SGA Votes To Halt Future MAC Funding

By Susan Kelly

Staff Writer

The legislature of the Student Government Association unanimously passed a bill requesting that no further funds be given to the Montclair Athletic Commission (MAC) until such time as the organization obtains a class one charter. Robert Watson, history department rep, submitted the bill which would return MAC to the level of such organizations as the Music Organizations Commission (MOC), College Life Union Board (CLUB), Montclair, La Campana, etc.

The SGA gives MAC a large amount of money each year and has no control over their funds,” said Watson at the Tuesday meeting of the legislature. “I cannot see why MAC should be treated differently than the class one organizations,” he continued.

A referendum passed by the Montclair State student body in 1969 removed MAC from the legislature gives too much instability to a program of MAC’s missions and established an annual mandatory deduction of up to $19.50 per student. The referendum also provided MAC with an option for an additional 5 per cent of funds if needed.

Watson complained that MAC, not being a class one organization, is depositing their entire funds in the Faculty-Student Co-op and the SGA has no further control over any expenditures. He pointed out that his bill was not to reduce or limit MAC’s funds but to give the students more control over these funds.

A committee of students, faculty and administrators met prior to the SGA meeting on Tuesday to investigate alternative ways of funding MAC. William Dioguardi, director of athletics and chairman of MAC, complained about the “negative attitude” of the participating students. He said that the sole purpose of the meeting was to investigate alternate methods of financing MAC, not to separate that body from the SGA.

Dioguardi explained that a desire in funding because “the indecisiveness of each legislature gives too much instability to a program of MAC’s size.” His complaints refer to the fall disputes in the SGA over MAC’s budget allotment of approximately $115,000. Dioguardi continued to say that the athletic program has much to do with the caliber and type of student which attends MSC. The SGA, especially at budget time, should not have the prerogative to receive a program that has taken years to build, he said.

Watson stated that “from MSC President Thomas H. Richardson’s opening remarks, it became apparent that the purpose of the meeting was to take control of MAC away from the SGA.” He stressed that since MAC is student funded, the student government must control its funding. Richardson stated later, however, that it was not his intention to remove MAC from SGA but to find a way to provide MAC with funds earlier in the year in order that they may make their commitments in advance.

“The point made at the meeting was that the SGA is not capable of running MAC,” Watson stated. The implication of this point, he continued, is that if the SGA cannot handle the funds for one organization, it cannot handle the funds for other organizations.

Dr. Thomas H. Richardson
Considering the Points.

The fact that neither Richardson nor Dioguardi came to the SGA to work out a solution to the funding problem but directed an outside committee was another one of Watson’s objections.

“We supposedly represent student interest on campus,” stated SGA vice president Bill A牍. If their interest in athletics is equivalent to one third of the funds, then MAC is entitled to these funds, he said. If this interest should shift to another area, then that organization should receive increased funds.

Vic DeLuca, another History department rep, supported the bill saying that “MAC is not on firm ground.” A member of MAC, DeLuca said that he “didn’t get any worth” from his membership. Another legislator said that MAC often just “rubber-stamp” decisions that are already made.

SGA President Terry Lee said that this bill is “long overdue.” He added that “we have to look out for the students.” English department rep Joe Conoscienti called any attempt to remove MAC from the control of SGA, the “first step in dissolving the SGA.”

Hike Under Study

JAMESBURG—The tuition hike is still under study by the state Board of Higher Education, the board announced at their meeting Wednesday.

A spokesman for the board’s finance committee said that “We don’t feel we want to deal with it (the tuition increase) lightly. We feel we should give it a continued, indepth study.”

THE MEETING, held at the Forsgate Country Club here, brought approximately 20 students from New Jersey state colleges and Rutgers University with Montclair State being represented by Sam Crane, SGA public relations officer.

Various members of the Board mentioned throughout the lengthy meeting that it is not the purpose of the Board to effect the state’s tax policy, but to suggest methods of revenue-raising for higher education in the state. “It has gotten to the point where there are no more backs,” stated Chancellor of Higher Education Ralph A. Dungan, reiterating that the state’s total budget had risen drastically in the past four years, with no change in the tax structure.

Several members of the board mentioned their dissatisfaction with the present tax structure, calling for a state income tax.

One member of the board, Rabbi Martin Friedman, pointed out that “Of the 64,000 students in state schools, approximately 25,000 will pay zero increase, with the type of tuition increase we have.” He also said that under the tuition hike proposed by Rutgers President Dr. Edward Houstein, although the hike would be only $60, it would exceed to all students—even those whose parents’ salaries were under $10,000, who would pay nothing under the board’s proposal.

