3-19-1971

The Montclarion, March 19, 1971

The Montclarion

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/149

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Top of page:

By M. J. Smith
Master Plan Correspondent

GLASSBORO — The third Master hearing, held here March 10, was marked by accusations of "absentee administration" by the state of the proposed Graduate University of New Jersey.

Mrs. Catherine Neuberger, hearing chairman and state Board of Higher Education member, announced that a fourth, previously unscheduled, public hearing would be held late in April. To further information was not available at press time, it is expected that a fifth hearing would also be scheduled. The fourth meeting would be primarily for members of Gov. William T. Cahill's Student Liaison Committee.

DR. GEORGE King, vice president for the division of community services, and Don Pendley, MONTCLAIRTON editor-in-chief, represented Montclair State at the Glassboro testimonies.

Opposing the formulation of a Graduate University from a central board in Newark, King pointed out that such an absentee administration might be the end of most community services that have been recently set up by colleges around the state.

Pendley's testimony was, for the most part, drawn from his presentation before the March 9 MCCC faculty meeting. The junior English major said that if graduate teachers cannot teach undergraduate classes as part of their teaching loads, course offerings might be severely limited.

Answering an accusation by a representative of the New Jersey State Collegiate Faculty that "the scheme was devised in the atmosphere of a Princeton pub," Dr. Bruce Robertson, author of the Phase Two plan and planning director for the Board of Higher Education, said questionnaires were sent around to all colleges.

"In fact, the 7500 figure (a proposed enrollment ceiling) was picked by all colleges except two who wanted 15,000." One of the two schools was allegedly Montclair State.

GLASSBORO PRESIDENT Mark Chamberlain stated that the 7500-student enrollment ceiling "establishes a uniform number that is unrealistic" and that the Graduate University "fails to allow for differentiation in the system." Robertson responded that the 7500-student enrollment figure was only an approximate enrollments could vary from 5000 to 10,000.

Representing the Glassboro faculty, Dr. John Rook agreed with Chamberlain, while emphasizing that the document is a working plan and, if this is a final thing, it is a failure." In urging that all colleges should be involved in a study of the plan, he added that all alternate proposals to the Graduate University should be considered.

Robertson answered by stating there could be either a Graduate University or that only four New Jersey colleges will be assigned masters programs. He did not say which colleges would be allowed to keep their programs.

"IT COULD cost twice as much for one-half the education," declared Dr. John Carmichael of Essex County College, referring to the Graduate University. In stressing the importance of county colleges, he asked for an assurance that all students successfully completing the two-year program will be admitted to a four-year state college. Robertson stated that the assurance is implied through the document.

The Master Plan should promote inventiveness instead of impeding it; promote freedom rather than commonality," declared Dr. Richard Bjork, president of Richard F. Stockton College. While endorsing the plan's suggestions for new dimensions in education, Bjork said the plan's "interest in order is overpowering." Stockton College will open this fall.

NJEA Coordinator for Higher Education William Heywood said the Graduate University idea "does not deserve serious consideration in its present form, as the University of the air and the phantom of the campus."

AMONG OTHERS testifying before Mrs. Neuberger, Robertson, and Board member Mrs. Maxine Colm were Dr. Frank Elliot, Rider College president, and Father Victor Vannielli, St. Peter's College president. A statement from Dr. Robert Goheen, Princeton president, was read. These three private colleges would not be affected by the Master Plan.

IF YOU WANT SOMETHING DONE RIGHT . . .

Breaking the tractor-trod ground for the new mathematics-science building across from Stone and Webster halls are (l-r) Dr. Irwin Gawley, Dean of the School of Mathematics and Science; Dr. Thomas H. Richardson, Montclair State President; and Dr. W. Lincoln Hawkins, MSC Board of Trustees president.

In New Jersey Grad University

Montclair State at the Glassboro testimonies.

Opposing the formulation of a Graduate University from a central board in Newark, King pointed out that such an absentee administration might be the end of most community services that have been recently set up by colleges around the state.

Pendley's testimony was, for the most part, drawn from his presentation before the March 9 MCCC faculty meeting. The junior English major said that if graduate teachers cannot teach undergraduate classes as part of their teaching loads, course offerings might be severely limited.

Answering an accusation by a representative of the New Jersey State Collegiate Faculty that "the scheme was devised in the atmosphere of a Princeton pub," Dr. Bruce Robertson, author of the Phase Two plan and planning director for the Board of Higher Education, said questionnaires were sent around to all colleges.

"In fact, the 7500 figure (a proposed enrollment ceiling) was picked by all colleges except two who wanted 15,000." One of the two schools was allegedly Montclair State.

GLASSBORO PRESIDENT Mark Chamberlain stated that the 7500-student enrollment ceiling "establishes a uniform number that is unrealistic" and that the Graduate University "fails to allow for differentiation in the system." Robertson responded that the 7500-student enrollment figure was only an approximate enrollments could vary from 5000 to 10,000.

Representing the Glassboro faculty, Dr. John Rook agreed with Chamberlain, while emphasizing that the document is a working plan and, if this is a final thing, it is a failure." In urging that all colleges should be involved in a study of the plan, he added that all alternate proposals to the Graduate University should be considered.

Robertson answered by stating there could be either a Graduate University or that only four New Jersey colleges will be assigned masters programs. He did not say which colleges would be allowed to keep their programs.

"IT COULD cost twice as much for one-half the education," declared Dr. John Carmichael of Essex County College, referring to the Graduate University. In stressing the importance of county colleges, he asked for an assurance that all students successfully completing the two-year program will be admitted to a four-year state college. Robertson stated that the assurance is implied through the document.

The Master Plan should promote inventiveness instead of impeding it; promote freedom rather than commonality," declared Dr. Richard Bjork, president of Richard F. Stockton College. While endorsing the plan's suggestions for new dimensions in education, Bjork said the plan's "interest in order is overpowering." Stockton College will open this fall.

NJEA Coordinator for Higher Education William Heywood said the Graduate University idea "does not deserve serious consideration in its present form, as the University of the air and the phantom of the campus."

AMONG OTHERS testifying before Mrs. Neuberger, Robertson, and Board member Mrs. Maxine Colm were Dr. Frank Elliot, Rider College president, and Father Victor Vannielli, St. Peter's College president. A statement from Dr. Robert Goheen, Princeton president, was read. These three private colleges would not be affected by the Master Plan.
SGA SUMMER DIRECTOR

A bill proposing that the summer director of SGA not be a member of the Student Government Association failed after discussion. The bill was submitted by Tom Hayes, physics-earth science representative.

REP APPOINTMENTS

A bill submitted by Tom Benitez, director of SGA, not be a member of SGA executive office. The bill is proposed that the summer director be a member of the Student Government Association.

IN CHARGE: Lenore Silvers and Karen Sims, P.F.'s Follies of ceremonies, run through the program at a rehearsal. The show goes on Fri., March 19 at 7:30 p.m.

“Spring at 'State' — one more 'boo, hiss'”

“It's spring again! The bird's on the wing again!”

That's how the song goes... or went, that is. I have just smashed that Spreisand album in a million bits.

Why? Spring — "Boo, hiss!" [see previous column] because spring at "State" means just one thing: mud.

You remember Orban-Mahogany-Coocheck from last week... our campus map planners. Rumor has it that they're working hand-in-hand with Artistic Corporation in developing a new sculpture form — made from ye olde sodde, mud. And, of course, they've got to make the stuff somewhere, so...

