BOARD GRAPPLIES WITH PUBLICITY PROBLEMS

By Susan Kelly
Staff Writer

Publicity problems in the Student Center were debated at Wednesday night's meeting of the Student Center Policy Board.

Stan Morrow, a member of the Council on International and National Affairs (CINA) and Roy Hirschfeld, CINA member and lecture chairman of the College Life Union Board (CLUB) submitted a seven-point proposal to the board on methods of improving publicity facilities in the Center.

The proposal included the following suggestions:

• The placement of cork strip on the purple walls of the cafeteria.
• Utilization of the public address system for public announcements.
• The placement of a bulletin board behind the information desk.
• Utilization of the front of the information desk.
• The placement of a marque on one of the walls adjacent to the information desk.
• Installation of a cork strip on the wall of the cafeteria.
• Installation of a ride board on one of the walls adjacent to the information desk.

Morrow’s and Hirschfeld’s proposal followed an informal meeting of students on Thurs., Nov. 30 in which complaints were given that the Student Center does not provide enough publicity outlets for the student organizations. The students called for places to hang posters and more ways to announce upcoming campus events.

The first proposal considered by the board was the utilization of the PA system for public announcements. Morrow suggested that a brief statement of the day’s campus activities be announced twice a day. The times that he suggested were noon and 1 pm.

Senior Mike Radtke pointed out that since the announcements would be heard in all of the Center’s meeting rooms and could not be turned off, meetings taking place at the time of the announcements would be disrupted.

Senior Diane Hudzig disagreed with this, however, saying that an inconvenience of five minutes would not be too much. She suggested that the proposal be instituted on a trial basis.

Bob Reardon, newly elected executive secretary to the group and representative from the dormitory council, stated that the Center would sound like a bus terminal with announcements being made over the PA system.

Reardon pointed out that the Center has a “code-a-phone” which students can call to hear a listing of the day’s activities.

Hudzig and Michael Quirk, CLUB chairman both stated that there is a need to reach more people than the “code-a-phone” can serve.

Michael Loewenthal, Center director, called the proposal “a feasible idea that can be implemented immediately.” He continued to say that James Harris, assistant dean of students, had asked for use of the PA system to announce the events of today’s “Focus on Race Relations” day.

Hudzig suggested that the Harris request would serve as a good trial for the proposal.

Morrow then made a motion that the use of the PA system for announcements be instituted for a period of two weeks at which time the Center Policy Board will evaluate it. The motion was passed, 6-3.

The second proposal considered was the placement of cork strip on the purple walls of the center.

PUBLICITY PROBLEMS—Dean of Students Lawton Blanton listens to senior Joe Baracco complain about the lack of publicity facilities in the Student Center. The informal meeting of students led to a proposal of publicity improvements which was presented to the Student Center Policy Board. Listening in the background is Michael Loewenthal, director of the Center.

TODAY, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8

MOVIE. “Victory at Sea” will be shown in Ballroom B of the Student Center.

BSCU. Meeting at 2 pm in the fourth floor meeting room.

MASS. 11 am in Ballroom A of the Student Center and 7 pm at Newman House.

LECTURE. Dr. Harold Proshansky of the City University of New York will speak on “Community Psychology” at 2 pm in Russ Hall Lounge.

AFRICAN ART. Program on “African Dance, Songs, Masks and Costumes” from 3 pm till 5 pm in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

PLAY. “The Trojan Woman” will be presented in the Studio Theater at 8:30 pm.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9

DANCE. BSCU dance at 8 pm in Life Hall cafe.

PLAY. “The Trojan Woman” will be presented in the Studio Theater at 8:30 pm.

BASKETBALL. MSC vs. NCE at 8:15 pm.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 10

PEOPLE’S PARTY. Meeting at 2 pm in the fourth floor meeting room of the Student Center.

MUSIC MARATHON. Tau Delta Phi and Zeta Epsilon Tau sponsor a marathon for leukemia from 2 pm to midnight in Life Hall cafe.

OSGO. Graduate Student Organization meeting at 6 pm in meeting room B of the Student Center.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 11

FOLK DANCING. International folk dancing at 7:30 pm in Life Hall cafe.

LECTURE. CINA presents Bella Abzug at 8 pm in Memorial Auditorium.

BASKETBALL. MSC vs. Newark State at 8:15 pm.
2. Montclair College

Fri., December 8, 1972

Problems Melt

Mike Hatem
Staff Writer

The addition of new equipment, the hiring of an outside contractor for snow removal, the paving of the Bohn Hall parking area and the placement of extra men who will be on 24-hour call should eliminate the usual problems brought about by winter conditions, according to Joseph McGinty, maintenance director.

Two new snow blowers, in addition to the two already available, will be used to clear sidewalks on campus. Other new equipment includes two salt spreaders and a bucket loader (a tractor with a scoop-like plow), which will be used for both road and sidewalk maintenance. The parking areas will still be the biggest problem. "When you have snow you're going to have problems. The snow has to be packed somewhere and parking spaces are always lost," McGinty said. Because of the addition of several new parking areas to the quarry this year, outside contractors have been employed to clear the quarry and, if possible, the Bohn Hall area. To facilitate maintenance of this lot, paving has been scheduled and is in "the final planning stages," according to McGinty. EXTRA MEN WILL BE AVAILABLE around the clock to clear sidewalks and roads for morning classes. "All I can guarantee is that both our staff and the contractors will be here day or night and will work as long as necessary to ready the campus for the next morning."