Dayshift Shifts Focus

The dawn of Dayshift dates back to September 1970. Richard Insley, one of its original founders, says that the paper was started to provide "an alternate newspaper to inform the students of the political and social features in the college community that the Montclarion wasn't handling." Insley, who no longer is associated with the publication, said that the original Dayshift had been selective in printing only well-written, appropriate submissions. Referring to Dayshift's new trend, Insley merely stated, "It's changed — it's different now."

Leon Varjian, who has been with Dayshift since its founding, agrees that the paper was more political last year. According to Varjian, "Dayshift has opened up to anything. People who are interested can write whatever they want. We'll print everything — no censorship."

VARJIAN SAID there is no longer an editorial staff. "It's put together by whoever feels like doing it at the time." Dayshift, funded by the Protestant Foundation of MSC, publishes all types of literary efforts about every three weeks.

To support this statement, she quoted some findings of the Women's Equity Action League. Ninety per cent of the men with doctorates and 26 years in academics are full professors. For women with the same qualifications, barely half will ever be full professors.

STUDIES HAVE found that women with the same qualifications as men tend to be hired less frequently and, at a lower rank, are promoted less often and receive lower salaries. Studies have also found that women need higher marks than men to enter college.

Garfield is pleased that Richardson has asked that this committee be formed. She explained that other schools have taken similar action only after being pressured by the federal government.

Richardson stated that he has long been aware that women are discriminated against in our society. He said that this problem is not the result of "some sort of sinister plot," but that people just do not realize the seriousness of the situation.

Committee Formed

Group to Dig Into MSC Fem Lib

The committee will be composed of representatives of the administration, faculty and staff of the various schools and departments on campus. Garfield explained that their selection was based upon their concern for basic human and individual rights.

THE COMMITTEE will investigate such areas as hiring, promotion, salary equity, fringe benefits and pension plans. It will also research student counseling, maternity leaves and child care centers.

Garfield is the chairman of the New Jersey chapter of the committee of the American Association of University Professors. This committee is concerned with the status of women in two and four year colleges and works in conjunction with similar committees at Stanford, Colgate, Harvard, Columbia and Yale.

"Higher education is not taking advantage of the intellectual ability of women," said Garfield.

Rep Vacancies To Be Filled

By Joan Mikelstruk
Staff Writer

The nine vacant legislator seats in the SGA will be filled within the week according to Terry Lee, SGA president. Students, who will be appointed to these positions by Lee, must be approved by a vote of the legislative body.

The seats vacant are: French department rep., industrial education tech. department rep., two fine arts department reps., physical education department rep., physics earth science department rep. and biology department rep.

"ORIGINALLY A lot of seats were vacant because no one ran for the positions," explained Lee.

He also pointed out that several seats were vacated because of a statutory rule that forbids a legislator his position if he has missed three consecutive meetings without a reasonable excuse.

In the past, the rule was not strictly enforced. This gave way to apathy and, as Lee said, "The situation seemed to be getting chronic."

THEREFORE, LEE put the statute into action and several legislators were forced to relinquish their positions.

"As the SGA becomes stronger this apathy should decrease," Lee commented. He added that he plans to strengthen the SGA through the reorganizational of some aspects of its functions.

Directorys Delayed

By Susan Kelly
Staff Writer

The 1971-72 Montclair State student directory fell victim to a series of mishaps which delayed its arrival at MSC.

Bill Asdal, vice-president of the Student Government Association, explained that the task of alphabetizing the listing of students in the directory took weeks. "It's a legitimate delay," said Asdal who explained that Alpha Phi Omega does most of this job. Wendy Gillespie, SGA treasurer, said that this job was not completed until mid-October.

Further delay was incurred when objections were raised that the faculty was not given a chance as to whether their names appeared in the directory, as were the students. Gillespie complained that the faculty waited for months before raising their objections. Among their objections was a belief that the directories are sold as mailing lists, she continued. The copy for the directory was not mailed to the printers in Texas until early December and there were no faculty members listed, she said.

A third delay was the result of confusion over the advertising in the directory. When the product was finally completed, it was shipped from Texas in early February and has not yet arrived at MSC. Asdal affirmed that confirmation of shipment was sent to the SGA but he does not know what happened to the directories.