But we've all heard the complaints (shake your head "yes"). So, this is going to be a positive, forward-looking column. It will point out all good aspects of the multi-tudinous mud.

It's going to be a short column.

You've heard that mud facials can make a lady beautiful. Well, maybe it'll make the great Montclair lady just as attractive. And one has to admit that a rich, healthy brown color looks much better on our roads than the ugly asphalt black that most colleges use.

Of course, the predominance of mud, brought on by the heavens-granted droplets of love falling in the incognito of rain, opens up whole new fields of study.

Mud technology, for one. Our freshman enrollment next year will allegedly include 61 (that's sixty-one) mud technology majors. Courses will be offered in "Slag Scrambling I and II," "Sloosh Slicing," and other great courses. Well, at least there'll be an answer to that age-old question, "Well, how practical is a philosophy major?"

Well, gang, here we are... near the end of the column. And we've pointed out all the great aspects of mud. (Actually, it was more difficult than it seemed — I had to interview Dr. Samuel Pratt to get that bit about the mud technology major.)

And aren't you happy. Now you know that the mud is your friend. Just like the rain, the snow, and the Volks that grab that last space in Webster Hall. Spring... "Boo, hiss!"

FILL NOTICE

Residence hall applications for the 1971-1972 school year are still available.

If you have not returned your application for a residence hall assignment please do so immediately. The DEADLINE for all residence hall applications is March 25, 1971. Applications received after this date will not be processed until May.

There are still some openings (particularly for men) in the two coed residence halls.

You are reminded that residence hall assignments are made with priority given to the date of application and to students whose homes are located the greatest distance from campus.

Applications are available in:

Women’s Housing
Freeman Hall

Men’s Housing
217 College Hall

The fish bowl
Student life building

The MONTCLARION is published weekly throughout the college year, September thru May, except during vacation and examination periods, by the Student Government Association, Inc., Montclair State College, Valley road at Norval avenue, Montclair, N.J. 07043. Telephone (201) 753-5001.

Subscription rates per year: $2.50 per academic semester, $3.50 per school year. Advertising rates upon request. Known office of publication, Montclair, N.J. 07043.

The MONTCLARION is a member of the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association, Collegiate Press Service, Newspaper Enterprise Association, United States Student Press Service and United Press International.

The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief.
Moore Resigns Post

By Jo-Ellen Scudese
Staff Writer

Dr. Ward Moore, music department chairman at Montclair State College in the past five years, has submitted his resignation to MSC President, Thomas H. Richardson. The resignation has been approved and the faculty has been meeting to decide upon a successor.

Moore says he is anxious to leave the position as soon as possible. "As you know, being a department chairman is a rather thankless job," he stated.

During his capacity as music department chairman, there has helped to enlarge the music curriculum. "When I took the position, there was only music education which was aimed toward teaching. Now we have majors in such areas as instrumental music, music therapy, theory/ composition and sacred music," he explained.

Moore also played an important role in obtaining full accreditation for the music department in November 1968, from the National Association of Schools of Music. Thru this accreditation, the Association sets standards for curriculum and periodically inspects general facilities.

"The thing I liked most about my position as department chairman was the cooperation of the faculty and the enlargement of the music curriculum," Moore commented. He continued, "but paper work...I don't like the paper work and I hope whoever takes over my position will do a better job in that area."

Moore plans to continue working at MSC as a member of the faculty. He smiled and said, "I could retire next year, but as long as I have a chance to teach, I might as well be present freshman in college, that's unlikely."

Moore was the assistant band conductor at the University of Nebraska. Moore has also taught music classes in all brass instruments, tho, he has a personal preference for the trombone.

With an air of exasperation, Moore commented that in his capacity as music chairman, he is presently working on the fourth year of a Ph.D. "I am fully anticipating that it will most likely be cut. In a comment pertaining to the breaking up the marching band, Moore said that no action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

At the end of the freshman year, it becomes the student's responsibility (with faculty advisement), to outline his own program of study to meet individual needs. Credit will be given for apprenticeship with an artist, job experiences related to studio involvements and travel abroad. Evaluation of the student's work will be accomplished by faculty review committees periodically during the four years of the program.

Moore notes that he would like to reserve his daughter's seat at the banquet for Dr. McDowell.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________

No action by the faculty has been taken yet. In all probability, Moore said a course on marching band teaching techniques would take the place of the marching band requirement.

New Jersey War Day, planned for April 14 at Rutgers/Newark, may be the first large demonstration against the Laos military situation this spring.

March 24, 1971 to:
Marguerie Cox, 208 Russ Hall, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

I would like to reserve ___________ place(s) at the banquet for Dr. McDowell on April 14, 1971.

Enclosed is my check for $_________ ($5.75 per person)

I would like to contribute $_________ toward the gift for Dr. McDowell.

Name ____________________________________________

Address __________________________________________
TWO OF THOSE EGGS SCRAMBLED . . .

Among the sculptures in the Sprague library foyer this week is what appears to be a giant egg, done by John Alcorn.

IN SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY . . .

A bench next to some new-found greenery is the scene for the season's oldest 'student activity.'

PIES IN THE SKY

'WOT'S DA DOT?': Fortunately for this frisbee flier, the all-purpose pie plate is made of plastic for indoor sporting.

ANYWHERE I HANG MY HAT . . .: A sure sign of spring at State are the frisbee flingers, here shown in front of Speech building.

'PI'S IN THE NIGHT': Holding a sign declaring the advantages of the spongy stuff, contestants in Pi's Follies rehearse for tonic's performance.
Mod’ Orange Gals

Unlike Old-Time

Lawrence View

Pat O’Dea at EOCH . . . dressed in real clothes

Carnegie Group Says Colleges Lacking Specific Guidelines.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education during the past few months has been rapidly making national headlines. The organization, chaired by Dr. Clark Kerr, bills itself as a factfinding study group. What they are investigating is how colleges are equipped to deal with situations involving mass disruption and violence. It also adds that colleges should clearly spell out definitions of “dissent” and “disruption.”

The report comes on the heels of a reexamination of campuswide policy by many colleges including Montclair State. Under the SGA Traynor administration, the rights and responsibilities of students were spelled out in a faculty and student-approved document. Rules, however, dealing with student disruptions were null at the time of last May’s student strike. While this posed serious problems for the MSC administration, close consideration has been given to formulation of campuswide policy.

Lacking, however, are concrete plans dealing with the channeling student and faculty grips thru an amicable post. The commission’s report also notes: “… faculty members with tenure, as well as trustees and administrators, all of whom have substantial authority and security, should not inhabit protected enclaves above and beyond the rule of law nor shielded from the legitimate grievances and requests of other elements of a campus.”

A point worth noting.

—D. M. Levine.
A Dangerous Bill On Cahill’s Desk

Sitting on top of Gov. William T. Cahill’s desk is a potentially dangerous bill in the making. It’s officially titled “Bill A-1291” and it pertains to the mass gatherings of persons, for the purposes of musical entertainment or the expression and communication of ideas in connection with public issues.

It requires that a “mass gathering which is likely to attract 3000 or more people and which, without authorization by permit from some official-type body” be authorized by permit from some official-type body.

The bill, passed late last month by the state Legislature, is worded in legalistic language filled with loopholes and vague ideas. Clearly, the intent is to selectively curtail the right of free speech for those seeking an audience.

We need not remind those Trenton bigwigs that the First Amendment, of which this document is in direct contradiction with, has no if’s, and or but’s when it deals with an American’s right to free speech.

