"Rudy the Nude", the male exhibitionist, has restrained his antics due to action taken by the MSCP campus security force. Keith Kaufman, director of safety and security, also reported that there had been a series of tire thefts on campus.

On separate occasions, Rudy has accosted four females near the old freshman parking lot. Kaufman explained that several deterrence measures have been employed to prevent Rudy from appearing a fifth time.

The director related that security patrols have been increased in the vicinity that the nudist frequents. He further revealed that the campus security squad, in conjunction with Little Falls' police, have "staked out" that area several times. It was also noted by Kaufman that lamp posts along the sidewalk leading to the lot had been repaired and that concealing foliage adjacent to the footprint had been removed.

Another reason for Rudy's disappearance may be that, as Kaufman pointed out, "news articles in the MONTCLARION made the college aware of what was happening."

Also under investigation are tire thefts from three Volkswagens and one Chevrolet while evening classes were in session. Kaufman quickly took several steps to, in his words, "prevent and apprehend" the thief or thieves.

THE NUMBER of security patrols in that area was escalated and since this action, Kaufman related that there have been no further reports of stolen tires. Kaufman postulates that the additional patrols may not be the cause of the cessation of the thefts. He speculates that someone may have needed just a few tires and that "the appetite for tires has been pacified."

"The whole campus," said Kaufman, "can be part of a preventive program if they're aware." He observed that the students could help protect themselves and advised commuters to lock their unattended cars. Also, he said that if passers-by noticed that a car, they should not simply assume that a flat is being repaired. If there is any reason for doubt, Kaufman urged that security be contacted to check out the situation.
Former SGA Exec Wins Trustee Seat

By John Picinich
Staff Writer

For the first time in Montclair State's history and that of any other NJ state college as well, a student representative was elected to the Board of Trustees. Wendy Gillespie, a senior, ran as an independent candidate winning the election with 244 votes.

The election was held on Monday and Tuesday from about 9 am to 4 pm. The votes for the student representative to the Board of Trustees were tabulated Tuesday night from 5:30 to 6 pm.

New hundred and seventy votes turned out for the election. Behind Gillespie with 205 votes was Terry Yacenda, a senior nominated by the SGA. Jim Carroll, a sophomore nominee of the School of Fine and Performing Arts pulled 173 votes. Junior Ruthanne Altounian, the nominee of the School of Education, received 146 votes. Susan M. Geiger, a member of the Chemistry Students Advisory Board had 93 votes. Artemus N. Werts, a third year student, received 71 votes and Chris Nelson, sophomore nominee of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, came in with 38 votes.

EILEEN PATTON was a temporary representative appointed by the SGA legislature last year. Gillespie is replacing her on the Board of Trustees.

SGA Plans Campus Drop-In Center

By Patricia Mercorcelli
Staff Writer

The SGA is planning a drop-in center to deal with all student problems under the direction of Michael King, SGA public relations director. The center, which plans to be located in the old Life Hall bookstore, will open in February.

Preliminary planning was begun at a meeting on Oct. 17 at which, King stated, the reaction was "very good," with several students volunteering their time. King established six fact finding committees. These committees on sex, legal rights, psychology, medicine, drugs and the community will ensure the availability of complete information at the center.

According to King, "The main purpose of the drop-in center is to distribute information, counsel and make referrals on virtually any problem any student could encounter." The center will be affiliated with the student Helpline which originally sponsored it. They also hope to work with the Women's Drop-in Center as closely as possible. King, who works for the Helpline, hopes to have the center open 24 hours a day. However if that is impossible the phones will be available constantly.

KING REMARKED that the center would "initially be expensive but eventually would be inexpensive to operate." He said once the cost of renovating the building was completed, there would be few expenses. The only continuing cost would be maintenance of the phone lines and the informative materials since all personnel would be volunteers.

Trained students will staff the center with heavy reliance on volunteer professional help. The training program, which will begin in January, will attempt to build a "cohesive unit in order to better serve both the campus and the community," stated King.

Community services, of which the center will make extensive use, have greeted the project with enthusiasm, King mentioned. The center will refer to a community service those students whose problems the center is unable to handle.

WSG plans to call the SGA office at 893-4202.

Classes, Yes; Buses, No

This Tues. Nov. 7 is Election Day. It will mark the first time that college students have been able to vote in their college towns.

Because of the confusion resulting from the new ruling, many students did not register in their respective college municipalities. Thus for them to be able to vote, they must return to their hometowns. However, classes will not be cancelled on Tuesday.

According to a statement circulated among the college community by MSC President Thomas H. Richardson's office, "conditions have made it necessary for a large number of our dormitory students to travel a great distance to vote and it is hoped that the faculty will cooperate with students who miss classes for this reason. Perhaps we should slow the college enterprise down on Election Day so that people involved in election activities will not be penalized."

The statement added, "Even though a request was received that classes be cancelled, it was decided not to close."

According to Kathy Ragan, SGA vice-president, the shuttle-buses will not be used to transport students to the polls. "The buses are not insured for off-campus travel," explained Ragan.
Parking Appeals

By J.M. Giamio
Staff Writer

The Student Appeals Board (SAB) held its third meeting of the semester behind closed doors Oct. 30 in the Student Center. The board reviews parking tickets submitted by students who feel that their tickets were unfairly issued.

