The Student Government Association’s Elections Committee has officially warned political candidates not to paint campaign slogans on student life building’s windows or risk punishment.

In a decision overruling the opinion of committee chairman Lionel Geltman, the group voted Tuesday five to one abstention to recommend to the candidates to take off their signs painted on the windows of the cafeteria and the lobby of student life building Robert Watson and Terry B. Lee, the two presidential candidates with painted campaign signs.

Committee Chairman Lionel Geltman claimed that the windows are for use by various campus organizations on a rotating basis and were duly given over to the candidates for their use by the organizations. Lee, received permission from the Black Organization for Success in Society which he heads, and Watson from Senate fraternity, of which he is a member.

The windows, claimed member Charles Boyce, “are to be used for advertising only and not for campaigning.”

“But,” answered Geltman, “the committee can’t say anything if an organization is allowing them (the candidates) to put up signs.”

“You are not acting fairly about this matter,” charged Victor Deluca, committee member and SGA history department representative.

“Deluca told the MONTCLARION that if the candidates do not remove signs ‘within a reasonable amount of time’ they will be fined or, possibly, disqualified.”

The current race for the top spots in the Student Government Association seems to be a contest of coincidences—to say the very least.

It’s quite a coincidence that the Elections Committee Chairman Lionel Geltman happens to come from Senate fraternity, whose members also include Robert Watson, presidential contender, vice-presidential candidate Bill Asdal and SGA Vice-President Stanley Grajewski.

It’s also a coincidence that Grajewski, tho still actively functioning as vice-president, is serving as the campaign manager for the Watson-Asdal team.

It seems quite coincidental that tho, at last Tuesday’s elections committee meeting, there were several charges allegedly to be hurled against the Watson-Asdal team, only the petty question of signs on the cafeteria windows was discussed. It’s also quite coincidental that Geltman drew up the agenda for that meeting.

It’s also coincidental that SGA President Thomas Benitz, whose administration has come under fire and is seemingly lacking in student popularity, has completely shut up concerning the alleged election illegalities.

Another coincidence might be that since the campaign began, Benitz has refused to speak to MONTCLARION reporters concerning his administration and the election, but is still known to criticize the MONTCLARION for noncooperation with his administration.

It also seems coincidental that the Elections Committee, appointed by Benitz, does not contain anyone who is not in the SGA Legislature. But this might just be a continuation of Benitz’s nonrepresentative policies in which only SGA higherrups are included.

It’s coincidental, too, that Geltman refused to open a letter from the MONTCLARION editor-in-chief concerning the alleged illegalities at the Tuesday Elections Committee meeting.

And it’s quite a coincidence that, probably, nothing about these allegations will be done by the Elections Committee and the Benitz-Watson-Grajewski bloc because the SGA biggies are well aware that Montclair State students are unlikely to tamper with the off-secretive activities of the illustrious Student Government Association.

Nothing will be done, unless every student votes in the election next Thursday.

Oshin Out Of Race

Richard Oshin, the SGA presidential contender who charged candidate Robert Watson with the misuse of student money in his campaign, withdrew from the race yesterday morning, throwing his support to Terry B. Lee.

In a statement issued to the MONTCLARION yesterday, Oshin said:

“Upon comparing the platform on which I was running for the presidency and the platform of Terry Lee, also running for that office, I have found that our positions are remarkably similar. I believe that both of us working closely together will unite all factions of the campus. Men like Robert Watson are seeking to exploit the SGA for their own personal gain. It is therefore my duty to unite with Terry Lee in an effort to bring about a victory which will mean a progressive, not regressive administration.”

“It was learned late last night that Lee has accepted “with gratitude” the support of Oshin and will offer him the post of vice-president of academic affairs once elected.”

Oshin, who served as president of the Music Organizations Commission, entered the race three weeks ago on a platform calling for a “more responsive SGA.” According to surveys, Oshin’s popularity as a candidate was trailing that of Lee.

Lee, who is president of the Black Organization for Success in Society, has called for “unity of all factions of the campus,” pledging the further development of college athletics, campus arts and a more representative student judicial system.