While we certainly do not always agree with the marches and ideas set forth by some protesters, the bill jeopardizes everyone’s right to speak their thoughts.

What happens when it deals with an American’s right to free speech.

If the intent of the bill is to limit rock festivals, it requires that a “mass gathering which is likely to attract 3000 or more people and which, without discontinuing or disbanding, continues or is planned to continue for an excess of 12 hours” be authorized by permit from some official-type body.

The bill — in our view — should clearly spell this out. The bill is too filled with vagueness and is covering up its main purpose.

We hope Gov. Cahill re-examines the contents of the bill and tosses it back in the faces of its authors.

We’re Not Really Taking Over

Some people like to think “us college kids” are taking over the world by our theoretical force in numbers. Not a chance.

The latest census found that the median age of Americans had dropped from 29.6 in 1960 to 27.6 in 1970, largely as a result of the continuing effects of the post-World War II baby boom.

The median is a statistical dividing line. Half the population is older than 27.6; half the population is younger.

Our nation has witnessed other population gaps in the past. In 1820 the median age was 16.7. And in 1870 the median was up to 20.1 and 1920, 25.3.

As the baby boom of the past spreads out, some professors worry about the future with a robe of glory, and drag everyone else down with them.

DECENT DRESS

Further he purports that the “revolution,” began with the abolition of “decent dress regulations” (in the colleges), was pushed further by student evaluation of professors, and will ultimately result in total student control of the university. In fact, he implies several times that education was defeated decades ago when “John Dewey and his followers democratized the classroom.” He believes that the future of education will rely on the formation of “new schools, focusing their attentions on ‘the right understanding of human nature and tradition.’”

Molnar is followed by “The Relevant Professor” (Polaris Publications, 1970) by R.E. Strain. Strain is, in his own words, an advocate — a pragmatist who favors an overall education rather than specialization. He, too, begins his book at Berkeley with what he calls the “Filthy Speech Movement.” He, too, sees a takeover of Academia by “Utopians.”

“...It has become almost mandatory,” the professor says at one point, “for both students and professors to support — or at least refrain from challenging — the dogmas proclaimed by ‘liberal’ activists who dominate the infrastructure.”

He claims that this liberalism of the universities is leading to an ideological gap between “town and gown” that will destroy academic freedom. Apparently the town has something to do with the gown’s freedom.

Guest Editorial

By Thomas Benitz, president, Student Government Association:

“I am not a politician. I’m a statesman.”

(Editor’s note: According to sources in the political science department, the definition of a statesman is a dead politician.)
By Jo-Ellen Scudese
Staff writer

It is 5:05 p.m. The last classes for the day division have finally been dismissed. A brow­ beaten coed trudges her way thru the slush and chilly pre-spring rain to her off-campus apartment where she boards with two other coeds. Ten miles from the campus a weary professor just beats her husband home from work. At the opposite end of town a student teacher races the five o’clock traffic to get home in time to cook dinner for her ex­ austed husband.

“My God, what would I do without frozen foods!” Sound familiar? Peg Bracken is not the only one with a comer on the “I hate to cook” (or “I don’t have the time to”) market.

The most amazing thing about today’s commercialized frozen foods is their tremendous variety. One can cook a complete two to eight or more servings of three or four course meals within 20 minutes to half an hour. A person who gets home by 5:30 can still have a “meal fit for a king” by six o’clock.

Strolling along the counter of the frozen food department of your friendly town supermarket, you would come across such frozen hors d’oeuvres as shrimp cocktail, pizza, shrimp rolls and frozen fruit cups.

Estes range anywhere from the standard
Swanson frozen fried chicken and roast beef to Banquet’s ‘Mexican style dinner’ including tamales, beans, chili, chili gravy, rice and beef enchilada. Banquet also puts out a dinner called “gravy, with sliced beef,” for those who are watching their weight.

If you’re tired of plain chicken, you have the option of Peperidge Farm “chicken pastries,” “chicken a la king” or Howard
Johnson “chicken croquettes.”

If you are not a chicken buff, there are always frozen cabbage rolls, stuffed green peppers, spaghetti and meatballs, noodles romanoff, welsh rarebit . . . or the Swanson four-course ham dinner with a special Peperidge Farm recipe corn muffin.

If you happen to be the type who has trouble making up your mind, watch out for the frozen vegetable selection. Besides the regular corn, peas, carrots and beans, there are even vegetables with vegetables. “Green peas and pearl onions,” “corn and peas with tomatoes,” “rice and peas with mushrooms,” “broccoli speaks with Hollandaise sauce,” “sweet potatoes with brown sugar pineapple glaze,” and “French green beans with toasted almonds” are just a few of Bird’s Eye’s exotic combinations. They all come in their own cooking pouch with selected seasonings. Five minutes in boiling water and — voila.

Those with internationally-oriented taste buds will be pleased to find frozen foods such as Chinese rice, sliced zucchini squash, suc
cotash, Italian and French green beans,
Bavarian style beans and spatzel, and Hawaiian style vegetables with pineapple, not to mention the Japanese, Spanish, Danish and Parisian selections (all enhanced with sodium glutamate, sodium phosphate and Vitamin C).

There is also a great variety in frozen dishes. Mrs. Paul has enlarged its stock to include scallops, fish sticks and cakes, all kinds of fillets,—clams and crabs. Shangai even has a new package called “shrimp snax” which look conspicuously like the snap,
’crackle and pop marshmallow and peanut butter treats.

In the realm of desserts, there are the regular apple and blueberry pies and vanilla, chocolate, cherry and pound cakes. Sara Lee also has some delicious frozen brownies and fruit coffee rings. Rich’s puts out scrumptious chocolate eclairs and Bavarian cream puffs.

Peperidge Farm has a nice array of strudel, tarts and turnovers, not to mention the variety of frozen, ready-made puddings that our vegetable people, Bird’s Eye, put out.

One more thing, for those who make it a habit to skip breakfast because of lack of time. Fresh and Ready now puts out four types of frozen omelets — plain, bacon, cheese and western.

What more could a modern homemaker (or a very rushed student and/or teacher) ask for?
Cafeteria food

By Diane Forden
Staff writer

The highest quality and the greatest quantity are the goals of the cafeteria food service at Montclair State according to Harold Ostroff, food services director.

The breakfasts and lunches served at Grace Freeman Hall and the dinners served at the student life building for several hundred meal ticket holders are the end results of much preliminary planning.

Food is purchased from local companies and shipped daily to MSC, except on weekends. Ostroff explained that the food service buys according to the stipulations of the college and the food company. "We constantly check the quality of the food and its preparation," he noted, "It is only thru this method that we can assure the highest standard of food for the students."

One employee, occupying a full time position, is responsible for purchasing the food and checking its quality once it has been delivered. When the food has received his OK it is then stored in huge walk-in refrigerators which line the walls like steel vaults. "There is an unlimited amount of refrigeration and storage," Ostroff said, "everything is properly refrigerated."

Each meal is prepared immediately prior to the serving. "We never prepare a meal a day in advance," Ostroff emphasized, "lunch for the day is prepared in the morning and dinner is prepared in the afternoon."

A full time kitchen staff of 40 is responsible for the actual preparation of the food. There are head chefs, sub chefs and grill chefs who use special grills, broilers and confection ovens. "The use of so many ovens helps us as a school to raise the standard of our food as high as possible," Ostroff noted.

