Faculty members came close to walking that fine last February, when the unions and the Department of Higher Education had reached a stalemate. According to Lacatena, the state granted to faculty a 6\% wage increase and ratified the proposed contract in a last-minute attempt to avoid a potentially embarrassing situation for the newly-instated Byrne administration. RECENTLY, GOVERNOR Brendan T. Byrne advised the state Board of Higher Education that the state colleges will have to absorb the cost of the wage increase because the state does not have the funds to subsidize the raise. The question arises: What funds existed last February to cover the raise that do not exist now? The answer, according to a source close to the Department of Higher Education, is "none." The source explained that the granting of such contracts operates somewhat "like a charge account. People spend money before they have the money to pay."

Lacatena, along with SGA president Mike Mesina, has speculated that the state does indeed have the funds necessary to subsidize the 6\% increase but the state would help poverty to create a financial crisis. Mesina has called the crisis a "political play" devised by the Byrne administration to demonstrate to the legislature the need for a state income tax.

When asked if the governor’s claim that the state cannot afford the 6\% faculty raise is believable, Mary

Security To Promote Crime Awareness

By Louis Beierle

According to Webster and Stone Hall dorm advisors, what’s needed is tighter security-controlled dorms. They feel the residents are already aware.

Lockhart and Joseph Daly, director of fire and safety, will attempt to increase this awareness by distributing pamphlets and implementing crime prevention clinics in the near future.

A CONTENTED-LOOKING
Lockhart added that the majority of students are aware but there is still a large enough lack of awareness in crime prevention to necessitate the proposed clinics.

Since the recent muggings in and around Webster Hall, both Webster and Stone Hall dorm advisors have conducted dorm meetings concerning the situation.

Steve Millington, Stone’s dorm advisor, said in a phone interview that he was glad that there have been officers moving between the two dorms. However, he suggested that "The college should be able to afford locks for the dorms. It’s not fair that Webster and Stone have to be open to the public without proper security."

David Ottaviano, Webster’s dorm advisor, is working to have the card key system installed in Webster. This system would have dorm residents, advisors and security in possession of metal cards which would open the locks.

"THE SYSTEM was used two years ago but cards have been lost since then," Ottaviano explained. There is a wait for new cards, he said, since "the company that used to make them went out of business." Millington also advocated the placing of locks on Stone's outside door, making it accessible only to key holders after a certain hour:

"Budget is always a problem," he said.

The New Jersey Council of State College Locals have once again initiated negotiations with the state Department of Higher Education to air requests for a cost of living wage increase and job security provisions, according to Marcantonio Lacatena, president of the union locals.

"Our members are prepared to walk the picket line," said Lacatena, though the union leader is "optimistic for a quick settlement."

URGING EVERYONE to buy their tickets in advance, "to avoid standing on lines," chairperson Roseanne Nativo remarked that with all the events scheduled no one "can complain about being bored."

Homecoming to be An Oktober festival

By Louis Beierle

According to Nativo, advanced ticket sales are steady but they are not as high as she had anticipated, however, she is optimistic about ticket sales at the door. For the Beef and Braw buffet to precede the football game, Nativo stated that ticket sales are "expected to reach 600."

THE CHAIRPERSON feels that the Beef and Braw will be a "German delight." Being served at the buffet will be a "hearty beef sandwich" with potato salad, string beans and relishes, all to be washed down with birch beer.

Highlighting the weekend will be two performances by the International Circus on Saturday. The performances will start at 10:30 am and at 3 pm in Panzer gym.

Starting at 1 pm on Saturday, a parade consisting of seven floats sponsored by various MSC organizations, marching bands, antique cars, dogs and a square parachute will take to Valley Road and make its way to the corner of Bellevue Avenue and Grove Street in Montclair.

After the football game at 8 pm against Wagner College on Sprague Field comes the Good Time, scheduled to run from 10:30 pm to 1 am. The Good Time will feature a polka contest to the music of an Oom-Pah-Pah band. Served at the aftershow gathering will be beer, pretzels, potato chips and coffee. The Homecoming Weekend starts tomorrow with Willkommem at 8 pm in the Student Center ballrooms.

So put on your lederhosen, grab your beer mug and PROST!!

GENETICS LECTURE

Dr. Clement L. Markert, a professor of biology at Yale University, will be giving an illustrated lecture on Knowing Ourselves Through Science today at 3 pm in room 120 of the Math/Science Building.

Markert holds memberships in 18 societies, including Phi Beta Kappa, and has served as president of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, the American Society of Zoologists and the Society for Developmental Biology.

Through Prentice-Hall, Markert published a text in genetics in 1971 called Developmental Genetics. Markert had earned degrees from the University of Colorado and the University of California at Los Angeles. He received his doctorate from Johns Hopkins University in 1948.

He is the managing editor of the Journal of Experimental Zoology and a member of the editorial boards of the Archives of Biochemistry and Biophysics and the Differentiation Journal.

His presentation is sponsored by the national headquarters of Sigma Xi and the MSC branch of Sigma Xi.

Dr. Martin Brown, coordinator of the field studies volunteer program, explained that, although the program was originally designed for psychology students, the services have been expanded to include any student interested in volunteering his time and energies.

Some of the public and community institutions working with MSC’s program are the Montclair Public schools and several county day care centers. “It’s the new American dream,” Brown said, “giving something worthwhile of yourself and getting something in return.” He explained that the program is geared toward helping the student volunteer to get maximum learning from their experiences by offering worthwhile services.

The seminars, which operate on an optional basis, feature films, lectures, discussions and guest speakers.

Brown can be contacted for further information at his office in Annex Four, room four.

