A faculty strike deadline has been set for Feb. 4. The deadline was called by the Council of New Jersey State College Locals (CNJSLC), acting upon the Nov. 30 authorization vote of the faculty of the eight state colleges.

Should the faculty strike, it would be the first time in this country's history that an entire state college system would be paralyzed.

AN AMERICAN FEDERATION of Teachers source stated that the setting of the strike deadline does not necessitate a faculty walk-out. If the AFT and the Department of Higher Education come to an agreement, that same AFT source said, a faculty strike will not occur.

"If a contract is not signed by the strike deadline," said Marcoantonio Lacatena, acting president of CNJSLC, "then the faculty will strike Feb. 4 at 1 am.

The strike deadline was set at a special meeting of the council Friday night. The meeting was attended by representatives of the state colleges.

LACK OF PROGRESS in the current AFT-state talks was the prime reason for the setting of the deadline. Apparently, the deadline will give the AFT a stronger hand in the bargaining than it has up to date.

The deadline was apparently set for Feb. 4 so that AFT-state mediators could continue with the result of an agreement being signed by the AFT and state.

"We (AFT) will try everything in our power to obtain a contract without a disruption to the education calendar," Lacatena said.

IT APPEARS that Feb. 4 was chosen as the deadline to give the AFT more of an opportunity to enlist the aid of AFL-CIO unions on this campus. This does not mean, however, that oncampus AFL-CIO affiliated union members will go out on strike should the faculty pull a job action.

"The trucks themselves rolled over the ice," he said and the plows "couldn't dig in" because the ice was "hard and frozen." Although the roads were salted Sunday evening, the overnight rain washed the salt away. "We (AFT) will try everything in our power to obtain a contract without a disruption to the education calendar," Lacatena said.

According to Lacatena, Barak was in Cincinnati, Ohio, to attend a national AFT staff meeting.

The CNJSLC acting president stated that Barak would assess the AFT situation in this state at the meeting. One of the main objectives of this meeting, Lacatena said, is to "plan where to put AFT resources." Frank Mason, director of Office of Employee Relations, stated that the negotiations are proceeding slowly because of consideration to the future governor's policies as the talks may be different from Cahill's.

MSC Closed By Year's First Storm

By Carla Capizzi

Sleet mixed with snow, icy winds and sub-freezing temperatures teamed up on Monday to give MSC students their first 'snow day' in three years.

The college was closed down by MSC President David R.D. Dickson early that morning when salt-over roads and sidewalks made the campus "impassable," according to Joseph V. Coaxum, presidential assistant.

By Tuesday the campus was accessible and students and faculty members stripped back to resume classes.

"The snow" mixed with sleet, was followed by rain which turned into snow, making snow removal difficult, according to the engineer in charge of maintenance, Joseph McGirry. He said that his crew of 25 men, back up by an outside contractor, worked from late Sunday afternoon through Tuesday morning with only one break.

Several dozen cars were caught on the campus during the storm's onslaught on Sunday. Although several cars skidded off the glazed roads, no serious accidents or any injuries were reported, according to Keith Kaufman, supervisor of security, safety and parking.

However, SGA president Angelo Genova felt that security should have done a "better job of warning people not to come on campus" on Sunday and Monday.

Genova also commented that although the roads and lots were "much improved" since Sunday, the condition of the walkways on campus "could be much better."

MCGIRRY POINTED out that, in view of the rapidly-changing weather conditions, "We (maintenance) did a damn good job." He described Sunday's storm as "one of the worst we've had in terms of being able to remove snow."

He explained that "90% of the accumulation was "snow and rain which formed a hard crust.""

"The trucks themselves rolled over the ice," he said and the plows "couldn't dig in" because the ice was "hard and frozen." Although the roads were salted Sunday evening, the overnight rain washed the salt away. The hail which replaced the rain created a new layer of ice, he said, which had to be broken up by hand with shovels or broken up by the contractor's heavy equipment.

He complained that the "tremendous number" of cars parked on the campus hampered snow removal operations. Cars parked both in lots and on roads and access lanes presented problems for the snow plow operators, who had to maneuver around the vehicles, he said.

Charles Marcianite, president of this state's AFL-CIO, officially declared AFL-CIO support of the AFT and AFL-CIO unions on college campuses in a Dec. 14 press release. "We will support our brothers and sisters...in the state's colleges in their hour of need," the release read.

Lacatena indicated that with the deadline set for Feb. 4, the AFT will have a great amount of time to contact Gov.-elect Brendan T. Byrne and ask him for aid in the talks as well as go to "political forces outside the state."

ROBERT BATES, AFT national representative and chief negotiator, could not be reached for comment.
MSC  Foreign Students

INS Interrogates Four

By Kevin Tait

The future of foreign students at Montclair State seems very insecure because of the Immigration and Naturalization Service’s "get tight" policy.

"If we don't do something fast," cautioned Joseph Kloza, foreign student advisor, "foreign students may become frightened by tuition hikes as well as an increase in robbing and boarding fees." Kloza added that foreign students felt that the Immigration and Naturalization Service was using them as targets in an effort to rid the country of illegal immigrants.

"MANY CITIZENS of New Jersey and Trenton are our foreign students only as a tax burden," Kloza continued.

"It's true," the director said, "that the INS is presumed in its task because of the alarming unemployment rate and the added tax burden of citizens to upkeep those illegal immigrants, but why breathe down on the necks of those foreign students who are in school?"

KLOZA CLAIMED that four of his students have been thoroughly interrogated by the INS. The most recent interrogation involved an Ethiopian student "who felt like a criminal" after his ordeal, Kloza said.

Another student is still waiting the decision of the INS after three months and another is yet to get a hearing," Kloza mentioned.

Kloza pointed out that the INS believes it could get to illegal immigrants easier by investigating the records of colleges to determine the disposition of those foreign students who came to the US on bona fide student visas and have either overstayed or failed to continued their schooling.

Of the four students investigated by the INS this year, only one has been "given the green light." This, Kloza said, reflected an upsurge of the INS's stringentity towards foreign students at MSC.

The director advised that "The first and foremost thing foreign students ought to do is to make their existence felt throughout America."

This could be achieved by a more positive involvement in college and off-campus community programs by all foreign students, Kloza added.

Come Celebrate Christmas
Midnight Mass
Freeman Hall Dining Room
Christmas Eve

RESEARCH

thousands of topics
$2.75 per page

Nation's most extensive library of research material
SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5485

Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

MONTCLARION/Rob Adochio

ART ON DISPLAY: One of the works that greets the eye upon entering the hallway of the Student Center. The exhibit, on display Wednesday, was sponsored by the Latin American Student Organization (LASO).

VOLKSWAGEN ENGINES REBUILT
LITTLE CAR CO.
119 Grove St.
Montclair, N. J.
783-6380

WE BACK THEM LONGER
BECAUSE WE BUILD THEM BETTER

SCHILLER'S
The Complete Bookstore
Garden State Plaza
Paramus Next to Gimbels
843-3727

Over 35,000 Titles in Stock.
Including Large Selection in Psychology, History, Sociology, Literature, Business, Film, Education, etc.