A crew of about eight male students has been assigned by McGinty to clear the stairs and entrances to dormitories and buildings, with first preference given to the dormitories. The crew is under the supervision of Bill Asdal, former SGA vice president. Any male student interested in the work should see Asdal for details.

McGinty added that students should cooperate with the maintenance department in keeping the lots free of cars during the night. "Every year we stress this point, he concluded."

Who is BETSY JACOBIS??

THE WINTER BLUES-Last year's snowfall caused maintenance problems at MSC which should not occur again this year with the college's acquisition of new snow removal equipment.
FOOD FOR THOUGHT:

At least they'll still recognize your voice. You'll still sound like the very same person who left for school. And they'd love to hear all about their personal investment in higher education. So phone the folks any night after 5 or anytime this weekend. That's when it costs only 25 cents or less, plus tax, to dial a 3-minute station-to-station call from school to anywhere in New Jersey. This low rate does not apply when you request the services of an operator. For example, on collect, charge to third number or credit card calls.

Phone home. New Jersey Bell

RACE DAY DOESN'T DRAW

By Carla Capizzi and John Pisaniich

Comparing American society to a "beautiful child with a cancer spreading slowly to every part of its limbs," MSC President Thomas H. Richardson officially kicked off yesterday's "Focus on Race Relations." While waiting to speak, Richardson expressed "disappointment" over the poor turnouting, speculating that the early hour and cold weather may have hindered student attendance. Several members of the administration were in the audience as were SGA officers Sam Crane, Kathy Ragan and Dianna Terlizzzi.

The room was still only sparsely filled when Richardson began speaking at 9:15. He stated that prejudice was "not as simple as good guys and bad guys." He explained that a "high degree of competence" was necessary to even realize that "the thing (prejudice) is here and with us."

If the United States is a "white racist society," Richardson said, it is "impossible for a state college to be a racism."

The next speaker was Gerald Le Boff, a member of the college Board of Trustees. He expressed the Board's favor for the "type of student interchange" that the day represented. He felt the day was a preparation for students "to lead in a rapidly changing society."

A MEMBER OF the Students for Reform and Action (SRA), Betty Ann O'Keefe, pointed out that fighting racism was "to everyone's advantage." Speaking to the white students in the audience, she urged them to start by eliminating the "racism in each one of us."

Travis Martin, soft-spoken vice-president of the Black Students Co-operative Union, commented that the day was a step towards combating racism. However, he challenged his audience, "What will you do tomorrow?"

Assistant Dean of Students James E. Harris stressed the lack of information and understanding between the races at MSC. He felt it was conceivable to have a Southern University-type of confrontation here at MSC. "There is black rage among the black people on this campus," and, he added, "hispanic rage" also.

Explaining that racism "exists on a perception level," he expressed hope that the "open, honest discussion" would help identify racism and lead to its solution.

DEScribing the day as a "confrontation of ideas," he asked the assembly to "let hearts burn today, not buildings tomorrow."

CINA PRESENTS

Bella Abzug, representative of New York's 19th congressional district, will speak in Memorial Auditorium on Mon., Dec. 11 at 8 pm. The newly elected congresswoman is one of two speakers being sponsored next week by the Council on National and International Affairs. Kevin McCann, a representative from the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association, will speak to students at 1 pm on Tues., Dec. 12 in the Student Center fourth floor meeting room. McCann has been with the 3000 member civil rights league for three years, organizing marches and supervising army harassment.
Dorm Courses Succeed

By D. G. Boudreau
Staff Writer

"In dorm living, the intensity makes the difference." So stated Joan Bakum, director of Chapin Hall, in a recent interview. "We need more courses designed for dorm residents. Classes meet in an appropriate, comfortable lounging area where shoes are not a requirement. One of the aims of the program is to eliminate some of the "depersonalizing aspects" found in our academic framework. Most of the courses have been assimilated so that they relate to dormitory living.

Three courses were offered this semester. They are, "Psychology of Development", "Human Growth and Development", and "Individual and Group Dynamics". All of the courses were over-enrolled this semester due to the large demand. Courses are presently being held in Webster, Freeman, and Chapin Halls. Bakum believes that the halls will be utilized by spring semester.

"A dorm is a place where you come just to sleep, we're trying to be more than that." said Bob Giordano, director of Freeman Hall. Giordano is responsible for publicity on whatever activities housing is involved with. He and other directors are forming discussion groups within the residence halls. Through personal interaction in a relaxed atmosphere they hope to foster the rising level of consciousness.

GIORDANO IS PRESENTLY working to get films through the audio-visual department to show in the residence halls on Thursday evenings. He believes that programs such as these in addition to the new dorm courses will undoubtedly serve to better unify the halls.

Ten courses will be offered during spring semester. They will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships" and "Women in Contemporary Society". Course offerings will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". "We are not a requirement. One of the aims of the program is to eliminate some of the "depersonalizing aspects" found in our academic framework. Most of the courses have been assimilated so that they relate to dormitory living.

Three courses were offered this semester. They are, "Psychology of Development", "Human Growth and Development", and "Individual and Group Dynamics". All of the courses were over-enrolled this semester due to the large demand. Courses are presently being held in Webster, Freeman, and Chapin Halls. Bakum believes that the halls will be utilized by spring semester.

