Advisor's Status Throws WMSC into Conflict

By Dia Palmieri

WMSC, the campus radio station, will begin broadcasting by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) Nov. 29 deadline providing that a professional advisor is hired by that date, said MSC president Dr. David W.D. Dickson. Dickson added that he is optimistic the radio station will meet its imposed FCC standards.

However, the procurement of a professional advisor has thrown the controversy-ridden radio station management into further conflict with the college administration.

A professional advisor is "feastful control through the back door," said Charles Hecht, temporary general manager. "President Dickson has put a hold on radio operations," he continued, "and that is tantamount to academic censorship."

Seated in his spacious office, Dickson denied the censorship accusations. "I am not trying to inhibit the activities of the students," he declared. Dickson feels that there is a need for someone to act as a liaison between the radio station and the administration because of the legal responsibility an fm radio licensee carries. Dickson explained that WMSC is not a student organization in the "typical sense." Much of the equipment needed to broadcast in an fm capacity was paid for with state funds. And the license itself is held by the college Board of Trustees. As a deputy of that board, Dickson feels himself to be obligated to protect the trustees in case of a "slipup" while the radio station is broadcasting.

Holding the license makes the Board of Trustees legally responsible for whatever is broadcast and also for radio operations which must obey FCC regulations.

According to the president the professional advisor would act in a multifold capacity. He or she would assist the WMSC staff in technical matters, acting more or less as chief engineer, Dickson explained. The advisor would also be a spokesman for the administration along with offering professional and technical advice.

HECHT OPPOSES the induction of a professional advisor into the station's board of governors on the premise that it puts an "academic hold" on programming. He feels part of the conflict arises over the prospect of educational programming opposed to a basic popular music format.

"WMSC is more than a college station," explained Dickson, "it is now a 'public broadcasting system' and it must have an educational purpose. The reputation of the college will be connected with the radio station."

A professional advisor would help the radio staff for working rapport with the college administration, voiced Dickson.

"I hope that the students will not feel forced but will voluntarily seek professional expertise. I hope that the students will sense that the radio station is there not only for fun and games," concluded Dickson.

ACCORDING TO James Harris, assistant dean of students, the search for the professional advisor is almost at an end.

Candidates for the position, none of whom are from the college, are already being interviewed, stated Harris. The search committee, headed by Harris, has been looking for an advisor since June and is presently narrowing down the list of prospective candidates.

The search may be over by the end of the month, stated Hecht. Until the professional advisor is selected, the radio station will not go on the air with administrative approval.

In a related development to establish WMSC-fm broadcasting operations before the FCC deadline expires, a summer task force was formed with the approval of the شيروان-sponsored fact-finding committee. The task force, comprised of three station members and three "dissidents," worked throughout the summer under the guidance of Hecht.

"It was really cultural differences," stated Hecht. "Right now," said Thomas, "the door to the station is open but work is at a standstill. There are no policies, no rules, and a radio station cannot function in this way," he concluded.

"The summer task force was a failure." said Oakley, "we did not get the station on the air."

Parking's Still Snug

By Ilary Cuomo

Although students again faced a critical shortage of parking space this year, Vincent Cantrice, vice-president for administration and finance, emphasized that there are no plans to increase parking facilities.

He expressed the view that by October the crisis will ease as students leave campus earlier. Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director, remarked, "the problem always seems worse in the first few months of the semester."

Quinn explained that 125 additional spaces were paved in the quarry as well as a net increase of 50 spaces in the gravel lot along the road to the Little Falls exit of the campus.

"Although more cars park in that area, we only gained 50 more spaces by laying down the gravel." he stated that there are approximately 128 spaces in that lot.

HE CONTINUED that although an area for 60 cars will be paved during the spring, that will yield no increase in spaces. Although Cantrice estimated that there are 7300 spaces available, Quinn believes this figure to be closer to 4000. Undergraduate daytime enrollment is estimated at 7500.

According to a spokesman for the security office, ticketing will begin on Mon., Sept. 16. This includes both municipal and campus ticketing. James Lockhart, security chief, explained that all cars without decals will receive a municipal ticket. All illegally parked cars which display a decal will be given a $5 campus ticket.

Decals, which cost $10 for the entire school year, may be purchased at the business office in College Hall. However, campus residents must see John Berman, off-campus housing director, for an overnight decal.

The reputation of the radio station was almost at an end. The summer task force was a failure," said Oakley, "we did not get the station on the air.

MUSIC MAKES A SUNNY DAY: This group of students took advantage of recent warm weather and a patch of grass outside of the Calca Fine Arts Building to brighten up a day with song.