CLUB Catacomb Losing Money

By Irene McKnight

Catacomb, the Wednesday night mixer-dance, might be undergoing drastic changes. Sponsored by the College Life Union Board, the Catacomb can no longer operate at the loss of money it has seen in the past month.

According to Bud Schulhafer, chairman of CLUB, the few hundred people who have attended the Catacomb weekly are not sufficient to cover the fee of the top bands which are hired.

The present admission fee of $50 cents includes free food, soda and coffee. Despite the popularity of Catacomb, CLUB is faced with such alternatives as raising the admission price, dropping the name bands and hiring unproven talent, or returning to the folk music format which characterized the Catacomb of last year.

THE ONLY way that Catacomb can operate in its present form for more than two weeks is if the attendance increases to five or six hundred, Schulhafer said.

Hold on Wednesday nights at 8 in Life Hall cafeteria, Catacomb has adequate dancing room as well as tables to sit at.

While in the past, bands included such names as Exit 9 and Spice, Chelsea Warehouse and Holme will be appearing in the future. In addition, October 30 will see a special Halloween Catacomb, co-sponsored by the Residence Hall Federation, and prizes will be given for costumes.

Over $1300 was raised by the 27 people who participated in a cyclethon sponsored by the Essex County Heart Association and held here at MSC last Sunday, according to Cynthia Lepre, public relations coordinator for the Essex County Heart Association.

"The money raised will go to support the many research, education and community service projects sponsored by the Essex County Heart Association," Lepre said.

A cyclethon is a money making activity in which cyclists have individuals, organizations or businesses sponsor them for a certain amount of money per mile. A cyclist who had pledged $33 per mile and who cycles 10 miles would, for instance, would earn $30.

The Council on Commuter Affairs (COCA), MSC's student watchdog of traffic and parking problems, seeks to abolish the priority parking which currently exists on campus. According to co-chairpersons Betty Mitchell and Chris Confoy, faculty members are given free parking decals each year and are provided with designated lots in choice areas of the campus. "We don't have restricted areas," said Confoy, and we would like to see a special area for the handicapped and have the rest of campus parking open to the whole college community."

Confoy went on to say that faculty members should be subjected to parking in the quarry as students are. She also inferred that when a faculty member receives a ticket from security, he or she is not pressed to pay the fine. One reason faculty escape, the fines is that there is no way of enforcing their collection, Confoy indicated.

The co-chairpersons maintain that besides achieving equal parking privileges COCA hopes to implement consistent ticketing by security. However, Confoy and Mitchell understand the security force's dilemma in ticketing.

The co-chairpersons maintain that it is difficult to be consistent when you lack funds for an adequate police force. Also one can't expect the campus police to return to the same parking spot 10 days later. "Kids don't see that part of the reality of the whole situation," Confoy emphasized.

Mitchell and Confoy also aspire to eliminate needless municipal parking ticketing. Most of these tickets, they assert are warranted by students' careless observation of parking signs and regulations.

The co-chairpersons cite the fact that MSC commuters are still parking illegally by Webster Hall. Yet, the area is clearly marked as a fire and towing zone. If there is an actual fire emergency, fire engines are barred from Webster because of the unauthorized parking. Confoy and Mitchell stressed.

TICKETING AT night also needs improvement, Mitchell added; standards should be equal for every member of the campus community whether they are a full-time or part-time student or faculty member.

Currently, the Student Appeals Board which hears complaints on tickets is also run from the COCA office. But Confoy emphasized, "students shouldn't be so sure that just because they come up here (COCA office), that we will eradicate their parking fine."

COCA tries to deal fairly with each ticketing situation and Confoy said that 80% of tickets are approved and 50% are denied.

COCA is also attempting to influence the college to purchase a tow truck. The present system of towing is inefficient and costly, Mitchell and Confoy indicated.

Security measures for removing an illegally parked or stalled vehicle consist of securing a tow truck from gas stations on Valley Road. This service usually entails a $20 fee for the student and the inconvenience of retrieving the car from an undisclosed location. It seems to COCA members that security cannot keep tabs on such gas station removes which car.

As COCA consists of 10 steady members and the office is looking for students interested in commuter affairs, and is open to everyone in the campus community, including residents. The COCA office is located on the fourth floor of the Student Center directly behind the elevator.

MSC Mourns David Witcher's Death

By Michelle Bell
David Witcher, a 32-year-old former assistant director of urban programs at MSC, died last Wednesday in Memorial Sloan Kettering Institute, New York. He was a victim of lymphatic cancer. According to Wilkes, Witcher died because the white corpuscles in his blood could not function well enough to prevent mortal infections. He lived at 18 Burnside, Upper Montclair.

During Witcher's years as a music major at MSC, he was remembered by Dr. Benjamin Wilkes, music department chairman, as a “rare, intelligent young man who later turned his energies to fighting against social injustices.” According to Wilkes, Witcher had great insight into people. No matter who they were, “David could talk to them because he’d experienced what they’d been through himself.”

DR. GEORGE King, special assistant to President for program development, remembered Witcher as a student who was tremendously good in music. Outstanding in King's memory of Witcher is that he was “most important in reshaping MSC policies and reeducating MSC administrators so that minority students could get an education without undue compromises. King said, “David was a disciplined man who had great articulation in understanding minorities—a man who was never less than sincere.”

Remembering Witcher as a friend as well as the man most “instrumental in solving a lot of the problems that existed at that time,” is Vincent Calabrese, business and finance vice president. He also said, “Dave was a strong individual who told you what he felt needed to be said, not what you wanted to hear. His passing is a great tragedy.”

