Arrest, Expulsions Result

By Donald Scarinci

Two unrelated incidents of unlawful drug use occurred last weekend at the Rathskeller resulting in the arrest of one individual and the removal of four others from the beer hall.

According to the Little Falls police department, Nicholas Baratta of Nutley was arrested Saturday at approximately 1:15 am for possession of cocaine.

Michael S. Loewenthal, director of the Student Center, said that Baratta was seen using the drug by Rathskeller personnel.

Loewenthal said the decision to call the police department was made by John Keening, manager of the Rathskeller, along with patrolman Ken Kollin, the campus police officer on duty at the time. Loewenthal noted that Baratta is not a student of MSC.

According to the official report issued to James W. Lockhart, Director of Security, Baratta was observed by Keening "sniffing cocaine off a $1 bill at one of the tables.

THE REPORT said that Keening then asked Baratta what he was doing and Baratta told him. After asking Keening to verify what Baratta had seen, the Little Falls police were notified, according to the report. Keening was unavailable for comment.

Lockhart said that if Baratta was an MSC student it would have been a "different matter," implying that the Little Falls police would not have been called.

Lockhart went on to say that the use of cocaine in the campus bar was "administrative act committed in the campus atmosphere." Lockhart noted that this was the first time there has been a campus arrest on drug charges in the five years that he has served as Director of Security.

In another incident Saturday night some of the four MSC students were "discharged" from the building for smoking marijuana at one of the Rathskeller tables, according to Loewenthal.

Loewenthal said that though they were not actually arrested the four students will be forwarded to Lawton W. Blanton, Dean of Students.

According to Blanton, he will be talking individually to each of the four students. "We have problems like this from time to time," he said, "and everyone learns from them."

Blanton would not comment on the disciplinary action that would be taken against the four students because he has not yet spoken to them. He did, however, leave open the possibility of suspension from the college as an extreme measure that could be taken.

Commenting on the fact that the non-student cocaine user was arrested and the four marijuana smokers were not, Blanton said, "The college is in a position to drop regular enrolled students after due process, however, there is nothing we can do for a non-student (such as drop him from college) except to refer them to the police for having violated state and national laws." He also said that he is "very supportive of Mr. Loewenthal's attitudes on drug use and abuse."

Applauded by the two incidents Loewenthal said, "The Student Center does not have a severe drug problem but we've had some incidence of lads which are severe and will not be tolerated." He advocated that the "Student Center will not become a sanctuary for the use of illegal drugs nor will it become a contact point for the trading of these commodities."

Since the Rathskeller first opened in May of last semester, this is the first incident of open drug use in the bar, Loewenthal noted.

SGA Kills Amendment To Sever MAC Funding

By Barbara Ponsi

An amendment to the SGA constitution calling for the separation of the Montclair Athletic Commission (MAC) from the SGA was defeated at the legislature meeting Tuesday.

The SGA Appropriations Committee proposed the subsequently killed amendment in order to exclude financing of MAC from the SGA budget. However, the voting did establish that the $15 per student fee allotted from the SGA was defeated at the legislature meeting Tuesday.

According to the Little Falls police department, Nicholas Baratta of Nutley was arrested Saturday at approximately 1:15 am for possession of cocaine.

Michael S. Loewenthal, director of the Student Center, said that Baratta was seen using the drug by Rathskeller personnel.

Loewenthal said the decision to call the police department was made by John Keening, manager of the Rathskeller, along with patrolman Ken Kollin, the campus police officer on duty at the time. Loewenthal noted that Baratta is not a student of MSC.

According to the official report issued to James W. Lockhart, Director of Security, Baratta was observed by Keening "sniffing cocaine off a $1 bill at one of the tables.

THE REPORT said that Keening then asked Baratta what he was doing and Baratta told him. After asking Keening to verify what Baratta had seen, the Little Falls police were notified, according to the report. Keening was unavailable for comment.

Lockhart said that if Baratta was an MSC student it would have been a "different matter," implying that the Little Falls police would not have been called.

