Jose Linares, its SGA president, was reinstated Monday night after a college staff writers demonstrated in support of Linares.

The boycott touched off a three week boycott of the school and reopened conflicts between Puerto Rican and Cuban members of the school.

Last weekend, a group of approximately 100 student demonstrators in support of Linares,
Dr. Eduardo Sanchez, Cuban co-director of the college, repeated a previous statement that Linares hadn't entered the classes to obtain information needed by Dr. Ernest Watson, dean of the School of Education and Community Services.

Following the class, Linares was involved in a fight with a Puerto Rican student. A Cuban professor then intervened in the scuffle. Sanchez complained that no action was taken against the Puerto Rican student involved.

Several days earlier, a student was charged with some misconduct and a decision was made not to suspend him until a hearing was held.

"All we want is justice," said Rafael Laara, a Cuban student. This belief was echoed by students present at the demonstration who maintained that Linares should not have been suspended for a period of three weeks without a trial. "Return Linares and we'll return to class," he stated.

Opposing this, Puerto Rican students have asked that Linares be expelled and that the professor involved be fired. Ina Robles, a Puerto Rican student, explained that the complaint of the Puerto Rican students was that Linares was continually disrupting class and that this recent incident was one of many.

Robles stated that Watson had sent a letter to the faculty saying that students should not interrupt class without written permission. Linares, according to Robles, did not have permission to interupt the class and would not tell the students what the information was for.

"We, the Puerto Ricans, think that President Richardson was unjust in reinstating Linares and that he took discriminatory action," Robles stated. She protested the fact that no action was taken after recent Puerto Rican demonstrations but that a hearing was held after the Cubans demonstrated.

Richardson explained that a hearing was held "as soon as it was possible to get all of the principal parties together." He said that it was a regular college hearing by three faculty members and two students into the length of Linares suspension. They recommended that the three weeks of his suspension was enough and that he be reinstated.

None of the faculty members or students were members of the Weekend college.

Poll Supports Innovative Session

A "representative" student/faculty poll has expressed overwhelming support for a winter session calendar, according to James Richardson, executive assistant to MSC President Thomas H. Cottingham.

On the basis of that poll, Richardson will recommend a calendar with an innovative session to the college Board of Trustees, Cottingham said. Approval by the board would then be almost routine, he explained.

THE NEWLY-PROPOSED calendar won solid support despite the fact that students will be charged extra for the session. The calendar also extends the school year to June 3, with a June 9 graduation.

The College Calendar Committee had originally submitted a proposal which eliminated the winter session. However, this was met with strong faculty opposition, prompting Richardson to ask the committee to draft a second calendar which included a winter session.

The committee ran into difficulties creating one calendar which would please most members of the College community. It presented Richardson with both a newly-drafted winter session calendar and the original proposal, saying "the college population's feelings be ascertained."

EARLIER RICHARDSON had said that a college-wide vote on a calendar would be "administratively unworkable." He instead pointed what was considered a representative section of the college population. Cottingham explained. Each faculty member was mailed a copy of the proposal and asked to indicate which he preferred. Copies were also distributed to the SSG legislators and Class One representatives at the SGA Goals Conference two weeks ago.

According to Cottingham, the 200 faculty members who cast 60%+ of the total votes for the winter session calendar two to one. Students were in favor of that calendar ten to one.

The winter session calendar is in a new year calendar, following the committee's suggestion that "plans for the following year's calendar 1974-75 may have to await the fate of the Winter Session." Students must pay $20 per credit for next year's winter session courses. Faculty members who work during the session will be paid on an overload basis.

A Liquor License And Good Behavior

Can't Have One Without The Other

By Vincent Bianco
Staff Writer

The behavior of Montclair State students at Carnival may be the deciding factor in the decision of the Little Falls town council regarding the granting of a liquor license to the Student Center rathskellar. According to Little Falls Mayor James Capalbo, in order to be able to serve liquor in the rathskellar, the Center must obtain a club license. Little Falls currently has a law limiting the number of club licenses to two. The American Legion currently holds both of those licenses and an effort is being made to amend the law to increase the number of licenses.

LIQUOR WILL be served at Carnival by some of the participating organizations. Capalbo stressed that any problems that arise in connection with the consumption of the alcoholic beverages may jeopardize the granting of the license.

Capalbo stated that he is personally opposed to the license because of zoning laws that prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages within a certain distance of schools and other public buildings. He added, however, that the idea would be workable with certain restrictions.

"I think that it's unfortunate that the students at Carnival, where restrictions are a lot more difficult to control, should be a basis for the decision," stated Michael Lowenthal, Student Center Director. "But the town does have its prerogatives, however, he continued. "We can only ask the groups involved to work closely together to insure proper conduct."

CARMELLA MARINO, Carnival co-chairman stated that the booths can be closed if any difficulties arise.

According to Lowenthal, meetings between school and town officials have resulted in an expected date of receiving of the license "60 days from the beginning of March," he said.

"The actual construction is just about complete and all that we're waiting for now is the furniture and bar equipment," Lowenthal explained. UNLIKE a liquor license which allows package goods to be sold, a club license would permit the on-premises consumption of beer and wine by members of the Student-Faculty Co-Op and guests of that organization.