Bloomfield Guitar Studio
429-8063
Lessons For Advanced Intermediate
Beginners
Sales - Rentals - Repairs
Discounts on All String Accessories.
All Styles Including
Steel Guitars
606 Bloomfield Ave.
Bloomfield, N.J. 07003

a new title: LAWYERS ASSISTANT a new career for the COLLEGE GRADUATE
1974 LAWYER'S ASSISTANT PROGRAMS:
Spring · February 25 — May 24
Summer · June 16 — August 30
Fall · September 13 — December 13

ADELPHI UNIVERSITY
in cooperation with The National Center for Legal Training
...qualifies you to assume responsibilities with a law firm, corporation or legal agency as a skilled member of a legal team. A challenging position in an increasing need.
You are specialist at:
• Corporations
• Estates, Trusts and Wills
• Litigation
• Real Estate and Mortgages

SEAN OF CONTINUING EDUCATION
Department 654
Adelphi University
Garden City, N.Y. 11530
516-224-8700 ext. 7804, 7865

Come Celebrate Christmas
Midnight Mass
Freeman Hall Dining Room
Christmas Eve

MONTCLARION
By Carolyn O’Dea

The MONTCLARION is published weekly throughout the academic year, except during examination, vacation and innovative periods, by the Student Government Association, Inc., of Montclair State College, Valley Blvd. at Normal Ave., Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043. Telephone: (201) 893-5169.

Our content is protected by the New Jersey College Press Association and is free to copy without charge. The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief.

American Family Planning is a Hospital-Affiliated Organization offering you all alternatives to an unwanted pregnancy. For information in your area call: (212) 449-2006.

American Family Planning
A Medical Service to Help You

Circle 33 on Reader Inquiry Card

The MONTCLARION is a member of the New Jersey College Press Association and is free to copy without charge. The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief.

Volunteer nominations are due January 27.

Bill Gibson
Frank Balschrier
Patricia Mercuro
John Pincelli
JoAnne Sworowicz
Scott Winter
Michael F. X. Grace
Moe of APO
Carol Giordano
Bob Adochio
Joan Mikelitz

ART ON DISPLAY: One of the works that greets the eye upon entering the hallway of the Student Center. The exhibit, on display Wednesday, was sponsored by the Latin American Student Organization (LASO).
Interession Curtailed By Energy Crisis

By Patricia Mercorelli

Although the Jan. 3 through 9 exam period will be conducted as scheduled, the intercession activities have been curtailed due to the energy crisis, according to Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director.

"In order to insure that the college will begin operations on Feb. 4 (the scheduled) opening of spring semester classed we must make these concessions to the energy crisis now," Quinn said.

Instruction will be confined to three buildings (Math/Science, College Hall and the Library) and one dormitory (Frem-Jan Hall). All dormitories will be closed from 7 pm tomorrow until 1 pm, Jan. 2, according to a memo issued from the office of Vincent Calabrese, vice-president of business and finance.

Dorms will remain open during exam week until Jan. 9 at 7 pm. Resident dorm directors may remain in the dorms during intercession, but heat will be set at 50 degrees.

The Student Center will be open for administrative purposes, according to Nancy DeGratis, assistant to the Center director, from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm, Monday through Friday during the intercession, although the Center will be open as usual during the exam week.

There will be no food service on campus during intercession, Quinn said, except for the Frem-Jan residents.

Food will be available from the vending machines in College Hall and the Student Center.

The quarry parking lots will be closed to students during intercession and the quarry entrance to the campus will be blocked.

Both Normal Avenue entrances will be open during the week, explained Keith Kaufman, security and parking director, but only the College Avenue entrance (near Panzer Gym) will be open on weekends and nights.

The schedule of buildings open through Feb. 4 is as follows:

- Jan. 2-All buildings except Second Avenue, College Hall, Math/Science Building, Fine Arts Building, which remain open.
- Jan. 3-All buildings except Fine Arts Building, College Hall, Math/Science Building, fine arts Building closed on weekdays. Panzer Gym closed on weekends. Panzer Gym will be closed from Jan. 28 to Jan. 31 for registration.

Rathskeller License Hearing Scheduled

By Carla Capizzi

Representatives from Little Falls, the faculty-student Co-op, the Student Center and the college administration will meet with Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) officials on Dec. 27 to hear and respond to the township objections to the co-op's application for a liquor license, according to Michael Loewenthal, Center director.

A definite decision on the license at that time is unlikely, however. Either the township or the co-op may request that the ABC official overseeing the hearing submit a written report to the ABC director on the arguments presented at the meeting, according to co-op lawyer David Conrad. Issuing such a report could take from a minimum of 10 days to several months, Conrad warned.

In such a case, the final decision on the license would be made by the ABC director, Conrad explained, adding that the director usually bases his decision on recommendations made by the examiner.

That decision could then be contested by the party which lost the hearing, according to Conrad, a procedure which could also involve months of legal action.

If both parties at the hearing agree to forego a written report, a decision can be made at that time, the lawyer stated.

ALTHOUGH CONRAD said that "[the application procedure] could be over on the 27th," he commented that he "didn't think so." He does feel, however, that the co-op has strong legal grounds to support its case.

The co-op had applied to the ABC for a special liquor license for the Center Rathskeller. The permit would allow the sale of beer and light wine, in the Rathskeller only, to students and faculty members with SGA cards or specialty-issued Rathskeller cards.

On Nov. 25, a public notice of the co-op's intent to procure a license appeared in the "Montclair Times." That was followed by the application, according to Conrad.

The MONTCLAIRON reported on the progress of the application, indicating that the license would probably be granted by mid-December.

However, on Dec. 3 the Little Falls township committee moved to authorize the township lawyer to investigate the ABC's actions. Little Falls Mayor James Capiello doubted the commission's authority because the township in issuing the license was "dancing down the street with the ABC," he said.

The choice of the paper to be used for the legal ad was made by the ABC, according to Loewenthal. However, he also commented that the legality of placing the ad in the Montclair paper, rather than in the township's "Times-Herald.

Hearing Scheduled

The MONTCLAIRON will not publish during intercession. The next edition will be Feb. 7, 1974. Special editions will be published as the teacher's strike makes them necessary.

Any student interested in working for the MONTCLAIRON during the intersession, although the Center will be open as usual during the exam period will be conducted as scheduled, the intercession activities have been curtailed due to the energy crisis, according to Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director.

The purpose of the Dec. 27 ABC hearing, Loewenthal said, is "to hear objections raised by the township of Little Falls residents. The ABC examiner will listen to "both sides," he emphasized. The examiner is an official of the ABC, appointed by the commission's director, according to Conrad.

By Carla Capizzi

Representatives from Little Falls, the faculty-student Co-op, the Student Center and the college administration will meet with Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) officials on Dec. 27 to hear and respond to the township objections to the co-op's application for a liquor license, according to Michael Loewenthal, Center director.

A definite decision on the license at that time is unlikely, however. Either the township or the co-op may request that the ABC official overseeing the hearing submit a written report to the ABC director on the arguments presented at the meeting, according to co-op lawyer David Conrad. Issuing such a report could take from a minimum of 10 days to several months, Conrad warned.

In such a case, the final decision on the license would be made by the ABC director, Conrad explained, adding that the director usually bases his decision on recommendations made by the examiner.

That decision could then be contested by the party which lost the hearing, according to Conrad, a procedure which could also involve months of legal action.

If both parties at the hearing agree to forego a written report, a decision can be made at that time, the lawyer stated.

ALTHOUGH CONRAD said that "[the application procedure] could be over on the 27th," he commented that he "didn't think so." He does feel, however, that the co-op has strong legal grounds to support its case.

The co-op had applied to the ABC for a special liquor license for the Center Rathskeller. The permit would allow the sale of beer and light wine, in the Rathskeller only, to students and faculty members with SGA cards or specialty-issued Rathskeller cards.

On Nov. 25, a public notice of the co-op's intent to procure a license appeared in the "Montclair Times." That was followed by the application, according to Conrad.

The MONTCLAIRON reported on the progress of the application, indicating that the license would probably be granted by mid-December.