Hiked

If you want to eat, you have to pay. More. Last semester the cost for a burger, coke and fries was 95 cents. This semester you are paying $1.12 for that same meal.

Students' reactions to the price increase were mixed. The majority of the students feel the prices charged are too high. At Gino's the aforementioned meal is 93 cents.

The Student Center food service determines the prices for the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.

The rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.

MCNACAL LOWENTHAL, Student Center director said, "the rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices."

The rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.

The rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.

The rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.

The rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.

The rising cost of food effects the cafeteria and has been paying 33% more for food and labor. The student body has been burdened with only a 10% increase over last semester's prices.
Try something new

You’re always trying something new. This year you began ballet lessons. And today, you finally mastered that new position. You feel wonderful. Trying Tampax tampons for the first time can be a wonderful new experience, too. They’re worn internally so you can always be your most active. No one will know you have your period, even in a leotard, a bikini, or a tennis skirt. They’re easy to use, too. The silken-smooth container-applicator makes insertion safe, easy and comfortable. And the exclusive Junior absorbency-size is just right for a beginner.

Try Tampax tampons and every day of the month can be a good day to try something new.

The Internal protection more women trust.

band, will transform the campus into a miniature Germany during Homecoming 1974 to be held on Oct. 18, 19 and 20, according to Rosanna Nativo, Homecoming chairwoman.

One of the major activities scheduled is a full-scale three ring circus including international acts, wild animal acts, horse acts, dog acts, clowns, trapeze acts and, of course, elephants. Called the Circus International, it will be held in Panzer Gym on Saturday afternoon.

In keeping with the campus oriented theme, Nativo stated that float construction for the revitalized parade “will begin at 9 am, Friday and continue around the clock until 11 am, Saturday.”

Replacing last year’s candlelight supper, which Nativo described as a formal affair, will be an informal “beef and brew” buffet in the Center ballrooms between 5:30 pm and 7:30 pm. Open to all students, faculty, staff and alumni, the dinner will cost $4 per ticket.

Unlike the candlelight supper, there will be no reserved tables. Nativo explained, “we wanted the atmosphere to reflect the informality of a European festival.”

The traditional presentation of the winning floats will take place during halftime of the game with Wagner College, she mentioned.

FOLLOWING THE game, will be a German “Good Time,” featuring beer, bier, pretzels and potato chips. For $1 admission, students can hear a German Oompah Band play both traditional German songs and contemporary music.

The MONTCLARION is published weekly throughout the academic year, except during examination, vacation and Winter Session, by the Student Government Association, Inc., of Montclair State College, Valley Road at Normal Ave., Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043. Telephone: (201) 893-5169.

Advertising rates upon request. Known office of publication: Student Center, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

The MONTCLARION is a member of the New Jersey College Press Association and is a national member of the Associated Collegiates Press Competition.

The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief unless otherwise designated.
SERVICE WITH A SMILE: Ruth Zemianski, a waitress in the Student Center formal dining room, walks by the newly installed buffet table as she serves customers. The new buffet setup, instead of the previous formal waitressing, has been under fire in its first few weeks. Both patrons of the dining room and the Student Center Policy Board have voiced dissatisfaction with the change.

Shaky Start for SC Board

By AnnKaren McLean

McLean has a guaranteed position on the Board, appointed a surrogate Board, comprised of the 22 candidates whose names appeared on the ballot, to advise on Center policy over the summer.

According to Bill Gibson, co-chairman of the surrogate Board, decisions of policy made over the summer were actually made by the administration, with little or no consultation with Board members. Gibson noted that by-pass of the Board’s authority was a frequent occurrence; members dealt with problems as best they could, but were virtually “overwhelmed by the lack of cooperation” from the administration.

“THE MAIN problem facing the Board now in dealing with problems of the Center is the fact that it is a short-term Board. No member currently on the Board has a guarantee that he will be on the Board after the election, which is slated to be held in late September.”

One issue that faces the Board at the present time is the fate of the formal dining room, which underwent a transformation from an a la carte to a buffet facility. The transformation made over the summer and under the direction of the administration, was executed without the knowledge of the Board.

Gibson stated that the largest impediment to the Board’s effectiveness is the “lack of cooperation and communication between the college administration and the Policy Board. Unless this obstacle is overcome,” said Gibson, “I can see no way that the Board can continue to operate as a viable advisory council. Gibson added that the Board’s only recourse is to deal exclusively with problems of an immediate nature, and to merely lay the foundation for solving long-term problems.

CANDIDATES MUST circulate petitions to get their names on the ballot. Department representatives need 25 signatures from students in their department and school reps must have 100 signatures from students in their school. Petitions are available in the SGA offices, fourth floor of the Student Center, and must be filed by 4 pm on Sept. 20.