Witcher is also remembered by Delford Jones, assistant admissions director who is in charge of the fund raising programs going on now to ease the exceedingly large medical bill. ACCORDING TO Jones, so far there have only been pledges and no actual donations. However, “People seem to be responding in terms of the spirit of helping,” he continued.

One of those with that spirit is Raymond Paul of the English department. He is going to lecture on famous murder trials and the proceeds will go to Witcher’s estate. The Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Lambmu Mu Chapter, a music fraternity Witcher belonged to, will also donate proceeds from six of their concerts. Also slated is a benefit concert by the MSC Gospel Ensemble Talent Review on Oct. 27. The Ensemble is comprised predominantly of MSC students and has appeared extensively in the N.J. NY area and in Washington DC. The majority of their compositions are original works written by Keith Childress and Myron Smith, the directors.

“Witcher really fought for his life,” said Jones. “The last three weeks he was under heavy medication and in great pain. It was apparent to him that he wouldn’t get better. However, he was at peace with himself—not afraid or worried. He remained optimistic the whole time.”

BORN IN Edison, Ga., Witcher was survived by his wife, Carol; two sons, four year old Jason and three year old Aaron who is blind, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Witcher; a brother, Jerry, and a sister, Mary Stevens.

Witcher was a 1967 graduate of MSC. He taught music in Newark until he returned to MSC in early spring of 1968 to work on implementing new policies on acceptance of minority students.

Later that year, Witcher became a fellow in the US Education Office in Washington, DC. A year later, he went to Princeton on a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. Witcher returned to MSC in 1970 as assistant director of urban programs.

In 1972, he left MSC again, and became an assistant in the city planner in Newark. Afterwards doctors discovered he had a blood disorder as a result of a leg injury, although they were not sure how severe it was at that time. When his condition worsened, Witcher was in and out of the hospital the last 10 months of his life receiving medication for cancer of the lymphatic system. Meanwhile his medical bills continued to increase until they reached $80,000 at the time of his death.

Programs Keep Jaffe's Memory Alive at MSC

By Dean Brianik
Last fall, Dr. Julian Jaffe an MSC history professor, suffered a heart attack on campus. Since his death several projects keep his memory alive.

A new program is a series of memorial lectures to be given once a year in Jaffe’s name.

In addition, a prize was established last year in his honor and the journal he founded is continuing under different leadership.

KEN OLENIK, a history professor and spokesman for the Julian Jaffe Memorial Lecture Series Committee, said that the first lecture would be on Thurs., Oct. 31, in the Student Center ballroom, at 8 pm.

The speaker will be Rabbi Marc H. Tannenbaum, who is nationally known as a leader in interfaith relations. His topic will be “The Oil Crisis: Its Importance for Jews and Christians.”

Another project started in Jaffe’s honor is the Jaffe Prize, which was established shortly after his death. Dr. Joel Schwartz, also of the history department, said that the award is open to all MSC students and is given to a student for work done in history or a related field. The student must submit some written work, such as a research paper, to qualify for the award.

PRIOR TO his death, Jaffe was the founder and editor of the Montclair State Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities. The current editor, Dr. Clarence Pate, also a history professor, noted that the journal has expanded since its inception in 1972 and has gained more of a national outlook. Pate added that the journal has brought a number of nationally known scholars to its editorial board, including Leslie Fiedler, the Samuel Clemens professor of literature at the State University of New York in Buffalo.

In his time at MSC, Jaffe won the respect of both students and faculty. Dr. Richard Barker, chairman of the history department, spoke of Jaffe's "full commitment to both scholarship and MSC."

“Jaffe’s popularity among the students was apparent in his high ratings from them in the faculty evaluations. Barker said this popularity was due in part to Jaffe’s ‘infectious personality and his ability to listen and put people at ease.”

He also noted that Jaffe made “great efforts to help students.” He cited one instance in which Jaffe made special arrangements for a group of policemen attending a late afternoon course. They had to deal with changing shifts, and Jaffe enabled them to remain in the course, according to Barker.

As Olenik noted, “A year after his death, Dr. Jaffe is still making great contributions to the college.”

For only $7.03 a month, plus a one-time $15.00 installation charge, you can have your own private phone.
You'll be able to make and receive personal calls. Even reach other campus phones by dialing only four digits. All without going through a switchboard.

How is this possible? Because Montclair State installed Centrex, the modern telephone service. So, look at it this way. If you and your roommate go halves, the cost is roughly 12¢ a day. Well worth it when you think about waiting in pay phone lines or busy got-to-get-a-date-for-the-weekend nights.

Agreed? Just pick up an application at the Housing Office. And order a phone for your room. A New Jersey Bell.

Europe the Prize

Button - Spotters to Hit MSC

WABC--am radio may have started something with their $25,000 button contest. The idea has been picked up at MSC by the office of international programs; however the main prize is not cold cash but a trip to Europe on the Euro-Sestion program in January 1975.

Joseph Kloza, director of international programs, explained that random and impartial spotters will visit the campus once a week for the next ten weeks and choose one student wearing a Euro-Sestion '75 badge. The free buttons are available at the international programs office in Life Hall to any member of the MSC community, regardless of their intentions to apply for the overseas program.

The ten students chosen will be involved in a December 17 drawing for 10 prizes. Besides the expense-paid trip to Europe, other prizes include a Polish rock and roll album, dinner for two in a medieval London restaurant, a bottle of Hungarian cognac, and a round trip to New York from the Beltone Avenue box stop in Montclair, a bottle of Spanish olives and a sauna bath session in Helsinki, Finland. Transportation costs are not included in overseas prizes, Kloza said.