With SGA Candidates

Press Meet Hits Perennial Themes

The perennial themes of greater student involvement, total representation and a more purposeful SGA plus a new twist—the appearance by the Provo action group-dominated the SGA pre-election press conference sponsored by the MONTCARION. The SGA elections will be held next Thursday. The problem of achieving more total representation of different student interests in SGA held center stage as a main concern of the candidates, as they responded to the questions of MONTCARION reporters and attending spectators in the student life building alumni lounge. Presidential candidate Terry B. Lee, president of the Black Organization for Success in Society, was absent, due to a previous commitment.

PRESIDENTIAL ASPIRANT Robert Watson asserted that the SGA will have to “become responsive and receptive” to the views of what he labelled any identifiable interest group or organization on campus. “This has not been the case in the past,” he added.

Late Thursday afternoon, SGA presidential candidate Richard Oshin withdrew from the race and publicly announced support for Terry B. Lee. Complete details on page one.

Richard Oshin, also vying for the top spot, charged that there is no real voice for all student interests and activities in the SGA as it stands now. He proposed a bicameral legislature with one house composed of the class and organizations plus representatives from the commuter and dormitory councils.

Presidential candidates Glenn "J.C." Kawalak and Alan "Provo" Jacobs also commented on student exclusion in many SGA activities. Kawalak said that he “doubts that there is real representation in the SGA,” and that the organization is run by a selected few. Jacobs lamented what he called "extreme boredom on campus." VICE-PRESIDENTIAL candidates William Asdal and Jack Wilkie added their views on the matter of representation. Asdal commented that the executive board should be expanded to include a wider range of interests, and raised the possibility of a new publication that which more students can be made aware of SGA going-on.

Kawalak stated that "nothing seems to work toward real communication with the students in the SGA." He feels that lack of awareness of the SGA's workings are the key problem.

MONTCARION presidential candidate Leon Varjian declined to comment on the issue, stating that "it's all been said before..."

On THE question of all-college governance, Watson commented that the concept itself is "sound" and added that it is an area toward which many progressive colleges in the country are moving. Oshin stated that he would support "quick implementation" of the system because he feels that it would increase cooperation and communication between the different schools.

Reactions to the state's Master Plan were varied among the presidential combatants. Kawalak pointed out that the students at large should have the opportunity to express themselves on the matter. Watson said that he "could see both advantages and disadvantages to the concept." He added that since MSC has its own master plan, he would support it over that of the state.

By M. J. Smith

Master Plan Correspondent

Ralph Dungan, state chancellor of higher education, said that he had been satisfied with the "approving comments" made about the Master Plan at the four public hearings. But he didn't specify who he heard them from. The majority of testimony at the four public hearings concerning the state Board of Higher Education's Master Plan—Phase Two has been unfavorably critical. The strongest criticism of the plan has come from Montclair State.

WITH ITS 7500-student enrollment ceiling and centralized graduate university, the plan has been denounced by everyone from MSC President Thomas H. Richardson has not yet decided on a specific date. Last October, Richardson said that he was "extremely frustrated" over student misconceptions on the restructuring of the college into schools, which began early last semester.

"WE HAVE not yet settled on a date for the referendum," Richardson told the MONTCARION. "But it is extremely important that we determine what the student feeling is at present," Richardson continued. He said that he is currently working on the wording of the questions that would appear.

Dungan: Has Heard Approving Comments

exception, have come out against the Master Plan — and some have not minced words. At the second meeting, Dr. William Hazell, New York University of Engineering president, stated: "The plan proposes amputation of a limb to cure a bad case of indigestion."

And as one representative of the State College Faculty Association said at the third hearing in Glassboro: "The scheme was devised in the atmosphere of a Princeton pub."

EVEN MRS. Katherine Neuberger, board member and chairman of all four hearings, confessed at the last meeting, held in Trenton for the Governor's Student Liaison Committee last week, that she did not approve of the graduate university concept as it stands now.

The most recent dissenting voice was a statement issued by the New Jersey Association of Colleges and Universities. In their report, the association asked the plan be considered "as the first in a series of progress reports" but not as a final idea.

The only nods have come from several private institutions throughout the state, most of whom will not be affected by the plan's proposals. Seton Hall President Monsignor Thomas Fahy approved of the document as it "avoids waste and duplication." His sentiments were echoed by Dr. Frank Elliot, Rider College president, and Dr. Robert Gohem, Princeton president.

