And They Didn't Roar... Scores of students sit silently listening to strikers tear apart America's foreign policy.

WHAT STRIKE?
Richardson: MSC Never Had One

Find College High
Parents Still Hot
Over '73 'Phase Out'

They're Retiring
After Long
Service to Campus
Colleges Prolong Nationwide Strike Till Term Ends

Special to the Montclairion.

266 colleges and universities have decided to continue their strikes until the end of the academic term, and many others of the 450 schools that struck last week are considering extending their boycott on business as usual.

The strike has spread to high schools. 167 high schools are on strike with another 30 voting on strikes. In Oregon, the Board of Education voted unanimously to cancel the rest of the academic term and to keep the university open only for athletic activities. At the University of California at Irvine, the administration has announced that students can drop present courses and receive credit for strike and antisystem work thru free university courses.

New campuses continue to add their names to the list on strike, although the pace has slowed since before the weekend. Sweetbriar College students in Virginia voted 517 to 198 to strike, despite the campus administration's position against it.

Violence continues on some campuses. At Marquette and Virginia Polytechnic Institute there was scattered violence and fire bombings. At Colorado State University, the weekend burning of the old main building causes $500,000 worth of damage.

10,000 rallied in Berkeley where student body President Dick Siegel and Thomas Hayden of the "Chicago Eight" called for a "Continental Congress July 4." While Gov. Ronald Reagan has reportedly at least 50% effective of new dormitories as well as a $5-million student union.

OST KEY BILL BANNING ROCK FESTS

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) - Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller approved a bill that could practically ban mass gatherings such as the Woodstock Music and Arts Festival at White Lake last August.

The bill, approved without comment, would require a state Health Department license for all festivals attracting more than 5000 persons.

Atomic Energy Commission, and Salvador Luria, the noted geneticist, will receive honorary doctors of law and science, respectively.

Gillespie will be awarded an honorary doctor of music degree and Cahill an honorary doctor of laws.

Calabrese stated that the seminars and present status of MSC "has had no effect on all on next year's budget." He explained that if academic plans were to change, then fiscal plans would also have to change (within budgetary limitations). The only effect the situation has had on business and finance is that "some security and maintenance men have worked some overtime," Calabrese said.

Instead of his regular duties, McDowell stated that his work is now involved in adjusting grievances of students and faculty. "We are moving towards student involvement here at MSC and all over the country," McDowell commented. He went on to say that in time there will be more and more seminar-type classes. "I believe that students should have a say, but not full control of the educational process," McDowell said.
Impressions of Montclair State

They want to radicalize the place.

A few laughed. There was nothing to worry about. Quiet middle-class Montclair State with its 2400 college students was always isolated from the big schools, especially when it came to violence. They blamed it on the conservative elements of the campus. Others said that most folks at MSC are so wrapped up in themselves that no one really gives a damn about anything.

Like the time they were talking about starting the college demonstration line open to them beyond the current state of campus demonstrations to the SDFS.

The governor, during a meeting with 58 New Jersey college presidents and administrators Tuesday, pledged to bring New Jersey's college youth into the political system, and to keep them there.

He took the occasion to criticize Vice-President Agnew's remarks that some college demonstrators are on a "spring lark," saying that those comments did not accurately characterize New Jersey students.

Cahill, a Republican, said: "I don't interpret the activities of the students of my state as being accurately described by the vice-president in his remarks."

Minority Problem Seen

Housing Picture Bleak

This is the final edition of the MONTCLARION for this semester. We look forward to serving you with complete news coverage and a brighter format in September. Have a good vacation.

By Helene Zuckerbrod

Staff Writer

TRENTON — The State Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) is going into "fact finding" following an impasse in salary negotiations for faculties of New Jersey's six state colleges, according to Dr. Joseph Murphy, vice-chancellor of higher education.

Charging that the talks had become "nongovernment," the Association of New Jersey State College Faculty (ANJSCF), the teachers' bargaining agent, asked state mediators to step in.

A list of names will be submitted to the two parties involved and names will be "scratched" until the final membership of the fact-finding team are agreed upon, explained Murphy. They will then proceed to "find facts," he added.

The ANJSCF also charged that the state was refusing to negotiate; in good faith and was refusing arbitration on salaries.

Negotiations for salaries for 1971-72 for New Jersey's college teachers have been continuing since a threatened strike was averted last February when PERC's appointment of a mediator was coupled with an agreement to continue negotiations until the discovery of a "mutually-agreeable" proposal with the state.

By Robert Sater

TRENTON (UPI) — Gov. William T. Cahill plans a series of regional meetings for college students next fall to keep them abreast of the local college situation line open to them beyond the current state of campus demonstrations.

The mood was different from last February's teacher talks in Trenton.

CASTLES IN THE SAND: Carnival's castles crumbled at threats of violence caused cancellation of the annual MSC fun fest, scheduled for May 8 and 9. In the opinion of Dean Lawrence C. Blanton, "Carnival shouldn't have been closed." See story of page 2.

Minority Problem Seen

Housing Picture Bleak

The 1000-student increase is planned for MSC next year, no increase in housing facilities is seen.

Mrs. Lois Redd, women's housing director, said that a big drive is on for increased off-campus housing. Lack of space in the MSC dormitories is one reason for the drive. Another is that "the picture in housing has shifted across the country from requests for on-campus housing to requests for off-campus housing. Students are becoming more responsible and more independent," said Mrs. Redd.

But many students may have problems getting off-campus housing, says Stone Hall director Michael F.X. Grieço, English assistant professor. Grieço sees racial and age barriers to many students. "A lot of people do not want certain minority groups in their homes, so many students have particular problems in this area. Also, some older people do not realize what it is to have the newer generation around, with their music and guitars, and find it difficult to adjust to this youthful activity."

"To be fair to freshmen and transfers, we want them to know the housing situation. Letters have been sent to all new students who

Minority Problem Seen

Housing Picture Bleak

Housing Picture Bleak

Thea 1000-student increase is planned for MSC next year, no increase in housing facilities is seen.

Mrs. Lois Redd, women's housing director, said that a big drive is on for increased off-campus housing. Lack of space in the MSC dormitories is one reason for the drive. Another is that "the picture in housing has shifted across the country from requests for on-campus housing to requests for off-campus housing. Students are becoming more responsible and more independent," said Mrs. Redd.

But many students may have problems getting off-campus housing, says Stone Hall director Michael F.X. Grieço, English assistant professor. Grieço sees racial and age barriers to many students. "A lot of people do not want certain minority groups in their homes, so many students have particular problems in this area. Also, some older people do not realize what it is to have the newer generation around, with their music and guitars, and find it difficult to adjust to this youthful activity."

"To be fair to freshmen and transfers, we want them to know the housing situation. Letters have been sent to all new students who

Minority Problem Seen

Housing Picture Bleak

Thea 1000-student increase is planned for MSC next year, no increase in housing facilities is seen.

Mrs. Lois Redd, women's housing director, said that a big drive is on for increased off-campus housing. Lack of space in the MSC dormitories is one reason for the drive. Another is that "the picture in housing has shifted across the country from requests for on-campus housing to requests for off-campus housing. Students are becoming more responsible and more independent," said Mrs. Redd.

But many students may have problems getting off-campus housing, says Stone Hall director Michael F.X. Grieço, English assistant professor. Grieço sees racial and age barriers to many students. "A lot of people do not want certain minority groups in their homes, so many students have particular problems in this area. Also, some older people do not realize what it is to have the newer generation around, with their music and guitars, and find it difficult to adjust to this youthful activity."

"To be fair to freshmen and transfers, we want them to know the housing situation. Letters have been sent to all new students who

Minority Problem Seen

Housing Picture Bleak

Thea 1000-student increase is planned for MSC next year, no increase in housing facilities is seen.

Mrs. Lois Redd, women's housing director, said that a big drive is on for increased off-campus housing. Lack of space in the MSC dormitories is one reason for the drive. Another is that "the picture in housing has shifted across the country from requests for on-campus housing to requests for off-campus housing. Students are becoming more responsible and more independent," said Mrs. Redd.

But many students may have problems getting off-campus housing, says Stone Hall director Michael F.X. Grieço, English assistant professor. Grieço sees racial and age barriers to many students. "A lot of people do not want certain minority groups in their homes, so many students have particular problems in this area. Also, some older people do not realize what it is to have the newer generation around, with their music and guitars, and find it difficult to adjust to this youthful activity."

"To be fair to freshmen and transfers, we want them to know the housing situation. Letters have been sent to all new students who Washington: A two-year study comparing the rates of college attendance of black and white high-school graduates in five U.S. cities has concluded that "terrible, unjust and unwarranted." He said: "In view of the fact that colleges in New York are in the process of establishing demonstration high schools right now, it is step backward in a progressive education."

Richardson spearheaded the movement to shut College High because of mounting costs that could not be met by Montclair State. He has met with Berkeley and other spokesman to set a phase-out date before making a final decision.

Dr. Anne Castens, education professor and College High director, stated that "the action taken is final." she said the main concern of CHS's administration now is keeping up the morale of their students in the final months of their school's existence and to provide an adequate program during the phase-out period.

Berkeley saw the closing as a handicap to progressive teaching, since "one can't learn to be a teacher by being dumped into a school to teach after three and a half-years of school with no actual experience in class control."

Demonstration schools on other state college campuses have also been closed. Paterson State's school was closed in June 1968. Luckily State's school will be closed next month.

A bill was introduced into the state Legislature last spring which would permit the reopening of the demonstration schools. The legislation reconvened. The future of College High looks bleak. Stated Castens: "I have heard of no plans leaning towards the reinstatement of a demonstration high school on the MSC campus."

