The Montclarion, May 18, 1972

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/185

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Reelection Referendum Slated May 24
As Conforth Concedes Defeat to Crane

By Susan Kelly
Staff Writer

The Student Government Association will conduct a referendum of the student body on Wed., May 24 to decide if a reelection will be held for the SGA executive positions. The date falls in the middle of exam week.

In response to 900 student signatures on a petition requesting new elections, SGA president Terry Lee called for the referendum in which 30% of the student body (1800 students) must vote in order to negate the results of the first election.

If the referendum passes with the required number of votes, a new executive election must be held before the end of the semester, according to SGA vice-president Bill Asdal.

The probable date for the new elections, if they are held, would be May 26, the last day of school, Asdal said.

Absentee ballots will be available in the SGA office for those students who will not be on campus on Wednesday. These ballots must be submitted by Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Bruce Conforth, a defeated presidential candidate, has withdrawn his attempt to contest Sam Crane's victory in that position. "Sam will do a good job," Conforth stated, adding that he feels that it's too late to bring about a re-election.

Before Lee announced his decision to the legislature on Tuesday the representatives voted on a bill submitted by math department rep Leon Varjian calling for a recall of the election results by the legislature and for provisions for a new election. Inspite of arguments in favor of the bill, it was defeated.

The move to contest the election results began several days after the election by a group of unsuccessful candidates. The basis for their complaint was that inadequate provisions for the write-in votes caused delays in voting.

Because of the long lines, they felt that many students were denied the opportunity to vote.

MICHAEL KING, defeated in his bid for the vice-presidency, explained to the legislators that the defeated candidates are not contesting who won the election but the manner in which it was conducted.

Freshman class rep Chris Breeden said that students who were not able to vote in the elections because of the lines are unlikely to return next year to vote. This will increase the apathy on campus, he said.

Angelo Genova, another Freashman rep, said that the SGA should at least condemn the elections if they don't pass the bill.

Susan Dillon, a Student attending the meeting, said that she "could not vote for the people of her choice" because of the long lines.

One legislator questioned the lengthy delay in acting on the complaints against the election. "You know that no one is going to be here for the election," she told Lee.

Lee said that it took a long time to validate the signatures on the petition.

Michael King: Contest Election

Bruce Conforth: Concedes Defeat

students will be on campus for the election.

FRIDAY, MAY 19
MOVIE. Communication Disorders dept. sponsors "The Wild Child" at 7:30 p.m. in memorial auditorium. $1.00 donation for the ECDC Garden School.

SENIOR AWARDS ASSEMBLY. Noon to 1 p.m. in memorial auditorium. All seniors are invited to attend.

MAY ACTIVITIES CALENDARS. Sponsored by the Commuter Commission can be picked up in the SGA public relations office.

SUNDAY, MAY 21
BUS TO WASHINGTON. Bus will leave Panzer Gym at 6 a.m. Sign up for rally in Russ 216. Will return from Washington about 10 p.m.

MONDAY, MAY 22
SENIOR BANQUET. Banquet at Thomms Restaurant in Newark from 7 p.m. till 1 a.m. Tickets are $7.50 per person. Open bar, music by Geo-O-Jac Trio.

SENIORS. Distribution of caps and gowns at Fishbowl. All week from 10 a.m. till 4 p.m.

THURSDAY, MAY 25
TRACK. NCAA Eastern Championships at Ashland, Ohio.

MEETING. Gay Activist Alliance meeting to be conducted in Alumni Lounge at 7 p.m.

FRIDAY, MAY 26
TRACK. IC4A's at Franklin Field, Philadelphia at 1:30 p.m.

MONDAY, MAY 29
COMMENCEMENT. Ceremonies at Sprague Field at 11 a.m.
By Carla Capizzi
Staff Writer

A lot of people talk about "getting involved," but that is all they ever do—they talk about getting involved. For the past four semesters, however, a large group of Montclair State students have been doing more than talking. They have tutored, served as hospital aides, worked with brain-impaired and emotionally disturbed children, the handicapped and drug addicts.

The MSC students involved were part of what Dr. Jane Krumacher, assistant professor of psychology, calls "a fantastic learning experience." As part of their class requirements, students in her "Educational Psychology" and "Human Growth and Development" courses must either do field work or a project. This spring, some 120 of her 140 students went out into over a dozen area communities, working in nursery, grammar and high schools, hospitals and centers for drug addicts and the physically and mentally handicapped.

The students were to devote a minimum of 20 hours, spread over a ten-week period, to any institution and type of work they chose. Each student was assigned a supervisor in the institution, who would help him and later evaluate his work. Each student was also required to submit both written and oral reports on his experiences. That was where all similarity to conventional, cut and dried class work ended.

About a dozen of the students who did field work this spring crowded into Krumacher's office to talk about what they had done. Surprisingly, most were not psychology majors. Some were not even planning on teaching careers.

On THEIR own in strange environments, the students found that they had learned more than they ever could from a textbook, both about working with people and about themselves. They discovered that working with others not only gave them more poise and self-confidence, but made them more tolerant and understanding of a teacher's problems.

Mary Gelm's experiences tutoring a junior high gym class have convinced her to seriously consider a teaching career. The business administration major was impressed by her students' enthusiasm and the realization that, with her help, "The kids were able to learn something they might not have been able to do."

Senior Michael James found that tutoring at his old high school helped him to get over his pre-teaching "stage fright." In return, he was able to show his students that teachers were not just "human typewriters."

English major Jerry Morris taught both third and eighth graders. His experiences gave him "a lot of respect for teachers." His feelings were echoed by junior Mark Westerfield. "You don't know what it's like until you're up there," he commented, reflecting on his time spent organizing a children's band in a hospital psychiatric unit.

SEVERAL OF the students felt their experiences had reinforced their ambitions and goals. After working with brain-damaged teenagers, sophomore John Stevens is more convinced than ever of his desire to be a clinical psychologist. Tom Kozub, a freshman, felt his experiences convinced him "that's what I want to do (teaching)." After working with nursery school children, home ec major Cathy Frudden is seriously considering starting a day care center.

Howard Myricks coached blind teens in wrestling, karate and track at New York's Mount Carmel Guild. He was so "impressed" by the people he worked with that he would like to teach the blind. James Walker was also impressed with the people he worked with—from drug addicts at Project Hope. Like Myricks and Stevens, he will continue his voluntary service after his field work is completed.

One student, Dawn Hink, has been hired as a part-time dance instructor at the school where she did her field work. Although all the participants were enthusiastic about their experiences, they were able to admit problems and mistakes. They found that it was hard to be the ideal teacher and sometimes "yelling and screaming" were necessary. Mondays and Fridays, they agreed, were "bad days" for everyone. The group also laughingly marvelled at "how smart kids really are." In addition to "normal kid problems," they found unusual ones: discipline problems, a child with speech defects, a twin, who, according to Morris, "lived in the shadow of her twin." June Mierop, tutoring math and English, encountered an orphan who "needed a lot of love."

Krumacher was obviously proud of her 'program', which she describes as "bringing the classroom into the community and vice-versa." She is even prouder of her students. "You know, you teach them all year," she mused, "but it's not until now that you realize what really beautiful people they are."

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Psycho Classes Take to the Streets

By Carla Capizzi

"WEDDINGS AS SEEN THROUGH A BRIDE'S MISTY EYES —"
Tres Joli Studio
CREATIVE PHOTOGRAPHY

INVITATIONS AT DISCOUNT PRICES
CAMPUS REP PEGGY KELLEHER 743-1218

Recycled (Used) Clothing

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Item</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jeans</td>
<td>$2.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirts</td>
<td>Assorted 1.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sweaters</td>
<td>2.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suede Jackets</td>
<td>5.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tails</td>
<td>4.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wester Shirts</td>
<td>2.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Rugs of all Types
$5.00 & up

INNERS DIMENSIONS
127 Watchung Ave.
Montclair, N.J.
Mon. - Sat., 10 A.M. to 10 P.M.

MONTCLARION
New Jersey's Leading Collegiate Weekly

Kathy Blumenthal
Carol Capizzi
Janine Mikulik
Caroly Giordano
Donna Goldberg
Diane Fadden
Don Perdue
James D. Hite
Gay Ball
Cynthia Lappe
Carol Anne Sakowitz
Miguel Menj
Les Romanos
Joanne Surwecz
Michael F.X. Greico
Man of AKO

copy editors
layout editors
assignment editors
editorial editor
photography editor
magazine editor
sports editor
advertising manager
editorial assistant editorial consultant
circulation

The MONTCLARION is published weekly throughout the academic year, except during examinations and examination periods, by the Student Government Association, Inc., of Montclair State College, Valley road at Normal avenue, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043. Telephone (211) 893-8169.