The student directory is printed at no cost to the student body, Asdal said. Local and national advertising meet the expenses of the book.

Last year's directories were distributed in early February but the new one will be distributed this week.

Co-op Gives Second Chance

By Donna Lee Goldberg

Double your pleasure, double your fun should be the theme in the Loser's Lottery sponsored by the Montclair State College Faculty Student Co-op and Bookstore.

Doris Asdal, director of the Student Co-op said during an interview in her office that "we wanted to promote the sale of lottery tickets and decided to start off with the Loser's Lottery."

THE WEEKLY Loser's Lottery is limited to the New Jersey lottery tickets bought at school the previous week. The losing tickets are deposited in a jar in the bookstore. On Wednesday, Asdal selects a student that she doesn't know to pull six tickets from the jar. These winners receive a new lottery ticket for the state lottery. Asdal agreed that it was "two chances for 50 cents."

Tickets have only been sold at the college since Feb. 16, 1972 although a license was applied for a year ago. According to Asdal, "MSC is the second college to sell tickets. Seton Hall was first and now William Paterson is looking into it."

"LIMITING THE Loser's Lottery to tickets sold here, keeps it within the group," commented Asdal. She added that "the lottery helps education. For example, 5 percent on each ticket sold by the co-op goes back to it. If someone wins it money also goes back to the Co-op."

Various projects have had money advanced at MSC by the Co-op such as the lights at Sprague field and $50,000 for the new student union building. When a student wins it can help pay for school expenses."

When the legality of the Loser's Lottery was questioned, Asdal reported, "We checked into this matter. Since there is no cost involved and the people who put their ticket in, there is no need for a license. No one can win twice on one ticket because a winning lottery ticket must be submitted to the State lottery commission."

"The enthusiasm for the Loser's Lottery is surprising. I'm very optimistic," the director said, "Since we have only had two drawings since Feb. 23. The lottery is held Wednesday to give night students a chance to submit their tickets on Monday or Tuesday or next day."

Even the construction men come in for the Loser's Lottery," she added smiling.

CCP Interest Declines

"What we had this year was a clear decline in general interest," said Dr. Walter L. Heilbronner, vice-president for academic affairs, in commenting on the Campus Community Program (CCP).

"LIMITING the Loser's Lottery was questioned, Asdal reported, "We checked into this matter. Since there is no cost involved and the people who put their ticket in, there is no need for a license. No one can win twice on one ticket because a winning lottery ticket must be submitted to the State lottery commission."

CCP Interest Declines

Originally founded in the fall semester of 1970 under the title Campus Community Scholar Program, CCP offers credit and non-credit courses which are instituted on the basis of student suggestion and are not otherwise offered by the college.

ACCORDING to Heilbronner the program "almost collapsed" this year, a situation "possibly due to the fact that many of our first generation so to speak, of students graduated, leaving a lot of time-consuming organization to be done," he continued.

However, Heilbronner and one of the program's students, Nancy DeGrazia, worked together to revive the former interest in CCP, hoping to keep alive the effort in which, Heilbronner explained, "A course is not so much an attempt to acquire a grade as it is an exchange of ideas."

Some of the non-credit offerings, he said, evoked a greater level of real participation and enthusiasm on the part of both faculty and students than did those courses for credit.

"ALTHOUGH THE work was demanding, those involved did it out of a desire to learn, not because they had paid for something," remarked Heilbronner. He said the courses concerned with an in-depth study of an area such as Marxism seemed to have more appeal than those dealing with more momentary issues.

As he asked his reaction to the program's overall progress, Heilbronner replied, "Looking at the number of people enrolled does not by any means serve as a measure of success or failure.

The key lies in the success of courses generated by student interest."

"AS OF NOW, we do plan to continue CCP next year," he said. "We hope to remain flexible in allowing try-outs of courses to see how well received they are, and to be as experimental and exploratory as is possible."

Richard Insley, a student who is one of CCP's coordinators, was unavailable for comment.

Board Gets Faculty Rep

A faculty member will serve on the Board of Trustees in a non-voting capacity similar to the position of the newly appointed student representative.

Robert Dorner, president of the Montclair State Faculty Association, said that no faculty member has been appointed yet to fill the seat. In all probability, Dorner continued, more than one member will represent the faculty at the various board meetings.

Neither the faculty nor the student representative can obtain a vote without state legislation to allow such a position. The faculty had originally applied for a voting position but withdrew their request because of a possible conflict of interest. James Cottingham, administrative assistant to the Board of Trustees, explained that such a conflict would arise when faculty appointments and salaries are considered by the board.

