Board Of Higher Ed Ok's JCSC Center

Students Object
To High SC Fee

By Carla Capizzi
Jersey City State College (JCSC) has been given the go-ahead on plans to build a $4.5 million student union building. The NJ Board of Higher Education ruled in favor of the building despite some last minute student opposition to the expenses it would incur. JCSC students had voted against the construction, 278-183, in an SGA-sponsored referendum on Sept. 17-18.

The SGA president at JCSC, Barbara Hammar, had received some negative feedback on the union building during the summer, according to a member of the SGA.

The referendum was held two weeks ago to determine how the majority of students felt on the issue. Only 411 of JCSC's 4500 students voted.

However, the referendum was later ruled illegal by the Student Government Association (SGA) of the New Jersey State Colleges (NJSCC). The SGA's decision was based on the grounds that the referendum was conducted without proper notice to the students, and that the SGA had not been given the authority to conduct such a referendum.

James Cottingham, executive assistant to MSC President David W.D. Dickson, has resigned, effective Nov. 1, to become the first full-time director of the New Jersey Association of Colleges and Universities (NJACU). NJACU is a 25-year-old organization of all private and public colleges and universities in the state.

Cottingham's duties at NJACU will "run the gamut from trying to run cooperative programming among colleges to monitoring state legislation," he explained. He will be responsible directly to the NJACU board of directors.

"It is a real challenge," he remarked, "since I have an opportunity to shape the job." He added that he "did not think another opportunity like this would come along.

Cottingham said he accepted the new position because "I wanted my career to go. I wanted more exposure to people who would view me as parochial." Cottingham received his MA in June, Cottingham was offered the position he now holds and "I jumped at the chance because I decided that was the direction I wanted my career to go.

Cottingham first became interested in administration when he was SGA president. He claims he was not a conscious decision but rather something that just happened." Cottingham received his BA in science with a concentration in physics but through his relationship with Richardson decided to enter the administrative field.

Cottingham stated that Dickson will probably pick his successor arbitrarily since "it has been out of policy to have an extensive search committee comprised of faculty and students when filling line positions but not when selecting staff members."

The most difficult time, he stated, was May, 1970, during the student strikes. "We were concerned that there would be serious problems with possible retaliation from the state legislature," he commented. During the first few days "we were working on a 24-hour a day schedule and by the end of the week, no administrator could walk straight, let alone think rationally," he said.

Cottingham joined the staff of MSC's institutional planning director. Dr. Herman P. Adams, is the current director. Adams and the state Board of Higher Education have since greenlighted the construction with "no dissent," according to MSC's institutional planning director, Dr. Herman P. Adams.

A student referendum in 1970 approved construction of the facility "three or four to one," according to Julian K. Robinson, dean of student affairs.

"I believe it will be easier for President Dickson to leave earlier," he remarked, "since I have an opportunity to shape the job." He added that he "did not think another opportunity like this would come along.

Seton Hall Students
Get Tuition Rebate

By Susan Koenig
Seton Hall University has decided to give their undergraduate students a refund on their full tuition. This situation evolved when the state legislature decided to allocate seven million dollars to the 16 independently owned New Jersey colleges and universities.

The grant the funds.

A percentage of the $7 million received from the state must be used as financial aid to students as mandated by the Independent College and Universities Utilization Act. Although given strict guidelines, each of the independent institutions of higher education in the State of New Jersey are presently faced with serious financial difficulties, state the legislative findings. These "difficulties" impair higher education in the state and increase the burden on public institutions.

Many states fund their independently owned colleges, said Higgins, but this act is "unique." In fact, it closely regulates the use of the money. This is the second year that the act has been law, but it had not been fully funded. Higgins feels confident that it will continue to be funded in the future.

The new branch offers its customers the same banking services that would be offered outside of the college campus. The bank provides free checking and has a full loan program. Both student and installment loans are arranged by the bank. The Deferred Student Tuition Loan is available to part-time students with full-time jobs and the New Jersey Higher Education Loan may now be granted through this branch to students not having an account.

The opening of the new branch serves as an indication of the growing need for banking services on the college campus. The Student Bank is a result of the concern expressed by students and faculty regarding the lack of banking services available on campus.

