Constitution Election Begins Tuesday

Legislature Structure, V P Organization
Are Questions
By Don Pendley
News Editor

Student Government Association constitutional changes concerning vice-presidential organization and the number of legislators in the SGA Legislature will be presented to the student body in an election beginning Tues., Dec. 9.

In an emotion-tinged meeting yesterday afternoon, the Student Government Association held a 1 ½-hour discussion on the date of the elections and the wording of the questions.

The MONTCLARION will publish a special issue on Mon., Dec. 8, providing an in-depth examination of the questions to be voted upon in the Tuesday election.

Also on the ballot in the referendum are the student acceptance of the SGA articles of incorporation and questions on the pedestrian mall, Vietnam moratorium and cut policy.

If the changes are made, the current position of vice-president, held by Greg Doucette, will be changed to the position of executive vice-president.

Two new posts will be created. These are:

Vice-president of academic affairs will be responsible for educational reform within the college. He will also coordinate the SGA legislature representatives who are elected as members of the five schools with the college.

Vice-president of external affairs will coordinate all community relations and service programs. He will also be responsible for the coordination of all national, international and statewide SGA affiliations.

The position of executive vice-president will be as it is currently, a position elected by the entire student body in the spring of each year. The vice-president for academic affairs and the vice-president for external affairs will be appointed by the SGA president and subject to two-thirds approval of the SGA legislature.

Included in the bill, in addition to the vice-presidential organization, is a change which would limit the number of representatives to 75 persons. There are currently 38 SGA representatives, although the group has not reorganized to include the departments formed by the creation of the five MSC schools.

Mall Will Open in Emergency Conditions

Montclair State’s pedestrian mall will be left open during emergency campus weather conditions it was disclosed by Mr. Vincent B. Calabrese, vice-president of business and finance.

Calabrese stated that “security will assess the road each day in the event that icy conditions should occur and will open the mall in any emergency conditions.” He added that it is the responsibility of the security force to open the mall.

Calabrese’s announcement came at a meeting of the physics-earth science advisory committee, composed of a group of students who wish the mall to be opened during peak traffic hours on campus.

The committee argued for the opening of the mall pointing out that the road leading from the freshman lot to the lots in front of Partridge Hall is a road hazard during the winter months.

The committee placed the blame for the morning traffic jams near Webster Hall on the mall, and also stated that the traffic behind the library is unsafe to pedestrians.

Calabrese stated that “a few students may be inconvenienced by the pedestrian mall “but that it has become a convenience for the maintenance department whose trucks may enter or leave the mall area quickly and easily.

Suggestion was made for an SGA committee to be formed to review arguments for and against the mall. According to Calabrese, a recommendation from SGA with adequate student support for opening the mall during peak hours would be sufficient cause for opening the mall.
Oneness of Mankind
Is Object of Baha’i

By Maureen Nichols
Staff Reporter

A unified world society, free from prejudice and conflict, is the ideal goal of the Baha’i’s, a relatively modern religion which originated in the 19th century. Miss Jane Milne Caulfield, secretary of the local Spiritual Assembly of Baha’i’s, related in a recent interview, the history and basic concepts of the Baha’i’s World Faith, as well as her reasons for converting to this religion.

Miss Caulfield, a young woman who has been quietly involved in community affairs, seemed very at ease as she described the origin of the Baha’i Faith. She told of how Baha’u’llah, “the Manifestation of God” for our time, founded the faith in Iran in the mid-19th century.

The Modems were opposed to the ideas of this religion and 20,000 early believers were martyred. Baha’u’llah and his close followers were imprisoned until 1863. While in prison, he worked to conform to a Spiritual Assembly which were unaware of the renewal in the Church and its direct relation to the attempt to have religion affect and remedy the ills of society. “Therefore,” he explained, “we have become more vocal in their reluctance to change.

Is there any relevance to society in organized religion according to today’s student? Davis suggested that in many cases students are unaware of the renewal in the Church and its direct relation to the attempt to have religion affect and remedy the ills of society. There are no clergy or ritual in the church with the former traditional catechism training they once received.