"A dorm is a place where you come just to sleep, we're trying to be more than that." said Bob Giordano, director of Freeman Hall. Giordano is responsible for publicity on whatever activities housing is involved with. He and other directors are forming discussion groups within the residence halls. Through personal interaction in a relaxed atmosphere they hope to foster the rising level of consciousness.

GIORDANO IS PRESENTLY working to get films through the audio-visual department to show in the residence halls on Thursday evenings. He believes that programs such as these in addition to the new dorm courses will undoubtedly serve to better unify the halls.

Ten courses will be offered during spring semester. They will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". Course offerings will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". "We are not a requirement. One of the aims of the program is to eliminate some of the "depersonalizing aspects" found in our academic framework. Most of the courses have been assimilated so that they relate to dormitory living.

Three courses were offered this semester. They are, "Psychology of Development", "Human Growth and Development", and "Individual and Group Dynamics". All of the courses were over-enrolled this semester due to the large demand. Courses are presently being held in Webster, Freeman, and Chapin Halls. Bakum believes that the halls will be utilized by spring semester.

"A dorm is a place where you come just to sleep, we're trying to be more than that." said Bob Giordano, director of Freeman Hall. Giordano is responsible for publicity on whatever activities housing is involved with. He and other directors are forming discussion groups within the residence halls. Through personal interaction in a relaxed atmosphere they hope to foster the rising level of consciousness.

GIORDANO IS PRESENTLY working to get films through the audio-visual department to show in the residence halls on Thursday evenings. He believes that programs such as these in addition to the new dorm courses will undoubtedly serve to better unify the halls.

Ten courses will be offered during spring semester. They will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". Course offerings will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". "We are not a requirement. One of the aims of the program is to eliminate some of the "depersonalizing aspects" found in our academic framework. Most of the courses have been assimilated so that they relate to dormitory living.

Three courses were offered this semester. They are, "Psychology of Development", "Human Growth and Development", and "Individual and Group Dynamics". All of the courses were over-enrolled this semester due to the large demand. Courses are presently being held in Webster, Freeman, and Chapin Halls. Bakum believes that the halls will be utilized by spring semester.

"A dorm is a place where you come just to sleep, we're trying to be more than that." said Bob Giordano, director of Freeman Hall. Giordano is responsible for publicity on whatever activities housing is involved with. He and other directors are forming discussion groups within the residence halls. Through personal interaction in a relaxed atmosphere they hope to foster the rising level of consciousness.

GIORDANO IS PRESENTLY working to get films through the audio-visual department to show in the residence halls on Thursday evenings. He believes that programs such as these in addition to the new dorm courses will undoubtedly serve to better unify the halls.

Ten courses will be offered during spring semester. They will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". Course offerings will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". "We are not a requirement. One of the aims of the program is to eliminate some of the "depersonalizing aspects" found in our academic framework. Most of the courses have been assimilated so that they relate to dormitory living.

Three courses were offered this semester. They are, "Psychology of Development", "Human Growth and Development", and "Individual and Group Dynamics". All of the courses were over-enrolled this semester due to the large demand. Courses are presently being held in Webster, Freeman, and Chapin Halls. Bakum believes that the halls will be utilized by spring semester.

"A dorm is a place where you come just to sleep, we're trying to be more than that." said Bob Giordano, director of Freeman Hall. Giordano is responsible for publicity on whatever activities housing is involved with. He and other directors are forming discussion groups within the residence halls. Through personal interaction in a relaxed atmosphere they hope to foster the rising level of consciousness.

GIORDANO IS PRESENTLY working to get films through the audio-visual department to show in the residence halls on Thursday evenings. He believes that programs such as these in addition to the new dorm courses will undoubtedly serve to better unify the halls.

Ten courses will be offered during spring semester. They will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". Course offerings will include, "Racial and Ethnic Problems", "Introduction to Political Science", "Interpersonal Relationships", and "Women in Contemporary Society". "We are not a requirement. One of the aims of the program is to eliminate some of the "depersonalizing aspects" found in our academic framework. Most of the courses have been assimilated so that they relate to dormitory living.

Three courses were offered this semester. They are, "Psychology of Development", "Human Growth and Development", and "Individual and Group Dynamics". All of the courses were over-enrolled this semester due to the large demand. Courses are presently being held in Webster, Freeman, and Chapin Halls. Bakum believes that the halls will be utilized by spring semester.
JSU's 'More Active, Less Formal'

By Carol Giordano
Staff Writer

This week's Channukah celebrations are only a small part of the activities and interests of MSC's Jewish Student Union. The JSU, originally known as the Star of David, has become "more active and less formalized" according to Beatrice Baranek, senior home economics major and JSU member. "We found out that there were a lot more Jewish students at MSC who were interested in the organization," she explained.

The group's name was changed and more social and cultural events were scheduled. The JSU is sponsoring a theater party to attend the Feb. 17 performance of "Two Gentlemen of Verona" on Broadway. Approximately 40 tickets will be sold at MSC. A free raffle was held Wednesday evening in Life Hall with two tickets as the prize. The organization will also sponsor an Israeli coffee house in January.

Funds for JSU activities are provided by the Essex County Jewish Community Council, Franklin said. The JSU is not funded by MSC's Student Government Association. It recently moved into the Life Hall office previously occupied by the Black Student Co-operative Union, Sidlov stated.

Jewish student organizations have brought about several major changes and innovations, the Rutgers student explained. College student fees at the YMHA in West Orange have been lowered from $70 to $25, and a free Jewish university was started two years ago at Rutgers/Newark in which professors teach special courses in their spare time. Several JSU members expressed the view that Hebrew courses may soon be offered at MSC.