Anthony Cerbino, assistant secretary/treasurer, said that no statistics are available on the number of students and faculty that have been bank customers since the branch opened.

An area of controversy has arisen over Pilgrim Bank's check cashing policy. At the Tues., Sept. 19 meeting of the SGA legislature, representatives voted to investigate the possibility of reinstating a check cashing service on campus. The business office stopped cashing checks at the end of last semester. Vincent Calabrese, MSC vice-president of business and finance, stated that there is "little chance" of the check cashing service being reinstated. He said that the college lost over $6,000 last year in returned checks that were never honored.

Several legislators objected to the fact that the bank only cashed student checks if the students had an account. Cerbino stated that the bank cashes some checks drawn from other banks and cashes payroll checks, when the necessary identification is provided. The students would also have to provide proof that he or she has an account in either the Pilgrim State or another bank.

Cerbino said that the bank has the right to use its discretion in any case in which they may have doubts as to whether the check concerned could be considered legal tender or a "proscriptive bouncing."
No Surplus Funds For Higher Ed

By John Picinich

The joint appropriations committee has not reached a decision on how to spend the $200 million surplus that is expected for the 1974 fiscal year, according to Thomas L. Bertone, dean of the Office of Fiscal Affairs (OFA) budget review section.

Bertone stated that no action has been taken in appropriating additional funds in the budget. THE SURPLUS will not affect the funds allocated to the Board of Higher Education, according to Mary Fairbanks, director of public information for the board.

"The only way the department could get some of the surplus funds would be if the governor asks the legislature for a further appropriation," she said.

The public information director added that the board already has its appropriation for the 1974 fiscal year. To her knowledge, the board has not asked for additional funds.

The price for full-time MSC students or visitors. "The dorm student must present affiliation of the commuter in this matter," Kauffman said.

KAUFFMAN CITED tentative plans to utilize some spaces in the present faculty lot behind College Hall for students.

The deadline for purchasing parking decals has been extended until Oct. 8. After that time, all cars without stickers will be ticketed. Kauffman stated that because the ticketing system is now computerized, the department will be better able to catch up with habitual offenders.

"Uncooperative students may cause the college administration to implement the use of municipal traffic summaries in ticketing cars without decals," Kauffman warned.

MSC Granted Federal Funds To Conduct Deaf Student Study

By Barbara Rusino

The Department of Communication Science and Disorders at Montclair State has received a federal grant to develop teaching methods and materials designed to facilitate the educational experience particular to deaf students.

Dr. Warren Heiss, associate professor of community sciences and disorders, will direct the project which will be used at the Model Secondary School for the Deaf at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C.

The $7,650 grant was donated because a similar pilot project held last year at MSC proved the feasibility and usefulness of such a plan.

Heiss outlined five basic "student" areas in which the study will concentrate. They include employment, housing, purchasing, survival and recreational services for the deaf.

Deaf students must learn how to deal with practical everyday experiences, Heiss stated. "The deaf person doesn't pick up valuable information that we just take for granted," he continued. "The absence of such a vital sense necessitates that they be consciously taught that which we absorb unconsciously."

HEISS WILL be assisted by two former MSC students, Cathy Ulrichy of Roselle and Sue Cook of Montclair. The researchers are obligated to distribute their findings to other schools for the deaf across the nation.

In addition to developing improved teaching-learning methods the researchers are obligated to study the outcome of the program, Heiss said. By measuring their students' success on an ongoing basis, the researchers are obligated to distribute their findings to other schools for the deaf across the nation.

The National Center on Educational Media and Materials for the Handicapped will examine the results and decide what facets of the program they will produce in visual media for consumers.

A PARKING change that was implemented this semester was the designation of the parking lot behind Partridge Hall as a faculty lot. The lot had formerly been used by students. The former faculty parking lot behind the Fine Arts building, which contains approximately 100 fewer spaces than the Partridge Hall area, is now open to students. This change was made to accommodate the increasing number of faculty and staff members, according to Kauffman.

According to a press release from the governor's office, the surplus money is $80.4 million above the estimates for that year.