HOWEVER, MOST of the state's schools seem to agree with Richardson's evaluation that "It's just a big power grab."

Bi-Cameralism

Oshin Plans to Reorganize SGA

Oshin: President, Business Two-House Legislature

Student Government Association presidential candidate Richard Oshin has stated that, if elected, he sees the possibility of the SGA being reorganized into a bicameral (two house) legislature.

Oshin made the remark during the April 16 broadcast of "Close-Up," an interview show presented by the Voice of Montclair State, thru the facilities of WFMU. East Orange, David M. Levine, MONTCARION editorial director, and Donna Meade, Council on International and National Affairs chairman, were the interviewers. Vice-presidential candidate Jack Wilkie also appeared on the broadcast.

In ANswER to a question by Levine, who asked Oshin what he would do to improve the SGA, Oshin stated that he believed greater role in student affairs should be assigned to the Executive Board, which now is an advisory board to the SGA, made up of the representatives of the various Class One organizations.

"Would this come down to a bicameral set-up?" Levine then asked.

"It just may," Oshin replied. "I like that system. Just as the country is set up, I feel the SGA should be set up." Oshin added that he believed greater representation in the SGA was desirable.

The Administration Of Thomas Benitz

The Benitz administration is nearing the finish line in its yearlong tenure in office. Behind it is a bumpy road of harsh feeling and student resentment.

It was a year ago when sandy-haired Thomas Benitz, new to the affairs of student government, rode the herd of campaign promises and electioneering which resulted in a near-landslide victory over his opponent, David Mende. Benitz proved to be a smooth, sometimes shy, man who aimed to unite conservatism with campus affairs. He pledged cooperation with the student body and promised to give Montclair State's students the best representation available.

Unfortunately he failed.

His failures are numerous and it has become overly obvious that Benitz, as president, detracted from the viability of SGA as a dynamic force thru which students could work. The gist of this problem was Benitz's deep-seeded resentment toward the administration of Montclair State College. All too often Benitz, along with members of his staff, was willing to charge what he labeled the "tokenism" of MSC administrators without seeking to meet college officials on their own ground. He talked often of class one presidents "selling out to the administration" and "student decision-making at the college level was," he said, "nil." He acted as if college officials were seeking to institute a campus police state.

One of the key reasons why Benitz failed is because he couldn't relate to the student body. Students were appointed to committees and legislative seats on a tokenistic or friendship basis. He spent nearly $4000 on off-campus jaunts which aggravated many students who were powerless to do anything. His appointments to Gov. William T. Cahill's student liaison committee and the elections committee were accomplished without due regard to his electorate. This was indeed a misuse of power.

Benitz was not a clever leader. He was unwilling to make use of the advice and opinions available to him thru the SGA's executive board. A simple refusal to call meetings insured that he wouldn't have to listen to hostile opinions.

Those who believed that Benitz's accomplishments would be seen in his alcohol and faculty evaluation policies will find little solace. The costs of evaluations are far beyond the means of SGA and there is no guarantee that the student review forms will accomplish anything beneficial. The alcohol policy, of course, simply gave a legalese rubber stamp to what students have been doing in Montclair State's dorms for years.

The administration of Thomas Benitz in our view has been lackluster. His inability to feel out student opinion while maintaining a closed leadership has unfortunately been his downfall as president. We hope the next president of SGA will learn from past mistakes.

Campus Whirl

Grajewski, with three years of service to the campus behind him, attributed this factor to the "lack of understanding and cooperation" by special interest groups and the "constant criticism" coming from the MONTCLARION and an underground newspaper. "We could have worked together much better if there had been more cooperation," he said.

Sitting up the Benitz administration with that of Kenneth Traynor the previous year, Grajewski said: "It is my feeling that we have accomplished a lot more. We tried to get away from the image of a banker and bring up some important bills this year that would benefit everyone. I wish we had more time to do more things."

Terry Lee ... slight edge

EISLEY HAS EDGE

With the SGA race coming down to the homestretch, the latest private poll of campus leaders gives the winning edge to Terry Lee with Robert Watson trailing. The leaders are predicting a very close race with more students turning out in higher numbers than ever before. Sources attribute this to the apparent abundance of candidates, five presidential hopefuls in all. The others: Alan Jacobs, Glen Kawalik and Rich Ohsin.