The MONTCLARION is a member of the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association and has twice won the All-American rating in the Associated Collegiate Press Competition.

The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief.

JOBS

Parcel Handlers

Yes, We Still Have Them!
Does Your Schedule Fit?
PART TIME FOR STUDENTS
10:30 P.M. SHIFT - FOR 4 1/2 HRS.
$2.85/HR. - STARTING WAGE
APPLY IN PERSON DAILY
9:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M.
at
United Parcel Service
493 County Ave.
Secaucus, N.J.
MSC'ers Complain About Mud and Mess

By Susan Kelly
Staff Writer

Montclair State has a variety of sights, sounds and smells to attract the average student. Some are very pleasant—flowers, the sounds of guitar playing in the mall and of students talking and laughing as they walk between classes.

Some are not so pleasant, however, and a poll taken of students has shown their concern about pollution on campus. The sight of cars wallowing in the mud between Finley Hall and the Fine Arts building, trash strewn across the campus. The sight of cars students has shown their complaints. "Perhaps it wouldn't like I'm in a swamp," said another music major. A disgruntled English major wrote: "I don't like to park my car in a river."

MANY STUDENTS complained of the confusion and mess caused by the construction of the Student Center and the math-science building. One student suggested that construction be limited to weekends and summer months. MSC vice-president of business and finance Vincent Calabrese blamed students for a large part of the pollution problem. Maintenance director Joseph McGinty was saying that approximately six tons of debris are picked up from the grounds each month.

Black Funds

Phi Alpha Psi, a fraternity more commonly known as Senate, is sponsoring a $250 grant to graduating seniors with high school scholarship ambitions.

Male, graduating seniors accepted in a graduate school are into consideration by the Senate in the SGA office until Wed., May 24.

The Black Organization For Success in Society (BOSS) will sponsor the participation of 50 Montclair State students in the African Liberation Day activities in Washington, DC on May 27. Thousands of people from all over the country are expected to be present, according to sources from the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee.

The participants will demonstrate before the Portuguese, Rhodesian and South African embassies. Portugal occupies Angola, Mozambique and Guineas Bissau. Rhodesia and South Africa have "white settler minority governments." A march will begin in Malcolm X Park, where other activities are also scheduled.

Oswusu Sadakai: Black Organizer

Tickets will be on sale for $2 to interested students until Wed., May 24 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the BOSS office. The bus will depart from the front of the student life building on Sat., May 27 at 6 a.m. The buses will leave Washington for MSC at 6 p.m.

AFRICAN LIBERATION Day commemorates all of the 50 states as well as the West Indies and Canada. Oswusu Sadakai, who spoke at MSC during Black Week, is chairman of the national steering committee for the day.

Other members of the committee include the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Julian Bond and H. Rap Brown. Stokely Carmichael and Angela Davis are also members.

BOSS Sponsors Black Lib Day

The Black Organization For Success in Society (BOSS) will sponsor the participation of 50 Montclair State students in the African Liberation Day activities in Washington, DC on May 27. Thousands of people from all over the country are expected to be present, according to sources from the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee.

The participants will demonstrate before the Portuguese, Rhodesian and South African embassies. Portugal occupies Angola, Mozambique and Guineas Bissau. Rhodesia and South Africa have "white settler minority governments." A march will begin in Malcolm X Park, where other activities are also scheduled.

Oswusu Sadakai: Black Organizer

Tickets will be on sale for $2 to interested students until Wed., May 24 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the BOSS office. The bus will depart from the front of the student life building on Sat., May 27 at 6 a.m. The buses will leave Washington for MSC at 6 p.m.

AFRICAN LIBERATION Day commemorates all of the 50 states as well as the West Indies and Canada. Oswusu Sadakai, who spoke at MSC during Black Week, is chairman of the national steering committee for the day.

Other members of the committee include the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Julian Bond and H. Rap Brown. Stokely Carmichael and Angela Davis are also members.

The Voice of Monclair State

 Presents Live

THE MONTCLAIR INDIANS IN THE NCAA
COLLEGE DIVISION
BASEBALL PLAYOFFS FROM TIDEWATER, VIRGINIA

on VMS FM 91.1 thru WFWM
MAY 25th and 26th

For Air Times listen to UMS FM Monday thru Wed. at 6:00 p.m.

MONTCLAIRON/Thurs., May 18, 1972. 3.

MSC Roundup Tuesday, May 16

DENOUNCEMENT OF SOUTH VIETNAM INVASION

Chris Breden, Freshman class rep, asked that the SGA go on record as denouncing the current invasion of South Vietnam by North Vietnamese forces and that up to $200 be appropriated from unappropriated surplus for a peace demonstration in Washington, DC. The bill carried.

CONSTITUTION OF LASO

Norma Velazquez, Spanish/Italian department rep, asked that the Latin American Student Organization (LASO) be granted a Class II charter. The bill passed the legislature.

RE-EVALUATION OF SPACE ALLOCATIONS

Larry Bishop, School of Social and Behavioral Sciences rep, submitted a bill saying that whereas the SGA Parking Review Committee has recommended that faculty and staff pay parking fees for reserved parking spaces, but that no response has come from the college administration in the Student Center and the student life building. The bill passed the legislature.

FACULTY AND STAFF PARKING FEES

Larry Bishop, School of Social and Behavioral Sciences rep and Vic DeLuca, history department rep, submitted a bill saying that whereas the SGA Parking Review Committee has recommended that faculty and staff pay parking fees for reserved parking spaces, but that no response has come from the faculty or staff, that the students then pay the parking fee and park their cars in any lot desired. Also, the SGA will appeal all parking tickets given out until the matter is resolved. The bill passed.
The feminist movement is a response to an oppressive society. Women must realize that their oppression is not individual or personal, but universal and political. Since the individual cannot stand free in a repressive environment, feminism must attack not only specific acts of male domination but the entire social and cultural structure that supports and indeed enforces this domination.

Technologically we have advanced far enough that women no longer need be slaves to their reproductive functions. In addition, modern conveniences have lightened or eliminated the time consuming household tasks that once required women's efforts. So, in practice, women should be able to effect their liberation. Unfortunately this is not the case for women continue to find themselves rigidly stereotyped.

The human race has been split into two groups based on biological functioning. This division of humanity has been reinforced by the division of the psyche into male and female and the development of supportive social institutions. Certain modes of action – certain qualities and virtues – have been assigned to the members of each group and patterns of behavior have emerged as women and men relate to each other within the context of this schizoid society. Feminism denies the relevancy of this division of society and in doing so it invalidates much of our evolved behavioral response. Men and women will have difficulty in relating to each other until they can evolve new and authentic responses. Because that involves hard work and threatens the existing order both men and women react adversely to the idea. Despite the drawbacks and because feminism embodies the seeds of a new and more equitable society women should continually question their place in society.

Men cannot help but benefit from the liberation of women. The breakdown of roles would avail to men and women new opportunities as well as new responsibilities. If, for example, women were assured equal pay for equal work they could be expected to share the responsibility of supporting a family. Women would regain a sense of purpose and both men and women would benefit from the resultant addition of free time.

WOMEN COULD share the responsibility of civil service, whether it be in a volunteer army or other service. Of course one should not expect women to fight and die for a country over which they have no policy making control. A real woman's army must be prerequisites by women in the top echelons of government.

The breakdown of roles will also allow women and men to fully live their lives. The stereotype that decrees that man is aggressive, strong and cool denies him the proper functioning of his emotions. In like manner, women are denied the intellectual life. Liberation would free men and women to share in both the emotion and intellectual life and develop their personalities accordingly. Each would be able to display the traits of activity, passivity, strength and softness, without having to apply masculine and feminine attached.

As men and women begin to deal with each other as individuals, sexual attitudes must alter and find new meaning. A woman with true knowledge and control of her body and who seeks pleasure actively and positively will undoubtedly enrich the sexual experience. In addition, the man who is not hindered by his ego, who regards intercourse as neither conquest or competition is testimony to the statement that the liberation of women means the liberation of her oppressor.

This may be one of the hardest ideals to achieve. That is the de-emphasis of the media created woman-sex equivalence. Its absence will allow women to find worth in themselves based on true human values rather than their ability to emulate the current sweetheart of the American public. Men will be able to deal with women as equals who happen to be female in sex. Lovemaking will no longer be initiated by the man who, having gotten a lump in his pants from watching the girls in the office, turns to his mate for relief. Instead it will be the result of a mutual desire to communicate with another human being on a sensual basis, one that involves touch, smell, taste, sound and, to some extent, sight.

SO THEN, it will be necessary for women to question the validity of the institutions that have sanctioned these oppressions. The family, for example, as it presently exists must re-evaluated and must re-evaluated.
SGA REFERENDUM

Should there be another SGA executive election?