ALL fulltime undergraduate students are members of the SGA and may cast a vote at the Student Center voting booths.

TODAY, THURS., SEPT. 12

FREE LEGAL AID SERVICE: 2 to 5 pm. Will continue every Thursday from 1 to 4 pm and from 5 to 6:30 pm. SGA ELECTION PETITIONS: available at the SGA office, 4th floor, Student Center, today. Petitions will be due on Sept. 20.

LECTURE: 1 to 3 pm in the art forum. Sponsored by Season Softer, sculptor.

HRL FIRST MEETING: 4 pm, purple conference room, Student Center. Sponsored by the Human Relations Lab.

GYMNASIUM ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING: 4 pm in Panzer gym 3.

FOOTBALL GAME: Home against Kutztown State at 8 pm. Cost is $1 with ID.

MON., SEPT. 16

LECTURE: Christian Student Ethics,” at 7:30 pm, Student Center meeting room 1, 4th floor. Sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Call Bob Price at 338-8545 for more info.

FACULTY ART SHOW. Through Oct. 15. Gallery One, Life Hall. Open Monday-Friday, 9 am to 5 pm.

TUES., SEPT. 17

MEETING: 4 pm in F-113. Sponsored by MSC-HEA. PHOTOGRAPHY WORKSHOP: 10 am to 4 pm in La Campana Office, 2nd floor, Life Hall. New or experienced students welcome.

WED., SEPT. 18

NEW CATHOLIC CLUB FIRST MEETING: 4 pm, purple conference room. Sponsored by CLUB.

FOOTBALL GAME: Home against Kutztown State at 8 pm. Cost is $1 with ID.

SGA Seeks To Plug Gap

By David Kane

“ONE third of the legislative is appointed, not elected. That means one third of the campus is not being represented,” claimed SGA vice president Manny Menendez. “They’re just not enough people running for election.”

Fulltime students with a cumulative grade average of 2.25 or over are eligible to fill this gap when elections are held Wed. and Thurs., Sept. 25 and 26. There are no cumulative restrictions for freshman candidates.

DATEBOOK is published as a calendar of events in MONTCLARION. Submissions are accepted from the campus community. All material must be submitted to the MONTCLARION Office, fourth floor, Student Center, by Tuesday at 9 am before the Thursday publication date requested.
Presents

A Bus Tour To
Brotherood Winery

Sat. Sept. 14
Bus Leaves Panzer Gym At 2pm
50 Cents Includes Bus,
Tour and Wine Tasting

Movie

“S-P-Y-S”

Starring
Elliot Gould
Donald Sutherland

Thurs. Sept. 19
Student Center Ballrooms
Two Shows 8pm and 10pm
Admission $.75

Presents

The NEW Catacomb
DANCE
to “Spice”
Life Hall Cafeteria
Wed. Sept. 18 8pm
Admission $.50

Club Concerts Presents

SHA NA NA
And Fresh Flavor

Sun., Sept. 15 8pm
Tickets
SGA $5 Others $5.50
On Sale in SC Lobby
Sept. 9

Panzer Gym
In The Ballroom Tradition

FRESH FLAVOR
Students Reconstruct Indian Lifestyle

ROUGHING IT, INDIAN STYLE: MSC instructor Harrison Goodall (center) demonstrates the use of Lenni Lenape cooking utensils to (left to right) MSC students Ray DiNino, Lynda Davis, Dan Levy, Dottie Azazoline and Ted Haula. The group, along with MSC student Rob Geers, spent the summer constructing the family structure shown behind them at the state School of Conservation.

While house construction is not usually an accredited course, the situation changes when the house is a Lenni Lenape family shelter which dates back 1000 years when the now extinct Indian tribe populated the Delaware River Valley.

The structure was built by six MSC students and their instructor Harrison Goodall, on the grounds of the field camp in Stokes State Forest at the New Jersey School of Conservation. The project was a three credit independent study course offered by the department of industrial education and technology.

Goodall was assisted by Dr. Herbert Kraft, a professor of archaeology at Seton Hall University, and an authority on the Lenni Lenape Indians. In researching the project, Goodall explained that disease and the encroachment of settlers caused the tribe to become extinct by the time of the American Revolution.

BUILDING THE shelter, a dome-like structure made of interlaced sapling and bark, proved difficult; since 200 saplings and 40 dead trees were required. "We must have thumped every tree in this area," Goodall laughed, referring to the process in which trees are "thumped" to determine if the bark is dead before removing it from the tree.

In construction of the 15-foot by 25-foot shelter, the saplings were bent into a dome shape with the ends being driven approximately one foot into the ground, Goodall commented.