However, on Dec. 3 the Little Falls township committee moved to authorize the township lawyer to investigate the ABC's actions. Little Falls Mayor James Capiello doubted the commission's authority because the township in issuing the license was "dancing down the street with the ABC," he said.

The choice of the paper to be used for the legal ad was made by the ABC, according to Loewenthal. However, he also commented that the legality of placing the ad in the Montclair paper, rather than in the township's "Times-Herald.

Hearing Scheduled

The MONTCLAIRON will not publish during intercession. The next edition will be Feb. 7, 1974. Special editions will be published as the teacher's strike makes them necessary.

Any student interested in working for the MONTCLAIRON during the intersession, although the Center will be open as usual during the exam period will be conducted as scheduled, the intercession activities have been curtailed due to the energy crisis, according to Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director.

The purpose of the Dec. 27 ABC hearing, Loewenthal said, is "to hear objections raised by the township of Little Falls residents. The ABC examiner will listen to "both sides," he emphasized. The examiner is an official of the ABC, appointed by the commission's director, according to Conrad.

By Carla Capizzi

Representatives from Little Falls, the faculty-student Co-op, the Student Center and the college administration will meet with Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) officials on Dec. 27 to hear and respond to the township objections to the co-op's application for a liquor license, according to Michael Loewenthal, Center director.

A definite decision on the license at that time is unlikely, however. Either the township or the co-op may request that the ABC official overseeing the hearing submit a written report to the ABC director on the arguments presented at the meeting, according to co-op lawyer David Conrad. Issuing such a report could take from a minimum of 10 days to several months, Conrad warned.

In such a case, the final decision on the license would be made by the ABC director, Conrad explained, adding that the director usually bases his decision on recommendations made by the examiner.

That decision could then be contested by the party which lost the hearing, according to Conrad, a procedure which could also involve months of legal action.

If both parties at the hearing agree to forego a written report, a decision can be made at that time, the lawyer stated.

ALTHOUGH CONRAD said that "[the application procedure] could be over on the 27th," he commented that he "didn't think so." He does feel, however, that the co-op has strong legal grounds to support its case.

The co-op had applied to the ABC for a special liquor license for the Center Rathskeller. The permit would allow the sale of beer and light wine, in the Rathskeller only, to students and faculty members with SGA cards or specialty-issued Rathskeller cards.

On Nov. 25, a public notice of the co-op's intent to procure a license appeared in the "Montclair Times." That was followed by the application, according to Conrad.

The MONTCLAIRON reported on the progress of the application, indicating that the license would probably be granted by mid-December.

However, on Dec. 3 the Little Falls township committee moved to authorize the township lawyer to investigate the ABC's actions. Little Falls Mayor James Capiello doubted the commission's authority because the township in issuing the license was "dancing down the street with the ABC," he said.

The choice of the paper to be used for the legal ad was made by the ABC, according to Loewenthal. However, he also commented that the legality of placing the ad in the Montclair paper, rather than in the township's "Times-Herald.

Hearing Scheduled

The MONTCLAIRON will not publish during intercession. The next edition will be Feb. 7, 1974. Special editions will be published as the teacher's strike makes them necessary.

Any student interested in working for the MONTCLAIRON during the intersession, although the Center will be open as usual during the exam period will be conducted as scheduled, the intercession activities have been curtailed due to the energy crisis, according to Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director.

The purpose of the Dec. 27 ABC hearing, Loewenthal said, is "to hear objections raised by the township of Little Falls residents. The ABC examiner will listen to "both sides," he emphasized. The examiner is an official of the ABC, appointed by the commission's director, according to Conrad.
by Carol Giordano

"Vietnam Pact Signed-Prisoners of War To Return Home."

1973 began on this hopeful note. A decade of direct American involvement in the Vietnam war was brought to an end with this January-announced treaty. The poignancy of the moment was deepened by the death, less than 24 hours before, of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who himself had found peace so elusive.

Released.

Hundreds of American POW's were released in the ensuing months and the nation had a glimmer of hope that perhaps 1973 would be a year of peace, at home and abroad.

1973 was a year of the energy crisis and Watergate. The Middle East conflict re-erupted. Those among others, were leveled against activities and unwise tax deductions, abuse of power, illegal campaign activities and unwise tax deductions, abuse of power, illegal campaign activities, and the Watergate investigation found itself facing another difficult cover-up. Some were convicted. The tapes revealed that perhaps 1973 would be a year of peace, at home and abroad.

1973 ended the presidency of the Nixon tragedy. Democrat Brendan T. Byrne was selected New Jersey's gubernatorial candidate. Archbishop John Cardinal Cody was recently named as Monsignor of New York City.

Rockefeller announced his resignation as governor of New York to serve full-time on the Commission on Critical Choices for America. Specification arose as to his political ambitions for 1976.

DICKSON

Here at MSC Dr. David W.D. Dickson succeeded Dr. Thomas H. Richardson as college president. Board of trustees President, Dr. W. Lincoln Hawkins stopped down, to be replaced by board member Gerald Leboff, Angelo Genova, sophomore class president, swept the SGA presidetntal contest.

The possibility of a faculty strike loomed over MSC for much of this semester. Student apathy deflated a referendum which would have removed the Golf gas station from the campus on the grounds of racism. 1973 will be well-remembered in the annals of sports history. Henry Aaron, the Atlanta Braves' slugging outfielder, finished the 1973 baseball season one home run short of tying Babe Ruth's record of 714 lifetime round-trippers. Running back O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills became the first player in pro football history to gain 2,000 yards in one season.

BILLY IS KING: Tennis star Billie Jean King defeated Bobby Riggs in straight sets in a gala tennis exhibition, dubbed the "Battle of the Sexes." The Miami Dolphins capped an undefeated season byvictimizing the Washington Redskins in the Super Bowl.

On the eve of Yom Kippur, the "Day of Atonement," Israel was the victim of a surprise Arab attack. War erupted. The Israelis could not repeat their six-day victory of 1967 and both sides suffered heavy losses.

A settlement reached with the help of US Secretary of State Henry Kissinger led to the mutual exchange of POW's, but did not convince the Arab states to change their position of reducing oil production and shipments to allied of Israel.

The Arab oil cutback brought to light the seriousness of the energy crisis. Although only a part of the current fuel shortage is due to the cutback, it aggravated an already critical situation.

The energy crisis struck close to home in the fall. Gasoline prices reached record highs and are still climbing. Many independent service stations had been forced to close because of reduced or eliminated shipments from major oil companies.

Environmental costs took a back seat to the more imminent fuel shortage. The long-delayed Alaska pipeline received Congressional approval.

Congress granted the President emergency powers to deal with the energy crisis. Motorists faced "fuelless" Sundays as service stations complied with Nixon's request to close on Saturday nights and Sundays.

THERMOSTATS

Thermostats throughout the country were lowered. Independent truckers responded to reduced speed limits by blocking major highways. Proposals of gasoline rationing met with heated debate. Year-round daylight saving time was approved, effective January 1974.

In local terms, 1973 was several administrations change heads. Democrat Brendan T. Byrne trounced Republican Charles Sandman by 700,000 votes in New Jersey's gubernatorial election. Abraham Beame was chosen to succeed John V. Lindsay as mayor of New York City.

The Miami Dolphins capped an undefeated season by victimizing the Washington Redskins in the Super Bowl.

Kathrine Hepburn made her solutionary. Debra Millard scored to music-stunt winner while the career of Jim Croce ended tragically in a plane crash.

Other headliners in 1973 included the Skylab and Mariner space missions and the court Kobeite. Gay life took a major step forward as the Board of Trustees of the American Psychiatric Association expressed the view that homosexuality is not a mental illness.