Wednesday, May 24

Polls open from 9a.m. to 4p.m.

In Life Hall Lounge
Six months ago Ralph A. Dungan, chancellor of higher education, arbitrarily rose tuition by the sum of $250. Now after a lengthy assembly fight the increase has been lowered to $185. The proponents of a lesser or no increase say they have lost. Why?

Perhaps it was the two-timing tactics employed by such men as Assemblyman David Friedland (D-Hudson) who sold student interests out for a few extra dollars appropriated to his county. He told students to pursue “other means” in reducing the hike. We hope these other means include campaigning against Friedland in the next election.

Maybe the students are disgusted at the absenteeism of key Democratic leaders such as Assemblyman Charles Yates (D-Burlington), who was in Japan at the time of the vote. He should have realized that the Republicans would force a showdown on the issue and his place was on the assembly floor and not the Imperial Palace.

But no matter what the case, the fight against the hike is all over except for irate statements such as this. We sincerely question the high worth some is but who you know and what you have to bargain with. But we care not for the personal glory and not interested in attending to the proceedings or frankly just didn’t give a damn.

The legislature was a haven for those seeking personal glory and not interested in attending to the business at hand. Often times meetings were ended prematurely because legislators were fatigued at the proceedings or frankly just didn’t give a damn.

Perhaps things would have been different if the legislature had a leader. Terry B. Lee, SGA president, turned out to be no more than a figurehead, who made brief appearances at meetings, but made no attempt to revitalize the lethargic organization.

The SGA will be holding new legislative elections soon. We believe an informed student electorate may make better choices and show more concern this year at the polls. We hope so, for the SGA cannot survive another disaster like this one.

To the Editor:
What "makes individuals do things that they would not ordinarily do?" How many students wish to be far away from Upper Montclair in this beautiful spring weather instead of sitting in a stuffy classroom?

Chris Breeden, apparently not involved with the Greek organizations on campus, feels that pledging causes resentment. My own experiences have taught me that pledging has several purposes: building friendships, teaching responsibility, strengthening character and acting as a pleasant release from the dull S-M-C routine. Without the support of the Greek organizations, many of the popular campus events such as Homecoming, Greek Picnic, Follies and Carnival would certainly prove themselves failures.

Alienation? Greek organizations have internal spirit and external involvement, much of which includes charitable fund raising projects. Students not interested in Greek life on campus would do well to leave the situation alone. Maybe the students involved want to be doing "things they would not ordinarily do." I do.

Margie Huber ’72
Dalpach
Speech Arts

To the Editor:
As president of Theta Chi Rho, I feel compelled to take a stand in regard to the article "Pleading Humilitates and Degrades," published in the May edition of the MONTCLARION.

My stand will be in the form of an explanation of pledging for Theta.

It was apparent that the Greeks were dying out on campus and it was decided that something should be done. The first and foremost factor to be looked into was pledging and to try and make it more appealing. It proved successful because we attracted quite a few new sisters in the past year.

Our pledging is devised, so that the pledging period gives the pledge a chance to get to know each other and the sisters and it gives the sisters a chance to get to know their prospective new sisters. We try to instill in our pledges a feeling of belonging, responsibility and cooperation which is a vital part of our sisterhood.

Jane Anderbach
President, Theta Chi Rho

To the Editor:
This is in regard to the letter concerning pledging as the reason for apathy on this campus. I feel that this was very much the case and should no weight at all.

I feel that on behalf of all Greek organizations some retraction should be made in your next edition. Thank you.

Joy Silver
President, Iota Gamma Xi

Editors Note: Breeden’s article, whether it be biased or not, has just as much right to be published as any letter. It is our policy to allow the guest spots to be used by any responsible student. The following week, we will include someone used the same space to answer Breeden’s charges.
Lynda Emery

SGA Executives Get Treats

Probably the most favored group of students at MSC is the Student Government Association's Executive Board. Because of their position, these four students, the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, receive little goodies all the way from reserved parking spaces on campus to free room, board and tuition for summer school. I wonder what these officers do to warrant this unique treatment.

OFFICE LOCKED
The SGA office is locked at 4 p.m. every afternoon and seldom is any work done after that time. The work that these executives do can obviously be done before 4 p.m. A survey of the second floor in the student life building, however, will show that the SGA is one of the only organizations able to do that. The

Don Pendley

Three Wishes For MSC

I've just gotten my annual memo from Santa Claus (being his off-season, he's got the time to write). He said:

"You've been a good columnist all year, Don, and I'll give you three wishes. Much luck to you."

I wish for:

1. a college campus of my choice
2. to have my mark as the president of the SGA
3. a camera

Apathy is one of those catchy words that was really 'in' just a few short years ago. Everyone was talking about it for a while because it is fashionable to do so. Now, the word is no longer "popular", especially on college campuses.

"Apathy is one of those catchy words that was really 'in' just a few short years ago. Everyone was talking about it for a while because it is fashionable to do so. Now, the word is no longer "popular", especially on college campuses."

SGA FAULTS
This might be construed as an attack on the SGA and "sour grapes" because I am a member of the MONTCLAIRON and La Campana. But as the recently elected secretary of the SGA, I have demonstrated my belief in that organization, despite its myriad of faults. I was happy to be elected and will perform my duties as completely as possible. Yet I wonder why any less favorable should accompany the election of the newspaper editor, the yearbook editor, the president of the Black Organization for Success in Society, the president of Players, etc. Certainly, a competent newspaper editor can influence students as definitely as an SGA president in the way that he or she interprets the news. Also, the manner in which the president of BOSS determines that black thought on campus should run can affect the campus as strongly as the SGA president.

While I doubt the validity of paying editors, student government officers, student actors and actresses, etc. as many large universities do, I feel that the automatic school tuition is fair repayment for the many hours that these people dedicate to their school. As security of the SGA, I will accept this free room, board and tuition. That I do so with a clear conscience is only because I will also serve as editor of La Campana.

Spotlight On Books

Media's Power Is Nixon's Dilemma

President Nixon and the Press; Keogh; James; Funk & Wagnalls, 212 pp. $6.95.

In an election year the ability of the news media to convey their own views to the public should not be underestimated. This is one of the reasons why James Keogh's book, "President Nixon and the Press", is essential to an understanding of the power of the media.

Keogh, himself a career journalist and former chief of the White House research and writing staff under Richard Nixon, has written a remarkably well-researched book that serves as a timely contrast to what he terms "the adversary nature of the press-Presidential relationship."

A point which the book emphasizes is that there is "a condition of conformity in the news media that favors one political-philosophical point of view." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.

Keogh cites many examples in which the liberal press, especially The New York Times and The Washington Post, have distorted or manipulated the facts to meet their own political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the Office of Economic Opportunity for using hijacked airfields by Jack Anderson of the Post which condemned the political ends. He even describes a completely false account of the press." During the Nixon administration, Keogh says, this reached its greatest heights and slanted news coverage more than ever before.
A Red Van Leaving For Trenton

By Joanne Surowicz
Staff Writer

If you were on campus Thursday morning, May 11, at the strait-laced hour of 7:30 a.m., you might have witnessed nine well-dressed students climbing into a red MAC van in front of life hall. You might have wondered if they were embarking on a field trip. If you were stationed at a toll booth anywhere between Montclair and Trenton, you might have laughed at the incongruous appearance of that van with transmission trouble carrying nine college students who were obviously planning some type of strategy. You might’ve asked (as one toll-keeper seriously did) if they were a traveling choir group.

EXTRAS

And if you were a waitress at a Holiday Inn, across from the State House Complex and saw those nine kids coming in for breakfast, followed by 11 more, you might’ve groaned and run for extra menus.

A Six Month Fight

We began the tuition fight six months ago and last Thursday, the state assembly voted a $185 increase. We lost.

We lost although a lobby effort was initiated by a group of Montclair State and Rutgers students. It was a case of making deals previously and for us it was over.

GOALS

This is just the beginning. In the future the Student Government Association will work with sister organizations at other schools and will be working on getting the vote for our student member on the Board of Trustees. Our ultimate goal will be to get a student on the Board of Higher Education.

It is an important function for our SGA to participate in the betterment of all students. I wish to thank those students who took time off to lobby in Trenton. They are: Mike King, Vic Deluca, Larry Bishop, Wayne Malzene, Helen Doskins, Karen Glyn and MONTCLARION reporters Joanne Surowicz and Bill Gibson.

Two Shattering Minutes

By Bill Gibson
Staff Writer

Green thirty-two. Red thirty-eight. Green thirty-two.

We lost although a lobby effort was initiated by a group of Montclair State and Rutgers students. It was a case of making deals previously and for us it was over.

