

2015

Pearl Grey River with Blue Blue Boats

Patricia Bender
Rutgers

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/nj-english-journal>

Recommended Citation

Bender, Patricia (2015) "Pearl Grey River with Blue Blue Boats," New Jersey English Journal: Vol. 4, Article 8.

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/nj-english-journal/vol4/iss1/8>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in New Jersey English Journal by an authorized editor of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.

Pearl Grey River with Blue Blue Boats

On this day, passersby on their way to the shops stop on the stone bridges.
Some delay visits to friends
and even forget they need to get to work themselves as they move down onto the river's banks already a-glimmer.

This is the week of an annual graduation celebration and students move along the Vlata River passing through small towns and cities and valley farms.
They float by in their small, bright, blue boats.

*Hello! How are you?
Where are you from?
I'm going to call your parents and tell them you are drunk!*
those on land shout.

The students call back Hello!
and shout their names and the names of their towns.
They laugh because their parents already know they are drunk.

Saturated.
The silvery river washes away constraints,
any slights and all the sorrows of classrooms or workrooms, near and far,
-- so forgotten now.
Dreams and memories merge into this dazzling current of happiness.
And, the glow left behind by the students lingers long after they have drifted away.

Patricia Bender, MALS, is a Research Specialist in the Office of Sponsored Research at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, Newark. Patricia has taught writing at Rutgers, and offered community writing workshops both nationally and internationally for more than 20 years. A National Writing Project consultant, she founded and directed the Rutgers University, Newark Writing Center (1998-2008). Her poetry has appeared in Good Foot, LIPS, the Paterson Literary Review and The Great Falls, An Anthology of Poems about Paterson, New Jersey. She was recently named to the long list in the 2014 Over The Edge New Writer of The Year competition, Galway, Ireland. Some of her academic writing can be found in the Reference Service Review and the International Journal of Learning, among others. The chapter "Observe, Reflect, Act" which she co-wrote appears in Using Qualitative Methods in Action Research, published by the American Library Association.