Lockhart went on to say that the use of cocaine in the campus bar was "administrative act committed in the campus atmosphere." Lockhart noted that this was the first time there has been a campus arrest on drug charges in the five years that he has served as Director of Security.

In another incident Saturday night some of the four MSC students were "discharged" from the building for smoking marijuana at one of the Rathskeller tables, according to Loewenthal.

Loewenthal said that though they were not actually arrested the four students will be forwarded to Lawton W. Blanton, Dean of Students.

According to Blanton, he will be talking individually to each of the four students. "We have problems like this from time to time," he said, "and everyone learns from them."

Blanton would not comment on the disciplinary action that would be taken against the four students because he has not yet spoken to them. He did, however, leave open the possibility of suspension from the college as an extreme measure that could be taken.

Commenting on the fact that the non-student cocaine user was arrested and the four marijuana smokers were not, Blanton said, "The college is in a position to drop regular enrolled students after due process, however, there is nothing we can do for a non-student (such as drop him from college) except to refer them to the police for having violated state and national laws." He also said that he is "very supportive of Mr. Loewenthal's attitudes on drug use and abuse."

Applauded by the two incidents Loewenthal said, "The Student Center does not have a severe drug problem but we've had some incidence of lads which are severe and will not be tolerated." He advocated that the "Student Center will not become a sanctuary for the use of illegal drugs nor will it become a contact point for the trading of these commodities."

Since the Rathskeller first opened in May of last semester, this is the first incident of open drug use in the bar, Loewenthal noted.

SGA Appropriations Committee recommended that the amendment be withdrawn but the recommendation was rejected by a 10-9 vote. Thus, the amendment was defeated.

SGA Vice-President of Academic Affairs Ken Malmud clarified that "it is our hope to persuade the administration, but we are not yet home free."

Messina pointed out that if MAC continues to be supported by the SGA, some of the athletic programs may have to be cut as an alternate method of saving the students' money.

Words that scald: Political activist Dick Gregory lectured for three hours to a receptive audience Monday night in Memorial Auditorium in a College Life Union Board-sponsored appearance. A story recapping his remarks appears on page 3.
DATEBOOK

TODAY, THURS., MARCH 20
HOUSING APPLICATIONS. For 1975-76, to be submitted to the Housing Office in Life Hall, Deadline: Fri., April 4.

INTERVIEWS. For student teachers. Student Center fourth floor meeting rooms, 9 am-4:30 pm. TEACH-IN ON THE HOLOCAUST. Day-long program of various activities: film/discussion, 10 am-11:30 am; candle lighting, 11:30 am-noon; discussions, noon-1 pm and 1 pm-2 pm; film, 2 pm-3 pm; PASSOVER SEFIRAH, 5 pm-6 pm (admission: 75 cents); sponsored by the Jewish Student Union (JSU). Center fourth floor meeting rooms. Free.

FOOD DRIVE. Sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega (APO). Center lobby, 10 am-2 pm. JELLY BEAN COUNT. In Iota Gamma K's contest. Center lobby, 10 am-2 pm.

LECTURE. Featuring CBS news anchorman Rolland Smith, sponsored by the sociology department. Center ballrooms, 11 am. Free.

REHEARSAL. The Contemporary Gospel Ensemble. Center ballrooms, 5 pm-6:30 pm.

MEETING. Black Student Co-operative Union (BSCU) general membership. BSCU office. Center fourth floor, 7:30 pm-9 pm.

FLEA MARKET DEALERS WANTED FOR CARNIVAL!
ALL STUDENT PARTICIPANTS $10
NON-STUDENTS $15
100% PROFIT THEREAFTER!
FREEDOM INFORMATION CALL:
KATHY CAMPBELL
893-5232 Day, 743-1478 Night
or JEANNE DOBROWOLSKI
751-0388 Night

CONCERT. "Montage" featuring John Chiego and friends. McEachern Recital Hall, 8 pm. Free.

FRI., MARCH 21
DEPARTURE. Bus leaves for Daytona Beach trip, sponsored by the College Life Union Board (CLUB). From vicinity of Stone Hall, 10:30 am.