In realizing the role of religion in the society, the Rabbi said that it is what is typical of the trend during these changes that college students are emersed in technical training who are so absorbed in this that organized religion takes on a minimal role in his life.

Church’s ‘Change Is Part of Growth’

“Our liturgy is the Mass. It is a celebration of what we are as Christians in Christ. In the Mass, we have Christ giving of himself. These are the ideas that must be conveyed to the people. We hope to convey these ideas better by means of the upcoming changes in May.

In his office at Newhouse House, Rev. Thomas Davis, the Catholic chaplain at Montclair State College, spoke about the changes in the Mass that will affect the Catholic churches. The proposed time for activating these changes is Palm Sunday, April 3, 1970.

At his desk, surrounded by a few posters and notices about current posters and notices about current topics, the priest explained that a song of praise and the Creed, a prayer containing the most important beliefs of Catholics. These are the ideas that must be conveyed to the people. And we hope to convey these ideas better by means of the upcoming changes in May.

Music will also be put to greater use. Davis explained that some of the short prayers such as the Intros, an introductory verse and the offering prayer will be allowed to be replaced by hymns depending upon the desire of each individual community. ‘Investment should be made in people, not buildings,” said Castle.

 According to Schnitzer, many young Jews do not have a depth understanding of their tradition and accordingly find it difficult to relate it to the greater society in which they live.

Judaism is not merely a religion but "a way of life," concluded the Rabbi which "when one follows and sees the relevance to the problems of this century." Religion in our society has become "issue oriented," according to Rev. Robert Castle, Protestant chaplain.

Contemporary society, he suggested, "perhaps more religious than ever before, not institutionally oriented but concerned about real problems and religious issues of peace, justice and equality."

The emphasis on the institutional church comes about because of the people of the contradiction within the church.

At the institutional church, suggested Castle "has talked of change on but has occasion blessed war; has talked of helping the poor but at the same time becomes rich.

"Perhaps the institutional church is dead and perhaps it should die with dignity because it may not be relevant in today’s society," commented Castle.

In conclusion Castle suggested that perhaps spending time to reform the church comes about because of the people of the contradiction within the church.

Students Pleased with Better Food Service

By Michael Traynor

Staff Reporter

Mr. Dale Jefferson, director of dining services at MSC, was given a vote of confidence at a meeting of the food service committee held last Wednesday.

"The food service is better, the services are improving and we are in general agreement that there has been improvement of the food services in the past few weeks," stated Joanne Hodde, SGA secretary and member of SGA food committee.

Jefferson has been to every meeting since the forming of the committee, Miss Hodde said, and she believes that he is making a "sincere attempt" to improve conditions.

On Nov. 17, a letter and a petition was presented to MSC President Thomas H. Richardson listing unsatisfactory conditions. The conditions listed were: "lack of chairs; shortage of tables; paper service in Freeman cafeteria; leaking ceiling; and dirty floors in the kitchen of Life Hall."

A letter in reply by Richardson stated that it is his understanding that action on nearly all of these matters has already been initiated but there will be some delay regarding the floor in the kitchen."

Tonight's Poetry Reading Features Original Works

By Lynn Ciccio

Staff Reporter

A poetry reading of original works will be presented to students this evening at 8:30 p.m. The reading, sponsored by Quarterly (MSC's literary magazine), is to be performed in the fine arts theatre (1-L35).

It will consist of works read by Mr. William Delli, assistant English professor, and six Montclair State students: Ron Micci, Jim Simons, Sue Guatelli, Bill Fellenberg, Robert Monda and Ben Goldberg.

According to Micci, the outgoing Quarterly editor, each of the seven will read aloud some of his own original poems during the program. In addition, chapbooks (small volumes of original writings by Montclair State students) will be given out to all who attend the reading.

"The selection of poems for the reading was largely Micci's responsibility. Since they are all regularly published in Quarterly magazine, the editor has come into contact with their writings often."

