he feels that some overnight spaces are not necessary. The DESIGNED overnight lots are in the query and next to Panzar Gym. The fee for the day is $10, the same as the commuter fee. Applications for these spaces were filled by 172 residents. These applications were reviewed by a non-committee board consisting of Betty Cunningham, chairman of the Residence Hall Federation; John Shearman, coordinator of men's residence halls; and one representative from each dorm. Some of the residents have created parking problems because of its size. These applications required documentation such as a doctor's certificate or an employee's pay stub. The board discussed each application and made decisions on the basis of the most pressing need.

ACCORDING TO Shearman, the 50 temporary stickers were granted on the basis of "purely academic reasons, such as students teaching or field work." Although allocating more spaces to dorm students has created parking problems, Calabrese feels that some of the grounds stated in the applications are "reasonable." Shearman, who is also coordinator of off-campus housing, described the parking situation as "awful." He hopes that issuing these decals will ease the illegal overnight parking problem. Shearman stated that approximately 20 students have received permission to park in the Robin Hood Inn lot on Valley Road. Students may submit appeals for reconsideration in writing to the board.

'Swatch' Not Causing Parking Problems

By Patricia Mercorelli

The English department elected only one representative to fill the three spaces allocated to the department. The uncommitted students also chose one rep to fill four positions. Also LEFT with vacancies were the positions allocated to the Schools of Humanities, Math and Science, Education and Community Services and Professional Arts and Sciences. Angelo Genova, SGA president, will appoint students to fill the empty legislative seats, according to SGA vice-president Tom Barrett.

All of the freshman positions were filled. Elected as freshman officers were Benjamin Lacwell, president, Yoonee Hansard, vice-president, Anthony Maxham, secretary, and Nancy Blodgett, treasurer. Maxham and Blodgett ran unopposed.

BARRETT commented that the turnout was "better than average." He remarked that "significantly more students were in the freshman elections than voted for department representatives estimating that between 300-400 students voted in freshman elections while only half that number cast ballots for the department reps.

Some of the seats will be filled when Genova submits his choices to the legislature at next Tuesday's meeting. His nominees must be approved by 2/3 of the legislature. Barrett stated that there is no hurry to fill these vacancies since "we have a good cross-section of the student body." He said that while the legislature may be as large as 75 students, "that size group is almost impossible to work with." "I feel that we have a few good, dedicated people who can serve the interests of the SGA as well as those of their constituents," he continued.

Barrett complained about the lack of student interest in SGA affairs, likening it to the apathy that is sweeping the nation's college campuses.

MSC Has Acquired A Monument

By Maureen Garde

MSC has a monument on its hands. The 12 ft. high giant steel "Awful Awful" cup that graced the top of the Bonds Ice Cream store in Upper Montclair for many years, is now lying fortuitously on its side, behind the tennis courts.

The huge sign is a replica of the famous milk drink ("A w fu l big, sustenance for generations of kids") that graced the top of the Bonds store in Upper Montclair for many years.

The Bonds, who started the business during the Depression, lowered the town. Their store became a landmark. The Awful Awful itself became known throughout the area. We decided to do something to preserve the sign as a reminder of a piece of Valley Road history.

THE MONTECLAIR Board of Education was approached, but since liability problems and lack of a site in time for the regular meeting, the sign was set aside for storage. The decision was made to do something as a reminder of the store and the sign.

On Thursday morning it lay abandoned next to the Robin Hood Inn lot on Valley Road. Responding to the emergency, Dickson and Elam arrived quickly to allow the college to provide at least a temporary refuge for the homeless cup.

By 2 pm that afternoon the cup had arrived, in fact it arrived before Dickson and Elam had returned from lunch.

Vincent L. Calabrese, vice-president of business and finance, recalls his first encounter with the sign. "It was a bad day. The traffic was heavy, the parking problem was the worst it's been and I'd spent all morning trying to figure out what to do with more cars. I took a call from the security shack that afternoon. They said that there was a big truck with an ice cream cup on it blocking traffic on College Avenue, and what should they do with it. They also seemed like a problem to me, so I went out to take a look," he said.

IT WAS then that Calabrese realized that he did have a problem. "I told them to get that thing out of the way as fast as possible and put it behind the tennis courts," he said.