OVERTHROWN

Tension continued to plague the Middle East and Ireland. Russian authorities maintained their persecution of novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn and physician Andrei Sakharov for their criticism of the Soviet regime. J. Paul Getty III was freed, less one car, after a $2.9 million ransom was paid to his abductors.

As 1973 draws to a close, the tide of events seems not to have turned and the nation is still searching for the hope that 1973 would be a year of peace, at home and abroad.

1973 began on this hopeful note. A decade of direct American involvement in the Vietnam war was brought to an end with this January-announced treaty. The poignancy of the moment was deepened by the death, less than 24 hours before, of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who himself had found peace so elusive.

Released.

Hundreds of American POW's were released in the ensuing months and the nation had a glimmer of hope that perhaps 1973 would be a year of peace, at home and abroad.

1973 was a year of the energy crisis and Watergate. The Middle East conflict re-erupted. Those among others, were leveled against activities and unwise tax deductions, abuse of power, illegal campaign activities, and the Watergate investigation found itself facing another difficult cover-up. Some were convicted. The tapes revealed that perhaps 1973 would be a year of peace, at home and abroad.

1973 ended the presidency of the Nixon tragedy. Democrat Brendan T. Byrne was selected New Jersey's gubernatorial candidate. Archbishop John Cardinal Cody was recently named as Monsignor of New York City.

Rockefeller announced his resignation as governor of New York to serve full-time on the Commission on Critical Choices for America. Specification arose as to his political ambitions for 1976.

DICKSON

Here at MSC Dr. David W.D. Dickson succeeded Dr. Thomas H. Richardson as college president. Board of trustees President, Dr. W. Lincoln Hawkins stopped down, to be replaced by board member Gerald Leboff, Angelo Genova, sophomore class president, swept the SGA presidential contest.

The possibility of a faculty strike loomed over MSC for much of this semester. Student apathy deflated a referendum which would have removed the Golf gas station from the campus on the grounds of racism. 1973 will be well-remembered in the annals of sports history. Henry Aaron, the Atlanta Braves' slugging outfielder, finished the 1973 baseball season one home run short of tying Babe Ruth's record of 714 lifetime round-trippers. Running back O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills became the first player in pro football history to gain 2,000 yards in one season.

BILLY IS KING: Tennis star Billie Jean King defeated Bobby Riggs in straight sets at the Houston Astrodome on Sept. 20.

On the eve of Yom Kippur, the "Day of Atonement," Israel was the victim of a surprise Arab attack. War erupted. The Israelis could not repeat their six-day victory of 1967 and both sides suffered heavy losses.

A settlement reached with the help of US Secretary of State Henry Kissinger led to the mutual exchange of POW's, but did not convince the Arab states to change their position of reducing oil production and shipments to allied of Israel.

The Arab oil cutback brought to light the seriousness of the energy crisis. Although only a part of the current fuel shortage is due to the cutback, it aggravated an already critical situation.

The energy crisis struck close to home in the fall. Gasoline prices reached record highs and are still climbing. Many independent service stations had been forced to close because of reduced or eliminated shipments from major oil companies.

Environmental costs took a back seat to the more imminent fuel shortage. The long-delayed Alaska pipeline received Congressional approval.

Congress granted the President emergency powers to deal with the energy crisis. Motorists faced "fuelless" Sundays as service stations complied with Nixon's request to close on Saturday nights and Sundays.

THERMOSTATS

Thermostats throughout the country were lowered. Independent truckers responded to reduced speed limits by blocking major highways. Proposals of gasoline rationing met with heated debate. Year-round daylight saving time was approved, effective January 1974.

In local terms, 1973 was several administrations change heads. Democrat Brendan T. Byrne trounced Republican Charles Sandman by 700,000 votes in New Jersey's gubernatorial election. Abraham Beame was chosen to succeed John V. Lindsay as mayor of New York City.

The Miami Dolphins capped an undefeated season by victimizing the Washington Redskins in the Super Bowl.

Kathrine Hepburn made her solutionary. Debra Millard scored to music-stunt winner while the career of Jim Croce ended tragically in a plane crash.

Other headliners in 1973 included the Skylab and Mariner space missions and the court Kobeite. Gay life took a major step forward as the Board of Trustees of the American Psychiatric Association expressed the view that homosexuality is not a mental illness.

OVERTHROWN

Tension continued to plague the Middle East and Ireland. Russian authorities maintained their persecution of novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn and physician Andrei Sakharov for their criticism of the Soviet regime. J. Paul Getty III was freed, less one car, after a $2.9 million ransom was paid to his abductors.

As 1973 draws to a close, the tide of events seems not to have turned and the nation is still searching for the hope that 1973 would be a year of peace, at home and abroad.
By Susan Kelly

"You see before you the annual "State of the MONTCLARION" column in which, for those of you unfamiliar with MONTCLARION tradition, the outgoing editor attempts to summarize a year of hell in several hundred words.

Not hell, perhaps (outgoing editors have a tendency to exaggerate). This past year has been more like a form of purgatory - which should not be taken as a negative remark. Spending a year in that nebulous place alleged by the Catholic Church to exist somewhere between heaven and hell can be a very novel experience.

Susan Kelly

GOALS

Very few understand why the MONTCLARION operates - what its goals are and what problems it encounters in working towards those goals. The MONTCLARION is funded by the SGA as a class one organization, and the nature of this funding has repeatedly resulted in conflicts as to the purpose of the MONTCLARION. Is it an SGA newspaper or a newspaper which is funded by that organization?

What might sound like an exercise in semantics represents two very different points of view. Members of the SGA have tended to view the newspaper as a means of communicating SGA ideas and frequent criticism of the parent organization could threaten the financial future of the MONTCLARION. Our staff is of the opinion that the newspaper's function is to serve the campus community with no priorities given to any particular group. While groups complain about a lack of coverage, it is not because they are low on the MONTCLARION priority list.

RIFT

The rift between the newspaper and the SGA has not been as great with the past two SGA administrations primarily because the people involved are different. Two years ago, the conflict was a serious one in which the newspaper was denied added funding from an abundant unappropriated surplus because of its editorial policies. Reminders of past conflicts occur from time to time. Last year, a bill was proposed which would require the publication of the MONTCLARION to receive added funding. While the article itself is insignificant, the conflict represented censorship and manipulation of the press. The bill was fortunately rejected by the legislature.

The MONTCLARION differs from many other college newspapers in that it tries to remain objective in its news reporting, with a separate section for opinionated copy. This style has come under attack by those who would like to see a more subjective and loose writing style.

DANGER

The danger in subjective newswriting is that the newspaper soon becomes a voice for the editors and very slanted towards a particular point of view. A newspaper written in this style soon loses its credibility because of students pick it up to read other opinions rather than to be informed by an objective reporting of the facts.

In producing the newspaper there have been many problems that are not apparent to the average reader. Our main problem is that we have operated for the past year with a skeleton staff. There have been numerous complaints by various campus groups that they are not receiving adequate coverage. When we do miss events it is because either we lack the manpower to adequately cover the campus or we do not hear of the event in question.

People seem to have the idea that the newspaper staff automatically knows what events are taking place and that lack of coverage is a deliberate attempt to ignore that particular group of students. If students would come up to our office and give us their ideas for stories, there is a good chance that we can work on it.

LIMITATIONS

Publication is hindered by financial limitations. The MONTCLARION receives $27,600 from the SGA yearly. This sounds like a large sum until it is considered that each paper has cost $1,200 on the average. Since we publish approximately 34 issues, this totals approximately $40,000 - more than $12,000 over our yearly allocation. Advertising revenues take up some of that margin but not all of it and the organization has continually been forced to request additional funds.