In addition to this, Delli has had several of his poems published off-campus. Micci was quick to point out, however, that any poet on campus "who has enthusiasm or interest in poetry" could have been involved in the poetry reading as it was open to all.

"Ron Micci feels that the poetry reading, now in its third year at the college, "has grown into a sort of tradition." He believes that poetry has "become a serious commodity over the last few years," and that it is "definitely flourishing on the campus and in the country." This seems to be true at least on the Montclair State campus, where student interest in the poetry reading has increased over the last two years.

According to Micci, invitations to the poetry reading have been sent out to the English faculty and other individuals. However he pointed out that anyone is welcome to attend the program, as Quarterly hopes for a large turnout of interested students.

Administrators Fired

By Roberta Kuehl

Wayne State College students plan to renew their currently suspended strike today if no administrative action concerning the firing of six members of the student personnel department is taken.

John Alferi Jr., SGA president, called for the strike Nov. 25 following the Board of Trustees' failure to grant student demands.

The strike was suspended last Wednesday pending the outcome of the negotiations. However, a student observer remarked that if the demands were not met, there will be "one hell of a strike, much bigger than the one we had before."

The strike originally began over student demands, including the contract renewals of six members of the student personnel department; suspension of a permanent committee - with student membership - to reorganize the student personnel department; power of the permanent board to recommend to the board of trustees action concerning employment and tenure status of all college personnel, and the composition of such a committee.

In a front-page editorial of the State Beacon, the Beacon Board of Control stated:

"We are sickened, saddened, and outraged by the action taken against Dr. Leo Altshul, school clinical psychologist and advisor to the school paper, The State Beacon. Mrs. Conti, resident hall nurse; Mrs. Gordon, resident hall director and member of the student grievance committee; Dr. Leidie Kenworthy, advisor to the class of 73 and coordinator of off-campus housing; Mr. Ted Tiffany, director of the student center, and Miss Ann Yusuf, advisor to the class of 70. . . . It is strange that in this time of crisis on all college campuses, the only people in any position to deal with students are being let go."

President James Kege Olsen cited several reasons for firing the six personnel.

The action, the rerouting of these people, is a way to enlarge the student personnel department. . . . I am prepared to relate fully and honestly what I have heard from you people today, but I will not change my recommendation."

One involved student sees a future increase of student power emerging from this strike with the possible formation of a committee with four students, faculty and administrators who would decide which personnel get fired "from the President to the janitor."

Instead of taking over buildings, most of the student body has been conducting peaceful demonstrations and stopping classes in session by chanting outside the doors. Glasbren and Trenton State have announced their support and may themselves strike.

At this point SGA is willing to compromise, although most of the student body is not and has changed its request to a demand. The administration has stated that it will negotiate, but will not guarantee rehiring the personnel granting student demands for a committee.
Organized crime in New Jersey has reached alarming proportions. So much so, that according to U. S. Attorney Frederick Lacey, the mob is muscling into every legitimate enterprise in the state.

Lacey, speaking at Seton Hall University the other day, said that "organized crime is taking us over" and added that the buying off of public officials is a common thing in New Jersey.

The mob, Lacey declared, will not take over a community until it has bought its necessary protection from local municipal figures for "a few rotten dollars." "Records were recently subpoenaed in a certain county..." 19-Year-Old Vote

Paterson State College’s striking students have pointed out the not-quite logical thinking that often accompanies administrative changes in college reorganization.

That six members of PSC’s student personnel department have not been rehired, according to President James K. Olsen, led student activists to boycott classes last Tuesday. Olsen’s statement, released at a meeting with concerned students, was followed by his refusal to change his recommendation that the students personnel department members be rehired.

According to Olsen, the non-rehiring of these administrators will pave the way for an enlargement of the PSC student personnel department. However, according to students, these six people are allegedly "the only people in an administrative position to deal with students..." State support has been given as and the chief of detectives committed suicide," Lacey cited.

And the federal attorney went on to say that in some cases the mob and county law officials are "so intertwined as to be indistinguishable."