Even though all tickets received before Oct. 2 have been granted appeals, the six member board faces a backlog of tickets with an additional 60 tickets appealed weekly. The board is composed entirely of students who "can override any ticket given by the security force," according to SAB clerk Marguerite Banks. "It is a chance for a student to voice an explanation if he or she feels a ticket is unjust," she explained.

If a student wishes to appeal a ticket, he can obtain an appeal form in the SGA office in the Student Center, or at the Security Office. Following the board’s meeting each Wednesday, a list of all parking tickets reviewed at the meeting is posted at locations where forms can be picked up, as well as in the office of the Council for Commuter Affairs (CCA). The list will designate whose appeals were granted, as well as those tickets which the SAB thought were fairly issued by the security force.

CORA FISHER, a member of the board, explained what the alternatives a student has if an appeal is not granted. "The student can have an open meeting to contest," she noted. Fisher stipulated, however, that at the meeting, the student "must be present with the officer" who originally issued the ticket.

A publication entitled “Basic Structure of College for the Commuters” outlines the structure of the SAB as well as the CCA. This publication lists a number of problems with parking now under investigation. It states that “according to last year’s figures, 25% of the tickets were given where one guard gave permission to park only to have another guard come along and ticket.”

According to the report, SAB replaces the Parking Review Committee which is no longer in existence. The SAB had originally been proposed in 1969 when parking fines at MSC increased from $3 to $5. In the spring of 1971, the Commuter Commission (now the CCA) was formed as an advisory committee to the SGA.

THE FOLLOWING fall, the commission expanded to become a more active and functioning organization, including the responsibilities of the Parking Review Committee.

"Keith Kaufman, who is director of security and safety, is very willing to cooperate," Banks explained. She pointed out some of the additional duties of the CCA.

"More drivers are needed and will bring more riders" for the service. The bus routes have been posted on doors of various buildings and suggestions from students are welcomed. "I'm optimistic," Thompson said. "I hope that it catches on and everybody uses it."

JOHNSTON praised the drivers of the service who usually wait several minutes for latecomers. "They let you know that they're there," he said. "They don't whisk by like public buses and the drivers are very nice."

The drivers are student security men. Thompson said that more drivers are needed and speed up the service. He said that more drivers are needed and speed up the service.

Shuttle Buses

The Montclair State shuttle bus service seems to be plagued with problems, but the students who use it are willing to wait for improvements for the service.

Two Dodge vans are temporarily out of service because the doors do not close correctly. He said that the service will be able to eliminate blocked entrances and exits." Thompson and his coworker, Buddy Huckel, plan improvements for the service. "We're working on hiring some females." Thompson is pleased with the advantages that the buses give his security squad. "The shuttle buses give the squad more mobility," he said. "The men can check out campus occurrences while on bus duty."

When the Clove Rd. apartments become occupied next spring, these students will need transportation to the campus proper. Thompson said that the service will be able to service these students.

Thompson is confident that "more organization and colder weather will bring more riders" for the service. The bus routes have been posted on doors of various buildings and suggestions from students are welcomed. "I'm optimistic," Thompson said. "I hope that it catches on and everybody uses it."

A complete supply of shuttle bus services of the SAB. "We can see which areas in lots give the most problems," Banks said. "New signs are being put up to clarify parking discrepancies." Banks also qualified the functions of the board. "We're not here just to review tickets for students, but to develop close communication between the maintenance crew, the security force and the student body."
Bohn Visitation

By Kathy Crado
Staff Writer

"I think it's okay. I mean, the girls are big girls now, and they deserve the privilege to show their maturity."

This was a sophomore male's thoughts on the new 23-hour visitation policy that is now in effect for a one-month trial period in Bohn Hall.

The policy was implemented to alleviate a problem of visiting veterans to work 20 hours each while going to school and still receive veterans' benefits. Cominsky gave as an example the "split $250/semester (maximum) or tuition, whichever is less."

John Snyder, the MSC Veterans' counselor, is available in C-203 for Montclair State vets with questions about available benefits, adjustment to college life, delayed checks and indifferent officials were also discussed.

The event was the first in a series of nationwide public hearings, sponsored by the League of Cities/U.S. Conference of Mayors, to create an awareness of and to publicize this and other benefits so that veterans may get more veterans to use available benefits, he urges those who know vets who are not taking advantage of the benefits, delayed checks, or any other problem. In an effort to get more veterans to use available benefits, he urges those who know vets who are not taking advantage of the GI Bill to him for information.

A major complaint of the veterans was that "educational benefits given under the GI Bill are not enough to allow them to go to school and still survive," according to Bob Cominsky, president of Alpha Sigma Mu, the veterans' fraternity, who attended the hearing.

The problem could be alleviated, he felt, by the passage of State Bill #A-999, which would increase the benefits to $250/semester (maximum) or tuition, whichever is less. (The figures are for an unmarried, full-time student.)

Cominsky said that veterans must now seek the support of non-veteran organizations, such as the Elks, Police Benevolent Association and unions, in order to get the bill passed by the New Jersey legislature.