Cottingham expn'ined an opinion that the major contribution of the representative will be their contribution to the discussion. He commented that the board has never voted contrary to the wishes of a large segment of the college population and almost every vote is an unanimous one. The new representatives would probably vote the same as the other board members on most issues if they had a vote, he said.
Establishment of New and Behavioral Sciences rep. and Severeance of MAC'S Funds

At the meeting called by Dr. Allan Morehead, executive vice president and provost, Kauffman related his plans for a campus police unit similar in operation to a municipal police department.

THE CAMPUS patrolmen would have to fit certain qualifications of age, height, weight, vision and physical fitness.

A training program will be offered to those people presently serving as security guards who wish to qualify for the campus patrolmen unit. The same program will also be offered to those people recruited for the positions.

The new police force will "not happen overnight," said Kauffman. "It will take a lot of recruiting."

UNTIL THE police force goes into action, the campus will rely on the Montclair Police Department and the Montclair Athletic Commission until that organization had applied for and been granted a police charter. The bill carried unanimously.

Establishment of New SGA Review Committee

Larry Bishop, School of Social and Behavioral Sciences rep. and Marguerite Banks, Germanic-Slavic department rep. co-sponsored a bill that called for the dissolution of the present SGA review committee and the establishment of a new one to consist of: one member of the SGA Executive Board, one member of the Commuter Committee, one member of the Black, Brown, White Relations Committee, the vice-president of academic affairs, three SGA legislators, one IFC-ISC member, one male and one female from the Dorm Council and three students-at-large. The bill was amended to include the vice-president of external affairs and also that at least one of the legislators and students-at-large be a female. The bill then carried.

Disposition of War Memorial Board Fund

Vic DeLuca, History department rep. and Larry Bishop, School of Social and Behavioral Sciences rep., submitted a bill calling for the four dollar War Memorial Fee, collected during 1971-72, to be returned to the students by placing the $24,000.00 collected into the Student Union Building Fund with a reduction of $4.00 on each student's 1972-73 Union Building fee. The Chair ruled the bill a statute change and so would be considered at next week's meeting. DeLuca made a motion, which carried, to put the bill onto the floor immediately. Lacking quorum, the meeting was adjourned. The bill will be considered at next week's meeting.

SGA Executive Elections Date

Jan Snyder, Chemistry department rep., submitted a bill calling for SGA executive elections to be held April 28, 1972. It was also noted that the petitions will be available in the SGA office on April 4. The bill carried.

SGA president, about the distribution of parking tickets, Kauffman said, "We should not emphasize the quantity of tickets, but the quality." He cited the violation of the student who parks in front of a fire hydrant as being more serious than that of one who parks in a faculty space.

On the Montclair Police Department to investigate and follow-up crimes.

Throughout the conference, Kauffman stressed the need for open communication with the student body. "If we don't know about any incidents happening on campus, we can't do anything about them," he said.

He also asked that students who are victims of theft or need assistance should call the security shift at 903-5222. Service will be available there 24 hours a day.

Kauffman, a former state trooper, said that he will reorganize the security department, dividing it into two sections.

The security department which will be headed by Joseph Daly, former director of security, will be concerned with fire safety, prevention and investigation.

The security department will take on the tasks of crime prevention and investigation. The head of this department will be named in the near future, said Kauffman.

Kauffman remarked that he saw Montclair State as a "bustling city" and that "there is a definite need to elevate the security program to keep in concert with this bustling city."

Kauffman said, "I will still use the student patrol (the yellow jackets) and I think that their tasks and responsibilities could be escalated."

The former director of public safety in Camden, N.J. remarked that there seemed to be only a small percentage of students responsible for the criminal incidents occurring on campus. However, "we will make war on them," he added.

Kauffman also cited the problem of people not associated with MISC gaining entrance to the school and its buildings. But he also pointed out that he has "no intentions of closing the open campus; however, we have to be better equipped to solve the problems of an open campus."

When questioned by Terry Lee, SGA president, about the distribution of parking tickets, Kauffman said, "We should not emphasize the quantity of tickets, but the quality." He cited the violation of the student who parks in front of a fire hydrant as being more serious than that of one who parks in a faculty space.

Kauffman also plans a more consistent schedule as to which lots are restricted and when they will be off-limits to the student population. Investigations are underway on the flow of traffic with the goal of establishing ways to make travel through the campus smoother.