INTERVIEWS. For student teachers. Center fourth floor meeting rooms, 9 am-4:30 pm.

MEETING. WMSC Board of Managers. WMSC studio, Center fourth floor, noon. Residence halls close for Spring vacation at 5 pm.

SUN., MARCH 22
AUDITIONS. For Summerfun, MSC's summer stock company. Memorial Auditorium, 10 am-1 pm.

CULTURAL SERIES. Acting workshop featuring members of Montclair's Whole Theater Company, sponsored by the office of cultural programming. Studio Theater, 8 pm. Admission: By subscription or students $1.50 and others $3 at door.

SUN., MARCH 23
MASS. Studio Theater, 11 am.

AUDITIONS. For Summerfun, MSC's summer stock company. Memorial Auditorium, 1 pm-5 pm.

FACULTY RECITAL. Pianist Dorothy Priesting. McEachern Recital Hall, 4 pm. Free.

MON., MARCH 24
INTERVIEWS. For seniors in teacher education majoring in science, mathematics and industrial education, featuring representatives of the Irvington public school system. Center fourth floor meeting room four.

EXHIBIT. Paintings by Richard Mayhew. Gallery One, Life Hall. Monday through Friday, 9 am-5 pm. Free.

TUES., MARCH 25
PRE-MARRIAGE SEMINAR. Sponsored by the Pre-Mariage Office. Center, 6 pm. Free.

CATHEDRAL CATACOMB. Sponsored by CLUB. Life Hall cafeteria, 8 pm-midnight.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION REQUIRED
Return to the JSU office in Life Hall.

CONFIRMATION CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE: Student desk and chair, unfinished pine. Six drawers, brand new in original box, $75 for both or best offer. Valenik included. Call 643-3847.

WANTED: Slingers for Today newspapers. Contact the MONTC;ARION office at 893-9316 or 893-5320 for further information.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION REQUIRED.

r

MONTCLARION is published weekly throughout the academic year, except during examination, vacation and Winter Session, by the Student Government Association, Inc. (SGA) of Montclair State College, Valley Road at Normal Ave., Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043. Telephone: (201) 893-5169, 893-5230.

Advertising rates are available upon request. Known office of publication: Student Center, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043. The MONTCLARION is a member of the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association and is a first-time winner of the All-American rating of the Associated Collegiate Press Competition.

The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief or a consensus of the editorial board members.
Ervin Recaps Watergate

By Janet Byrne

Sam Ervin Jr. quoted the former President Richard M. Nixon, “one year of Watergate is enough” - said last Thursday night.

President Richard M. Nixon, “one attempts to steer him away from that answer period after the speech were ineffective.

SEVERAL OF the People for Radical Political Action (PRPA), handing out leaflets condemning Nixon’s pardon of Nixon a violation of “the laws alone will not suffice.” Officials called his “infamous resistance to show the films in their Student Center second floor office.

According to Sam Crane, assistant director of scheduling, the scheduling mix-up was the result of “too little people." Admittedly cantankerous, Crane explained, “The CLEP tests are planned one year ahead of time, however, the people in charge did not follow formal procedure for attaining a space.

“ALTHOUGH THE mishap was the fault of the scheduling office we will have to absorb the loss of money incurred,” stated Balistieri. The SFA lost approximately $60 since they called the films in their Student Center second floor office.

To document his accusation that the CIA has been behind every political scandal, Gregory said, “just like he ran Rockefeller "the chief military," Gregory claimed we have been "programmed" into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Dick Gregory

Film Disrupted Due to Mishap

By Dia Palmieri

MSC’s official short shooting was again emphasized last week in an incident involving the Student Filmmakers Association (SFA) and the scheduling office.

Last Thursday was the date scheduled by the SFA for a screening of the films “Chang Ch’en at the Opera” and "Bikini Beach." After following the proper procedure determined by the scheduling office for procuring a space, the filmmakers were granted, at the beginning of the semester, use of W-112.