The Euro-Sestion programs are spread out over five schools and concentrated into 20 separate courses, each worth three credits. Prices for the three-week stay range from $399 for a London urban studies course to a $935 study of Slavic culture in the USSR and Poland.

The prices include the round-trip airfare, all transportation, lectures, lodging, taxes, a full breakfast and theater tickets where applicable. Tuition, at $20 per credit for the winter session, is not included.

Kappa Alpha Psi Seeking Charter

By Michael Droppa
Did you know that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was a failure? The massive seven foot one inch center of the Milwaukee Bucks basketball team is doomed as a a scroller in the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.
A scroller is one who pledges for a fraternity and knows all its pledging information but is rejected as a member. Jabbar will be a scroller for life.
The fraternity, which was established in 1911 and is charted nationally, has seven members at MSC. "Once you become a member, you are a member for life," said Arnell Jenkins, a spokesman for the fraternity at MSC.
Since its two year existence at MSC, the fraternity has chartered other branches at Trenton State and Rutgers/New Brunswick. However, the MSC branch does not have a charter. MSC requires a fraternity to have a minimum of 15 students before applying for a charter. However, this semester there are 14 pledges in line for initiation to the fraternity and if at least eight of the 14 are accepted, the fraternity may be granted the charter, Jenkins hoped.
One of the major benefits of the fraternity is that it allows its members to acquire loans through the national organization rather than having their members turn to a bank.
Requirements are a letter of intent and a formal initiation interview where all secrets of the fraternity are revealed to the pledge. Completion of the first semester of college and a 2.0 cumulative average are also required.
Kappa Alpha Psi is a social fraternity. It is not restricted to a particular major and is also open to students of any race, creed or color, Jenkins said.

The SGA has been trying to get a prescription discount program for students off the ground the past few weeks. The efforts started with a lot of research and legwork and culminated with a proposal passing the legislature. The project has unfortunately run into a snag, however, in tangled terminology. The SGA when established would allow students to get any prescription filled for themselves at $1.50 per prescription. Granted, 23 cents of each student’s activity fee per month will be going to the pharmacies involved. But with most prescriptions going for $6 to $8 per prescription, $1.73 per month is a pretty good price, especially if one has medication filled regularly.

The program took a lot of work and has a fairly sound basis. Now is the time for the SGA to follow through on it so that it becomes a reality.

The SGA will also be pushing themselves in the position where they must follow through on this program and constantly review and evaluate it. If only half a dozen people use the service in a month, $1000 is being wasted.

So is stashing valuable articles in an unlocked or easily unguarded. An open door to an unoccupied room is asking for trouble. Thus the security department may not have the funds to pay additional officers and human beings can’t be everywhere at once. But too often the student’s question of “Where was security” is heard when crime hits home.

The SGA’s answer to dorm security, that it is the concern of housing, appears to be another pass-the-buck routine, a routine that is becoming all too prevalent in this situation.

What is needed here is some kind of cooperation and communication between the security department and the dorm federation rather than passing the blame to the other party.

Buck-passing never really gets much done.
To the Editor:

As a member of the white race, I am very insulted by the lack of representation for my race on the WMSC Board of Trustees. Besides the small representation for whites, I must protest the lack of representation for the following minority groups: the Gay Mode; Spanish-speaking people; American Indians; women; the handicapped; greasers; pseudo fags and people who try to act like gays; geeks; syph; Irish Jews; and the drunks in the SC rathskeller.

Obviously, the preceding paragraph sounds a little ridiculous. But so does the new WMSC constitution. It may be an unhappy truth, but whites do have the majority on campus, as do women. So, why do the white students get a minority vote? And why is it that women only get one required member? It seems that what's wrong in minority, you get a larger representation on the radio station. But isn't just this what former SGA president Angelo Genova fought against last semester? Wasn't the constitution to be fair to all students? Wasn't it also convey local student opinion to the WMSC Board of Trustees. Besides the also protest the lack of minority, you get a larger representation on the radio station. It may be an unhappy truth, but whites do have the majority on campus, as do women. So, why do the white students get a majority vote? And why is it that women only get one required member? It seems that what's wrong in minority, you get a larger representation on the radio station.

I personally know that I don't enjoy having my ad fee go for a $270 phone bill. I also realize that I know nothing about running a radio station. Unfortunately, there are many unqualified people who feel that they have the right to know about running a radio station. I would like to know what qualifications and experience Angelo Genova and Michael Lacatena have to justify their theories on running a radio station. It would not surprise me to learn that did not have such experience. I would also like to know if the SGA's Board of Trustees are as "proportionately representative" as WMSC's. Perhaps someone should investigate the SGA Executive Board and Council - are all minorities represented there?

SGA Urges United Front

Now that the pending tuition hike has been brought to the attention of all, the SGA urges a concerted effort to be made by the SGA to accrue and combat the anticipated increase, a question arising as to its effect on the student body. Can students realistically affect changes in the state? To begin with, let me state that the SGA is representative of student interests on a state level. President has been established that the SGA concern itself not only with the issues here, at MISC but should also convey local student opinion to decisions reached on the state level. We must realize that we are the only ones with a direct effect on our education at MISC.

INPUT MEANS POWER.

Because of these reasons, I can say with a degree of pride that the SGA is the only group that can consider the responsibility of striving for student input in fighting the anticipated tuition increase.

Now we ask ourselves, the fight against the budget cut and tuition hike a realistic fight? Many students share this same view. Many students ask why we can't just sit back and do our business as usual? Let us get up no matter what we do, so why fight? The SGA does not believe that there is absolutely nothing we can do about this issue. We must realize the problem carefully and our argument must be presented to Trenton in a realistic and logical manner.