Another problem is the lack of information about veterans' benefits. Cominsky gave as an example the "split job" benefit. Under this, an organization allows two veterans to work 20 hours each while going to school full-time. Together, they would be working full-time and would receive full-time pay. Rep. Silvio O. Conte (R-Mass.) passed by the New Jersey legislature.

When asked why the policy hadn't been passed before this year, Matuch said it took a whole year just to work on it. Michael Radke, Residence Hall Federation chairman, with his committee, wrote a 96 page visitation proposal. It took the group the entire year to draw up this plan, present it, discuss the different problems that the dorm residents would face, such as unescorted guests and roommates that would be asked to "disappear."

"I was in favor of the whole policy," Matuch said. "As long as the girls understand that it's both a privilege and a convenience, I don't think they'll abuse it."

The 23-hour visitation policy will continue to the end of the month barring any complications.

Winter Session
On Its Own Now

Winter session, from Jan. 15 to Feb. 2, is being treated as a separate semester. In one year, it has grown from an experimental innovative program to a regular course of study, with increased course offerings and separate registration.

According to Marshall Butler, MSC registrar, the great undergraduate response to last January's session has prompted the administration to give the courses semester status. This year, some 2,200 students have pre-registered for the winter session.

However, Butler noted that there will be a problem of limited enrollment. Professors are restricted in the number and length of courses which they can teach. "The faculty is allotted so many semester hours," explained the registrar. "The state has not given them any additional semester hours for the winter session." Thus, their winter class time is being deleted from the spring semester hours.

Between Nov. 18 and 20, students will be mailed their schedules for the winter semester. It appears at present that many students may be closed out of their courses. However, at registration on Dec. 4 and 5, students may choose alternative courses and add additional courses. The maximum a student may take is four credit hours.

Students who decide not to take a class for which they have registered are asked to officially withdraw. Otherwise, their name remains on the class roster and they could receive an F. Withdrawal also "opens up spots for other students," Butler noted.

Gone -- But Was It Ever There?

A $1 million fund report, which revealed that $1 million in state Economic Opportunity Funds (EOF) may not have been spent within program guidelines, was alleged to have been destroyed, according to a state Economic Opportunity Board of Higher Education and Ray Smith, program analyst. Both denied that there was such a report.

"THERE IS NO report missing and there never was such a report on EOF wasted monies." Fairbanks said. She stated that the EOF program balances itself out. For example: a college has a budget for 300 EOF students and 200 show up. The college sends the funds for the 10 students who will not attend that college back to the state EOF program. The returned money could be sent to another college, she explained.

Fairbanks stated that she does not know the basis for Braun's article or the sources he used. In her opinion, Braun wrote that there was something in the alleged report that was being concealed while in fact there is nothing to conceal. "There never was such a report on EOF left-over money," she reiterated.

Braun wrote that the EOF program was a "target" of an audit by the Legislative Fiscal Office. Smith would not label the program as a target, but said that the program was picked for a program management analysis. How the EOF program was picked he does not know.

In the article, Higher Education Chancellor Ralph A. Dungan stated that if every college does not demand proof of all information on the two forms an ineligible student may receive an aid grant.

According to Johnson, a student may drop out of college after he is included in the budget, but the money goes back directly to Trenton.

JOHNSON DOES NOT believe that there were recent attempts to broaden EOF's guidelines. He said the article was unclear to him in that respect.

Johnson stated that if every college does not demand proof of all information on the two forms an ineligible student may receive an aid grant.

College campuses have traditionally been the center of student movements. Students have rallied behind antiwar protests, antibusing protests, and anti-Vietnam protests. More recently, they have gathered to support the presidential candidate of their choice.

Search Is On--
Responses Begin

By Joan Miketzuk
Staff Writer

The presidential search committee, at a meeting last Monday evening, formed a subcommittee to devise questions that will be put to the presidential candidates. The subcommittee will be headed by Dr. Samuel Pratt, sociology professor, who also heads the subcommittee to formulate statements of the college's goals and descriptions of the college community. These statements will be sent to the candidates and to those people who are asked to submit nominations, according to Cottingham.

The search committee had placed ads in The New York Times and the Chronicle of Higher Education and has already started getting responses from these ads. "I imagine we'll be getting a lot more response as the week goes on," according to James W. Cottingham, executive assistant to the president. "We'll have to wait and see the overall response before placing other ads," he concluded.

A SUBCOMMITTEE, headed by Dr. Jack Sacher, music professor, to establish the criteria by which the new president will be selected, received over 350 responses to a questionnaire that was distributed among the college community last week.

The committee has set a tentative goal of announcing the new president for the middle of May 1973. "This way no one will leave the college in the spring without knowing who the president will be next year," Cottingham explained. The appointment will first be subject to approval by the Board of Higher Education.

The committee was formed in September after current MSC President Thomas H. Richardson announced his resignation, effective August 31, 1973.

The next meeting of the search committee will be held on Thurs., Nov. 9.

Let ‘Honor’ Be Damned

During the summer of 1961, the first American soldier was killed in Vietnam. Twelve years and 45,884 deaths later the nation is told an “honorable” peace has been negotiated. What a price for honor.