Perspective Destruction Charged

The Student Center has been billed $500 by the Council on International and National Affairs (CINA) for approximately 500 issues of Perspective which were discarded by the building's student maintenance crew.

The copies of Perspective, CINA's political opinion magazine, had been placed in the third floor lounge on March 23, 24, 26 and 27.

In a letter to Michael Lowenthal, Student Center director, Joe Baracco, chairman of CINA, charged that the magazines were "destroyed by the Student Center (maintenance staff)." He also claimed that the staff of the magazine were "scattered around the lounge area," including on the floor. He said that the crew's job is to "keep things neat and straighten out."

Center maintenance director Dave Cornelisse defended his crew. He said the magazines were "scattered around the lounge area, including on the floor. He said that the crew's job is to "keep things neat and straighten out."

He denied having given orders to "get rid of" the magazine and said he did not see the copies before they were discarded.

Lowenthal, who, Baracco admitted, knew nothing about the incident beforehand, echoed Cornelisse's sentiments. He said that the magazine's "were found in a state of disarray." He also commented that the magazines should have been left at the information desk. He commented that the maintenance staff were "doing their jobs."

BARRACCO CONTENDED that Student Center policy only prohibits the scattering of magazines and that the magazines were distributed at the information desk. He said that there was "a clear difference between a handbill and a magazine." Baracco also claims that the magazines were left nearby, stacked on tables in the lounge. Lowenthal submitted Baracco's letter to the Student Center policy board for consideration at its meeting last night. The board's recommendation on whether or not to make payment was not known when the MONTCLAIRON went to press.

Free, confidential testing for venereal disease will be conducted in the campus Health Center, Rusk Hall, today from 6-10 pm and tomorrow afternoon, 1-4 pm. The testing for syphilis and gonorrhea is open to any person who wishes to take advantage of it. It is not limited to members of the MSC community nor is there a minimum age requirement.

Results may be obtained from the Verona Health Clinic five days after the test is administered. If the results are positive, treatment for both syphilis and gonorrhea is offered by the clinic and the campus Health Center. The Drop-In Center will also make referrals for outside treatment.

BY STATE law, all information about the tests will be kept completely confidential. Regardless of a student's age, his parents will not be notified.

The Drop-In Center is sponsoring the testing, through the efforts of Michael King, director, and Nancy Jardula, sex information chairwoman. Although campus facilities will be used, Verona Health Clinic personnel will actually administer the tests. They will be assisted by the NJ Department of Health staff.

King and Jardula pointed out that venereal disease is the most communicable in the US. If not treated, or treated improperly, they warned, it can lead to blindness, insanity, sterility, heart trouble, or other forms of permanent disability. Untreated syphilis can kill, they noted.

ONCE DETECTED, venereal disease can be easily cured with penicillin, usually in one treatment. King and Jardula explained. However, King emphasized, "VD won't go away by itself or cure itself."
Application Drop Risks Future Growth

By Patricia Mercorrelli
Staff Writer

Plans for future state college growth may be altered if last fall's significant drop in applications to these colleges continues, according to Robert Bimbaum, vice-chairman of the Board of Higher Education. No cutbacks are scheduled at the present time, however, he said.

Many college administrators attribute the drop to the abolition of the draft, the expense of an education or to student apathy. Bimbaum, however, believes that the students are now submitting fewer applications to different colleges causing a decrease in the number of applications that each college receives.

In spite of the application drop, Bimbaum emphasized that actual enrollment has not been affected. The state colleges have always had more applicants than spaces. In fact, he continued, that state colleges have had a slight increase in enrollment. Next year's enrollment situation, he said, is "unclear at the moment."

Monclair State is the only state college which has had an increase in applications over last year. Most of those applications, however, have been received in the last two weeks, according to a spokesman for the Admissions Office.

The spokesman said the influx of applications was so sudden that the deadline was unofficially extended from Feb. 1 to Feb. 25 to handle the overload. There has been an increase of approximately 300 applications over last year.

RUTGERS/NEWARK has experienced a significant drop in applications, according to Delor Jones, public relations officer. One explanation for the decrease, Jones commented, was that since Rutgers/Newark is an urban campus, "the problem of convincing people that they will be safe in Newark is one that constantly plagues us."

NEWARK STATE College has had an 11% decrease in applications, stated James Wilson of the Admissions Office. "The largest drop off is in transfers, with a relatively insignificant decrease in freshmen applicants," he said. The largest decrease has been in the elementary education department, though he felt this was partly the result of "the school spreading the word around" that the education field was flooded with teachers.

Wilson stated there is "no motivation for students to get a degree" since they can often get a better job without it. He also felt community colleges were causing a drain on four year institutions.

Alfred Bridges, assistant director of admissions at Jersey City State College, which has a drop of 400 applications, echoes this sentiment. He commented that "students are giving second importance to a college education in view of the economic situation."

Began with a fund raising drive in the late 1940's. As of 1957, all pledges had been honored. Student activity contributed about $40,000 of the $512,000 raised.

Students also contributed to the maintenance of the building through the War Memorial Fund, an added student fee of $2, until the college assumed the cost of maintenance in 1971. Unused revenue from the Fund was plowed into the new Student Center. The $2 fee continues and is utilized for unspecified purposes by the SGA.

