CAPITOL HILL PREDICTS STUDENT FUND CUTBACK

By M. J. Smith
Staff Writer

From what Congressional aides told a delegation from Montclair State, the future of federal aid to students "looks very bad."

Vincent Calabrese, MSC's vice-president of business and finance and three students, SGA president Sam Crane, SGA vice-president of academic affairs and Sam Crane made the Washington junket Tuesday to investigate the proposed cutback. According to Crane, there is a bill currently in the House Appropriations Committee that would lump the National Defense Appropriations Committee that called Basic Opportunity Grant. The umbrella program would be called Basic Opportunity Grant (BOG).

"ALL THREE programs are being threatened," Crane said. "For example, if the bill passes Congress more than 3.9 million will be cut from New Jersey's student aid allocation."

Crane pointed out that at this time Congress cannot override Nixon's veto. "Nixon wants the student aid guideline to be at a little over 600 million," the SGA president explained. "If Congress raises the figure, he'll probably veto the bill. Right now Congress couldn't get a two-thirds vote. The Republicans won't vote across party lines and the Democrats are too fractionalized."

If the bill is passed, the cutback would take effect in September. "That's one of the worst problems," Crane said. "The vote is coming so late in the academic year that no one knows what will happen by fall. These people don't seem to realize that students have to make financial plans like anyone else."

Crane said he heard "four or five different versions" of the White House's reasoning during meetings with NJ Representative aides and aides from the offices of both NJ Senators, Harrison Williams (D-NJ) and Clifford Case (R-NJ).

ALL THE Congressional sources said there are no indications where the money previously earmarked for student aid will be re-directed.

Crane said the Capitol Hill aides seemed to agree that the bill would probably be voted out of committee soon and appear on the floor of the House by May 4. "We should know if that's done by June," the junior social studies major said.

Crane announced that after spring vacation the Montclair State SGA would bring a letter-writing campaign against the proposed cuts. He also said he hoped more student delegations would be sent to Washington.

Crane also stated that it would be difficult to begin similar campaigns at the other NJ state colleges. Newark State and Rutgers University have already sent delegations to Washington.

"The Congressional aides did give us some hints about where to direct pressure," Crane said. "We've got to get the Republican votes and we've got to hit the White House."

Student Co-operative Union and Guaranteed Bank Loan programs would lump the National Defense Appropriations Committee that called Basic Opportunity Grant. The umbrella program would be called Basic Opportunity Grant (BOG).

The three referendum questions that will appear on the ballot are:

• "Should the Academic Classes remain at Class One status?" (Class One grading system to be changed from A, B, C, D, F to A, B, C, D, E."

• "Should the cumulative grade point average requirement for all elected positions be lowered to 2.0?"

• "Should the Academic Classes remain at Class One status?" (Class One organizations receive a budget and automatic funding from the SGA.)

SGA LEGISLATOR Maria Oliva and assistant treasurer Miguel Mena are candidates for SGA treasurer. The position of SGA secretary will be decided between Blanche Smith of BSCU and SGA clerk Maggie Capuano.

Election campaigning will begin on Tues., April 24 and end on Fri., April 27. Presidential and vice-presidential speeches will be delivered at noon, April 27. The polls will be open from 8 am to 5:30 pm on April 20 and May 1. Balloting will take place at the general store, first floor, Student Center.

In order to be validated, the referendum questions must be voted on by 30% of MSC's full-time undergraduate population and approved by a majority of those voting. Yacenda explained that the two-day election period is "an effort to get more people to vote."

Eight voting machines will be provided for maximum efficiency so that more students can be accommodated at one time. "We want to prevent students from leaving voting lines out of impatience," Yacenda said.

On Tues., April 26 the MONTCLARION will host a press conference at which candidates for SGA office will answer questions from the press and interested students.

The conference will be held at 1 pm in the work-file room on the fourth floor of the Student Center (adjacent to the MONTCLARION office). All students are invited to attend.
A new general humanities major will be offered next fall, according to Dr. George Brantl, chairman of the philosophy/religion department.

Brantl will be the program's dean. He was appointed after extensive discussions with the faculty and administration. He was selected from among ten finalists who were judges in a three-stage competition – preliminary, final decision, and final selection. Brantl was selected because of his experience in the field of humanities and his vision for the future of the humanities major.