As far as the vice-president post is concerned, it's a tossup with William Asdal having a slight edge. The survey was conducted late last week.

No Complaint from Oshin

To the Editor:

As SGA Elections Committee chairman, it is my responsibility to enforce the regulations concerning campaigning and to rectify any infringements upon them.

It has been brought to my attention thru the MONTCLARION’s page one article (April 16) that presidential candidate Richard Oshin believes some violation of campaign rules has been committed by his opponent, Robert Watson. To date I have not received any formal complaint from either Oshin or the candidates.

In my opinion this newspaper has not made an effort to research the allegations. Instead, it has contented itself with publishing rumors found upon gross misinformation.

Ecologists have won the opening battle in their war against the SST. However, many obstacles remain before they can claim victory.

Congress, by defeating a funding bill for constructing two SST prototypes, has dealt the aerospace industry and technology a setback. Boeing, the prime contractor for the project, will lay off thousands of employees. This adds to the burgeoning rolls of unemployed engineers and technicians.

‘Nonviolent Action’ in D.C.

Nonviolent antwar action is being planned in Washington D.C. on May 1 thru 7 to carry out the warning that “if the government won’t stop the war, we’ll stop the government,” according to strike leaders.

The tactic of nonviolence was decided on by the Ann Arbor Student and Youth Conference on a People’s Peace held in Illinois because conference officials said they did not want to alienate American public who seriously want an immediate end to the war.

The tactical manual, according to strike leaders, for the week of May 1 thru 7 says “the objective is to close down the federal government sections of Washington D.C. by blocking traffic arteries during the early morning rush hours of May 3-4.”

May Day Tribe, which is coordinating the activities, is telling people bent on thrashing and street fighting to stay home.

On May 5, the May Day Tribe has called for “no business as usual,” around the country in a massive strike against the war.

The May action has the support of the People’s Coalition for Peace and Justice, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Welfare Rights Organization, American Friends Service Committee, Women’s Strike for Peace and a number of other individuals and groups actively opposing the war.

‘Smear’ Tactics Not for Watson

To the Editor:

If the MONTCLARION believes that the next SGA is to be elected with issues such as campaign buttons, then I question how gallable the MONTCLARION thinks the student body really is especially since the article printed on page one (April 16) was erroneous and misleading. We are now in the process of printing our own reply, since past performance indicates that the MONTCLARION probably won’t run this letter, at least in its original form.

I would also like to say we will not resort to a smear campaign. But I will say that Robert Watson has a strong and workable platform, and we can therefore understand and sympathize with our opponents’ campaign techniques.

WOULD KILL NORTH VIET

Babuska would annihilate North Vietnam and Laos. “Civilians would have to be sacrificed. By right, they all contribute to the war effort in some way and have to pay the price for being involved in war,” he said. “The Vietcong are no longer in existence. The war is now against the North versus the South Vietnamese people.”

Gahl, who further describes himself as being a “naturalist-pacifist” said: “I am well-rounded in science, mechanics and small gasoline engines.” He admits that his spelling might need some improvement. His major interests are in law and order and pollution control.

“The people must assume the final responsibility to force the prohibition of pollutants. Industries have a vested interest in perpetuating pollution as a result of the profit motive. Industry has grown out of itself and become a self-destructing machine,” he claimed.

Babuska believes that the country should be run by businessmen instead of politicians. “I haven’t involved myself to any extent with student activities this year,” he said.

“People cannot be allowed to mass together without authorization.” He added: “The fatalities at Kent State were 75% the student’s fault, 15% outside agitators and 10% the fault of the National Guard, who indirectly represents the administration.”

PREFERS ‘QUIETUDE’

Gahl prefers the “quietude” to the “multitude.” He said he had attended one sports rally and student dance, after which he was attacked with a knife.

“Students aren’t turned on to the fact that they need to acquire knowledge. They are apathetic on all grade levels and fed up with the (so-called) love generation, so they just drift. There is too much war and pollution,” he explained.

“The country has moved to the right,” he claimed. “The United Students of America is now a right-wing organization.”

‘People cannot be allowed to mass without authority...the fatalities at Kent State were 75% the students’ fault...’

according to Babuska.

He places himself with them as representative of the present position of America.

Gahl and Babuska say that they basically hold similar socio-political philosophies but approach them by different routes.