Altho the kitchen staff prepares the meals, Ostroff and his office staff are responsible for determining the composition of the menu. They must decide the variety of foods, the dietary benefits and the quantity. "We don't run a cycle menu," Ostroff emphasized. "We plan each meal carefully and we don't serve the same meals on set days."

"Chicken in any shape or form" is the favorite dish of MSC students, according to Ostroff. Other popular meals are steak, veal cutlet parmeigiana, spaghetti and meatballs and fish. There are never less than three different desserts, five salads and seven beverages at each meal. "In fact," Ostroff remarked, "we've received requests from a lot of other schools to use our menu."

Despite this careful planning and preparation, there are many students dissatisfied with the quality of cafeteria food. One student remarked, "It leaves a lot to be desired." Other students said "it's very, very poor" and that "it literally stinks."

A young girl said that she had been "eating nothing but vegetables the past week." Another commented that "it was ten times better than last year."

Food and the single student

By M. J. Smith
Staff writer

Since the dawn of higher education, college students have complained about what is euphemistically called "cafeteria food." But the poor dorm student is the one who has suffered the most from this lowest form of restaurants. He is forced to suffer thru three meals a day — or starve.

Recently, in a desperate attempt to avoid ptomaine poisoning, some enterprising students have devised 1001 ways to feed themselves without the aid of a major appliance. On most campuses that cater specifically to boarders, each room can rent a refrigerator which keeps fruit, cheese, bread and cold-cuts fresh. Voila — sandwiches just like Mother used to make.

Now that the mercury content in most fish has been declared negligible, tuna salad is a quick and easy meal — one girls dorm at American University has been living on it for over a year now.

A hairdryer can double as a low-heat bun warmer. Great for everything from coffeecake to Italian bread — just pop the food inside the bonnet and switch it on to high. Even an electric coffeepot can be transformed, if necessary. Besides providing coffee that tastes like coffee, the heating coils in the base are warm enough to make soup, beans or canned ravioli. And, if a roommate gets really frantic for home one Sunday morning, bacon and eggs on foil is perfect.

Of course, a hotplate is a more standard appliance. Now able to boil water, a student can really go gourmet. "Packaged beef stroganoff," "spaghetti a la one-pot" and canned "chicken chow mein" are only a few of the unlimited possibilities for the inventive student.

If one's roommate happens to have Rockefeller or Vanderbilt for a last name, perhaps a grill will be available. With the epitome of dorm cooking planning a menu is no longer a problem — pancakes or English muffins for breakfast, steak and tomatoes for lunch and herbed chicken for dinner. The Manor it isn't, but with just a little training even a football player can learn to cook a mean hotdog — even if it is over the radiator.
Gourmet Cuisine

Pureed Rutabaga, Anyone?

By Suzie Hrasna

Staff writer

Snail shells and canned elephant meat are sweeping the country along with many other gourmet dishes. It can be great fun looking around in a gourmet market. Once I even bought something—green turtle soup—but I haven’t had the nerve to try it yet.

On my last trip to a gourmet shop, I found that they were selling a new magazine on gourmet cooking. It is called, of all things, Gourmet. I couldn’t resist. I bought it, if only to look at the pictures.

The pictures in this magazine could inspire Peg Bracken, but alas, the recipes are often discouraging. The picture of the Salsify Fritters for instance, looked delicious until I found out that salsify was an ingredient and not a way of cooking fritters. If you know what a salsify is, then you must be a gourmet. Bouillabaisse is another dish which looks truly inspiring from the picture. Then I read the ingredients. It calls for at least five different types of fish. It serves ten people. I’ll have to remember it next time I run a house party.

The pictures in this magazine could inspire Peg Bracken, but alas, the recipes are often discouraging. The picture of the Salsify Fritters for instance, looked delicious until I found out that salsify was an ingredient and not a way of cooking fritters. If you know what a salsify is, then you must be a gourmet. Bouillabaisse is another dish which looks truly inspiring from the picture. Then I read the ingredients. It calls for at least five different types of fish. It serves ten people. I’ll have to remember it next time I run a house party.

Diets

By Carla Capizzi

Staff Writer

Millions of Americans, young and old, fight a daily battle where victory is counted in inches and pounds. Their enemy comes in the guise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. The obese have only two weapons to rely on: disguise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. It serves ten people.

A daily battle where victory is counted in inches and pounds. Their enemy comes in the guise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. The obese have only two weapons to rely on: disguise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. It serves ten people.

One of the most popular and successful diets is that of the international Weight Watchers organization. Several hundred thousand people around the world have followed the Nibbler’s Diet. It operates on the premise that eating small amounts frequently is more healthy and less fattening than eating three meals daily.

Another very popular fad diet was the Banana Diet. Those who followed it had only to stay away from starches and sweets, and then could eat and drink all they wished. They actually gained weight instead, but were too bombed to notice or care.

Five diet plans is that of the international Weight Watchers organization. Several hundred thousand people around the world have followed the Nibbler’s Diet. It operates on the premise that eating small amounts frequently is more healthy and less fattening than eating three meals daily.

Another very popular fad diet was the Banana Diet. Those who followed it had only to stay away from starches and sweets, and then could eat and drink all they wished. They actually gained weight instead, but were too bombed to notice or care.

Gourmet dishes seem to be made up of the most unlikely food combinations. I can imagine, such as Veal with Sour Cream and Wine Sauce, or Garlic Soup with Grapes. Next time I have 24 hours with nothing to do but turn a hare, I’ll try this one.

Gourmet dishes seem to be made up of the most unlikely food combinations. I can imagine, such as Veal with Sour Cream and Wine Sauce, or Garlic Soup with Grapes. Next time I have 24 hours with nothing to do but turn a hare, I’ll try this one.

Millions of Americans, young and old, fight a daily battle where victory is counted in inches and pounds. Their enemy comes in the guise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. The obese have only two weapons to rely on: disguise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. It serves ten people.

One of the most popular and successful diets is that of the international Weight Watchers organization. Several hundred thousand people around the world have followed the Nibbler’s Diet. It operates on the premise that eating small amounts frequently is more healthy and less fattening than eating three meals daily.

Another very popular fad diet was the Banana Diet. Those who followed it had only to stay away from starches and sweets, and then could eat and drink all they wished. They actually gained weight instead, but were too bombed to notice or care.

Gourmet dishes seem to be made up of the most unlikely food combinations. I can imagine, such as Veal with Sour Cream and Wine Sauce, or Garlic Soup with Grapes. Next time I have 24 hours with nothing to do but turn a hare, I’ll try this one.

Millions of Americans, young and old, fight a daily battle where victory is counted in inches and pounds. Their enemy comes in the guise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. The obese have only two weapons to rely on: disguise of cakes, candies and other rich foods. It serves ten people.

One of the most popular and successful diets is that of the international Weight Watchers organization. Several hundred thousand people around the world have followed the Nibbler’s Diet. It operates on the premise that eating small amounts frequently is more healthy and less fattening than eating three meals daily.

Another very popular fad diet was the Banana Diet. Those who followed it had only to stay away from starches and sweets, and then could eat and drink all they wished. They actually gained weight instead, but were too bombed to notice or care.