The peace agreement calls for a cease-fire followed by a complete United States withdrawal and the establishment of a coalition government until elections are held.

The 544 prisoners currently in the hands of the North Vietnamese will be released as soon as the pact is signed.

All this is well and good except for the tragic cliches and half truths that surround our entire involvement in southeast Asia.

First John F. Kennedy sent sizable numbers of advisors to Vietnam in an attempt to quell a “Communist insurgency.” After his death, Lyndon Johnson picked-up the gauntlet and continued a low-keyed approach.

During the 1964 campaign, Johnson stressed the “Asian war for Asian boys” theme and promised involvement in southeast Asia.

Johnson picked-up the gauntlet and continued a policy, “The carefully selected withdrawal of all our troops can be justified. President Johnson is a man of peace.”

McGovern in 1967 wanted to negotiate an honorable peace, yet now he advocates complete unilateral withdrawal. Mr. McGovern, what remains of your honorable peace?

Judy Fields, a Cornell senior, said about McGovern, “I thought he had transcended typical politics and then after the Eagleton affair, I realized that he hadn’t and that he wasn’t even a good typical politician.” Mr. McGovern, did we hear you say something about your cherished credibility?

To the Editor:

When McGovern announces song titles.

But all that has gone down before is merely an insignificant prelude to what will occur in a month. Along with commercials from local stores, DJs will be required to play at least two commercials an hour. Cars are pre-recorded tapes of some of the least commerciallyFM music on the market today, all selected by Hecht.

All this is bad enough, but it is made worse by the fact that college radio is the last place in the medium where one can experiment. The new format on WYMS will make deejays play music suitable to Hecht’s taste, and his alone.

WYMS is a college radio station supported by college funds. Therefore, if it goes commercial, there is no need for college funds. If that happened, WYMS would fall flat on its commercial face.

‘Weird’ Sounds At VMS

During the summer of 1961, the first American soldier was killed in Vietnam. Twelve years and 45,884 deaths later the nation is told an “honorable” peace has been negotiated.
Increasing political activism on campuses throughout the nation, granting voting rights to citizens over 18 years of age virtually insured student participation in the 1972 presidential campaign. At MSC, groups for both major party candidates have become well-established campus organizations.

The campaigns for McGovern and Young Republicans for Nixon have done a considerable amount of campus work for their candidates. Both Bob Polledri, coordinator of the McGovern effort, and John McShane, Republican group chairman, believe that MSC student preference in the election will be close. McShane predicted an even split between the two candidates, while Polledri anticipates a campus victory for McGovern, although "not an overwhelming one."

Volunteers Since the McGovern group was organized in October 1971, about 100 students have volunteered, said Polledri, a sophomore sociology major. The Young Republicans began their activities this September, and McShane stated that between 65 and 75 students have joined the campus campaign.

Several times this semester the McGovern and Nixon tables have been set up side by side, "We get along great," Polledri commented. He added that they had no problems with students, the administration or the SGA. Both groups store campaign materials in the campus campaign office, which recently co-sponsored a debate between the two candidates, while Polledri volunteered, said Polledri, a junior history major said. He added that he once considered voting for McGovern, but would not now "because he's changed his mind too often."

The YAF is "a rallying point within the Republican party," Polledri said. "All young people won't vote the same way, but I'm very optimistic about McGovern."

"We get along great," Polledri commented on the issues of the campaign. "Nixon will end the war by Nov. 7 because McGovern's candidacy forced him to," Posedri said. It's a political move," he criticized Nixon as "the most constipated man in the history of the world."

McShane said the Vietnam war was winding down and said that there is no "main issue" in the campaign. He discussed amnesty for those who evaded the draft and said, "Think of those who fought in Vietnam or stayed here and went to jail. Everyone has to pay a price." He added that he once considered voting for McGovern, but would not now "because he's changed his mind too often."

OFF-CAMPUS Students for McGovern and Nixon are participating in off-campus campaign work as well. McShane, a senior business administration major, is working in conjunction with the Essex County Republican organization. Student volunteers for Nixon are manning telephones in Newark, West Orange and Montclair to poll both Republican and Democratic voters. Steve Bogart, also a coordinator of the MSC McGovern organization, is even more directly involved in the campaign as a Democratic candidate for councilman in Pompton Lakes. "There was a man that I wanted to learn," Bogart said.

The junior English major noted that Pompton Lakes is a Republican town with a council that is dominated by Republicans. But he added that most people have been friendly and willing to discuss the issues with him.

Optimistic Commenting on the campaign McGovern campaign, Bogart said: "All young people won't vote the same way, but I'm very optimistic about McGovern."

McShane said that the Young Republicans received a favorable response from students as soon as it was organized. Many Nixon supporters were glad that "we were finally here," he explained. He said that the group decided to wait until "students were settled after course registration" before beginning campaign.

A steady reduction in the number of undecided MSC voters has not revealed a large swing to either of the major party presidential candidates, George McGovern or Richard M. Nixon.

Conducted the week of Oct. 23, the second MONTCLARION presidential poll shows that Nixon gained 4.5 percentage points while McGovern added 3.4% in the overall balloting by a very narrow 1.9% margin.