We hope Gov.-elect William Cahill takes a close look into this horrifying situation. Organized crime is eating away at the governing institutions of New Jersey — and it’s time to clean them up.

And while we’re talking about state affairs, we see that the Voting Age Coalition of Trenton is not giving up too easily. David R. DuPell, coalition president, is now after a... With Deepest Sympathies Glasboro and Trenton state colleges have announced their support of Paterson’s boycott.

We also sympathize with Paterson State students. And, we realize that any expanding institution is bound to face reorganizational changes, just as MSC faces in the step from college to university status. But that change can be painful if, in the process, those administrators most respected by the students are the ones whose services are terminated.

What we recommend is a faculty evaluation board composed of students, administrators and tenured and non-tenured faculty. What’s presently missing in rehiring procedures is the voice of the student.

We’re hoping that Montclair State College administrators will take heed from PSC’s experience and move to eliminate possible student confrontations before they begin. It can happen here.

It’s Really Time to Clean Up

NEW YORK — Radio station WMCA has announced that students attending City University may soon be asked to pay tuition. WMCA radio talk show host, birthday last month was addressed to the open admissions policy announced by CUNY on Nov. 12. In an interview, the station’s president, applauded the move to make higher education available to those students who have either an 80% high school average or are in the top half of their high school class.

QUALITY SYSTEM

Strass stated that the move was "designed to keep the present quality system and to give equal opportunity to students who come from poverty areas or inferior high schools."

Part-two of the editorial, which was aired Nov. 23 and 24, asked who would pay for the additional $35-million cost. The editorial notes that City University has announced plans to name a commission in order to study possible sources of income — the state, the city, the federal government, private contributions or student contributions, or combinations of these.

Tribute to a Decade: 1966 Catholics, Cassius Clay and Batman

686 - The year that was - according to Tom Lehrer, a New York University professor, and tv personality, who poked fun at everything from Catholicism to war during the year.

For example, 1966 was the year that the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional a Connecticut law of 1877 forbidding birth control. The first federal grant to aid a community birth control program was then given to Corpus Christi, Tex., and the first sequential oral contraceptive in the U.S. was approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

In 1966 Catholics found that after hundreds of years they were suddenly allowed under the laws of the church to eat meat on Fridays.

In boxing it was the year that Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali) knocked out Sonny Liston in the first round of a world title fight.

In baseball Casey Stengel was admitted to the Hall of Fame in a ceremony at Coopertown, N.Y. In basketball Wilt the "stilt" Chamberlain won his seventh straight title and was named Player of the Year, while Rick Barry of San Francisco became Rookie of the Year after he scored over 2000 points in one season as a first-year man.

Attorney-author Ralph Nader was making headlines with his new book, "Any Speed" which criticized the automobile industry for being indifferent to safety standards in cars. Later in the year Congress passed the Motor Vehicle Safety Act which, among other things, required that automobile manufacturers notify buyers of any safety defects discovered after the sale of the car.

The U.S. Treasury Department stopped printing $2 bills.

Toward a Transformation

Power! Where is it at? For the last 50 years, the students of Montclair State College have built their education.

We started with a few hundred dollars. We began to develop student interest and educational organizations. Along with developing the many needed areas of learning and participation, we began to exert student opinion. Of course, at first we relied on a few concerned administrators to guide our decisions, plan our ideas, and censor our press. But we have gradually broken down the loco parentis ties.

At present, we distribute and regulate a half-million dollars in aid monies and try to concentrate student spirit and make it available.

Where have "they" been? The faculty has been doing what all good faculty do - teaching. It is quite strange that all these years the faculty have been teaching and the students have been learning, yet they have never run across one another.

BRUISED FEET

The function of the administration has been to play the music and make sure nobody dances too close together for fear of bruised feet.

The beat has changed. We are creating a university - five schools, the faculty and students are being thrown together. Guess whose feet are going to be stepped on? Possibly, the unsanctifying department affiliated student that needs "daddy's" recommendation to make his way in life - no, impossible!

