State May Revoke Dorm Rise

Local Autonomy May Give Limited $$$ Power

By Virginia Saunderson

Senate bill 256, a bill granting a degree of local autonomy to the New Jersey state colleges, was passed last May by the state Legislature and will soon reach implementation.

At the present time, provisions for the state colleges are waiting approval by the Council of the State Colleges. These provisions, which will function within the bill, will provide the basic rules of operation for the state colleges.

The council, which is composed of the presidents of New Jersey's six state colleges, will then submit these provisions to Trenton officials for approval.

The bill which finally passed, though altered from the original measure, grants a degree of financial autonomy to the colleges. Included in this autonomy is the decrease in the number of the major accounts, such as salaries and materials and equipment, thus creating more minor accounts. Within these minor accounts, the college has control of purchases up to $2500. Also provided in the bill is greater flexibility in the transfer of funds among these minor accounts.

Until the provisions are put into effect, the colleges are functioning under the traditional system.

CUE Subcommittee Will Recommend Against Fee

JERSEY CITY—Whether to increase dormitory fees for students of Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, and Glassboro state colleges, was postponed by the State Board of Higher Education here last Friday pending a subcommittee report to be made during the first week of October.

Representatives of CUE (Committee on Undergraduate Education) together with several members of the Board of Higher Education have been delegated as a subcommittee to recommend a policy concerning increasing dormitory fees from $818 to $1000 beginning with the spring semester 1970.

Presently, the increase is in effect for only Montclair and Trenton State College as was decided by a Board of Higher Education decision last March. Rent hikes went into effect for TSC and MSC since both schools have dormitories presently under construction.

A spokesman for CUE stated that the student group will favor the elimination of the fee increase. If approved by the rest of the committee, the fees for TSC and MSC will return to $818 beginning second semester. The spokesman went on to say that if the fee increase is revoked, CUE will ask for a credit for the $182 increase they were required to pay for on campus housing this semester.

Civil-rights activist Dick Gregory put in an appearance at MSC last week. "I'm sure glad to be out of jail for a change," was his opening statement. After the laughter died down, he added: "I'm currently being sued by two cops in Chicago because I kicked them and bit them while they were trying to throw me in front of a train." The one-time presidential candidate said that students should get rid of "racist" colleges and labelled the U.S. the most "insane" and "degenerate" nation on earth. "But," he stated, "you (the students) have the power to change it."

NEW SCHOOL ORIENTED

Ken Traynor, SGA president, stressed the role of the student in formation of the new school structure in the collegewide conference held last week. See story on page 2.
Schools Start Administering Jan. 1970

Organizational meetings of the five schools presently comprising the 1969-70 university status setup for Montclair State College were held last Thursday to acquaint underclassmen and faculty with the changes taking place as to the division of the departments and school.

Moderators at the meetings of the five schools (School of Humanities, School of Creative Arts, School of Applied Arts and Sciences, School of Math and Science and School of Social and Behavioral Sciences) were especially careful to orient new students and faculty to the job that lies ahead for the planning committees and to encourage these people to become involved with their school.

During the all college meeting held during the morning, Dr. Thomas H. Richardson, MSC President, Dr. Samuel Pratt, resident planner, Mr. John Zwerneke, master architect and Ken Traynor, SGA president, all stressed the importance of planning from their particular field.

Summaries of each school meeting are listed below.

Ratio for Senate
By Celeste Sullivan

The first fall meeting of the School of Creative Arts was actually a review of business which was decided during the spring of 1969. This school is far ahead of the others since much of its structure and governing policies have already been decided.

Dr. Jack Sacher, assistant professor of music, asked for a one-to-one student-representative body from each department to help decide the new Senate forming policy.

A short meeting of the individual committees followed to decide upon future dates for meetings and to recruit new students and faculty for committee work.

The School of Humanities held its first organizational meeting of the school year and also met in its 28 subcommittees. Mr. Morton D. Rich, assistant professor of English, suggested that the subcommittees first define the term of "humanities" and then begin the work of their individual committees, using the newly-defined term.

The curricula subcommittee consists of 10 areas of the new curriculum including English, journalism, Afro Asian languages, French, Spanish, Italian, Latin, German, Greek and interdisciplinary studies.

Rich stated that currently MSC is an open-door campus and if students need information, they can go to such people as Dr. Samuel Pratt, resident planner, and find the needed information.