The JSU sponsors religious activities at appropriate times during the year, including Passover and Channukah. Last weekend MSC's JSU and the Rutgers organization held a joint Channukah celebration at the YMHA. Traditional foods, games and prizes were part of the evening. On Monday afternoon another celebration was held in Life Hall. An evening of Israeli dancing on Wednesday also observed the religious holiday.

As part of the Channukah observance, JSU members distributed dreidels to MSC students. Hebrew letters on these four-sided tops represent the words, "A great miracle happened there," in reference to the meaning of the holiday, the miracle of a one-day supply of oil lasting for eight days at the temple. The dreidel ended as a game of chance when the study of the Torah was forbidden by King Antiochus.

"When we were giving the dreidels out, a lot of people didn't know what they were. When they found out, they were interested," Franklin smiled.
Center Or Ad Rag?

Publicity problems are a major concern of all student organizations. Wednesday night’s meeting of the Student Center Policy Board attempted to deal with student requests to increase the publicity facilities of the Center.

There is a danger, however, in allowing the organizations unlimited use of the Center for publicity purposes. The concept behind this building is one of sophistication and, inspite of its problems, it is a beautiful building.

Haphazard placement of posters and signs along with the public address system announcing the day’s activities will seriously damage the aesthetic value of the Center. However much of these practices will benefit the organizations, they will turn this building into a cross between last year’s Life Hall and Grand Central Station.

The student organizations should fully utilize the existing outlets for publicity. The Center’s information desk and its “code-a-phone” should be utilized as a means in which interested students can receive a listing of the day’s activities.

A Student Center should be a place in which the students can rest without being subjected to a constant barrage of publicity.

The Real Losers

The greatest losers of the Vietnam War are not the South Vietnamese, the Communists or even the American people. They are the 545 American POWs who are currently rotting in North Vietnamese prison camps.

These men are pawns being mercilessly used by all parties to the conflict. The Communists parade them before foreign newsmen to demonstrate how “humanely” they are treated.

Certain American peace groups have acted as “arbiters” to secure the release of several prisoners. Then with this accomplished these groups use the information desk and its “code-a-phone” into a way to get a tenured professor to tighten up flabby lecturers in order to take away his tenure. Not all tenured faculty are settled in old methods and lectures, but enough succumb to the danger of security to justify abolishing a worn-out tradition.

Writing in the Spring ‘72 issue of Educational Record, Robert K. Carr presents strong arguments against tenure, but goes only so far as to suggest its modification.

The most common complaint against tenure, he states, is that it is a haven, protecting incompetent professors from the competition of the teaching market. Quite simply, it plies up dead wood. (Faculty with tenure can get away with a minimum of research and an absence of creative approaches by virtue of having grown old with the college.)

As a result, the job market tightens in academia. Young PhDs glut the market and push into spots opened by dead wood rotting into retirement. Those with novel approaches to teaching may face hiring boards set in conservative ways.

The only point Carr makes for tenure is academic freedom. The freedom to fight for academic reform or to hold unpopular views is essential to good education. It must be protected from arbitrary firing. But does tenure really guarantee academic freedom?

As Carr notes, some argue that “they (the tenured professors) use their tenure to prop academic freedom to students, untenured junior colleagues or young, job-seeking PhDs who do not share their social and political prejudices.”

OPTIONS

Carr offers three remedies. He calls for adoption of a radio of tenured to non-tenured professors like the 60-40 ratio decreed by Ralph A. Dungan, chancellor of higher education. Carr concludes that there is a monetary saving in this. In fact, ratios often disguise economic considerations without regard to academic consequences. Qualified untenured faculty may be fired because the budget can’t tolerate an increase in salaries. In addition, this approach does not eliminate professors in the prime of stagnation and it permits them wider latitude in firing ambitious and innovative instructors.

His second option is removal of incompetent tenured faculty. He states cases must involve only the grossly incompetent or faculty will rebel. Ousted faculty may also have recourse to unions and courts. At best this is a doubtful, incremental process.

The third suggestion is to lower the retirement age. If faculty could retire sooner it would open up new jobs, Carr contends. It sounds like a bribe. Optional retirement may have its strong points, but to reward incompetence with pensions is not a tolerable solution.

A fourth option, which Carr states but does not endorse, seems a better solution. Hampshire College in Massachusetts, just two years old, has hired faculty on a contract basis. They work an initial three-year term and then are subsequently reconsidered for terms of five to seven years.

LETHARGY

Academic freedom is protected by contract for a period, but a further step is necessary to protect academic freedom. Student committees in each department should have a hearing to determine whether an instructor who has been given his walking papers has been denied contract for reasons other than academic competence.

If they find for the instructor, the case should be brought before a grievance board composed of faculty and students. In this manner academic freedom would be protected without incurring the long term lethargy tenure may induce.

Bruce Conforth

Folks, I’m Not A Holden Caulfield

Week after week the MONTCLARION is full of stories on the problems of being a college student. Hey, another committee and look at this, more recommendations, let’s all get together and hold hands and talk about how successful we’ve been in doing so. Or maybe we can complain about food.

Blame is always put upon the student for being apathetic, but in a college environment where the educational services can barely muster up enough excitement to put one to sleep, who’s to blame?

EMPTY

When the hell is the faculty going to start something? Which parking lot is always the first one empty–the faculty lot. Committers lillinba? The whole educational system is being sent down the drain by the very people who represent it.