At the Sept. 10 briefing of the joint appropriations committee, it was explained that surplus for the 1974 fiscal year is expected to reach anywhere from $190 to $330 million, depending upon the state of the economy and other factors, such as developments in the 1974 budget, Bertone said.

Estimates on budget surplus are based on projections of the collecting agencies of the state, such as taxes. Cost of living and economic trends are also taken into consideration in the reaching of a projected surplus figure, an informed source explained.

THAT SAME source in the Trenton statehouse said that the governor is expected to leave the surplus money unappropriated. This means that the next governor could go before the state legislature and get the money appropriated with approval from the legislature.

Some of the surplus can be attributed to the New Jersey Superior Court ruling of parochial school aid as "unconstitutional" according to the N.J. Constitution. The funds in that budget could not be spent and had to remain in the general treasury, which were then incorporated into the budget surplus of the legislature, according to the press release.

Cars Blocking Traffic

Now You See Them- Now You Don't

"We are towing cars when they are presenting a safety hazard or are impeding the flow of traffic," stated Keith Kauffman, director of security and safety. He also said that municipal tickets will be issued to cars not displaying current parking decals. "We will be using all the discretion we can in towing and ticketing, but students must exercise common sense in parking their cars," he added.

Kauffman emphatically denied rumors that traffic direction will be taken over by municipal officers and replied, "absolutely not. All tickets, including municipal, will be issued by the campus security force."

Advisory Board To Study Uncommitted Student Gripes

by Michael Finnegan

A student advisory board is being formed to investigate and seek solutions to the problems of uncommitted students, according to Jo Sobecki, MSC's first full-time counselor for uncommitted students. "Many of the students that I've talked to," says Sobecki, "feel that they are treated as nobodies." He cited pre-registration policies and scheduling priorities as the major complaints of uncommitted students.

"DURING OPEN HOUSE in May, there were no counselors for uncommitted freshmen at all," Sobecki stated. "They were told to attend meetings in schools of their probable majors," he continued, "but those who had little or no ideas for their future areas of study received no help in building their curriculum core of basic courses."

Sobecki finds unfair the scheduling policy in which student majors receive priority over uncommitted students in obtaining their chosen courses. "There is no school for uncommitted students as such and consequently, little voice in determining academic policies," he said, adding that the advisory board will act as a mediator to bring the ideas and gripes of uncommitted students to the attention of a particular department or faculty member.

Ten students have signed up for the advisory board thus far and more applicants are expected when descriptive mailings on the idea are received. The structure of the board will be determined by the members with Sobecki functioning as coordinator and advisor.

"IF THERE is an issue which we feel should be brought to the attention of the uncommitted students, Sobecki explained, "we could organize a mailing, perhaps a letter or ballot of some sort, to determine the consensus of opinion." A course of action will then be determined, either in contacting an individual or submitting proposals to the SGA.

"The incoming freshman enters into an atmosphere where everything is geared to selecting a major," Sobecki reflected, "but often students aren't sure enough to make that decision or can't cope with the pressure of making a commitment." The counselor referred to the concept of the Renaissance man, the individual with knowledge in many areas. "Too often in our age of specialization, individuals are becoming disenchanted with their area of study and changing majors, yet it is not reflected that much in education," he reasoned.

"MY JOB as a counselor is to help the student channel his interests into a field of study that he likes, and then examine the real, future possibilities of a vocation in that field," Sobecki said. He feels that flexibility is needed in the distribution of courses and requirements to help the student attain a margin of diversity surrounding his chosen field.

According to Sobecki, there are approximately 1000 full-time uncommitted students out of MSC's total student population of 7600 undergraduates. Part-time and evening enrollment provides an additional 2000 uncommitted students. Freshmen comprise the majority of uncommitted undergraduates, followed closely by part-time and transfer students.

Sobecki graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison with a BA degree in English. While completing work on his master's degree, he taught English at Hillside High School, Hillside, N.J. and Stoneham High School near Boston, Mass. He holds a master's degree in counseling from M.S.C. where last year he served as director of Stone Hall.