He stated that students need not restrict themselves to the idea of only five schools (Humanities, Creative Arts, Applied Arts and Sciences, Social and Behavioral Sciences and Mathematics and Science, but to consider dividing or combining schools or to make departmental changes to accomplish the best organizational plans.

The School of Applied Arts and Sciences held its first meeting with Mr. Robert Donner, assistant professor II of industrial education, speaking to the students and faculty about the goals of the schools. He stated that the main goal of the school is to decentralize power into the departments. Through this breakdown, the administrators would be more closely related to the needs of the departments and more easily accessible to the problems of the departments.

The schools will also handle student selection according to the particular aptitude for the field. Each department will eventually establish separate schools headed by their own dean when funds are available. Underclassmen were encouraged to join the subcommittees which will be called to meet in the near future.

Dr. Bertha Quintana, anthropology professor and member of the school's Central Planning Committee, opened the meeting by explaining the progress already made in the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences. She concluded her comments with a request for unified effort.

Barbara Fischer, class of 1970, and member of the Central Planning Committee, emphasized the fact that the Central Planning Committee would not take on the burden of organizing the school, it would be up to the students and faculty to make the necessary decisions involved.

The group broke up into five smaller groups which encompassed all 27 committees which were mapped out to determine the direction in which the school would develop. These smaller groups broke up after brief meetings, with the intent of meeting again the following week.

The first meeting of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences completed its intended purpose of beginning the new school with a resolve to accomplish the task of turning paper-work into reality.

The meeting of the School of Mathematics and Science was held in an effort to lay the groundwork for the organization of the school, and setting up the committees in which organizational work can take place.

Dr. Evan Maletsy, who spoke to the group, stated that it is up to the members of the committees of the school to decide upon the organizational style of the school, and that the school is still committed to its deadline of September 1970 for final establishment of the school.

The organization of the school will be accomplished through committees titled: The Student and His Needs, The Faculty Member, Curriculum Rationale, Governance and Administration; and External Affairs. Explanation of the five subcommittees was given.

Space allocation for the school will be completed in 1972, with the building of a new math-science complex next Mallory Hall.

PEP TALK: Dr. Thomas H. Richardson, MSC President, addressed over 2500 students and faculty to introduce new members of the campus to the five schools into which MSC is now divided.

Across Valley road in Upper Montclair hangs a banner proclaiming Montclair State College's annual Homecoming weekend. "Tribute to a Decade" will be the theme of Homecoming 1969, the three-day fall weekend sponsored by the College Life Union Board. Organizational meetings for all Homecoming committees began this week under the supervision of Suzanne Vilner and John LaManna, cochairmen.

Montclarion chooses '69 News Editors

Donald Pendley and Roberta Kuehl were elected co-eds editors of the MONTCLARION last Saturday. The election was held to fill the vacancies left by Richard Kameck and Patricia Hanjuan.

Pendley, a sophomore English major from Paramus, served for the past year as editorial assistant. Miss Hanjuan, a sophomore English major, was formerly assistant news editor.

Susan Dominski, a former staff reporter, was elected to the position of copy editor. Miss Dominski is a sophomore English major.

Conference Will Focus on Females

Local Groups Participate in Program

The "Focus on Women" conference to be held at Montclair State College represents more involvement with community organizations as well as an opportunity to discuss topics pertinent for women with knowledgeable resource persons.

Therefore, community organizations such as Hadassah, National Council of Negro Women and Young Women's Christian Association will participate in an exhibit display in Memorial Auditorium Lobby at 3:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 6.

Mina Barbara Walters will speak on "Women in the 1970's" at 4 p.m. in the auditorium. Following her speech, seminars will be held on such topics as Wife and Career, Tomorrow's Morality and Women in the Arts. The program will conclude with a banquet in Life Hall Cafeteria at 7 p.m.

The teacher Corps Project at Montclair State College is part of a national program designed to "strengthen the educational opportunities available to children in areas having concentrations of low-income families and to encourage colleges and universities to broaden their programs of teacher preparation."

At present 39 interns, who have completed their junior year, are working in middle and senior high schools in Newark - Broadway Junior High, West Kinney Junior High, East Side, South Side, Central, Weequahic and Barringer high schools. Dr. Thomas Fing, director of secondary education in Newark and coordinator of this project, is a graduate of MSC.