Students should realize that they have the power to fight in their votes. Practically all college students are over 18 years of age and are a large constituency in any election.

RESPONSIBILITY

We have strength in numbers. This is why it is important that students be aware of the issues and become part of the mechanism that can fight this increase. Every student at every state college owes it to himself to join in the fight.

A tuition increase will hurt all students: minority, white, working poor, even those on special scholarships. Rumor has it that tuition might double by next fall! We need your continued effort on the part of all students. It does not take a great deal of time to write a letter of opposition to your local representative and to ask your parents to write letters to them. Individually we cannot affect a change but united we can. We can become a strong and recognizable force.

NEVER SAY DIE

Regardless of the odds, we must be heard. It's so easy to let the SGA believe that students are held to have a "chance" of success. The SGA believes it is important enough that students express to the state their dissatisfaction and disaffection with the issues confronting them.

Students cannot afford to let decisions be made without student input. We pay for our education and as tax-paying members of the educational process, our attitudes and interests should be adhered to above all else.

It is the responsibility of the state to be receptive to our demands, but it is our responsibility to make those demands. We must formulate our argument and present it to the legislature.

With this philosophy in mind, the SGA and all students should actively attempt to further our security in our educational system.

I want and should have an education. I want my voice heard on the matter of the tuition increase. I am a transfer student from the University of Colorado and there the students government had strong support from the students. All students knew when the elections were, as well as what people were running.

I was shocked to find when I asked people to sign my petition, that they didn't know there was an election. They vaguely knew what the SGA was. Since the students don't know who we are and what our functions are, I feel it is my duty with their suggestions and complaints.

The SGA cannot represent the students if we don't represent the students. The SGA must know what the students want. The few students who do want to become active in the SGA or make their complaints heard simply proves that their efforts will be useless as a result of the image of the SGA that the Montclairion presents. We are interested in the students that's why we are representatives for the SGA.

The Montclairion could be a useful tool in letting the students know more about the SGA and we in turn could get to know the needs of the students. We would make sure that if you check your facts regarding SGA and get the students to support us. Then we can represent the students.

is Faith Misguided?

It has been suggested that in the United States, Protestantism, Catholicism and Judaism are but three denominations of one larger religion - Americanism. This may be a bit overdrawn but one does sometimes wonder whether some Americans make much of a distinction between the two Apostles and the "Founding Fathers," Constitution and the Bible or Moses and George Washington.

From time to time, some have objected to the near-religious loyalty given to the nation, especially when that loyalty is a subtle and therefore more dangerous influence. Disgustingly, the Church in America has too often been co-opted by the materialism and corrupt world-system around it. John the Apostle wrote, "The worldling is an enemy to the Lord and is to be destroyed." It is time for everyone to realize what religious upbringing he or she has had and to compare it with the radically transforming message of Jesus as shown in the New Testament. Before we can truly say, "God is on our side," let's see what we can do about being on His side.
The Taking of Pelham One Two Three
Humorous Spoofing Mixes With a Lot of Suspense

By Ed Garrison

"The Taking of Pelham One Two Three" is a good, humorous, suspenseful, fast moving spoof of New York City. Director Joseph Sargent turns the neonassidic idea of a subway hijacking into stark reality. In doing so, Sargent has revealed the profound inadequacies of the city's transit system.

The Transit Authority knows a policeman is involved in a hijacking, but doesn't know if it's a real police officer or a crook. The crook is also only one example of the good dialogue in the film.

The script calls for a person of Matthau's character to be released, the hippie, a calm old man, a Spanish hooker who has an immediate appointment to be kept, and a hooker who has an immediate appointment to be kept.

The Taking of Pelham One Two Three is a good, witty, intelligent, well written script. It is also a good film. It is not to be missed.
"We've been through Watergate and some other serious things," says Dr. Clyde W. McElroy of the speech and theater department, "now it's time to have some fun."

With that thought in mind, director McElroy and his cast will launch this year's Major Theater Series with Georges Feydeau's "The Happy Hunter," a rip-snorting, rollicking French farce.

THE PLAY will be performed Oct. 23-26 at 8:30 pm in Memorial Auditorium, with a 2:15 matinee on Fri., Oct. 25.

McElroy describes the play as "a riotous bedroom farce" which takes place amid the bravado elegance of Paris circa 1910. Although the play was written and first performed in 1892, McElroy explained that this production had been updated slightly to place it in a more excitable, extravagant, bawdy age when "men had mistresses and wives had lovers."

McElroy explained that "The Happy Hunter" was chosen "mostly because it's fun" and nicely complements the festive mood of autumn. "It'll fit right in with Oktoberfest and Homecoming," McElroy added.

"THE HAPPY Hunter" is one of the best and most popular of Feydeau's farces which flourished in the period from 1890-1910, according to McElroy. He noted that Feydeau's work was almost totally ignored after 1910, but in the last few years has enjoyed a kind of local renaissance.

McElroy explained that Feydeau's "Chemin de Fer" was done on Broadway last year by the Phoenix Repertory Company and "A Flea in Her Ear," another Feydeau farce, was done here at MSC several years ago.

"The Happy Hunter" has never been performed in New York, McElroy said, adding that this production is the first in the metropolitan area.

Although McElroy's production will emphasize period with colorful, elegant floor-length dresses and coiffed hairdos for the ladies, he is quick to note that the action of the play will not seem foreign or unusual, "wives and husbands are always trying to cheat on each other," McElroy said, "and that is what this play is all about."