This semester we have taken steps to alleviate our financial problems by purchasing an IBM typesetting unit. This machine enables us to do our own graphics work, rather than paying professionals to do it, and to present camera-ready copy to the press. When the machines are paid off, this process will save us hundreds of dollars weekly.

The MONTCLARION has been "jobbed out" since 1928 and we have been doing our own graphics work since November. As we are not professionals, there have been some rather noticeable errors (floating bylines, irregular boxes, jumbled stories). These problems will be worked out, however, as we become more familiar with the process.

FRIDAY

The frequent appearance of the newspaper on Friday this semester was due in part to the purchase of the new machinery. There were two unexpected difficulties that also occurred this semester. When we told the graphics firm which formerly did the work that we were leaving them in November, their attitude became, "we'll get the MONTCLARION out whenever we feel like it." We were also hit by the paper shortage. The appearance of the newspaper on a very nice day did not improve our morale. It was simply the only paper available at the time.

Despite the problems of the semester, there have been good points as well. While the staff that we have is small, it includes some very dedicated people.

Capri Capizzi did an excellent job in the difficult position of managing editor. The managing editor writes many of the major news stories as well as filling in any gaps in the pages. It is a job that requires a lot of work which Carla has provided as well as much needed moral support to the staff.

FAIRNESS

Carol Giordano handled the position of editorial page editor with the sense of fairness that is required in that job. The editorial pages have been of high quality during her tenure with equal voice given to all who requested it.

It has often been said that the sports section is one of the best parts of the paper. This has been due to the talent and hard work of Joan Miketuz who combined high writing quality with attractive page layouts. Joan was recently elected to be the next editor-in-chief, a job she will handle well with her customary skill.

Bill Gibson, in addition to managing the arts pages, learned to operate the IBM machinery which has been a great help in the past month. He has earned the dubious honor of "the office thief," for his generous contributions to the MONTCLARION supplies procured from unknown sources.

CREDIT

Scott Winter deserves a lot of credit as our "super business manager." He is the first competent business manager that the newspaper has ever had, and in addition to his work in that position has done a great deal of work in the photography department.

Credit also goes to Frank Baisnur, our advertising manager, whose efforts have gone a long way towards keeping the organization financially solvent. Frank's quick wit has added much to the office.

Joan Surowicz served for the past three semesters as magazine editor and is responsible for the publication of some very attractive publications. Bob Adochio is a talented photographer, especially in taking sports photos, and has served for the past year as our photography editor.

ASSISTANTS

Patricia Mercoroli and John Picinich have rewritten the meaning of the position of editorial assistants. In a position that had formerly called for the performance of odd jobs, Pat and John formed instead the core of the news staff. Pat is the newly elected managing editor while John will succeed Carol Giordano as editorial page editor.

Special thanks goes to the "Practical Journalism" class under the guidance of Michael F. X. Greico. There was a lot of talent in that class this semester and they paved the way with some high quality work.

The composition of the MONTCLARION is very much a reflection of the personalities of its editors. The MONTCLARION evolved from a public relations/sorority-fraternity newsletter into a newspaper because of the interests and hard work of a small group of students. As the tenure of the current editorial board ends, we leave with the knowledge that we will be succeeded by capable editors who will produce high quality work and maintain a sense of responsibility to the college community.
The times are 4 pm, Tuesday, the year 1971. The place: the weekly meeting of the SGA legislature.

The room appears to be in chaos. A young man with a long black moustache and a beard stands around the room, talking to the people. Some people are standing, others are sitting, and some are walking around the room. The atmosphere is tense, and the atmosphere of the meeting is difficult to read

Yet, certainly the joy, peace and hope appropriate to the season are not really abundant this December. The facts of Watergate and the current SGA, one would not recognize the same organization. The student legislators are far more serious than their predecessors and there is an air of purpose in the room.

HALF WAY

The end of this month marks the mid-way point in the administration of SGA President Amsterdam and Director of Student Activities U. They are the highest ranking official in the SGA and have a significant impact on the student body with more services and opportunities than any other official. In terms of credibility and responsibility, the SGA has made the best team this year. The SGA is a class one organization. So, the SGA has made the best team this year.

It has also been a semester of active involvement. Interest in prospective student colleges and college is still very much. There is no equivalent in the SGA and the campus proper need to work to increase this involvement. Communications between the SGA and the charter organizations is still very much.

BRIDGE GAP

Genoa believes that the "SGA has benn good in communicating" to students but notices "the lack of a SGA newsletter will help bridge the gap between campus."

Yet, he is optimistic that the legislature is "the best and strongest." He believes that "the more vocal, more aggressive" is the current SGA. He feels that the SGA's role has taken active action and made more concrete progress on and off campus this year.

Stan Domsky, the organization's vice-president for external affairs, echoes Genoa's enthusiasm about the current SGA. Many previous administrations have been regarded as a joke, but Domsky feels that the present SGA is being more serious both by the college and the SGA.

Return

On campus, new SGA branches have been held, and the college activities have been set. The official date of the nativity, it is estimated, has been set for December 25th.

Yet, certainly the joy, peace and hope appropriate to the season are not really abundant this December. The facts of Watergate and the current SGA, one would not recognize the same organization. The student legislators are far more serious than their predecessors and there is an air of purpose in the room.

DECREASE

What should be the best of days seems to be the worst of days. The change brought about by the SGA and the student body must move to a more general community. It is not been sufficiently advanced, as the United States National Association of State College Locals (an organization of American citizens in the state college and state) and met with government candidates Charles Lang and Brenda Byrne prior to elections.

The Season's Glitter

"This is the time to be jolly" is the living line of one of the more famous Christmas carols. The drags and the media as usual are making a vigorous attempt to appeal to our pocketbooks through our joy hearts.

Yet, certainly the joy, peace and hope appropriate to the season are not really abundant this December. The facts of Watergate and the current SGA, one would not recognize the same organization. The student legislators are far more serious than their predecessors and there is an air of purpose in the room.

MONTCLARION Soapbox

Free Speech Has Limits

To the Editor:

In last week's MONTCLARION, Prof. Paul indicated that because we in the Committee Against Racism (CAR) consider Shockley to be a dangerous and disruptive forum we would not encourage the free and open exchange of ideas but are also against this aspect of education should not be considered. And may those who follow you make our future endeavors. These are the goals being acted upon and made available at Chapin Hall.

Prof. Paul seems to be incensed about Shockley's racism and tries to make the First Amendment not into a tool, but the decision to fire a professional, to disapprove of new course offerings or the decision not to invite a speaker a restriction on freedom of speech.

As Professor Warsh, already demonstrated, the First Amendment is not some absolute but has limitations, many of which could be used to justify restricting Shockley's speaking programs.

We in CAR are for the free exchange of ideas, and against racism. Therefore, we have disagreements over what restrictions, if any, should be placed on Shockley.

We welcome anyone who feels that he or she is not taught collectively and that academic racism is extremely dangerous and, hopefully, Paul's directives and failures arguments will not diminish students from joining us.

Robert Cherry
Assistant Economics Professor

To the Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to Susan Kelly for her tolerance and open-mindedness, which she has displayed throughout the past year; and to Carol Gianfaro for her fine work and incomparable patience and understanding. Both she and the student body.

May you all be as sensitive and competent in your future endeavors and may those who follow you make your example a tradition.

Michael King
Drop-In Center Director

To the Editor:

Youthful misbehavior is a social problem that arises every day. The MONTCLARION was one of the first groups to realize the need of a faculty strike, possibly in the future endeavors. This, however, is not the SGA can really deliver.