Though the state did not contribute money to the project, it was built on state land and, according to Vincent Calabrese, vice president for business and finance, is state owned. To the claim that students partly own the building in theory, if not in law Calabrese stated, "We are one college and facilities will be apportioned on a priority basis." He continued that the line of thinking implied in the question would restrict student use of buildings they had not paid for.

The Student Center is not subject to administrative use unlike Life Hall, because the state donated the land for student use only, said Calabrese.

Am I mistaken or was Life Hall paid for by students in much the same way we are paying for the Student Center? If not, why is it now almost completely an administrative building? (no initials)

Some Logic Is Needed

The use of Carnival as a "testing ground" for an MSC liquor license is illogical and an insult to Montclair State students.

If the Student Center rathskeller was granted a liquor license, entrance to the restaurant would be restricted to MSC students with identification and their guests. There are even plans to limit the number of guests allowed in on one card.

Carnival is an open function. Anyone is allowed to attend and many outsiders will probably come on campus and buy the liquor. Carnival and the rathskeller are totally different operations. They are not comparable and one cannot just throw in the testing ground for another.

It is all too apparent that although in the eyes of the law, the vast majority of MSC students are adults--in the eyes of Little Falls, we are children. Students can exercise their rights in this matter by attending the biweekly meetings of the Little Falls town council and expressing their emotions.

MSC is a community of thousands of people and has as much right as any other community to have a bar. By going to a festival-smelling people's breath and making sure that they walk straight, Little Falls officials will receive no indication of student behavior in a bar/restaurant.

Press Shield Law Dented

By Carol Giandomeno

Serving the College Community Since 1928

The court of his work to a grand jury in Essex County a few weeks ago, New Jersey Governor William T. Cahill vetoed a "press shield" bill that would have granted reporters immunity from giving such testimony.

Cahill's position is that such a law would amount to granting reporters special privilege, not for the public, but for other citizens. Yet certain groups of other professionals, most prominently lawyers and priests, are permitted to have legally respected, confidential relationships with those seeking their help. Strongly enough it was the state Bar Association, whose members are among the legally privileged, which sought to secure the bill's defeat.

The sponsor of the bill, State Sen. James Wallenlock (R-Excs), considers the association's position to be reeking of vengeance against the efforts of the press to publicize excessively high fees charged by lawyers. Hopefully, Cahill's veto was not a gesture of paranoia against the press, but an attempt to maintain the balance in the limited space of a newspaper or the limited time allotment of a news broadcast. But major news is not withheld.

When the shield is unavowed, a conscientious journalist will report it, not hide it completely within himself as Cahill seems to imply. Immunity from testifying before grand juries and other law enforcement agencies will not prevent the dissemination of news by reporters.

Hang On, Consumers!

This week's nation-wide boycott of meat to lower the outrageous prices consumers are forced to pay has involved a good portion of the American public. This is evidenced by the sharp drop in the sales of meat at the corner supermarket and the local deli.

The only way for the boycott to be successful, however, is for the public unites behind the cause and wholeheartedly abstains from eating beef, pork and poultry steadily and not just when it is convenient.

It seems to be an American tradition to throw body and soul behind a cause with great enthusiasm, but like a young child, the public has a short attention span. Next week, the boycott will be but a memory and we'll be right back where we started from (witness the ecology and pollution fads). Why just run a boycott for a week? Why not a month? Or six months? Surely the entire business of meat marketing is not going to fall apart from a little pinch in the course of his work to a grand jury in Essex County.

Education Lost Classical Core

The question has arisen as to what is quality education. It is a very important question and the lack of discussion about it here at MSC is unbelievable. Unfortunately, this is the inevitable result of the intellectual stagnation that has set in with the ascendency of blindmen on campus to its present position as the reigning academic and intellectual orthodoxy.

I think I recognize many of the current trends in education and how they relate to the present state of the Zeitgeist. I merely wish to register a disapproval of the basic concept.

The essential purpose of education is not to teach students about current affairs. It is not to "examine" only those things which students feel like studying. It is not to cater to students' emotional or psychological needs and desires. The purpose is not to "offer courses...that the student can relate to himself..." and society. (If I take that to mean "the new religions, neo-racism, women in society, community organizing and other contemporary issues."

The purpose also is not, by definition, some one or other methodological approach to learning. "Active student participation" in the learning process may or may not lead to quality education. It depends on the aim, the ends-and means are not ends.

The aims of education are to forward knowledge and right conduct. The educated man, as Russell Kirk has said, is the man who has come to learn how to apprehend eternal norms by intellectual means. He has come to learn the right conduct and is why one should conduct oneself rightly. He understands the rational basis for such conduct. It is the function of our educational institutions to pass on the proven knowledge that mankind has acquired over the centuries. It is to pass on those truths that have been discovered and to endow students with the knowledge of the processes by which they are recognized as such.

There are too many students walking around these days who think they can be "educated" by concentrating all their time in community relations and poising a knowledge of the past that simply stops somewhere around 1950. This is preposterous.

The educated man should be schooled in the classics, in the great works of art, of literature and of philosophy and of religion. He should have an understanding of the fundamental principles of mankind has acquired over the centuries. It is to pass on those truths that have been discovered and to endow students with the knowledge of the processes by which they are recognized as such.