We cannot transform the university until we transform ourselves. We have been learning for the past 50 years outside of the sacred curriculums. "Hey, Professor I. Wantzapper, ask us to help you build." "Don't try to take what is ours and call it yours, unless we are willing to improve it together."

Centralized S GA

Do we need a strong centralized student government? The following is a quote from a student observer during the Columbia incident:

"There were no classes at Columbia today, yet while departments had meetings to discuss the strike, word departments had meetings to discuss the strike. There was a student strike at Columbia in the past! The mark of a transformed university!"

"There has never been an effective student government at Columbia in the past, never been an interest on the part of students in the running of the university in the past! The mark of a transformed university!

"There have been seized by the students of Columbia in the past, never been an interest on the part of students in the running of the university in the past! The mark of a transformed university!"

The SGA is creating a vice-president of academic affairs to function as a liaison between the students and the developing schools. He will provide the communication and protection the students need.

Group Decision on SGA Viet Policy

To the Editor:

As SGA legislators who were present at the meetings discussing the moratorium and drug policies, we'd like to present the true picture to the public. Our "no comment" decision of SGA needs qualification. We, as legislators representing 4500 students on campus, felt we did not have the right to decide upon a moratorium policy because we felt it was a distinctly individual question, not a group decision. We felt, at that time, that we were represented our constituents.

Obviously we thought erroneously. A motion to suspend the rules in order to formulate an SGA Viet Policy was vetoed twice by the legislators. We feel this does show our concern.

For the second time, the tentative drug policy statement was passed out to the legislators in the beginning of the meeting. Action was requested at the same meeting, although we did not have either the time to read or evaluate it. Suggestions were made for the old drug committee to consider; however, we were not asked to take a stand. We were only asked to comment on the tentative policy.

We sincerely hope this clarifies our position. We suggest that interested persons, before attacking our decisions, read the minutes to the meetings. Furthermore, we suggest that those columnist critiquing SGA attend our meetings held every Thursday at 4 p.m. in the studio theatre. We are trying to do our best.

The Readers Return

McGuinness's Books Have Legendarary Popularity

Special to the Montclairian.

William McGuinness's Fifth Eccentric Reader - the most famous textbook of Old School America - has been resurrected for the book stalls. McGuinness's Fifth has always been popular with mature readers, and for good reason. It is not quite suitable for adults than for children.

Readability formulas were unknown during the 19th-century heyday of the McGuinness readers. They have been devised in the last 25 years only after it was proved that whether written material is suitable for the audience at which it is aimed. Readability formulas consistently show that McGuinness readers contain stories and difficulties for the grades in which they were used.

Basic School Books

By the close of the 19th century, 122 million McGuinness readers had been sold, including Spanish and Japanese translations. They became basic school books for children. To keep up with the demand, the original publisher licensed two other printing houses to turn them out.

INTEGRATED," stated Mr. James Harris, academic counselor at Montclair State College and adviser to the Black-White Relations Committee on campus.

"There are some people," he added, "who say that there is no problem, but they are only trying to fool themselves. They have not taken a real hard look at what MSC is doing to try to integrate.

According to Harris the Committee began last year in an attempt to establish some type of meaningful communication between blacks and whites on one level.

"The purpose of the Black-White Relations Committee is to discuss before a group of students, faculty, and other members of the college community the problems that students face and to reach some type of resolution of those problems at these meetings people, both black and white, will become aware of each other's sensitivities.

"The problems of MSC's drug policy are brought to the campus. The student is given the mean that the campus is a closed one. Educational and comfortable community in general, the leaders of the campus are trying to provide more or better educational and comfortable conditions."

When students receive complaints, we address the complaint, she said, "questions concerning drugs."

Environmental Education Aids Pollution, Population Problems

By Louise Palmer

"Environmental education is more than just an outgrowth of conservation, it is the entire economically, psychologically and scientifically-oriented concept of man's relationship to his environment."

Dr. Edward J. Ambry, director of the New Jersey State Council for Environmental Education, believes environmental education is the only solution to the problems of increasing population and decreasing amounts of clean air, land and water.