Wilson Calls For Diversified Students

With more varied backgrounds because "a diversified student body is a definite contribution to the total educational experience." Wilson sees the colleges of the future being built with the commuter in mind with increased facilities being provided for the traveling student and faculty population. Wilson himself lives in Bloomingdale, N.J., a distance of approximately 25 miles from MSC.

In the seven years that he has been here, Wilson has seen the student and faculty population of the college increase greatly. He sees the rise in students as being indicative of a similar rise in the reputation of the college.

WILSON INSISTED on keeping one class, which this semester consists mainly of freshmen. "It's funny," he said, "but every new class I consider my best ever."

the most common reaction to all the threatening and intimidating aspects of contemporary life is negavoid; before one puts environment, it is good to cope, good (and sometimes attacking) goals, objectives, aspirations — in results, one copes with them. "avoid", hence, "negavoid") is not a bad habit, it can develop into an addiction: one rearranges one's life around it to the point where it is the environment (to negavoid the morning rush); he stays an hour later (to negavoid the evening rush); eats breakfast at six, lunch at ten, and dinner at four (to negavoid the overtime). WAITING here, especially waiting lines, are the perimeters of all sorts of existential voids; they constitute the great chain of being; they are to be negavoided at all costs and in all circumstances.

there may seem trivial matters; all right, chop it up as a victory for them. But the point is that the negavoiding does not end there since majors and career objectives in accordance with the latest labor department surveys on which fields are crowded and which are not, (teaching is one; engineering is out, there is a great demand for coal miners, though.) a career is a large chunk of life, of self, to negavoid. there is a great demand for coal miners, though.) a career is a large chunk of life, of self, to negavoid.

immediately he negavoids. he leaves an hour earlier in the morning (to negavoid the morning rush); he takes a different, more circumspect route; he stays an hour later (to negavoid the evening rush); eats breakfast at six, lunch at ten, and dinner at four (to negavoid the overtime).

BARRACADES there are other examples, we negavoid the crime rate by barricading ourselves inside our homes, we negavoid the highway holiday death tolls by staying home on holidays, we negavoid the armed forces by strategic tokenism. When the student reports, he will immediately following the last class week, will bring a four-week registration period.

REPORT Beginning with the seniors, students will be assigned days and times to report according to their last-name initial, Saturdays and Sundays could be used for three days.

Students will have the option of registering at that time or at the first time after that which is convenient for them.

ALLOCATION The 82 percent allocation for an advisor or consultant to help iron out the wrinkles is a step in the right direction. But so far, no one has come up with a proposal to alter the registration procedures.

Let's try this one: Two weeks after each semester ends, all students get a master schedule and a course data sheet. At the end of the semester, the week immediately following the last class week, will bring a four-week registration period.

Students have been forced to fight for what they consider essential improvements not only against an extremely hostile State Board of Higher Education, but they have also had to work against the policies of the faculty.

Perhaps the most dramatic incident, if only because it is fresh in the memories of the students, was the desperate, unsuccessful campaign waged not only to the faculty but also to the students. However, this is not the first battle students will have to fight.

Despite a rush of propaganda to the contrary, it is still doubtful that the AFT is willing to permit any significant degree of student input. Any "essential improvements" would be made on their terms or at all.

To the Editor:

The MGC freshman class needs a president who will represent the student body, hear a strong student government, be the president of all freshmen and establish a constitution that can steer the class in the right direction. We feel we have a young man who is logical and able to do the job. He has the qualifications and the knowledge to put the organization together for the success of the student. His name is Ben Lacewell. He was president of the Library Council at West Keansbury Junior High School and winner of a "WIGO" News Award. He was elected vice-president of Ards High School's first Spanish Club. In his junior year Ben was elected as chairman of Black Assembly. Outside of school he joined Junior Achievement. During his junior year Ben became chairman of Black Assembly. He worked diligently in placing the preview of this fund-raising show on CIRA TV. He was elected "President of the Year" contest on May 14, 1973. He managed the cross-country team and joined the Future Physicians Club, Student Council and Marching Band, among others.