What does a college degree mean anymore? There’s a lot more to be done in the world than falling asleep for four years and then being informed that you are now as educated person.

I know that replies will come to this column. They’ll say that this way you feel what you do and about it, I can assure you these “concerned” people that what I am doing does not depend on a bought degree. A Holden Caulfield I’m not.
Midlesesex Cops Divided On Gun Issue

By Rosemary Mori and Bill Gibson
Staff Writers

Beneath the seemingly tranquil surface of Middlesex County College rages a lively debate over the arming of the Campus Patrol.

The controversy is centered around two parties -- the 15 man police force who want to be armed with a .38 caliber revolver at all times and MCC's administration which believes that present conditions do not warrant such action. Presently officers are armed only between 8 am and 7 pm.

REASONS

The officers are asking for the guns for several reasons. "All we're asking for is a chance to even the odds against crime," said one officer, in summary of the situation.

MCC opened in 1966 and until two years ago depended on the Essex County police and its own security force for protection. When the security force became an authorized police force in 1970, the college decided to permit the carrying of firearms on night duty.

"Since we have only commuters and the college open to the community, protection is needed for both students and officers," explained Joe Roccasanto, chief of the MCC police.

"It seems to me that the administration is saying that the students do not deserve the protection that their tuition entitles them. The public is entitled to as much protection on campus as off," stressed Manfred Meiners, president of Local 371, International Brotherhood of Police Officers.

According to MCC Sgt. Stonerock, "The chances of apprehending a criminal on campus are about 100 to 1 against the unarmed officer in the daytime. If a crime is reported, the officer first replies to an alarm unarmd."

"Then, if he decides that a weapon is needed, he must return to headquarters, sign the weapon out, load it, secure it on his belt and then return to the site of the crime," explained Stonerock.

"However, upon his return, he usually learns that the criminal has already escaped to the next town, South Amboy," said Stonerock. Last year there were 29 incidents of breaking and entering, 77 larcenies and three reported cases of armed robbery on the MCC campus.

"Statistics show that most police get shot when they stop and question people for minor infractions. When stopped, the criminal immediately assumes that the officer knows of the major crime he has committed. However, this is hardly ever true," explained MCC Sgt. Segal.

CONFRONTATION

With the arms, most officers believe that the element of surprise, which the criminal has, is lessened and thus the chances of a violent confrontation are also lessened.

Students have reacted to the issue in a subdued, if not apathetic manner. However subdued, the reactions covered the extremes of support and condemnation.

"In order for an officer to adequately fulfill his security duties, a gun is needed. The cop is a prime target and needs every bit of protection he can get. Let's face it -- a uniform alone won't stop bullets," explained one student.

One of his companions countered with, "Guns are provocative. If the police have them they might be inclined to use them when they aren't absolutely necessary."

CRITICAL TIME

Even the police force itself is divided on the issue. While some officers view the arming as necessary and essential, others think that the administration would be yielding to the needs of a few officers rather than the needs of the campus.

According to Jules Ciotta, an administration official, the evening is a more critical time for the force. He explained, "Weapons are unnecessary on the quiet campuses during the day. Middlesex is one of those campuses."

Racism Aggravated By 'Awareness' Day

By Bill Gibson
Staff Writer

Despite the high hopes held for the "Focus on Race Relations" day, it appears that the major effect of the day has been to bring racism out into the open, further polarizing an already polarized campus.

Attendance at most of the programs was poor, well below previous expectations. Those that did attend appeared to be the typical involved student. The programs seemed to have stimulated very little interest among the bulk of the student body where the root of the problem lies.

DOOMED

However the general student body cannot be blamed fully for the failure of the program. It was doomed to failure from the moment of its inception. The planning and coordinating committees failed to take into account the biases inherent not only in themselves but in the idea behind the programs.

Most of the programs seemed to be aimed at pointing the injustices suffered by the minority groups at the hands of the majority. I sincerely doubt that most students would be willing to go to a session where they are personally accused of creating and perpetuating an intolerable situation for their fellow man. The attendance figures seem to bear me out.

OBVIOUS

Even in those programs where there were visible turnouts, relatively speaking, the polarization and bias, both black and white, were painfully obvious. During the morning movie, blacks and whites congregated on opposite sides of the room, ignoring each other in an atmosphere of dislike and mistrust. When the time came for discussion the bulk of it was within the closely knit groups rather than between the groups where some benefit could have been derived.

Even the program members themselves showed the biases which doomed the program. One black student was asked to put out schedules with the comment, "These are for you people who are dead from the neck up." It was this kind of two-faced hypocrisy that breeds the problem of contempt.

PEARL HARBOR

When many of the commuters heard that they would not be penalized for cutting class, they took it as an open invitation for a one day vacation. Things like this have not worked in the past because of the "apathy." You would think that people would learn by now.

The day of talk is not going to solve MSC's problems. If anything, it will just increase the friction already present on campus.

Perhaps it is prophetic that the "Focus on Race Relations" occurred on the same day as Pearl Harbor.
"THE TROJAN WOMEN"—Euripides' classic anti-war tragedy will be presented Dec. 8 and Dec. 9 at 8 pm in Studio Theater. Pictures, going clockwise, show the Trojan widows appealing to the gods for solace, as Hecuba weeps (l. to r., Mary Justine Kolba, Mary Bruen, Esther Blachford, Christine Finley); Hecuba (Christine Finley) confronting Helen (Sheryl Alvey); and light designer, Dan Bauer and director Michael Z. Murphy discussing the final lighting adjustments.