Two minutes. We waited for nerve wracking hours in the gallery for those two minutes. The culmination of months of lobbying, of letter writing, of meetings—all of it was compressed into those two minutes.

Two minutes. Six long months of work, of involvement, of missing Monday and Thursday classes. And what happens? Some opportunistic Hudson County Democrat sells us out.

Two minutes. Ten hours of waiting and watching from the gallery. Ten hours of frustration and tension. And waiting. And waiting. The tension, the anxiety, the hope—they’re gone after those two minutes.

Two minutes. A short time relatively speaking. And yet it has shattered the immediate past and clouded the immediate future. It’s made us all feel very, very old.

Two minutes. That’s all it took to drop us to the lower depths of depression. Yet, despite it all, you have a new feeling of satisfaction. We showed them we’re here and that we have to be reckoned with. You feel kind of proud in a revengeful way.

Two minutes. The political futures of some of our assemblies may have been decided in those two minutes. Somewhere you feel that the common man is still heard by our government.

Two minutes. We forced the defecting Democrats off the floor for those two minutes. And that makes you feel proud.

Two minutes. That’s how long the battle lasted. We lost. But I’ll be damned if it doesn’t look like we might win the war. For all it accomplished it might never have existed. For all it accomplished it might never have existed.

The culmination of months of lobbying, of letter writing, of meetings—all of it was compressed into those two minutes.

Two minutes. Ten hours of waiting and watching from the gallery. Ten hours of frustration and tension. And waiting. And waiting. The tension, the anxiety, the hope—they’re gone after those two minutes.

Two minutes. A short time relatively speaking. And yet it has shattered the immediate past and clouded the immediate future. It’s made us all feel very, very old.

Two minutes. That’s all it took to drop us to the lower depths of depression. Yet, despite it all, you have a new feeling of satisfaction. We showed them we’re here and that we have to be reckoned with. You feel kind of proud in a revengeful way.

Two minutes. The political futures of some of our assemblies may have been decided in those two minutes. Somewhere you feel that the common man is still heard by our government.

Two minutes. We forced the defecting Democrats off the floor for those two minutes. And that makes you feel proud.

Two minutes. That’s how long the battle lasted. We lost. But I’ll be damned if it doesn’t look like we might win the war. For all it accomplished it might never have existed. For all it accomplished it might never have existed.

Two minutes. Ten hours of waiting and watching from the gallery. Ten hours of frustration and tension. And waiting. And waiting. The tension, the anxiety, the hope—they’re gone after those two minutes.

Two minutes. A short time relatively speaking. And yet it has shattered the immediate past and clouded the immediate future. It’s made us all feel very, very old.

Two minutes. That’s all it took to drop us to the lower depths of depression. Yet, despite it all, you have a new feeling of satisfaction. We showed them we’re here and that we have to be reckoned with. You feel kind of proud in a revengeful way.

Two minutes. The political futures of some of our assemblies may have been decided in those two minutes. Somewhere you feel that the common man is still heard by our government.

Two minutes. We forced the defecting Democrats off the floor for those two minutes. And that makes you feel proud.

Two minutes. That’s how long the battle lasted. We lost. But I’ll be damned if it doesn’t look like we might win the war. For all it accomplished it might never have existed. For all it accomplished it might never have existed.

Two minutes. Ten hours of waiting and watching from the gallery. Ten hours of frustration and tension. And waiting. And waiting. The tension, the anxiety, the hope—they’re gone after those two minutes.

Two minutes. A short time relatively speaking. And yet it has shattered the immediate past and clouded the immediate future. It’s made us all feel very, very old.

Two minutes. That’s all it took to drop us to the lower depths of depression. Yet, despite it all, you have a new feeling of satisfaction. We showed them we’re here and that we have to be reckoned with. You feel kind of proud in a revengeful way.

Two minutes. The political futures of some of our assemblies may have been decided in those two minutes. Somewhere you feel that the common man is still heard by our government.

Two minutes. We forced the defecting Democrats off the floor for those two minutes. And that makes you feel proud.

Two minutes. That’s how long the battle lasted. We lost. But I’ll be damned if it doesn’t look like we might win the war. For all it accomplished it might never have existed. For all it accomplished it might never have existed.
In 1967, MSC students staged a 24 Hour Marathon of music, contest and lectures. This was the beginning of the Student Center.

Held from 8 p.m., Fri., April 14 through 11 p.m., Sat., April 15, "the purpose of the marathon was to attract the attention of the state and state legislature and thus secure funds for more campus buildings," according to the March 10 edition of the Montclarion.

Marathon events included a "Stay Awake" contest, a sports car that circled the mall at 10 m.p.h. for 24 hours and a continuous basketball game sponsored by Gamma Delta Chi in an attempt to smash the national record of 31 hours, 12 minutes.

Musical events like "pop" and folk singers, combos, The Dirty Birdies jug band and a rock band, Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonians, were scheduled throughout the two day stunt.

A magic clown, a panel discussion on "Is God Dead?" and a film, "Much Ado About Something: Montclair In Action," ended the weekend.

The stated purpose of the benefit, according to Joe Kloza, then SGA president and chairman of the marathon committee, was "to raise money for a new Student Center."

The 1967 hopes and dreams of MSC for their center included lounge areas for students and faculty members, offices for student organizations, a recreation room, tv rooms, a music-listening lounge, reading rooms, barber shops, bowling alleys, a college store, cafeteria, ballroom, student organization work and file center, a VIP room, snack bar and an information area.

It was not until March 8, 1968 that the Student Center question was raised again. In a lengthy editorial, the Montclarion asked why nothing had been done in furthering the cause of the Center. It read: "Through the Margin for Excellence campaign, the 24 Hour Marathon was held last spring with all profits donated to the College Development Fund for use in the College Union Building."

Then, in an April 26, 1968 editorial entitled "One Year Later," the Montclarion noted the passing of the first anniversary of the marathon. The paper asked why Trenton had not proceeded with the construction. It said: "It is now our turn to ask Trenton when they will decide to help our college. Is this such an unreasonable request? Since Trenton has overtaken the construction project let it now follow up the proposals. We are waiting...."

The concept of a student union fee was originally discussed in a Sept. 27, 1968 article: "Concerning the new student union building, staffing patterns and possible revenue sources are being developed. A student-faculty administrative commission has been formed to pursue the question of an initial fee to MSC students. This fee would provide funds for the operation of the building. An authorization will be guaranteed should the new student union be self-liquidating.

"Plans and specifications for the student union are complete. The new building will face the library and form a quadrangle complete with cross-walks, outdoor lounges and recreational facilities."

Construction will begin.
Student Center

and 27 Hours Later

The president of the Student Union was for a newStudent Center and for their lounge areas and faculty facilities for organizations, a lounge, barber alleys, a cafeteria, a snack room, snack bar and file cabinet. The concept of a student union fee was originally discussed in a Sept. 27, 1968 article:

"Concerning the new student union building, staffing patterns and possible revenue sources are being developed. A student faculty administrative commission has been formed to pursue the question of an initial fee to MSC students. This fee would provide funds for the operation of the building. Ratification will be guaranteed should the new student union be self-liquidating.

"Plans and specifications for the student union are complete. The new building will face the library and form a quadrangle complete with cross-walks, outdoor lounges and recreational facilities. Construction will begin on the new student union building as soon as funding has been determined."

Then, in the May 16, 1969 issue: "In a one to four vote the $20 fee was passed last Friday. The 30% voter turnout needed was exceeded when 38.9% of the students cast ballots in Memorial Auditorium lobby. With the passage of the referendum, students will pay a $10 union fee every semester for the construction of the new union building slated to begin this fall."

The 1348 favorable votes mirrored the extensive publicity campaign that went on for weeks preceding the three voting days. Dayglo buttons reading "Close the Union Gap" sprouted on campus, resulting in only 314 votes against the fee.

Construction finally began in August, 1970 and, in the Sept. 17 issue of the MONTCLARION, "Students can look forward to using the new student union building by Jan. 13, according to Jerry Quinn, facilities director."

Slowed down by strikes and hampered by construction difficulties, the student's Center will officially open June 16, the first day of the 1972 Summer Session.

Front and Back Cover Photos by Michael Loewenthal.
A New Place to Be Somebody

Editor's note: The following is an interview with Michael Loewenthal who has been the director of the Student Center since September. He was formerly the director of TUB and is a graduate of Rutgers University.

To begin with, what will operate a fuel station as an integral part of the college branch office offering all banking facilities such as checking accounts, savings, loans, etc.

Will the 24-hour schedule be effective immediately?
No. The building will probably close at 11 p.m. during the summer session. It won't go around the clock until the fall. Even then such things as the gas station and the stores will probably not be open that long.

What about the snack bar?
That largely depends on the students. If it's used and needed, it will stay open.