Bellagamba spoke highly of the educational program here at MSC. "The preparation of teachers is not isolated in one area here," he remarked. "The preparation of teachers is a college's responsibility."

Bellagamba: Not Many Undergrads.

Bellagamba continued that persons applying for admission to the School of Education are all graduate students. They are admitted, he said, on the basis of a minimum Graduate Record Examination score of 400 each on the verbal and mathematical sections, and a minimum undergraduate average of 2.67. However, with the department's reorganization as a school, each department may eventually evolve its own admission requirements.
The Men that Shaped Montclair Are Leaving Us

Harold C. Bohn:
The Teacher's Teacher

By Helene Zuckerbrod

Staff Writer

Three "miracles" laid firm foundations for Montclair State College, according to Dr. Harold C. Bohn, English department chairman, who is retiring at the end of the summer session.

"First," explained the professor, "was the man recruited as president had firm convictions about education; the teacher should not only be professionally prepared but should also have a firm grasp of subject matter."

The second miracle was that the college was able to implement his ideas thru "a gifted and unusual faculty that was recruited almost overnight, he continued. "Not more than a half-dozen of the normal school teachers were considered qualified," he added.

"Recruitment of a student body" was the third miracle.

"They were not only well-endowed academically but were also committed to the experiment of the college."

Bohn was one of 12 faculty members recruited in 1929, which, according to him, was a large number at that time. He received his BA from Hamilton College, his MA from Harvard University and his EdD from Columbia University.

Back in his chair, the spectated professor said: "The college has made a tremendous transition from a single-purpose institution to a multipurpose institution which has catapulted it into an entirely new situation. A vast number of hours of labor went into its creation and a vast number of moves had to be made on a fairly large scale."

Bohn, a Shakespearean scholar, has taught on all levels of education since his arrival here - at College High School and undergraduate and graduate classes.

"Teaching is an art and cannot be reduced to a formula," commented Bohn. "No course can teach you how to make a speech so that students react. "It has been my experience that they respond well to subject matter presented with conviction.""

The Wisdom of Edgar Bye

By D. M. Levine

Staff Writer

A colleague of retiring political science professor Edgar C. Bye recently remarked: "Edgar is the stupidest man at Montclair State."

Dr. Morris McGee, English professor, is the person attributed to the statement which apparently is derogatory. But McGee's justification merits examination.

Back in the 1930s when Bye joined the faculty, MSC staffers were considered qualified. "They all said Bye was just as stupid and foolish, but all Bye did was recruit as president had firm convictions about education; the teacher should not only be professionally prepared but should also have a firm grasp of subject matter."

The second miracle was that the college was able to implement his ideas thru "a gifted and unusual faculty that was recruited almost overnight, he continued. "Not more than a half-dozen of the normal school teachers were considered qualified," he added.

"Recruitment of a student body" was the third miracle.

"They were not only well-endowed academically but were also committed to the experiment of the college."

Bohn was one of 12 faculty members recruited in 1929, which, according to him, was a large number at that time. He received his BA from Hamilton College, his MA from Harvard University and his EdD from Columbia University.

Back in his chair, the spectated professor said: "The college has made a tremendous transition from a single-purpose institution to a multipurpose institution which has catapulted it into an entirely new situation. A vast number of hours of labor went into its creation and a vast number of moves had to be made on a fairly large scale."

Bohn, a Shakespearean scholar, has taught on all levels of education since his arrival here - at College High School and undergraduate and graduate classes.

"Teaching is an art and cannot be reduced to a formula," commented Bohn. "No course can teach you how to make a speech so that students react. "It has been my experience that they respond well to subject matter presented with conviction.""

The Wisdom of Edgar Bye

By D. M. Levine

Staff Writer

A colleague of retiring political science professor Edgar C. Bye recently remarked: "Edgar is the stupidest man at Montclair State."

Dr. Morris McGee, English professor, is the person attributed to the statement which apparently is derogatory. But McGee's justification merits examination.

Back in the 1930s when Bye joined the faculty, MSC staffers were considered qualified. "They all said Bye was just as stupid and foolish, but all Bye did was recruit as president had firm convictions about education; the teacher should not only be professionally prepared but should also have a firm grasp of subject matter."

The second miracle was that the college was able to implement his ideas thru "a gifted and unusual faculty that was recruited almost overnight, he continued. "Not more than a half-dozen of the normal school teachers were considered qualified," he added.

"Recruitment of a student body" was the third miracle.

"They were not only well-endowed academically but were also committed to the experiment of the college."

Bohn was one of 12 faculty members recruited in 1929, which, according to him, was a large number at that time. He received his BA from Hamilton College, his MA from Harvard University and his EdD from Columbia University.

Back in his chair, the spectated professor said: "The college has made a tremendous transition from a single-purpose institution to a multipurpose institution which has catapulted it into an entirely new situation. A vast number of hours of labor went into its creation and a vast number of moves had to be made on a fairly large scale."

Bohn, a Shakespearean scholar, has taught on all levels of education since his arrival here - at College High School and undergraduate and graduate classes.

"Teaching is an art and cannot be reduced to a formula," commented Bohn. "No course can teach you how to make a speech so that students react. "It has been my experience that they respond well to subject matter presented with conviction.""

The Wisdom of Edgar Bye

By D. M. Levine

Staff Writer

A colleague of retiring political science professor Edgar C. Bye recently remarked: "Edgar is the stupidest man at Montclair State."

Dr. Morris McGee, English professor, is the person attributed to the statement which apparently is derogatory. But McGee's justification merits examination.

Back in the 1930s when Bye joined the faculty, MSC staffers were considered qualified. "They all said Bye was just as stupid and foolish, but all Bye did was recruit as president had firm convictions about education; the teacher should not only be professionally prepared but should also have a firm grasp of subject matter."

The second miracle was that the college was able to implement his ideas thru "a gifted and unusual faculty that was recruited almost overnight, he continued. "Not more than a half-dozen of the normal school teachers were considered qualified," he added.

"Recruitment of a student body" was the third miracle.

"They were not only well-endowed academically but were also committed to the experiment of the college."

Bohn was one of 12 faculty members recruited in 1929, which, according to him, was a large number at that time. He received his BA from Hamilton College, his MA from Harvard University and his EdD from Columbia University.

Back in his chair, the spectated professor said: "The college has made a tremendous transition from a single-purpose institution to a multipurpose institution which has catapulted it into an entirely new situation. A vast number of hours of labor went into its creation and a vast number of moves had to be made on a fairly large scale."

Bohn, a Shakespearean scholar, has taught on all levels of education since his arrival here - at College High School and undergraduate and graduate classes.

"Teaching is an art and cannot be reduced to a formula," commented Bohn. "No course can teach you how to make a speech so that students react. "It has been my experience that they respond well to subject matter presented with conviction.""
Reportage

The Cats in the Ivory Tower

By Don Pendley
Managing Editor

The beauty of being a newspaperman.

I spent eight months last year as a part-time staff writer in The Herald-Newspass in Passaic. And it did wonders for my poor, undernourished ego. Important people sort of cowed when they were interviewed by a reporter (on the basis that all we were looking for was dirt, which is basically true), and common people were so thrilled at having their names in the paper that they would have talked about their grandmother's extramarital affair, whether or not they had a grandmother.

But here at MSC, it's a different ballgame.

TWO KINDS OF CATS
There are a few (very few) exceptions, but here there are two types of cat to interview... (a) those who are never in, and (b) those who see you, then say a different thing in every reporter, (c) none of the above, (d) all of the above.

The "those who are never in" guys are generally those who inhabit the "behind-the-scenes" (i.e., paperwork) jobs like my secretary (or secretaries, if the need be). They can be found anywhere but their purchasing agent of any of the department chairmen. These guys can be found in his office and they never show up at their offices, because they know they'll find a MONTCLARION reporter there with a question like, "What happened to that $500 surplus in your department's budget?"

And when you call them for an appointment one of his nine secretaries (he needs that many just to keep track of where he is) starts off the conversation something like this:

"Hello?"

"Mr. Smith in?"

"Mr. Smith? I'll check. Who's calling?"

"Don Pendley, from the MONTCLARION."

"Oh... hold on, please."

ON TO HONG KONG
Hong Kong was very close to us, you find out she switched you to Hong Kong. In the meanwhile, her end of the phone heard:

"Mr. Smith... a MONTCLARION reporter on the phone..."

Tell him I'm on a study tour of Hawaii.

"Hello, Mr. Pendley? Mr. Smith just told me you he's on a study tour of Hawaii."

(N.B.: There's only one way to skin this kind of cat - show up at his office with the prior warning and a threat to expose the entire department in the next issue.)

WHAT YOU WANT TO HEAR
And now, the other kind of cat. This is the kind that says a different thing to every reporter (or person, for that matter) that he sees. He holds down the "public relations" type-job. Like dean or athletic directors, or any VIP position. Each of them carries a special attachment which gives them six sides of their mouth. I talk out of, one for each radical fringe on campus.

He usually starts an interview with:

"Hi, Howreya?"

"I'm Don Pendley from the MONTCLARION, and..."

"Of course, Dan... How do you feel about the recent student strike?"

Well, that's a rough question. But tell me... how do you feel about it?"

Ta-De! Two points for ambiguity!

THE OBVIOUS SOLUTION
The MONTCLARION, several months ago, suggested the obvious solution... instead of having many different lies, what would be wrong with having one central liar? (Thank you, Miss Taub...) But I think even that idea's a little outdated, the lies have become too enmeshed. Now, if you ask a question, they have to consult a chart to find out which lie to tell you. It's all rather fascinating, really.

But, hierarchy of MSC, please don't change. It would take all the beauty out of being a newspaperman.