"The Happy Hunter" will feature Martin Van Treuren as a deceitful husband, June Flanagan as a revengeful wife and Don Sheffrin as her cuckolded lover. Other players include Laura Carlson, Barry Shannon, Barry Cassidy, Theresa D. Greene, Peter Colletto, Dennis Grady and Fred Lupeka.

IN A humorous aside, McElroy related that he half-thought of dedicating the play to Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.), who, about a week ago, was nearly arrested for driving without headlights in a part near the Capitol in Washington DC with a carful of passengers that included a stripper who later landed in the Potomac River. Mills explained that the stripper was with him only because his wife was ill and he needed an escort. Mills' situation is quite similar to some of the antics of "The Happy Hunter," McElroy stated.

"We've had a ball with this play, and I'm happy with what we've got," McElroy said, adding that he is confident that anyone who comes to see the play will have "a great time."

"Absurd Person Singular," a new comedy by England's Alan Ayckbourn, opened at the MuTheatre last week to the deserving sound of much laughter and a large round of applause at curtain-call.

"Absurd Person Singular" takes place on Christmas Eve, past, present and future in a suburban town in England. It deals with the chaotic (to put it mildly) lives of three mismatched married couples.

ONE BY one the "absurd" twosomes unfold their lives amidst some of the strangest but funniest situations imaginable. One cannot help laughing at a suicide attempt the way it is played in this show.

The comedy, which has been running at London's West End for over a year, boasts the most impressive and talented cast currently on this side of the Atlantic. Expertly directed by Eric Thomas they are a true "all-star" lineup.

Richard Kiley is splendid as a successful banker of high standing. His gracious appearance and snappy delivery of dialogue are a marvel both to watch and listen to.

Geraldine Page can only be described as exhibiting as his over-bearing wife, in true Tallulah Bankhead "ang" style. She is particularly stunning in a scene in which she is convincingly intoxicated. The many little bits she throws into her character (such as her superb facial expressions) are highlights of the show.

Billye Dietz is refreshingly youthful in her interpretation of the neglected wife which is certainly unique. Her character is of such attractiveness that during the second act, when she utters practically not a word, her presence is constant.

Dennis, who already has the coveted Oscar and two Tony awards, to gaze at, is a sure bet to be closely followed by the running for this year's TONY AWARDS does well in the role of her unhappy married. The scene in which he tries to prevent his wife from committing suicide is his best during the show.

Larry Bryden is both fresh and spirited in the part of a do-it-yourself loser who makes good by the conclusion of the play. His bickering moments with his wife are outstanding.

Perhaps least known to New York audiences among this array of theatricals is Carole Shelley. She, however, is hysterically amusing as Blyden's wife. She is an absolute charm and the audience falls in love immediately.

EACH MEMBER of this polished cast is, in their own way, the best performer of "Absurd Person Singular." One can confidently say it will be quite impossible to pick a favorite among them. All prove their intense professionalism and genius in the field of comedy again and again throughout the evening.

Though the cast is in for the main attraction of "Absurd Person Singular," the witty dialogue and numerous sight gags contribute to the enjoyment of the show.

The scenery and arts of Edward Burbridge deserve special mention because, not only are they fine examples of stagecraft, but they help give a clear and concise picture of the assorted characters living in them. They are extremely well coordinated with the entire show.

THOMAS SKELTON's lighting design and Levino Verna's costumes are as good as they could be and they too filled in bits and pieces of the characters. Producer Michael Codron is applauded for his selection of an outstanding crew.

All in all, "Absurd Person Singular" is a slick, sophisticated and tightly woven show which should prove an entertaining and enjoyable evening at the theater.
Booters Suffering Through Whitewash Syndrome

By Lonny Cohen

After being whitewashed twice in a row, by William Paterson College in a scoreless tie and at Lehman College only six goals in seven games and have suffered three shutouts in the young season.

The Indian booters have been held to the Tom Sawyer fence syndrome. coach Bob Wolfarth must be getting young season.

in an identical score, head soccer efficiency when Bob Mykulak moved back to steady the right fullback position and Mark "Goose" Lorente surprised everybody by playing solid soccer.

IT LOOKED like the Tribe was off to another star studded season and the opening 1-0 loss to Hartwick began to crawl through the style of play. In their next game against Newark College of Engineering) the Indians were guilty of playing a flat first half and dropped the game 2-1.

MSC bounced back against the Profs of Glassboro State in their best offensive effort of the year 3-1. From there it was all downhill, a 2-1 victory over Jersey City in which the Indians missed several opportunities to ice the game away, a 1-0 victory over the Merchant Marine Academy in which the Tribe was frustrated four times by the crossbar, and finally the fall into mediocrity with ties their last two times out.

"WE DO everything but put the ball in the goal," commented assistant coach Manny Schellscheidt during the halftime of a recent game. Schellscheidt praised the defense and complimented the offense on the ability to control the ball. If ball control is adequate then what is missing? "We need experience on the line" stated Al Polito on the lack of scoring. "We have the power to score but when we get close to the goal we rush our shot and the result is a goal box ball."

If experience is missing then the physical side of the Indian game is non-existent. "We were scared when we went out on the field (against Lehman)," said one of the Tribe players. No longer is there the intimidating eminence of 6'2" Nick Mykulak to watch over his teammates and be what is commonly known as a policeman.

THE BALL has been there to be put in. Against the Merchant Marine Academy the Indians had at least six passes go through the goal crease, and in the closing minutes against William Paterson Bob Mykulak crossed a pair of pictures perfect passes through the crease without being touched by an Indian player.

Then there have been the shots that have hit the crossbar (at least five this season), and the easy shots that have just been missed (Case in point, Bill Gaertner had a seven yard shot on a break away against the Lehman goalie in the final seconds that would have won the game, but Gaertner rushed the shot and only managed to release a dribbler right at the goalie.)

