CEASEFIRE DRAWS SKEPTIC RESPONSE

By Carol Anne Sakowitz
Staff Writer

President Richard M. Nixon's announcement Tuesday night of an end to the American involvement in Vietnam has been received with a surprising display of unenlightenment by a war-weary United States. Americans whose anti-war convictions were strong enough to initiate a Counter Inauguration last Saturday responded to the news without the enthusiasm which followed similar disclosures concerning World Wars I and II.

General student reaction will not become fully known until the bulk of the student body returns in February. Of those who remained to take courses, the termination of US involvement involved a somber tone mixed with slight skepticism.

John McGorty, senior psychology major, said, "I'm glad it's finally over, but I'm waiting to see what's going to happen. I mean, I'd like to see if he'll get the prisoners of war free in 60 days."

Junior mathematics major Felice Nord confesses to a feeling of disbelief. "I don't believe that it's really ended. I won't believe it until I see proof." Proof, added Nord, would be the complete return to the US of soldiers now stationed in Vietnam.

Nixon said Tuesday that the pact, to be formally signed on Saturday, will bring "peace with honor." Responses from various Montclair State students and graduates differ as to the verity of the Nixon's statement.

"It's an empty peace—I wouldn't call it an honorable peace," Steve Bogart, co-coordinator of Students for McGovern, stated. "Succeeding presidents will have to bury it (conditions surrounding the signing of the pact)." The Marine veteran added, "What's honorable about what we've done in Vietnam? We can never repay the Vietnamese for what we've done to them."

Ted Olde sits on the opposite side of the political coin. Olde, who graduated from MSC this month, was an active member of the Republican Club. Like Bogart, Olde believes that the US should never have entered into the Vietnamese conflict. However, once involved, Olde thinks that the US should have utilized its full militaristic powers against the North Vietnamese.

"For him the peace was honorable. "Nixon has the guarantee of getting all our men back, which McGovern didn't want to obtain. I'm sure that this peace pact makes McGovern and other liberals look foolish."

"I wish that it (the peace) had come sooner, but I don't think it came too late," Olde added.

Dave Cornelisse, a 1972 graduate now working in the Student Center, doesn't believe that the peace agreement was timely enough for him.

"If this had happened two years ago I would never need to have gone into the National Guard. I wouldn't be wasting $600 of the taxpayers' money a year or one month a year of my time for the next six years."

"In high school I was convinced like everyone else from my area that our country was doing a good deed—Big Brother helping out," he added.

Cornelisse has since changed his position on the Vietnam issue.

Faced with the prospect of being drafted, he elected to enter the Guard.

"I never considered leaving the country. I never got that far," he said. "I think I would have marred myself first," Cornelisse added soberly.

In 1969, freshman Tom Benn chose to enlist in the Army rather than wait to be drafted. The decision allowed him to select, rather than to be given, a position. As an Army photojournalist, Benn was gifted with a tour in Vietnam as an assignment.

"Before going into the Army, I felt like the typical flagwaving, red-white-and-blue All-American boy," he said. "Then I got there and saw what we were doing to Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and I became disillusioned with any type of government. Looking back on it, my thoughts haven't changed. In fact, recent activities have only reinforced them."

We have had so many disappointments, it is now hard to believe that the war in Vietnam may be over. One is almost afraid to be happy, afraid to celebrate for fear that our hopes for peace will again be dashed on the rocks of international power politics.

Peace will be wonderful and it will mean more to those of us who work with young people than it will mean to the man on the street. Working with college students through the years, we have observed up close the effect of the war in Vietnam. Some of our students were taken to Vietnam and wounded and killed, but all young people, whether they went to Vietnam or not, were in some way wounded by this war. The number of social attitudes and psychological effects which Vietnam is responsible for creating is hard to measure.

College campuses are certainly different places as a result of the war in Vietnam.

I am convinced that our motives as a nation, although terribly misguided, are generally pure when we initially became involved in Southeast Asia. Our military leaders and American investors may have had an excessive influence on some governmental decisions along the way, but I am confident that our country's goal was not an evil one. Regardless of intention, however, the effect of the war on our country has been disastrous.

