HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Give one loud bark and say "Happy New Year!" in Mandarin tomorrow, for it's the Chinese New Year. This Year of the Dog, like all other years of the dog, is the 11th in the 12-year cycle by which the Chinese label their years. These are in order: The years of the Mouse, Bull, Tiger, Rabbit, Dragon, Horse, Sheep, Monkey, Rooster, Dog and Pig.

In New York, pet shop owners are reporting increased sales of all types of dogs, especially those of the Chinese variety, such as the Pekinese, chow chow, Shih Tzu, pug and the Cinese.

More than a desire to be fashionable was behind those sales, says one New York pet shop owner. The Chinese dogs, whether in China or in New York, make good watchdogs and are used to protect against burglars during crime waves in New York City. For centuries in China, a large dog, such as the chow chow, patrolled outside the homes, while a small dog, such as the Shih Tzu, kept the peace within the home.

FIRST NEGRO DEAN APPOINTED AT JERSEY CITY

JERSEY CITY — The first Negro dean of a New Jersey state college has been appointed at Jersey City State College (JSCC). Julian K. Robinson, an unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Jersey City last year, has been named dean of students at JSCC.

Robinson was a member of the JSCC board of trustees before accepting the $18,500 post as dean. He announced that he would withdraw from politics during his term to avoid any conflict of interest.

A former director of the Department of Health and Welfare, Robinson received his BA in history in 1956 from Dartmouth, and his MA from the New York University School of Education in guidance and personnel services in 1959. He was previously vice-president of the National Scholarship Services and Fund for Negro Students and deputy commissioner of revenue and finance for Jersey City.

TIRED OF POOR FOOD, SGA BUYS CAF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal City College students got tired of what they considered poor food service at the college's cafeteria. So they bought it.

The Student Government Association (SGA) sponsored a cabaret and car raffle in December and used the funds to buy the cafeteria from the Servamation Co. Student-operated food service began Jan. 12.

While Servamation continues to operate vending machines in the cafeteria, the SGA has hired a staff to prepare all hot and fresh foods. And the prices have been reduced.

Operating as a nonprofit corporation, the SGA also runs a campus barker shop, and plans to open a student-run snack bar.

CURFEW RETURNS FOR WISCONSIN COEDS

MADISON, Wisconsin (AP) — While many schools have been abandoning women's curfew hours (most recently the University of Iowa), the state board of regents of the University of Wisconsin has voted to reinstate women's curfew hours for freshmen. The ruling takes effect in September.

At the same time, the University of Iowa regents have liberalized Visitation policies at Iowa, and the state board of regents of the University of Wisconsin is expected to liberalize curfew hours for freshman.

The measure which was opposed by the university administration, with midnight curfews on weekend nights and 2 a.m. curfews on weekdays. The reason for the move, according to one regent, is that many students are "immature" and "need guidance."

The Wisconsin Students Association is taking the matter to court, charging the rule discriminates against women and that the regents are not authorized to make rules governing social conduct.

At the same time, the University of Iowa regents have dropped women's hours for all students beginning spring semester. A freshman with parental permission may choose to live in a residence hall with restricted hours.

Violent crime policies at Iowa were also liberalized by the regents for individual housing units set policy. Also at Wisconsin, the regents have passed a ruling banning the use of bullhorns and other methods of electronic amplification at political events, but allowing the continued use of such equipment at campus carnivals and homecoming. Several students are contesting the constitutionality of the ruling in federal court.

TRENTON — If all goes off as planned, the State Senate will pass a bill Monday requiring New Jersey to pay a 5% sales tax by March 1. This tax hike from 3 to 5% was recommended by Gov. William T. Cahill to meet a deficit of nearly $400 million in the 1970-71 budget.

While the tax boost will almost certainly plug up the financial holes in the state budget, observers are predicting that as much as $50 million in surplus revenues could result during the current fiscal year.

An aide to the governor told the MONTCLARION that once the deficit in the budget is "cleared away," the state could proceed to give tax breaks to higher education institutions in New Jersey.

Earl L. Sears (R-Morris) speculated at the New Jersey Press Association conference in Atlantic City that "steps could be taken" to increase state aid to four-year and community colleges after "deficit problems are settled."

Meanwhile, the governor's aide said that Cahill will be preparing an official statement regarding the tax hike and its effect upon the state's educational institutions "in the near future." "Nothing has been officially finalized as yet," the spokesman said.

Last Monday, the state Assembly passed Cahill's proposal to increase the sales tax, 48-28. All 48 of those who voted for the 2% boost were Republicans, but eight Republicans joined the 20 Democrats to vote no.

Senate Majority Leader Harry L. Sears told reporters that he is confident of getting enough Senate support for the sales tax bill on Monday.