Schellscheidt has begun to shake up the team in practice and "brought a few of the players back to earth."

Horn’s Charges Blow Sour Note
By Steve Nuerer
BRONX, NY — In its latest tri-meet the Montclair State cross country team continued its losing trend as it fell victim to both Trenton State and Queens College by the scores of 20-41 and 27-28 respectively at Van Cortland Park.

Without the services of Tim O’Donoghue, only two Indians managed to finish in the top ten. Craig Vanderbeck (27:31) grabbed third place and Den Doherty (27:53) took seventh. The next MSC runner was a distant 17th.

“WE’RE A young team, many freshman and sophomores,” comments MSC Coach George Horn. “We work hard in practice and talent wise we should be winning, but the boys on the team depend on each other too much. They are dropping out of races too frequently.”

The Tribe now has an overall record of 2-6 this season, though things may look dismal Horn still feels that all is not lost.

“We’ve still got time to win a couple more,” he says.

Montclair State’s women’s tennis team extended its record to 4-0 with a hard-earned 4-3 win over Brooklyn College. The first singles match was a highly contested razor sharp singles play to overcome valiant but losing efforts in two of three doubles matches. In singles play newcomer Ann Sokolowski won her match over BC’s Paula Tosta 6-3, 7-5 with some cleverly placed returns which had her opponent off balance throughout the play.

Pleased with her performance Sokolowski stated: “This was the best tennis I’ve played so far for this season, I was able to place shots where I wanted them.”

In OTHER singles action, MSC’s Chris Grassamo decisioned Cicilia Ferrera 7-5, 6-1 and at a point in play when all Squaw doubles teams were trailing, Lori Imhoff scored a crucial come from behind win over BC’s Chris Spear in three sets 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Asked of her turnabout in play Imhoff commented, “It decided to play more aggressively after losing the first set which was the key to my rally to notch the win.” BC’s Susan Karper salvaged her teams singles play with a 6-1 straight set win over MSC’s Sue Reagen.

MSC Shaves Brooklyn With Sharp Singles

By Jim Finaldi
Brooklyn College surprised by taking two of three doubles matches over MSC players who have shown good form all season. BC’s Honi Wurtman and Judy Whitaker took the duo of Nancy Meyer and Mary Ellen Mahan in three sets 7-5 4-6 1-6 while Squaws Ann Catroppa and Gall Hameruru dropped a hotly contested match to Monica Conte and Ellen Lutz 6-3, 2-6.

THE SQUAWS salvaged the final doubles match in three sets as Karen Miller and Clorinda Soracco bore down to dominate the final two sets after losing the opener to BC’s Pat Keegan and Helen Skidy by a 2-6 score.

“We became the attackers in the last two sets to regain control of the match,” observed Miller and Soracco. Commenting on the winning streak all MSC players agreed that Coach Lynda Galata’s rigorous conditioning has been the main reason for a thus far unbeaten record. The Squaws next meet Rutgers’ netwomen today in a home contest which starts at 4 pm.

Chris Grassamo (MSC) defeated Cicilia Ferrera (BC) 7-5, 6-1.

Lori Imhoff (MSC) defeated Chris Spear (BC) 7-5, 6-1.

Squaws ‘Rough It,’ 9-0

By Bob Scherer
WAYNE – Gloomy and damp weather was little reflected in the style of play by the Squaws of Montclair State when they delivered a sunny and bright performance in drubbing William Paterson 9-0 in a field hockey match here on Monday.

The victory left the girls undefeated in four outings this season, and provided a much-welcomed breather after two successive hard-fought battles which resulted in a 1-0 win and a 2-2 tie against Kings College and Centenary College respectively.

THE SQUAWS wasted little time in recording the only score they would need when Kim Hamilton slapped in a penalty shot goal with only 2:50 gone by in the half. It was the first of two scores Hamilton had in the game, but only the beginning of a frustrating afternoon for WPC goalie Sue Jernick who was the victim of an aggressive and unrelenting MSC assault which produced 18 shots on goal, and a 50% accuracy rate.

While Mac’s defense was seemingly untouchable, their offense was even better. Playing tenaciously all afternoon, they allowed the Pioneers only four shots on goal, which even if had been successful would have left the Squaws with a convincing win.

However, the four saves made by MSC goalie Tracy Brown did provide the team with their third straight shutout in three victories.

ALONG WITH Hamilton, Anna Winburg and Cindy Beradino each had two tallies, while Julie Schroeder, Roxanne Coles, and Carol Mazulian added one each to the onslaught.

Despite the initial satisfaction that came as a result of being on the winning side of a heavily one-sided contest, the team was slightly disappointed by the lack of competition Hamilton stated that they “expected more push” and considered the opposition “more rough than skillful.” Head mentor Donna Olson said much the same.

“They seemed to fall apart. I was disappointed, we had thought they would give us a better match.”

Frankenfield Makes Mincemeat of BC Bats

By John Delery

CLIFTON—Coach Alex Tomillo turned loose his newest creation, Frankenfield, (Ron that is) and the result was a four hit shut out to complete a doubleheader sweep over Brooklyn College 8-0. The Indians came from behind in the seventh and one in the eighth to take the first game 3-2. With the twin killings the Tribe ended their fall season with a 10-6 record.

Frankenfield (3-0) scattered four harmless singles and struck out seven batters while walking four. He was helped out by the fact that his infield pulled off two double plays to get him out of jams in both the fourth and seventh innings.

"MY CURVEBALL was the big pitch for me. It kept their hitters off balance," Frankenfield explained. His words were proven by the fact that 10 of the 21 outs came as the result of groundballs.