Who actually governs the building?
The Student Center Policy Board will handle the scheduling policy, guidelines for the building's occupation, promotion and space allocations of the student offices.

Wouldn't the board conflict with the SGA?
The establishment of a Student Center fee created what is tantamount to a new constituency other than that of the SGA. As they are distinct entities, the board will take into consideration all the needs of its new constituency.

The Student Center fee is paid by all students, summer, graduate and undergraduate. Therefore, these individuals belonging to non-SGA groups have a legitimate request for things such as space allocation.

Do you foresee any problems between the board and the SGA?
I don't think it's a question simply answered. It's a fact they are separate and distinct. I can foresee a conflict. The current composition of the Board contains three members of the SGA. So you see, the SGA could wield significant power.

Were any changes made in the building since it was originally designed?
The exterior was not changed. Internally, through consultations with other Student Center directors like Dean John Wong of the Rutgers Student Center, the building was redesigned.

What type of changes were made in the building?
Actually many people have contributed to changes in the building, from students to Ben Thomas, the general contractor. The metamorphosis which has taken place over the last couple of years has resulted in a building which will be contemporary for a long time to come.

Can you give an example of such a change?
The rathskeller, general store and mechanical games room are now located where the bowling alleys would have been on the lower level.

Exactly how is the rest of the building furnished? Will it have four predominate colors like Bohm Hall?
No. Chandler Cudlipp Associates, our interior designers, have chosen a combination of reds and purples with accent colors of orange and brown.

What other student services will the building offer?
Many of the services the Center will provide are still pending and open to suggestion, but we have already decided on a few of the services they want.

We're going to provide sporting equipment such as tennis rackets, basketballs, bicycles and so forth for rental or loan. The Center is also equipped with a sophisticated sound system offering students record playback facilities, a stereo headphone listening area, distributed sound throughout all rooms in addition to 6 satellite reinforcement systems.

The service should help all students keep in touch with student activities on a daily basis.

Will the community be allowed to use the Center's facilities?
We haven't had any real dilemma with the community using present campus facilities. Of course, finished building not a finished Center. We hope students will bring ideas and innovations to create a vibrant Center environment.

Actually, the Center should be seen in terms of changing campus dynamics—compliment to Montclair State College as a growing community.
Tuition--We Were Sold Out

By Joanne Surowicz
Staff Writer

After a six-month struggle, the tuition fight was lost in Trenton on Thurs., May 11, when the State Assembly voted 38 to 32 in favor of accepting the $185 increase.

Edwin A. Kolodziej

(D-Middlesex) led the heated hour-long floor fight between the majority of Democrats who supported a zero-increase motion and the Republicans who pushed for the $185 hike. The motion was defeated by a coalition of Republicans and the absences of the Hudson County Democrats led by David Friedland (D-Hudson). During the proceedings it was implied that Friedland and the other Hudson County Democrats had made a deal with the Republicans concerning the entire budget in return for a $1.5 million appropriation for Hudson County hospitals.

THE EDGE

The Assembly is made up of 40 Democrats, 19 Republicans and one Independent, Anthony Imperiale of Essex County who voted in favor of eliminating the increase. Friedland and his group gave the Republicans the edge they needed to pass the tuition increase. The people of New Jersey should be that they paid for.

Nine students from Montclair State were present in Trenton to witness the proceedings. Sam Crane, SGA public relations officer, Larry Bishop, junior class president, Vic DeLuca, history dept. rep., Helen Dowknott, senior Spanish major, Karen Glynn, senior English major, Mike King, vice-president of Newman House, Wayne Malzone, business dept. rep. and two MONTCLARION reporters met with eleven other students from Rutgers and Trenton State. They convened at the State House in a final attempt to lobby for Republican support.

MAKE IT FAIR

In a planning session Crane stated: "The objectives of today are to get an amendment passed, or to have the Assembly throw the budget back into committee for further discussion. The students are willing to pay an increase, but at the same time we'd like to see the system changed to make it fair." When the Republicans emerged from caucus at 11 a.m. the students spoke with them on the floor of the Assembly chamber. DeLuca and Bishop were told by Peter J. McDonald of Union County that they would be "unfair" in asking for an elimination of the increase. He mentioned the need of old-age institutions, special schools and the high tuition his children pay as private colleges as reasons for his position. McDonald did abstain in the final vote on the motion.

TOO LATE

John A. Spazirini of Bergen County spoke with King, mentioned that he sympathized with the students and would consider an amendment if it was proposed. He voted no on the motion.

IN SUPPORT

John J. Horn, Democratic leader from Camden county, rose in support of Kolodziej's motion. P. G. Stewart (D-Essex) mentioned that the students in the gallery would be watching the ballot board and would remember the result at re-elections in 1973.

In the lobby of the chamber Imperiale spoke with the students concerning their chances for success and said: "We'll give you all the help we can give you." Kolodziej said he would move for a zero increase amendment and he expected the support of at least 30 Democrats. He led the floor fight in the absence of Assemblyman Charles B. Yates of Burlington County who had been the students' main supporter in the tuition fight.

Just before the Assembly convened for the first session, Friedland met with the lobbying students and told them how he would vote. His only suggestion was that they "adopt a new approach.

GRIM OUTLOOK

With the outlook grim, the students spent the day in the gallery watching the discussions of six "nuisance tax" measures. At 6 p.m. Senate Bill 900, the budget, including the tuition increase, was brought to the floor for discussion.

Kolodziej immediately spoke against its development and Ann Klein (D-Morris) called it "a Republican bill." Florio (D-Camden) said that "money is being raised to further exasperony changes but it's unfair to ask students in public colleges to finance students in private colleges." John H. Friedland (D-Middlesex) stated that "tuition rates should be kept down. They should not be raised at all.

The Republicans argued all these points emphasizing the necessity of the added income to the budget.

John A. Surowicz and Gibson

(D-Middlesex) led the heated hour-long fight between the majority of Democrats who supported a zero-increase motion and the Republicans who pushed for the $185 hike. The motion was defeated by a coalition of Republicans and the absences of the Hudson County Democrats led by David Friedland (D-Hudson). During the proceedings it was implied that Friedland and the other Hudson County Democrats had made a deal with the Republicans concerning the entire budget in return for a $1.5 million appropriation for Hudson County hospitals.

THE EDGE

The Assembly is made up of 40 Democrats, 19 Republicans and one Independent, Anthony Imperiale of Essex County who voted in favor of eliminating the increase. Friedland and his group gave the Republicans the edge they needed to pass the tuition increase. The people of New Jersey should be that they paid for.

Nine students from Montclair State were present in Trenton to witness the proceedings. Sam Crane, SGA public relations officer, Larry Bishop, junior class president, Vic DeLuca, history dept. rep., Helen Dowknott, senior Spanish major, Karen Glynn, senior English major, Mike King, vice-president of Newman House, Wayne Malzone, business dept. rep. and two MONTCLARION reporters met with eleven other students from Rutgers and Trenton State. They convened at the State House in a final attempt to lobby for Republican support.

MAKE IT FAIR

In a planning session Crane stated: "The objectives of today are to get an amendment passed, or to have the Assembly throw the budget back into committee for further discussion. The students are willing to pay an increase, but at the same time we'd like to see the system changed to make it fair." When the Republicans emerged from caucus at 11 a.m. the students spoke with them on the floor of the Assembly chamber. DeLuca and Bishop were told by Peter J. McDonald of Union County that they would be "unfair" in asking for an elimination of the increase. He mentioned the need of old-age institutions, special schools and the high tuition his children pay as private colleges as reasons for his position. McDonald did abstain in the final vote on the motion.

TOO LATE

John A. Spazirini of Bergen County spoke with King, mentioned that he sympathized with the students and would consider an amendment if it was proposed. He voted no on the motion.

IN SUPPORT

John J. Horn, Democratic leader from Camden county, rose in support of Kolodziej's motion. P. G. Stewart (D-Essex) mentioned that the students in the gallery would be watching the ballot board and would remember the result at re-elections in 1973.

In the lobby of the chamber Imperiale spoke with the students concerning their chances for success and said: "We'll give you all the help we can give you." Kolodziej said he would move for a zero increase amendment and he expected the support of at least 30 Democrats. He led the floor fight in the absence of Assemblyman Charles B. Yates of Burlington County who had been the students' main supporter in the tuition fight.

Just before the Assembly convened for the first session, Friedland met with the lobbying students and told them how he would vote. His only suggestion was that they "adopt a new approach.

GRIM OUTLOOK

With the outlook grim, the students spent the day in the gallery watching the discussions of six "nuisance tax" measures. At 6 p.m. Senate Bill 900, the budget, including the tuition increase, was brought to the floor for discussion.