Brantl will serve as chairman of the program. He will be responsible for the overall direction of the program and for its coordination with other disciplines.

According to Brantl, the program will be designed to provide students with a broad education in the humanities. It will be divided into three main areas:

1. Core courses: These will include courses in literature, history, philosophy, and the arts. Students will be required to complete a certain number of credits in each of these areas.

2. Electives: Students will be allowed to choose electives from a wide range of courses. These electives will be designed to allow students to explore their own interests in the humanities.

3. Specialization: Students will be able to specialize in one of the following areas: literature, history, philosophy, or the arts.

The program will also offer opportunities for study abroad and for independent study.

In conclusion, the new general humanities major is a significant addition to Montclair State College's curriculum. It will provide students with a broad education in the humanities and will be a valuable asset to the college.

In Answer To Public Demand

A Recreation Professions major has been instituted at Montclair State College's School of Professional Arts and Sciences.

Americans are spending over $150 billion a year on leisure activities, stated Dr. George Pearson, chairman of the School of Professional Arts and Sciences. "We want our graduates to be prepared to serve this public demand.

Facilities, industrial leisure programs and urban recreation centers are needed. There is a great need for recreation professionals to serve this public demand."

There are no regular faculty assigned to the program and any qualified student may take a course.

JEANNE BARRETT, program advisor, enthusiastically described the new major as an "interdisciplinary approach" which would enable students to correlate their subject matter.

"The center of the program is the course," stated the professor. "In the 20th century we are all professionals and we must be able to adapt ourselves to a wide variety of jobs."

According to Barrett, courses such as "Man's Contemporary Search" and "Man Without Boundaries" as well as a seminar course will enable students to explore the social and cultural aspects of the humanities.

The humanities major requires 34 credits. There will be 15 hours of required credits in the initial stages of the program. According to Barrett, students will learn one area in depth as well as developing their broader knowledge, Barrett noted.

A four-credit seminar in senior year completes the required 34 credits. "This seminar is extremely important," Barrett stated. "It is important for the student to learn in one course that he is studying one area in depth as well as developing his broader knowledge."

Those interested in the major may contact program advisors, Dr. Robert Gift, French department, G 427 or Barrett, English department, G 411.

In Search Of Personal Values...

A new general humanities major will be offered next fall, according to Dr. George Brantl, chairman of the philosophy/religion department.

According to Brantl, the major, as stated in the state-approved proposal, will serve students who are interested in a liberal arts/humanities curriculum, those who wish to take a double major, high school teachers, or those who simply want to broaden their knowledge in a range of personal values.

Brantl will be the program's dean. He was appointed after extensive discussions with the faculty and administration. He was selected from among ten finalists who were judges in a three-stage competition – preliminary, final decision, and final selection. Brantl was selected because of his experience in the field of humanities and his vision for the future of the humanities major.

Brantl will serve as chairman of the program. He will be responsible for the overall direction of the program and for its coordination with other disciplines.

According to Brantl, the program will be designed to provide students with a broad education in the humanities. It will be divided into three main areas:

3. Specialization: Students will be able to specialize in one of the following areas: literature, history, philosophy, or the arts.

In conclusion, the new general humanities major is a significant addition to Montclair State College's curriculum. It will provide students with a broad education in the humanities and will be a valuable asset to the college.

Music Student Crowned in 'Miss MSC' Pageant

Jillian Tundermann, a senior music education major, was crowned Miss Montclair State Friday night in the school's annual beauty pageant.

In response to the Task Force Against Racism's charges that Gulf Oil Company is guilty of racist policies, Gregg Carroll, assistant director of the Student Center, said yesterday that "Gulf, in this country, has done more to end discrimination than any other company." He feels that the charges refer only to actions taken in Africa and commented, "Personally, I would prefer to talk of the problems at home on this campus."

However, James Harris, assistant dean of students, feels that "Gulf is blatantly racist." He endorses the Task Force's investigations to replace it with "another oil company that is less racist."

The Task Force Racism was formed at the recent Conference on Human Relations in Angola, charging that the company is aiding in the exploitation of the African people. "We don't expect the 'Four Seasons' at Campbell," Carroll said the Task Force objects to the fact that "the Portuguese are ripping off any money that Gulf pours into Angola."