"OUR EFFORTS are designed to provide a safe and secure environment to study and take part in extracurricular activities," Kauffman explained.

Beach Boys Bombard MSC

"You want to hear Jumpin' Jack Flash? Come on now, we're better than the Stones. Jagger gets up there, screams, sweats his hips, and you people go wild. Hell, I'm sexier than the whole group put together."

That's the claim of Mike Love, who, along with the rest of the Beach Boys, will bring the California sound to MSC on March 18 in two CLUB sponsored concerts in Panzer Gym at 8 and 10 p.m. Brian Wilson has not yet ended his self-imposed exile from public life and will not appear at the concert.

Despite Brian's absence from the stage, his aura still permeates the atmosphere. It was Brian who in 1962 created the California sound—an urban folk music. Through Brian, it has developed from a fun type of music to the advanced stages of serious rock, always maintaining that particular quality which distinguishes the music as "pure Beach Boys."

On stage the Beach Boys maintain the spontaneity and energy which have identified the group and its audience. "I want all you people in the $8 seats to gather around the stage. Then I want you people in the $3 seats to fill in the area behind them," he would say.

The combination of songs and Love's chatter puts the audience at ease, not giving them a chance to become restless. He provides the spark needed to keep the show flowing smoothly and the crowd follows right along. Despite the release of their widely acclaimed album, "Surf's Up," it is the gold numbers which draw the most audience participation. It may range from handclapping and foot stomping to an undercurrent of "ooohoooovering" to the tune of "Fun, Fun, Fun" for an hour after the concert.

The Beach Boys have been one of the few groups to remain from the early years of rock and roll. They recently did an anniversary show in Los Angeles celebrating their ten years together. Love quickly added, "Remember, that's from way back when you were the teeny boppers."

The exotic fiction of Kurt Vonnegut Jr. will be brought to television for the first time in the drama, "Bolts," written by Breathes and Timbuktu — A Space Fantasy," specially written by Vonnegut for NET Playhouse. The drama will be aired Mon., March 13 at 8 p.m.

Vivian Pickles stars as the famed dancer "Isadora Duncan," filmed by Ken Russell for the NET Playhouse Biography series Thurs., March 9 at 8:30 p.m.

REFRESHING AND TIMELY

James Whitmore, with no makeup and few props, will recreate the mannerisms and wit of Will Rogers, America's beloved philosopher-cowboy, tonight at 8 p.m. on channel 2. A typical Will Rogerism: "When Congress makes a joke, it's a law. When they make a law, it's a joke."

ART SHOWS

The Metropolitan Museum of Art has an unusually timely collection of photos, "Behind the Bamboo Curtain," on exhibit now.

Sculpture and paintings by Joseph Shanno of Columbia University will be on display in the foyer of Sprague library for the month of March.

FIRST MIDNIGHT PERFORMANCE

Players will present the classic thriller "Dracula" in Memorial auditorium on March 15, 16 and 17 at 8:30 p.m. and on March 17 at 2:30 p.m. and midnight. Tickets are $3.50 for each of the two albums. Cobroowski, who is from Nutley himself, has many friends in the "Sing Out," and he suggested that they perform at MSC. "Their business manager accepted the offer on the basis that it would be for a benefit show," he added.

Dobrowolski then spoke to the members of the group and they agreed to donate the money to the "March of Dimes."

To all of us it is very important to see a crippled child walk," Dobrowolski stated. A delegate from the "March of Dimes" of East Orange will come Friday evening to collect the money. Dobrowolski expects "a good crowd to come." Admission is 50c.

DOUBLE PURPOSE

"The purpose of programs like this," pointed out Dobrowolski, "is to show that the class of '75 cares and works. It is also to bring together the freshmen and unite our efforts."

In the future Dobrowolski hopes to have a "coffee hour" and a freshman weekend, where contests would take place. Last semester he managed to show the film "Midnight Cowboy" free to all freshmen. "I want to continue this, so when we all leave, we have something to remember," he concluded.

"They have been paid for many of the shows," continued the freshman rep., "but they prefer to work free. So far, they have cut two albums."

Dobrowolski, who is from Nutley himself, has many friends in the "Sing Out," and he suggested that they perform at MSC. "Their business manager accepted the offer on the basis that it would be for a benefit show," he added.

Dobrowolski then spoke to the members of the group and they agreed to donate the money to the "March of Dimes."