East Coast’s In For Quick Getaway

It seems wintering on the Continent or summering at Antibes has lost favor with The Smart Set. The latest thing is to jet off to Garmisch—or someplace equally kicker—for the weekend.

There are several good reasons for taking off on two day jaunts. It’s not necessary to put the furniture in storage. The boat can take care of the Russian wolfhounds. And, although it shouldn’t become common talk, it is possible to get along without Broadway for two days.

As it seems dreadfully tiresome to fly all the way to Ibiza for the weekend, there are a few spots on the East Coast worth missing Friday nights at “21” or “99.”

In Boston, pigeon feeding is allowed on the Commons but keep in mind that one is either Harvard or Yale.

For basic city people, Washington heads the weekender list. The Washington Monument and Capitol notwithstanding, Washington has added some new attractions to the sightseeing tours in recent months. On the way to the Kennedy Center for a theatrical evening, some tourists stop next door to gaze at the Watergate Apartments, site of the infamous Democratic headquarters bugging. Equally popular is the Washington Post building which is serving as a rather plush doghouse while the paper is out of favor with the Nixon Administration.

Student Flies the Friendly Skies

Truck drivers, sales clerks, construction workers, secretaries, models and Playboy Bunnies are some of the part-time jobs that MSC students have held while attending classes. Now an airline stewardess can be added to the list. For Marie Nuvioce, a 21-year-old junior majoring in home economics, is Eastern Airlines' only part-time stewardess.

Marie has been flying for two and a half years and has travelled the "Caribbean" route, including the Virgin Islands, the Bahamas and Puerto Rico as well as Georgia, South Carolina and Florida.

This year, her route is Puerto Rico and she has arranged her school schedule so that she can fly on Mondays and Fridays while attending classes on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. "I usually leave Newark airport at 8 am and arrive back at 6 pm," the slender, brown-eyed junior claimed. "It's not enjoyable but I receive $72 a flight which is more than I would get doing anything else."

Upon graduating from Nutley High School, Marie began working as a secretary at Essex Catholic High School in Newark while attending MSC at night. "One day a friend asked me to take her to the airport for an interview as a stewardess," Marie recalled. "The personnel manager wanted to speak with me also and I was accepted without even planning on it."

Consequently, Marie quit her secretarial job, trained as a stewardess, worked as a reservation clerk in Newark Airport for several months and then started flying. "There was some delay in letting me fly because I was only 18 at the time and the age limit was 21," Marie revealed, "but my father does business with the airlines and I was finally allowed.

Shortly afterwards, Marie also decided that she wanted to attend MSC full-time to complete her education. Again, the airlines conceded and allowed her to remain on a part-time basis. "I was really grateful because I love the work," she stated enthusiastically. "Even though I'm on the same route there are always new faces and different people to meet on every flight. So many people are so talkative and interesting that you can't help but enjoy them."

Businessmen, fortune tellers and self-professed psychics have been some of Marie's more memorable passengers as well as several celebrities. She described Bobby Vinton as a "friendly guy" who invited the stewardesses to his show in San Juan and Elvis Presley as personable and "very good looking." Dean Martin, however, was "too made up" according to Marie.

"As an Aries, action is my key word," said Marie, a self-professed "astrology nut." "I love to keep busy doing different things."

An Exciting Way to Learn

Can you really be a student and tour Europe? Howie Scholer, a senior at MSC, is proof that it is possible and being a student can even be an advantage.

Howie took part in MSC's semester abroad program in Denmark. He attended the University of Copenhagen during the Spring of 1972 and stayed on in Europe for a total of seven months. During this time, Howie visited 19 countries, some of which include: Norway, Sweden, Finland, Scotland, Greece, Spain, Italy, Austria, Yugoslavia, England, France, East and West Germany, Israel and Russia.

While studying at the university, Howie lived with a Danish family. He felt that this was a worthwhile experience since he was able to meet and mingle with so many native Danish people. Howie explained that living with the people, as well as his travelling, was an important part of his education there. Also during this time, Howie took advantage of several travel agencies in Denmark. Those that were open to anyone were called "Spies" and "Ne Here." These agencies provided inexpensive package deals, which included jet fare, hotel and meals. Travelling in this way, Howie spent a week on the Riviera and Majorca, a week in England and a week in Israel. As a student, Howie was able to use the services of the university's travel agency, "DIS." Through this agency he visited Finland and spent two weeks in Russia.

After his studies were finished in Denmark, Howie decided to continue travelling in Europe. From May until August of 1972 he visited the remainder of the 19 countries by travelling on Europe's trains with an Internal Pass available at special student rates. This pass is the European version of the Eurail Pass available through the US. Howie explained that he did most of his travelling at night so that he could use the train as a place to sleep. He also commented on another type of resting place called "Pensions" which are modest type hotels, considered one step above the hostels and where the European traveller usually stays.

Since hostels are usually occupied by Americans, Howie found the pensions a good place to get to know the European people.

In his seven months in Europe, Howie learned about other people as well as from them. He studied in a Danish university, lived with a Danish family and travelled through 19 countries, meeting new experiences and people all the time.

The Power Behind the College

The MSC Board of Trustees, like other Boards of Trustees throughout the state, was created by the Higher Education Act of 1966. In December 1967, its members were appointed and in January 1968, the first meeting was held, according to James W. Cottingham, executive assistant to MSC President Thomas H. Richardson. A bill, known as the "Autonomy Bill," was adopted in 1969. The bill gave additional independence to colleges from the centralized office of Higher Education in Trenton. The bill also added the president of the college as a non-voting member of the board.