He remarked that "philosophically, I agree with the charges. However, he commented that similar situations exist in all colonial possessions, which are all run for the benefit of the mother country. Carroll emphasized that Gulf is not "politically involved" in Angola, but simply does business in that country.

"If the Gulf service station were removed from the campus, the eight women would lose their jobs," he added. "It should be eliminated because the "faculty is being fed at the expense of the students."

The committee is concerned with both dining areas, the cafeteria and the formal dining room. Their grievances include low quality, high prices, slow service and crowded dining facilities. "We're tired of skimpy sandwiches and fatty, half-frozen hamburgers," said Jo Marie Damos, the committee's student chairman.

According to Hamdan, the formal dining room is operating at a loss of $15,000 a year. He believed part of the loss was due to a surplus of waitresses. Unless the operation is changed, he added, it should be eliminated because "the faculty is being fed at the expense of the students."

THE COMMITTEE suggested changes in the food service. First on the list was an increase in quality or a reduction in price. Also proposed was a ski or sub sandwich shop to be serviced by a career or franchisee. To alleviate crowded dining facilities, there suggested was that Lill Hall cafeteria be reopened. Damos proposed a buffet smorgasbord for the faculty dining room, which she said would provide prompt service and eliminate waitresses.

One day about two weeks ago some students were handing out fliers calling for a boycott of cafeteria food. Hamdan conceded that the committee was behind the leafleting. Descending on a nearby "howdy move," he stated they thought on outside career centers the7er and later learned that food in Center services and therefore abandoned the boycott, turning to petitions. Asked if the boycott would be reinitiated if no action were taken, Hamdan answered that he would not endorse a boycott but the student committee did not rule out the possibility.

MIKE LOEWENTHAL, the Center's director, stated he had no detailed comments to make about the petition, until he had seen the signed petitions and spoken with the committee. He did state, however, that without constant despite the increasing cost of food, Loewenthal also added that a successful boycott might result in staff layoffs and a possible increase in the student fee to meet the Center's commitments. The Student Center fee is set to increase this year. Harold Ostroff, the Center's director of food services, had no comment.
A TAXING PROBLEM

Free tax advice is being dispensed to students weary of the annual struggle with Internal Revenue forms. Members of the Accounting Club are offering this advice this Wednesday and Friday, from 10 am to 4 pm on the second floor of Life Hall (the former SGA office).

"SO LONG, JOEY"

The film "So Long, Joey" will be shown in the Fine Arts Auditorium on Thurs., April 26, at 7:30 pm. The film, sponsored by Epsilon Omicron Zeta, relates the story of a young performer's struggle for recognition in the entertainment world.

RECRUITING

Representatives of the Newark Police Department will be recruiting on campus on Wed., April 18. The all State Insurance Company will be recruiting the following day. Interested students should contact the Office of Career Planning and Placement in Life Hall for further information.

MSC Picks Up Shuttle Tab

No increase in the student activities fee will result from the college's decision this week to purchase shelters for bus-waiters next year.

Tom Barrett, spokesman for the Council in Commuter Affairs (CCA), explained that the college administration has agreed to buy two plexiglass shelters for the protection of shuttlers from inclement weather.

Two wooden shelters currently under construction, Barrett said, will be placed in the quarry and freshman parking lots. The plexiglass shelters would be located outside Panzer Gym (at the corner of Normal and College Avenues) and between Sprague Library and the Fine Arts Building.

The shuttle-bus service and the two shelters will cost the college $17,000 for the year. However, the college administration has agreed to fund the entire amount. The $17,000 includes maintenance and the costs of amortization.

The wooden shelters, equipped with benches, will be ready later this month, Barrett said. All the shelters will be lit and placed back from the roadways, to avoid possible bus-passerger collisions. The placement of the wooden shelters outside of the main campus area was decided because of their unappealing aesthetic appearance.

Currently running from 9 am to 6 pm, the bus stops at nine points on campus in the quarry, at the intersection near the Student Center in the freshman lot, at the Panzer Gym intersection, at the security shack, at the Sprague library intersection (now closed to passenger-car traffic) and at Russ, Partridge and Bohn halls. All the stops have not yet been marked, because of the removal of the bus-stop signs from the shuttle's original route.