Identical statistical methods were used in conducting and compiling both MONTCLARION polls. Ballots were distributed proportionally among the schools to students at random.

McGovern workers have been soliciting donations from students to pay for buttons and campaign literature. A portion of funds taken in is sent to off-campus McGovern organizations, according to Polledri. Nixon buttons and literature are provided by the Essex County Committee to Re-Elect the President, McShane said.

LOCAL ISSUES Neither the Nixon nor the McGovern organizations plan to dwell on after the election. "We intend to concentrate on local issues, along with the Students for Reform and Action," Polledri explained. The SRA is another campus activist group which recently co-sponsored a forum against the centralization of state colleges.

Last month the Young Republicans submitted a petition to the Student Government Association in order to apply for a Class II Organization charter. MSC Activism At Peak

According to Joe Vitale, MSC-YAF chairman.

TOO CLOSE

Vitale explained that the membership is split between favoring Nixon or American Party candidate John Schmitz.

He expressed the opinion that the campus outcome is too close to call.

The YAF is "a rallying point for intelligent conservatism," the junior history major said. He believes that the thrust of his group is not to win an election but to effect student trends. The YAF regularly issues position papers written by its members.

Vitale noted that the McGovern organization is "most representative of the ideology we oppose."

Both Polledri and McShane commented on the issues of the campaign. "Nixon will end the war by Nov. 7 because McGovern's candidacy forced him to," Posedri said. It's a political move," he criticized Nixon as "the most constipated man in the history of the world."

McShane said the Vietnam war was winding down and said that there is no "main issue" in the campaign. He discussed amnesty for those who evaded the draft and said, "Think of those who fought in Vietnam or stayed here and went to jail. Everyone has to pay a price." He added that he once considered voting for McGovern, but would not now "because he's changed his mind too often."

OFF-CAMPUS

Students for McGovern and Nixon are participating in off-campus campaign work as well. McShane, a senior business administration major, is working in conjunction with the Essex County Republican organization. Student volunteers for Nixon are manning telephones in Newark, West Orange and Montclair to poll both Republican and Democratic voters.

Steve Bogart, also a coordinator of the MSC McGovern organization, is even more directly involved in the campaign as a Democratic candidate for councilman in Pompton Lakes. "There was a man that I wanted to learn," Bogart said.

OPTIMISTIC

Commenting on the campaign McGovern campaign, Bogart said: "All young people won't vote the same way, but I'm very optimistic about McGovern."

McShane said that the Young Republicans received a favorable response from students as soon as it was organized. Many Nixon supporters were glad that "we were finally here," he explained. He said that the group decided to wait until "students were settled after course registration" before beginning campaign.

A steady reduction in the number of undecided MSC voters has not revealed a large swing to either of the major party presidential candidates, George McGovern or Richard M. Nixon.

Conducted the week of Oct. 23, the second MONTCLARION presidential poll shows that Nixon gained 4.5 percentage points while McGovern added 3.4% in the overall balloting by a very narrow 1.9% margin.

Identical statistical methods were used in conducting and compiling both MONTCLARION polls. Ballots were distributed proportionally among the schools to students at random.

McGovern workers have been soliciting donations from students to pay for buttons and campaign literature. A portion of funds taken in is sent to off-campus McGovern organizations, according to Polledri. Nixon buttons and literature are provided by the Essex County Committee to Re-Elect the President, McShane said.

Nov. 7 Referendums
Bingo, Buses and Bureaucrats on Ballot

As voters head for the polls next Tuesday, they will have a number of decisions to make. Besides choosing a president, senator and congressmen, New Jerseyans will have to decide upon three referendums.

One calls for the allocation of over $650 million to transportation and has received the greatest attention. Another concerns the appointment of the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. The final referendum would allow senior citizens to sponsor bingo.

FLEET
The Transportation Bond issue is backed by NJ Governor William T. Cahill. It would provide funds for the construction of more highways, the improvement of present mass transit systems as well as the purchase of new buses to bolster the state's aging fleet. Besides Cahill's backing, the issue has received the endorsement of William E. Ohrard, president of the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners. "The bond issue will help purchase 1,500 new buses to replace the oldest portion of the 5,500 bus fleet now being used," he said.

BACKERS
Another proponent is Bayonne's Mayor Francis Fitzpatrick. Fitzpatrick, who is also head of the Hudson County Democratic organization, expressed his approval by stating that the $70 million allocated to his county would be invaluable for the improvement of roads and mass transit systems. Although many of the state's political leaders have endorsed the bond issue, there has been opposition from conservationists. The biggest argument against it is that it does not provide enough funds for mass transit systems. A comparison of the outlays for highways as compared to a garbage and bus system indicates a 2 to 1 difference in favor of the former.

The environmentalists argue that there are enough highways and that to spend more funds on them would only aggravate the pollution problem.

BINGO
The other referendum concerns the appointment of the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. Currently both serve at the discretion of the legislature, but Governor Cahill could not dismis eit either until their terms expired. The referendum would allow the Governor to appoint both posts, again at the discretion of the legislature, but he could at any time ask for their resignations.

The final proposal would allow senior citizen groups to hold bingo. At the present time only churches are allowed to hold such proceedings.