Players present a play about the bard

By Shelia J. Wicks
Staff Writer

Instead of doing a play by Shakespeare this year, Montclair State's Players are doing a play about him.

"A Cry of Players," written by William Gibson, is the story of Shakespeare's life in Stratford-on-the-Avon and the unhappiness that forced him to leave. In a broader sense, it is the story of all men who are dissatisfied with their lives.

Will is torn between what everyone thinks he should want and what he knows he wants. "He is exciting, the kind of person people of this age identify with," said Paul Nadas, who plays the part of Will.

The young man has a job offer, a family and friends, but these are not enough. "There is a void that has to be filled, a part of him not used," Nadas said of the character.

BRAWLING LUST

The play stages the lusty, brawling part of English life that was the soul of the Elizabethan theater. "One moment you're rolling in 'the blood and the mud and the beer' and the next, life and love is as true now as then," explained Director W. Scott MacConnell.

Altho the director is chosen by the speech department, cast. Loetta Ann Smith, a six-year-old, will play the part of Susanna Shakespeare.

Not only have students been involved in the staging and production of the play but they have arranged the music also. A 25-piece brass band plays the music composed by Armando Riverol and orchestrated by Ralph Spotite.

The play will be presented April 28, 29, 30 and May 1 at 8:30 p.m. with a matinee April 30 at 2 p.m. Tickets will be 25 cents for faculty members and SGA cards, 75 cents for students and $1.75 for adults.

Openning night show benefits study fund.

The opening night performance of Players’ "A Cry Of Players" will be a benefit for the Malcolm Fairfield Independent Study Fund for Fine and Performing Arts. The fund will be used to assist student productions, such as the recent Total Theater Ensemble and the future production of "The Fantastiks."

Malcolm Fairfield was a speech major who died on March 19. Tho only a freshman, he had become immediately involved in Players, and performed the leading role of Casanova in their production of "Camino Real" last fall. He was actively involved in "Journey of the Fifth Horse" at the time of his death.

The fund was suggested after several Players meetings by students who wanted to commemorate in some way "one of the finest and friendliest of players."

Duo Sparks Neften

Sparked by the doubleo power of freshman John Donleycott and against Fairleigh Dickinson University, 6-3, last Friday. MSC holds a record of 3-1, with earlier victories this season against Newark State (8-1) and Seton Hall (7-2).

THE DONLEYCOTT—MARCHES TEAM remained undefeated in season competition with the win over Jersey City's Art Tafero and Bob Moss, 7-5 and 6-1. Captain Walter Klein and Joel tannenbaum won in straight sets while the number three duo of Jim Powers and Bob Roegge (MSC) defeated Constantino (JCS) in straight sets with the win over Jersey City State in an entertaining, if close, match. Powers and Roegge were first place finish from last year, but the Indians 58. MSC retained its third team finish at the Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association Fencing tournament at Buffalo in 1970. The Indians had two fencers in the individual competition. Senior Karen VanBavel ended in fourth place. Freshman Nancy Murray finished ninth in the finals. Team captain Bonnie Levine missed going into the finals by a few touches.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — New York University edged William Paterson College and Montclair State for first place in the Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association Fencing tournament at Buffalo State University.

THE VIOLIETS won a total of 61 bouts while losing 15. Paterson edged MSC out of second place with a total of 50 wins to the Indians 58. MSC retained its third place finish last year, but the Violts finished second to Hunter in 1970.

The Indians had two fencers in the individual competition. Senior Karen VanBavel ended in fourth place. Freshman Nancy Murray finished ninth in the finals. Team captain Bonnie Levine missed going into the finals by a few touches.

MSC 5-3 vs. JCS 3-4

Singles: Constantino (MSC) defeated Donleycott 6-2 and 14-8; and C. Tannenbaum (MSC) defeated Tafero 6-1 and 6-2. Pinto (MSC) defeated Moss 6-3 and 6-4; Natale (MSC) defeated Tannenbaum spirit 8-6 and 6-3. Constantino (MSC) defeated Power 6-7, 6-3 and 6-3; and Klein (MSC) defeated Roegge 6-3 and 6-3. Constantino defeated C. Tannenbaum 6-2 and 6-2. The teams tied 6-3 and 6-3. MSC won in singles against Power, 4-6, 6-1, and 6-0. Klein defeated Moss, 6-3 and 6-4.