Kolodziej immediately spoke against its development and Ann Klein (D-Morris) called it "a Republican bill." Florio (D-Camden) said that "money is being raised to further exasperony changes but it's unfair to ask students in public colleges to finance students in private colleges." John H. Friedland (D-Middlesex) stated that "tuition rates should be kept down. They should not be raised at all.

The Republicans argued all these points emphasizing the necessity of the added income to the budget.

John A. Surowicz and Gibson

(D-Middlesex) led the heated hour-long fight between the majority of Democrats who supported a zero-increase motion and the Republicans who pushed for the $185 hike. The motion was defeated by a coalition of Republicans and the absences of the Hudson County Democrats led by David Friedland (D-Hudson). During the proceedings it was implied that Friedland and the other Hudson County Democrats had made a deal with the Republicans concerning the entire budget in return for a $1.5 million appropriation for Hudson County hospitals.

THE EDGE

The Assembly is made up of 40 Democrats, 19 Republicans and one Independent, Anthony Imperiale of Essex County who voted in favor of eliminating the increase. Friedland and his group gave the Republicans the edge they needed to pass the tuition increase. The people of New Jersey should be that they paid for.

Nine students from Montclair State were present in Trenton to witness the proceedings. Sam Crane, SGA public relations officer, Larry Bishop, junior class president, Vic DeLuca, history dept. rep., Helen Dowknott, senior Spanish major, Karen Glynn, senior English major, Mike King, vice-president of Newman House, Wayne Malzone, business dept. rep. and two MONTCLARION reporters met with eleven other students from Rutgers and Trenton State. They convened at the State House in a final attempt to lobby for Republican support.
MSC's Summerfun One - "Be Happy"

By Bill Gibson
Staff Writer

“We're not doing these plays to introduce any new methods or innovative material. All we want to do is provide a nice way to spend a summer evening,” said W. Scott MacConnell, executive director of "Summerfun One,” the summer theater group at Montclair State.

“We're not doing these plays as a summer's theater for the sake of attendance. There's going to be no preaching or social message in the shows. We've got to learn how to work with complete strangers,” he added.

Rehearsals will begin for the troupe on June 19 with the first show opening on June 27. "We'll be running from Tuesday to Saturday each week. We're lucky in the fact that we'll then have two days in which to turn around," said MacConnell.

Tickets are on sale at the Memorial auditorium box office. Tickets will be $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for students. Season tickets are available for $10 and $5 for adults and students, respectively.

"The season tickets are an absolute steal for the students," said MacConnell. "The cost is less than $1 a performance, he said, which is a lot less than most theaters and movies around the state. You can't go wrong with this kind of deal."

One Act

STRING 'EM
Sinfonia's Annual Guitar Recital will be held May 18 at 7 p.m. in M-15. All are invited to attend.

GREAT WHITE HOPE
The New York Shakespeare Festival will open its sixteenth free season on June 28 in Central Park. The play will be "Hamlet" and will star Stacey Keach, Colleen Dewhurst and James Earl Jones.

Spring Tune-Up Special
In Our Complete Service Department

Improve Your Social Position Increase Your VW's Performance

Come To:
Little Car Co.
173 Glenridge Ave.,
Montclair, N.J. 783-5380

Fiberglass Parts
Big Buggy Kits
Kohls Bars
Wheel Guards
Steering Wheels
Bumper Guards
Custom Shifters
Shift Knobs
Seat Covers
Bugs Mats
Coca Cola Mats
Power Pulleys
Cams

Gauges
Gauge Panel
Hurst Shifters
Koni Shocks
Chrome Deep Dish Wheels
Wheel Adaptors
Rustibug Engines
Pleumo Manifolds
Velocity Stack
Bosch Ignitions
Mallory Ignition
S & B Headers
Big Bore Kits

-Plus Much Much More-
"Everything For The Bug"

Better than Barefoot.

Scholl Exercise Sandals. They shape up your legs, while they comfort your feet. The exclusive toe-grip action firms and tones your legs, to help make them shapelier, prettier. The smooth, sculpted beechwood and soft, padded leather strap comfort every step you take. Red or bone strap, with flat or raised heel. Blue strap, with raised heel. $12.95

Spring Rep Company
Quoth The Raven

By Deborah Lombardi
Staff Writer

"The music people have their concerts and the art people hang their paintings," declared Dr. Jerome Rockwood, "but we in the theater department don't seem to practice our crafts." Rockwood, professor in the speech and theater department, will alter that situation on May 18 and 19 in the studio theater (K-200) when he presents his one-man show, "A Condition of Shadow."

"I will impersonate Edgar Allen Poe," explained Rockwood, pausing in his orderly office. "I'm using his tales, poems, letters, even marginal notes...I've gone through tons of stuff and put it together in a two hour show," he continued.

"While working on this show I discovered many similarities between Poe and myself," observed Rockwood with interest. Small and slender, with dark wavy hair and a strong, mobile face, Rockwood elaborated, laughing a little, "We have the same hair, the mustache—it's weird. He was even the same height as I am—5'8"—it's all very odd."

ROCKWOOD POE—TRY—Dr. Jerome Rockwood, in costume as Edgar Allen Poe, will present a one man show "A Condition of Shadow." Rockwood's Impersonation of Poe will be on May 18 and 19 in Studio theater.

BLOOMFIELD COLLEGE

3-WEEK SUMMER SESSION

June 5 - June 23

and separate
5 - week day and evening sessions
Courses in the liberal arts, business and accounting
Contact: Mr. John Huntoon, Director of Summer Session 748-9000

BBC Captures Drama Emmys

Last Sunday the television industry awarded the Emmys for outstanding achievement in that field. And once again it was a mute comment on the sad state of affairs in the industry.

"All in the Family" collected a set of awards for the second straight year. Carol O'Connor, who plays Archie the lovable bigot, won the award for best actor in a comedy series and was joined by Jean Stapleton, who won as best actress and Sally Struthers, who tied as best supporting actress in a comedy series.

"All in the Family" topped the list of awards for outstanding comedy series, directing and writing. What worries me though, is the fact that there were really no challengers for any of the awards. Was the new season so mediocre that there was not one outstanding performance which could challenge the undisputed two-time champions?

The dramatic series awards were in keeping with the excellence which supposedly exists in the television industry. Veteran scene star Peter Falk took the award for best actor, narrowly beating such talents as Mike Conners and Raymond Burr.

"Elizabeth R" was declared the best dramatic series and Glenda Jackson, who starred as Queen Elizabeth I, the best actress. The series also won the outstanding new series prize.

It is unfortunate that such quality work cannot originate in the United States. The outstanding show of the year did cop one award. "Brian's Song," the tragic story of running back Brian Piccolo of the Chicago Bears, was voted the best single show of the season. It was an honor richly deserved by the tasteful and highly emotional story of Piccolo's death.

Ironically enough, Dick Cavett, whose late night talk show has been threatened with cancellation, took outstanding talk show honors. It also presented an awkward situation when host Johnny Carson returned to continue emceeing the show.

Again it is unfortunate that the best actor in a single performance had to be chosen from an English series "The Six Wives of Henry VIII." Keith Michell was the victor in that category.

If there is anything noteworthy about the awards this year it was the total domination of the English in the dramatic series. Maybe it just shows that the Americans are still the uncultured colonials we were 200 years ago.
'Arrogant Hotshot'

Imus Gives A Rude Awakening

By Bill Gibson
Staff Writer

There's something different on New York morning radio these days. It's WNBC's Don Imus, more commonly known as Imus-in-the-morning.

Departing from the usual morning fare, Imus does not provide the soothing, subdued atmosphere which seems to permeate the airwaves between six and ten each morning. Instead he is wild and irreverent, shocking the sleep from the minds of his listeners.

Imus, as a master of the barbed tongue, is a foe to be reckoned with. To him nothing is sacred. At the drop of the hat, he will bring his barrage to bear upon any and all segments of America, ranging from blacks and Poles to Billy Graham and David Brinkley.

Don Imus is perhaps the only morning disc jockey in the country to rely on scripted material. He spends his afternoons composing his sketches for the next morning's show.

They might range from a sermon by the Rev. Billy Sol Hargis, the film-flam proprietor of the First Church of Gooey America, ranging from blacks upon any and all segments of America, ranging from blacks and Poles to Billy Graham and David Brinkley.

He has been a pump jockey, copper miner, rock singer, uranium miner, railroad brakeman and marine. It was in 1960 that he entered the Don Martin School of Radio in Los Angeles while recuperating from a railroad accident.

After school he became a $100-a-week deejay for a Palmerside, Calif. rock station, eventually moving to KJAY in Stockton, an agricultural community north of San Francisco. It was here that the craziness started, with Imus sponsoring an Eldridge Cleaver Look-Alike Contest with a first prize of seven years in jail. He was looking for a job the next morning.