The Arts High "A" pin was given to Ben Lacewell in a ceremony of leadership for 1973. He was elected unanimously president of Prudential, a company sponsored by Prudential Life Insurance. Lacewell was selected student representative on the national "President of the Year" contest. We urge you to vote for Ben Lacewell for president of the Class of '77.

The Right Move

Seton Hall University has done something almost unheard of in the field of higher education, or in any other field for that matter. After imposing a tuition hike on the students, the university received state financial aid which meant that the funds made available by the increased tuition fee were not needed. The surplus money is being returned to the students.

This event might not seem unusual at first glance but a look at past performance shows how novel it really is. Whenever a situation like this arises, the people in the organization involved often try to find a way to spend the surplus money.

Two years ago, the SGA was faced with the dilemma of what to do with the $24,000 that had been allocated to the War Memorial Board. The board, which was responsible for the maintenance of Old Hall, was defunct. The money remained in a limbo for months while the legislators voted on whether to return it to the students or to find a way to spend it. After deciding to spend the money, it remained in further limbo while the reps argued over how to spend the money.

The step that Seton Hall has taken to return the money will have the effect of instilling some amount of student faith in the administration. It indicates a certain honesty in the administration of the school and it is hoped other private schools will follow Seton Hall’s example in returning any surplus money received because of the recent allocation of state funds to private colleges and universities.

A Needed Board

The formation of the advisory board of uncommitted students is long overdue. The college is very oriented towards students with specific majors in terms of the counseling services that are available to them. This is fine for upperclassmen. However, incoming freshmen often do not have a specific idea of what they want to major in and they should not be penalized for this, by a minimal counseling service. There is no reason why students should be locked into a major from the first day of school.

This board will provide these students with much needed advice and will help them to decide upon a major area of study.

'Sowing the Wind'

By Carol Giordano

At a time when excessive meat prices are so prominent in the news and almost every day brings new warnings of potential danger in the food we consume, a book like Harrison Wellford’s “Sowing the Wind” (Bantam Books, 384 pages, $1.95) is sorely needed to convey the vital facts about the growing “crisis in America’s food” to the public.

Unfortunately, Wellford’s book will probably not do the trick. By its very nature as a report written for Ralph Nader’s Center for Study of Responsive Law (to which the author points out and then dedicates 384 pages of his royalties will be donated), it is sad and not nitrite that preserves meats.

Wellford, a Ph.D candidate at Harvard and a member of the original Nader’s Raiders, presents thorough, almost painstakingly detailed examinations of the meat industry, pesticides, “hidden ingredients” and their regulation. The section on nitrites as additives to meats such as hot dogs and bacon is particularly timely in light of the recent publicity given to these chemicals as possible cancer-causing agents.

The author points out and then contradicts the US Department of Agriculture’s view that nitrates are necessary to prevent spoilage of meats. According to the Food and Drug Administration, Wellford says, it is salt and not nitrite that preserves meats.

RATIONAL

These examples are not presented as forebodings of doom; they are used as rational arguments meant to persuade us all.

Wellford has much of value to say about the situation we face every time we sit down to a meal. There is a “clear and present danger” we should all know about, but “Sowing the Wind” will not be the book to publicize it. Its length and detail will discourage the average reader. As a scholarly report, it is important, but...

Absence Of Support

Ends Marching Band

By J. D'Aouti

This fall seniors attending MSC football games will notice the absence of the MSC marching band. During home games fans may be entertained by high school bands. According to Dr. Benjamin Wilkes of the music department, the marching band was cancelled due to lack of support from the college community, the athletic department and the administration.

Wilkes pointed out that, "as part of the school community the band reflects the support given to it," Wilkes deeply regretted the cancellation, but unfortunately the money that was needed did not come. WILKES SAID that he had written a correspondence in April 1973 proposing a reasonable budget of $9000, but it was never acted upon. Wilkes said that he waited until the first day of fall and drop, Sept. 6 to cancel the band.

Bernie Biago, a music major who was a member of the band, said that fellow band members were disturbed by the cancellation. Baggs said that he had a director, Herman Dash, the fellow band members were disturbed by the cancellation. Baggs said that he had a director, Herman Dash, the fact that marching band was no longer being offered as an elective this fall. Before the course was offered, a large amount of non-music majors were interested. While they fulfilled a humanities requirement they also were able to participate in a worthwhile school activity.

