom will be limited to use by females only.

How Good Are Your Profs?

By Jane Conforth

QUESTION: What is your opinion of the professors at your school?

Rosemary Raucci, freshman, music major: "It could be helpful if the students are mature enough to handle it fairly.

Kenneth W. Davis, math department: "It's a great idea. The consumers should have something to say about the product he's buying. However, education should not become a popularity contest."

Richard Shotton, junior, social science major: "I think it's necessary because many professors take for granted they are putting across material and they're not."

Miss Emma Fantone, co-director of audio-visual center: "I'm for it with a qualification: that the instrument used need not be worked out very carefully between faculty and students."

Bill Lowe, senior, fine arts major: "Anything that would involve the students more in the school is good. Basically, the students are apathetic."

Dr. Robert R. Beekwirth, social science department: "Great. It's long overdue."

Carol Brench, sophomore, home economics major: "It's a good idea because students are not how the professor teaches all semester long, whereas I don't think someone else could pass an evaluation after seeing him teach for 15 minutes on one day."

John Snyder, freshman, math major: "It sounds good if you screen the students first and don't let them in before they pass an evaluation."

Richard Slmratna, junior, social science major: "It sounds good if you screen the students first and don't include the radicals."

"I guess that's why you can wear all those fantastic clothes all the time. Wish I could."

"If that means you don't use Tampax tampoons, you ought to give them a try. But don't just take my word for it... ask Ann and I'm sure all millions of girls all over the U.S. would tell you the same thing."

"That many, huh?"

"Probably more."

SPM Shadow Protection of Tampax Tampoons is the official tampon of Madison Square Garden, "The World's Largest Indoor Sports Complex."

Barons Champ IM League
As Hoop Season Closes

Jackson, Stewart
High Point Men
In 11 Victories

By Wayne Potente
Sports Staff

The Black Barons became the new men's intramural league basketball champions by completing their season with a perfect 11-0 record. Led by Defoy Jackson and Don Stewart, the Barons breezed through eight of their 11 victories and showed fine ability under pressure in their three tough wins.

The team opened its season by romping Beta, 59-23. Stewart and Butch Davis led the scoring with 17 and 15 points, respectively. The second victory featured 18 points from "West Side" Alston, as the Wee Five lost, 61-39. Top scorers were with 16 points and Alston contributed 15.

The first competition the Barons faced was the Lower Lounge. A 22 point effort by Vin Sivestri and a trapping defense against Jackson afforded the Lounge team a 13-point lead in the second half. However, Stewart began to control the boards and Marvin Byers provided the winning bucket at the tail end of a strong comeback. The final score was 48-46, Barons.

Game five was a battle for first place, the Barons vs. the Pineapples, led by Phil Baccarella and Howie Steiner. The Pineapples led by three, 28-25, at halftime. But a team effort in the second half provided a 59-49 victory for the Barons with Jackson scoring 23.

Jackson scored 16 and Stewart 12 in the next game as Phi Sigma Epsilon was bombarded, 73-32. Game time for game seven was the Psi Chi vs. the Wee Five, the former making a run of 13-0 at the start, leading to a 59-40 decision. Stewart's rebounding and 20 points and Jackson's 17 points led the victors. This win put the Barons into the championship game.

Their opponents for the championship were the Undertakers who had defeated the Wolfpack, 43-37, the night before. Al Noil totaled 14 points for the victors while John McNulty equalized that sum for the losers.

The big game turned out to be another Black Baron runaway as Defoy Jackson scored 19, Sid Hayam scored 10, Byers 10 in a 66-33 slaughter.

Congratulations are in order for a fine basketball team. Members of the team not previously mentioned are Tom Burke, Charles Palmer, Richard Jones, Houston Webster and Herb Stoney.

Thanks, MSC!

(Received letter was written by MSC, President, Dr. Tingling. Richardson, from a student at American International College, Springfield, Mass.)

Dear President Richardson:

On behalf of the students of Montclair State, I would like to congratulate and thank the students of Montclair State.

I would like to congratulate them on their success in attending the NCAA tournament and on the outstanding enthusiasm which the Montclair State students generated.

I would like to thank the students of Montclair State for their support during our first game against San Francisco State College. Your support helped in our victory. Again thank you and hopefully will see you in University.

Indian Hurlers on Road to Recovery

By Mike Galon
Special to the Montclarion

Back in March when Montclair State College baseball coach Bill Dioguardi looked ahead to the coming season the prospects for a repeat of last year's fine 14-4 second season seemed weakly cloudy.

The main reason for the dim outlook was the questionable status of a veteran Indians pitching staff.

However, the high point of the season was a 9-6 win over Fairleigh Dickinson University. However, the high point of the season was a 9-6 win over Fairleigh Dickinson University. Last year's top winners, senior right-hander Pete junior lefthander Fred Keimel (40) and righthander Ken Inglis (2-2) and ace reliever John Gryzmko, but the only healthy hurlers with two hitters with the one hit being one hitter over Newark State. He fanned eight and threw only 98 pitches.