Mini Review

"First Vibration," a collection of 14 antidrug songs by artists. This is an album of an experiment. It is an experiment that is well worth taking, to warn thousands of high school and college students about the dangers of coke, scag and other hallucinogens. "Speed Kills" is the message. The medium is the songs of top selling artists who have contributed their work to this album. The Beatles' "Nowhere Man," Donovan's "Sunshine Superman," and Jefferson Airplane's "Son of a Teacher." There is a passage in the philosophy of "Do It Now," subscribes, all describe or take a stand against the horrors of methadone.

"Do It Now!" is a group of former drug dealers who have decided that the life of theft and prostitution necessary to keep them in the drug-game is not worth it. Perhaps it is extremely evident in the song "Amphetamine Annie" by Canned Heat. "But Annie kept on speeding, her health was getting poor... her skin was turning yellow... just couldn't take it anymore." Maybe Roger McGuinn of the Byrds colors it appropriately. But here I close with the question of death: "I've got a strange feeling I'm going to die before my time." But death is not a beautiful trip, they would like to add. Instead, they would like to fill the void with the beauty of life and living. "Being turned on," they say, "is giving and receiving what others can understand. With kindness, understanding and love."

This album, and its accompanying newsletters, are a purpose of such an organization for a freshman who comes from a conservative home and community. But other members see no function for the organization and they are in the majority.
The Rape of Education

The story of the university in America's days gone by has been largely one of passive noninvolvement. This role has ended for many institutions of higher learning within recent years when colleges stepped into a new set of robes - that of a political activist.

Many acamemians are content to see the university as spearheading social reform. But still other scholars view current stakes as having far-reaching implications not only on education but in the future course of this country.

The university's obligation, says one leading college president, is not to protect students from ideas but rather to expose them to ideas and to make them capable of thinking for themselves.

But what Montclair State College has done within recent weeks is commendable only to a certain point. This college did witness a strike, contrary to the view held by President Thomas H. Richardson. At this point we define strike as just not going to regularly-assigned classes. The college also adopted the "Campus Unity" plan which, in effect, stopped business as usual here.

Challenges may be raised to the administration as to how specifically that was gained as a result of this position. We view it as merely turning the forces of education over to a group labeling themselves the "free school." Their intentions were admirable. No doubt this college (and as well as every institution needs a type of seminar-education that will prepare students for the realities of the world.

The railroading that was done to accomplish these goals, however, is disgusting. Persons of the administration as to what specifically was gained as an effect, stopped business as usual here.

MSC's administration in the past was always willing to take into consideration the views of the student body overall. What nevertheless was not stopped alongside graduates at their drawing up the "unity proposal and conservatives were not allowed (the views the chosen few are allowed the "privilege" of pledging a sorority. I cannot see how so many girls on this campus can allow themselves to be defiled by pledging. I have seen girls get down on the floor on their hands and knees, and "wipe their smiles on the floor," and then get up and have to stand on them. My best friend was physically ill and in bed because of pledging. This came because the sorority she was pledging did not give her enough time to eat and sleep.

I have seen girls convulsed in sobs because of the harshness of sisters during pledging, yet the fear of being left out makes them get back up and take more "guff" from the sisters. And the finale of all is "hell nite" which describes itself perfectly.

If all the girls here who wanted to pledge would band together against the demeaning effects of pledging, then the sororities would either have to change or become extinct. I cannot see where a "sorority gives a person enough to take what one has to in order to get in." I would really like to know if there are others on this campus who agree with me.

My Mother, Harry Sprague To the Editor:

I awoke one afternoon this past week from a half-hour or more nap taken involuntarily in Sprague library on campus and shook my jelly-rolled chins out of a chair. The air in the library was womb-warm and ripe to fetal breathing. Instead of punching its stomach walls I had successed and slept.

After realizing what had happened I asked someone behind the counter to please turn off the heat, or open the windows or turn on the air-conditioning. I was told neither option was possible because the hot air ducts were the only way to get air into the building. The class was designed to be opened, and the air-conditioning could not be turned on since it was not operational.

The woman advised me she was also having difficulty keeping awake.

Wooden chairs are functional for libraries since they inhibit comfort and thus encourage attentive reading. I sat near the sealed windows longing for an April breeze to blow my pages when I noticed something outside. It was the grey-brown-blush haze hovering across the parking lot.

How great, I thought, the architectural of this building thought so far ahead to protect us from that nasty air.

Myron D. Leski, '70.

Sincere Thanks to MSC To the Editor:

I wish to express our deepest gratitude to everyone at Montclair State College for their warm expressions of sympathy at the tragic death of our son, John T. Walsh, class of 1970, Latin major.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walsh, North Bergen.

Campus Symbol Defended To the Editor:

This letter is in answer to statements by John Diamant in his letter appearing in the April 8th issue regarding Montclair State and the Indian symbol. The Indians are a long-time cherished tradition here. For years, MSC athletes have proudly worn the college Indian as their symbol in athletic competition. Certainly, their intent was never to exploit a minority group, just as the men of Lambda Chi (who wear the Indian costumes) never attempt to perpetrate prejudice.

As both an MSC athlete and member of Lambda, I have followed the Indians in football, basketball games, parades, and pep rallies. The combined cheering sections of both cheerleaders and Indians have thousands of times sparked our teams to victory, and brought the crowds to life. Thus, I believe (and I don't stand alone) the MSC Indian has been used in a very positive way to promote and foster athletic competition and college spirit.

Chuck Manzano, Lambda Chi Delta.

Beg Pardon To the Editor:

In the April 22 issue MONTCLARION one of the items listed under Newdesk refers to a field trip to the British Isles. "The visits to . . . Scotch lake . . ." caught my husband's eye and he asked that I please inform you that a native of Scotland winces when he hears Scotsich lochs referred to as "Scotch lakes," and Scots themselves called "Scottich."

Scots are the people, Scottish is the adjective; scotch is the drink. (Webster does not quite agree.)

J. L. Strawhan, secretary.

English department.

Not Here To the Editor:

I am opposed to the recent proposal to make a Montclair State security guard an auxiliary town policeman. This could possibly aid in off-campus traffic control, but could also give him the authority to investigate and make arrests on campus. An academic community is no place for police or suspicions resulting from police on campus.

Robert Insley, '72.

MiniReview

Country Editor's Boy, by Hal Borland. Tippinotts, $5.95

Country Editor's Boy is a gentle narrative of discovery, humor and challenge. The author, a novelist and newspaperman, relates his youth in the days of the vanishing western frontier - of his father, editor of a small-town Colorado newspaper, of his discovery and love of nature, and of the challenges confronting the residents of a small town in its early growing days. This book has something for every reader - but more important if it documents in a most delightful and readable manner, a vanished time of America, the author's words, tells the story of "a culture just emerging from frontier limitations." The book is an endlessly amusing, entertaining and thoroughly educational work.

Don't miss it.

Patricia E. Davis UPI. 9/1.

Beg Pardon The last edition of the society's newsletter which was in error, according to a spokesman for BOSS, the Black Organization for Success in Society. MONTCLARION regrets the error.

MONTCLARION regrets the error.
Close to Home

To the Editor:

I am quite impressed with a number of workshops and discussions which have been taking place. I am sure they are most informative, relevant and beneficial to all those who take part. Please excuse me, because I am sure students are asking themselves whether they have comprised their rights as individuals. We would be blind to deny the blatant intimidation of our friends, colleagues, and pedagogues by a feeling called "emotion." But, we must agree that the greatest teachers of our time and the greatest literary works of the age are designed and created solely to intimidate the mind.

EMOTIONAL REACTION

There is one vital philosophical factor which the former lacks and the latter embraces. The emotional intimidation screams "take action," and the rational intimidation screams "draw your own conclusions and take action."

I can, in all good conscience, say that I personally and the Student Government Association will stand beside any student that expresses the concern that he must have the right to draw his own conclusions.

Montclair Soapbox

Early Retirement

To the Editor:

Please include in your next issue a note to the effect that in some fashion totally unpremeditated, I was prematurely retired by your reporter.

During my interview, I spoke of my retirement from the college in 1971, with the hope that someone would be found to remove the burden of duties of the vice-president for instruction this year. Such a screening is going forward, and it is quite possible I shall be replaced at any time.

Meanwhile, I shall attempt to watch over the instructional pattern at Montclair, and hopefully, I will spend my last year here in the laboratory.

At any rate, I do appreciate the nice editorial concerning my retirement.

Samson McDowell
vice-president for instruction.

Editor’s Note: According to a statement from President Thomas H. Richardson dated May 18, Dr. Walter Heilbron of the State University of New York’s College at Cortland has been appointed the new vice-president for instruction.

Close to Home

To the Editor:

I’m sorry to say, that I will not be with you.

The casualty figures of two weeks ago, those oh so accurate and never tampered with numbers, have taken on an extremely personal dimension and have struck a little too close to home, for I had to interrupt my "educational process" to bury my cousin.

You Know the Type

To the Editor:

I am a graduate of MSC and a student body of MSC made a definite move to protest the United States involvement in Cambodia. I was surprised because I have always felt the student body of MSC is extremely conservative (bourgeoisie).

Three years ago when I put an ostinuous petition on the bulletin board not only did no one sign it but the petition was removed by some jingoistic student — the kind with an American flag decal on his car.

If the student body is becoming more aware of the fact that our country must get out of Southeast Asia I am very happy. On the other hand I have the impression that certain professors at the college are more concerned over possible destruction of school property than the destruction of life in Southeast Asia.

Jane Edwards Skillin, '61
Upper Montclair.

This is the beginning for Montclair. We have opened our eyes to the problems of the world and the community. Now is the time to develop a course of action.

Over 100 seminars have been created thru a joint faculty-student effort to afford the academic community the opportunity to gain the tools of action. We have sacrificed, but we must redefine our ideas and function.