Analysis:

MSC was able to dominate the match with a strong performance in singles, defeating both Moss and Power in straight sets. The team's victory showcased their depth and ability to compete against top-level opponents. The doubles matches were competitive but MSC emerged victorious in the final round, maintaining their momentum throughout the tournament.

Tribe Takes Three

Montclair State's baseball team upset its record to 8-2, beating three out of four opponents on the road last week.

Fairleigh Dickinson University washed the Indians, 12-7, Thursday following MSC's 3-1 victory over Newark State. The Indians bounced back with a 13-3 romp over Glassboro on Saturday and ended the week with a 6-4 win against St. Peter's College.

The Indians were swept in the shorter dashes and the hurdles as did his CCNY counterpart, Dave Schnelzter.

MSC's PROBLEM in the hurdles stem from injuries. The Indians' top hurdler, Glen Hedden, is recuperating from a knee operation. Larry Schoenfeld, who took second against JCS and third against CCNY in the 120 highs, is competing after just recently recovering from a broken foot.

As for the 440 and 880-yard dashes, MSC pins its hopes on fleetfooted Greg Weiss. But Weiss is still being troubled by a strained hamstring muscle and only competed in the 880. He took that event in 2:00.8, beating his opponent by well over 15 yards.

The Indians lost to FDU for the first time in four years when the Knights took advantage of 7 unearned runs.

A 5-run third inning, in which FDU did not get a hit, broke the game open. The runs came on 3 walks, 3 errors, a hit batter and a balk. Frank Hiza's 2-run double in the second was the big shot for FDU while DeSimone had a bases loaded triple in the sixth for the Indians and had 5 RBIs on the day.

As expected, the Indians won both the mile and 2-mile. Captain Kevin McGrath won the mile in a time of 4:30.5 and Vic Mizezone clocked in at 9:16.4 for the win in the 2-mile.

The Indians tied the score in the seventh inning when, with 2 out, Consentino singled to right, stole second, and scored on Dale Garlick's double to right field.

In the ninth, Steve Sampson led off by beating out an infield hit. Parker helped his own cause with a sacrifice and Consentino dashed a single to score the tie-breaking run. Consentino then stole second, his third steal of the day, and scored on Garlick's single.

Linksmen Lose In Tri-Meet

Bill Asdal shot an 82 Monday to keep his 5-game winning string alive. But Montclair State's golf team dropped the triangular match against William Patterson College and East Stroudsburg State, 10-7, in both cases. Last week the Indians edged Newark-Rutgers, 5-4.

Asdal REMAINED as the Indians' top man by carding MSC's low score for the day. But the ace sophomore kept his undefeated record intact, he failed to complete a shutout and won his match, 2-1. Up to this point, Asdal had been unscored upon.

MSC's only other winner in the tri-match was Joe Venti. Venti, a senior, ended with an 84 and a 3-0 shutout as the Indians lost their opening New Jersey State College Conference meet to Patterson.

TRIPLE THREAT: Carmine De Simone, MSC's leading hitter with a .415 average and 20 RBIs, heads for third after slaming a 3-run triple against FDU. MSC lost the game, 12-7.

Tri-City Thinclds Split.

"We don't have depth," stated track coach George Hop before the triangular meet between Montclair State, Jersey City State and City College of New York. It was this lack of depth that caused the Indians to split Tuesday's home meet.

JCS's Cindermen edged MSC, 74-72, but the Indians swamped CCNY, 84-60, for their first win of the season.

The reason for MSC's loss can be traced to its lack of manpower in the shorter dashes and the hurdles. The Indians were swept in these events by both teams this week.

As for the 440 and 880-yard dashes, MSC pins its hopes on fleetfooted Greg Weiss. But Weiss is still being troubled by a strained hamstring muscle and only competed in the 880. He took that event in 2:00.8, beating his opponent by well over 15 yards.

However, on the basis of past performances, it was evident that the injury was still aggravating the outstanding runner and that he was not pushing himself as much as he could.

As expected, the Indians won both the mile and 2-mile. Captain Kevin McGrath won the mile in a time of 4:30.5 and Vic Mizezone clocked in at 9:16.4 for the win in the 2-mile.