Dorm Parking Request Slashed

By Theresa Falcone

Overnight parking deals for dormitory residents have been cut from the requested 200 to 50 by Vincent Calabrese, vice-president of business and finance. These are permanent deals awarded for medical, employment, and personal reasons. However, an additional 50 temporary stickers will be issued till the end of the semester.

According to Calabrese, alloting 50 spaces to dorm students is not enough parking spaces but he feels that some overnight spaces are necessary. The DESIGNED overnight lots are in the query and next to Panzar Gym. The fee for the day is $10, the same as the commuter fee. Applications for these spaces were filled by 172 residents. These applications were reviewed by a non-committee board consisting of Betty Cunningham, chairman of the Residence Hall Federation; John Shearman, coordinator of men's residence halls; and one representative from each dorm. 'Dorm Parking Request Slashed' Behind the Tennis Courts"

"There's still no, and will probably never be, administration policy decides to do with it."

Dr. Dickson, who accepted the cup on behalf of the college and would like to keep it, said he's definitely open to suggestions.
A TRADITIONAL BACKGROUND — For the “Awful Awful” cup will be provided by College Hall

If You Were An Ice Cream Cup

If you were a giant ice cream cup, where would you like to be? MSC has given a temporary home to the giant “Awful Awful” sign that once lived on top of the Bonds Ice Cream store in Upper Montclair. But no one knows quite what to do with it. Suggestions so far have ranged from using it on a Homecoming float to the giant “Awful Awful” sign that would make excellent sanitary landfill for the campus. The people responsible for giving the sign to the college feel certain that money could be raised within the Montclair community to pay for repairing and construction of a base, if the college provides a permanent site.

A MODERN BACKGROUND — For the “Awful Awful” would be found in Botin Hall. The MONTCLARION is accepting suggestions on a future home for the cup. The newspaper office is on the fourth floor of the Student Center.
SGA Ok’s MAC, SFA Budgets

By Carla Capizzi

SGA legislators on Tuesday passed, with little dissent, the Montclair Athletic Commission’s (MAC) 1973-74 budget of $150,000. That figure, a 20% reduction of MAC’s spring request of $123,439, was approved by a vote of 21-2, with only two abstentions.

The legislators also approved the Student Filmmakers Association (SFA) $10,500 budget which it had defeated two weeks ago. SFA’s budget was passed after an appropriation committee spokesman recommended that the legislature

"accept the budget as it stands."

Tuesday’s meeting was the last for many of the newly-elected legislators. For their benefit, SGA president Angelo Genova explained that MAC’s original budget had followed its guideline of $15 per student, but its actual budget had followed its guideline of $105,000. That figure, a 20% reduction of MAC’S spring request of $123,439, was approved by a vote of 21-2, with "more student input" into MAC, the SGA president said.

After some brief questions on the nature and function of MAC, and its status in the SGA, the legislature overwhelmingly voted its approval of the revised budget. The quiet discussion preceding the vote was a marked contrast to past, often stormy MAC budget hearings with SFA reps.

MAC, which funds men’s and women’s varsity sports and six junior varsity sports, was a close one organization until 1970. It was then made into a separate body with a $13.50 per student maximum guideline. Last year this was reduced to $16 per student and the MAC board was established. Last spring former SGA president Sam Crane proposed that MAC be cut from the student activities fee altogether, but withdrew the bill because of strong opposition.

SGA’s policy board approved the new MAC and SFA budgets at their meeting Tuesday. The policy board meeting was the first for many of the newly elected legislators.

Policy Board Approves
September Construction

By Barbara Mishelli

The Student Center Policy Board approved the plan for extra administrative office space in the center, submitted by center director Michael Loewenthal, at their meeting Monday night. Loewenthal’s proposal included the conversion of the work/file room on the fourth floor of the center into three offices. This construction had already been completely before the board’s decision was made.

According to Loewenthal, he was notified of the addition of three new administrators to his staff in July and the last policy board meeting of the year. The former policy board chairperson Carol Dancy, called a meeting in early July but no action was taken because only three members were present. Loewenthal then felt that he had to determine where to put the officials on his own.

His decision was to separate the work/file room into three sections and put Quarrarry, the College Life Union Board and the Graduate Student Organization into the new spaces, placing the additional administrators into those organization’s present offices. This action prompted criticism by SGA president Angelo Genova who called the board “a rubber stamp” operation. He stated that the entire board was not aware of the action before it actually began. He said further that the students had a right to know about the action and that in the future, the board should assert itself on important matters in the center.