We must endorse the "Proposal for Campus Unity" and come together and learn as a free community guided by our own life style.

Montclair Soapbox

Army Odds

More Than Half Don’t Show Up
In California Draft Call

By Duston Harvey

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — When a draft board in northern California orders a young man to report for induction, the odds are two to one against his ending up in an army uniform.

More than half don’t even show up among those who do report refuse to serve.

By the time the army eliminates its share during reexamination of the potential drafters, only 35% of those sent notices actually go into service.

The Oakland Induction center, which processes drafters for all of northern California and a portion of Nevada, reported during the weekend its operations for the six months ending March 31.

In that period, 4463 men were sent notices of induction; only 2083 reported when ordered; 219 of them refused induction; 300 more were rejected by the army; and 1554 finally were taken into service.

The total compared with 4609 in 1944 — the high year for World War II — and 425 in 1954 — which was the high for the Korean war as convictions lagged about two years behind violations. Since the expansion of the Vietnam war, convictions totaled 242 in 1965, 373 in 1966 and 748 in 1967.

The draft refusers face up to five years in federal prison and a $10,000 fine. But the average sentence in California has been 38 months in a penitentiary with the sentences usually somewhat lighter in the San Francisco Bay area than elsewhere in the state.

LAGGING BEHIND

The total compared with 4609 in 1944 — the high year for World War II — and 425 in 1954 — which was the high for the Korean war as convictions lagged about two years behind violations. Since the expansion of the Vietnam war, convictions totaled 242 in 1965, 373 in 1966 and 748 in 1967.

The draft refusers face up to five years in federal prison and a $10,000 fine. But the average sentence in California has been 38 months in a penitentiary with the sentences usually somewhat lighter in the San Francisco Bay area than elsewhere in the state.
THE NEW AMERICAN WOMAN

Staff Photo by Morey X. Antebi,
Model: Arlene Laitano.
Female administrators tell tale of determination

By Kathy Kayne
Staff Reporter

Constance Waller
Feminist not militant

"Women are definitely discriminated against for job opportunities," said Dr. Constance Waller, assistant director of students and coordinator of counseling at MSC. Women are discriminated against in medicine and law as well as other fields, and education is no exception.

Dr. Waller's opinion is that women must over qualify and excel in experience and educational background to make any type of advancement. "This has been true of most colleges that I have worked for, and Montclair is no different," Dr. Waller added. There are no vice-provosts or deans at MSC who are women.

Dr. Frazee's opinion about being a professional women is now completing her 24th year at MSC. She feels that a woman should hold the proper credentials, work very hard, and not become discouraged when a man moves ahead more rapidly. "I feel, however, that if there were two candidates, male and female, both equal in everyway, the position would go to the man," remarked Dr. Frazee. A woman on the grounds that a man has a family to support. Many women carry the same responsibilities as a man. Dr. Waller smiled and said: "I believe in women's rights — I'm an ardent feminist but not a militant one."

For the femmes: Equality three

By Dick West
United Press International

Rep. Jonathan Bingham (D-N.Y.) made a pitch for the new feminist vote the other day by proposing a demaritalized courtesy title for women.

Many women, he noted, resent being called Mrs. or Miss because these forms of address reveal their marital status, which they might not desire to have known.

His solution to the problem would be to address all women as "Ms." pronounce "miz," thus giving them equality with men, who are call by the all-purpose "Mr."

"I'm sure that Bingham's suggestion will endear him to the women's liberation movement, and possibly garner a few votes in the process, but I rather doubt that society as a whole would benefit from it.

For the new feminist vote the other day by proposing a demaritalized courtesy title for women.

"Some people have hobbies — my hobby is my job," remarked attractive and smartly-dressed Mrs. Loretta Miller, academic counselor at MSC. Her job is her avocation. However Mrs. Miller feels that women are not granted equal opportunities to rise in an administrative structure.

Mrs. Miller remarked that her family comes first, but they accept the fact that she works. "There is more to me than my family," said Mrs. Miller. "I feel that my job fulfills this need," she added. Smilingly Mrs. Miller commented that women add color to an all male organization and she enjoys working with men.
Equality thru abbreviations

FORSEES NASTY SITUATION
In fact, I can foresee a variety of rather nasty situations arising from it. Particularly at cocktail parties.

Let us say you a bachelor are floating with the tide around the buffet table and you chance to encounter a slimling blonde who picks you up where Raquel Welch leaves off. She is introduced as Miss Hotchkiss.

There is, alas, nothing in that title to indicate that she is the wife of “Bruiser” Hotchkiss, the all-pro fullback, who happens to be standing over by spiced shrimp and who is watching all of this with narrowing eyes.

So, you begin build along shrimplike lines yourself, become a victim of the communications gap.

What is missed, in my judgment, is not a further continuation of “mistress” to remove any matrimonial distinction, but rather an expanded list of female courtesy titles.

Along with retaining Miss and Mrs. I would like to see Dv. pronounced “Diz.” adopted as a form of address. Should you then be introduced to a Dv. Hotchkiss, you would know immediately that she was a divorcee.

Another courtesy title that could be useful is Wd. pronounced “Whiz.” Anytime you met a Wd. Hotchkiss, you would have the advantage of knowing that you were dealing with a widow.

To these forms of address I would add Fn. pronounced “Fizz.” which is a contracted form of “Fiancee” and which means that Mr. Hotchkiss already is engaged.

Finally, I would make the title “Mrs.” adjustable so that it could appear as “Mrs., Mrs. or Miss.” those extra esses would tell you the number of times Mrs. Hotchkiss had previously been married.

Equality thru abbreviations

Feminists struggle to get reclassified

By Celeste Fasone
Staff Writer

Women's liberation has taken its struggle to court, to obtain a federal ruling to bar segregation in newspaper help wanted ads. Nationwide, local and regional groups are banning together to change social attitudes towards females and to liquidate the stereotyped concepts of the fair sex.

These groups draw membership from teenagers to grandmothers who sponsor activities and teach-ins on the meaning and importance of the liberation movement. Groups such as Sisters of the Gallstone, Sistahs All Learning Together (SALT), Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell (WITCH), Radical Feminists, Redstockings and Mdra Women communicate regularly with one another.

STARTED SMALL
Among the best known is the National Organization of Women (NOW). Like the other revolutionary groups, NOW started as a small group of concerned females and grew. Unlike the other groups, however, this organization claims a constitution, board members and 35 chapters.

The groups may differ in ideology and procedure all agree on the necessity for changing the role of the female and mobilizing aid from 51% of the American population — that is, all members of the "weaker sex."

Their attempts to beat the system that limits them manifests itself in such projects as day-care centers and campaigns from job equality. Besides publishing magazines and newsletters the groups write songs, sponsor plays, and wear buttons proclaiming "Uppity Women Unite."

American liberation: Rd. white and you

By Russ Layne
Staff Writer

One of the prominent aspects of the revolution in America is women's liberation. The feminist movement, or this writer's observation of it, is slowly but surely gaining momentum. Certainly, this observation was not made here at Montclair State where the girls seem quite satisfied with in loco parentis, limited visitation hours and having to be signed in by the men in Webster and Stone halls.

However, if we bother to examine what the word liberation means, we'd find that in just this country alone the male needs as much help as the female. It is truly unfortunate for the woman that America has a society dominated by male animals. But the cycle is vicious. Liberation means "to free." Therefore it is assumed that women are enslaved by men. How so? Simply because they want to be. And the American male? The state of this country is living proof that men are slaves to their own weak minds.

To be free is to have developed a self-concept that is accessible to change. To be free means that you have control over your own consciousness and do not let any government, tyrant or religion move you around on some massive chessboard. Liberation for the woman involves seeing herself as a human being — an attitude far more real than the mere sex symbol that she has, in essence, enslaved herself as being. For the male, among many things, it is not being afraid of the draft. If you are truly liberated and have convictions, a rare attribute for the American male, you'd do what you have to.

Unless both men and women individually rise above the powers that impair their wills or their consciousness, they will never be free. If enlightenment of the masses to this philosophy is a major intent of the women's liberation movement, right on.

MONTCLARION MAGAZINE / May 1970.
A WOMAN SCIENTIST SPEAKS:

By Jennifer Gardner

Special to the Montclarion.

As a woman scientist and someone who wanted to be an astronaut, I have worked as an actuarial trainee, an engineer, a solid state physicist, and a college teacher of mathematics, chemistry, and physics. From these experiences I know some of the reasons for the lack of women in technical fields. As a child I liked to make and build objects. My parents encouraged this interest and my desire to pursue a scientific career. I was encouraged in school, especially by a woman mathematics teacher in junior high school. This encouragement continued in high school where several teachers helped me to obtain a National Science Foundation research grant.

... colleges and companies won't invest in women ...

... and makes its presence felt. The harder to solve.

By Jane Doe

As an astronaut, I have worked as an independent, who look common among women who feel that they have tried to be strong and weak, passive dependent way with men that men cannot possibly unrespectful treatment without...
How to immortalize a Jewish mom

By William Clark Flipp

NEW YORK - The world is bent on immortalizing Jewish mothers. Without them, Philip Roth would have had a helluva time filling up a volume. And the Marx brothers would never have been.

There’s something special about Jewish mothers. (I know, I have one.) You can’t pinpoint what makes them shine over Irish moms. But “Minnie’s Boys” sort of gets at what a plucky, 19th-century, New York-Jghetto Jewish mom would do for her four sons.

(The “real” Indians were from a different world.)