"They were taking alot of third strikes because they were looking for the curve so most of the time I was able to sneak the fastball right by them," Frankenfield went on. "In my other games I was wild high this time I kept the ball low where I wanted it. An eight run lead is always nice to work with," he continued.

The Indians wasted no time in striking Frankenfield to that big cushion by exploding for six runs in the opening frame. Three walks to Paul Pignarello, Gary Banta and Stu Plichter promptly loaded the bases. From there John Scoras broke out of his slump with a 2-run single to left. Richter went to second and scored seconds later on a throwing error.

Richter promptly loaded the bases, but Paul Pignarello, Mike Christodorus and Bill Pignarello made them hit the ball for me. It kept their hitters off balance," Frankenfield explained. His words were proven by the fact that 10 of the 21 outs came as the result of groundballs.

HE GAVE a lot of credit for the running game, but its anti-air game led by Tony Parisie and his 18 career interceptions has been sound. Anderson intends to find out how sound.

"We're going to test their pass defense early," Anderson said. "The way Hugger's been throwing, he'll do well against anyone," Anderson said.

WHEN THE visitors from Staten Island go to their pro set offense, it will be the 60, 195 Uke looking for long strong Tom Howard or tough right and Rich Sizemore. When the senior signal caller hands off, most likely it will be to bullish junior Tim Vorhees, a 6-0, 205 fullback, Chuck Grevious compliments him in the backfield.

"Uke's so dangerous because he likes to fall around and knock them back. He's got good speed and can hurt you both ways," Anderson said.

Yet Anderson is expecting "They'll be going to the air early and often, and our chances depend on how we stop their passing," he explained.

A week ago, Anderson's charges didn't stop Central Connecticut at all, and took it on the chin, 42-29 from the Blue Devils. It put a quick halt to the Tribe's four-game win streak, and the Wagner contest may serve as a barometer of the long range effects of that letdown.

"IT'S NOT so much a question of money, as the more realistic fact of whether we can regroup our defense," Anderson insisted.

"If we get the ball, we're going to score," he continued. "But the question is how many times we do get it. It isn't much help if we get it.

But this week's a different story and even Anderson realizes the outcome is unpredictable.

"With teams like these two, it all depends on what team is sharper that night," Anderson explained. "They're that evenly matched."
You've heard of looks being deceiving! Here's a variation: records are deceiving!

According to scoring statistics, the Indians should have won the match-up. The wireless Blue Devils had scored 77 points while yielding 106. The undefeated Tribe had rolled up 98 points and had their goal line dented only three times.

WHAT HAPPENED? "Their (CCSC) execution was excellent," Anderson stated. "Our defense left much to be desired." It's as simple as that.

Anderson continued; "In previous games we have been bending but last week we broke.

McKinley Boston, defensive coordinator, added, "It was mental errors and a lack of execution on our part. You can't afford to play the way we did."

THE MERE fact that the Indian defense gave up more points in the first quarter then they had in any of their other complete games should have confirmed their premonitions about the Blue Devil confrontation.

In the first period, CCSC's senior halfback Mark St. Germain, who ran for 104 yards on the day, scooted for the game's first two touchdowns.

Everything seemed to be coming in twos, as least in the first half anyway, as MSC's first scoring came on two Craig Hugger to Bob Haddad passes during the second quarter.

The Tribe saw stars as W.C. O'Brien, Blue Devil fullback, not only scored CCSC's third and fourth touchdowns but also ripped off-tackle to gather 112 yards in two plays. His total yardage for the afternoon was 163.

By Rich Keller

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. - It's cliché time! You've heard that there's a first time for everything! Would you believe that when Central Connecticut State College buried MSC 42-29, last Saturday, it was the first time that head football coach Clary Anderson has ever had over 40 points scored against him?

Anderson has been involved in football for a total of 41 years; eight as a participant and 33 holding the reins. "It was difficult to take, the first time always is," lamented Anderson, "but I know that the players feel worse than I do."

THERE'S A FIRST time for everything! Would you believe that Indian quarterback Craig Hugger broke seven records and was named to the ECAC weekly all-star squad, but the Tribe fell 42-29.

Hugger's Arrived

Hugger is here and he's here to stay.

Craig Hugger, senior quarterback of the Montclair State Indians, has something that he didn't have last year and it's not his mustache.

He's CONFIDENT relaxed and enjoying the game more. But wouldn't you enjoy the game more if your team was doing well, you had your coaches confidence, you had broken seven records and because of you exceptional play in last weeks contest, were named to the ECAC weekly all-star team?

The team is doing well. They are 6-0, 208 senior out of Cranford High School, has started at his position for two years and has it all going now, but according to head coach Clary Anderson, he got off to a slow start this season.

"Before the season, Haddad's father unfortunately became seriously ill and passed away. He missed the first game, and when he came back he dropped two passes that were right in his hands. We knew it wasn't Bob," Anderson explained. "His hands are his best asset," claims Anderson. "He's eager to fight out into the open and he's very anxious to have the ball thrown to him."

HADDAD EXHIBITED his determination to fight for open spots on Saturday's game when Hugger hit him in the end zone early in the first quarter for the Tribe's first score. On the next play, Hugger found Haddad open in the end zone again and completed the two-point conversion.

GOTCHA: MSC's tight end and Bob Haddad (white) is caught by Dennis Campanro (bottom) and Roger Johnson (top) of CCSC, during last Saturday's battle in New Britain, Conn. Though the Indians lost 42-29, Haddad haulied in a record breaking ten passes and because of this was named to the ECAC weekly all-star squad.