Capitalism Is
Source of Woes

By James Brinner
Socialist Labor Party member

Capitalism is the source of our social woes. America is being turned into a garbage heap because it is cheaper for the capitalist owners of industry to dump industrial wastes onto the landscape and into the rivers, rather than implementing the necessary preventive technology. Racism reflects capitalism's use of black workers as a cheap pool of labor and as a means of dividing labor, thus distracting black and white workers from forming a common-class front for common-class goals. Racism also serves as a psychological buffer zone between white workers and capitalism. With white workers believing that there's someone lower on the social totem pole than themselves, they are less likely to rock the boat. And surely, there can be no doubt that capitalism is the parent of modern-day war.

NEED
Despite all ideological pretenses, wars result from capitalism's need for foreign markets, raw materials, and the strategic outposts to obtain and defend them. Such was admitted by the United States Navy when it said: "Realistically, all wars are fought to secure the luxury and convenience of life."

To make them socially and politically palatable ideological issues have always been invoked." (Congressional Record, 5 April 1947)

Hence we find that no matter how many batches of capitalist politicians we replace with another batch, the problem not only remains, it intensifies. One cannot get rid of all the evil effects of capitalism without getting rid of capitalism itself. To try is mere shadow-boxing, no damage is done. War, racism, poverty and nascent fascism from any one man or group of men but from the social system in which we live. The issue, therefore, is capitalism, or its opposite, socialism.

DEMOCRACY
And by socialism is not meant the bureaucratic totalitarianism of Russia or the state ownership of Britain. Socialism exists nowhere in the world. It is an industrial democracy in which labor receives the full social value of its product and production is carried on for use and not for a capitalist market economy. Capitalism can't last forever. But what shall we put in its place? I believe in socialism.

VOTE
Have your many misconceptions eliminated and your eyes opened up? A vote for Nixon or McGovern is a wasted vote; they only differ on how best to preserve capitalism. Vote Socialist Labor Party-Louis Fisher for president and Genevieve Gunderson for vice-president.

Cabaret Opens Tonight

"Cabaret," the first production in Montclair State history to be staged jointly by Players and Music Organizations Commission (MOC), will open tonight at 8:30 pm.

The show is "a very elaborate production," according to Dr. L. Howard Fox, one of the musical's directors. Fox's statement was backed up by several production members who were making final preparations for the show.

John Figola, set designer, and speech and theater instructor, explained that there are numerous set changes. An average production may change sets after every act, but "Cabaret" changes sets after almost every scene. Figola said that there are approximately 19 set changes.

To correspond with the set changes, numerous costume changes also take place. Deborah Lombardi, a member of the costume crew, said that many of the set changes involve scene changes. This is why there are so many costume changes.

Fox said that the scene changes have to be made without slowing down the show. With the costume changes taking place at the same time, Lombardi said that some of the changes had to be "scrapped" because they could not take place fast enough.

The goal of the production, according to Fox, was to make the students feel as the people did in pre-Nazi Germany. The show revolves around members of a cabaret who tried to forget the impending threat of Hitler. "It was an escapist type of society," Fox explained.

Costumes as well as the sets reflect the mood of the show. Lombardi described the costumes as being "loud and garish." Figola said that reflective surfaces and bright lights are used to convey a mood of decadence.

As the cast members finished up their preparations for the show, they seemed optimistic. Although some worries were expressed about technical problems, the students said that "the acting is great" and the sets are "gorgeous."

"Cabaret" will run on two weekends—Nov. 2-4 and Nov. 9-11.
Hospital Farce

In an unfunny, tasteless, lackluster lampoon against expenses, the incompetencies of hospital administration in the movie, "Where Does It Hurt?"

Sellers and his staff of assorted comics doggedly try to satirize bloated hospital expenses, the incompetencies and malpractices of the men in white and other medical monkey business. Unfortunately, director Rod Amateau (as in "amateur") fails to realize that satire, even sophisticated farce, involves a degree of maturity. Amateur administrator in the movie, hospitals and physicians, Peter Sellers and his staff of amateurs fail to realize that satire, even explicit vulgarity cracks, men are indoors, involves a degree of sophistication. And at the film's outset, it is noted that this is a true story in which the names have been changed to prevent lawsuits. It also points out it is not intended to satirize those "conscientious hardworking MDs dedicated to the Hippocratic Oath." Then the question "Will all three of you please stand up?" is flashed on the screen. "Where Does It Hurt?" should have quit while it was ahead.

The Brooklyn Academy of Music, with the Chelsea Theater Center of Brooklyn, is currently presenting "Lady Day: A Musical Tragedy," an original musical written by Aishah Rahman with music by Archie Shepp. The story is based on the life and death of blues singer, Billie Holiday.

The production, directed by Paul Carter Harrison, is excellent aside from a few rough spots where the mechanics show through. The director has arranged the show around an amateur night in the Harlem Theater. This convention ties the show together and allows the matron of ceremonies, the "Flim Flam Man," to speak directly to the audience. The emcee, Roger Robinson, was quite good both as the Flim Flam Man and in several portions of the show when he appeared in "drag" as "Lady Day."

Technically the show was interesting and innovative. The set by Robert Taylor was a surrealistic interpretation of an old Harlem theater.