The MONTCLARION leadership ends I

Gary Holstein
History, '74

To the Editor:

I think it obvious that such a group is not permitted to park around the Finney-Life on campus and that only the police should be allowed to do so.

There are instances where classes change, but many incidents are so severe that they walk on the sidewalk by car, public transportation, or in the street.

The mall looks quite cluttered with an overabundance of parked cars and pedestrians - who I think it obnoxious to see on the mall. The mall looks quite cluttered with an overabundance of parked cars and pedestrians - who I think it obnoxious to see in the mall. The mall looks quite cluttered with an overabundance of parked cars and pedestrians - who I think it obnoxious to see in the mall.

I would like to express my appreciation to Susan Kelly for her tolerance and open-mindedness, which she has displayed throughout the past year; and to Carol Gianfaro for her fine work and incomparable patience and understanding. Both she and the student body.

May you all be as sensitive and competent in your future endeavors and may those who follow you make your example a tradition.

Gary Holstein
History, '74
With Coursework

A quick look in the lounges and classrooms across campus yields more ideas for holiday gifts. Vicki Brendt, senior speech pathology major, has been seen for the past month working with a little needle and a lot of wool during all her classes. "I feel that crocheting these afghans for Christmas gifts means more to me than choosing a gift in a store. Even though they're probably full of mistakes, I think the receivers will know that these are not just afghans, but gifts of time, care and love."

Senior Karen Graf wanted to "put something of myself" into her husband's Christmas present, so she is embroidering his favorite quotation onto a linen sampler. Embroidery, creating designs with a sewing needle and colored thread, can also be used to add a personal touch to gifts of clothing. The samplers can be bought with the design and colors prepared, or a personal design can be sketched on a piece of linen material and thread colors chosen. The prepared kits usually sell for $1.50 up.

Joan Mietzuk, MONTCLARIAN sports editor, is working on two needlepoint tapestries in addition to putting her pages out weekly. Needlepoint consists of sewing short yarn stitches in one direction into a canvas mesh or screen. The size of the stitch can vary from five to twenty per inch. The smaller number of stitches per inch, called quick point, is done with rug yarn. Petit point, the greatest number of stitches per inch is worked with silk thread and the most popular stitch, midway in number between the two previously mentioned, is gros point, which is done with Persian yarn. Needlepoint kits can be bought complete, or blank canvases and yarn may be purchased separately by creative people. Upholstery, pillows, pictures, keychains, belts, eyeglass cases, headbands and handbags can be worked in needlepoint.

Periodically the biology department has a plant sale and many students can't resist adding three or four new varieties to their collections. An anonymous sophomore suggested that "creating plant environments in bottles make interesting Christmas gifts." The art of terrarium making has recently become popular, but not all enthusiasts realize the necessity of assuring that all the plants are compatible. Care must be taken in preparing the base. Gravel should go in first to provide drainage, followed by a thin layer of charcoal to keep the soil "sweet." The consistency of the soil put in over the charcoal depends upon the selection of plants. Wine bottles, cork stoppers and water coolers convert nicely to terrariums. Special tools for planting can be bought, but a long stick with a blunt end and a good deal of patience can serve just as well.

Montclarion Magazine

Montclair, N.J. 07043

Joanne Surowicz

Editor

Joanne Ferreri Cote

Editorial Assistant

In this last issue, I would publically like to thank all the members of the MONTCLARIAN staff, especially Susan Kelly, Bob Adochio and Joanne Cote, for the patient help they have given me in printing this magazine the past year. Michael Hatem, the newly-elected magazine editor, will begin his term next semester. I hope he finds the job as enjoyable and rewarding as I did--J. Surowicz crafts for Christmas...

As the holiday season rapidly approaches and the crowds at shopping centers increase drastically, are you still wondering what to get for those special people on your list? With a little time and a lot of love you can produce a range of gifts right on campus.
Many non-major craft courses are offered at Montclair State College, especially in the Fine Arts and Industrial Education departments. Although none of the courses are specifically hobby-oriented, some of the basic level ones can be utilized in learning and developing a craft.

The IA department boasts of a jewelry-making course geared mainly to non-majors. Three sections of “Jewelry and Lapidary” are open for the spring semester. Lapidary is the art of cutting, polishing and engraving gemstones. Other courses that might be interesting to craft-minded non-majors include color photography, plastic molding and forming, cabinet construction, letterpress reproduction and basic automobile mechanics. One professor suggested that sculpture could be designed from plastic or metal and presented a clear cast plastic sculpture.

Crafts On

Craft. “Craft” is often used as a synonym of “art.” It also means skills or ingenuity, especially in the manual arts as in the expression “arts and crafts.” The word appears also in words such as “handicraft” or “craftsman.”

Weaving. The process of weaving consists of interlacing, at right angles, two or more series of flexible materials. Longitudinal fibers are called warp and transverse ones weft. Weaving produces textiles for a variety of uses, blankets, pillows, tapestries and artistic creations.
The word "pottery" includes all objects fashioned from clay and then hardened by fire. Pottery is dependent on two important natural properties of clays—the property of plasticity and the property of being converted when fired into one of the most indestructible of ordinary things. Decoration can be done in different ways—by putting on ornaments of clay in a different color, or by painting them. The whole object can be coated with another kind of clay and a design scratched through to the original surface.
Angelo Genova

Education With A

Faced New Era

We are faced with a most critical situation next semester, since the faculty has designated Feb. 4 as the deadline date for negotiations. If an agreement is not reached, students will face a situation foreign to the spirit of the academic community.

The implications of a strike are of far-reaching. No longer will faculty participation rest solely in their interest in the college but in their negotiated contract terms. Administration will serve strictly as management; faculty as labor and student as customer. The union will speak for the faculty, the state for the administration and the students for themselves.

NEW ERA

What all this means in a new era of higher education. This will be the first time in several decades that a faculty in a statewide system has walked off the job. If successful, the faculty will have made great strides in strengthening their union and the rights on our campuses. If the strike fails, the faculty will continue to face managerial policies directing higher education.

The time is beginning to form and I know all of you are choosing sides. Whether you support faculty or oppose their right to strike, you should consider your own position. Why must we search for an alliance before we consider our own needs?

Initially, we must be aware that students are not participating in the current negotiations. Although the law specifically restricts third party intervention into the negotiations there are means through which our input can be secured. The union has...

Karen Wagner

get me some aspirin

One could say that it has been a hell of a semester, but let's just say that it's been hell, maybe September's hell of a semester, but let's just say... This is the season of peace and I wish you all a happy and restful holiday.

Welcome At MSC

This semester also marked the formation of the New Jersey Student Association. A union of students. The true test of the organization's strength will be its effectiveness in "peace time"... These are the same students that have previously remained elusive as the representatives from the different schools were debated over whether they would have to close MSC down for lack of fuel. Minds were set at ease last week when the state found an added oil supply...

Students now know that they will be able to complete the semester without interruption... The state's mockery of student"... The terms of the faculty contract should be a guide which will be written down for us. Basically, the faculty members are demanding that they control the college governance. If negotiated, it becomes law. Student protest, demonstration or violence will not change or modify a contract. Should we leave our input to the benevolence of the faculty or to the state's mockery of student input? Can we see that one is no better than the other?

You should cross the line or not? I believe that in my role as SGA president I cannot dictate your vision; rather I react to your needs. This decision is an individual one. Class time, money and credits may be saved, but the future autonomy and least state control over the college may be lost. Is it worthwhile to risk the possible severe consequences of this decision?

ANXIETY

In the majority of this semester, all the unresolved conflicts, now temporarily frozen... The terms of the faculty contract... The terms of the faculty contract...