DOUBLE WINNER

Soon afterward he met Jack Thayer in Sacramento, Calif. From then on his career bloomed. Thayer helped Imus develop his characters and soon Imus had become the Billboard Air Personality of the Year for the medium market. When Thayer moved to WGAR in Cleveland, Imus followed closely behind. It wasn't long before he had captured the Billboard prize of seven years in jail. He is sacred. At the drop of the hat, Imus-in-the-morning.

From Cleveland he moved to the big apple-New York. His exit was heralded by the Cleveland press with such headlines as "Garbage Mouth Goes to Gotham."

However WNBC was more than willing to put their faith in Don Imus as their hope to bolster their morning ratings and hopefully their overall ratings picture. What else can you do with a personality whom you're paying $100,000-a-year and putting up $600,000-a-year in promotional fees?

Imus has no restrictions placed on him by NBC other than an injunction against Lance Rentzel and Teddy-Mary Jo jokes. In fact his only instructions were to be himself. He has had some guidelines set up but these were minor. Imus accepts them with a certain resignation, heeding them because he feels that he owes NBC that much for taking a chance with him. He has even agreed to try to get to the studio before his program is scheduled to begin.

When he first came to New York, it was predicted that Imus would last all of one day. It was claimed that his act couldn't be done in New York, that NBC couldn't take it. Imus has proved otherwise.

On the course to his New York stardom, Imus has been resented by many other personalities, people who think Imus shouldn't be allowed to fly much less be put on their air. It ranges from John Gambling, the victim of Imus' jingle, to Bette Davis, a front runner for the starring role in the Moms Mabley story, to Joe Feliciano, whose record Imus interrupted with a demand to "Get that dog out of the studio."

Imus takes it all in stride, agreeing with those who say he's an arrogant hotshot. After all, what right does he have to be on New York morning radio with less than four years of experience? As Imus says when auditioning listeners for the Columbus School of 101 Showbiz Careers, you only need guts to get into show business-not talent.

Fortunately Don Imus has both.

SPECIAL PRICES
For Students and Faculty on new & used cars
Overseas Delivery Arranged
Call us for Free Brochure

MG
VOLVO
JAGUAR
TRIUMPH

AUTHORISED SALES & SERVICE
IMPORTED MOTORS
MONTCLAIR, N. J.
34 Valley Road 746-4500
With the days getting longer, the sun getting brighter and spring fever hitting just in time for final exams, it's obvious that summer's golden days are not far away.

Even for those fortunate enough to hold jobs, leisure time will increase greatly for most students as they seek release from the rat race of classes and term papers.

The MONTCLARION sports staff therefore takes pleasure in presenting the following index of leisure activities:

TENNIS is in all probability the most popular summer sport. All you need to play is a ball, a raquet, a court and a partner.

This sport not only provided an outlet for the energy and frustration of students, but also for those with the time and patience of a saint. The use of skill and precision can add to the game and make it one of the most popular summer sports.

Better yet, no matter what your level of skill or competency, tennis can be fun. You don't need a partner for such activities. You can snortle in your backyard pool, scuba dive off the Bermuda coast, surf at Waikiki and sail down the Chesapeake Bay.

The great advantages of water sports over other are the wide range of activities on which they can be pursued -- from the simplest wading to exploring coral reefs or hanging ten -- and their refreshing way of chasing summer heat.

If you have lots of friends (say 18) and lots of space, it's possible to get up a game of the American pasttime BASEBALL.

For the city-dwelling loner, playground BASKETBALL still ranks high.

VOLEYBALL provides some exercise and can be played anywhere. You can play this sport, but the cost for renting clubs and greens fees runs considerably high over a long duration. In summer heat.

For the non-athletic, well, you can always improve your wrist and finger coordination (as well as sharpen your mind) with a game of CHESS.

Better still, watch the Mets on tv.

---

SITTING PRETTY: Susan Loikith goes for points in one of the horse shows in which MSC's equestrian team has appeared. Loikith was this year's captain of the female riding team which has since grown to include two men. Riding fees have been paid for by the team members although they are attempting to receive funds from the MAC.

---

Dip, Dip & Sip.

While you dip, sip Costa Do Sol Vintage Rose from the Sun Coast of Portugal. It's not some kind of status juice. But a slightly sweet, kind of tingling, sealed-with-a-cork rose that comes alive in your mouth. The full quart jug should be enough to get you merrily down the stream.

Costa Do Sol Rose.

Vintage Rose From Portugal

---

INTERNATIONAL CYCLES

SPECIALIZING IN 10 SPEED BICYCLES

51 VALLEY RD.
CLIFTON, N.J.
742-7449

---

It's Summertime And...

Sports Highlight the Vacation Scene

---

MONTCLARION/Thurs., May 18, 1972. 13.
Phys Ed Dept.
Has New Look

Scuba Diving, Karate
to be Offered

As a result of a campus-wide vote to maintain the physical education requirement, the physical education department has been working on a number of additions and improvements for the required activity program.

New courses of a recreational nature have been added to the curriculum. In the fall, a course in scuba diving will compliment the aquatics program which already includes beginning through advanced swimming, senior life saving and water safety instruction courses.

THE SKI course which was offered this semester will again be available next year. A European ski trip for credit during the innovative period or winter session is also in the planning stages.

As was indicated by a recent survey of students, individual and dual activities such as bowling, badminton, golf and tennis will be offered in greater number.

Two classes of karate-self defense will also be added, complimenting existing courses such as figure skating, horseback riding, and fencing.

THE DANCE area will also be broadened with the addition of more modern dance and jazz, available to both men and women. Plans are also being finalized to include a course in Yoga.

A release from the office of Donna Olson, physical education department coordinator, stated, “We hope that the changes and additions will make the program more appealing and meaningful to the students.”

In addition to a change in the courses offered, the physical education department has also changed the number of semester hours to be awarded for the courses.

THE MAJORITY of the courses will meet once a week for a two hour session. For this time, the student will receive one semester hour of credit for all courses.

Short term, seven week courses which meet for four hours per week, will be available for outdoor fall and spring sports. Eighty-five per cent of the program will be co-educational.

A Raisinette In The Sun

MSC's Intramurals Add New Wrinkle

Editor's note: Extended MONTCLARION coverage of varsity sports has made it necessary to minimize the amount of space given to the intramural program. The opportunity couldn't have been passed up, however, to present a story about one team.

Special to the MONTCLARION.

The sixth floor Raisinettes, Freeman Hall's favorite intramural softball team, ran over the Yankees Monday in a 6-4 non-contest.

The Raisinettes are in the Eastern division of the American League and have won a berth in the intramural playoffs next week. The athletic department had the audacity to disregard the names submitted to it and assigned the name Tigers to the Raisinettes.

DEFENSIVELY THE Raisinettes made a strong showing with good coverage in the outfield and a tight infield. Several exciting double plays were made, like the one from Ted (Schlemovitz) to Rich (Gibblock) and in the nick of time to Kenny (Boughrum) on first.

Hitting was consistent with the team averaging well over .500 in batting and making the hits when they were needed. Excitement peaked in the top of the seventh when "Easy Ted" crawled under the fence to retrieve the ball. The fans were on their feet yelling, "I knew he'd go after it!"

No great team can play this kind of ball without a great coach and it's this reporter's opinion that The Coach (Bill Stoedter) is no exception. He proved to be a source of inspiration to the team, especially in the bottom of the sixth inning when he showed the team how he wanted them to take their hits.

THE TEAM held a victory party in the Freeman Hall elevator where they crowded 22 players and fans to celebrate the playoff bid. The party got off the ground but the elevator only made it to the third floor before it broke.

While stuck on the elevator, this reporter had the chance to ask The Coach how he felt about the athletic department's changing the name of the team. He replied adamantly, "We're Raisinettes and we're gonna stay Raisinettes."

Sports Writer called lacrosse. Montclair State through calisthenics like a tradition in fine form. American Indians started a game spring, they played like anything like a hockey team. And this Indians have continued the on wins over Newark State, College, but Princeton deflated their auspices at the Ashland, Ohio for the NCAA College Division championships on Thursday, May 26.

COACH GEORGE Horn commented on the meet, "Overall, I was pleased with the performance." But Horn added that he came away with "mixed emotions." Horn cited injuries and illness as cause for "some people not being up to snuff."

Mizzone is recovering from a virus and "is still a little under the weather." High-jumper Tom Roushey, last year's NCAA Eastern Regional champion, suffered a jammed knee and was unable to compete.

SECOND PLACE was notified by Jim Scanlon in the 220-yard dash event, Ed Donnelly for the 440-yard hurdles, and a second place in the 440 yard relay.