During the summer these interns, 19 of whom are transfer students, participated in preservice seminars on urban schools.

Some of the topics suggested by the seminar's planning committee, which we live, particularly that study and examine the society in the social structure, the woman in society, affinity and its problems and poverty and its problems.

At last night's meeting, the 260 students were divided into groups of about 10 members each, and each of these groups will examine a subtopic of one of the general topics, several of which were listed above. Each group will appoint a recorder, who will keep in contact with the seminar's planning committee and periodically submit reports of the group's findings in their area of study.

The student-faculty committee that has planned this program hopes this is the first of an annual program with emphasis on women. More involvement with community organizations is anticipated as our student population increases and becomes more diverse.

For reservations the program only are $1 each, for the dinner only, $5; for both, $6. Checks should be made payable to MSC "Focus on Women". Conference.

Returning to Dr. Hazel Wacker at Montclair State College. Student reservation rates will each for the program only and $2 for both dinner and program. These reservations should be returned to Roberta Kuehl, Room 215, College Hall. Both registration must indicate seminar choice.

Gubernatorial Hopefuls Stress Urban Education

Special to the Montclarion

"The state school-aid formula is outdated and must be replaced by a more equitable one." Says Meservey. "Priority No. 1 for the next governor must be to increase the state's program for both dinner and program."

Trenton New Jersey's pressing school problems need immediate State attention, says the New Jersey Education Association and the two major gubernatorial candidates apparently agree.

"Among the issues in this fall's election campaign, nothing is more critical than the financial difficulties facing New Jersey schools," says an editorial in the current issue of the N.J.A.A. Review, the professional journal for the state's teachers.

The candidates voice agreement in six junior and senior high schools in Newark, and human relations. In this two-year program, the interns began working four and a half hours a day as teacher aides under a master teacher, besides joining in community activities, attending seminars, participating in educational projects, and taking courses at Montclair State. These courses lead to a bachelor's degree and, possibly, a master's degree.

While gaining experience in teaching, interns earn $75 a week plus $15 per independent. Their commitment to the Teacher Corps continues through next summer in the form of special seminars, regular courses, community activities, or camps. When they return to school in their second year they assume more control of the classroom and may qualify as provisional teachers.

Dr. Lawrence Kenyon, director of the project at MSC, has pointed out the value of accepting applicants from minority groups in the Newark area, since such teachers are greatly needed for the black and Spanish-speaking schools. He also mentioned, that so far as he knew, Montclair State's program is the only one in the nation that involves urban schools, Newark, and human relations. Reduction Decision

New Jersey's state college student committee CUE (Committee on Undergraduate Education) has long since set about on the major task of holding down the dormitory fees at the state colleges.

Although the fees were increased at Trenton and Montclair state colleges last March, the dormitory cost for the remaining four state colleges was held at $818 pending further investigation by the Board of Higher Education.

Now, a half year later, the board has still not taken action on the pending motion. But during last Friday's meeting of the board, held at Jersey City State College, it was decided that a final decision should be handed down in early October.

Here CUE stepped in. With the suggestion of Ralph Dungan, chancellor of higher education, a subcommittee of the board of Higher Education was set up to meet with an equal number of students from the CUE executive board to decide if the $812 rise should become policy for all six state colleges or be revoked for Trenton and Montclair.

As long as the CUE members play an equal and active part on this subcommittee the fee should be revoked.

Through CUE, the subcommittee members of the Board of Higher Education will be made aware of this excessive financial burden that the state college student is forced to pay on the theory that the money is to be used for future dormitory construction. (Since Trenton and Montclair presently have dormitories under construction, their fee was the first to be enacted.)

Nevertheless, if the fee is revoked, Trenton and Montclair students should receive a refund from the state from their fall dormitory expenses. To raise fees without full investigation has turned out to be a worthless experiment based on a justification provided by a state which is not fully supporting its higher education facilities.

Nixon's Commentary

President Richard M. Nixon's statements last week regarding the draft have far-reaching implications.

Basically the President suspended the November and December draft calls—a total of 50,000 men. And the October draft call of 29,000 men would be spread over a period of three months.

The Nixon Administration's decision came as a result of months of high-level deliberation and was timed to dampen any possible antiwar dissent at the beginning of a new college semester.