Cottingham stated that there are a number of committees on the board that handle specific areas. However, the president's assistant commentated that the board "primarily functions as a whole."

"Originally," he said, "the committees were strictly board members but as a result of the Presidential Search Committee, in which students and faculty are in the committee, the board plans to include students and faculty in those committees."

The main purpose of the committees, according to Cottingham, is to act as advisor to the board, which makes the final decisions.

"The single most important thing that the board does is the appointing of a new college president," he said.

Cottingham commented that the Presidential Search Committee is meeting one to three times per week, stressing the importance of the appointment of a new president for the college.

The executive committee of the board, according to Cottingham, is composed of three board members who act as chairman, vice-chairman and secretary.

EMPOWERED

"This committee is empowered to take action during the interims between Board of Trustee meetings, they can approve anything," he said.

Cottingham remarked that the board tries to get all the members in on any decision. If a board member cannot attend a meeting he or she can leave a vote by proxy, he stated.

"The board also has had telephone polls or telephone conference calls in which all nine members of the board are on the same line at one time, which has happened once or twice," he said.

For any resolution to be acted upon, "there must be a quorum, a majority of board members present," Cottingham said, "and at least two members of the executive committee," he added.

The board primarily makes decisions on policy questions, according to Cottingham. He also stated that most of the decisions that the board makes are "unanimous," with the exception of personnel actions, such as tenure and promotion, on which the board has a minor split.

Cottingham stated that many of the board's decisions are "compromise solutions which result in the board's harmonious relationship."

OPEN MEETINGS

All members of the college community are welcome to attend the public meetings that the board holds, he noted.

Cottingham labelled some of the public meetings as "formal recognitions" of a decision reached in a closed session, such as tenure.

The attendance at the public meetings, according to Cottingham, varies from five guests to about 250, when an issue of great importance to the college is discussed.

He gave the example of Race Relations Day, held at this college on Dec. 7, 1972. "On one day's notice, 400 to 500 students came down to discuss race relations," he related.

"At the end of a public meeting such as that, no one will disagree that anything, but action cannot be taken immediately because the board first finds out what the story is and looks into it," the president's assistant said.

Cottingham stated that faculty and student participation at a public meeting is approximately by the board. "The president of the college is an employee of the Board of Trustees," he said, "they have voting power over him, he cannot veto any of their decisions," he concluded.

To The Editor:

Next month marks the 30th anniversary of the uprising of Jews of the Warsaw Ghetto on Passover 1943 against Hitler's murderers.

Jews throughout the world are planning to commemorate that day for the six million Jews murdered by the Nazis. The slogan for the commemoration is a single word — Remembrance.

Our Jewish Student Union has urged President Richardson to take the lead in featuring a Day of Remembrance at Montclair State College for these millions of Jewish victims. We have urged him to declare a Day of Remembrance along the lines of our recent Jewish Student Relations Day, during which students may be excused from classes to attend discussions on the Nazi deathcamp holocaust.

Although the actual anniversary of the uprising is April 19 (which falls on our spring recess), groups are commemorating the day at various times in April. We have suggested which falls on the week before Passover this year. JSU has already made plans to hold its annual Passover Model Seder at 6:30 pm on that date.

To the Editor:

In response to the MONTCLARION's misconception of graduation, we feel that the truth should be printed. To quote the paper, "this year it seems no one knows exactly what's happening," it is obvious that the only one who doesn't know what's happening is the MONTCLARION. The senior class officers met with President Richardson back in December of last year and asked them to submit recommendations as to who the class would like to have as a graduation speaker. This list was hand in at our second meeting with the President in early February. Since that time, I have held four meetings with members of the college administration. At my last meeting with Mr. Edward Martin, who is in charge of graduation, he said that we are way ahead of schedule.

In regards to the Alumni Association, we immensely dislike being seconded of not nominated for the call to Mrs. Diane Carlson (executive secretary of Alumni Association). We are considering their suggestion at this time and will contact them as soon as a decision has been made.

As for Kurt Waldheim (UN Secretary General), he is not one of our recommendations as a graduation speaker. I would like to know where the MONTCLARION receives their information or, more truthfully, their misinformation. Concerning the statement that "there won't be any graduation speaker," it is President Richardson's responsibility to contact the four remaining names on our list. I'm sure he is moving as quickly as possible.

To the Editor:

I write to correct an impression that was given in the March 29 issue of the MONTCLARION. In an article discussing senior class activities, the impression was given that the senior class officers and the Alumni Association are at odds. Quite the contrary is true. The alumni office is actively planning a project to honor the seniors and have the full cooperation of Ed Martin (assistant dean of students) and Larry Bishop (senior class president), in the venture.

Theatrical Revue Lampoons Suicidal Society

By Wes Dvorak

"Lemmings," a wild and wacky theatrical collage brought to you by the publishers of National Lampoon, is madcaply playing at The Village Gate.

"Lemmings" is a kind of animated version of the magazine, retaining the darkest satire and blackest humor. The loosely-held theme of the show is death, particularly mass suicide. Mass suicide is what lemmings are about. For once Webster has defined a word beautifully־"Lemming's inglorious army of small, furry-footed rodents of circumpolar distribution that are notable for the recurrent mass migrations of a European form which often continues into the sea where vast numbers are drowned."