TAΦ 2nd ANNUAL SIX BANDS
MUSIC MARATHON
ALL PROCEEDS DONATED TO THE LEUKEMIA SOCIETY
SUN. DEC. 10 2 P.M. TO MIDNIGHT
Life Hall Cafe

Photo by Guy Ball.
Photos by Edd O'Connor
"Band" Examines Love, Racism

By Tom Malcolm
Staff Reviewer

"Band," written by Alice Childress and directed by her with the able assistance of Joe Papp, deals with a strained love affair and a subtle examination of a pair of interracial lovers in South Carolina, 1918. Julia, played by James Broderick, is a working-class black man who is constantly warned about his arrogant behavior. These gifted actors make the most of Childress' superb dialogue and present the audience with drama of the finest quality.

Regrettably, the three most vital actors—Dee, Broderick and Jean David as Herman's mother—fail to exemplify the same excellence in their roles.

Editor's Note: "Wedding Band," is now playing at the Public Theatre, 435 Lafayette St. in the Village. If you bring along your MSC I.D. you can get in for $3.00. Call 212-677-6300 for further information.

One Acts

CLASSICS

Howard Greenblatt, classical guitarist and new member of the MSC faculty, will be presented in a recent recital on Sun., Dec. 10 at 3:30 pm in McEachern Recital Hall. Admission is free.

EL TOPO

Alexandro Jodorowsky, filmmaker and director, will lecture in Calcia Auditorium on Mon., Dec. 11 at 7:30 pm. Jodorowsky, who's most recent film is "El Topo," will follow his lecture with informal discussions with students.

OIL TO WATER

A group show consisting of 48 works of art in various media by members of the Art Gallery of Maplewood and South Orange is now on display on the fourth floor of the Newark Public Library. The show will run through Dec. 30.

UNHOLY ONE

"Nazaris," Luis Bunuel's prize-winning film about a defrocked priest in Mexico, will be presented free in Memorial Auditorium on Tues., Dec. 12 at 7:30 pm.

LEAKY FAUCET

The Human Relations Laboratory and Experimental Theater Group will present "an experiment in sensory awareness," the Likwed Theater on Dec. 8 at 7 pm in the Student Center. Admission is $7.00.

"Band" Examines Love, Racism

By Key Finlaw
Staff Reviewer

The first thing that is likely to attract the reader to Dorothy L. Sayers' "Are Women Human?" is the cover. It includes a fold-up strip on which a doll-like nude female reclines with male figures perched on each of the bed posts.

With an introduction by Mary Shideler, "Are Women Human?" consists of two essays in which Sayers discusses the position of women as human beings in our society. A noted British writer, scholar and lecturer, she claimed no connection with the feminist movement, as the title of the book might indicate.

Before Sayers asks "Are all women created to do the same work?" she asks, "Are all human beings created to do the same work?". She stimulates the reader's thoughts about women by questioning the role of any human being in our society.

The author backs her arguments with appropriate examples and poses some interesting questions for the reader. The point of the book can be summarized in one quote: "...women are more like men than anything else in the world. The are human beings. "Vir" is male and "Femina" is female: but "home" is male and female. This is the equality claimed and the fact that is persistently evaded and denied...Man is always dealt with as both "Home" and "Vir," but Woman only as "Femina.""
The Bloomfielders, opposing the Top Guns in a clash of the top teams of Division I, took it on the chin, 66-55, for their first loss. Both squads now boast 7-1 records and are tied for the top spot in the division.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

TUES., DEC. 12
- 9 pm: Court 1 - Bloomfielders vs. Waschwomen
- Court 2 - Warriors vs. Mixers
- 10 pm: Court 1 - Rats vs. Raiders
- Court 2 - Bullets vs. Copepods
- 11 pm: Court 1 - Swope Machine vs. Bombers
- Court 2 - Contenders vs. Gestapo

WED., DEC. 13
- 9 pm: Court 1 - Top Guns vs. Trouble
- Court 2 - Slave Train vs. Tau Lambda Beta
- 10 pm: Court 1 - B.C.K.M.R. vs. Raisinets
- Court 2 - Swope Machine vs. Washwomen
- 11 pm: Court 1 - Bullets vs. Gestapo
- Court 2 - B.C.K.M.R. vs. Bombers

WEDNESDAY'S RESULTS
- Swope Machine 81, Warriors 41
- Bullets 69, Rats 56
- Top Guns 66, Bloomfielders 55
- Bombers 44, Mixers 43
- Raiders 70, Copepods 58
- Washwomen 52, Trouble 45

The playoffs will begin on Wed. Jan. 3, at 9 pm in Panzer Gym with the first four teams in Division I and Division II participating.

SWIM SWITCH

The Panzer Gym pool will be open from 8 pm to 10 pm, Tuesday through Friday, instead of until 11 pm as was originally announced.

The pool will be closed on Fri., Dec. 15 and Sat., Dec. 16 and also over the holidays, from Fri., Dec. 22 until Wed., Jan. 3.

COME 'N GET 'EM

Registration fees from the intramural touch football program must be picked up by Tues., Dec. 12, or the fee will be forfeited. Officials are asked to pick up their money by the same date or same will be forfeited into the Intramural Fund.