Gourmet dishes seem to be made up of the most unlikely food combinations. I can imagine, such as Veal with Sour Cream and Wine Sauce, or Garlic Soup with Grapes. Next time I have 24 hours with nothing to do but turn a hare, I’ll try this one.
Restaurants

‘It’s down the road
A piece

Ann’s Clam Bar Restaurant (1), 320 Valley Road, West Orange, is a very fine Italian restaurant specializing in seafood. The prices are reasonable and the food is more than worth it. Ann’s has a friendly atmosphere, and the dress is casual, it’s a “classy joint” and you wouldn’t feel out of place being dressed up. There is also a bar and cocktail lounge. Hours are 4 p.m. to 1 a.m.

— Suzie Hraun.

Burns Country Inn (2), 955 Valley Road, Montclair, is a place with a little more atmosphere than most eateries today, with dinners running the gamut from $5.75 for swordfish steak to $8 for filet mignon. The menu, containing various varieties of seafood as well as turkey, chicken and beef, is accompanied by a minimum amount of light and exceptional service.

— Carol Sakowitz.

Dairy Queen (3), Route 46 east, Little Falls, will fit into the budgets of those students who have just enough money to spend on gas and a ticket to a basketball game. DQ burgers run about 60 cents and there’s a burger special which includes french fries and lettuce and tomato for just over $1. But the most fun is the counter located at the rear of the main counter which contains just enough garnishes to make the weidest combinations possible.

— C.S.

Giuliano’s (4), Van Houten Ave., Clifton, is a charming Italian restaurant where you think you should know everyone who enters the door. The waitresses are just chatty enough to be friendly, but good enough to merit a dollar’s worth of gratitude for a meal well-served. The main item that will draw you back to Giuliano’s, tho, is the food. Tremendous. Always served in piping hot, well-prepared form. The cuisine is typically pizzazz in the best of ways—tasty. Prices are low enough to aid the digestive juices.

— Don Penley.

Goody’s (5), Route 46 east, Little Falls, is a drive-in, eat-in-the-car place that’s just great for grabbing a quick meal. The southern fried chicken is pretty good, the hamburgers and french are the usual. What’s really good about Goody’s is the warm, white apple pie for dessert... it makes the whole meal worth while.

— S.H.

International House of Pancakes (6), 543 Bloomfield Ave., Bloomfield; 631 Bloomfield Ave., Verona Route 46, Parsippany; is a nationwide chain of prefab eateries specializing in—yes, you guessed it—pancakes. Ordering anything other than breakfast foods in these places can be a risky business, but the pancakes are so much better than those Grandma used to make. There are—just for starters—apple pancakes, southern pecan pancakes, and crepe suzettes. If you asked, I think they’d even make caviar pancakes... assuming you brought the caviar. The places are kind of crowded and the service sometimes suffers from the prefab production-line architectural environment, but the thought of pancakes for breakfast, lunch and/or supper more than justifies their existences. Oh yes—probably the most fun of going to the International House of Pancakes is filling out the flipside of the checks, containing plenty of space for comments. Fine practice for an up-and-coming restaurant reviewer.

— D. P.

Jencarelli’s Pizzeria (7), 118 Walnut St., Montclair, is a nice place to go to pick up a pizza—they’ve got the best in town. However, they don’t have a place to eat, so find a place to go to consume your meal. They also deliver.

— Paula MacInlyce.

Monte Clara Restaurant (8), 646 Valley Road, Montclair, is a small family place specializing in Italian cuisine. For some reason, it’s remained relatively unknown, so it’s generally quiet enough to enjoy. The food is good, but the typically suburban-Italian fare (pizza and spaghetti) sometimes falls victim to its frequent preparation—too much, too often, makes for so-so taste. But the less-requested meals (particularly the ravioli) are of a better quality than most Italian eateries offer these days. It’s a walk-up counter, so don’t entertain the boss there. But it’s a pleasant place to catch a quick Italian dinner. Open evenings only.

— D. P.

Robin Hood Inn (9), 1129 Valley Road, Clifton, runs in the same fashion as Burns, only a little more expensive. It’s a good place to go before a formal dance or to impress your girlfriend’s parents. Dinners start at $4.50 and every meal is enhanced by the lavish surroundings.

— C.S.

Roberto’s (10), 575 Northfield Ave., West Orange, is a great Italian restaurant with every Italian dish that you could think of—and many American, too. The cooking cannot be surpassed, and it just might be a nice place to go with a group of friends on a rainy Saturday afternoon. Prices are moderate.

— P.M.

Rod’s 1920’s Road House (11), 525 Northfield Ave., West Orange, is very plush and very 1920s with a fabulous train car used for semi-private dining if you so desire. I do (reservations only). If you just want cocktails and conversation and maybe some pool, try the lounge. It’s a tremendous wood-paneled room with all antique furniture and it’s never crowded. It’s the most comfortable place I have ever been to. The main dining room and bar are off the lounge. Dinner is about $8 per person and well worth it.

— Joan Gannon.

Stefan House (12), 103 Valley Road, Clifton, is an “intimate little joint” that’s frequented by MSC’s players. The Stefan House specializes in Italian dishes. The kitchen is run by the capable hands of “Mama,” and the drinks, which don’t run more than $1, are served by a bartender who is “something else.” Dishes such as manicotti and meatball sandwiches are inexpensive but extremely good.

— C.S.

Three Crowns Restaurant (13), 488 Bloomfield Ave., Montclair, is famous for their Swedish smorgasbord. But, if you don’t like Swedish smorgasbord, they have a fine menu complete with the usual steak and roast beef. The atmosphere is similar to that of a European basement supper club. A full dinner runs about $7 per person.

— P.M.

West’s Diner (14), Route 46 east, Clifton, is one of those diners that think’s it’s a restaurant. There are charming hostesses that tell you to “enjoy your food” (not eat it—enjoy it) and waitresses who can never quite decide if you’re at one of their tables. Orders must be given very explicitly for their mildly over-priced goodies. Their full dinners (particularly the chicken) aren’t half bad, but steer clear of the hamburger-cheeseburger grind if you want to return.

— D. P.
Wendy Simon

... 'Old Glory' unfulfilled

A Little Chicken Soup, Maybe?

Kosher Diners Offer Something Even for a 'Goy' (Non-Jew)

NEWARK--It was nearing 2:15 p.m. and Harvey Frischer and I decided we couldn't take another one of those eighth-period study halls, especially because it was Friday. It just seemed that the teachers at Weequahic tried to get their last licks in by keeping us seated in those ghastly hot auditorium chairs making us read whatever we were supposed to read. Physics on acoustics.

Since Harvey had a crisp $5 bill in his pocket, we decided to scoot out of school as fast as our feet would carry us. We didn't look back because old man Epstein might be watching us thru his window in the principal's office. We ran down Chancellor avenue and dashed right into Harry's Delicatessen.

'There, old Harry would make the biggest, thickest roast beef sandwiches you've ever seen. It would be smothered in Russian dressing and gently placed between two fresh, thick-sliced pieces of Jewish rye. As a side dish, we'd have a bowl of French onion soup for a dollar. A million of them. And, of course, all the tea you could drink.

'Have a glass a tea, Dawwah. It's good for you,' Harry would say.

Harry really didn't mind if Harvey and I sat there for hours on end. We used to sit there and talk about Saturday night's date or plan on ways to make a million without really trying.

Sometimes old man Epstein would come down to Harry's just to see who's cutting what chicken soup with krepelach (meat wrapped in dough--like rastlaf) and a thick corned beef sandwich at Village Delicatessen, route 46 at Piaget Avenue, Clifton, for just under $1.30. And Harry's Restaurant, Halsey street at Branford place, Newark, offers a choice selection of kosher foods such as chicken saladami, tongue, pistrami, ad infinitum, ready to be served to you on Jewish rye, of course. The atmosphere at Harry's is sweet and almost mirthful. You might want to try a bottle of celery soda, a favorite among North Jersey Jews.