The CAA shuttle-bus service may soon extend into the evening. A recent post-concert shuttle run received "favorable" response, Barrett said.

Evict Gulf And Then?

In the attempt by the Task Force Against Racism to evict the Gulf Oil Company from campus, the time has come for that group to decide what price it is willing to pay for its actions.

Gasoline companies have shown great reluctance to enter college campuses. If the students are successful in their efforts to remove Gulf, it is possible that there will be no service station at all on campus.

Additionally, Student Center director Michael Loewenthal says that it would cost $15,000 to buy out the station's five year lease. This in turn would probably lead to an increased Student Center fee.

While Nixon may think BOG ties up all the student aid loose ends, it's really sticking them together with peanut butter.

Bog: What's In A Name?

It is interesting to note that when political types come up with scatterbrained projects they invariably attach equally ludicrous titles.

When the NJ Board of Higher Education attempted to ram through Phase Two of their ill-fated Master Plan, they call their idea of lumping the state's graduate programs together, GUNJ, GUNJ for Graduate University of New Jersey, an appropriately discouraging anagram.

Now that President Richard Nixon is trying to put all the student aid programs under one umbrella organization, some White House aide struck on the monicker BOG -- for Basic Opportunity Grants.

Actually BOG is rather prophetic because bogged down is exactly what it'll be. Bogged down in the administrative red tape that the federal government seems to glory in and bogged down by the pigeon-hole thinking that is the trademark of the Nixon years.

A wary newsmen recently said that the Nixon Administration has a fetish about neatness -- everything in nice little packages, all near and tidy.

While Nixon may think BOG ties up all the student aid loose ends, it's really sticking them together with peanut butter.

FEW SURPRISES

Unfortunately, the political well is almost dry this year with hardly any surprises in store for the student population. The only race which will draw any excitement is the presidential contest.

Here, despite whatever may later decline, the strongest candidates are SGA vice-president Kathy Ragan, sophomore class president Angela Genova and Drop-In Center magnate Mike King.

This trio springs from the same Sam Crane administrative background but in all fairness they also have separate specialties. Several observations can be made as to the strategy each candidate will follow.

IDENTITY

Ragan will have to establish herself apart from the SGA bureaucracy and create an individual identity. She has been embroiled in the Class One dispute and in order for this to become a plus factor, a subtle behind-the-scenes break with the Crane administration is called for. If she does this, her involvement in the Club will be established as a plus factor.

GENOVA

Genova is in a different situation. His record as sophomore class prez has given him a power base and his ties with the SGA executive haven't been too strong. Look for him to play a peacemaker role in the upcoming campaign, stressing cooperation and trust in an SGA he will head.

BEST SHOT

Finally we come to King. He has the best shot for president. The campaign apparatus he built up last year's losing attempt for the vice-presidency is still intact. Add on mounds of publicity received in conjunction with his Drop-In Center work and you get a strong presidential contender.

However, this strength may also prove to be an Achilles heel. The current crisis involving King's status on administrative attempts to secure Life Hall in return for the Rec Lodge could turn a lot of people off to the lanky junior.

There is a logical explanation for the sci-fi genre - the one totalitarianistic democracy. They are nobly struggling to prove anything," Stasheff explained. STASHEFF HAS been a science fiction fan since he was 11 years old and had an unpublished writer for several years before the appearance of "The Warlock in Spite of Himself" and "King Kobold."

"Fantasy, and Science Fiction Magazine had a contest for the best science fiction story and first prize was $1000," he continued. "By the time I had "Warlock" done, the contest was over, but it was published anyway."

The book was well-received and a sequel should be written. "King Kobold" was the result. "The critics said it was good, providing you didn't expect too much of the evening spent with it," said Stasheff, grinning and taking another puff on his cigarettes.

"Technically, what I write is science fantasy, not science fiction. There is a logical explanation for the characters and ideas. Science fantasy should be fun and it should have a good story. It's the place for free research in ideas - crackpot or otherwise - because you don't have to prove anything," Stasheff explained.