REGALITY REIGNS IN ROYAL BALLET

By Tony Fazio

Staff reviewer

NEW YORK — The Royal Ballet is marking its American debut this week at the Metropolitan Opera House. It will run thru May 31, and close with the play, satirizing the Vietnam war in particular and war in general, played by its director as on April 26, an all-Ashton program. The opener was the “La Fille Mal Gardée.” This comic pastoral, first created in 1828, is a mixture of rival suitors, dancing chickens, brauva variations, and touching pas de deux, with a highly romantic flavor tempered by Ashton’s buoyant wit. It is a British dance tradition that widows and comic female roles he played by men, and Stanley Holden deftly danced the role of Widow Simone with broad humor. Merle Parks’ Lise, as on April 26, was graceful and her execution of the theme was technically flawless. Nureyev is an engagingly electric that works the professional malevolence. Dame Margaret Fonteyn is more amazing

DANCE MONARCHS

The second offering presented the Royal ensemble in its most celebrated dancers, Dame Margaret Fonteyn and Rudolf Nureyev, in Ashton’s version of “The Lady of the Camellias” entitled “Marguerite and Armand.” The work is disturbing. The Lady of the Camellias, in the last stages of her fatal illness, relives some of the incidents of her tragic life. It is turbulent and romantic and yet is highly sophisticated. At times almost underTF, quality to it, Dame Margot Fonteyn is in a top form, poignantly classical. Together they generate an electricity that worked the theme with an unexplainable frenzy. They are truly and deservedly the reigning monarchs of the dance world.

Purple plus Philharmonic makes musical magic

By Tony Fazio

Staff reviewer

The Royal Philharmonic is the resident symphony orchestra at London’s Albert Hall. This world-renowned assemblage is reputed to be at times almost beyond our kind in the world today. Sir Malcolm Arnold is accepted as the greatest composer since Beethoven, from Scotland. Needless to say, the combination of these two is a powerful one, with Nureyev in total control of the dramatic version of the music of the highest caliber.

Dance, Purple, and acid rock group best remembered for their hits “Hush, Hush,” and “River Deep, Mountain High,” are one of the few groups in this day of special effects which sounds broad, but is actually contained in the confines of the recording studio. It does not seem possible that these two representatives of such diverse genres of music could ever meet head-on in a live concert. But they did, early this year at the Royal Albert Hall, and the end result was one of the most majestic and beautifully moving music produced this year.

MUSICAL CONFRONTATION

The first movement presents the confrontations in an antagonistic confrontation, as expected. The orchestra presents the two main themes, and is continually fighting the group for dominance of the respective interpretations of the themes. This 15-minute passage is highlighted by the incredible guitar work of Ritchie Blackmore. The second movement creates a feeling of harmony between the two, and is accentuated by haunting lyrics of lead vocalist Ian Gillian, and the organ playing of Jon Lord, the man who composed and scored the entire concert. Some of the more beautiful orchestral passages can be found in this movement.

The third and last movement is the best of the group and orchestra. Here they seem to be racing toward some common goal, each in their own turn falling behind, catching up, and overtaking the other one, all performed in a fast-paced 6/8 rhythm. Near the end, Ian Paice wins the audience over to his side with a brilliant 10-minute drum solo. The finale, in which the group and orchestra reach the end simultaneously, leaves the listener numb with the last crashing chord still ringing in his ears.

The meeting of Deep Purple and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra was more than just a convergence of two types of music; it was a meeting of two generations, as represented by those types of music, each having a mutual respect for each other’s talents, working together to produce something meaningful and tangible. The brilliant music recorded at the Albert Hall, “Concerto for Group and Orchestra,” proved that two divergent and opposing groups can work together with different means to achieve the same worthwhile end.

DANCE MONARCHS

The Royal Philharmonic is the resident symphony orchestra at London’s Albert Hall. This world-renowned assemblage is reputed to be at times almost beyond our kind in the world today. Sir Malcolm Arnold is accepted as the greatest composer since Beethoven, from Scotland. Needless to say, the combination of these two is a powerful one, with Nureyev in total control of the dramatic version of the music of the highest caliber.

Dance, Purple, and acid rock group best remembered for their hits “Hush, Hush,” and “River Deep, Mountain High,” are one of the few groups in this day of special effects which sounds broad, but is actually contained in the confines of the recording studio. It does not seem possible that these two representatives of such diverse genres of music could ever meet head-on in a live concert. But they did, early this year at the Royal Albert Hall, and the end result was one of the most majestic and beautifully moving music produced this year.

MUSICAL CONFRONTATION

The first movement presents the confrontations in an antagonistic confrontation, as expected. The orchestra presents the two main themes, and is continually fighting the group for dominance of the respective interpretations of the themes. This 15-minute passage is highlighted by the incredible guitar work of Ritchie Blackmore. The second movement creates a feeling of harmony between the two, and is accentuated by haunting lyrics of lead vocalist Ian Gillian, and the organ playing of Jon Lord, the man who composed and scored the entire concert. Some of the more beautiful orchestral passages can be found in this movement.

The third and last movement is the best of the group and orchestra. Here they seem to be racing toward some common goal, each in their own turn falling behind, catching up, and overtaking the other one, all performed in a fast-paced 6/8 rhythm. Near the end, Ian Paice wins the audience over to his side with a brilliant 10-minute drum solo. The finale, in which the group and orchestra reach the end simultaneously, leaves the listener numb with the last crashing chord still ringing in his ears.

The meeting of Deep Purple and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra was more than just a convergence of two types of music; it was a meeting of two generations, as represented by those types of music, each having a mutual respect for each other’s talents, working together to produce something meaningful and tangible. The brilliant music recorded at the Albert Hall, “Concerto for Group and Orchestra,” proved that two divergent and opposing groups can work together with different means to achieve the same worthwhile end.
When Thomas Benitz officially takes office as SGA president June 1, he’ll be a man without a legislature. Because of the recent activity on campus, SGA legislative elections are awaiting a September date. In fact, Benitz says the SGA really can’t do much now and the bulk of work will start the beginning of next semester — and he’s expecting a backlog to build up.

What will the new administration be like? Benitz thinks that getting involved in state and national issues would be beneficial, he thinks that MSC’s SGA would be put on the map if it would take more stands on key issues confronting students.

He views the strike resolution as a start, tho he disagreed with it for the most part.

CRIPPS IS LEAVING

A couple of key SGA voices are leaving the scene. One of these men is Frank Cripps, who we often refer to as part of “the machine.”

Cripps, however, has singlehandedly been responsible for many SGA reforms — from constitution changes to money matters. One legislator recently remarked about Cripps: “He worked hard and made the SGA always see the light of day.”

Cripps worked with the SGA under four presidents and has served as a man-behind-the-scenes, always willing to give his time to many of its numerous projects. He’s graduating and there’s a law career in front of him. We’ll miss him.

PRATT’S PLAN: 4-1-4

Dr. Samuel Pratt is reportedly considering the idea of adopting the 4-1-4 semester system for the college. The system gives students four months of regular classroom attendance, then one month of independent study, and then another four months of classes. He will have to do some persuading to the faculty if he really wants 4-1-4 OK’d.

You own the sun

Child of Aquarius. Sun worshiper...

Coppertone takes you back to nature with a deeper, darker, richer tan... faster.

And there’s a Coppertone tan that’s just naturally right for you. Eleven fabulous blends. Make Coppertone a part of your bag... beach bag, that is.

P.S./For a totally different sun experience try new Coppertone Tanning Butter (cocoa butter and coconut oil). Wild!
Athletic Watchdogs Say No Go on Sport Split

By Richard De Santa
Staff Writer

A modification of the physical education and athletic departments with certain structural changes is the recommendation of the athletic study committee to President Thomas Richardson and the faculty coordinating committee.

The athletic study committee was formed in October to study the relationship between and alleged separation of the physical education department and the athletic program at MSC.

According to Dr. Morris G. McGee, English associate professor and committee chairman, the committee recommended structural changes because it felt that many of the problems that came about between the departments were the result of deficiencies in the structure of authority in the entire physical education department.

To remedy this situation, continued McGee, the committee has recommended the addition of the posts of athletics director and physical education department chairman on an equal basis, both subject to the authority of the director of Panzer School division, the latter being a newly-proposed post.

The committee has also recommended the addition of the posts of intramural director and health chairman. Commenting on the proposed additions, McGee said that extra people are needed to handle the growth of the school as a whole. "It would be impractical to try to accommodate to work a school of 5000 students with staffed when the student body number only 1800," he added.

The recommendations have received some criticism from members of the physical education department. William P. Dioguardi, director of athletics, said that "the committee recommendation clearly indicates that the athletic director and physical education department chairman are to be separate entities of equal status. The addition of three new administrative posts doesn't seem to be financially feasible at this time."

Dr. Richard W. Tews, physical education department chairman, feels that the situation is the same as it had been, noting that the recommendations are still subject to review by the faculty coordinating committee. However, he added that he does not consider it the prerogative of any committee to propose structural policies for a school other than its own.

William Dioguardi
MSC athletic director.

Millions Knocking on Campus Doors This Year

WASHINGTON (CPS) — Freshman applications for fall 1970 admission to state colleges and universities rose by 10.7% this spring, according to a report by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

The report, based on 400,695 applications received as of April 1, compared with 361,966 applications received at the same institutions by the same date last year. Last year's increase over the previous year was 11.8%. During the past three years, freshman applications at state colleges and universities have risen by 33%.

This year, the association's 271 member colleges and universities enrolled 1.7 million students, or over one-fifth of the nation's undergraduate and graduate students.

In spite of the overall increase in applications, and increases in 134 reporting institutions, 56 institutions indicate a decrease in applications and four report no change. Last year, only 28 institutions reported decreases in applications. Regional patterns do not seem apparent, but two-thirds of those in the north central states and almost half of those in the South showed a decline.

More institutions reported decreases, rather than increases, in Wisconsin, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee. Statewide increases in most institutions, however, occurred in California, Colorado, Connecticut, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and West Virginia.