SINCE THE CHANGE did not fulfill either non-music majors or music majors requirements many students no longer felt it was worth the long hours of work.

Biago added that music majors who planned to be teachers found the course useful as experience in the classroom. RUSSELL WILKES said that another problem arose with the fact that marching band was to be cut, and support, the band was cavernously compensated for their fine performances. Last year they had been given a chance to serve on the parade staff for the Macy’s Parade.

"They called themselves the ‘Miracle Band’" reminisced Wilkes. "The band had slightly under 100 students, including color guard and twisters. Despite their small size, budget, and support, the band was cavernously compensated for their fine performances. Last year they had been given a chance to serve on the parade staff for the Macy’s Parade.

There is nothing clever or exciting about this film. It is so predictable that you feel like shouting out, "I know what's going to happen next -- his wife is going to walk into the room, and you'd bet your life right, it's Brett St. John!" There is something in this picture that you can call it that, by Douglas N. Schwartz, released and released through Cinemac Releasing Corp. It was produced by Jerry Rockwood and Mark C. Levy. All concerned should have had better luck.
Coed Tournaments

Highlight Program

By John Zawoyski

The newly-appointed staff members of the Intramural Department have organized three events: volleyball, intramural football, and a tennis tournament.

With an "overwhelming number" of 450 participants in the coed and men's division of Intramural Football, the staff has seen a successful effort by the student body in helping support the leisure department.

The newly appointed staff, headed by Intramural Director McKinley Boston, was even more impressed by the reaction of the coed division.

"The staff's response to last semester's coed softball games brought the idea of having a coed softball tournament," commented Richter.

There are 20 men's teams divided into two 10-team divisions. The top four teams in each division will be in the playoffs.

In the coed league there are 10 teams where the top four are again in the finals, which will be held on October 29-31.

A TEAM consists of 15 players, with six participating at any one time. Games began yesterday at the Potter and Bohs Hall fields and will be played every weekday from 4 to 7 pm.

For the first time the Intramural Department is sponsoring a divisional tennis tournament. Last year the tournament was run informally on a simple challenge procedure. This year there are 56 participants with five divisions: men's and women's singles in both average and advanced classes and mixed doubles.

THE TOURNAMENT will be run on a double elimination basis. In addition to coed football, the Intramural Department has set up a coed volleyball league.

The Council meeting will be held at 3 pm today in the fourth floor Student Center conference room. Election of officers will be conducted.

FRIDAY: 2 to 4 pm.

The pool is also open on Sundays from 2 to 5 pm and 7 to 9 pm.

Tennis Team

Third In Tourney

"Let's say it was a respectable performance," Dr. George Petty remarked when asked about the tennis team's showing in the fall tournament at Upsala College last weekend.

The Indians finished third in the team standings with Upsala topping first place and Fairleigh Dickinson University placing second.

MSC's George List and Russ Pomeroy both reached the quarterfinals by winning three matches each.

Pomeroy lost out to FDU's Steve Emerico in what Petty termed "one of the more exciting matches of the tournament."

The newly appointed coach was pleased with his squad's showing but expressed a slight apprehension about the future. "We're going to have to be stronger in the middle number," Petty said, "because we lack the depth at the top that we had last year."

PETTY WENT on to explain that MSC went to Upsala without two of their top players, Tom Krukel, who was playing in a tournament in south Jersey, and John Donleycott, the NJSCC singles champ last year, is still recuperating from a swimming accident that left him partially paralyzed.

Upsala, who won the doubles competition, placed the two top players in the finals, and FDU had two players in the semi-finals.

PETTY WAS also enthusiastic about the play of the doubles team of List and Kevin Schmidt and freshman Ray Salani who "looked good" despite falling to one of the eventual semi-finalists in singles competition.

The team will be participating in the Eastern College Athletic Conference tournament next week at Rider where Petty is looking for a better effort. "We should have a full squad there," he promised.