Business among the few remaining delicatessens is brisk in this day of the supermarket because there are so many of them nowadays. Most of them are--or were--owned by erstwhile European Jews who came to America's shores in the early part of the century. Competition ranging from fantastic roast beef--to liver, steaks and stews. A word of caution: If you offer bagels, lox and cream cheese--they will be every Sunday morning Jewish dish. And the place for lox (as well as other delicacies) Tabachnick's, 672 Chancellor Ave., Irvington. I was personally raised on Mrs. Tabachnick's famous cut-off-the-fish nova lox--imported from Nova Scotia--as well as her dozens of salads and spreads. Lox goes for about $2 a half-pound nowadays and is well worth the price. You might want to try a half-pound of fresh-cut cream cheese with scallops--for 63 cents each. If you can walk right across the street to Watson's bagel bakery to get the most delicious hot bagels baked right in front of you. They come salted, onion-flavored or just plain for nine cents each. There's also a fine bagel bakery at route 46 near Piaget avenue, Clifton, offering the same variety and quality. You can make it right for butter or cream cheese at 75 cents a dozen.

If you're interested in simply buying a half-pound of this and a little of that just to munch on, you might want to try a bottle of celery soda, a favorite among North Jersey Jews.

If you're not completely sold on Jewish food, but would like to sample a little, you might do well to try some of the afore-mentioned delicatessens' takeout department. Some even offer bagels, lox and cream cheese--they will be every Sunday morning Jewish dish. And the place for lox (as well as other delicacies) Tabachnick's, 672 Chancellor Ave., Irvington. I was personally raised on Mrs. Tabachnick's famous cut-off-the-fish nova lox--imported from Nova Scotia--as well as her dozens of salads and spreads. Lox goes for about $2 a half-pound nowadays and is well worth the price. You might want to try a half-pound of fresh-cut cream cheese with scallops--for 63 cents each. If you can walk right across the street to Watson's bagel bakery to get the most delicious hot bagels baked right in front of you. They come salted, onion-flavored or just plain for nine cents each. There's also a fine bagel bakery at route 46 near Piaget avenue, Clifton, offering the same variety and quality. You can make it right for butter or cream cheese at 75 cents a dozen.

By

D.M.
Levine

FREEDOM'S GOAL'S IN 'GLORY'

Stan Grajewski, SGA vice-president, believes OLD GLORY symbolizes the "unity of the nation" and the "goal of freedom." He defies desecration as anyone "who openly attempts to make a disrespectful display of the flag."

All these opinions have much validity. The charge of "unfulfilled goals" is, unfortunately, true. Yet bills such as the Civil Rights Act, prove that the country is at least striving to correct injustices which date back to the Revolution.

Dissect a Cornerstone

Responsible dissent is a cornerstone of our republic and without it, democracy would cease to exist. Irresponsible abuse of the flag is self-destructing. It draws attention away from today's problems and engenders a needless debate over the banner we are supposed to respect.

Thousands of men have died for OLD GLORY over the past 195 years. Their sacrifice was not for a piece of cloth but for the ideals that cloth symbolized. The ideals of freedom, justice and equality which make this country unlike any other nation in the world.

Richard Insley

Untrue Portrait

Of Viet Policy

While the true picture of what is going on now in Southeast Asia is available, it does take a bit of digging to get the information due to some cover up by the government. Because the government may be lying and because many of us fail to see thru these lies, this column will be devoted exclusively to the subject of the war in Indochina until the last American soldier, plane and military "adviser" has been withdrawn.

It does not now appear that such withdrawal is imminent. Instead, the war and our involvement is spreading rapidly. While Laos may have been attempted to cover up for the disastrous venture in Cambodia, the lack of success there may make an invasion of North Vietnam possible.

Such an invasion is certainly not unforeseeable. Let's take a look at the evidence:

* The Thieu-Ky regime is calling an invasion of the north "inevitable" and we haven't objected.

* Nixon has stopped promising that we wouldn't invade the north and simply said that we have no plans to do so at this time.

* The Thieu-Ky regime is calling an invasion of the north "inevitable" and we haven't objected.

* Something is probably not true since contingency plans exist for virtually every military alternative.

* Both South Vietnamese and American experts have stated that the ARVN would need both ground and air support from U.S. forces in order to mount such an operation.

TOTAL DEFEAT?

If this is Nixon's idea of an "honorable peace," then he must mean that we must be totally defeated. A prospect not as unlikely as it sounds. The present direction of our military fortunes in Vietnam are leading us straight into another Dien Bien Phu. The South Vietnamese army has been battling virtually eliminated in Laos and may be doing even worse in Cambodia, according to reports.

In Vietnam, the thinning of the forces have made possible several successful guerilla attacks on allied positions which have gone virtually unreported in the mass media due to Nixon's new policy of restricting and intimidating press coverage of the war. Further spreading the war into North Vietnam would make our now-deteriorating military position totally untenable.
The microphone that destroyed Piedmont, N. M.

By Chuck Ward
Staff reviewer

Sometimes in a noble effort to add the gleam of authenticity to a science fiction flick, the romance will talk itself into a slow, pain­ful boxoffice death. Others, however, can skillfully blend action and drama while inter­spersing facts and data needed for technically sound sci-fi films.

Robert Wise’s production of "The Andromeda Strain" is unquestionably a member of the latter category.

Adapted from a bestselling novel by Michael Crichton, "Andromeda," is the remak­ment of a group of handpicked scientists’ race against time to save mankind from total annihil­ation.

This is not to say that the film is in the vein of "The Blob," any one of hundred of other poor monster flicks. The "mon­ster," in "Andromeda," is extra-terrestrial and, as yet, not actually encountered by man, is scientifically plausible.

PLAUSIBILITY IS KEYNOTE

Plausibility — that is the key­note of this film. The force which threatens man’s existence is a tiny micro-organism brought into the earth’s atmosphere on the remains of one of NASA’s early space probes. The organism infects the remote desert village of Piedmont, N. M., killing all but 2 soldiers of its inhabitants.

The hectic struggle to solve the mystery of the microbe and find the biological link between two survivors, a two-month old infant and a Stenno-drinking doppelganger, would be enough to en­gorge the average sci-fi audience. But it is the know­ledge that what one witnesses during the 130-minute running time of the picture could con­ceivably occur which sets one’s nerves on edge.

On the production side, it is a joy to view the product of Wise’s return to sci-fi/fantasy films. Altoh in all fairness, "Andromeda" must be labeled "science fact." In the past few years the production of the "Body Snatchers," and created what many critics have called the finest domestic sci-fi film, "The Day The Earth Stood Still." Until "Andromeda," his most recent offering was the 1964 psychological thriller "The Haunting," in which he acted as director.

When "The Andromeda Strain" opens at New York’s Cinema I on March 21, a look at the ticket-holders might prove interesting. The film has been called "G" rated, but the publicity department had added a tag that states (and rightly so) that the film may be too "in­tense" for younger children. All one can hope is that, for once, the "G" rating holds up its end. Until word gets around, "The Andromeda Strain," the first "G"-rated "R" flick, may have trouble finding its audience.