"IT IS important for students to IT is important for students to have this opportunity because it gives them an incentive to do better work," stated Schnitzer. He said his students are excited about having their work displayed professionally rather than just showing them to family and friends.

Netmen Swat Rutgers

Rain didn’t stop Monday afternoon’s tennis match, but the Montclair State netmen did some washing out on their own as they matched Nexus Rutgers, 9-0.

Tom Krukl defeated Jay Maranice, 6-1, 6-2, while John Donevonttopped Ben Falco, 6-1, 7-5. Lone senior All Hure opened his season in equally fine form with 6-0 and 6-1 victories over opponent Joe Bush.

In DOUBLES, Kruekl and Donevont teamed up to beat Rutgers’ Maroonis Fallo pair, 6-2, 7-6, and the Kim Marchese-George List junior List.

Visitors Joe Signorelli and Zachary Eiger found the Indians’ hospitality ‘overcoming’ as Kevin Schmitz and Dave Roshman did just that, 7-5, 6-2.

“I’m really pleased with the way we opened the season – we’re optimistic about the year,” remarked Junior List.

THE TEAM faces Glassboro State on Saturday and will also play Jersey City State and Fairleigh Dickinson University before hosting New York University on April 27 at 1 pm.

LOSE 20 POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS!

Famous U.S. Women Ski Team Diet

During the competitive off season, the U.S. Women’s Alpine Ski Team members go on the Ski Team diet to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That’s right — 20 pounds in 12 days!

The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep “full” — no hunger, no weakness.

This is, honestly, a fantastically successful diet. If it’s yours, the U.S. Women’s Ski Team wouldn’t be permitted to use it — nor would it be of interest.

A SPARE FRAME

The intramural and leisure time activities department is looking for students willing to work with the program. A student government board, an intramural council, is in the process of being formed and any interested students should contact Hank Schmidt or Barry Hennis in the Intramural Office in the basement of College Hall, right hand door.

A mong those activities planned for the spring are a coed softball league, a wrestling tournament and a program for Carnival in May. Those students interested in working on or participating in any or all activities should see Schmidt or Hennis.

William Paterson finished second in the tournament, which was won by Cornell University.

ONE-ON-ONE ROUNDS

Applications are still available at the Student Center information desk for the intramural one-on-one basketball tournament. Registration deadline is tomorrow at noon.

EQUESTRIENNES PLACE

The MSC Riding Club took four medals last Sunday at the Four Seasons Farm, Readington. Linda Marine (first place, Cheryl Turner (second place) and Carol Anderson (fourth place) captured ribbons in the Beginner Walk-Trot-Canter categories and Carol Roof took fourth place in the Beginner Walk-Trot class.

The show, sponsored by William Paterson and Jersey City State, was the girls’ second outing of the season.
A CLOUD OF DUST: And hearty "safe" call by the umpire, as MSC's Karl Gordon slides safely into second in the triple jump event. Also placed first in the broad jump, was competing for the first time in the triple jump with this effort in Saturday's tri-meet against East Stroudsburg State College and City College in New York in its meet home opener at Syracuse Field last Saturday.

MSC had won the previous two events, the two mile run and the 440-yard dash, making the triple jump which followed a mere formality.

ABOUT 50 spectators were on that bright though hazy day for the two week's of rain kept some scores down, said team coach George Horn.

"STROUDSBURG'S BEATEN us for about as long as I can remember," the amiable coach remarked. "Last year we got wiped out in field events, but now we're looking pretty good. We're a lot more rounded," he concluded.

For starters, MSC won the javelin on Rich Ruffalo's 177-foot heave. "That stinks, I've done a lot better," he confided.

Heavy-arter Jerry Capotosto following just won the shot put with 486 8". Winning the broad jump with a 21' 10" leap, mild-looking Lance Heworth then placed third in the triple jump, the first time he'd ever competed in the event.

MSC DID well in the track events too; out of nine events the Indians lost only three, all to Stroudsburg.

TOM DONOHUE couldn't quite tie the field, but won the two-mile anyway in 9:33.2. Junior Bill Terrail was "definitely not surprised to win" the 100 and 220-yard dashes at 10.6 and 23.0 seconds, respectively, despite his slow starts. Lanky senior Craig Whiteley and Terrail won the 440 relay to open the meet.