Ambry has been on a leave of absence from the Montclair State faculty for two years to study the effects of man's tampering with and negligence towards nature. "Man's pollution of the earth is a very serious in reference to the inhabitants of the New Jersey meadows-lands but an Alaskan oil pipeline to the U.S. east coast preventing caribou migration had a more immediate effect. Eskimos depending on the caribou for winter food were wiped out by starvation."

In other areas, land has become cluttered with garbage that the mere disposing of everyday refuse has now become the cause of interstate garbage disputes. Signs along the streets and highways of the Ohio border remind citizens to "Keep Ohio clean, dump your garbage in Michigan."

Ambry asserted that although most dumping areas are buried in soil, decomposing wastes release a noxious gas, poisoning the surrounding air, soil and water. "This forces animal life to either migrate or die, and room for migration is disappearing."

All fish for human consumption inhabit the continental shelves (an area 200 miles off the coastlines). This area is also used for sewage disposal. Sewage seems to be able to beat fish to the water's oxygen supply, leaving the fish to suffocate.

New York City and Newark, like many American cities, contend with the problem of a sewage system intended for one-third of the population it must serve. This means that instead of processing sewage through the proper three-stage method, one-stage seems to be all the cities have time and money for.

"People living in urban areas today don't know what water tastes like," remarked Ambry. "Instead we quench our thirst with a chlorine solution, and our oxygen comes to us decked out in industrial pollutants and automotive carbon monoxide."

"Education of the public is the first step in repairing the damage done to man and nature by man," concluded Ambry. The New Jersey State Council for Environmental Education is determined to do this. A workshop on environmental education will be held Dec. 13-14. Dr. Harry Hoitsma, Panzer gym, and Dr. Lawrence Kenyon room C-306, can be contacted for details.

Choose 9 for EFC All Star Squad

NEW HAVEN, Conn., University of Bridgeport halfback Darrick Warner, the leading rusher and scorer in the Eastern Football Conference, heads the fifth annual EFC All-Star team, selected by a vote of the conference coaches.

Warner is one of only three players to repeat as EFC All-Stars. The other two are defensive end Gerry Agostinucci and linebacker Ken Blasner, both of Central Connecticut.

The offensive line, like the defensive line, does not have a man under 200 pounds. The ends are Frank Magill of Glassboro and Tony Valpone of Montclair. All-Star quarterback tackle, John Dosnour of Bridgeport and Jeff Schetz of Montclair; guards, John Partipiano of Central Conn., and Al Avignone of Montclair, and center Ed Sagallo of Glassboro.

A total of 13 players was named to the defensive team due to a tie in the voting at tackle and linebacker. Mario Harris of Glassboro was a unanimous choice at one tackle and Tom Neary of Bridgeport and Rich Dinamore of Montclair tied for the other spot.

Montclair linebacker Pete Contaldi was a unanimous pick and there was a three-way tie for the other two positions between Blasner, Dan Lautia of Southern Connecticut and Vic Kucinski of Glassboro.

The remainder of the defensive unit includes ends, Agostinucci and Isaac McKie of Montclair; middle guard, Bob Yates of Glassboro and defensive backs Gary Reiter of Glassboro, John Moore of Southern Conn., and Joe Kusteki of Montclair.

Prospects for the 1969-70 women's basketball season look exciting to Miss Catherine Paskert, coach of the Montclair State College team and assistant professor in the Panzer School at MSC.

Sixty girls tried out this year and 25 were selected for the junior varsity and varsity teams, said Miss Paskert. She is pleased with the freshman turnout. Eleven freshmen made the team as well as two men.

"Although we are a young and inexperienced team at this time, these girls have the capability and attitude to execute the style of play we have installed," Miss Paskert stated. She added that the girls are eager to learn and have shown remarkable ability in practice.

Captain of the team, Joan Ficke, a junior physical education major with strawberry-blonde hair and sparkling blue eyes, commented: "With the talent and desire shown so far by the team, and above all, the coaching, we should be close to unstoppable."

The team had a record of 7-3 last year and was only six points from becoming an undefeated season, losing two games by one point and another by four.