In order to strengthen the hut, the points at which the saplings crossed were joined by wire instead by the inner bark of the basswood tree that the Indians would have used. "We won't be here every day, as the Indians were, to make repairs," the instructor pointed out.

Bark was laid up the saplings like shingles and another layer of saplings was placed over that, resulting in a very strong structure.

DI. JOHN Kirk, director of the School of Conservation, noted that the shelter, the only replica of its kind in existence, will serve as a classroom for courses on the Delaware Indian tribes.

After three weeks of work, the group celebrated their accomplishment with a traditional Indian feast. Foods such as squash, corn and turkey were cooked Lenape-style on hot rocks. Following the feast, the group spent the night in the shelter.

Last year, Goodall and another group of students reconstructed a 160-year old carriage house not far from where the Lenni Lenape shelter now stands. The project slated for next year is the construction of an authentic pioneer log cabin at the field center.

Commission to Probe Tuition

TRENTON - A major commission charged with examining some of the key problems confronting New Jersey's colleges and universities was created last week by the state Board of Higher Education.

A tentative outline calls for an examination of student financial aid programs, the quality of existing courses, the ability of colleges to adjust to changing educational needs and the maintenance of existing institutions of higher education.

The committee, to have 14 members from the business, education and political communities of New Jersey, began work at an organizational meeting on Tuesday at Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

GILBERT G. ROESNERR, chairman of the higher education board, said that the state board wants the panel to issue its findings by early next year so that any recommendations requiring legislative action might be considered by the next session of the state legislature.

The creation of the committee — formally called the Commission of Financing Post-Secondary Education — comes at a time of increasing declines in student enrollment and severe inflation caused budget deficits. The problems have forced three NJ colleges to close — Alphonseus, Englewood Cliffs and Tombrack — and forced another — Bloomfield — into bankruptcy.

Several prominent educational organizations have made studies over the past three years examining the financial plight of colleges and universities.

"We believe each of these groups has made a contribution to our understanding of the nature and complexity of the problem," said Roessner, "but...none of the groups had direct responsibility for taking action to affect changes."

THE KEY panels included the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and the Committee on Economic Development, both of which called for increases in tuition at public colleges to bring them up to the level of more expensive private institutions.

Another organization, the National Commission on Financing Post-Secondary Education in the United States, was appointed by former President Richard Nixon and made its report last December, offering a variety of plans for college finance.

Roessner noted that tuition at New Jersey public four-year colleges, once one of the highest in the country, is now about average. Students in private colleges pay about $2500 a year.

While budget deficits have resulted in the cutting of programs and personnel, they are still high enough to keep the state's universities open.

"It is a prime time to examine our educational needs and the programs and plans to meet them," Roessner said. "The nation is facing serious economic and social problems which will require the immediate and sustained participation of all segments of our society. Education must provide the key elements of the solution to the nation's problems.

"We believe that the committee's recommendations will help us meet the need for educational leadership in the state at this time and will make possible whatever solutions are needed."

The committee will also help the Board of Higher Education consider the financing of higher education in the state and the state board will make its report last December available to the committee.

Edward E. Booher, president of the McGraw-Hill Book Division, will serve as chairman of the committee. Booher was a former chairman of the State Board of Higher Education.

OTHER MEMBERS of the committee are: Anthony J. Bartolotta, vice president of Victory Optical, Newark; Albert Burstein, an attorney and chairman of the NJ Assembly Education Committee; Dr. Lester Chandler, retired from Princeton University; and Sara Douglass, former student government chairperson of Douglass College.

CINA Presents

The Washington Affair

A Trip to the Capital

Sept. 27-29

See the Capitol

National Zoo

Kennedy Arts Center

and More

All for $37

Come or Call the CINA Office

Fourth Floor Student Center

893-4235
A Better Way

The more things change the more they remain the same.

While summer baked the campus with sun, while students worked and vacationed, changes were taking place at MSC.

The mall in the center of campus progressed, but not quite enough to be finished for the beginning of the semester. So we go back to the chaotic state of perpetual construction.

The more things change the more they remain the same.

The bookstore was rumored to be working on a new system for getting student's books quicker during the first rush for texts. But this was somehow mixed. Instead, the interior of the store was revamped to give us less cash register check-out areas than last year. So we go back to waiting for an hour and a half to buy books as though no one expected students to be on campus and seeking to make such purchases. We just dropped in on them all unaware.

The more things change the more they remain the same.

The traffic on campus was re-routed (at last) into a one-way system. But students were not notified of the changes until they arrived on campus and tried to get around, even though copies of the campus map with traffic flow arrows were sent to campus locations and posted on bulletin boards. We knew that the bookstore had changed to The Center Shop, but were ignorant of a vital change such as a traffic flow.