I believe that both parties have their advantages and disadvantages... the need for its service...

Dickson

Debated over whether they would have to close MSC down for lack of fuel. Minds were set at ease last week when the state found an added oil supply... Students now know that they will be able to complete the semester without interruption... The state's mockery of student... The terms of the faculty contract should be a guide which will be written down for us. Basically, the faculty members are demanding that they control the college governance. If negotiated, it becomes law. Student protest, demonstration or violence will not change or modify a contract. Should we leave our input to the benevolence of the faculty or to the state's mockery of student input? Can we see that one is no better than the other?

You should cross the line or not? I believe that in my role as SGA president I cannot dictate your vision; rather I react to your needs. This decision is an individual one. Class time, money and credits may be saved, but the future autonomy and least state control over the college may be lost. Is it worthwhile to risk the possible severe consequences of this decision?

ANXIETY

In the majority of this semester, all the unresolved conflicts, now temporarily frozen... The terms of the faculty contract... The terms of the faculty contract...
Albee Filmed With Fidelity

By Michael Finnegan

Another of the plays by distinguished contemporary playwright Edward Albee has reached the screen with a fine cast and sensitive direction. "A Delicate Balance," which won Albee the Pulitzer Prize, has been filmed with workmanlike pace, including Katherine Hepburn, Paul Scofield and Lee Remick. British director Tony Richardson ("Tom Jones," "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner") shows a capable flair for working the loneliness and longings of Albee's characters.

MORE SUBTLE than Albee's more sensational "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" this film explores the emptiness in human relationships, where dependence is substituted for fulfillment and memories fill in for happiness. During one long weekend, two couples come to realize that their marriages have dissolved to the level of mere friendships.

Agnes, the strong-willed wife of the rather ineffectual Tobias, shares their home with her alcoholic sister Claire. Into this love-hate relationship reenters daughter Julia, on the rebound from her fourth marriage. Her life is still up in the air, and she confides in her friend Agnes. The two women have a real rapport and she feels much more comfortable with Agnes than with her own husband. Tobias, while no longer remarkable in dominating, meekly votes, does project the whimsy and quiet force of his wife. Through camera and set design, Richardson admirably creates the claustrophobic mood of a big house inhabited by lonely people.

Together they wrote "Anyone Can Whistle."

It ran 9 days on Broadway. The critics said it was ahead of its time. It's time is NOW.

THE SMASH BROADWAY MUSICAL FLOP COMES TO MSC!!!

PLAYERS AND MAOC TEAM TO PRESENT

'ANYONE CAN WHISTLE'

Feb. 6–10 8:30 Memorial Auditorium

YOU WOULD HAVE TO BE CRAZY TO SEE 'ANYONE CAN WHISTLE'

BUT ISN'T EVERYONE?
Dainty, natural feeling. No hormones. Highly effective. Recommended by physicians, yet Emko Pre-Fit is so safe and simple to use you can buy it at drug departments without a prescription.

Pre-Fil contraceptive protection that’s ready when you are.

Randolph Conducts Christmas Concert

David Randolph, noted author, conductor, lecturer, who recently joined the Montclair State College faculty, will conduct the Montclair State College Concert Choir in a program featuring the Faure “Requiem” and the Brahms “Liekisleder Waltzes.”

Tonight at 8 pm in the college’s Memorial Auditorium, the concert is open to the public at a nominal charge.

Specially selected instrumental and vocal soloists from the music department will be heard in both the Faure and Brahms works as well as in Butterhude’s “Magnificat Animata Mea.” Soloists will be:

Katherine Evans, Anita D’Aquino, Patricia Cole, Scott Coultier, Jeffrey Buhrman and Amy Sunshine

Patricia Weinreich and Helen Podence

Vincent Arrone, Rosalie Pratt and Dan Moore

The Faure. Compositions by Bruckner, Voictoria, Haydn, Mozart and Toch will complete the program.

Randolph is currently the conductor of the Masterwerk Chorus, located in Morristown and the St. Cecilia Chorus of New York City. He also conducts the Randolph Singers, a madrigal group which performs nationwide.

May. While the festivals, both regional and national, are not strictly considered as competitions and an attempt is made to provide a balanced program of shows, it is still a great honor to be chosen to perform. “The Mandrake” was selected from a field of 30 other plays. The productions will be reviewed by a panel of people with “anatomical roots in the arts,” according to W. Scott MacConnell, MSC speech and theater professor.

DEPARTMENT CHAIRMAN Karl Moll indicated that he is “very pleased with the opportunity for the department of speech and theater to have ‘The Mandrake’ a part of the Regional Theater Festival of the American College Theater Festival.”

Director Rockwood feels that the festival invitation will provide a valuable experience in adapting to other theaters and types of audiences. “I’m proud of the show and the cast,” said Rockwood. “What the hell can I say, I’m naturally happy and proud.”

He added that the cast was very “high and excited” over the bid. This is the second production directed by Rockwood to be chosen as a regional finalist, 1969’s “The Mandrake” being the first.

WE DON’T HAVE A NAME FOR OUR CLUB.

December 26 B&G JAMBALAYA

December 27 SURPRIZE & DAYLIGHT

December 28 HOG & the STODGES

December 29 DUKE WILLIAMS

December 30 FRIDAYS KING

BLOODROCK

Downright Sacrilege preludes in this scene from “The Mandrake.” Featuring left to right: James Van Trauren, May T. Brous and Dorothy Hayden. “The Mandrake” is the second MSC production directed by Jerome Rockwood to be chosen as a national finalist, 1969’s “The Mandrake” being the first.
Wrestlers Wrung

By John Delery

If one were to step out of this Arctic type weather and into the confines of Panzer Gym these past few days they would not only find warmth but also the wrestling team hard at work trying to right themselves from a "cold streak" of their own which has seen them lose six matches and tie one in their last seven confrontations.

The team, feeling the weight of one of the most trying schedules in the East, and a lack of consistent wrestling from the middleweights came back home from Clarion, Pa. last Saturday with three losses to Clarion State (53-17) rated sixth in the University Division, Cleveland State (30-12) and the University of Rhode Island (22-20), giving the Indians a 4-6-1 record for the season.

AGAIN NABRI, Guketlov (126) and Strelfier came through with their part of the bargain. Each of them won all three of their matches and for Guketlov that is 11 wins in 11 matches.

In his matches with Rhode Island and Cleveland State Guketlov was behind in the first period only to come back with some brilliant maneuvers to decision both of his opponents. And Strelfier back at his usual weight of 190 pounds this week came through with two pins and a decision to raise his overall record to 9-1-1.

But it was at the middleweights (167-177) and at the heavy-weight position where the trouble really lies.

The overall record of the wrestlers who were at these positions was 0-9 and the season record is only 7-24-2.

But things are not as bad as they seem. As Coach Larry Schiacchetano put it, "Our heavyweight Bob Giupponi, he had to get up against 10 really tough wrestlers. He has tried really hard all year."

GOOD NEWS may be right around the corner also as the return of Tom Stokes materializes this weekend. Stokes who has been out with an injury for almost a month now is ready to wrestle at either the 158 pounds or the 167 pound class and a "healthy Stokes could really help."

Schiacchetano admitted, as he watched his team simulate real matches against themselves during practice.

The Indians will have plenty of time to prepare for their next meet at Pace College on Jan. 5. A win there will put them up to a 6-1 record and a "healthy Stokes could really help."

Schiacchetano later said.

THIS WEEKEND, the Indians return home to face C.W. Post College in a dual meet to be held at Panzer Gym on Saturday at 2 pm.