Miss Rose Marie Battaglia, instructor at Bergen Community College, assists Miss Paskert in coaching the team.

SPOrT.S OF THE WEEK

New York - Every Monday, the New York University Club houses the New York Sportwriters and Broadcasters Luncheon. Two weeks ago, I had the pleasure of being invited to one of these luncheons.

Accompanied by Athletic Director William Dioguardi and Head Football Coach Clary Anderson, we departed for the NYU Club at about 11:30 Monday morning. Upon arriving at the club, I immediately began to meet many prominent writers and announcers in the field of sports. There were also many collegiate football coaches and players present at the luncheon.

The first man I met was the person I was most impressed with. His name was Stan Lumax. Lumax is a sports announcer for WOR radio. The amazing thing about him though, is that he has been announcing sports for over 40 years.

There were a few other sports announcers at the luncheon, such as Mort Lubow, the voice of Princeton football, and Bob Brown of WIRE radio.

The coaches also proved to be interesting. Larry Nevel of Boston College was there, as was John Bateman of Rutgers and Frank Navarro of Columbia. An interesting part of the luncheon was a phone call to Rick Forzano, coach of the Naval Academy. Forzano was questioned by the press about the Army-Navy game.

Such prominent sportswriters as Gordon White of the New York Times, Jim McDonald of Sports Illustrated, and Hirschen Ninneman, the sports editor of the Associated Press were also there.

The luncheon ended at approximately 2 p.m. The entire day proved to be very interesting and very enjoyable.

Amateurism and Ineligibility in Sports Part III

By Paul Kowalczyk

Sports Editor

This week is the final part of the series on the Eastern Coast Athletic Conference amateurism and ineligibility in sports. The first six rulings have been discussed already. The final 10 points will now be evaluated.

(7) If you accept the promise of pay, in any form, currently or in the future, for participating in athletics. If you accept pay for something that is to occur in the future, your present amateur status should not be affected. If you get paid for playing while at college, by the school itself, you should not be allowed to play because the college should not have the right to bind you to placing for them.

(8) If you have played hockey in a foreign country and fail to provide the director of athletics with a sworn ECAC affidavit on your amateur status.

This ruling has both good and bad points, but due to the fact that it has several legal aspects, I was advised not to discuss this point in the article.

(9) If you participate in Canadian Senior "A" hockey or comparable American or foreign competition.

This competition puts you out of the ranks of amateur and into the category of professional or semi-professional. (10) If you participate in any athletic competition under an assumed name. If an assumed name is used to cover-up for playing in a professional league, you should lose your amateur status. If, after thorough examination, no reason is found as to why the athlete was used as an alias, it should not affect his amateurism.

(11) If you fail to report to the athletic authorities of your college a bribe offer or an approach by gamblers or their representatives.

A moral obligation should make you report such an approach, if you have enough consideration for your college and team. If a bribe goes through, your school will be suspended from participating in the respective sport, but your status as an amateur should not be jeopardized.

(12) If you accept compensation not commensurate with the going wage rate and services performed. That is, if you receive more (or less) pay in comparison to the set rate regarding the services you performed. In my mind, an interpretation of this ruling could not be formulated.

(13) If you accept compensation for instruction in physical education class in which you teach sports techniques.

(14) If you accept compensation on a fee-for-lesson basis. The discussion of these two rulings by the conference is of the same nature as the points presented for ruling number two, accepting a gift or payment for playing, officiating, coaching, or teaching in any sport. (See issue 13, Nov. 19)

(15) If you accept an award other than designated under ECAC provisions. This ruling seems to have no real necessity in the rulings on amateurism. The receiving of an award sponsored by a group not designated by the ECAC shouldn’t affect a player’s ability or status.

(16) If you accept remuneration for an appearance on radio or television, it is related in any way to your athletic ability. This ruling can once again be seen discussed in ruling number two of the first part in this commentary.

Sports commentary has now completed its three part evaluation of the ECAC amateurism-ineligibility rulings in college sports.