America lost its position of moral leadership in a large part of the world as a result of its actions in Vietnam. We ended up alone, criticized by nearly every country in the world. The nations who were previously our staunchest allies have heaped scathing criticism upon us. Perhaps the greatest tragedy to come from the war, however, has to do with what we did to ourselves in the process of fighting it. We have developed into a country divided, a country no longer sure of its own values. We became a country divested of a kind of innocent self-confidence about our mission in the world but unable to face up to some of the social and psychological realities of the modern scene.

I have said on many occasions that I felt Vietnam was a mistake and a disaster for our country, and that we must remove ourselves from it as soon as some way could be devised for freeing the American prisoners. The way now seems to have been found and I join others in rejoicing. I hope that we will emerge from Vietnam with a new maturity in our view of the rest of the world, with a new commitment to solve some of our pressing domestic problems and with a firm determination to return to Congress the power and responsibility for declaring war.
Your first tampon should be a Kotex tampon.

Because only Kotex tampons have soft-rounded ends...gentle insertion guides instead of two bulky tubes...and more protection than the leading brand. But the only way to be convinced is to let a Kotex tampon be your first one.

The registrar's office has announced that Feb. 5, 6 and 7 have been designated as change of program days for spring semester schedules.

Seniors should report on Feb. 5 at the following times:

- (L-R) 1 pm, (F-K) 1:30 pm, (I-Z) 2 pm, and (A-I) 2:30 pm. Students who requested a full schedule and received 11 or less semester hour credits should report on this day between 9:15-30 am.
- Sophomores and juniors should report on Feb. 6. Juniors should report at the following times:
  - (T-Z) 9 am, (C-D) 9:30 am, (C-D) 9:30 am, (A-B) 10 am, (P-S) 10:30 am, (J-O) 11 am, and (E-I) 11:30 am.
- Freshmen are asked to report on Feb. 7. All uncommitted students and majors in the School of Professional Arts and Sciences should come between 9:15-10 am. All remaining majors are asked to report between 10 am and noon.

If you keep saying you want to do something with your life...here's your chance to prove it!
Thousands Protest Nixon Inaugural

By Tom Benn
Staff Writer

Units, every four years, activity in Washington stops and the city takes some time to celebrate the ceremonious installation of America's President into his office, an affair with all the grandeur and pomp of a coronation.

Such was situation Saturday, but with an added twist that has marked only the most recent inaugurations. Distinct and separate from Richard Nixon's installation was a gathering of people almost as large. They were not celebrating however. They had gathered in anger to protest the recent actions of Nixon's Administration.

Three demonstrations were planned, one in Arlington Cemetery by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, one by the National Peace Action Coalition at the Washington Monument and a third by the Students for a Democratic Society.

At an intersection in Washington's predominantly black Northeast quarter, the SDS rallied. Several hundred persons were gathered, some carrying blue, red and gold banners. A folk singer was performing, misplaced persons were searching for their friends and the bulk of the crowd was growing restless in anticipation of the march. At about 11:30, banners were raised into the chilli wind, slogans were half-heartedly chanted and the march began behind an escort of a dozen or so helmeted policemen on motor scooters and past the area's residents, few of whom bothered to interrupt their daily routines to stop and watch.

SUDDENLY, THE march was halted after less than a block. The police appeared to be trying to slow the march to a snail's pace. Some marchers speculated that they were giving Nixon time enough to finish his ceremony and get away from the Capitol. One policeman, as he passed me on his motor scooter, turned to his partner beside him and said, "Go slow. Go as slow as you possibly can."

At 12:40, while the official ceremonies were concluding at the Capitol, the marchers reached Union Station for a second rally. There the demonstration seemed to fizzle as marchers departed in small groups for the parade a few blocks away. If there was to be a confrontation, the chances seemed slimmer with the group fragmenting. Many headed for the Washington Monument.

At the Monument, there were already more people gathered near the speaker's platform than had been in the entire SDS march and the line of marchers extended far as far as the eye could see along Constitution Avenue toward the Lincoln Memorial. Tens of thousands had gathered at the Lincoln Monument to stage a Counter Inauguration. They were joined there by the Viet Vets, who had rallied at Arlington, signed their own peace treaty and marched across the bridge to the NPAC crowd. From there, they all marched and chanted their way to the Ellipse, stopping in the shadow of Washington's monolithic shaft.

While Nixon was reviewing the legions of spangled, colorful high school and military bands and floats passing a few blocks away, a group of some 26 guests began making speeches to the Counter Inaugural throng, estimated to be as little as 25,000 and as high as 200,000. The true number was probably near 100,000; and they kept coming.

