TRENTON — If all goes off as planned, the State Senate will pass a bill Monday requiring New Jerseyites to pay a 5% sales tax by March 1. This tax hike from 3 to 5% was recommended by Gov. William T. Cahill to meet a deficit of nearly $400 million in the 1970-71 budget.

While the tax boost will almost certainly plug up the financial holes in the state budget, observers are predicting that as much as $50 million in surplus revenues could result during the current fiscal year.

An aide to the governor told the MONTCLARION that once the deficit in the budget is "cleared away," the state could proceed to give aid to higher educational institutions in New Jersey.

Earl V. Monmouth, State Sen. Harry L. Sears (R— Morris) speculated at the New Jersey Press Association conference in Atlantic City that "steps could be taken" to increase state aid to four-year and community colleges after "deficit problems are settled."

Meanwhile, the governor's aide said that Cahill will be preparing an official statement regarding the tax hike and its effect upon the state's educational institutions "in the near future." "Nothing has been officially finalized as yet," the spokesman said.

Last Monday, the state Assembly passed Cahill's proposal to increase the sales tax, 48-28. All 48 of those who voted for the 2% boost were Republicans, but eight Republicans joined the 20 Democrats to vote no.

Senate Majority Leader Harry L. Sears told reporters that he is confident of getting enough Senators for the sales tax bill on Monday.

RICHARDSON SEES NEED FOR INCOME TAX

Since Cahill has stated that he will use the 5% sales tax to make up budget deficits, NISC President Thomas H. Richardson told the MONTCLARION, "I am of the firm belief that some tax must be developed, probably an income tax, before New Jersey can adequately fund education. New Jersey is still on the bottom of the scale in supporting education. I do hope that if a tax basis is formed, there will be a firmer commitment to higher education than was made in the three percent sales tax."

Richardson made the statement at his College Hall office yesterday.

KATHY MOON: An Expanded World

By Sharon Wonebo

Montvale, N.J. — Mrs. Kathy Moon Baldwin, 1963 co-founder of the Montclairion, confessed she is not as idealistic now as when she attended M.S.C. "My view of the world has expanded greatly," she explained, "especially since my marriage." Mrs. Baldwin wed Marine Staff Sgt. Robert Moon who is stationed in Washington, D.C. in December 1969.

This her husband is only home on weekends. Mrs. Baldwin keeps busy inspiring her math classes at Pascack High School. She joined Montvale with the desire to learn. "I love to teach; I wouldn’t do anything else. I teach each of myself into what I am teaching, with the hope that my students will feel my enthusiasm and love of knowledge," she related sitting in her apartment kitchen over a couple of cokes.

Mrs. Baldwin left M.S.C. and the Montclairion behind eight years ago to begin her teaching career, her memories have remained with her. She spoke very highly of Mr. (now Dr. I) Morris McGee, English professor and former advisor to the newspaper. "I remember the many times I went to him feeling what the world was at an end; the front page story didn’t come thru; the pictures were blurry. But Mr. McGee would just smile and say ‘The good guys always win,’ and I would wonder why I was worried.”

Mrs. Baldwin remembers the Montclairion as "something different" and the conversations in the office "very stimulating." In 1968, she was editor of the school paper and arriving at the MSC campus, the first thing I did was seek out the Montclairion office."

Asked if anyone at M.S.C. influenced her in any way Mrs. Baldwin mentioned Dr. Marie Kuhnen Professor of Biology and Dr. Robert Williams. "They love what they teach, and no one could have made me feel it was my duty to always come prepared to their classes. They made me realize that the more important thing in teaching is to have a great love of the subject matter."

At M.S.C., Mrs. Baldwin said she enjoyed all her classes, regardless of the amount of work required. "I found it challenging,” she recalls. “I love to learn no matter what the subject.” She also said that she found a great majority of the education courses useless. "There is too much emphasis on textbook learning."

Mrs. Baldwin’s feelings about MSC are encouraging. "As far as I’m concerned MSC is the best school for teacher-education. I really liked my four years there. But no matter how good the school is, you only get out of it what you put in.”

Women Set Male Visit Dorm Policy

By Helene Zuckerbrod

City Editor

A self-limiting hour system and an experimental male visitation policy will take effect in the women’s residence halls Fri., Feb. 6.

Affecting freshman and upperclassmen, the new policy will continue to close at 2 a.m., residents returning after that time will be required to go to Grace Freeman Hall where they will wait for a security guard to escort them to the respective dormitories. Residents returning before 7 a.m. will also sign in with the security guard in addition to signing in at the desk of their dormitories.

Times for male visitation will be as follows: Fri., 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.; Saturday, noon to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.; and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m. Residents will meet their guests at the desk and sign them in. They will then proceed directly to the resident’s room where they will remain for the duration of the guest’s visit. Men will not be allowed out in the halls alone. Red tags on the door knobs will signify the presence of a male guest. Fifteen and five minutes before the end of visitation, the floors — with the exception of Chapin Hall — will be closed to all students via the intercom by the desk girl.

David Frye, well-known comedian and mimic and Rhinoceros, a popular rock group will headline Winter Weekend festivities Sat., Feb. 7. Also featured will be a group called Ing, in Panzer gym at 8 p.m.

Frye, best known for his impressions of political figures, especially Nixon and Johnson, has also received acclaim for his impersonations of William F. Buckley, Marlon Brando and other celebrities. He has appeared throughout the U.S. and on the Ed Sullivan Show.

Billed as a “supergroup — more a show than a band,” the seven musicians of Rhinoceros include John Finley, vocals; Mike Foxfanda, organ; Alan Gerber, vocal and piano; Doug Hastings and Danny Weiss, guitars; Billy Mundi, drums; Jerry Perrold, bass. The group was formed a few years ago by Paul Rochschild of Elektra records. Admission for students is $2.50 and $4 for all others.

Winter Weekend activities will begin with “Last Summer,” a two-hour film which will be shown twice on Fri., Feb. 6. Shows will be at 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. in Memorial auditorium.

A special dinner on Sat., Feb. 7 will be served at 4:30 in Life Hall cafe and may be taken to the dorms. A variety of themes, including “Artists at Work” by Henry G. Buckley, Marlon Brando and John Finley, will be served at 4:30 in Life Hall cafe and may be taken to the dorms. Admission is free.

The Montclair State College gymnastics team continued on the winning side by defeating City College of New York by a score of 122.70 to 91.60. It was Montclair's sixth straight win in seven meets, their only defeat coming at the hands of Southern Connecticut State, the number one team in the nation.

Rich Kroon, a freshman from East Brunswick, scored two firsts in the meet. In floor exercise, Kroon scored 7.75 in long horse, winning side by defeating City College of New York by a score of 122.70 to 91.60. It was Montclair's sixth straight win in seven starts, as the team swept both games played the year, and last year Monmouth lost to Montclair. Montclair won the Kiwanis but lost to Rutgers-Newark. Rutgers entered the contest with a 7-0 record, but came out at the short end of a 15-12 score. Montclair dominated in both foil and saber divisions of the match, winning both events by a score of 6-3. Montclair lost in a close, rough game.