This ignorance, coupled with the normal heavy traffic load during the first week of school and the fact that once again more freshmen were admittance can than be reasonably comfortably handled, brought us back to the lines of cars snaking through the campus roads, all at a standstill, waiting to escape or get in.

The more things change the more they remain the same.

Registration procedures are constantly being modified and streamlined. But students who come to register are still greeted by long lines, a chaotic gym full of confusing departments (especially for freshmen) and those immortal words: "That course is closed."

The more things change the more they remain the same.

It's time MSC stopped being so satisfied with mediocrity, so content with little advances, so eager to say, "Well, that's the way it is." We should be more open to other systems, to new ideas. But first that involves admitting it can be done better than it is being done. If everyone, students included, continues to accept long lines and long waits, without searching for alternatives, we will never really get this college off the hill.

Realistically assessing our space limitations and admitting a number of students compatible with that space would be the first step. Instead of cramming the campus to the rafters, squeezing classes in dormitories and providing inconveniences to all in general, cut down the enrollment and give us all a little space to breathe.

The matter of a few less people to contend with, rather than a few more, will ease a lot of these situations. Perhaps things would not remain the same. Perhaps they would get better.

There's just got to be a better way. But people have to look for it in order to find it.

---

Reportage

Is One-Way Wrong Way?

By Michael Hatem

Will the one-way traffic help MSC students, hit no and wen campus with less flow of adrenaline? Will the obvious over capacity of automobiles that is filling the quarry parking areas by 11 am begin to taper off? Will the apparent lack of parking spaces on campus be relieved by some well thought-out and welcome plan to free presently illegal areas for parking?

These questions and others are on many peoples' minds this semester, and as the foliage begins to take on its traditional hues, the traditionally nerve-wracking situation will hopefully be better.

Hopefully. The truth is that in past semesters, the back-to-campus blues have been sung and are resolved by the second week of classes this fall, however, the problems seem to be stretching on longer than usual.

PLOT

If the one-way system does work, perhaps it will be a worthwhile plot. Perhaps the smoother flow of traffic will justify the numerous accidents that will occur during winter months due to cars slipping down the hills that are a part of the only exits from the parking areas. These hills are notorious for their lack of traction after even the slightest snowfall, and a snow plan will have to be arranged ahead of time to avoid this problem.

As students begin to adjust to their schedules and get together with their fellows to form car pools, the arterial sclerosis that has set in on the parking areas is bound to improve.

This depends, however, on the desire (and convenience) of the students to do this on a large scale. Interested students should talk to people who live in their areas and can also contact the Council on Commuter Affairs, (COC) located on the fourth floor of the Student Center.

---

Soapbox

Evaders Must Earn Amnesty

To the Editor:

US President Gerald R. Ford's decision on Sept. 8, granting Richard M Nixon full pardon for his wrongful actions as President, has amplified the demand by many that a likewise unconditional amnesty be granted to those who evaded military service. My reaction to this demand is a negative one.

Mr. Nixon incriminated himself by attempting to cover up criminal acts committed by men he should never have associated himself with. His actions were wrong, and his mendacity concerning them even worse.

However, it must also be remembered that Mr. Nixon served our country for over five and a half years by occupying the most difficult and demanding job in the US, the Presidency. During his tenure in the Whitehouse several substantial gains were made in the area of foreign policy in a world where tension between countries is high, and the threat of nuclear annihilation stagnant.

Despite his mistakes, for which he suffers great compensation, Mr. Nixon did contribute to the advancement of peace, and for this, we should be thankful.

It is with this in mind that I pose the following question to those favoring unconditional amnesty. What contributions were made to this country by those men who chose to desert it in time of war, that should entitle them to unconditional forgiveness?

It is my belief that if those men who evaded military service wish to receive a pardon, let them first be required to contribute some social service to their country. This contribution will then put them on the level of Mr. Nixon and this entitles them to a pardon.

More importantly, however, it will at least serve as an act of respect for those men who gave their lives in the service of their country.

Bob Scherer
Uncommitted 1977

Correction

In last week's Soapbox column on the editorial pages of the Montclarion, the signature of Michael Dombroowski, business administration 1975, was omitted from the Letter to the Editor he had written. The MONTCLARION regrets the error.
Mike Messina

Problems Would Rather Increase than Decrease

Each year MSC students return to the same set of problems that existed in the previous semester. This fall, as in the preceding years, lines for parking and the Center Shop (Bookstore) are once again problems students are forced to deal with. This fall we have also encountered a new inconvenience on the campus: classes being conducted in both Chapin and Freeman Halls.