Nixon's new "get tough" policy with Congress over Selective Service laws is indeed commendable. As far as we understand, the President has the intention of revamping the conscription system so that future inductions will be limited to the state colleges or be revoked for Trenton and Montclair.

As long as the CUE members play an equal and active part on this subcommittee the fee should be revoked.

Through CUE, the subcommittee members of the Board of Higher Education will be made aware of this excessive financial burden that the state college student is forced to pay on the theory that the money is to be used for future dormitory construction. Youth Fare Stays—But Increase Results

WASHINGTON (CP)—Airline youth fares will continue, but not at the current half price discount.

The Federal Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) ordered here this month that while the fares, which enable persons 12-22 to fly at half cost, were fair in 1958, they are expected to be a worthless experiment based on a justification provided by a state which is not fully supporting its higher education facilities.

19-year-old age group. He also will ask Congress to allow him to order the random selection of draftees under this youngest-first system. And if Congress doesn't give the reforms he wants, officials say Nixon will do the job by executive order.

Unfortunately, Nixon's plan of attack on the draft laws has little or no provisions for the college student. The President failed to comment on how the student enrolled in college studies presently fits into the Nixon plan. And the feeling in Congress toward any draft reform is apparently lukewarm.

The MONTCLAIRION editor is of the opinion that if congressional hearings are not held, and the congressional attitude remains the same, Nixon's plan may just be mere commentary on what the student enrolled in college studies presently fits into the Nixon plan. And the feeling in Congress toward any draft reform is apparently lukewarm.

The reason: steep wage settlements, more expensive fuel, and higher landing fees have lowered airline profits excessively, according to the CAB, and price increases in both regular and promotional discounts are necessary to reverse the decline. The major air carriers offering special youth fares—American, Continental, Northwest, TWA, United Eastern, and Western—are expected to take advantage of the CAB ruling and raise their prices.

The major carriers offering special youth fares—American, Continental, Northwest, TWA, United Eastern, and Western—are expected to take advantage of the CAB ruling and raise their prices.

The CAB spokesman said further hearings will be held on the "ecological" of the discount rate as soon as a court case brought by Trailways Bus Lines against the CAB is settled. Trailways contends it is discriminatory for there to be a discount for youth at all, since adults must pay full fare.

The youth fare issue was forced to a head last January when several bus companies all of which had lost money to the airlines on account of the fares, filed suit to make the CAB listen to their arguments that the discounts were illegal and that they were a worthless experiment based on a justification provided by a state which is not fully supporting its higher education facilities.

Subject: The Great Controversy of '69

Dear Editor,

Elders have always been dissatisfied with the present generation. Their complaints have been the same since the invention of the alphabet. As a result, reports NJEA, old men are called the radicals, and young men are called the revolutionaries. Parents are always predicting that something is going to happen, and there is always something going to happen. This is inevitable. It is only a question of time.

In the meantime, parents should not worry too much about the present generation. It is important to remember that the present generation is never going to be the same as the past generation. It is always going to be different. This is the way of the world.

Student Aid and Counseling Is the Aim of Former Grad Assistants.

By Faye Witcher
Staff Reporter

Gwendolyn Taylor and James Harris are two hard working administrators serving in the Student Personnel Office. Formerly graduate assistants at MSC during 1968-69, the two young people are now involved in academic counseling and student aid services.

Miss Gwendolyn Taylor was born in Pittsburg, Pa. where she also began her elementary education. After high school, Miss Taylor became interested in psychology and set out to aid urban students in the educational phase of their lives.

In 1964, Miss Taylor entered Morgan State College in Maryland, majoring in urban psychology-social city planning and received her B.S. in 1968. Because her scholastic ability paralleled her interest in this field, she was awarded scholarship to Pittsburgh University. However, Miss Taylor felt that she needed some "on the job training." Thus, when the director of MSC's TRY program (a program to provide educational opportunity for potentially promising students) came to Morgan to recruit graduate assistants, Miss Taylor's advisor prompted her to apply and she was accepted.

Mr. James Harris, a native of North Carolina, attended elementary school in that state and then moved to New Jersey where he enrolled in South Side High School, Newark. Here Harris began running track, and cross country for which he received the award, "State Championship Track Team Member."

At age 16, Harris entered Pocono Mountain High School, Newark, where he enrolled in South Side High School, Newark. Here Harris began running track, and cross country for which he received the award, "State Championship Track Team Member."