PEACE AND ORDER were prevalent and incidents were few. In mid-afternoon, with the sun making only sporadic but welcome appearances, the core of the SDS march, thwarted in its attempt to join Nixon's parade, came marching in behind a yellow flatbed truck. The truck was moving toward the speaker's platform, but was halted when a cordon of ad hoc marchals sat down in front of it. At the monument itself, the American flag that ringed it were systematically taken down and either replaced by the flat of the National Liberation Front, turned upside down in the universal distress signal, or tossed into a fire. Some scuffling ensued, but order was quickly restored.

The crowd gathered, it listened and as the afternoon grew late, began dissipating as the speaker buses and trains that had brought it prepared to leave. Their point apparently made, the marchers slowly made their way home.

Urban Recreation

Seminars were conducted throughout the two-day discussion concerning various aspects of urban recreation. Among the topics discussed were the legislation and funding of recreation programs, environmental education and urban recreation and the changing role of county parts in urban recreation.

Among those conducting the seminars were Dr. Edward Ambry, executive director of the N.J. Council of Environmental Education; Thomas Guida, director of the N.J. Recreation Bureau; and Dr. Charles Hartsoe, chairman of the recreation education program of Temple University.

DURING COFFEE Breaks, Byron McGill and John C. Murphy of the Recreation School of Clowning out of Southern Illinois University, presented demonstrations on shaping balloons and discussed the art and history of clowning. McGill is the parks and recreation commissioner in Paducah, Kentucky, while Murphy is superintendent of recreation and parks in Blue Island, Illinois.

The conference was organized by Dr. William Ridinger, of Southern Illinois University and MSC professors Dr. Hazel Wacker, Dr. George Pearson, Dr. Richard Tews and Dr. Leonard Lucenko.

The conference was slated to be a study for "meeting the challenges and opportunities of urban recreation" and brought together recreation leaders from various parts of the country.

AMONG THE guest speakers were Joseph Curtis, commissioner of parks and recreation in Boston, Mass., and Dr. Roscoe Brown, director of Afro-American Studies at New York University. Curtis spoke at the Thursday luncheon on the topic of organizing and revitalizing urban recreation. Brown was the dinner speaker and discussed "The Black Urbanites - A Forgotten Man?"

Seminars were conducted on the topic of organizing and revitalizing urban recreation. Brown was the dinner speaker and discussed "The Black Urbanites - A Forgotten Man?"

Seminars were conducted throughout the two-day discussion concerning various aspects of urban recreation. Among the topics discussed were the legislation and funding of recreation programs, environmental education and urban recreation and the changing role of county parts in urban recreation.

Among those conducting the seminars were Dr. Edward Ambry, executive director of the N.J. Council of Environmental Education; Thomas Guida, director of the N.J. Recreation Bureau; and Dr. Charles Hartsoe, chairman of the recreation education program of Temple University.

DURING COFFEE Breaks, Byron McGill and John C. Murphy of the Recreation School of Clowning out of Southern Illinois University, presented demonstrations on shaping balloons and discussed the art and history of clowning. McGill is the parks and recreation commissioner in Paducah, Kentucky, while Murphy is superintendent of recreation and parks in Blue Island, Illinois.

The conference was organized by Dr. William Ridinger, of Southern Illinois University and MSC professors Dr. Hazel Wacker, Dr. George Pearson, Dr. Richard Tews and Dr. Leonard Lucenko.

A recreation major of MSC is presently awaiting approval in Trenton. The decision might be affected by the success of the conference which had such a favorable response that most seminars were full to capacity.

An urban recreation conference, sponsored by the School of Professional Arts and Sciences, the Panzer School Council and Physical Education majors organization, was held at the Student Center on Thurs., Jan. 11 and Fri., Jan. 12.
The War Is Finally Over

The longest war in the history of the United States will end on Sat., Jan. 27, 11 years after the first American died in South Vietnam. After the deaths of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children, after the expenditure of billions of dollars in defense, after years of protest by American citizens—the war is over.

Was it worth it? The United States has supposedly obtained the long awaited “peace with honor.” It cannot be said, however, that this country has made South Vietnam safe against North Vietnamese aggression—the expressed reason for our involvement in Asia.

The result of the years of fighting is the scheduling of an election to determine the makeup of the government or negotiations between Saigon and the Viet Cong. In all probability, this will strengthen North Vietnamese control in that country.