David Burns — A genius

The name of the show in "70-Girls-70." In a way it aptly described David Burns. "Girls" told the story of men and women committed to a rest home by reasons of age. Being so active during their lives, they just couldn’t take the ghastly slow pace of resting before they die. So they decided to put on a burlesque show. It put Gypsie Rose Lee and her friends to sham­e.

David Burns was like that. At age 70, he was at the height of his popularity. You must have seen him about 1001 times during the course of going to Broadway shows. Except, you just can’t seem to place him. You’ve heard him on those dog food commercials. As her per­formance as the dapper colorful character. He was always ideally cast. He was, indeed, a theatrical genius. The kind of genius who never quite makes top billing — the kind of man the company could never do without.

David Burns won’t be around to college that Tony, should he win. He collapsed Friday during the middle of the second act of "70-Girls-70." He will be sorely missed.

David Burns

---

"Abelard" sends us back for more

NEW YORK — Any entertain­ment that sends one back to the source, not thru boredom, but because of interest, has to be dismissed as merely "70-Girls-70." In a way it aptly described David Burns. "Girls" told the story of men and women committed to a rest home by reasons of age. Being so active during their lives, they just couldn’t take the ghastly slow pace of resting before they die. So they decided to put on a burlesque show. It put Gypsie Rose Lee and her friends to shame.

David Burns was like that. At age 70, he was at the height of his popularity. You must have seen him about 1001 times during the course of going to Broadway shows. Except, you just can’t seem to place him. You’ve heard him on those dog food commercials. As her per­formance as the dapper colorful character. He was always ideally cast. He was, indeed, a theatrical genius. The kind of genius who never quite makes top billing — the kind of man the company could never do without.

David Burns won’t be around to college that Tony, should he win. He collapsed Friday during the middle of the second act of "70-Girls-70." He will be sorely missed.

---

Beg pardon!

Due to a printer’s error, William Gruner’s name was not printed with his review of Players’ "Journey of the Fifth Horse" last week. Pardon our sin of omission.
MUSIC ORGANIZATIONS COMMISSION presents . . .

Giacomo Oliva piano soloist

Marcia Saxe clarinetist

NEW JERSEY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Thurs., March 25 — noon — Memorial auditorium

ADMISSION: SGA — $1; Others — $2

TICKETS AVAILABLE AT DOOR
Fortune Store Returns To MSC

By Sue Reeves
Staff Writer

In an attempt to exhibit the creativity and the special talents of exconvicts, the Fortune Society will again sponsor the Fortune Store at Montclair State.

Steven Chase, administrative assistant of MSC's community services division and a tutor at Caldwell County Prison, described the Fortune Society as an organization "that strives to educate the public about prison life as well as to assist exconvicts in their readjustment to the world beyond the iron bars."

CHASE COMMENTED that the store, which has its headquarters in Greenwich Village, "not only hires excons, thus helping them to reenter society, but allows them to assume the responsibility of running the operation." He commented that items to be sold include leather goods such as belts, posters, jewelry and knit handbags. Also available are many books sold at half-price as well as a fantastic library of books on prison life written by inmates and experts on the subject, he added.

Chase explained that the store has a regular route of colleges at which it appears, and that it depends on these exhibits for funds. He pointed out that the store was presented at MSC last December and was "received very well by MSC students."

ACCORDING TO Chase, projects such as this have stimulated interest on campus in prison work. One example of this is the Campus-Community Scholar Program course entitled "Crime and Punishment," which is a seminar taught by former prison inmates. In addition, 31 MSC students are tutoring inmates at Caldwell County Prison in basic skills.

Chase cited these developments as evidence that the Fortune Society "can influence students thru its store's college circuit." He added that these funds enable the organization to continue its functions as a counseling service and problem-solver for ex-convicts, as they reclaim their place among their fellow citizens.

How to combine economics with a little psychology by phone.

It's a fiscal fact, there are two simple ways to save money when calling from your room phone.

ONE. Dial your own calls. Most rates on calls are lower when you dial it yourself without operator assistance.

TWO. Dial during bargain calling times. For example, on weekends, or after 7 p.m. on weeknights, for directly dialed calls within New Jersey. And on weekends, or after 5 p.m. weekdays, for directly dialed calls to other states.

So when you call home next time, dial the call yourself during discount hours. And then add a little extra psychology. Tell your parents how you're saving them money... before you ask for some.
AC Hustlers Take Nat East IM Title

The AC Hustlers clinched the National East title Monday night with a 46-40 victory over the Spirit of '72. It was a hard fought victory as they held off the physically tougher Spirits. The turning point in the game occurred at 10:57 when Jerry Caputo fouled out for the Spirit of '72. It was then that the Hustlers began their final move. Guard Jim Belmonte, who sparked the hustlers with 12 points, pumped in the last 4 of the game to ice the victory.

RICH RASCNYK

First Middle Atlantic Tourney. Jim is a real professional when he's feeling up to par. Cresbaugh, a physical education major who was rewarded anyway because they have this thing about seeing their all third. Week's Eastern Regionals with three juniors who claim toQ without a doubt, these guys have a lot of class. Too bad it's broadcast team from our radio station — WVMS, and of and then threatened to come apart at the sides at 75 m.p.h. As if that wasn't bad enough, the wheels were not properly aligned and it ate gas. We reached Buffalo in a remarkable 6% hours under the conditions and, with proper flat tire. Naturally, the Rambler Ambassador station wagon can find a hotel. Win or loose, the weekend was dynamic.

Alpha "A" Bowlers Grab NL Top Spot

Alpha Sigma Mu "A" opened a 15-1 tie with Tau Sigma Delta in the National league race Tuesday by taking 3 games to Tau's 1. Tau's Paul Awramko gave his the team the advantage in the first set by rolling a 231. Tau Keglers copped the first game by a meager 7 pins, 478-471. BUT ALPHA "A" caught fire in the second game and led by John Snyder's 221, beat by Tau by 21 pins. The veterans only rolled 508 in the third game, but that was good enough to beat Tau's 474. Alpha "A" picked up another point on total pins. Awramko had the day's high series with a 3-game total of 585. Snyder rolled the third high series, 550. IN THE American league, first place Vanilla Fudge split the 4-game set with Tau Lambda Beta. Led by Wayne Potente's 190, the Fudge rolled a 530 to win the second game of the day. Bob Zetlin's series of 509 provided the impetus for Alpha Phi Omega to take 4 games from Lamba Chi Delta in another national league contest. Alpha Phi Omega stands at fourth place in the division, with a log of 9-11. Lambda is sixth with an 8-12 mark.

NO BRAKES

Vince Calabrese, vice president of business and financial services, provided the automobile which was supposed to get us to and from Buffalo. The car had no brakes to speak of and then threatened to come apart at the sides at 75 m.p.h.

As if that wasn't bad enough, the wheels were not properly aligned and it ate gas. We reached Buffalo in a remarkable 6% hours under the conditions and, with Calabrese's permission, had the car serviced at a nearby station. That was a mistake. Just having left Buffalo on Sunday morning, we got a flat tire. Naturally, the Rambler Ambassador station wagon was not equipped with a jack, and we had to ride the rim to reach yet another station. With that taken care of, Cresbaugh was the victim of a speed trap on the New York Thruway. The radar had us moving at 85 and the limit is 65. The radar was inaccurate. He was doing 90.

As a representative of the media from Montclair State College, I had the extreme pleasure of traveling to last week's Eastern Regionals with three juniors who claim to be the coolest around. The trio was comprised of the broadcast team from our radio station — WVMS, and without a doubt, these guys have a lot of class. Too bad it's all third.