With little intention of going to college but fortunately some encouragement from his track coach, Jim found a job in the Pocono Mountains paying $200 for the summer. This money and optimism from his parents, enabled Harris to enroll at MSC in 1964.

By graduation in 1968, Harris had won the State Championship in cross-country and had set records which still stand. These accomplishments earned him the "Most Outstanding Athlete" awards from Agora and MSC.

It was during this time that Harris developed an appreciation for the field of education and student problems, and urban programs. He maintained this interest and became one of the primary workers during the institution of the TRY program and was offered a graduate assistantship.

From February-June 1968, he worked in the TRY program while commencing his studies for an M.A. in student personnel services. In the summer of 1969, while working with the Urban Institute Program at MSC, Harris was offered the position of "Associate Director of Students" with primary responsibilities in counseling and student activities in the Student Personnel Office.

"Through my responsibilities as a liaison between the E.O.S.-TRY and the Student Personnel Office, I hope to promote a greater educational opportunity for all students. I feel that it is time for a relevant institution to change for the students rather than have the students change to fit the mold of the institution. I look forward to working with all the students of MSC and possibly solve many of their problems before they become a crisis. Students at a college level, without a doubt, should be innovators and in a constant search for a better society where all individuals are respected for what they are."

'Allice's Restaurant' Is a Marriage
Of Life and Death

Review by
Maurice Moran J. r.
Drama/Screen

If you can get anything at all from "Allice's Restaurant," a film directed by 'Bonnie and Clyde' famed Arthur Penn, it is two hours of frivolity, satire and seriousness.

Based on the bestselling epic monologue by Arlo Guthrie, and starring Arlo Guthrie, it is a fast paced film that is packed with a seriocomic view of life in these United States. Picking up soon after Arlo's 18th birthday and registering for the draft, it follows Arlo's adventures to a midwest college, where his long hair causes quite a stir. He leaves school rather than face the all-American country man and begins a long trek back to Stockbridge, Mass., where there is a white church owned by Ray and Alice Brock.

Remember Allice? She's the subject of the recording that sold 300,000 copies last year. And from the time Arlo returns, she, and her relationship to her husband, her home and her hippie friends, becomes the focal point of the movie.

A MAJOR FILM

Penn, as he has been known to do in the past, has given the film world a major work on the world of the post mortem hippies. In the sickness of drag addiction, in health of peace and love; for the betterment of Ritchie, Arlo's best friend or the turn for the worse of Woody Guthrie, the legendary folk singer of the dustbowl era; for the happiness of a second wedding and for the 'bitchy' husband who is still a child; and death of a movie critic named Shelley, after rejection by his friends.

It is this death that brings the movie to its first climax. Surrounded by snow, his friends drop flowers on Shelley's wooden coffin, while a lone folk singer brings Joni Mitchell's "Songs for Aged Children" to its true meaning.

We have had movies based on plays, based on books, based on short stories and based on other movies. But this film, based on a hit record, takes a place in the movie world as an excellent portrayal of the really beautiful people.
MSC Lettermen Receive National Recognition

9 Outstanding Athletes Named

Special to the Montclarion.

Nine Montclair State College athletes have been selected for inclusion in the 1969 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

MSC athletes listed are Dan Rodgers of Bayonne, and Jerry Waller of Clifton, football; Robert Lester of Newark, basketball; Dan Sullivan of Nutley, tennis; Alan Czaya of Harrison, soccer; Jim Thomas of Newark, track; Richard Schwarz of Morris Plains, gymnastics; Jim Grieco of Brick, fencing. Rick Schwartz of Morris Plains. He also was named most valuable player for three years running in gymnastics. Schwarz was a winner in three different events in the North Atlantic Gymnastic Meet this past year and placed second in a fourth. He finished in third place in all around competition.

The nine athletes were nominated earlier this year by their coaches and were chosen for the publication on the basis of their achievement in athletics and scholastics.

Outstanding College Athletes of America is sponsored by the non-profit Outstanding Americans Foundation. John Putnam, one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America for 1966 and president of the foundation said: "It is the purpose of 'Outstanding College Athletes of America' to recognize and honor the all-round abilities of the young people who have distinguished themselves in the sports competitions of our colleges. These young people carry the mantle of their school, state and nation each time they participate in competitive sports."