The 213 reporting state colleges and universities are planning for freshman enrollment of 272,057, a 7.5% increase over the 252,952 students actually enrolled last fall. It is thus apparent that college and universities are expanding in their freshman enrollment capacity, they are not reporting at a rate comparable to the increase in applications.

Fill in the blank.

C-E-N-T-R-E-X: Direct Dorm Dialing

By Celeste Fasone
Staff Writer

MSC's dorm students will soon be able to contract for telephone services, thanks to the campuswide installation of the Centrex telephone system.

All final policy on charges the students will be expected to pay has not yet been decided. Mr. Jerome Quinn, MSC facilities director, speculated that students will be responsible for monthly service charges as well as toll calls.

The Centrex system according to Quinn, will convert the existing campus switchboard system into a private line arrangement for each administrator, faculty member and student organization.

Each private line will operate as a private home phone and will have a separate number that will have to be dialed directly. A general information number will also be available on campus to release private numbers.

Quinn stated that the conversion to the Centrex system resulted from an agreement between the telephone company and state institutions.

The present switchboard system is ineffective because additional extensions are not allowed for," stated Quinn.

The personnel director spoke emphatically of the definite advantage of the new system. "As the campus expands," he said, "there will be no need for funneling all calls thru a 'switchboard'," he added.

The control room from which the entire system will operate has already been completed and the system is expected to go into operation in September.

A slide show is being planned by the telephone company for student viewing in order to acquaint MSC with the new telephone system.

William Dioguardi
MSC athletic director.

William Dioguardi
Plan to Become No. 1

Sprague field, such as poly-turf, which would increase play hours. The second is to put in a fully modern lighting system on the upper athletic field, which would draw power from the generator near Sprague field. The third is to light the tennis courts.

Dioguardi said that MSC athletic facilities have been improved somewhat by lighting Sprague field with 96 lights and also by purchasing a portable track for $17,600. But then he pointed to a poster of Vince Lombardi and repeated the caption: "You've got to pay the price to be number one."

Business or Personal? Helen Meury, chief telephone operator, is getting practice with new Centrex phone system.

Morris McGee
Structural Changes.

Up 23% At MSC

Here at Montclair State, freshman applications for next year have increased approximately 23% while acceptances have increased 30%.

According to Mr. Alan Buechler, assistant admissions director, about 5600 applications for the class of 74 have been received, of which 1300 were accepted. An additional 200 have been admitted under the Talent Research for Youth (TRY) program. Last year's figures showed approximately 1000 admissions, 1000 acceptances and 140 TRY admissions, said Buechler.

Dioguardi, sun-tanned from a helicopter survey of the entire campus and cannot locate areas that can be converted into recreational areas," he said.

At present, the four play areas at MSC are Sprague field, the baseball diamond, the tennis courts, and the field in front of Stone Hall, soon to be used for the math/science building. Dioguardi related that students do not get enough play hours from these fields because of rain and darkness.

However, Dioguardi is offering a three-part plan for that can improve play areas. One is to buy a permanent type of surface for the athletic field, which would draw power from the generator near Sprague field. The third is to light the tennis courts.

Dioguardi said that MSC athletic facilities have been improved somewhat by lighting Sprague field with 96 lights and also by purchasing a portable track for $17,600. But then he pointed to a poster of Vince Lombardi and repeated the caption: "You've got to pay the price to be number one."

C-E-N-T-R-E-X: Direct Dorm Dialing

By Celeste Fasone
Staff Writer

MSC's dorm students will soon be able to contract for telephone services, thanks to the campuswide installation of the Centrex telephone system.

All final policy on charges the students will be expected to pay has not yet been decided. Mr. Jerome Quinn, MSC facilities director, speculated that students will be responsible for monthly service charges as well as toll calls.

The Centrex system according to Quinn, will convert the existing campus switchboard system into a private line arrangement for each administrator, faculty member and student organization.

Each private line will operate as a private home phone and will have a separate number that will have to be dialed directly. A general information number will also be available on campus to release private numbers.

Quinn stated that the conversion to the Centrex system resulted from an agreement between the telephone company and state institutions.

The present switchboard system is ineffective because additional extensions are not allowed for," stated Quinn.

The personnel director spoke emphatically of the definite advantage of the new system. "As the campus expands," he said, "there will be no need for funneling all calls thru a 'switchboard'," he added.

The control room from which the entire system will operate has already been completed and the system is expected to go into operation in September.

A slide show is being planned by the telephone company for student viewing in order to acquaint MSC with the new telephone system.

William Dioguardi
MSC athletic director.

William Dioguardi
Plan to Become No. 1

Sprague field, such as poly-turf, which would increase play hours. The second is to put in a fully modern lighting system on the upper athletic field, which would draw power from the generator near Sprague field. The third is to light the tennis courts.

Dioguardi said that MSC athletic facilities have been improved somewhat by lighting Sprague field with 96 lights and also by purchasing a portable track for $17,600. But then he pointed to a poster of Vince Lombardi and repeated the caption: "You've got to pay the price to be number one."

Business or Personal? Helen Meury, chief telephone operator, is getting practice with new Centrex phone system.
By Patrick M. Lust
Staff Writer

Partridge Hall’s unusual architecture prompted a freshman home economics major to comment, “the theme song for the building may be Simon and Garfunkel’s ‘So Long, Frank Lloyd Wright’.”

Opinions of students and faculty members on the new home for the School of Humanities ranged from, “It’s functional” to “It’s square,” as the building officially opened last month.

Mr. Robert Soffer, French and German assistant professor, whose office is in the building, remarked: “My particular office has a nice view, but there’s no privacy. From the outside it looks like Hitler’s Third Reich style of architecture – a combination of the garage at Port Authority and a warehouse in Hoboken. But I’m not ungrateful.”

In the opinion of Russian assistant professor Erment Shore: “After the period of adjustment is over, these offices will be a credit to the college. The students will be much better served by this building.” Dr. George Brant, philosophy department chairman, commented that his first impressions were very positive. “It’s wonderful,” he exclaimed, but you can’t really judge a building until you’ve lived in it.”

Admittedly impatient, Dr. Morris McGee, English associate professor, said: “The coming of Partridge Hall can be compared to a famous railroad in this area, the DL&W – delay, linger and wait.” “But,” he chuckled, “I’m happy to be here. I didn’t think I’d live to see it in my time.” Similarly, Mr. William Dell, poet and English assistant professor, remarked: “I’ve been looking forward to having my own office after having been at MSC for eight years.”

Surveying his view of the quarry and the New York City skyline he exclaimed: “It’s a vast improvement.”

MSC President Thomas H. Richardson was also not without comment. “I think it is going to be very useful and functional building,” he said. “It will solve a lot of faculty office problems, and it’s a good solid classroom building.”

Marcotulli Leaves For Upsala Post

By Robert Watson
Staff Writer

Richard J. Marcotulli’s resignation will become effective at the end of this semester despite the efforts of about 400 students to prevent his leaving. Marcotulli is an assistant professor.

The 24-year-old Marcotulli, who has taught at MSC for two years, has accepted a position in the economics department of Upsala College. In a recent interview, Marcotulli, who had been informed in February that he would probably not be rehired, expressed his sadness at leaving MSC.

After Marcotulli was advised by Dr. Gladys Ellenbogen, economics department chairman, that he would be rehired approximately 400 students signed a petition circulated by a number of economics majors requesting his reappointment. It was shown to Marcotulli.

“I appreciated their support,” he declared, “but (the petition) will not change my decision.”

The March 25 issue of the MONTCLARION. Marcotulli discounted “continuing graduate study” as the basis for his probable dismissal. He had been advised by Dr. Ellenbogen that this was the reason for her decision not to rehire him according to the article. Marcotulli, however, felt that the fact that his political views differed from that of Dr. Ellenbogen was probably behind her decision.

In an earlier interview Marcotulli suggested a communications problem could develop within the department if responsible persons were pressured to rehire him. “I would not want to discourage economically inclined students by allowing such a problem to arise,” he said at that time.

After Dept. Row... The Women Behind MSC’s Biggies

By Celeste Faone
Staff Writer

Behind every great man there is a woman. And behind Dean Lawton W. Blanton, Student Activities Director Jon McKnight, and the executive SGA officers, stand their secretaries – Mrs. Elizabeth Briner, Miss Patricia Marceli and Mrs. Janet Young. All of them agree that their secretarial work is pleasingly demanding.

Mrs. Briner has served as Blanton’s secretary for five years and considers her job more of an advocacy than a vocation. “The person I replaced told me no two days would ever be the same,” she said, and insisted that “no truer words were ever spoken.”

The informal confines of the student activities office, Miss Marceli smiled and said: “I wouldn’t trade Mr. McKnight for anyone on campus.” She added that “he shows concern for me as a person, not only as his secretary.”

In the informal offices of the SGA office, Mrs. Young claimed she worked “in the best office on campus.” Entering her sixth round of SGA presidents, Mrs. Young labeled each new takeover “a pleasant adjustment.”

The Women Behind MSC’s Biggies

By Celeste Faone
Staff Writer

Behind every great man there is a woman. And behind Dean Lawton W. Blanton, Student Activities Director Jon McKnight, and the executive SGA officers, stand their secretaries – Mrs. Elizabeth Briner, Miss Patricia Marceli and Mrs. Janet Young. All of them agree that their secretarial work is pleasingly demanding.

Mrs. Briner has served as Blanton’s secretary for five years and considers her job more of an advocacy than a vocation. “The person I replaced told me no two days would ever be the same,” she said, and insisted that “no truer words were ever spoken.”

The informal confines of the student activities office, Miss Marceli smiled and said: “I wouldn’t trade Mr. McKnight for anyone on campus.” She added that “he shows concern for me as a person, not only as his secretary.”