The remaining portion of the work/file area is not sufficient proof of how efficient it could have been. He felt that the area could have been used as a right to know about the action and that in the future, the board should assert itself on important matters in the center.

On the immediate construction, the board was not aware of the office construction before it actually began. He said further that the students had a right to know about the action and that in the future, the board should assert itself on important matters in the center.

On the remaining portion of the work/file area, which was not used for the office construction, according to Loewenthal, the area could have been used for the board’s meeting. The board was not aware of the action before it actually began. He said further that the students had a right to know about the action and that in the future, the board should assert itself on important matters in the center.

The remaining portion of the work/file area was not used for the office construction, according to Loewenthal.

The SGA president Angelo Genova pointed out that the room was the only available for one year which he feels is not sufficient proof of how efficient it could have been. He felt that the area could have been used for work organization, student meetings and as a center for all of the student organizations.

Genova proposed that the board investigate the possibility of dividing the purple conference room, also on the fourth floor of the center, into two offices. If this was done, he continued, the largest of the new offices could be converted into a conference room.

The board decided to research this proposal at their Sept. 17 meeting. At this week’s meeting, however, the report stated that the room is used frequently by many different organizations for conferences. The students decided to leave the room in its present condition.

Genova called for the establishment of priorities in the allocation of rooms, as students as well as administrators require office space for their organizations.
WMSC Clashes With ATT And NJB

By Gene Moore

In what may be an unprecedented action by a college radio station, Montclair State’s WMSC has filed a complaint with the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) against American Telephone and Telegraph (ATT) and The New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. (NJB). The action is being taken as an attempt to rectify a present situation regarding the rental of “time” on telephone lines. These lines are used to broadcast away sports events.

Charles Hecht, general manager of WMSC, cited “inadequate service, inaccurate billing, and a poor attitude” on the part of the two companies as being the chief reasons for filing the complaint. Hecht stated that both companies were notified of the station’s intentions but have taken no action thus far.

According to Hecht, who initiated and has guided all of WMSC’s maneuvers with the two companies, no more games will be broadcast until the problem has been “cleared up.” Normally from three to four football and basketball games are carried each year.

IN RENTING “lines” from the telephone company, there are two types available, Hecht explained, “equalized high quality, very expensive” and “unequalized” (lower quality, less costly). WMSC rents the latter type when it broadcasts sports events.

Hecht stated that although he had not been satisfied with the telephone company’s service for some time, the station began carrying football games again this fall. On Sept. 22, “lines” were rented in order to broadcast the MSC-East Stroudsburg State contest from Pennsylvania. WMSC paid $75 for three hours of time, but the “lines” did not become available until midway through the first quarter. This prompted Hecht to file the complaint, “It makes us look bad and our advertisers look bad,” he later said regarding that specific incident.

When filing a complaint with the PUC, a written summary of the grievance is submitted initially. The PUC investigates the situation and if it feels the case merits a public hearing, one is held. If WMSC’s case reaches this stage, Hecht stated that he will present the station’s argument.

If the PUC’s ruling favors WMSC, the outcome will either be a reprimand to ATT and NJB, or possibly some amount of credit on bills already paid. Regardless of what the commission decides, the outcome will not be known for some time. As Hecht said, “This will be a long and drawn out situation.”

"Perspective" Expands Format

By Nancy Forson

"Perspective," the political magazine published by the Council on International and National Affairs (CINA), will expand its format to reflect the "social, cultural, and political attitudes of the college," according to editor Robert P. Silverman.

Formerly the magazine focused on national and world events, Silverman plans to include articles that will be relevant to the Montclair State College community. In addition to the editorial and news features, "Perspective" will now give interested parties the chance to propose ideas, make suggestions and offer comments on anything from US foreign policy to Montclair State administrative difficulties.

"Perspective" will offer the individual an opportunity to air his views, lifestyles and values," editor Silverman said. He hopes "Perspective" will serve as an organ to stimulate the exchange of ideas among the members of the college community.

"Montclair State is a school with a lot of potential," he stated. "Our biggest problem is the fact that it is largely a commuter college. If more students lived on campus they would be more willing to involve themselves in projects like "Perspective.""