PROBLEMS AROSE when Frank Balistieri, SFA general manager, discovered that the space was occupied by people taking the College Level Examination Program (CLEP). After being two-thirds of their audience, SFA officers decided to show the films in their Student Center second floor office.

The gospel according to Dick Gregory, “the next President of the United States,” and Ford “nothing but a stoner." “Rockefeller will run the country,” Gregory said, "just like he ran America.

A film of the Kennedy assassination was shown on ABC’s "Good Night America" several weeks ago. It will be televised again on March 27, Gregory said, during a 90-minute special of the same program. Filmed by President Gerald Ford and Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller.

THE CHIEF "manipulators," Gregory said, “don't look where they're going.”

Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military," Gregory claimed we have been "programmed" into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.

May 11 is the official date for “Orange day” commemorating Orange, NJ. Gregory called Rockefeller “the chief military,” Gregory claimed we have been “programmed” into believing there is something wrong with the country. He told his audience that the CIA plot, "is a trick."

In his possession, Gregory said, he has government papers that further implicates the CIA.

Through some of the lecture, Gregory mentioned comparisons between the equally represented black and white audience members. Gregory addressed young whites as “the new niggers” of today who are called “lazy and shiftless” by the “system.” He told blacks “don’t look where they’re going.”

Gregory said, “just like he ran America.
Faculty-Student Cooperative Association, Inc.

Statements of Income - Year Ended Dec. 31, 1974

Student Center Game Room

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Income Description</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SALES</td>
<td>$28,131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EXPENSES</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Salaries and Wages</td>
<td>6,219</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purchases and supplies</td>
<td>1,008</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Repairs and maintenance</td>
<td>1,381</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Payroll taxes</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Insurance</td>
<td>440</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Telephone</td>
<td>600</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amortization of leasehold equipment</td>
<td>3,223</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Payroll expense</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Administration and accounting fees</td>
<td>685</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL</td>
<td>13,787</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NET INCOME FOR THE YEAR
$14,344

Student Center Gas Station

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Income Description</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SALES</td>
<td>$331,959</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EXPENSES</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Salaries and wages</td>
<td>8,953</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gasoline and oil</td>
<td>281,734</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supplies</td>
<td>677</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Repairs and maintenance</td>
<td>165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Insurance</td>
<td>1,935</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Payroll taxes</td>
<td>202</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Administration and accounting fees</td>
<td>8,220</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All other</td>
<td>859</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL</td>
<td>302,745</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NET INCOME FOR THE YEAR
$29,214

Student Center Food Service

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Income Description</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>INCOME</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dining Room</td>
<td>$39,680</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Snack Bar</td>
<td>366,671</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Functions</td>
<td>85,325</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Life Hall</td>
<td>56,281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vending Machines</td>
<td>65,343</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL</td>
<td>$613,600</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>EXPENSES</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Salaries and wages</td>
<td>236,743</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Food purchased</td>
<td>239,795</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supplies</td>
<td>25,204</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Repairs and maintenance</td>
<td>5,234</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Payroll taxes</td>
<td>12,192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Insurance</td>
<td>8,345</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pension costs</td>
<td>5,567</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Utensils</td>
<td>7,559</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Telephone</td>
<td>1,774</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amortization of leasehold equipment</td>
<td>13,309</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>State unemployment insurance</td>
<td>6,100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Payroll expense</td>
<td>255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Administration and accounting fees</td>
<td>15,603</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All other</td>
<td>2,030</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL</td>
<td>$80,210</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NET INCOME FOR THE YEAR
$33,390

The foregoing statements are published for the information of the College Community in accordance with a resolution of the Board of Trustees of the Faculty-Student Cooperative Association, Inc.
Students Examine Media Elements

By Irene McKnight

Three projects designed to "study the elements of the mass media" have been carried out by Dr. David Alloway of the sociology department.

The projects involve working with professional practitioners in order to make broadcasting, theater and sociology courses more "dramatic and interesting."

As a final part of the program, CBS news anchor Roland Smith will address sociology and broadcasting students in the Student Center ballrooms today. Alloway noted that the lecture is open to all those who are interested.