Student Center
Hartwick Edges MSC 2-1

By Joan Miketzuk

Oneonta, N.Y. - Facing nationally ranked Hartwick College in the first game of the season is definitely not starting out with the lightest half of the schedule.

It was feared that the M雾 soccer team might be the 600 "riding into the valley of death," the lambs going to the slaughter.

But like David opposing Goliath, the Indians rose to the occasion.

NOT TO say that they actually went out and killed the giant (tamed it), but a 2-1 loss to one of the nation's top ranked schools was far from the expected outcome.

To top it off, the Indians were actually winning for most of the game. Joe Cozza netted a goal at 23:30 of the second period to put the team in the lead, but a Hartwick score in the first game of the season is nationally ranked Hartwick College.

"We had 23 freshmen come out for the team," Olson said, "and we've got a lot of upperclassmen." WHAT HAPPENED, to the seasoned veterans? "Most of them graduated," the congenial coach mourned.

Senior Pat McCarthy and Laura Samon, inner and goalie respectively, are both returning with three years of experience.

Despite the two goals, Wolfarth exclaimed that goalie Chuck D'errico "was super in goal."

"We got some breaks on shots hitting the crossbar," Wolfarth said, "but they all even out."

Donna Olson's field hockey squad.

Serbeck has two year experience as a three-year veteran of the MSC field hockey wars and junior Kathy Sanson, inner and goalie respectively, are both returning with three years of experience to bolster the Squaws' hopes for a successful season.

The Tatnawit of the squad, however, is a combination of freshmen and first year varsity.

Ward converted a Dave D'errico pass winger's centering pass that was headed into the net.

The game away.

Petro tallied an unassisted goal to put Hartwick's Steve Jameson's seven. "That was a real professional goal," Olson claimed, "and we've got a lot of upperclassmen."

Despite the two goals, Wolfarth couldn't put it in. That would have put us at 2-0 and they might have folded, but that's the way this game goes."

The second-year coach couldn't have been more pleased with his team's showing in the opener. "I was really proud of all our kids. They didn't quit," he remarked.

Following yesterday's game against Newark College of Engineering, the Indians travel to Glassboro State on Saturday for a 1:30 contest.

THEIR NEXT home game will be under the lights next Wednesday against Jersey City State. Sprague Field (the football field) will be the site with the kickoff at 8pm.

Six Evenings of Folk and Jazz

Walter, senior Carol Huyler, junior Julie Schmater and freshmen Muriel Chappel, Karen Gehanen, Kim Hamilton and Debbie Martin complete the varsity roster.

THE Squaws open their season on Tuesday at Kings College before meeting Glassboro State on Friday.

THE GLASSBORO match will take place at Brookdale Park, off Grove Street in Bloomfield, at 3:30 pm. All home games are played at the Brookdale field.

The Trenton State game, originally slated for Oct. 11, has been changed to Oct. 22 at home at 3:30 pm.

Otherwise the schedule remains the same as last year's, "it's still a strong schedule," Olson claimed, citing the opener with Kings as one of the tougher matches the Squaws will face this season.

THE JV team also opens their season against Kings and Glassboro on the same date. The JV Squaws are coached by Linda Keeney.

The Breaks worked both ways, too. Wolfarth said, "Joe (Cozza) had an open net staring at him but couldn't put it in. That would have really started out with the lightest half of the schedule.

Harrisers Tripped
In Opening Meet

By John Delery

With the threat of rain hovering over the field all day, CCNY was probably praying for a monsoon as the Montclair State nine "deluged" with success in the first meet of the season.

When head coach Horn stated that he had a few runners who were "ailing," it was the first time they had run in a five mile race.

Before the meet, Horn predicted, "how my boys react to this race will tell the story." After the race, Horn stated, "they were very jittery; even a few of my experienced runners.

"I have a fine, academically sound bunch of men, I wouldn't trade them for anyone else.

THE NEXT meet is this Saturday at Glassboro State.

The home team will take place at Garrett Mountain, West Paterson, at 3 pm.

MSC Nine Storm CCNY, 8-3

By Rich Keller

"I look for improvement, I really do," stated Dr. George Horn after Montclair State's loss to both Albany State and the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in the first meet of the season.