"To all of us it is very important to see a crippled child walk," Dobrowolski stated. A delegate from the "March of Dimes" of East Orange will come Friday evening to collect the money. Dobrowolski expects "a good crowd to come." Admission is 50c.

DOUBLE PURPOSE

"The purpose of programs like this," pointed out Dobrowolski, "is to show that the class of '75 cares and works. It is also to bring together the freshmen and unite our efforts."

In the future Dobrowolski hopes to have a "coffee hour" and a freshman weekend, where contests would take place. Last semester he managed to show the film "Midnight Cowboy" free to all freshmen. "I want to continue this, so when we all leave, we have something to remember," he concluded.
The Fault, Dear Terry

Men at some time are masters of their fate: The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves...

"Julius Caesar"
Act I, Scene ii

Last week the Montclarion published SGA President Terry Lee's "State of the SGA" message. In it he blamed "an unworkable structure" for the lack of effectiveness demonstrated by his administration. We believe that Lee should look elsewhere for a scapegoat.

What is lacking in the SGA this year is strong leadership, not student power or influence. An uncooperative college administration has been held responsible much too often for problems that exist simply because SGA officials do not move quickly enough to settle them.

Lee should not have waited for history reps Bob Watson and Vic Deluca to take the initiative in the War Memorial Board situation. This issue, in which $24,000 of the students' money is at stake, has been a question mark since last September. It is Lee's responsibility to exercise leadership in this and all other issues of importance.

A complete revamping of the SGA will not fill the post of vice-president of external affairs, a position within the student government that Lee has apparently chosen to leave vacant since last year's near-strike. It is no one's fault but his own that this opening still exists.

The SGA needs leadership if it is to serve the students on a more-than-adequate level and solve their problems. We think Lee should look toward himself for some of the solutions.

The Decline Of Dayshift

Within the past year or two, numerous newsletters and publications have appeared on campus, among them the popular underground paper, Dayshift. The Montclarion welcomed this competition for such rivalry is part of the newspaper business. In fact, both publications often provided each other with stories, as the Montclarion was the subject of many articles in Dayshift and vice versa.

Unfortunately, since Richard Insley has stepped down as its editor, Dayshift seems to have lost importance as an outlet of student sentiment. Its demise may be attributed to the fact that no one really knows who is running the paper and that its new staff has obviously perished its relevance, as well as quality, to decline.

We regret the failure of Dayshift to maintain the enthusiasm it demonstrated in the past and would like to see it regain the status it had under Insley.

A Short Sketch

Bill Asdal

During the past few weeks discussions have again surfaced concerning the structure of student government and its effectiveness. I believe that it stems from incomplete knowledge of the organization. A short sketch of the organization might clarify some misconceptions.

There are two branches within the S.G.A.: the executive and legislative. The executive branch consists of the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer. The S.G.A. Constitution allows for a cabinet (Class I organizations' presidents, Dorm Federation, Computer Commission, etc.) to advise the president, and for his use as an informal sounding board for student opinion. Structurally he is also given a vice-president of external affairs and a vice-president of academic affairs to aid him in the execution of his responsibilities.

They are also responsible to research issues and provide background information for the president.

COORDINATORS

Communications is another duty of these vice-presidents. The vice-president of academic affairs is mandated to meet with school representatives, who in turn meet with department representatives. The vice-president of external affairs is to be a member of the Governor's Student Liaison Committee; coordinates our efforts with those of the other state colleges and works to insure community and campus inter-relations. A public relations officer is appointed to disperse information to the campus and local papers. We have a structure that is complete and can be mobilized.

The legislature is a needed safeguard in that they must approve (by a two-thirds majority) all appointments and expenditures.

Do We Care?

By Diane Forden
Staff Writer

An article in last week's Montclarion illustrated one of the major problems on campus—a problem which has always existed and which seems to increase each year. It is a problem which affects every student but which is, unfortunately, caused by the students.

The article, written by Carol Giordano, noted the lack of student knowledge about the Montclair Athletic Commission. When questioned as to how much money MAC receives and who serves on the commission, for example, most of the students responded negatively. It would be interesting to present questionnaires about other MSC organizations, such as CINA and MOC. Undoubtedly, the response would be similar.

APATHY HARMFUL

The intention is not to chastise, reprimand or moralize about student apathy. Rather, it is to indicate that such apathy can only harm student interests. When contrasted with the thousands of students attending MSC, the percentage of students actively participating in campus organizations is startling. Inevitably, the result is that decisions for the masses are formulated by a few. And, when problems arise and disagreements occur, those few are, unfortunately, held responsible. It takes less effort to criticize and complain than it does to work constructively. Complaints and criticisms are only commendable when channeled into action.