RICHARDSON SEES NEED FOR INCOME TAX

Since Cahill has stated that he will use the 5% sales tax to make up budget deficits, NISC President Thomas H. Richardson told the MONTCLARION, "I am of the firm belief that some tax must be developed, probably an income tax, before New Jersey can adequately fund education. New Jersey is still on the bottom of the scale in supporting education. I do hope that if a tax basis is formed, there will be a firmer commitment to higher education than was made in the three percent sales tax."

Richardson made the statement at his College Hall office yesterday.

Kathy Moon: an Expanded World

Kathy Moon

By Sharon Wonocho

Staff Reporter

MONTVALE, N.J. - Mrs. Kathy Moon Baldwin, 1963 editor of The MONTCLARION, confessed she is not as idealistic now as when she attended MSC.

"My view of the world has expanded greatly," she explained, "especially since my marriage." Mrs. Baldwin wedd Marine Staff Sgt. Robert Moon who is stationed in Washington, D.C. in December 1969.

This her husband is only home on weekends, Mrs. Baldwin keeps busy inspiring her math classes at Paseack Hall High School in Montvale with the desire to learn.

"I love to teach; I wouldn't do anything else. I teach much of myself into what I am teaching, with the hope that my students will feel my enthusiasm and love of knowledge," she related sitting in her apartment kitchen over a couple of cokes.

Altho Mrs. Baldwin left MSC and the MONTCLARION behind eight years ago to begin her teaching career, her memories have remained with her. She spoke very highly of Mr. (now Dr. I Morris McGee, English professor and former advisor to the newspaper. "I remember the many times I went to the building where the world was at an end; the front page story didn't come thru; the pictures were blurry. But Mr. McGee would just smile and say "The good guys always win," and I would wonder why I was worried." Mrs. Baldwin remembers the MONTCLARION office as "something different" and the conversations in the office "very stimulating." In 1963, Mrs. Baldwin was editor of the school paper and arriving at the MSC campus, the first thing I did was seek out the MONTCLARION office."

Asked if anyone at MSC influenced her in any way Mrs. Baldwin mentioned Dr. Marie Kuhnen Professor of Biology and Dr. Robert Williams "They love what they teach, so much that I felt it was my duty to always come prepared to their classes. They made me realize that the important thing in teaching is to have a great love of the subject matter."

At MSC, Mrs. Baldwin said she enjoyed all her classes, regardless of the amount of work required. "I found it challenging," she recalls. "I love to learn no matter what the subject." She also said that she found a great majority of the education courses useless. "There is too much emphasis on text-book learning."

Mrs. Baldwin's feelings about MSC are encouraging. "As far as I'm concerned MSC is the best school for teacher-education. I really liked my four years there. But no matter how good the school is, you only get out of it what you put in."

Women Set Male Visit Dorm Policy

By Helen Zuckezer

City Editor

A self-limiting hour system and an experimental male visitation policy will take effect in the women's residence halls Fri., Feb. 6.

Affecting freshman and upperclassmen, the new Friday and Saturday nite curfew will allow residents to sign out until 10:30 a.m. the next morning. However, parental permission is required for participation in the new system. Those without it will follow the regular curfew of 2 a.m.

Male visitation will exist on an experimental basis for four weekends. At the end of this period, suggested revisions will be reviewed pending possible adoption for the rest of the semester.

Because the dorms will continue to close at 2 a.m., residents returning after that time will be required to go to Grace Freeman Hall where they will wait for a security guard to escort them to their respective dormitories. Residents returning before 7 a.m. will also sign in with the security guard in addition to signing in at the desk of their dormitories.

Times for male visitation will be as follows: Friday, 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.; Saturday, noon to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.; and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m. Residents will meet their guests at the desk and sign them in. They will then proceed directly to the resident's room where they will remain for the duration of the guest's visit. Men will not be allowed out in the halls alone. Red tags on the door knobs will signify the presence of a male guest. Fifteen and five minutes before the end of visitation, the floors – with the exception of Chapin Hall – will be locked via the intercom by the desk girl.
MSC SYMPHONY SETS BEETHOVEN CONCERT

The State Symphony Orchestra will commemorate the 200th anniversary of Beethoven's birth by playing his First Symphony at its concert on Thurs., Feb. 12, at 8:30 p.m. in Memorial auditorium.

In addition to the tribute to Beethoven, the program for the Feb. 12 concert includes Alban Berg's "Sieben Friue Lieder," Richard Mory's "Total 1969," and Charles Ives' Symphony No. 3, "The Camp Meeting." The 42-member State Symphony Orchestra was established last fall as a professional little symphony in residence at Montclair State. It is financed in part by state funds and in part thru the college's Music Performance Trust Fund of the recording industries. The February concert is the third in a series of four being offered at the college during the current season. It is open to the public free of charge.