"I know for a fact that we will get better," continued Horn. He was not making any excuses when he stated that he had a few runners who were "ailing.

Horn had "cautious optimism" about this season and especially this first race.

Before the meet, Horn predicted, "how my boys react to this race will tell the story." After the race, Horn stated, "they were very jittery; even a few of my experienced runners.

The coach pointed out that "for many of the freshmen runners it was the first time they had run in a five mile race.

Horn concluded that "I have a fine, academically sound bunch of men, I wouldn't trade them for anyone else.

The final score was Albany St. 25, MSC 36, and Coast Guard Academy 25, the Tribe 26.

The Indian's top runner, Tim O'Donoghue, ran the distance of 4.75 miles in a winning time of 26:22.

Joe Konarkowski finished 18th with a 27:13. His performance was a sign of improvement for the Tribe.

Joe Konarkowski finished 18th with a 27:13. His performance was a sign of improvement for the Tribe.

MSC has a record of 0-2, while their opponents Albany St. and the Coast Guard Academy were 5-0 and 2-1 respectively.

The next meet is this Saturday at Glassboro State.

In the fourth quarter, Stroudsburg took advantage of MCC runners to move three times within 0:06.

The Warriors were set up by a fumble at the MSC 40. Nine play later, Cancosanti found Steve Newell with a 12 yard touchdown pass. On defense, the Tribe held the Warriors to zero points after the kickoff.

Cancosanti then went to the air for his third touchdown pass and a 26-3 lead.

As it was, the Tribe took a 30 lead into the lockerroom as a result of a 40 yard Jack Lattnerman field goal. The score came with three seconds remaining after Gary Fitzgerald recovered a Stroudsburg fumble.

MSC's OTHER score was a three yard run by Bob Herrmann. It came in the fourth quarter when the game was well out of reach.

The Indians insisted on making a gift of the football last Saturday, and eventually handed over the entire game.

MSC committed seven turnovers which contributed to three out of the four East Stroudsburg State touchdowns in a 28-10 drubbing.

When asked what accounted for the numerous mistakes, McCready Boston was hard pressed for an explanation.

"That's a tough question," replied the assistant coach. "I guess you could call it a lack of execution.

The four fumbles weren't caused by hard tackles, but rather by missed snaps, sloppy handoffs, or careless ball handling. When they had the ball, MCC's running backs gained only 200 yards.

For the second straight week there was virtually no pass blocking, said coach Clary Anderson used three quarterbacks to accommodate for two completions, 25 yards, and three interceptions. That makes four completions for 31 yards on the season.

The situation is such that there might be a repeat of last year's 'quarterback shuffle.'

"Right now no one can be called the number one quarterback," added Boston. "Craig Hugger has the strongest arm of anyone but he hasn't shown it yet. Acker (Garv) has done a complete turn around from last year, and even (Hugger) wants to play, but he's inexperienced," he added.

EAST STROUDSBURG took a 7-2 lead last in the third quarter with a nineplay, 75 yard march. The drive was the Warriors' longest and the only one not started by a MSC turnover.

Then, in the fourth quarter, Stroudsburg took advantage of MCC turnovers to move three times within 0:06.

The Warriors were set up by a fumble at the MSC 40. Nine play later, Cancosanti found Steve Newell with a 12 yard touchdown pass. On defense, the Tribe held the Warriors to zero points after the kickoff.

Cancosanti then went to the air for his third touchdown pass and a 26-3 lead.

As it was, the Tribe took a 30 lead into the lockerroom as a result of a 40 yard Jack Lattnerman field goal. The score came with three seconds remaining after Gary Fitzgerald recovered a Stroudsburg fumble.

MSC'S OTHER score was a three yard run by Bob Herrmann. It came in the fourth quarter when the game was well out of reach.

Despite the loss, Boston was optimistic about the rest of the season. "We're still the class of the State Conference," he claimed. "We just have to beat our own passing.

The Indians travel to Long Island this weekend to face a nearly favored C.W. Post team. Post is 2-0 so far, but MCC pulled off an upset last year and will be looking for a repeat performance.

As Boston stated, "A win there could turn us right around."