The play is saying that our generation is being killed and much worse is to come next and the six actor cast encourages deathly mayhem.

Parodies of the big rock names come next and the six actor cast displays its virtuosity. Credible imitations rap it to Joe Cocker, James Taylor, Mick Jagger (performed effectively by a female, a mean he landed on a jack-knife. The judge's cards score him 7, 5 and 6 on that one. The blue ballas donna is bad. Get into it!"

One skill poking parody at the rash of Jesus revivals such as "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Godspell," JC becomes "Jackie Christ" and delivers a plethora of corny one-liners in Jack E. Leonard voice and style. "My father went crazy, thought he was a prophet."

"Woodshuck" comes to the crucifixation, - Jackie makes fun of it and is SaulCrowe's unsuccessful operation, the removal of dead government butt of disparaging terms: deadbeat, deadweight. "The only living president is dead."

Other skits include a staged surgeon's unsuccessful operation, the return of the defeated POW and a lecture on the history of slapstick humor featuring unique variations on old gimmicks.

Though the entire cast distinguishes itself, particularly fine were John Belushi (who sings about half-dozeon laughs just by saying "Hey, man," as well), Christopher Guest (who credibly twangs Bob Dylan and James Taylor) and Alice Playton of Alka Seltzer "marshmallow meatball" fame (a tiny body, a huge voice).

The cost of "Lemmings" is $5.95 Tuesday through Thursday and $6.95 on weekends. Seats are not reserved.

Susan Mayrer, violin student of Dr. Jerome Landsman of Montclair State College, will present her senior recital on Mon., April 9 at 8 pm in McEachern Recital Hall. Pianist Albert Conti will assist the Cedar Grove artist in this program which is free and open to the public.

The program will open with Max Bruch's arrangement of the traditional Hebrew melody "Kol Nidrei," Henri Wieniawski's "Legenda," next on the program, is a programmatic piece by the Polish violinist-composer who wrote many virtuoso pieces mainly for the purpose of displaying the technical and expressive possibilities of the instrument. "Ciaccona" by the Baroque composer Tommaso Vitali will bring the first part of the program to a close.

Following intermission Mayrer will play Beethoven's "Sonata in C minor Op. 30, No. 7."

For the past year and a half Mayrer has been a music performance major at Montclair State College where she is a member of the student Honors Quartet and concertmistress of the MSC Symphony Orchestra.

'Child Of Woes'--
Projects Positive Image

By Carol Weeks
Staff Writer

Sondra Dean, the writer and director of the three act play, 'Child of Woes,' will be presented Sun., April 8 at 2 pm and 8 pm in Studio Theater IC-200. The cost will be $2.50.

The play is about a young man from an upper middle class black family, who wants to live in a ghetto to do research for a college term paper. The father, who is minister, strongly objects to his son getting any "exposure" to the ghetto because, "your mother and I worked so hard to spare you from it."

The play was written two years ago when Dean was a senior at Moorestown High School. According to Dean, she wrote the play in one day, inspired by a dream she had the day before. Ruby Marshall, one of her high school instructors, suggested that Dean produce the play as a community project to help their local church raise money to purchase pews. The play was well received and many local papers picked up the story including the Burlington County Times.

"I FEEL there is a negative attitude towards the blacks on campus," Dean said. "After a visit to the National Black Theatre in New York, I decided to show the play here to project a positive image. There are many talented black students attending MSC and their talents need to be exhibited."

"There were no public notices for auditions because I handpicked my cast after weeks of observation," Dean explained. "For instance, there are two gossipers in the play which are a natural. I watched them for days as they talked about he said, she said." Dean liked their speech patterns and expressions and offered them the part.

Many of the cast members are from various college departments. Deford Jones, who plays the father, is MSC's isn't dean of admissions.

The son, portrayed by Frank Lewis, is a senior in the speech and theater department. His father is played by Joni James, a sophomore, another theater major. The social worker is played by Robin Campbell, a freshman in the art department. The two gossipers are played by seniors Diane Walker and Willis Harris.

DEAN WILL assume the role of Kathy, a junior and eight year-old Terry Sennor is her child, Michal Bush, an ECP counselor, is in charge of costumes and Philip Thomas, a freshman, is the stage manager.

Dean explained there is no lead character in the play because everyone's role is important in order for the play to succeed.

Dean stated, "The message of the play is that upper middle class blacks should not look down on the blacks in the ghetto or the blacks on welfare. We are all in the same boat and the ghetto blacks cannot hide behind a closed door. Too many people make it and forget about their own." She continued, "I never want to forget. If I do I should be reminded, by any means necessary."

Dean is a sophomore speech and theater major. The play will be considered an independent project in Directing I. "My head is really into poetry more than playwriting, but I think exposing myself to all forms of theater can develop my talents," Dean concluded.

Sondra Dean
Writer and Director.

Laura Woodson, who plays the ghetto landlord, is a counselor in the fine and performing arts department.

The Montclair String Quartet will be joined by their colleague, violinist with his own school of violin in Padua. He is well-known for his innovations in violin playing, including the use of the lighter bow and thicker strings.