The magazine is beginning a new feature entitled "Protests and Proposals" in which students and faculty are asked to submit any "legitimate gripe, constructive criticism or announcement of general interest," according to a memo issued by Silverman. The "gripes" are asked to be kept to 50-80 words in length and to be submitted to Mark Montgomery, feature editor, in the CINA office.

Silverman expressed disappointment as the fact that funds for the financing of "Perspective" had to be cut due to lack of student response to the publication. As a result of this cut in CINA's budget, the magazine will no longer appear quarterly but will be published once a semester.

'Some Old Concept of a Sherry Hour'

A reception for President David W.D. Dickson will be held on Wed., Oct. 10 between 11 am - 2 pm in ballroom B in the Student Center. Hosted by the SGA and the center, the reception is open to all students. Tom Barrett, SGA vice-president, describes the reception as "an informal way to meet the president on a one to one basis."

Barrett explained that various administrators would be at these receptions to answer any questions students may have. SGA will sponsor a series of such "receptions for the week of Oct. 9."

"Dickson Reception"

The reception is open to "all students interested in political attitudes of the college," according to editor Robert P. Silverman. The editorial and news features, "Perspective" will now offer comments on anything from US foreign policy to Montclair State administrative difficulties.

Department, Dean Won’t Aid Band

By Bernard Baggs
Former Marching Band President

"Absence of support ended the marching band due to lack of support from the college community, the athletic department and the administration," Montclarion, Sept. 27, 1973.

I think that the wrong people are getting the blame for the non-existence of a marching band this semester.

If the marching band is a musical ensemble run by the music department, then why doesn't the music department accept any blame for its absence.

By Bernard Baggs
Former Marching Band President

The problem lies in the fact that the music department will not recognize the marching band as a musical, performing ensemble worthy enough to give credit to a music major, while a non-music major that the marching band practiced at least eight hours a week as compared to the two-to-four hours rehearsal time of the other credit-worthy performing ensembles.

The problem lies in the fact that the marching band did not play before 1970 because of lack of support. It was known that there is more to be enjoyed about music. Usually, and at most places, the registration period causes a clash between the individual student's or faculty member's desire for ease and convenience and the system's rather limited ability to satisfy those ends.

The change of program period immediately before the start of classes can be four days rather than the five days assigned for that process.

To take away something that performs weekly to an average of 4800 people not only deprives the musically talented person of a chance to perform but also the music department away from the rest of the college community it deletes a necessary course for a music major and ruins a vital avenue of public relations.

If your talents lie in the areas of pumping gas, grilling hamburgers, waiting on harried students, faculty and administrators during lunch hour, overseeing ping pong tournaments, controlling temperamental vending machines, weighing up pounds and pounds of candy, mixing chemicals to clean rugs, painting murals on unimaginative walls, designing room set-ups for assorted meetings and social events, directing visitors and providing general information (with a smile), teaching leathercrafts and the art of candlemaking, working cash registers, typing and other types of general office work, designing special brochures and calendars, constructing offices and assuming responsibility for operation of a building during evening hours, then there might be a job for you at the Student Center.

Students are employed in the building in every area of its operation including food service, maintenance, the game-staff, information desk, gameroom, bookstore, administrative offices, specialized building operations and supervisory positions. According to Michael Lowenthal, director of the Center, “It has always been one of the basic philosophies of the Center, under which all the operations have been designed, to open student jobs to as many different areas as possible providing not just employment, but a learning experience as well.”

FUNDING for the student payroll comes from four possible sources. Students who qualify for Work Scholarship of E.O.A. (the College Work Study Program established by the Economic Opportunity Act of 1965) receive their paychecks from the state. Approval for these students must first be obtained from the Financial Aids office directed by Randall Richards. The Student Center payroll absorbs foreign students and others who don’t qualify for the preceding programs, as well as students who earn more than the base rate per hour due to the positions they hold. The fourth source of funding is from allocations provided by the state under blanket payroll.

Nancy G. DiGrazia, assistant to the Center director, coordinates student personnel and payroll for the building. According to her, there are two ways to apply for a Center job. An application can be filed in her fourth floor office and forwarded to an area as a vacancy arises and the skills indicate. All applications are kept in chronological order, however DiGrazia added that the waiting list is becoming rather long. Students may also talk with an area supervisor, attain a position and then complete the necessary paperwork through her office.