After World War II, the announcement of a peace settlement met with joy and wild celebration by the people. Just as the tone of that war differed from that of this war, so did the reaction to the peace announcement. After President Richard Nixon’s announcement over radio and television Tuesday night, the national reaction was one of apathy, a cynicism attitude towards the long-heralded peace that has finally come.

The war is over. It ended without accomplishing its expressed purpose, at the loss of thousands of American men. Rather than being a great moment in history, Nixon’s peace announcement marks the end of a tragic waste of human life.

LBJ’s Death—A Sad Irony

This past week has been an historic one in which the presidential inauguration took place, the Vietnamese peace settlement was announced and Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th president of the United States died.

Johnson left office four years ago a very unpopular president, being held responsible by many for the escalation of the war in Vietnam. His image did not improve with the passage of several years and it was not until his death that public figures spoke favorable of him.

It is ironic that the former president died the day before the announcement of the peace settlement of the war for which he was held so much responsible. Public opposition to his policies regarding the Vietnamese war cast a shadow over any other accomplishments of his administration—it is very sad that Johnson so nearly missed seeing its end.
Staff Writer

Throughout its 159 year history, the Olympic Games have been marked by a number of heated battles. Two black athletes, both sprinters, gave the authorities a day to overrule a decision in the track and field meet. While they were trying to avoid the British assault on the fort, the words to the song were not composed until 1814. Francis Scott Key, a journalist or forest ranger, then. All we had to do was get a college education and the world would stick up for you when you were the type of guys who stuck up for the nation. Wottle expressed his remorse and protested his decision at the ceremony, he forgot to remove his cap. The words to the song were inspired by the British assault on the Chesapeake Bay and watched and rehearsed the two-day shelling of the fort.

In 1929, Ripley's Believe It or Not featured a story about the anthem, but labor union association, but labor union - education is facing in the coming years. The answer cannot be to fire the public's imagination. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show.

J. D. Hile

Holiday Cheer Was Missing

Holidays can be the most depressing time of the year, especially Christmas when old friends come home. It's then we find how much things have changed and that the "good old days" are gone for good. Those were the type of guys who stuck up for the nation. Wottle expressed his remorse and protested his decision at the ceremony, he forgot to remove his cap. The words to the song were inspired by the British assault on the Chesapeake Bay and watched and rehearsed the two-day shelling of the fort.

In 1929, Ripley's Believe It or Not, a Hearst Syndicate feature that glories in its bizarre sensationalism, revealed that the anthem is sung to the tune of an English drinking song. Yet saying "America the Beautiful" or "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" should be the anthem is frequently considered tantamount to treason.

The Star-Spangled Banner

FrancisScott Key

John Stafford Smith

Arranged By Paul Taubman

The Star-Spangled Banner

O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light, What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleam, And at the going down of the day, when the foe had dimmed the day, villains networks picked up the item and flashed it across the nation. Wottle expressed his remorse and protested his innocence to sportswriters for weeks afterwards. At the ceremony, he forgot to remove his cap. The words to the song were inspired by the British assault on the Chesapeake Bay and watched and rehearsed the two-day shelling of the fort.

In 1929, Ripley's Believe It or Not featured a story about the anthem, but labor union association, but labor union - education is facing in the coming years. The answer cannot be to fire the public's imagination. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show.

J. D. Hile

Holiday Cheer Was Missing

Holidays can be the most depressing time of the year, especially Christmas when old friends come home. It's then we find how much things have changed and that the "good old days" are gone for good. Those were the type of guys who stuck up for the nation. Wottle expressed his remorse and protested his decision at the ceremony, he forgot to remove his cap. The words to the song were inspired by the British assault on the Chesapeake Bay and watched and rehearsed the two-day shelling of the fort.

In 1929, Ripley's Believe It or Not featured a story about the anthem, but labor union association, but labor union - education is facing in the coming years. The answer cannot be to fire the public's imagination. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show.

J. D. Hile

Holiday Cheer Was Missing

Holidays can be the most depressing time of the year, especially Christmas when old friends come home. It's then we find how much things have changed and that the "good old days" are gone for good. Those were the type of guys who stuck up for the nation. Wottle expressed his remorse and protested his decision at the ceremony, he forgot to remove his cap. The words to the song were inspired by the British assault on the Chesapeake Bay and watched and rehearsed the two-day shelling of the fort.