Perhaps, active participation in campus organizations is feasible for most students as other responsibilities demand preference. But a knowledge of existing organizations and their activities is the responsibility of every student. Interest and concern about college policies can only strengthen the student's knowledge about what will inevitably affect him or her.

MSC EXPANDING

Montclair State College, in particular, is rapidly expanding. New Organizations and committees are being formed daily to meet the demands of a growing college and with these changes there arises a need for greater student awareness. The attitudes must also keep pace with the numerous innovations. And as long as the student is utilizing campus facilities it is his responsibility as well as to his advantage to know how campus organizations operate.
It's Thursday--Here We Are

Don Pendley

Everybody hang around! You've got classes tomorrow! Just because the MONTCLARION's come out, don't leave. In case you hadn't noticed, this is the first Thursday MONTCLARION. Previously, we came out on Friday (at all) . . . unless, of course, you went home before 3 p.m. Fridays, in which case we came out Monday. Pick a day... any day.

Actually, today's issue of your favorite (and only) campus weekly newspaper (except this week, when it's a sixth-daily newspaper) is a milestone for several reasons.

FIRST EDITION

You wouldn't know this unless we told you, but it's the first edition printed at the Yellow Press Publishing Co., located in lower Montclair. You may wonder why we switched printers. Well, it's a long story.

First off, the liberated women who run this newspaper thought that the printers at Yellow Press were better-looking. "But can they put a newspaper together properly?" the MONTCLARION's males shouted. "Who cares!" the femmes screamed, "if we're gonna spend the night with anyone, they're gonna be good-looking!" We understand.

GUILTY CONSCIENCES

Secondly, we switched to Yellow Press because of their unusual minorities employment policy. In these times of racial discrimination and other great American traditions, Yellow Press has made it a standard practice to hire many underprivileged people. We, of the guilty white Anglo-Saxon Christian populace, found it easy to sooth our 400-years-of-guilty-consciences by switching to Yellow Press for this reason. It looks strange, though, to see the management of Yellow Press stuffing Armenians into the printing ink, Italians into the paper rolls and trying to photograph the MONTCLARION's plates on the backs of tall Arabs. Such is life.

Of course, there are other reasons we brought our account to Yellow Press. One of them was that we ran out of money on our account at our former printers, and they were threatening to get The Family on us (only kidding, boys!).

You may ask, why we've switched to a Thursday publication. Well, Yellow Press was glad to accept the MONTCLARION's business, but they couldn't fit us in on Fridays. That's the day they run off their counterfeit money. But don't fret, those of you who cheer on the MONTCLARION's top editors.

All of our kickbacks from the printers are going to be in old, small bills (we'll have to have some money).

So now you've obtained some insight into the workings of the MONTCLARION. Any questions? Well, we see it's time to go. Oh, yes...there'll be a quiz next column.

Letters

Letters to the editor should be submitted to the MONTCLARION office, second floor of the student life building, by noon Tuesday before the desired publication date. Letters should be typed, double spaced, and should not exceed 250 words. While the editors will not substantially change letters, they do reserve the right to edit letters for misspellings, style inconsistencies and excessive length. Letters should be signed with the writer's name, major and year.

What's Next, Mr. Nixon?

By David Berger

Lecture Chairman
College Life Union Board

When President Richard M. Nixon announced his plans to visit China, there was, of course, an infinite number of questions raised as to the motivation and validity of such an undertaking. The American public in general soon became bewildered over the varying opinions found in an overwhelming barrage of editorial comment.

Many wondered as to exactly what Nixon was intending to accomplish by his trip to China. Was it merely to initiate some type of international diplomatic relationship? Was it to attempt to settle the war in Southeast Asia or to gain the support of a Communist nation? Or rather was it a means by which Nixon could gain support in this election year? It was questions of this nature which led me to a number of conclusions about this matter.

As of late, the President has accomplished several things which seem to have a certain degree of significance because of their timeliness. His recent stand on the present economic policies of the United States is indicative of this line of thinking. Also, an announcement of extensive troop withdrawals from Vietnam, what is probably the lowest draft call in months and, most recently, a trip to China, could definitely improve the President’s public image. It seems to me that he would do these things regardless of the costs involved. Perhaps the President has come to a rather rude awakening concerning his public image.