DiGrazia emphasized that the student employment—percentages compared to the Affirmative Action standards set by the Affirmative Action Committee “All areas of the building screen and employ persons regardless of their race, sex, creed and national origin”

In a study conducted last spring it was established that of a total of 182 student workers, 61% were females, 39% male. These figures are almost identical to the makeup of the college as a whole. Of the same total, 27% were minority students. For the purposes of this study, minority was defined by Affirmative Action to include any Black, Latin or Asian individual.

This type of study is projected to be done on student employment twice a year towards the end of each semester presently a minimum of 182 students staff the Center. The base pay rate of the building is $2.10 per hour. The few students who earn more per hour hold “assistant positions with supervisory responsibilities, or have specialized skills such as an electrician,” stated DiGrazia.

There is also a social side to being employed at the Center. In June a staff softball team was organized completely with a backup cheering section. The team was scheduled to play two games in July. One was rained out, but the SC sluggers rose to victory in the other against the Montclair Bombers, a college league team.

Unfortunately, against all Affirmative Action standards, the SC men refused to allow the SC women to participate actively in the game. The women then threatened to picket the next confrontation, but they were in luck — that one was rained out. Also unfortunately, due to a heavy August workload, the SC team had to postpone any further games this season, but perhaps new employees (both men and women) can look forward to spring training.

On Saturday, August 18, the First Annual Student Center Staff Picnic was held in the Life Hall Barbecue Pit. Featured activities included horseshoes, water balloon and egg throwing contests.

Continuing socially, at least three couples, of which both members are employed in the Center, are presently engaged or married. That’s not a bad average for only one year and three months of operation.

In the policy-making area, the staff of the Student Center holds a voting seat on the SC Policy Board. Last year the staff’s first representative was Ken Ganslen, employed in Building Operations. Presently the seat is vacant, but it should be filled within the next few weeks.

If your talents or interests lie in areas not mentioned in this article, suggest a new position. The administration constantly welcomes new and innovative ideas.
Off Campus Work Available

Do you have some spare time? Are you in need of some extra money? Although the time may not be readily available, the money is a welcome addition to any pocket. Maybe the Career Planning and Placement Office can help you find a job to fit any spare hours you may have.

Off-campus, part-time job opportunities look good, according to Charles Bargerstock, Director of Career Planning and Placement. The office is going into its third year at MCC. Part-time job listings, formerly located in the Financial Aid Office, are now handled by Bargerstock and his staff.

Students are welcome in the office at any time to browse through the books containing job listings, which are photocopied and written into the office. Although the office does not operate as an employment agency, "we will make every effort to help students find employment," commented Bargerstock. "The office doesn't get the job, the student does," he continued.

According to Bargerstock, this part-time job service is also available to students from other colleges, in the hope that the other colleges will offer their services to Montclair students. The office is open Monday through Friday during the day and by appointment in the evenings and weekends.

Many types of part-time jobs become available through the Career Planning and Placement Office. They range from sales, clerical, drivers, receptionists, lab technicians and tellers, to waitresses, factory workers and even Santa Claus during the Holidays.

The most important function of the Career Planning and Placement Office, commented Bargerstock, is to help prepare students for the world of work. However, the office is now growing and expanding, he added, and at least 50% of their time is spent handling part-time jobs.

At the present time, Katherine Van Houten, secretary for Career Planning and Placement, is in charge of the part-time job situation. Other members of the staff include, Catherine Solnesen, Assistant Director, and two graduate and three undergraduate students as part-time employees.

Activity seems to be the key word at Career Planning and Placement. Along with the part-time jobs and preparing students to work, the office provides many other services. Tutors are registered in the office and referred to people who request them. Seniors are aided in setting up interviews and writing resumes throughout the year. Summer jobs, including those in camps, are also handled here, added Bargensack, and they began to come in around March.

According to Bargensack, this student without a car or other means of transportation. This is often the plight of the dorm student. Babysitting in the immediate vicinity of the campus is often the solution. However, these positions are no longer handled in Career Planning and Placement, but are now referred to the various dorms.

Another problem facing Career Planning and Placement Bargerstock feels, is that the office is understaffed. He would like to provide better services to the students such as in the area of part-time employment, registering students and keeping accurate records of positions filled. This can be helped by students notifying the office when they accept a position, added Bargensack.

Although the job market seems highly unfavorable in our present economic climate, part-time jobs are not affected, according to Bargensack. There is a great demand for goods and services, he continued, and part-time positions fill many of these services. The Part-time jobs are an important part of our economy and they are usually filled by students.