Phil Maurice:

The White Team Mentor.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 18.—Montclair State's 15-day spring football training program which has attracted 94 would be gridders.

Last year, according to Coach Don MacKay, the teams were separated into those who had played varsity football for MSC and those who were freshman or transfer students. This year, however, the format was changed as the co-captains of the two opposing teams organized a draft to select the teams.

THE DRAFT, held last Monday, was conducted by MacKay and coaches Tim Testa, Dick Grey. The co-captains, Bill Hicchot and Al Thompson of the Red Team and Don Whitman and Parker Snare of the White Team, had a coin flip to decide the first choice. Players left in the same position as that of the first chosen were picked until the category was exhausted. The loser of the flip was then given the option of starting a new position.

MacKay noted that the Red squad was packed with "big powerful backs," while the White Team had a small, quick backfield. "The offensive line will be the key," he ventured about the White Team. "Thee's (the four co-captains) picked good balanced teams."

THINGS LOOK grim for head football coach Clary Anderson next year with substantial losses being sustained. Offensive replacements still have to be found for quarterback and place-kicker Bob Brewer and halfback Glen Morschauer.

Gridders Light Up Sprague at Night

By Carol Sakowitz

SPORTS WRITER

When the Red Team meets the White team tomorrow night at Sprague field, it won't be for a game of chess. The scheduled contest at 8 p.m. will climax Montclair State's 15-day spring football training program which has attracted 94 would-be gridders.

The stickmen have proved that they can play. They won half of their six-game slate. They scored an average of five goals per game. And next year they should have a good team that can compete with the best in the nation.

By Joan Miketzuk

SPORTS WRITER

Centuries ago the North American Indians started a game called lacrosse. Montclair State Indians have continued the tradition in fine form.

American Indians started the sport during the spring, they played like anything like a hockey team. And this is the way they have continued the sport over the years.

Don MacKay: White Team Mentor. The defensive unit. The heart of the defensive line, ends Mike VanZile and Bob Ruidsone, tackle Tom Rother and middle guard Tom D'Onofrio will be lost through graduation. Linebackers Pete Contaidi and Bob Jensen and safety Al Kaplanovich are about to graduate.

Offensive replacements still have to be found for quarterback and place-kicker Bob Brewer and halfback Glen Morschauer.

THE SQUAD was riding high on wins over Newark State, Stevens Institute and Marist College, but Princeton deflated their balloon. Not much, but just enough to put the team on their balloon. Not much, but just enough to put the team on their back. Not much, but just enough to put the team on their back.

THE SQUAD was riding high on wins over Newark State, Stevens Institute and Marist College, but Princeton deflated their balloon. Not much, but just enough to put the team on their back.

MSC Will Stick With Lacrosse

By Joan Miketzuk

SPORTS WRITER

Experience is the key for the Indians next year as they started this season with only one player possessing previous knowledge and skills of the game. Gazing back to the past season Jackson has much cause for optimism: Houston Webber's 10 goals in the six games, Franklin Walker's seven tallies, Frank McNulty's 67 saves. THE TEAM performed well in a scrimmage against Army, scoring six goals (three by Webber, two by Walker and one by Bill Paladino) while McNulty came up with 15 saves.

Starting a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position. They started a new position.

Weiss, McGrath 1st in NJSCC

TRENTON—Montclair State's track team took three first places and four second places Tuesday in the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference track and field meet held at Trenton State College.

Greg Weiss set an NJSCC record of 1:51.4 in the 880-yard dash event, in which he out the tape first. The previous record was set in 1970 by Fred Ross of Paterson State with a 1:53.3 time.

WEISS was also the anchorman of the record-setting mile relay team. The squad of Craig Mehan, Mike Sinnott, Bill Lowning and Weiss crossed the line in 3:20.7 seconds, almost four seconds faster than the previous record held by Jersey City State in 1970.

Kevin McGrath bettered his own mile-run record last year by .01 seconds as he took first place. Lowning finished second in the event.

Weiss and teammate Vic Mizzone will be traveling to Ashland, Ohio for the NCAA College Division championships on Thursday, May 26.

COACH GEORGE Horn commented on the meet, "Overall, I was pleased with the performance." But Horn added that he came away with "mixed emotions."

Horn cited injuries and illness as cause for "some people not being up to snuff."

Mizzone is recovering from a virus and "is still a little under the weather." High-jumper Tom Roushey, last year's NCAA Eastern Regional champion, suffered a jammed knee and was unable to compete.

SECOND PLACE was noted by Jim Scanlon in the 220-yard dash event, Ed Donnelly for the 440-yard hurdles, and a second place in the 440 yard relay.

Don MacKay: White Team Mentor. In the defensive unit. The heart of the defensive line, ends Mike VanZile and Bob Ruisgnoue, tackle Tom Rother and middle guard Tom D'Onofrio will be lost through graduation. Linebackers Pete Contaidi and Bob Jensen and safety Al Kaplanovich are also seniors.

Offensive replacements still have to be found for quarterback and place-kicker Bob Brewer and halfback Glen Morschauer.

SEMI-FINAL SET: MSC's John Donleycott sets for a return to Trenton State opponent Andy Bacha. Donleycott and teammate Tom Krukiel worked their way to the semifinal round of the NJSCC individual tennis championships, but lost out to Bacha and Newark State's Glen Martinson, respectively.
Injuns Get NCAA Bid

By Carol Sakowitz
Sports Writer

Winning the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference isn’t the greatest achievement in the world. But every little bit helps when a possible NCAA baseball tournament bid is riding on the outcome.

For the past three years Montclair State’s baseball team has managed to find every conceivable way to lose the conference title and the bid. This year, however, the Indians piled up a 20-2 season record, won the NJSCAA crown and picked up an invitation to represent District 2 in the Middle Atlantic playoffs of the NCAA college division baseball tournament.

THE TOURNAMENT is slated to begin next Thursday at Tidewater Park in Norfolk, Va. Five of the six teams to play in the tournament have already been selected according to William P. Dioguardi, director of athletics at MSC and chairman of the district 2 selection committee. Dioguardi, who submitted MSC’s record, withdrew from the committee prior to the actual selections.

One of the two teams to defeat Montclair State, Adelphi University has also received a bid for the tournament. Adelphi is a member of the Knickerbocker Conference and had ended its regular season play at 17-5-1.

District I (New England) will be represented by New Haven (21-5) and Springfield (18-3). District 3 (South) will have Florida Southern (25-5) and a yet-to-be-named school as its representatives.

ACCORDING TO Dioguardi, the three most likely candidates are Washington and Lee University (11-6), University of Southern Florida (18-6) and Old Dominion (15-5). The trio are scheduled to end their regular season slates in the latter part of this week.

The Middle Atlantic playoff will be a double elimination playoff with the winner advancing to the NCAA college division world series at Springfield, Ill.

The bid is the first one for MSC in the NCAA. In 1966 the Indians were selected to represent District 31 in the NAIA tournament at Millersville, Pa. MSC, coached then by Dioguardi, had finished the season with a 20-4 record that season.

Garlick Homers

MSC to Tourney

By Joan Miketsk
Sports Writer

When you’re young, and happy, and it’s spring and you’re playing baseball for a 20-2 team that has just gotten an NCAA College Division bid for a post-season tournament, what do you do? You celebrate, of course!

And that’s just what the Indians did Monday, at the expense of Jersey City State, 16-1.

TONY SCARLETTELLI brought out the champagne with an RBI double and Jersey City contributed to the party with two errors. But was Dale Garlick who popped the cork with a two-run homer and, before the first inning of the make-up game had ended, the party was in full swing.

Second baseman Bob Cosentino got the ball the Jersey City pitcher when he nailed a line drive over the left field fence for two more runs, and, when Jersey City started to crack the festivities, “Cos” came up with a prize in charades as he snagged a line drive one-handed in back of second base.

Indian pitcher Billy Collins forgot his manners and let a Jersey City State runner run the plate in the fourth, but the undefeated team was in full swing.

WHILE COLLINS went to the buffet for a snack, Rich Del Guercio and Bob Yesenko combined to tend bar and didn’t spill a drop.

When things started getting dull, the Indians changed the record on the stereo. Garlick liked the music so much he broke an MSC home run record with his ninth circuit. (Frank Rossi had eight homers in 1969 to set the standard.)

CHARLIE WILLIAMS helped the host pass the dip and at the same time passed the Jersey City infielders as he blasted a home run.

When newcomers show up at home plate, there is always a receiving line to welcome them. MSC is getting kind of tired of the formality. After all, they’ve done it 46 times already.

The conversation was lively in spite of the damp grounds. And when the visitors said good-bye and the lights slowly blinked out one by one, the thought most prominent in Coach Clay Anderson’s mind must have been, “Where’s the next party?”