Sorry, You'll Have to Call--

The phone rang for the twentieth time yesterday. And it was my turn to answer it, "MONTCLARION. May I help you?"

"Would you please connect me to Dr. Peter Low in the Chinese department?"

"I'm afraid you'll have to call 893-4000."

"Isn't this Montclair State College?"

"Yes..."

"Well, can't you..."

"I'm sorry but this is the student newspaper not the college's switchboard."

"This is the number the operator gave me.

WRONG NUMBER

"Yes, I know. But you see, the operator signed us up..."

"Can't you switch me over to the Chinese department?"

"No, I'm sorry but this is an outside line. It's not connected to the college's central circuit."

"What was that number again?"

"893-4000."

Gremlin Village

You missed a good philosophy lecture this morning. NNN?'

He was speaking about auxiliary materials...thought, and he gave me the trouble to remember.

Now, that's talkin', man.
Wood Aims to Put USSR in its Place

By Donna Lee Goldberg
Sports Writer

"To Russia with love" might be the words inscribed on the shot put that Denise Wood, senior physical education major and science minor will throw on March 17, 1972 in Richmond, Virginia at the USA-USSR dual meet. She views this rare opportunity to compete against the Russians "as a real educational experience." She plans to film and analyze them. She stated, "I'll compete and want to do well, but my primary thing is to learn.

Preparation for the upcoming event started when Wood got involved in track and field events as a high school student in Haledon where she lives. She was competing in a high school match when Dr. Richard Willing, at that time an MSC track coach, saw her performance. At that time Willing was an AAU coach and needed another girl for the upcoming AAU meet. Wood confessed to some shyness at first, but eventually went in to practice for four days and won first, third and fifth in discus, javelin and shot, respectively. REMINISCING SHE said, "Then I got psyched and stayed with it."

Wood's enthusiasm now has research, determination and self-control added to it. "I coach my self," she related and explained that she "reads and studies sport psychology, nutrition, technique, aerodynamics and physics to help myself." She summed this up by saying that "It's pretty scientific, it's a matter of physics throwing the eight-pound-13-ounce metal ball, bracing your foot against the four-inch brace, and using the seven-foot-circle to the best advantage."

Qualification for the Russian meet came after competition in national indoor and outdoor AAU meets and national college meets. Wood's been hitting the standards to qualify since 1968. Most recent is the Indoor AAU National Track and Field Championship which gave her the chance to be on the USA team which was picked there. She came in second with a 47.9. This competition has made Wood a well-traveled girl. She has been to Colorado, Texas, Ohio, Illinois and California.

THOUGH SHE has been competing for a while in AAU meets, this dual meet is a high point for Wood. She will leave on March 15 for Richmond and train for four days. According to Wood, "It is very unusual that we get a meet with the Russians."

Another reason that this meet will be important for Wood is because she will have a coach to help her in person. The coach is Dr. Harmon Brown whom Wood terms as "one of the best US field coaches." Besides coaching herself, she's been getting advice throughout the season.

Naturally, the topic of the Munich Olympic games crept into the conversation. Blind-bowed Wood was a bit hesitant to talk about them, "After all," as she said, "You never know what's going to happen." The Olympic games have special standards that she must try to reach. No one has reached them so far, but Wood still keeps her eyes open and her arm moving. A more definite goal at this time is that she would like to teach and then go on to graduate school.

Ritual in the training of Denise Wood is a large part of the plan. She works the entire year only taking off a month or two. Wood explained in a serious tone, "I work for power like a sprinter and build endurance just so that I can build power. I want explosive power rather than endurance power. I also try to eat the right foods."

Wood said she has a good luck charm behind her ear. "I put one sock on inside out. Usually it's the left one."

SPARKED BY outstanding performances by Captain Linda Monaco, Eileen Wans and Jan King, the Squaws easily out-scored their younger, inexperienced opponents. Vaulting did the most damage to the Newark squad as King came up with an 8.10 vault to cop first place and net the highest individual score of the meet.

Monaco, who received Po Chi's most valuable gymnast award last week, placed first in the floor exercises with a net score of 7.30.

Wans finished on top in the uneven parallel bars with a 5.15.

Newark's biggest asset was Janice Beardsmore who took a first on the balance beam.

PLANNING AHEAD — Denise Wood, Lou Green and track coach Joan Schleede (left to right) as they discussed training for upcoming season two years ago. The discussion paid off in the thousands for Wood who will represent the United States in the USA-USSR track meet at Richmond, Va. on March 17.