FACULTY CLASH

An Intramural basketball game will take place on Sunday at 10 am in Panzer Gym pitting the Pentameters (English Department) against the Bombers (Admissions Office).

SHALL WE DANCE

Because of the Wed., Dec. 20, Christmas Ball, basketball intramurals may be rescheduled.

---

Soccer Sweethearts

The Montclair State soccer team would like to organize a group of female assistants, managers, scorekeepers, timekeepers and general helpers for their home games next season. If anyone is interested, please contact the sports department of the MONTCLARIAN or leave your name and where we can get in touch with you in the sports mailbox.

Anywhere from six to 12 women are needed. Those applying will be notified as soon as possible.

SORRY

The MONTCLARIAN regrets an error in last week's edition. Due to a mix-up, the picture appearing with a story on soccer player Telmo Pires was, contrary to popular belief, not a picture of Pires, but one of Tino Domingues. Our apologies to both players.

SWIM SWITCH

The Montclair State soccer team would like to organize a group of female assistants, managers, scorekeepers, timekeepers and general helpers for their home games next season. If anyone is interested, please contact the sports department of the MONTCLARIAN or leave your name and where we can get in touch with you in the sports mailbox.

Anywhere from six to 12 women are needed. Those applying will be notified as soon as possible.

SORRY

The MONTCLARIAN regrets an error in last week's edition. Due to a mix-up, the picture appearing with a story on soccer player Telmo Pires was, contrary to popular belief, not a picture of Pires, but one of Tino Domingues. Our apologies to both players.

SWIM SWITCH

The Montclair State soccer team would like to organize a group of female assistants, managers, scorekeepers, timekeepers and general helpers for their home games next season. If anyone is interested, please contact the sports department of the MONTCLARIAN or leave your name and where we can get in touch with you in the sports mailbox.

Anywhere from six to 12 women are needed. Those applying will be notified as soon as possible.

SORRY

The MONTCLARIAN regrets an error in last week's edition. Due to a mix-up, the picture appearing with a story on soccer player Telmo Pires was, contrary to popular belief, not a picture of Pires, but one of Tino Domingues. Our apologies to both players.
Montclair Fencers To Stage
Their Swash Buckling Debut

By John Tobiason
Staff Writer

The two stand opposite each other on the narrow rubber strip, swords at the ready. Their faces covered by wire mesh masks, they poke and probe at each other's defenses. Suddenly, one sees an opening and springs to the attack, slashing and stabbing with the silvery blade to his enemy's parries and counterplay. The furious swordplay quickens, first one white-clothed figure then the other, leaping and plunging in sudden attack.

Abruptly, a light flashes and the action stops, one man having penetrated successfully to "touch" his opponent. The two combatants separate and the action commences again.

THE THREE MUSKATEERS in action? No, just a typical fencing bout at Montclair State. The men are coached by Rocky Di Cicco and the women by Domenica D'Esideriosciti.

The men's team consists of nine members, three each for foil, epee and sabre.

"It's fast and exciting, but complicated," said the men's captain Frank Mustilli, "and it is "tough William Paterson and Di Cicco and the women by Domenica D'Esideriosciti."

MUSTILLI PREDICTED a team "better than last year's but better that record when their season opens tomorrow at Brooklyn College. Following next Friday's match at Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute, the men will begin their home season with a 3 pm contest against Pace College on Sat., Jan. 6.

THE WOMEN EXPECT to win "90% of our matches." The women started off on the right foot when they defeated Caldwell College, 12-4. Their next match is against CCNY, Wed., Dec. 13.

The women field a varsity and JV team of four girls each. They fence only foil with touches recorded electrically.

"It's a great sport," said Desi, "but you must know the intricacies to really appreciate it."

The small number allowed to compete is a problem, according to Desi, a small sharp-featured, energetic woman.

"We started with a squad of 25; now we're carrying nine," she said, "but our varsity is all experienced fencers."

AMONG HER BEST is captain Nancy Murray, a transfer from Trenton State. Julie Loveridge, Mary Caprio, and Mary Lou Cafferra make up the rest of the varsity squad. The women fence under the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association (NIWFA), while the men's bouts are NCAA-sanctioned. Men's meets consist of 27 bouts of five touches each, with 14-bout victories needed to win a match. The women contest for nine of the 16 bouts in an NIWFA meet with four touches per bout.

"It's a good sport," said Desi, "but you must know the intricacies to really appreciate it."

THE TEAM opens their season at Montclair State on Sat., Jan. 6.

The small number allowed to compete is a problem, according to Desi, a small sharp-featured, energetic woman.

"We started with a squad of 25; now we're carrying nine," she said, "but our varsity is all experienced fencers."

AMONG HER BEST is captain Nancy Murray, a transfer from Trenton State. Julie Loveridge, Mary Caprio, and Mary Lou Cafferra make up the rest of the varsity squad. The women fence under the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association (NIWFA), while the men's bouts are NCAA-sanctioned. Men's meets consist of 27 bouts of five touches each, with 14-bout victories needed to win a match. The women contest for nine of the 16 bouts in an NIWFA meet with four touches per bout.

"It's a good sport," said Desi, "but you must know the intricacies to really appreciate it."

THE TEAM opens their season at Montclair State on Sat., Jan. 6.

The small number allowed to compete is a problem, according to Desi, a small sharp-featured, energetic woman.

"We started with a squad of 25; now we're carrying nine," she said, "but our varsity is all experienced fencers."