Thomas Wilt will join the Quartet in the second work on the program, Mozart's Quartet in C major for Flute and Strings, K. 631. This piece is one of four similar works composed in 1778 in which the flute assumes the first violin part. Containing a famous set of variations, the composition is a reworking by Mozart himself of one of his divertimentos for orchestra.

The ensemble will close the program with William Walton's Quartet composed by Jerome Landsman and Lida Todd, two gossipers in the play which are a natural. I watched them for days as they talked about he said, she said." Dean liked their speech patterns and expressions and offered them the part.

Many of the cast members are from various college departments. Deford Jones, who plays the father, is MSC's isn't dean of admissions.
Special Games at MSC

The NJ Special Games, a combination of the Special Olympics and the NJ Tournament of Special Champions, will conduct Northwest Regional competition at Montclair State College on May 12.

The programs and contests, geared for mentally and physically handicapped youngsters of eight years and older, will be held at the Panzer Gym complex. Both track and field events and swimming events are scheduled.

The PROGRAM, organized by the NJ Department of Community Affairs, hopes "to bring to the handicapped the opportunities and benefits resulting from self accomplishment."

The Special Olympics are a national program for mentally retarded children and adults established and funded by the Kennedy Foundation. Since the program's inception four years ago, competition has been held every two years; however, this will be the first year that MSC will host the event.

The Tournament of Special Champions is a new program presently operating on a state level for the physically handicapped. Those who are orthopedically handicapped (amputees, polio, etc.) are eligible.

MSC Record Holder

Jag Follows 'Shakey' Routine

By Kathy Blumenstock
Sports Writer

Mayo Olympic Mark Spitz doesn't drink milkshakes before a competition, but for Montclair State's super swimmer Diane Jaglowski it's an absolute ritual.

"In high school I had those Awful-Awfuls from Bond's," she recalled, "and I really thought the milkshakes helped me win. Now it's just a routine to have one before a meet."

FOR JAGLOWSKI, the brown-haired freshman who made such a splash for the Squaws during the '72-'73 season, all those strawberry soda fountain delights seem to have paid off. Pascale and "records have been falling at season."

Against Monmouth and Peterson, Jag hung up new times of 1:19.97 and 1:00.38 in the 200-yard freestyle and 100-yard individual medley respectively. The freshman owns several other records, including her 4:13.37 in the 400-yard freestyle performance at the '73 Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (EAIAW) Swimming and Diving Championships.

A graduate of Ladore High School in Montclair, Jaglowski has been swimming competitively for about eight years. "Not on a school team but with the YM in Montclair," she said in a recent interview. "No one pushed me to swim or anything, but after my first year of competing, I just went out for it."

UNDER HER Coach Mariya DeFlippo, Jag developed a specialty in freestyle competition, swimming against other Y teams from Pennsylvania, California, and "just about anywhere." The physical education major's decision to attend MSC rather than go to what would be considered a 'big swimming school'-"I really didn't want to go away"-was partially influenced by Professor John Bell of MSC's history department. "His daughter and I swam together," she explained.

Pleasant-mantered and reserved, almost to the point of shyness, Jaglowski's superstitions don't stop with the milkshake habit. "I have a lucky suit," she admitted with a smile. "And I always wear a bathing cap even though I don't have to," she added the short-haired swimmer.

Leslie Hoar, coach of the Squaws, has helped Jaglowski in her first year of collegiate competition by setting up separate workouts for her. "She'd have me swim distances, usually 400 yds. when the rest of the team did 100 and 200 yds.," Jag commented, "I concentrate on building up endurance." With the swimming season just over, Jaglowski said she is not working out at present but once summer comes, she'll be swimming two hours a day, seven days a week at the Verona Community Pool.

UNLIKE MANY athletes, Jaglowski freely confess to nervoussness before a race. "Everyone gets nervous," she said, "even if they don't show it.'"

According to the swimmer, traveling with the team was a highlight of the year. "I love to travel. Someday I'd like to visit Australia and a lot of other places I've never been. I'd go anywhere to get a suntan," she concluded with a smile.

HORSING AROUND

The MSC Riding Club participated in the first Intercollegiate Horse Show of the season at the University of Hartford, Conn., on Sunday. Of the seven girls who competed, five returned with ribbons.

Fran Del Gatto was the top medalist with a second place in the Beginner Walk-Trot category. Team captain Terry Renz picked up a third place ribbon in Advanced Walk-Trot-Center. Linda Marine and Cheryl Repke were third in Beginner Walk-Trot-Center and Marlene McDermott placed fifth in the Beginner Walk-Trot class.

Of the 30 colleges in the New York-New Jersey-New England area in the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association, MSC is ranked 15th. The girls' next show will take place on Sunday at Four Seasons Stables, Reddington.

ANDERSON HONORED

MSC football and baseball coach Clary Anderson will receive the Distinguished American Award of the Essex County Chapter of the National Football Foundation on Wednesday at the organization's Hall of Fame dinner.

MSC'S STICKWOMEN

The Women's Lacrosse Club will be sponsoring a one-on-one basketball tournament with applications available until noon on Friday, April 13.