In the informal offices of the SGA office, Mrs. Young claimed she worked “in the best office on campus.” Entering her sixth round of SGA presidents, Mrs. Young labeled each new takeover “a pleasant adjustment.”

The Women Behind MSC’s Biggies

By Celeste Faone
Staff Writer

Behind every great man there is a woman. And behind Dean Lawton W. Blanton, Student Activities Director Jon McKnight, and the executive SGA officers, stand their secretaries – Mrs. Elizabeth Briner, Miss Patricia Marceli and Mrs. Janet Young. All of them agree that their secretarial work is pleasingly demanding.

Mrs. Briner has served as Blanton’s secretary for five years and considers her job more of an advocacy than a vocation. “The person I replaced told me no two days would ever be the same,” she said, and insisted that “no truer words were ever spoken.”

The informal confines of the student activities office, Miss Marceli smiled and said: “I wouldn’t trade Mr. McKnight for anyone on campus.” She added that “he shows concern for me as a person, not only as his secretary.”

In the informal offices of the SGA office, Mrs. Young claimed she worked “in the best office on campus.” Entering her sixth round of SGA presidents, Mrs. Young labeled each new takeover “a pleasant adjustment.”

The Women Behind MSC’s Biggies

By Celeste Faone
Staff Writer

Behind every great man there is a woman. And behind Dean Lawton W. Blanton, Student Activities Director Jon McKnight, and the executive SGA officers, stand their secretaries – Mrs. Elizabeth Briner, Miss Patricia Marceli and Mrs. Janet Young. All of them agree that their secretarial work is pleasingly demanding.

Mrs. Briner has served as Blanton’s secretary for five years and considers her job more of an advocacy than a vocation. “The person I replaced told me no two days would ever be the same,” she said, and insisted that “no truer words were ever spoken.”

The informal confines of the student activities office, Miss Marceli smiled and said: “I wouldn’t trade Mr. McKnight for anyone on campus.” She added that “he shows concern for me as a person, not only as his secretary.”

In the informal offices of the SGA office, Mrs. Young claimed she worked “in the best office on campus.” Entering her sixth round of SGA presidents, Mrs. Young labeled each new takeover “a pleasant adjustment.”

The Women Behind MSC’s Biggies

By Celeste Faone
Staff Writer

Behind every great man there is a woman. And behind Dean Lawton W. Blanton, Student Activities Director Jon McKnight, and the executive SGA officers, stand their secretaries – Mrs. Elizabeth Briner, Miss Patricia Marceli and Mrs. Janet Young. All of them agree that their secretarial work is pleasingly demanding.

Mrs. Briner has served as Blanton’s secretary for five years and considers her job more of an advocacy than a vocation. “The person I replaced told me no two days would ever be the same,” she said, and insisted that “no truer words were ever spoken.”

The informal confines of the student activities office, Miss Marceli smiled and said: “I wouldn’t trade Mr. McKnight for anyone on campus.” She added that “he shows concern for me as a person, not only as his secretary.”

In the informal offices of the SGA office, Mrs. Young claimed she worked “in the best office on campus.” Entering her sixth round of SGA presidents, Mrs. Young labeled each new takeover “a pleasant adjustment.”

The Women Behind MSC’s Biggies

By Celeste Faone
Staff Writer

Behind every great man there is a woman. And behind Dean Lawton W. Blanton, Student Activities Director Jon McKnight, and the executive SGA officers, stand their secretaries – Mrs. Elizabeth Briner, Miss Patricia Marceli and Mrs. Janet Young. All of them agree that their secretarial work is pleasingly demanding.

Mrs. Briner has served as Blanton’s secretary for five years and considers her job more of an advocacy than a vocation. “The person I replaced told me no two days would ever be the same,” she said, and insisted that “no truer words were ever spoken.”

The informal confines of the student activities office, Miss Marceli smiled and said: “I wouldn’t trade Mr. McKnight for anyone on campus.” She added that “he shows concern for me as a person, not only as his secretary.”

In the informal offices of the SGA office, Mrs. Young claimed she worked “in the best office on campus.” Entering her sixth round of SGA presidents, Mrs. Young labeled each new takeover “a pleasant adjustment.”
are your contact lenses more work than they're worth?

If you're tired of using two or more separate solutions to take care of your contact lenses, we have the solution. It's Lensine the all-purpose lens solution for complete contact lens care—preparing, cleaning, and soaking. Just a drop or two of Lensine before you insert your contacts coats and lubricates the lens surface making it smoother and non-irritating. Cleaning your contacts with Lensine retards the buildup of foreign deposits on the lenses. Lensine is sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic making it ideal for storage of your lenses between wearing periods. And you get a removable storage case on the bottom of every bottle, a

Bacteria cannot grow in Lensine. Caring for contact lenses can be as convenient as wearing them with Lensine, from the Murine Company, Inc.

RESOURCE CENTER ON DRUG ABUSE SET HERE

Montclair State College has established an educational foundation in drug abuse to release information on drug abuse and to serve as a resource center for schools and communities throughout the area. The foundation is the latest in a series of community services being developed by the college's new Community Services Division. It will be administered jointly by Dr. John G. Redd and Dr. Harry H. Holtsma, faculty members of the Panzer School of Social Work.

The foundation's program will expand existing offerings and provide in-service courses with college credit for teachers and adult education courses in local communities.

The foundation will also develop a variety of curriculum materials and offer research programs to help schools and assess current problems.

BUCHNER NOW FULLTIME WITH OVERBOOK PROJECT

Dr. Leonard J. Buchner has resigned as coordinator of the Montclair State College-Essex county Overbrook Hospital affiliation in order to devote full-time to his duties as a psychological services director at the college. He has coordinated the pioneer program since it was established in 1968.

Students and faculty in the art, music and home economics departments have worked with hospital personnel in programs both at the hospital and on campus. A new major in music therapy, currently being developed at the college, will emphasize the kind of field experience the college-hospital affiliation offers. Buchner also hopes that a new major in social work may be developed, making use of the affiliation and others like it.

In addition to special programs, many Montclair State students have participated in Overbrook's college companion program, paying regular visits to patients throughout the year. Buchner is presently working on an evaluation studying the effect of this program on the patients.

FOR THE COACH

The members of his team have said that many times during the season they go out in a meet and perform, not for themselves, but for their coach. Buchner is presently working on a new major in music therapy, currently being developed at the college, which will emphasize the kind of field experience the college-hospital affiliation offers. Buchner also hopes that a new major in social work may be developed, making use of the affiliation and others like it.

In addition to special programs, many Montclair State students have participated in Overbrook's college companion program, paying regular visits to patients throughout the year. Buchner is presently working on an evaluation studying the effect of this program on the patients.

TEACHERS BECAUSE THE REACTIONS OF THE STUDENTS ARE QUITE AUDIBLE WHEN THEY STANDS UP IN FRONT OF THE GROUP — EVEN IF SHE'S OLD AND UGLY, WHISTLES IF SHE'S A PRETTY YOUNG THING.

It was at one of these assemblies last year that Terry Orlick was introduced to the school and the reaction of the girls was a deep sigh.

But Orlick, who was hired as a physical education instructor and who was planning to start a gymnastics team in the school, didn't last too long. In fact, he left the school after two months to coach at Montclair State College.

WATCHED EVERY MOVE

He returned to Red Bank with his team later that year to give an exhibition in gymnastics. I remember sitting in the stands, watching every move he and his team made on the apparatus. I guess I watched more closely than anyone else because the gymnastics team was from MSC and that was the school that I was going to attend in the fall.

Most students at MSC remember him dressed for the meets with double-breasted jackets and his dress "bells." But his team doesn't care about the green sweatshirt he wears during practice. It's Terry Orlick the coach that they care about.

"He doesn't push you too hard," said senior Ron Poling. His teammate, Roger Brown, often says: "If you come to practice and you don't feel good enough to work out he'll tell you to take it easy. But he's the kind of guy that you end up doing five extra routines for."

THE MEMBERS OF HIS TEAM HAVE SAID THAT MANY TIMES DURING THE SEASON THEY GO OUT IN A MEET AND PERFORM, NOT FOR THEMSELVES, BUT FOR THEIR COACH.

In the two years Orlick has coached here, his team has won 21 meets and a conference championship. This year the team became the first Indian team to make it easy. But he's the kind of guy that you end up doing five extra routines for."

FOR THE COACH

The members of his team have said that many times during the season they go out in a meet and perform, not for themselves, but for their coach.

In the two years Orlick has coached here, his team has won 21 meets and a conference championship. This year the team became the first Indian team to break into the nation's top 10. Orlick's gymnasts placed eighth in the NCAA college division tournament held last March in Mankato, Minn.

Next year Orlick will not be on MSC's coaching staff. He'll be working for his doctorate in the sociology of sports and physical activity at the University of Alberta at Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

And when he leaves he'll be missed by a lot of sad gymnasts.
Austrian exchange student, Klaus Nemetz, became the New Jersey State College singles champion last Friday in a tournament held at Montclair State College's tennis courts. Teammate Dan Sullivan, a member of this year's team conference champs, took second in the tourney.

The Indians, who were undefeated, 4-0, in the conference posted a 7-5 overall record and captured the NJSC team title.

"The difference to the team was Klaus Nemetz," stated tennis coach Henry Schmidt. Nemetz finished 9-2 overall, 3-0 in the conference.

Sullivan, who played in the number two spot this year, finished his fourth varsity year with a record of 11 wins and one loss. According to their coach, Sullivan and Nemetz are certain for all-conference spots. "They're the two most outstanding players in the Jersey conference," declared Schmidt.

The team's find performance this year was a turnaround from last year's 3-10 record. "Essentially the team was the same except for Nemetz and Walter Klein. But the team was more dedicated and had more interest this year," commented Schmidt.