CONTINUOUS

It bothers me personally that problems here seem to increase rather than diminish. Every time we return to the campus we see the same problems and inconveniences we had in the past and we receive the same explanations as always.

As in previous years, the parking problem is due to commuters arriving here at the same time, and staying on campus for the entire day. Each fall, MSC is overcrowded; each fall, we receive more freshmen and transfer acceptances than anticipated; and each fall, our problems increase rather than lessen.

As students we are tired of the same excuses for the familiar inconveniences. We realize that the college continue to procrastinate over those problems? SOLVE IT!

If overcrowding is the underlying reason for our inconveniences then let’s look to solve it without creating any new problems. The holding of classes in the dorms symbolizes best, I think, the process of taking a problem and instead of solving it, creating a worse situation.

I strongly believe that our campus is large enough to accommodate all the students who attend this institution. The existence of classes within the dorms not only places severe hardships on dorm students, but has a much deeper and greater effect on the student in class and also the respective professors. It is obvious that with classes being conducted in both Chapin and Freeman, the academic environment is not conducive to a learning situation.

I feel it is imperative that the college immediately reschedule those classes, at least the earlier and later ones, to other buildings. Even now students who live in such dorms are searching the campus on an hourly basis for available classroom space. I feel that both commuters and dorm students understand the problem and are willing to make sacrifices in order to try to alleviate the problem to some degree.

WORK

I hope that both students and the administration can always work in a cooperative effort for our benefit. I believe that this college is here for us, the students. Without us, there would be no need for administration, faculty or buildings.

In our constant struggle for a better community, we sometimes forget the purpose of this institution. I feel that if we keep in our minds and in our actions the goals and objectives of MSC, the problems will be less and hopefully our academic community will progress and flourish.

Bob Price

Separated by Guilt

This column will attempt to deal with various topics and issues from a Christian viewpoint, and perhaps a bit differently than you’d expect.

We would like to start out by explaining just where we’re coming from. Our presuppositions are basically these:

- We accept the possibility of divine intervention in the world.
- The planet was once invaded by God himself in the form of a man, Jesus the Messiah. Jesus claimed that real moral guilt and separation every single person from God, Who still loved all of us.

Jesus died, having claimed to be no need for administration, faculty or buildings.

In fact, we’d have to submit his life to Jesus as Father. For anyone to take advantage of this, he would have to accept this as more than another religious myth? The thing that sets Jesus apart from Buddha, Osiris, or Lao-Tzu is reliable historical documentation. The firsthand testimony and outside corroboration are too good to dismiss as legend.

This opened up the possibility of a new relationship with God as Father. For anyone to take advantage of this, he would have to submit his life to Jesus as Lord. Jesus Himself is still alive, having come back to life a few days after his execution. Coming to us, as it were, from the other side, Jesus could finally give us the answers to life. In fact, we think it’s pretty difficult to give a good reason for the way reality stands if we don’t use His answers.

Why accept this as more than another religious myth? The thing that sets Jesus apart from Buddha, Osiris, or Lao-Tzu is reliable historical documentation. The firsthand testimony and outside corroboration are too good to dismiss as legend.

The radically different world view and liberating lifestyle offered by Jesus puts things into a new perspective-what we’re calling “resurrection perspective.”
PRISON DOESN'T O U E L L ARTIST'S SPIRIT

Reese Exhibit

By Mike Finnegan

Behind bars quells the spirits of many men—but not all men.

A proof of this assertion is the exhibition of artwork in the front lobby of Sprague Library created by Samuel N. Reese. Reese, who is a member of the voice and piano faculty at the New York Philharmonic School, is currently serving time for murder in a Missouri prison.

Reese first wrote to the college earlier this year to offer his exhibit to be shown on campus. A continuing correspondence led to the arrangement of the show, which includes copies of the letters written between Reese and Rosenzweig. The exhibit was set up in July and will remain in the library lobby through mid-October.

ALTHOUGH HE has neither met nor talked with Reese, Rosenzweig confessed that it seemed like they’re “old friends” since they kept up a consistent correspondence. As a token of his gratitude, Reese sent Rosenzweig a copy of his work “Daybreak” for his office.

Reese does not enter into his personal background in the letters but Rosenzweig feels that one can perceive the genuine sensitivity of the artist in the humble and reserved tone of the letters. Rosenzweig said that Reese supplies his own materials through correspondence. As a token of his gratitude, Reese sent Rosenzweig a copy of his work “Daybreak” for his office.