So, if you are feeling the pinch of steadily rising costs, visit the Career Planning and Placement Office. The door is always open and they might have the job for you.
On Campus Student Jobs

By John Picinich

With the rising costs of living and education many students might find that they need in addition financial assistance. The main function of the Financial Aid Office is to provide students with on campus job opportunities.

There are two types of financial aid through work programs offered to students.

ONE, THE College Work Study Program, established by the Economic Opportunities Act of 1965, is one of the variety of programs the act established. It is mainly funded by the federal government with the college contributing approximately 20% of the monies to the Work Study Program.

The other program, Work Scholarship, is funded by the State and the monies such as running a film, typing ability or being able to work a mimeograph machine, he said. Jobs of a technical nature available to students. Richards demonstrated, are ones like working in the Media Center. Students in this area are able to operate equipment for a teacher, such as the revolving film projector for a professor during a class.

A student could also be employed as a research assistant for a professor. Richards explained that a student's job in this area could be one of compiling data collected in an outside study conducted by the professor, to be used in the professor's class or in the writing of a report or article for a publication, or even a book.

Richards went on to say that student employees could work in the library "operating the desk, the reserve room or in the filing of books.

"IN THE Business Office, Richards continued, "a student can assist in the record keeping." He added that students hold maintenance jobs in the Student Center and work in the cafeteria, kitchen and as cashiers.

Richards went on to say that there is a great variety of on-campus work a student can find, or recommended by his office. He stated that "almost every department" has student workers.

These jobs are not really for students looking for a type of work experience but are for students who are in "financial need to stay in school," Richards stated.

In order to apply for an on-campus job, a student must first complete an application form that requires information on the financial basis of his or her family for the Financial Aid office to determine whether or not the student is in need of financial assistance to stay in school.

"THE FIRST priority (of the office) is to try to place students who are in need of financial assistance in order to stay in school and work on campus," Richards emphasized. He added that if his office is unable to find a job for a student, he and his staff must seek to find employment for the student off-campus in the local community.

In applying for Work Study, a student must fill out a Parental Costs Statement (PCS). Richards explained that this application is of a highly personal nature and Richards went so far as to say that some of the questions in it asked of the student are "as personal as any questions can get because they deal with the amounts of money a student's parent or parents can contribute.

Richards added that the PCS is very confidential with an extremely limited number of authorized personnel having access to them.

The Work Study Program is primarily designed to help "low income" needy students, Richards stated, though he dislikes the label "low income" because "I can not talk to a student and refer to him (or her) as low income." "A student is classified "needy" with regard to his or her financial ability to pay for the costs, tuition, dorm or books for college.

RICHARDS emphasized that the pay the students receive will remain at $2.10 to $2.15 and that all students will receive the $2.10 rate. "No student will receive more than the $2.10 an hour," he said. The Director outlined the main goals of his office that he hopes will be critical in the coming of the spring semester.

Richards anticipates that his office will be able to serve students as a sort of referral service in which students seeking employment can come to us and we could direct them to an employer on campus through a filing system on jobs open to students on this campus.

"Employers could indicate to us the type of person they want (with regard to skills) and we could direct that person to him (or her)," he added.

RICHARDS also hopes to improve the application procedure of the office. "It's a more efficient evaluation of applications in that applications would not remain incomplete as they sometimes do," he said.

Finally, Richards, the new Assistant Director of Financial Aid, will help Richards attain the two main goals.

She received her MA in counseling from Teacher's College in Columbia University, New York, in May 1973. She worked two years in a bank in Ohio in training assistants for that bank.

"Eventually I will be managing the Work Study Program," Williamson said. Presently the new assistant director will be reviewing procedures to an extent that she will be very familiar with them so that she would have time to counsel students, Richards related.

LAST YEAR there were 379 students on the College Work Study Program with a more number in the Work Scholarship Program, Richards added.

This year it is projected that there will be an increase in the state-funded program because of the reduction of funds in the federally-funded program.

Federal funds were reduced this year, Richards said, to help build a new program, Basic Educational Opportunities Grant Program. The three programs that will have the reductions are: the National Direct Student Loan Program, the Supplemented Economic Opportunity Grants Program and the College Work Study Program.