In 1929, Ripley's Believe It or Not featured a story about the anthem, but labor union association, but labor union - education is facing in the coming years. The answer cannot be to fire the public's imagination. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show.

J. D. Hile

Holiday Cheer Was Missing

Holidays can be the most depressing time of the year, especially Christmas when old friends come home. It's then we find how much things have changed and that the "good old days" are gone for good. Those were the type of guys who stuck up for the nation. Wottle expressed his remorse and protested his decision at the ceremony, he forgot to remove his cap. The words to the song were inspired by the British assault on the Chesapeake Bay and watched and rehearsed the two-day shelling of the fort.

In 1929, Ripley's Believe It or Not featured a story about the anthem, but labor union association, but labor union - education is facing in the coming years. The answer cannot be to fire the public's imagination. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show. The administration or the star of the show.
Groups Turn To Nostalgia

In the past few months, rock has started on a road back to its roots and early days. This can probably be attributed to the lack of any prime mover like the Beatles were in the 60s.

With the release of the second "Hot Rocks" oldies album, the Rolling Stones have reconfirmed their first hit, Raspberries have become a hit and the Beatles seem to be their second gold record in a row... With the current trend toward the basics of rock going strong, it will be interesting to see what direction music will take during the course of the year. One thing is for sure - the supergroups have nowhere to go but up.

Elton John has burst onto the charts with his rocking, doo-wopping "Crocodile Rock." With their absolutely flawless arrangement, the team of John and Bernie Taupin have resurrected the soul of Del Shannon on the airwaves... Despite their almost total lack of direction, Paul McCartney and Wings have created a hollow arrangement, the team of John Lennon and Wings have created a hollow arrangement. The Beatles seams to indicate they were followers rather than innovators.

Dr. Jerome Rockwood, speech and theater professor, thus explained the idea behind "Patches," the independent study project sponsored by the speech and theater department which will be staged Feb. 8, 9 and 10 at studio theater.

"The new degree will simply save a lot of explanation." The music department's curriculum has already been accredited as a professional program by the National Association of Schools of Music.

Mintz stated that he does not know when the board will respond to the format request.

Bill Gibson

"The Mustache" Is Here!

CLINTON THEATER
(corners of Main & Clinton Aves.)
Dustin Hoffman as
THE GRADUATE
plus
WHERE'S POPPA
starring George Segal

NOW SHOWING!

PARK THEATRE
265 BLOOMFIELD AVE., CALDWELL
226-0670

REJECTION

STARTS JAN. 31!

asto BROTHERS HITS!

HORSESFEATHERS
MONKEY BUSINESS

THE GRADUATE

A WAREHOUSE FULL OF SURPLUS

ANAL STREET COMES TO CLIFTON

20,000 lbs of plexiglass - 40c lb.

THOUSANDS OF ITEMS YOU'VE NEVER SEEN BEFORE

THE GRADUATE

INTL. SERVICES
Pine Inc.
265 Bloomfield Avenue
Caldwell, New Jersey

COMPULSORY cycle insurance in New Jersey! Please send me an application showing your unique package plans and

"STAR OR NOVELTY?"

"What Can You Do With A Four Minute Play?"

"Over the years I've run over a lot of little pieces, like a four minute play by Harold Pinter... What can you do with a four minute play?"

"Well, you can get many little plays, patch them together and make an evening out of it."

Dr. Jerome Rockwood, being a collection of 30 short plays ranging in time from 30 seconds to 18 minutes. The students are performing the works of such playwrights as Harold Pinter, John Guare, Jules Pfeiffer and Jerome Cas.
Squaws Slay St. Pete

If last year's 10-1 regular season version of Montclair State women's basketball team was considered good, this year's might be even better, warns coach Cathy Paskert. The squaws started out on the right foot by scoring more than twice as many points as St. Peter's College, as they won their first game of the season on Wed., Jan. 17 (67-31).

Paskert has her reasons for being so optimistic. One of them is the loss of only two players through graduation. The other is an experienced squad, headed by captain Debbie Schoen, the team's lone senior.

In Case You Missed It...