Reese has also engaged in painting and his works have been exhibited all over the country at college campuses and galleries. His exhibits include 14 awards in art competitions and an illustrated book “The Iowa Parole System.”
Come To The First Meeting
Of The
College Life Union Board
Today Thurs. Sept. 12
4pm
Student Center Fourth Floor Meeting Rooms
Everyone Welcome
CLUB Office: Student Center Fourth Floor
893-5232

Free Free Free
Club Presents

THE AMAZING
KRESKIN
Mon., Sept. 16 8pm
Memorial Auditorium
SGA ID Free
Others $1
William P. Dioguardi, "We have school graduate want to come to the picture also. Our conference the academics secondly. school's adversaries, number of athlete really want to come to program." well-rounded athletic (women's) strong academically and we have a Montclair State as opposed to 10. MONTOLA R! ON/Thun., Sept. 12, 1974 and our consistent tournament title in football, our national look at the quality of play, a Montclair State? Many athletes women who are looking for play, not to mention the few MSC athletes, both men and rankings in soccer and wrestling Donna Olson agreed with W omen's athletic director, According to athletic director YEAH, BUT why would an female high Why would a female high According to athletic director

Guess Who's Coming To Coach Us

By Tony Cafiero

What happens after a year when your secondary had a habit of being picked apart by top-flight opposing quarterbacks? In the case of Montclair State, you go out and get someone like Ken Graham to help defend against the passing game. If you think the name sounds familiar, it's the same Ken Graham that made his football fortune with the San Diego Chargers, but unfortunately he won't be out on the field in an MSC uniform. After being turned down for a similar position at Rutgers University, the former all-pro accepted the task of coaching the defensive secondary here.

GRAHAM REPLACES Tom Testa as the defensive backfield coach. Testa returned to his alma-mater, Belleville High School, to headman its football program.

Graham wasn't overly concerned with getting the n-o-g-o from Rutgers. His philosophy on the matter was pretty simple. "Their loss is someone else's gain," ribbed the talented and cocky pro attitude. "Anytime a school with more tradition than me comes calling, I drop everything."

"Their loss is someone else's gain," ribbed the talented and cocky pro attitude. "Anytime a school with more tradition than me comes calling, I drop everything." Many coaches throughout the country; to win they can help them win. A few of the coach's most noted accomplishments include being Paul Brown and Sid Gillman. Graham's biggest football thrill came when he intercepted a pass off a highly paid bonus baby and ran it back for a touchdown. The golden-ringedUblik card on his bulletin board. It consisted of several newcomers, led by freshman placekicker Tony Vechione and freshman halfback Tim McDonough. Vechione, out of Bloomfield High School, survived until the final cut of the Olympic trials, while McDonough made two all-state teams while playing for Harrison High School.

Graham was the defensive backfield coach that settled the season for the Montclair State Booters as he was the defensive backfield coach that settled the season for the Montclair State Booters. Cincinatti Bengals and the Pittsburgh Steelers. Graham, a five year all-Pro cornerback with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Cincinnati Bengals. In his second pro season, the 6 foot, 218 pounder was voted all-pro at his cornerback position. The slick ball-hawk was awarded the honor four more times in his career, all while performing for the contending Chargers. In his six seasons with San Diego, the Chargers battled their way into a pair of AFL championship games, losing twice to the Buffalo Bills. Graham's biggest football thrill came when he intercepted a pass off a highly paid bonus baby and ran it back for a touchdown, a feat that became his trademark. But while running back swipes was nothing new to Graham, it was to the passer. He happened to be Joe Namath, and it marked the first time that one of his errant flings was run back all the way.

"IT WAS very satisfying," grinned Graham. "He was a rookie and making so much money." When anyone in the football wars was inspirational to him during his career, Ken said that all his coaches throughout his life had a big impression on him. Some noteworthy ones being Paul Brown and Sid Gillman. Graham is hoping that some of the coaching magic will rub off on him. Already, he has the cocky pro attitude. "Of course we're going to have a winning season," Graham blurted. "What would be the sense of playing if I didn't intend to win."

By Lonny Cohen

Probably, the closest parallel to this season's Montclair State soccer team would be that of a new car with an old die-hard battery under the hood.

The body of the machine will consist of several newcomers, led by freshman placekicker Tony Vechione and freshman halfback Tim McDonough. Vechione, out of Bloomfield High School, survived until the final cut of the Olympic trials, while McDonough made two all-state teams while playing for Harrison High School.

The BATTERY will contain five sparkplugs from last year's steady squad. High-powered threats Dick Moore and Bob Mykolak, along with speedy ventrally, will carry the machine's scoring, as Chuck Oosen anchors the defensive end from his goalie position.

Driving the machinery will be the new coach Bob Wolfarth, entering his third season as MSC mentor with an impressive 18-6-7 record. The brain-trust is completed by assistant coach Manfred Schallfeld, well known in the soccer world for his coaching in the National Soccer League.