The FINANCIAL Aid Director hopes that during this year his office can give good service to students while implementing the new procedures necessary to realize his goals.

"We hope to accept new ideas through which we can improve the program," he concluded.

Today's Montclarion editorial "The Right Move," discussed the refunding of $2.25 per credit being made by Seton Hall University students and contrasted this action with the SGA's failure to refund MSC students' money from the War Memorial Board.

Firstly, consideration should be given to the amounts involved. In the SHU case, at $1.25 per credit, the average student carrying 12 credits would receive a $15 refund. In the War Memorial Board case, each student would have received $4 refund.

Out of this $4 refund, the administrative costs of drawing the checks, processing the refunds and mailing them out would have had to be paid. Therefore, a fair amount of money would have been literally wasted in administrative costs.

Secondly, consideration must go to the question of what was actually done with the money. The legislature did not spend weeks searching for ways to waste your money. Rather, the entire amount was placed in the "unappropriated surplus" line of the SGA budget. These funds were allocated over the course of the next year for some much-needed purchases and appropriations which greatly benefited the entire student body.

Among the programs funded in the last year were the Student Film Leasing Service (launched by an SGA appropriation of $10,000, which has benefited thousands of MSC students in the last year of operation, the free SGA legal service (funded last year by SGA appropriations totaling $5,150), which is available weekly to all students, and a permanent MSC art gallery which is being planned with the help of a $3,000 SGA appropriation.

EXPENDITURES

Other expenditures from this surplus include $650 for engraving services for the MONTCLARION, $2,500 to launch the Student Film Leasing Service, $2,000 to print faculty evaluation reports for MSC students, $1,100 to purchase Carbon Arch projectors for film presentations and $1,100 to outfit the Life Hall darkroom which is available to all students.

Student-FA’ley Alliance ‘Natural’

I wish to point and respond to reporter Bill Gibson’s attack upon the MSC American Federation of Teachers in the Sept. 27 issue of the MONTCLARON. The article is mistaken, irresponsible and destructive of student interests.

Mr. Gibson claims that, when students were lobbying against the tuition increase in Trenton, “it almost seemed that the AFT members were totally uninterested.”

“Where were our supposedly concerned AFT members?” he asks.

I have a perfect answer to that question. In the past two years there have been no AFT officers at MSC that I know of. Not only has the AFT been the bargaining agent for state colleges only since February, but two years ago there was not even a chapter of the AFT at MSC.

Why, Mr. Gibson, did you not attempt to find out that there was no AFT here two years ago? Anyone in the AFT who has been here two or more years could have told you.

True, the Old Faculty Association (under NJE A leadership) used to lobby at that time to fight the tuition increase. But this omission was only another example of the failure of the NJEA to do anything to aid higher education. The NJEA was and is in the hip pocket of the Chancellor of Higher Education. The Chancellor and his office are fully aware of the student interest.

The NJEA is a national organization which has put lower administrative costs of drawing the checks, processing the refunds and mailing them out would have had to be paid. Therefore, a fair amount of money would have been literally wasted in administrative costs.

Baseball has come to the fore in recent months, passing attention from the ever-busy Ringo Starr. Although he has certainly been one of the more diversely talented members of the former Beatles, his talent has now been revealed as being more than just musical. His album, “The Evening Sun,” is typified much of Harrison’s solo work, which is a brilliant orchestral background sound that has been missing from the past few years.

The concept of a so-called “Ringo” album has achieved great popularity in recent years. Witness “Brian’s Song,” which was released earlier this year. Perhaps the most successful of the so-called “Ringo” albums is the current release, which is widely acclaimed as one of the year’s best selling albums.

Diamond Squad Sinks Vikings Twice, 6-1, 15-1

By John Delery
The rich get richer and the poor just keep on struggling along. An old adage yes, but in this case a useful one to describe Sunday's contest between Montclair State and Upsala College.

The Indians used strong pitching and a 25-hit performance to sweep both ends of a doubleheader, 6-1 and 15-1.

FRIDAY THE Indians played an exhibition game against Rutgers University and posted a 9-1 triumph to push their current winning streak to five and up their record to 11-4.

In the first game on Sunday the Tribe faced freshman Frank D'Antico, an all-state pitcher in high school. But backed by poor defense and a sun which played havoc all day he was no match for the "big sticks" of the Indians.

Upsala struck first when D'Antico himself led off the second inning with a sacrifice fly to left field to score Upsala's only run of the day.