INSTRUCTIONS IN swimming are available to those who request them at any time. Ferris stressed that those wishing lessons do not have to be registered for a class in order to learn the basics of paddling through the water. "I just hate to think that there are people who will go through their whole lives without knowing how to swim, especially with the facilities available to them," he remarked. "They (non-swimmers) are depriving themselves of many fun and leisure activities by not being able to swim."

Ferris added, "For those students who are at home in the water as a duck, the pool is opened for recreational purposes at the following times: Monday - 3 to 6 and 7 to 9 pm; Tuesday - 7 to 9:30 pm; Wednesday - 3 to 6 and 8 to 9:30 pm; Thursday - 4 to 6 and 7 to 9:30 pm; Friday - 1 to 3 pm and Sunday - 2 to 5 and 7 to 9:30 pm. INSTRUCTIONS ARE available from either Ferris or an accredited instructor at these times also, as well as for faculty and staff on Wednesdays from 11 am to 1 pm during the faculty/staff swim session. Admission to the pool area is obtained with a current validated ID card. Children of faculty, staff or students are admitted only with an adult carrying an ID and the adult must remain with the children. Anyone interested in lessons should contact Ferris in his office next to the pool.

Bud Drinkers, can you figure this out?

Suppose Bud came in 24-oz. bottles that cost 50¢ apiece. And suppose the 12-oz. bottles cost 25¢ each. A guy comes up to you carrying two boxes the same size. He tells you one box is full of 12-oz. bottles, the other is exactly half full of the 24-oz. bottles. One is worth more than the other. Which one?

Gymnasts Finish Ninth in Regionals

The gymnastics squad finished ninth in the Eastern Regionals at Temple University, Philadelphia, accumulating 81 points. The girls improved their placing over last year when they copped the tenth spot.

In an unusual occurrence, the judge's scoring was protested by coach Gail Bakker and reconsidered. Denise Cram the last performer on the uneven parallel bars, was given a score of 6.9 for her routine. BAKKER, THINKING the rating was too low, submitted a written protest to the judges who re-evaluated the performance. The result was a 7.2 for Cram.

"I was really shocked," Bakker commented. "They very seldom change a score," the blond coach added. "I was really pleased with the girls' performances," she commented. "It wasn't their best meet, but everyone did a fine job."

BAKKER BELIEVED that the region is one of the strongest in the country, citing that Springfield (Mass.) the regional champion would "probably finish first in the country, so finishing ninth in the region is no disgrace."

Pat Giuliano took the team's high score in the vaulting with a 9.8.

Sunshine Swing Fruitful

After competing a 6-4 swing through Florida sunshine country, Montclair State's baseball team returned to the rainy north only to have their opening game drowned in April's showers.

The Indians' last three outings included a 9-8 loss to Miami Dade South, a defeat at the hands of Florida International by the same score and a 5-4 win over Colby College. While the squad had previously downed Florida International, 9-6, their other contest with Miami Dade South resulted in a 5-4 loss.

The TOP hitter for MSC during the week-long training period was shortstop Karl Gordon who accumulated 16 hits, including a homer and 11 RBIs. Gordon sprayed hits around the Florida diamonds at a clip of .432.

Bob Compere, (.407, 9 ribbies), Gary Banta (.375, 11 ribbies), Jim Rako (.303, 11 RBIs) and Bob DiJanne (.297, 12 RBIs) provided the additional fire power.

RICH WALLER and Bill Collins led the pitching staff with the former going the distance against Colby College for a 5-2 victory. Waller posted an ERA of 1.20 while striking out 19 and allowing only four hits.

Collins was the winning pitcher in the opening game against Biscayne and also picked up a win in the second game with Miami Dade North. Collins' 2.12 ERA was second only to Waller's.

Steve Buffett posted a win over Biscayne and Dan Dunn was the winning pitcher in the Seton Hall contest.

The squad hopes to face Jersey City at home today at 3 pm, that is, if the weather decides to cooperate.

Fencers Second In State Meet

Montclair State's women's fencing team placed second in the NJ State Women's Fencing Championships Saturday, behind their old nemesis and the host school, William Paterson.

The Squaws had posted lopsided wins over Jersey City State and Trenton State, 13-3 and 14-2 respectively, before Paterson tripped them up, 12-4.

Third-place Jersey City State kept up a see-saw battle in their match with the state champions, but finally succumbed to the Paterson squad, 9-7, the closest any team came to beating the Pioneers.

IN THE INDIVIDUAL competition, three fencers were tied with 13-2 records at the end of regular tournament play, forcing a playoff. Paterson's Jane Brennan defeated Jersey City's Irene Makrides.

The Squaws had ended their regular dual meet season by dooming Jersey City, 9-7, Mary Lou Gaffner gained four victories in the meet as MSC closed out with a 9-1 record.

The girls will travel to Trenton State this weekend for the National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association Championships. The tournament will consist of competition with 29 colleges and 125 fencers.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, the defending champion, is the leading contender for top honors along with William Paterson. Gaffner, however, feels that the Squaws should place high in the tournament. "A lot of schools are starting to overlook us," she remarked. "That's good in some ways, because we'll be ready for them." The Trenton State transfer added.

"Besides," she concluded, "if we don't place in the top three, we won't get the money to go to the Nationals."

The American Fencing League will be conducting the national tournament in Tuscon, Ariz., in the last week in June. Gaffner, Murray and Julie Loferski have qualified to participate in the team competition.