Their first loss of the season came in their third match of the campaign against FDU, 9-0. After the shutdown the Indians went on a rampage and shutout three teams, Jersey City State, St. Peter's and Newark State. MSC posted their fourth shutout of the season, 9-0, against Monmouth College later in the season.

Their final match of the year was against Trenton State in a do-or-die match. The win, a close 5-4 decision, gave TSC its second loss of the season and MSC its conference title.

Now only Klein will return to the varsity. For Schmidt 1971 will be a rebuilding year, but the JV's have good material and ended the season at 10-1. Schmidt feels that the fall intramural tennis program will "give an indication of the material we'll have for next year."

Injuns Put Their Way to 5th Victory

For the fifth time in eight years, Coach Jerry De Rosa's golf team has won the New Jersey State College conference for Montclair State College. The team finished with a record of 9-1, a far cry from last year's 3-9 final standing. Their only loss was to Seton Hall, 3-4, in a match that had seven individual matches instead of the usual six.

Teammates Rich Gerber, Bill Asdal and Bernie Schultz picked up some individual awards at the end of the season.

Gerber, an accurate driver and good on short iron shots, won the New Jersey State College Conference Individual Golf Championship with a 75. The junior shot a 36 in the first round and a 39 in the second to win the tourney.

Asdal, a freshman with great promise, tied for seventh with an 83. Starting in the second spot for the team, Asdal is a good middle iron player who finished 8-2 this season.

Schultz hit a 77 in the MGA Intercollegiate Championship for a second place individual title. The Indians came in third in the tourney, which was held May 14 at Harrison, N.Y. with a 333.3 strokes behind the first place team. Schultz, a senior, finished the season with a 5-3-1. Lou Tuccillo and Joe Venti lead the JV's have good material and ended the season at 10-1. Schmidt feels that the fall intramural tennis program will "give an indication of the material we'll have for next year."

Tuccillo and Joe Venti lead the conference title.

"The team opened the season with an impressive win over Seton Hall University," Sullivan contributed two of the points of the match. He won his singles match and later he combined with Nemetz to win the doubles match between the teams.

"I dig the sport," states Sullivan. It is evident that he feels tennis is a swinging sport and judging from his success on and off the court, he is not likely to stop -- swinging that is.

Question Was Life or Death For Sullivan

By Richard Davison
Sports Writer

To be fast and alive or to be fast and dead was the question that Dan Sullivan, Montclair State College tennis player, had to answer at the tender age of 13. He had to decide whether to play high school football or to quit.

"I was a very fast running back in the junior high," grinned Sullivan, "but I was not big enough to play high school ball."

Sullivan was the leading ground-gainer in the midget football league and has very quick reflexes. "I was not big enough when I entered high school," stated Sullivan. "The boys turned into monsters and I was still a little kid," he added.

Sullivan had to decide on something more gentle so he decided to try the sport of tennis. "It was the hardest sport for me to learn," he explained. "That made me work harder at it."

During the summer of 1963, Sullivan made up his mind to be the best at this new-found sport. "I worked four hours every day," laughed Sullivan, "and as a freshman I played doubles."

As a Nutley High School sophomore he became the second best man on the team. But to be second was not good enough for him. Sullivan came back the next year and became the number one man on the team. "I won nearly all my matches," stated Sullivan.

As a senior in high school, Sullivan began to see improvement. He was a finalist in the Essex County Coaching Association tournament and he won the Essex county under-18 tournament. But that was not the end. Sullivan became the Nutley Tennis Club's junior men's singles champion that same year.

When Sullivan came to Montclair State College, he broke into the varsity lineup with no trouble at all. He became the first man on the team and for the last three years has held that position. As a varsity player he has compiled a record of 25 wins while suffering only 8 defeats. And for three years, he has been chosen for the New Jersey State College Conference All-Star team.

During the 1960-70 season Sullivan was selected to appear with an impressive win over the shutout the Indians went on a
MONTCLARION / Wed., May 27, 1970.

24-0 Victory for '69ers

A 24-0 victory for the 1969 varsity football team over last year’s freshmen, transfers and nonparticipating candidates climax the 15-day football spring training last Friday afternoon.

With a 6-0 score at halftime, Guy Bonanno made the first touchdown, followed by Bob Brewer’s 39-yard field goal. Glen Jochhauer brough the score to 16-0 with a 3-yard run, and Rollie Kascher’s 20-yard catch finalized the score.

In addition to the game, special ceremonies were held at halftime to honor 30 men who have been assistant football coaches at MSC over the years.

The Indian’s last four head coaches, Al Coder, 1946-56; Ray Yagello, 1957-59; Jerry Edwards, 1960-65; and Hank Ferris, 1966-68; were also invited to attend.

Assistant coaches invited to attend and take part in the ceremonies were Frank Accocello, Bob Benson, Dave Brower, Bob Bornstein, Bill Byrne, Dick Butterfield, Howie Brower, Bob Bornstein, Bill Byrne, Dick Butterfield, Howie Brower, Stan Werk, Ron Longo, Lee Maisky, Ken Miscia, Fred Mueller, Charlie Roche, Ron Roseboro, Bruce Lackey, Billers, Lee Maisky, Ken Miscia, Fred Mueller, Charlie Roche, Ron Roseboro, Bruce Lackey, Billers, and Ron Sheffield of the Royals and Marv Byers from the Black Barons.

The day’s first ceremony was presented by Frank Accocello, Bob Benson, Dave Brower, Bob Bornstein, Bill Byrne, Dick Butterfield, Howie Brower, Bob Bornstein, Bill Byrne, Dick Butterfield, Howie Brower, Stan Werk, Ron Longo, Lee Maisky, Ken Miscia, Fred Mueller, Charlie Roche, Ron Roseboro, Bruce Lackey, Billers, Lee Maisky, Ken Miscia, Fred Mueller, Charlie Roche, Ron Roseboro, Bruce Lackey, Billers, and Ron Sheffield of the Royals and Marv Byers from the Black Barons.

The Barons never got closer than 2 points to the Ineligibles. They trailed by as many as 12 and got it over the hump. The boards were controlled for the Ineligibles by their forward hallawiggly efforts.

Ineligibles Crown Barons, 42-35

By Don Stewart Special to the Montclarion.

In the May 2 basketball game at Panzer gym, the Ineligibles took the championship by beating the Barons, 42-35.

John Vaughn was voted the most valuable player in the tournament and the top player on the all-tournament team. He was joined on that select squad by Richie Bowen of the Undertakers, Al Thompson and Marv Byers from the Black Barons.

Ineligibles Coach Bob Brewer

The nitecap of the twinbill saw the Undertakers out of the gym with a 42-35 victory. They outscored the Barons, spearheaded by John Vaughn, 24-13.

The Undertakers blew an early 2-point lead to grab a 3-point advantage, 24-21, in the first period. Vaughn and Blue combined for 30 points to help the team take its 11-point lead that seemed to melt away like a hot knife in butter.

The Barons never got closer than 2 points to the Ineligibles. They trailed by as many as 12 and got it over the hump. The boards were controlled for the Ineligibles by their forward hallawiggly efforts.

The Undertakers blew an early 11-point lead that seemed to melt away like a hot knife in butter. But the game stayed close the rest of the way. The Undertakers made almost everything that they shot. Captain Vic Demmings came up clutch and made three straight jumpers from the key to release any doubt in the Undertakers’ mind about their shooting ability. Bowen, playing for the Undertakers, took scoring honors with 13 tallies in a losing effort.

Thursday nite April 30, the scene for the consolation game was College High’s gym. In a game that was thought by many to be a run-away for the Royals saw them just squeeze by to take third place on a 64-62 victory over the Undertakers.

The Undertakers blew an early 11-point lead that seemed to melt away like a hot knife in butter. But the game stayed close the rest of the way. The Undertakers made almost everything that they shot. Captain Vic Demmings came up clutch and made three straight jumpers from the key to release any doubt in the Undertakers’ mind about their shooting ability. Bowen, playing for the Undertakers, took scoring honors with 13 tallies in a losing effort.

The Barons never got closer than 2 points to the Ineligibles. They trailed by as many as 12 and got it over the hump. The boards were controlled for the Ineligibles by their forward hallawiggly efforts.

John Vaughn was voted the most valuable player in the tournament and the top player on the all-tournament team. He was joined on that select squad by Richie Bowen of the Undertakers, Al Thompson and Marv Byers from the Black Barons.

The nitecap of the twinbill saw the Undertakers out of the gym with a 42-35 victory. They outscored the Barons, spearheaded by John Vaughn, 24-13.

The Undertakers blew an early 2-point lead to grab a 3-point advantage, 24-21, in the first period. Vaughn and Blue combined for 30 points to help the team take its 11-point lead that seemed to melt away like a hot knife in butter.

The Barons never got closer than 2 points to the Ineligibles. They trailed by as many as 12 and got it over the hump. The boards were controlled for the Ineligibles by their forward hallawiggly efforts.
Dreams of Peace, Africa and Midsummer Nites

FORSOOTH AND ALL THAT SHAKESPEARIAN DIALOG: Tony Giarmo as King Oberon and Sue Bey as Titania exchange angered glances in the Players performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream."

THE PEACE OF CHRIST BE WITH YOU: Father Davis, Catholic chaplain, offers communion to students during an impromptu mass for peace at the MSC strike.

THIS IS MY HERITAGE: Betty Jean Smith models African garb at the Wantu-Wazuri (Beautiful People) from Mavis, Newark.

AMERICA, WHERE ARE YOU NOW?: Wendy Simon, draped in the American flag, reads the words of Steppenwolf's "The Monster" in a guerilla theater experiment.