STUDENT PHOTOS

The first showing of a collection of photographs of "Artists at Work" by Henry G. Bookstaber will be presented in the foyer of Spague library, Montclair State College, now thru Feb. 23. Bookstaber, who is supervisor of art for the Ridgewood schools, took a half-year sabbatical to develop "exciting visual material of art for the Ridgewood schools," an area which, in his opinion, is lacking in such material. He took the photographs to help fill this need, doing the work in connection with graduate study at Montclair State under Dr. Charles Martens.

AT LIFE HALL LOBBY

A variety of themes, including "The Plastic People," "Anachronism of Affluence," and "The Ugly Beauty of Humanity," are exemplified in an exhibition of student photography currently on view in the Life Hall lobby and the corridors of the Calcia Visual Arts center. The photographs are the work of 26 students in classes taught by Dr. Charles Martens.

THEM OFF TO DENMARK

Six Montclair State College students left from Kennedy Airport Feb. 2 for a semester of study in Copenhagen, Denmark. The six will join a group of students from other New Jersey State colleges for the study abroad program.

The MSC contingent includes Robert Chabora of Clifton, a junior music major; Helen Connell of Montclair, a junior English major; Karen Connell of Wayne, a sophomore English major; David Hardgrove of Somerville, a junior social science major; Susan Kempson of Middletown, also a junior social science major; and Linda Mirabella of Newark, a sophomore music major.

TRENTON — Students interested in working directly with the problems of state and local government will have that opportunity this summer. An 11-week program from June 15 thru Aug. 28 will offer fulltime professional jobs in municipal, county and state offices, anti-poverty and Model Cities programs and in some public-oriented private agencies.

"We particularly hope to attract promising students with a career interest in public service," said Gregory Nagy, coordinator of the program. The positions will include administrative aides to mayors, research assistants and community workers.

This will be the fourth consecutive year the intern program has been conducted. Students regularly enrolled as undergraduates or graduates at accredited colleges or universities are eligible to apply at the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs.

Cagers Bounce Back

By Mike Galos
Staff Reporter

"Now we'll see what kind of a team we really have . . . we'll see how we bounce back from a loss . . ."

These were the words of Montclair State College Basketball Coach Ollie Gelston following the Indians' initial loss of the season to Newark State.

Judging from the performances of the Indian cagers in their last two starts, both victories, they have bounced back. But, the real test to determine whether or not the 1969-70 court squad is truly outstanding will come next week.

On Monday night MSC travels to Rutherford to meet a strong Fairleigh Dickinson team, boasting the fourth best defense in the NCAA University Division. On Wednesday, the Lions of Trenton State play host to the Indians in what always proves to be a close, rugged contest.

When Montclair returns home Saturday night to host Glassboro State, fans will know whether or not their Indians are really No. 1.

Last Saturday, a highly rated Southern Connecticut quintet was virtually blown off the court by the rejuvenated Montclair State fast-breaking attack 86-60. With Bob Sienkiewicz, looking completely recovered from his ankle injury, and Tod McDougald making his return from pneumonia, the Indians were almost back to full strength. Only Bruce Davis, with an ankle sprain, remained on the injury list.

Team captain Sienkiewicz led the scoring with 19 points, while Harry James, Phil Baccarella, and Russ Moss made their usual fine performances in a foul-filled contest.

Most of the personal fouls were called against the visitors, as four of the Owl's five starters fouled out of the game, while the other first string, finished with four personal fouls in all. The Indians went to the charity-stripe 47 times converting 35.

The annual Montclair State-Monmouth battle was held on Tuesday night, and for the first time in the last three years, one team swept both games played between the two quintets. The Indians capped the finals of the Kiwanis classic from the Hawks, then won Tuesday in a 67-61 squeaker to make it a clean sweep in the season's opening game.

In 1967, Montclair won the Kiwanis but lost to the Hawks later in the season. In 1968, Montclair lost to Monmouth in both contests, winning the latter by a 7-0 record, but losing the season in epee by a score of 23-4. Against FDU, Bruce Kinter and Todd Boepple won all their bouts without having a touch scored against them.

The Indians swept all three events in their match against FDU, who now has (1-3) record, for decisive margins. In saber, Fairleigh forfeited all nine bouts, giving Montclair State a 9-0 edge. In foil and epee the Indians won 7-2.

Ken Zurich led the winners' foil team with a mark of 3-0. Boepple, making his first start of the season in epee, was also 3-0.

Two days prior to the Fairleigh Dickinson match, the MSC fencing squad hosted Rutgers-Newark. Rutgers entered the contest with a 7-0 record, but came out on the short end of a 15-12 score.

Montclair dominated in both foil and saber divisions of the match, winning both events by a score of 6-3. Montclair lost in epee by a score of 3-6.

Tomorrow, the Montclair State College fencing squad, sporting a record of eight wins against no defeats, returns to action in a key match with the United States Military Academy (5-2). The match is at West Point.