He fanned 11 and gave up only three hits.

Keimel's first test of the sore arm came the following day. The lefthander who throws aperiodic at the plate worked four scoreless frames before tiring. With two out in the fifth Nashway Rutgers got a run on a two singles and a walk to snap the streak at 33 and 2/3 innings.

The Indians pitching problems back in March have turned into a cloud with a silver lining.

Special to the Montclarion

Bouncing back after straight defeats, the Indians captured a 3-1 baseball victory over Bloomfield College, Monday, at Nishuane Park in Montclair. Junior lefty, Fred Keimel picked up the victory, his second unearned.

Bloomfield errors in the field and four hits while striking out 10.

The loss dropped Bloomfield's record to 3-3. The Indians are now 6-2, back on the right track after suffering two straight losses, 5-4 to Upsala and 3-1 to St. Peter's.

The Indians next start will be tomorrow, a home game with Paterson State starting at three o'clock.

Coach Dio

The 1969 season will mark the 21st for Bill Dioguardi as head baseball coach at Montclair State. It will also mark his last as the Indians mentor since the MSC director of athletics will step down at the end of the year to be succeeded by Clay Anderson in 1970.

A graduate of Kearney High School, Dioguardi was a standout at Montclair State in basketball and baseball before transferring to Notre Dame.

Following graduation from Notre Dame, he coached the Irish junior varsity diamond team for one season before returning to MSC to become head baseball coach.

In 20 seasons as the Indians head coach, Dioguardi sports one of the best coaching marks in the United States showing 286 wins and only 137 losses. Under his direction in baseball, Montclair State captured the New Jersey Intercollegiate Athletic Conference title five times (1949, 51, 53, 54 and 55) and the New Jersey State College Conference crown five times (1961, 63, 64, 66 and 67.)

Twice in recent years Dioguardi has been selected as the New Jersey State College Conference's "Baseball Coach of the Year."

In addition to handling the baseball team, Dioguardi has at various times coached as an assistant in football and basketball at MSC. He has also been director of athletics at Montclair's College High School, as well as head football and basketball coach.

Dioguardi has been the school's director of athletics since October 1968. One of New Jersey's top football and basketball officials, Bill is married and the father of four children. The Dioguardi's live in Upper Montclair.

Mound Corps...

FRED KEIMEL
Played in only eight games last year because of shoulder injury. One of only four seniors on this staff last year with .356, runs scored with 28 and homers with eight. Now two seasons.

PETE JERAULD
Three year varsity starter has an overall 13-4 record, including a 2-0 mark this season. Has pitched most consistent ball so far this season on the staff. Seem to have overcome a winter arm injury. The further success of the Indian lefty is on how Pete pitches this season. Will probably get the most starting assignments because of both his experience and durability.

JIM WILK
Has taken over right field spot as a sophomore. Had an outstanding freshman year as a catcher. The stocky flychaufer has good power and is expected to give some added punch to the Indian attack.

STEVE SAMSON
Has moved into the ‘hot corner” after a fine showing on the Florida trip. Has a good glove and covers a lot of area. One of four sophs in the starting lineup.

KEN INGLIS
Hard throwing southpaw who has a great future ahead of him at MSC. Pitched varsity ball last year as a freshman and had a 2-2 record.

This season has already seen Ken pitch one-hit and three-hit efforts in his first two wins. Former first team all-starter has a deceptive fastball and an assortment of breaking pitches. Leads staff this season with an amazing 0.85 ERA in 21 innings.

With two more seasons of pitching after this year, Inglis could end up as one of MSC’s all time greats.

INFIELDERS: Rich San Filippo (left) shortstop and Tom McCormick, second baseman.

RICH SAN FILIPPO
Starting his second season of varsity play. Hit .271 as a third baseman last season. Moves over to shortstop this year. Has the only Indian home run this year from the FDU game. Has a bright future ahead of him at Montclair State. Former all-state choice at Belleville High School.

DAVE CLARK
Indian centerfielder has good speed and ability to get on base. Batting leadoff this season. Clark has gotten off to a fast start at the plate with a .381 mark in six games. Played his first year of varsity ball.

TOM MC CORMICK
Led the Indians in hitting two seasons ago but had his troubles last year hitting only .187. Coach Dioguardi expects a big comeback from this veteran infielder. Covers the bag well and combined with San Fillipo should show an increase in doubleplays this season.

CARMINE DE SIMONE
The Indian leftfielder has been switched after a trial at third base. Another sophomore who is getting a lot of valuable game experience. Another power-hitting type who has gotten off to a slow start at the plate but has shown himself well enough to handle the starting job.

INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL
Applications are due Thurs., April 24, and are to be left with Mrs. Pollock in the physical education office. The season begins on Mon., April 28 consisting of three regularly scheduled games per team.