The Indians will soon gain the services of Larry Hayzell, Gary Cimerelli and John Reid. With the addition of these three there will face big lineup shuffle and some of the starting wrestlers might be pushed out.

So with the coming of a new year, the outlook for the wrestlers is bright. Father Time just might revert things down there is always that silver lining in every cloud.

"THIS TEAM was experienced and strong," DeCicco explained. "We proved a lot against them."

DeCicco's team continues to gain poise and experience while his starting wrestlers might be pushed out.

The Indians will have plenty of time to prepare for their next meet at Pace College on Jan. 5. A win there will be another step toward conquering the mountain of inexperience.

"I'M GOING to climb that mountain," prophesied DeCicco. And to one on the fencing team would dare to disagree.

The overall record of the wrestlers who were at these positions was 0-9 and the season record is only 7-24-2.

But things are not as bad as they seem. As Coach Larry Schiacchetano put it, "Our heavyweight Bob Giupponi, he had to get up against 10 really tough wrestlers. He has tried really hard all year."

GOOD NEWS may be right around the corner also as the return of Tom Stokes materializes this weekend. Stokes who has been out with an injury for almost a month now is ready to wrestle at either the 158 pounds or the 167 pound class and a "healthy Stokes could really help."

Schiacchetano admitted, as he watched his team simulate real matches against themselves during practice.

The Indians will have plenty of time to prepare for their next meet at Pace College on Jan. 5. A win there will put them up to a 6-1 record and a "healthy Stokes could really help."

Schiacchetano later said.

THIS WEEKEND, the Indians return home to face C.W. Post College in a dual meet to be held at Panzer Gym on Saturday at 2 pm.

The Indians will soon gain the services of Larry Hayzell, Gary Cimerelli and John Reid. With the addition of these three there will face big lineup shuffle and some of the starting wrestlers might be pushed out.

So with the coming of a new year, the outlook for the wrestlers is bright. Father Time just might revert things down there is always that silver lining in every cloud.
Squaws Warming Up For Winter

By Len Guida and John Zawoyski

This week has brought brutal weather to Montclair State, but it will be even colder for members of the Gymnastics team.

The Squaws will be forced to practice without heat during the intercession.

"WE WILL just have to wear warm clothing," coach Linda Monaco resolved. "We won’t be able to stop because then we’ll have to start from the very beginning," she added.

But the Squaws should be a hot team during the regular season if Monaco’s predictions stick.

For the second time during this short indoor season, the track squad assembled last Friday evening at the 168th Street Armory in New York.

MISC suffered only one loss in 13 games last year, but this season, West Chester State will be a tougher opponent. (U.S. Army Photo by Sp-I Glenda Horton)

Truckmen Truck To The Armory Again

WOULDN'T YOU AGREE THE ARMY IS DEFINITELY LOOKING BETTER? — Guida.

WOULDN'T YOU AGREE THE ARMY IS DEFINITELY LOOKING BETTER? — Guida.

The Armory Again

WOULDN'T YOU AGREE THE ARMY IS DEFINITELY LOOKING BETTER? — Guida.

WOULDN'T YOU AGREE THE ARMY IS DEFINITELY LOOKING BETTER? — Guida.

WOULDN'T YOU AGREE THE ARMY IS DEFINITELY LOOKING BETTER? — Guida.
By Joe Castronovo

What is a heartbreaker? In college basketball, it may be defined as losing a crucial game in the final four minutes of play after having fought back from a seven-point deficit to tie the score only seconds before.

Such a turn of events befell a frustrated MSC squad Saturday night as they dropped an all-important conference battle to Trenton State, 67-60, lowering their league mark to 2-1 and confronting them with the awesome task of having to beat the Lions at Trenton. This they will almost certainly have to do in order to remain in the thick of things as far as the highly competitive NJSCC goes.

In THE first half, neither team was able to take control of the situation as the game was tied no fewer than seven times, although the Indians did manage to grab a six point advantage, 16-10, with 10:17 left, following three uncontested baskets by Chuck Holland. John Manning and Jim Rake.

The opposing coaches alternated defenses (zone and men to men) throughout the game, each trying to throw the other off kilter in doing so. MSC also attempted a full court zone press (UCLA style) prior to the six point spurt they had put together earlier, which succeeded temporarily, but could not shut off the Trenton gunners for any length of time. The team boosted offense in connect; MSC, in their methodical, deliberate manner of setting up the give and go situation while Trenton utilized the explosive "run and gun" strategy, racing downtown to get off the shot before the Indians were able to set up defensively.

Most of the second half was a perfect replica of the first, however this time it was the Lions turn to run off a string of six straight points as Mike Bobiak connected on two of his numerous long jumpers (10 of his 16 points were scored in the second half) and teammate Bob Hutchinson added a layup, making the score, 57-60, in favor of six minutes remaining.

Holland and Jeff Auerbach returned the favor by poring in seven of their own, knotting the score at 57 with 4:12 to play. The turning point of the game occurred when the Lions came back and, with a little harassment, added six more tallies, giving them an insurmountable 63-57 edge with two and a half minutes left. From that point on, Trenton deliberately slowed the pace, content to sit on the ball as the precious time dwindled away, along with MSC's hopes.

The QUESTION is, what went wrong and why? Coach Otto Galston explained after the game: "They came on strong with some good shooting, Granted, the Bobcats hurt us with those long shots. But we did a terrible defensive job, especially in the closing minutes. We didn't box them out and allowed them to get inside on us to score easy baskets. Offensively we began to force our shots. We let the ball slip through our hands, throw it away in key situations, traveled with it. We committed too many costly turnovers." The conclusion of Bobak's hot hand and Trenton's golden opportunities under the sunshine permitted by the porous MSC defense and blundering offense, accounted for both the 57-60 disadvantage the Indians had to spend time overcome as well as the fatal six point chaser rattled off against them after they had tied the score.

In the beginning (circa 1908) God created the hill between Valley Road and Normal Avenue.

And the hill was without form. And God said, Let there be a college, and there was a college. And God saw the college, and that it was good, and God called the college the MONTCLARION.

And God said (circa 1928), Let there be a sports department of the MONTCLARION, and it was so. And God called the sports department the MONTCLARION.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw that it was good.

And Walter Kops was the first sports editor of the MONTCLARION. And Walter Kops a history teacher and such is Walter Kops, Thy Divine Editorship.

And God said, Let there be Thy Divine Editorship. And after Joan Miketzuk there came Walter Kops. And God saw that it was good.

And God said, Thy Divine Editorship shall be taken up by Paul Goldberg.

And God saw that it was good.

And God said, Let there be a history teacher and such is Walter Kops. And Walter Kops was the first sports editor of the MONTCLARION. And God said that the football team shall be taken up by Paul Goldberg.

And God called the man Walter Kops.

And Walter Kops was the first sports editor of the MONTCLARION. And God saw that it was good.

And Walter Kops told of the MSTC football team, its purity and its sin. And it was well in the pages of the MONTCLARION which God had temporarily called the Pelican after the first animal in the sky.

And Walter Kops sayeth that the football team played before few people in the days of the Pelican. And Walter Kops sayeth that he played in the days of the Pelican and it was so. And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the man Walter Kops.

And Walter Kops was the first sports editor of the MONTCLARION. And God saw that it was good.

And God said, Let there be a sports department of the MONTCLARION, and it was so. And God called the sports department the MONTCLARION.

And God saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.

And God called the woman Carol Sakowitz. And God said (circa 1938), Let there be a sports editor in the MONTCLARION and it shall be so. And God called the sports editor Walter Kops.

And God saw all this and He saw that it was good.