MEN'S BASKETBALL
MSC 53, Fairleigh Dickinson-Madison 49 (Christmas Tournament)
C.W. Post 61, MSC 59 (Christmas Tournament, championship game)
MSC 78, Jersey City State 71
MSC 70, Calvin College 62
Pace College 47, MSC 46
MSC 61, Glassboro State 46
East Stroudsburg State 79, MSC 73
Record: 7-6

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
MSC 67, St. Peter's College 31
Record: 10-1

WRESTLING
MSC at Long Island University, postponed until Wed., Feb. 14, 7 pm
Record: 3-6-2

MEN'S FENCING
MSC 10, Pace 11
MSC 17, Jersey City State 10
John Hopkins 19, MSC 8
U.S. Military Academy 21, MSC 6
Record: 3-2

WOMEN'S FENCING
MSC 13, Alumni 12
Record: 2-0

Fencers Trip
Montclair State's women's fencing team kept their foils sharp on Mon., Jan. 15, when they edged a group of alumni fencers, 13-12. The Squaws are coming off victories against Caldwell College and City College of New York, but their schedule has hit a lull. The action picks up again in February when they face Alumni, 13-12

Trenton State and Buffalo on the ninth.

This squad is lead by Nancy Murray who is ranked 10th in the state. MSC has increased experience this year with the return of Mary Caprio and Julie Loverage and the addition of transfer student Mary Lou Caffara from Trenton State.

MANNING (OR womanning, if you will) the posts will be junior Mary Hayek, and JoEllen Bistromowitz, a language major on a squad of physical education majors. The starting guards are junior Anna Malnyk and sophomore JoAnne LaVergna.

The Squaws next opponent will be Central Connecticut State, a newcomer to their schedule. The team travels north on Saturday for the 1 pm contest before their next home game, Thursday at 6 pm against Brooklyn College.

Diamond Squad Meeting Set

A meeting for all baseball team candidates for the 1973 season will be held on Fri., Feb. 9, from 3:30 to 4:30 pm in room 10 of Panzer Gym.

This first meeting is open to both varsity and freshman candidates. Those attending are requested to bring a pencil.

MOSC Soccer Sweethearts

The soccer team is hoping to establish a squad of female assistants to help with scorekeeping, timekeeping and other chores at home games. Those interested can apply at the MONTCLARION sports desk or leave their name in the sports mailbox.

Weiss to Run in Millrose Games

The thermometer may say that it's a little nippy out for hot pants, but for Montclair State's fleet-of-foot, the track season is in full swing, just moved indoors to warmer quarters.

Senior Greg Weiss placed third in the invitational 600 at the Knights of Columbus Games which were held Sat., Jan 13 at the Nassau Coliseum on Long Island.

THE INDIANS will also be represented at the Millrose Games tomorrow at Madison Square Garden. Weiss was invited to participate in the half-mile event. In addition MSC will be sending a team of four to run the handicap mile relay.

Coach George Horn will choose the squad from Jim Migliorini, Rich Gan, Billy Terrell, cross country co-captain Bill Lowing and Mike Senate.

Horn will also be sending a contingent of runners to the New Jersey Collegiate Championships in Princeton on Saturday.

The Paperback Book Shop

The Students Store
All Outline Series in Stock
Barnes & Noble, Monarch, Barron's, Schaum's, Littlefield Adams, Cliff Notes, College Notes, "1,000 paperback titles in stock"

Special orders taken for students
580 Bloomfield Ave. Bloomfield, NJ
743-7470

Part Time
afternoon and Saturday
Montclair - Nutley
Bloomfield
Man or woman in each area to supervise our carrier boys. Will train qualified person for position. Salary & car allowance incentive bonus.

for information call 777-6000, ext. 3623
ask for Mr. Michael Gordon

Diamond Engagement & Wedding Rings. 3,000 ring selection In all styles at 50%

Saahjosh, Barrett, Unger, Neubauer, R. B. S. Collins, etc.

DIAMOND ENGAGEMENT & WEDDING RINGS. 3,000 ring selection In all styles at 50%

WE ARE GIVING AWAY FREE GIFTS
So Bring Friends!!

Maharaja GIFTS LTD

GRAND OPENING
of Maharaja GIFTS LTD
UNIQUE DRESSES AND EXCLUSIVE GIFT ITEMS FROM INDIA AND THE ORIENT
Brassware • Handicraft • Jewelry
Carved Tables and Inlaid & Incense
Sarwa • Scarves and Handmade
100% Leather Bags, etc.
Also inquire about Kanto's custom Orient dressmaking & alterations

WE ARE GIVING AWAY FREE GIFTS
So Bring Friends!!