AMONG HER BEST is captain Nancy Murray, a transfer from Trenton State. Julie Loveridge, Mary Caprio, and Mary Lou Cafferra make up the rest of the varsity squad. The women fence under the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association (NIWFA), while the men's bouts are NCAA-sanctioned. Men's meets consist of 27 bouts of five touches each, with 14-bout victories needed to win a match. The women contest for nine of the 16 bouts in an NIWFA meet with four touches per bout.

"It's a good sport," said Desi, "but you must know the intricacies to really appreciate it."

THE TEAM opens their season at Montclair State on Sat., Jan. 6.

The small number allowed to compete is a problem, according to Desi, a small sharp-featured, energetic woman.

"We started with a squad of 25; now we're carrying nine," she said, "but our varsity is all experienced fencers."

AMONG HER BEST is captain Nancy Murray, a transfer from Trenton State. Julie Loveridge, Mary Caprio, and Mary Lou Cafferra make up the rest of the varsity squad. The women fence under the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association (NIWFA), while the men's bouts are NCAA-sanctioned. Men's meets consist of 27 bouts of five touches each, with 14-bout victories needed to win a match. The women contest for nine of the 16 bouts in an NIWFA meet with four touches per bout.

"It's a good sport," said Desi, "but you must know the intricacies to really appreciate it."

THE TEAM opens their season at Montclair State on Sat., Jan. 6.
By Joe Castorono
Sports Writer

WAYNE-A head injury to Montclair State center Tom Dux with 10:02 left in the second half spelled doom to his teammates as they went on to lose, 72-67, to the Pioneers of William Paterson College Tuesday night.

With the score, 52-50, in MSC’s favor, Dux, a 6-foot-5-inch senior, collided with the Pioneers’ 6-foot-5-inch, 230-pound forward Gary Hipp while going up for a rebound. Hipp was back on his feet moments afterward, but Dux remained horizontal with blood streaming from his forehead. The wound required 16 stitches.

UPON DUX’S departure, 6-foot-5-inch sophomore Larry Hughes entered the game and assumed the enormous responsibility of countering awesome Leroy Lewis, 72-67.

Their lead was never relinquished as Lewis and Hipp dominated both ends of the court, pulling off rebounds and converting easy baskets from underneath, combining for 16 of the 20 points scored by William Paterson from then on.

The Indians started the contest as though they were planning to run their opponents off the court, taking a quick, 6-0, lead during the first two minutes of play by way of two long, corner jumpers from Chuck Holland and a layup by Calvin Blue.

WILLIAM PATERNON rose to the occasion and before long, had the game tied, 8-8. From that point on, the lead changed twice in the first half and the biggest margin between the two teams stood at three points when, with the score, 28-25, in MSC’s favor, and 3:30 left in the half, the Pioneers took charge.

In a display that lasted the remaining 3:25, William Paterson put together a 10-point streak of their own with 14:54 left in the second half and the score, 43-40, in favor of the Pioneers.

HOLLAND AND Dux combined for eight of the 10, scoring five and three points respectively. Rick Brown had the other two.

That put MSC back on top, 50-43, but the lead was shortlived as William Paterson fought their way back and took the lead for good after Dux went out a minute and 36 seconds afterwards.

The defeat left MSC even at 1-1 and ready and waiting to take on Newark College of Engineering tomorrow night at 8:15 pm in Panzer Gym.

Montclair State’s wrestling schedule includes some pretty tough matches and they won’t come any harder than this weekend.

Tonight the Indians face defending New Jersey State College Athletic Conference champs, Trenton State, 7:30 pm at Trenton.

“IT’S GOING to be a tough match,” wrestling coach Larry Sciachetano stated. “They’re one of the tougher ones. They walked away with the conference last year.”

Waiting in the wings is West Point, Ivy League champion Princeton and Indiana State. MSC squares off against them tomorrow afternoon at West Point.

While Sciachetano has beefed up his squad to the point of upsetting East Stroudsburg and tying Buffalo, the Indian mentor is the first to acknowledge that his grapplers have a long way to go team-wise.

“ONE OF our weaknesses is no great depth,” he said. Matters won’t improve too much for Sciachetano this weekend with the absences of Milt Rehain and Hubie Voltalimo due to injuries.

Co-captain Larry Hayspell is another question mark due to an arm injury suffered Monday in practice. Harvey Brown, another starter, will have to miss the matches tomorrow because of exams.

Grapplers Face Crucial Weekend Meets

Montclair State’s wrestling schedule includes some pretty tough matches and they won’t come any harder than this weekend.

Tonight the Indians face defending New Jersey State College Athletic Conference champs, Trenton State, 7:30 pm at Trenton.

“IT’S GOING to be a tough match,” wrestling coach Larry Sciachetano stated. “They’re one of the tougher ones. They walked away with the conference last year.”

Waiting in the wings is West Point, Ivy League champion Princeton and Indiana State. MSC squares off against them tomorrow afternoon at West Point.

While Sciachetano has beefed up his squad to the point of upsetting East Stroudsburg and tying Buffalo, the Indian mentor is the first to acknowledge that his grapplers have a long way to go team-wise.

“ONE OF our weaknesses is no great depth,” he said. Matters won’t improve too much for Sciachetano this weekend with the absences of Milt Rehain and Hubie Voltalimo due to injuries.

Co-captain Larry Hayspell is another question mark due to an arm injury suffered Monday in practice. Harvey Brown, another starter, will have to miss the matches tomorrow because of exams.