The Bark, under the direction of Stanley Cowell, was crisp and lively. Before the actual show, they performed for the audience for about 20 minutes and really got everyone in the mood for the show.

Both lighting and sound were done with great finesse. The lighting was mostly subdued and subtle. The lighting designer, William Mintzer, used the follow spot to great advantage in the amateur night format.

CECILIA NORFLEET played Billie Holiday—"Lady Day." She seemed to lack the intensity necessary for the role. Her singing was good and strong but tended to get lost in group singing and was weak in duets. The "Vi-Tomes," Don Jay, Eugene Riley, R.T. Veselis and Joe Lee Wilson, a "50-100 type singing group were one of the best attractions in the performance, with excellent singing and choreography. The same group played a group of wins to great character advantage.

One of the finest cameo roles was played by Frank Adu. His brief portrayal of a newsboy hawking papers about Holiday's latest drug bust was hysterical. All of Adu's small roles—a piano player, a club owner and a policeman—were excellently created.

Other fine creations were Maxwell Glarville as Mort Shazer, Holiday's agent; Rosetta LaNoire as Holiday's mother and Onike Lee as her cellmate and later nurse in a prison hospital. The show, created with an all black cast and crew, is definitely worth seeing. The viewpoint is unique, the stepping strong.
Indians Hope to Get Hot Against Chile Team

The Chilean National Basketball team will make the only stop in the New York area of its 36-game tour of the US by meeting Montclair State College's varsity free Tuesday night at 8 pm in Panzer Gym. The Chilean team is coached by Dan Peterson, former University of Delaware coach and a one-time opponent of the Indians.

THE GAME will afford Indian roosters of a good preseason look at coach Ollie Gelston's 1972-73 unit. The contest is an exhibition and will not be counted on the Indians' record.

Peterson has lined up a tremendous schedule for the Chilean team, going against such national powers as the universities of Maryland, North Carolina, Syracuse, Georgetown and Creighton.

The tour of the US has been arranged by Peterson to prepare his team for the Pan American games that will be played in Chile next summer.

Basketball has not enjoyed great popularity in Chile until recent years and many of the players that will appear Tuesday night will be much older than Gelston's Indians. Only two players on Peterson's roster are under 20 years of age.

Montclair State is coming off a 14-12 season and hoping to jump back up the ladder. Gelston's 1972-73 unit will lack the outstanding stars of previous seasons, such as Bob Sinekewicz, Harry James and Bruce Davis.

Team play, lacking in previous seasons, and the big assist, which carried the Indians to three straight conference championships and three postseason National Collegiate Athletic Association bids, should return and could be the big sendoff.

NEW CHAMPS

The Six-Killers edged the Warriors, 14-13, last Wednesday afternoon to win the intramural three-man basketball tournament. The Six-Killers had also registered a close victory (15-14) over Tau Lambda Beta in the semi-final round.

RUN TO DAYLIGHT

Ps. Chi gridggers found out that it's good to be movers when they defeated Zeta Epsilon Tau to go into Monday night's final of the intramural touch football championship 8:30 pm at Sprague Field.

The two teams battled to a 0-0 tie in regulation time last week. But Psi Chi won the semi-final round by piling up four extra yards to Zeta Epsilon Tau's none.

The Titans took an easy 13-0 win over Tau Lambda Beta to earn the right to meet Psi Chi. The two losing teams will face one another in a consolation game 6:30 pm Monday at Sprague Field.

COURTIN' VICTORY

Roberta Vasko defeated Mary Ellen Mahan, 2-6, 6-0, 6-3 to win the intramural women's singles championship.

SOFT TOUCH

The Maintenance Men defeated the Publications last Friday, 27-21, in the Student Center Cored Touch Football League. The win was the first in as many games for the Maintenance Men.

The Publications squad will be looking for its first win in three games tomorrow when it meets the WVMS Airwaves at 4 pm.

SHEDDING SOME "LIGHT" ON THE SUBJECT

Lightweights (men from 165 to 100 pounds) are needed for Montclair State's weight-lifting club. Practices are now being held daily from 4 to 6 pm in the weight room in the basement of Panzer Gym. Interested persons are asked to contact supervisor Phil Grippo or assistant intramural director Barry Dennis at the athletic office.

ROCKIN' ROBIN

Men interested in competing in the night basketball round robin tournament, beginning Mon. Nov. 13 until Wed. Dec. 20, are requested to pick up applications at the athletic office. Games will begin at 9 pm and run until completion.

The winning team will represent Montclair State in the F. & M. Schaefer Brewing Co. tournament.

OFFICIALS NEEDED

Those interested in forming teams for the co-ed intramural volleyball program are requested to pick up applications in the athletic office.
It’s Crying Time Again

It was the best of the times and the worst of the times and Montclair State’s football team is experiencing both this season. The Indians have some promising underclassmen on the squad but until they learn to produce, MSC will have to struggle along. Last week, sophomore quarterback Gary Acker had a bruised shoulder keep him out of the lineup and as a result MSC lost to Southern Connecticut State, 26-14.