Outstanding College athletes of America is an annual biographical compilation featuring in sports, campus activities and curriculum. Nominations for this award publication are made by the athletic department of colleges and universities throughout the country. Criteria for selection includes an athlete's sports achievements, leadership ability, athletic recognition and community service.

Winners Receive MAC Annual Title

Luther Bowen and Rick Schwarz have been named co-winners of the men's athletic commission outstanding senior athlete award of Montclair State College. Both are 1969 graduates of MSC.

The MAC Award, presented this year for the 22nd time, is awarded to a graduating senior for outstanding achievement in athletics, leadership and sportsmanship. The award has been presented to co-winners only one other time in the history of the presentations.

Bowen, a business education major from East Orange, was a four letter winner in basketball. He captained the Indians in his junior and senior years.

The former East High School standout finished his MSC career with a total of 1838 points to take second place in all time scoring. Bowen was a first team selection in the New Jersey State College Conference for three consecutive seasons, as well as a first team pick on the New Jersey Basketball Writers All-Star team for two years.

In 1968-69 Bowen led the Indians to a second consecutive New Jersey State College Conference crown plus the National Collegiate Athletic Association's East Area championship. He was named the most valuable basketball player for three consecutive years. Bowen was named to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference All-Star team and is the second player in his school's history to make the New York Metropolitan College Division All-Star team.

Montclair State, under bowen's leadership, posted the best record in the school's history with a 24-3 record during 1968-69.

Schwarz, a four letter winner in gymnastics, is a biology major from Morris Plains. He was also named most valuable player for three years running in gymnastics. Schwarz was a winner in three different events in the North Atlantic Gymnastic Meet this past year and placed second in a fourth. He finished in third place in all around competition.

The former Parsippany High School star athlete represented Montclair State in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College Division Gymnastic championships at San Fernando Valley State College in California.

During 1968-69 Schwarz captured 24 events during the dual match season and placed second in 12 events. He also had three third place finishes.

Indians Lose Doubleheader
In Fall Baseball Series

JAMACIA, NY – Montclair State College dropped both ends of a doubleheader here Sept. 13, losing to St. John’s, 7-1 and 9-0. The doubleheader is the first fall baseball action in MSC history. St. John’s, playing 34 games this fall, spotted the Indians a run in the second inning of the first game but moved ahead to stay with two tallies in the last of the third.

Coach Jack Kaiser’s team added single runs in the fourth and sixth innings and iced the game with three runs in the fifth.

Tom Neal was the winning pitcher for St. John’s while Ken Inglis was charged with the loss. In the second game, St. John’s got six runs in the first two innings to win going away. Kevin Cooney was charged with the loss for MSC.

The Indians, with only three days of practice, made a total of nine errors in the two games.

Batteries: Inglis was charged with the loss. Pitcher for St. John’s while Ken Inglis was charged with the loss for MSC.

The strong MSC running backs, led by Moorschaub (102 yards in 21 carries), and Tony Valpone (86 yards in 21 triers), piled up a total of 282 yards on the ground and were the key to the victory. Bill Kulikowski and John Gardi, the two Montclair quarterbacks completed 2 of 1 State 0-8 between them, all of them coming at key times in the contest.

The defense, especially the defensive secondary, was particularly outstanding in containing Dukett, a Little All-America who passed for 1811 yards last year. Joe Kostecki, Alvin Middleton, and John Brunell all were spectacular in allowing only 12 completions in 45 attempts. Brunell grabbed off the only interception of the afternoon, killing a Stroudsburg drive into MSC territory.

So, chapter two in the Clary Anderson coaching story has begun with a high note, the way most of chapter one progressed. Only the future will show how this chapter will end. Possibly the team that presented Clary with the game ball for his first collegiate victory will have more victory balls to present before the season is over.

1969 Soccer Season Opens
Against East Stroudsburg

A 14 game schedule marking its debut in the Metropolitan Conference has been announced for Montclair State College’s 1969 varsity soccer team.

In addition to the debut in the Metropolitan Soccer Conference, the Indians will appear twice under the lights during the 1969 season. On Wed., Oct. 8, Montclair State will meet Jersey City State in a New Jersey State College Conference game at John F. Kennedy Stadium in Harrison, while on Tues., Oct. 14, the Indians will play host to Pennsylvania State, in another NSJCC tilt, at Sprague Field under the lights.

The meetings with Adelphi and Long Island University will be the first for those schools in soccer.