They need no introduction, but I'm going to give one anyway because they have this thing about seeing their names in print. Besides, I owe them equal time. Handling the play by play for the first time ever was Jim Cresbaugh, a physical education major who was rewarded with the title of assistant sports director after Friday's game. Jim is a real professional when he's feeling up to par.

EXPLOSIVE COMMENTS

The sports director of WVMS is the ever popular Tom Super. She worked the team hard. The quality of their coach, though, was not equipped with a jack, and we had to ride the rim to reach yet another station. With that taken care of, Cresbaugh was the victim of a speed trap on the New York Thruway. The radar had us moving at 85 and the limit is 65. The radar was inaccurate. He was doing 90.

Jim dente

As a representative of the media from Montclair State College, I had the extreme pleasure of traveling to last week's Eastern Regionals with three juniors who claim to be the coolest around. The trio was comprised of the broadcast team from our radio station — WVMS, and without a doubt, these guys have a lot of class. Too bad it's all third.

They need no introduction, but I'm going to give one anyway because they have this thing about seeing their names in print. Besides, I owe them equal time. Handling the play by play for the first time ever was Jim Cresbaugh, a physical education major who was rewarded with the title of assistant sports director after Friday's game. Jim is a real professional when he's feeling up to par.

EXPLOSIVE COMMENTS

The sports director of WVMS is the ever popular Tom Super. She worked the team hard. The quality of their coach, though, was not equipped with a jack, and we had to ride the rim to reach yet another station. With that taken care of, Cresbaugh was the victim of a speed trap on the New York Thruway. The radar had us moving at 85 and the limit is 65. The radar was inaccurate. He was doing 90.

As a representative of the media from Montclair State College, I had the extreme pleasure of traveling to last week's Eastern Regionals with three juniors who claim to be the coolest around. The trio was comprised of the broadcast team from our radio station — WVMS, and without a doubt, these guys have a lot of class. Too bad it's all third.

They need no introduction, but I'm going to give one anyway because they have this thing about seeing their names in print. Besides, I owe them equal time. Handling the play by play for the first time ever was Jim Cresbaugh, a physical education major who was rewarded with the title of assistant sports director after Friday's game. Jim is a real professional when he's feeling up to par.

EXPLOSIVE COMMENTS

The sports director of WVMS is the ever popular Tom Super. She worked the team hard. The quality of their coach, though, was not equipped with a jack, and we had to ride the rim to reach yet another station. With that taken care of, Cresbaugh was the victim of a speed trap on the New York Thruway. The radar had us moving at 85 and the limit is 65. The radar was inaccurate. He was doing 90.

Cathy Paskert

First Middle Atlantic Tourney.

Squaws Move Up In Hoop Tourney

By Lynda Emery

Sports Writer

NEWARK, DEL. — Freshman Mary Hayek pumped in 10 baskets yesterday to lead MSC's women hoopers past Monmouth, 53-46, in the first round of the Middle Atlantic Women's Intercollegiate Regional Basketball Tournament.

Today, Coach Cathy Paskert built a West Chester State in the semifinals at the University of Delaware. Each year from New Jersey the top four women's college basketball teams are chosen, along with the four outstanding teams from Maryland, Delaware, and Pennsylvania, to compete in the Middle Atlantic Women's Intercollegiate Regional Basketball Tournament Montclair State College's women's basketball team, 11-0, recently captured the state championship.

Captain Joan Ficke believes that all of the players were unselfish and that everyone looked out for each other. "As a result, the women played as a unified team for two years. Their spirit and pride in their team and their school was evident.

For the first time this year, the women played with five players rather than six. The sport has become rougher because "everyone has had to learn to play everyone," Miss Ficke stated.

The quality of their coach, though, was not equipped with a jack, and we had to ride the rim to reach yet another station. With that taken care of, Cresbaugh was the victim of a speed trap on the New York Thruway. The radar had us moving at 85 and the limit is 65. The radar was inaccurate. He was doing 90.

As a representative of the media from Montclair State College, I had the extreme pleasure of traveling to last week's Eastern Regionals with three juniors who claim to be the coolest around. The trio was comprised of the broadcast team from our radio station — WVMS, and without a doubt, these guys have a lot of class. Too bad it's all third.

They need no introduction, but I'm going to give one anyway because they have this thing about seeing their names in print. Besides, I owe them equal time. Handling the play by play for the first time ever was Jim Cresbaugh, a physical education major who was rewarded with the title of assistant sports director after Friday's game. Jim is a real professional when he's feeling up to par.

Explosive Comments

The sports director of WVMS is the ever popular Tom Super. She worked the team hard. The quality of their coach, though, was not equipped with a jack, and we had to ride the rim to reach yet another station. With that taken care of, Cresbaugh was the victim of a speed trap on the New York Thruway. The radar had us moving at 85 and the limit is 65. The radar was inaccurate. He was doing 90.

NO BRAKES

Vince Calabrese, vice president of business and financial services, provided the automobile which was supposed to get us to and from Buffalo. The car had no brakes to speak of and then threatened to come apart at the sides at 75 m.p.h.

As if that wasn't bad enough, the wheels were not properly aligned and it ate gas. We reached Buffalo in a remarkable 6% hours under the conditions and, with proper flat tire. Naturally, the Rambler Ambassador station wagon can find a hotel. Win or lose, the weekend was dynamic.

Cathy Paskert

First Middle Atlantic Tourney.
Buffalo Tops MSC Despite Davis 45

By Jim Dente
Sports Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Montclair State's basketball team chose to run with the likes of Buffalo State University last Friday and, despite a 45-point effort by diminutive Bruce Davis, the Indians were ousted from the National Collegiate Athletic Association Eastern Regionals, 103-93.

However, MSC managed to take third place in the tourney by routing C.W. Post in Saturday evening's consolation tilt, 80-68, to finish the season with a fine 18-6 record. It was the whole story. James began things with a corner jump and Buffalo fans began to panic leading by a mere 70-62. With 7 minutes left and still having a shot at the upset, MSC saw its chances fade into the nighttime sky. The Eagles demonstrated the art of the fast break, converting 8 of 10 shots, and Smith had a layup, and John Macintosh and Zak each made a free throw. Davis fade-away jump with 2 seconds left accounted for a 45-41 margin at the intermission.

The turning point of the contest came at the outset of the second half. Buffalo reeled off 7 straight markers, dominating both boards. Burns had 5 of the points on a pair of jumpers and a charity toss while Zak hit from behind the arc for 3 of 3. Despite the deficit, the Indians didn't appear as though MSC would stay in it. The Indians were down by 4. Instead, it was the Montclair Indians whose lead was never in jeopardy from the outset, 93-72 margin.

The strategy was perfect as Wee Willie Rackley drove advantage. Zak had a driving layup before Davis thrilled the crowd by stuffing Smith's shot as time ran out. Unfortunately, the ball stayed in Smith's possession and he followed it up with a field goal. His jumper from the top of the key capped the string and it didn't appear as though MSC would stay in it. But coach Gelston's troops demonstrated the guts which have become such an obvious characteristic on the squad. The Indians bounced back from a 14-point deficit to get within 6 at the 10:52 mark.

An 11-point lead just missed MSC back in contention and the Indians held off every rally. There was little doubt that there was the right time.

There was little doubt that there was the right time.

There was little doubt that there was the right time.

There was little doubt that there was the right time.

There was little doubt that there was the right time.

There was little doubt that there was the right time.