Third baseman Gary Banta stroked an insurance single to center. Following a walk and a sacrifice fly the "big sticks" of the Indians blasted four more Upsala runs in the fourth inning to take command. Jim Rake drove in three runs in that frame.

Upsala centerfielder Bob Buckley socked a triple to deep rightfield then came right back in the third to take the lead, then put the game on ice with an eight-run outburst in the third.

DiJianne drive in three runs in that inning with a sacrifice fly and a two-run double.

Steve O'Worid pitch the entire seven innings, striking out five and allowing only three hits.

He retired 13 of the last 14 men he faced including 12 in a row, if that weren't enough for an afternoon the Indians blasted four more Upsala pitchers in the second game for 16 hits and 15 runs in a total laugher.

MSC scored twice in the second to take the lead, then put the game on ice with an eight-run outburst in the third.

DiJianne drive in three runs in that inning with a sacrifice fly and a two-run double.

It is turning into a familiar pattern and one that MSC fans hope will not become a trademark of the '73 season. Once again, the Indians were undone by a lack of adequate passing, this time falling to a well-balanced C.W. Post squad, 25-22.

The Tribe was also out-rushed by the Long Island University Post Pioneers, 168-136. Post quarterback Bob Acker, who is quickly emerging as a dominant player, threw for 190 yards in this season.

Despite the disadvantage in passing yards to the Indians' 175. But that didn't stop Post's 60 yard drive capped by Finkin's five yard run, making it 7-6. Then, with 54 seconds left in the half, the Pioneers took a 10-6 lead.

The Indians were patient enough to score first at 26:02 of the first half. Joe Cozza took a deflected pass from Steve Kosyla and put the ball to the Indians' 175. This time, 13:33 as Prof Jim Lingerfield took a pass from Steve Kosyla and put the ball to the Indians' 12.

Following up a mack by an Irish fullback, Mykulak drove the ball into the heart of the Post line. The score brought a large round of applause from the friendly MSC crowd.

GOAL! MSC netminder Tony Kasaray makes a vain lunge after the ball as it hits the net after a Dick Moore penalty kick. The goal was all the Indians needed for a 1-0 win over the Engineers last Wednesday.

Montclair State's soccer plays host to William Paterson College in their second regular season night match Tuesday night. Game time is 8 pm at Sprague Field (the football field in back of Pancer Gym)

MSC took last year's contest with Paterson, 5-1, and a stronger Newark State team tied Paterson recently at 2-2. Since the Indians have made a habit of beating the Newark squad, the MSC team should post its second win of the season against the Saxons.

THE TEAM invaded the home of the Gloucester Profs Saturday with expectations of an easy win, led in a game marked by missed MSC scoring opportunities and unimpressed Gloucester play, such was not to be, as 3-3 tie resulted.

FULLBACK JOHN Tkaczuk added: "It was our game too - we have to stick it in the nose. We concluded that, "We did what we had to do but we have to be patient."

The Indians were through to score first at 26:02 of the first half. Joe Cozza took a mack pass from Bob Mykulak and punched it easily through the right side.

At 3:40 when the ball went in off an MSC player in a goalmouth scramble, the tally was awarded to Scott Dewhurst. Assistant coach Manny Schleschter explained earlier after the game, "We are the ones to blame. We missed them (two open net shots) and we didn't keep them (McKay and Dulan) wide enough."

The spectators were rewarded at 13:33 as Prof Jim Lingerfield took a pass from Steve Kosyla and put the ball high into the Indians' goal.

These two players combined for another goal at 31:57. This time Kosyla was led by Lingerfield to create a breakaway against goalie Chuck Dulan. The shot, deflected by netminder right hand to give Gloucester a 3-1 edge.

With TEN minutes left in the game, Dick Moore netted a free kick to bring MSC within a goal. Bill Gaettner knotted the score on an assist from Manny Menerdiz. Despite a flurry of MSC shots in the final minutes, the Indians were unable to put another score past Ross.

The Indians needed only one goal to claim the third place of C.W. Post's Intercollegiate Soccer Association's weekly ranking. Assistant coach Manny Schleschter explained later after the game, "We need to score more."

The Indians scored three goals against Glassboro Saturday night in their second regular season night match, giving them a 2-1 lead. They went on to score another goal in the second half, making the final score 3-1.