The practices have been tough this year since Wolfarth has stressed the conditioning end of the game. "All we do is scrimmage and drill, but we are pretty much in shape," went the comments of letterman Bill Cece.

"POSITIONS are as yet unassigned," said Wolfarth. "We will experiment with the new players, but we are lucky in that most of our boys are offensive-type players. It's easier to change to defense than vice-versa."
By John Delery

Last year's NJSCAC conference race resembled the league race in this year's American League East. The scramble went right down to the wire as coach Bob Trocolor of William Paterson University mentioned.

For head coach Dick Curl of Montclair State University, who finished 6-2, 215 pounds in the season opener against Kutztown State, this Saturday at 8 pm at Sprague Field, "THE INDIANS will be strong," said Curl. "They'll be strong," said Curl.

Last year's conference race would be another long season for Trocolor and his crew, and the 6-2, 215 pound center, Pete Castner, who's being counted on as the key man for this year's backfield, goes through hand-off drills during a recent practice session at Pittser Field.

By John Clark

"THE OFFENSIVE line is a particular strong point in our rushing game," said Curl. "It is loaded with an abundance of explosive football talent."

Last year's starting squad returning, including three members of last year's All-NJSCAC team; guard Neil Greco and offensive ends John Mayhew and John Winters. But too many question marks, especially in the offensive line and backfield, are concerns with the Squires' outlook. As SanFillipo mentioned, "For this season's opener against Kutztown State, this Saturday at 8 pm at Sprague Field, we hope to be a better balanced team than last year," continued Anderson.

"I think we have signs of team speed and spirit which is more confidence than last year." he emphasized. "We have 12 members of last year's starting squad returning, including three members of last year's All-NJSCAC team; guard Neil Greco and offensive ends John Mayhew and John Winters. But too many question marks, especially in the offensive line and backfield, are concerns with the Squires' outlook. As SanFillipo mentioned, "For this season's opener against Kutztown State, this Saturday at 8 pm at Sprague Field, we hope to be a better balanced team than last year," continued Anderson.

"If you are a winning coach in the tradition of new man Bob Trocolor, taking over a team which held up the rest of the league and had their goal line denied by opponents more than any other conference foe would tend to border on the ridiculous. But you would think with the hiring things just might be looking up for the Pioneers. Don't count on it.

With only seven starters returning four on offense and three on defense it could be another long season for Trocolor and his crew."

"Overall I would say this is definitely rebuilding year for us," Trocolor mentioned. "We have accomplished a lot at our summer drills but we are short on reserves which should hurt our chances this year," he emphasized.

Last year's conference race was fine but reproducing last season's record might be another story. With seven returning starters luck on offense and the same number on defense Curl's problems appear to be minimal but looks can be deceiving.

Making up the rest of the squad will be an abundance of freshman and a handful of untiried veterans. Back from last year's unit are the likes of all-EAC center Eric Hamilton, quarterback Brian Gigli (6-1, 220) and his favorite target, tight end Roger Bigos. Defensively, the Lions should be able to turn the offensive efforts of their opponents by just showing them a little respect and letting their team speed and spirit which is more confidence than last year, "I think we have signs of team speed and spirit which is more confidence than last year," he emphasized.

"We have 12 members of last year's starting squad returning, including three members of last year's All-NJSCAC team; guard Neil Greco and offensive ends John Mayhew and John Winters. But too many question marks, especially in the offensive line and backfield, are concerns with the Squires' outlook. As SanFillipo mentioned, "For this season's opener against Kutztown State, this Saturday at 8 pm at Sprague Field, we hope to be a better balanced team than last year," continued Anderson.

"I think we have signs of team speed and spirit which is more confidence than last year," he emphasized. "We have 12 members of last year's starting squad returning, including three members of last year's All-NJSCAC team; guard Neil Greco and offensive ends John Mayhew and John Winters. But too many question marks, especially in the offensive line and backfield, are concerns with the Squires' outlook. As SanFillipo mentioned, "For this season's opener against Kutztown State, this Saturday at 8 pm at Sprague Field, we hope to be a better balanced team than last year," continued Anderson.

"THE INDIANS who finished 6-4 last year, are confident they can improve on that record. They finished first in the NJSCAC last year and have a good chance of repeating. MSC took third in the four-team Eastern Football Conference in 1973 behind Central and Southern Connecticut State.

But the Indians, who defeated Nassau Community College 29-17 in a scrimmage at Sprague Field last Saturday, have their sights set for the season's opener against Kutztown State.

"They'll be strong," said Anderson. "Kutztown is a strong team."

"They come to play. I look for a close game."