Indian backup signal callers Jim Wassel and Craig Hugger did their share, however. Wassel connecting to Don Whiteman for a three-yard touchdown pass and Hugger hitting Gary McGriff for another three-yard TD pass. Moses Lajterman kicked both extra points.

The Indians face a must-win situation this Homecoming Weekend if they want to keep the New Jersey State College Conference title. MSC meets Trenton State in the 38th edition of the clash 8 pm at Sprague Field.
Injury-Riddled Squaws
Trip Wm. Paterson, 2-1

By Joe Castronovo
Sports Writer

PATERSON—Coming off of a fine 8-0-2 season last year, the Montclair State girls field hockey team has had its share of problems this season.

"We just can't seem to put the ball in the net," coach Donna Olsen said.

THE TEAM, NOW 4-2 overall, has also suffered two major injuries recently.

"Right now we're an injury-plagued team," Olsen stated. "I'm not usually one to complain but we just aren't getting any breaks this year."

The biggest casualty is starting fullback Pat Forcini, who will be sitting out the rest of the season with a bad ankle.

"Pat made the
All-College team last year and her absence will hurt us," Olsen remarked.

The other sore spot is Kathy Carty, also a starter on the 12-girl squad. "Kathy was hit in the eye with the ball last week in the Trenton game," explained Olsen. "She had both assists in our big victory over Princeton and is very valuable to the team.
Her eye seems all right now and she will play in the next game," she added.

Speculating on the game, which was played Tuesday at William Paterson, Olsen added:
"We're on par with them, both teams are pretty evenly matched. The game can go either way. We beat them here last year, but this time, they'll have the advantage of being the home team."

APPARENTLY, BEING THE home team was not enough for William Paterson as they recorded their fourth defeat of the year by losing to the Squaws, 2-1.

In a very physical match in which five tripping penalties were issued against them, William Paterson managed to push across only one goal during the entire outing, that coming early in the second half.

MSC collected their two points in the first half, with what proved to be the winning goal coming in the final minutes.
Left inner Pat McCarthy accounted for the score with an assist from center half back Carty.

THE FIRST TALLY of the contest came early in the first half when MSC's Pat Koch deflected the ball off the stick of a William Paterson defender and it sailed into the net.

The final score was misleading however, as the game's statistics confirmed. MSC goalie Laura Sanson had a relatively easy day with only three saves.

While Princeton ran away with the team title in the New Jersey Collegiate Cross Country Championships, Tom Fleming of William Paterson ran to the individual title with a record time of 26.36.3.

Montclair State's Tim
O'Donoghue, who defeated
Fleming in a dual meet earlier this season to give the Pioneer runner his only loss, finished a disappointing ninth in the meet.

Rutgers placed second in the team competition with William Paterson placing a surprising third. The Indians finished sixth in the team standings.

MSC SOCCER IS KING

Mennendez Nets Two, Indians Top NJSCC

Montclair State's soccer team won the New Jersey State College Conference Tuesday night for the second straight year with a 4-2 victory over Trenton State. Manny Mennendez scored twice for the Indians, whose record now stands at 4-0-1 in the conference and 8-1-1 overall.

In the first half, Trenton dominated the play with excellent footwork and passing. But the Indian defense was just a little better with outstanding performances by netminder Chuck Doran and fullbacks Nick Mykolak and Telmo Pires.

"IN THE first half we were playing their type of game, a kick and run style of soccer," remarked coach Bob Wolfarth. A stalemate resulted as neither team scored in the first half.

The Indians have suffered many minor injuries this season, but possibly the most serious was one suffered by Wolfarth in the locker room at halftime. The first-year coach needed stitches in his thumb following the game before joining the team in their victory celebration.

In other soccer action last week, MSC defeated Stony Brook State, 3-1, in a heavy downpour that turned Brookdale Park into a bog.

The Indians had three men on the shelf before the game even started due to illness and injury. And when Joe Cozza went out early in the game with a leg injury, the MSC bench consisted of back-up goaltender Greg Reusch.

John Rij, who was inserted for Cozza, opened the scoring when the Stony Brook netminder came out to make a save off the foot of Mennendez and slipped in the process. The ball squirted free and to the side of the net where Rij put it in for his first goal of the season.

Early in the first half, Doran attempted a save, but lost his footing in the mud. The ball eluded Stony Brook's goalie and Mennendez had a clear shot at an empty net.

THE INDIANS have suffered many minor injuries this season, but possibly the most serious was one suffered by Wolfarth in the locker room at halftime. The first-year coach needed stitches in his thumb following the game before joining the team in their victory celebration.

In other soccer action last week, MSC defeated Stony Brook State, 3-1, in a heavy downpour that turned Brookdale Park into a bog.

The Indians had three men on the shelf before the game even started due to illness and injury. And when Joe Cozza went out early in the game with a leg injury, the MSC bench consisted of back-up goaltender Greg Reusch.

John Rij, who was inserted for Cozza, opened the scoring when the Stony Brook netminder came out to make a save off the foot of Mennendez and slipped in the process. The ball squirted free and to the side of the net where Rij put it in for his first goal of the season.

Early in the first half, Doran attempted a save, but lost his footing in the mud. The ball eluded Stony Brook's goalie and Mennendez had a clear shot at an empty net.