Maharaja GIFTS
AT 32 SOUTH AND 5TH STREET
Montclair, N.J. 07042
The East India House

You have to visit us to believe us!

You have to visit us to believe us!

Montclair Photo by Alice Galofaro

When they finally arose, what they saw should’ve been enough to cause a relapse of their unconscious state.

Sports Writer

DECEMBER 14: The Indians encountered this dreaded defense twice at home this past week, defeating Glassboro State, 61-46, Tuesday night and losing to East Stroudsburg State, 79-73, Saturday night.

IN TUESDAY'S thriller, The Tribe almost didn’t pull it off. But a tremendous second half effort which saw them spring back from as much as a 16-point deficit in the first half did the trick.

Glassboro’s tight, collapsing zone sealed up the middle, preventing any inside penetration. The Indians were forced to shoot from the outside with far from incredible accuracy.

Fred MacAuley. Glassboro’s Dom Hughes and Chuck Holland with 10 of the 14) while the Profs had nightmares about zone that nipped them recently in Trenton as well as a 3-2 league mark.

But a tremendous second half effort which saw them spring back from as much as a 16-point deficit in the first half did the trick.

The Indians never did see the better half of the score in the remaining 19 minutes and 18 seconds. What they did see was themselves fall behind by 16 points after Glassboro’s Bruce Wilson hit a jumper with 7:55 to play. Glassboro’s John McGorkle made the score, 48-44, with a quick jumper but the game was as good as over. Give the Indians an inch and they take a mile. They also took the game.

COACH OLLIE Gelston summarized: “Our trouble is that we can never put two good halves together. Against Trenton and Pace we played great in the second half, but, like tonight, our first halves were horrendous. Our defense kept us in the game tonight. If we could play more consistently on offense, we’d have some ball club,” he concluded.

In Saturday night’s contest, the Indians played more consistently. Both halves were equally bad.

The Warriors came out in a 2-3 zone, remaining with it throughout the game. It seems to be a well known fact that breaking up a zone isn’t one of the Indians’ strong points.

MSC’s overall record is now 7-5. The Glassboro triumph gives them a 3-2 league mark.

ONE, TWO, THREE - KICK! MSC’s Larry Hughes (center) gets off an off-balance shot while executing an extra maneuver that brings to mind the Rockettes at Radio City. The effort went for naught, however, as East Stroudsburg State clouted the Indians last Saturday, 79-73.

MSC managed to fight back to within eight when the half ended with the score, 37-29.

When the game resumed, the Indians suddenly became hotter from the outside while their opponents’ shooting would’ve given a polar bear frothsome.

WITH 16:39 left in the game, Glassboro’s Wilson put in a layup, making the score, 43-34, the Profs still ahead. From that point on, you could almost swear MSC was playing the game by themselves. In the 12:35 that followed, they broke loose with a string of 14 points (Larry Hughes and Chuck Holland with 10 of the 14) while the Profs went into a collective coma. When they finally arose, what they saw should’ve been enough to cause a relapse of their unconscious state.

Somewhere they were trailing by six, 48-42, with only 4:44 to play. Glassboro’s John McGorkle made the score, 48-44, with a quick jumper but the game was as good as over. Give the Indians an inch and they take a mile. They also took the game.

Indians Come Up Losers

Warriors Down Cagers, 79-73

By Joe Cartronova

Sports Writer

The Indians never did see the better half of the score in the remaining 19 minutes and 18 seconds. What they did see was themselves fall behind by 16 points after Glassboro’s Bruce Wilson hit a jumper with 7:55 to play. Glassboro’s John McGorkle made the score, 48-44, with a quick jumper but the game was as good as over. Give the Indians an inch and they take a mile. They also took the game.

COACH OLLIE Gelston summarized: “Our trouble is that we can never put two good halves together. Against Trenton and Pace we played great in the second half, but, like tonight, our first halves were horrendous. Our defense kept us in the game tonight. If we could play more consistently on offense, we’d have some ball club,” he concluded.

In Saturday night’s contest, the Indians played more consistently. Both halves were equally bad.

The Warriors came out in a 2-3 zone, remaining with it throughout the game. It seems to be a well known fact that breaking up a zone isn’t one of the Indians’ strong points.

MSC’s overall record is now 7-5. The Glassboro triumph gives them a 3-2 league mark.