Robert Forster, who starred in two TV series and numerous motion pictures, was designated as "Honorary Visiting Professor" for March 14, and met Alloway's class in "Sociology of the Mass Media" as well as theater students. According to Alloway, Forster discussed the various facets of being a professional performer.

A field trip to Radio City in Manhattan Tuesday, which featured a tour of the NBC TV news center conducted by news anchor Chuck Scarborough marked the second part of the program. Alloway described the tour as a "news conference in reverse," where students asked Scarborough questions about the broadcasting business.

THE TOUR also involved an explanation of the technical aspects of the news center, a guided tour of the radio facilities and the observation of a TV commercial and a game show being taped.

According to Alloway, who arranged the appearances through personal contacts, both Forster and Scarborough agreed on the importance of a college education in the acting or broadcasting field.

A DISTRESSING PREGNANCY? CALL BIRTHRIGHT 375-6040

BRESLOW'S
★ Opp. Hot Shoppes Willowbrook Mall Wayne 785-1612
★ 558 Bloomfield Ave Bloomfield 743-7227

STUDENT DISCOUNTS!
Art and Mechanical Drawing Equipment

The Paperback Book Shop
50,000 Paperbacks in Stock
We Specialize in Filling Orders for Students!
At the Five Corners 580 Bloomfield Ave, Bloomfield, NJ 743-4740

A DISTRESSING PREGNANCY? CALL BIRTHRIGHT 375-6040

MONTCLARION/John Scruggs

TELL US, CHUCK: NBC TV news anchorman Chuck Scarborough chatted with a group of MSC students when their sociology class visited the NBC studios in New York City on Tuesday.

Retired Exec Named To MSC Trustee Board

By Debbie Kaslauskas

Dr. Ernest May, a retired executive of a chemical and dye firm and a leader in civic and charitable affairs in Summit and Union County, has been named to the MSC Board of Trustees.

May was recommended for a board position by the department of Higher Education. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne approved May's position, effective in late January and running until June of 1980.

A GRADUATE of Princeton, May holds a PhD in organic chemistry from the University of Chicago. He is a fellow of the American Institute of Chemistry and a member of a number of other professional organizations.

Presently, May is chairman of the Summit Environmental Commission and in the past has served his community as a councilman and as president of the Family Service Association. He is active in the Mental Health Association and member of the Union County Mental Health Board. He has been a trustee and president of the youth consultation service in Newark.

In a telephone interview, May declared his sincere interest in higher education. One of his plans as a board member is to "increase on the Job Training (OJT). He feels, "OJT allows the student to become more involved in his field and relate theory to practice."

MAY IS vague about other definite plans during his term due to unfamiliarities with the board itself. However, during a tour of MSC, May noticed "a dire need for improvement of parking facilities and an increase in residential facilities."

CLUB presents

SPRING BALL
(Replacing Junior and Senior Balls)
THURS., APRIL 24, 1975

8 pm-1 am Four Hours Open Bar
Westmount Country Club West Paterson, New Jersey

Bids priced at $22 per couple go on sale on Wed., April 2 at 10 am in the Student Center lobby.
Leave SC Out Of Drug Use

Here we are, with this beautiful, relatively new Student Center building and look what the illegal drug users are doing to it. Last week's double bill of Rathskeller drug incidents points up the inconsistency and utter stupidity of these people.

It's bad enough that the center stairwells are beginning to reek of the stench of marijuana every few days, now, because of the roof-level "nesters" who indulge at the top of the stairs but these people are smoking pot and snorting cocaine in public in the Rathskeller last week have to take the all-time booby prize.

Imagine having the gall to indulge in public, especially inside the pub that was so hard to obtain and now such a pleasure to have here and putting that Rathskeller now in a dubious light.

Last week's double drug incidents points up the foolishness of all of us. All of us should start to think twice about allowing our friends who use drugs, even in the dorms. Everyone accepts that.

But let's not make it so public as to denigrate the nice, new Student Center building that houses many worthy student organizations. And let's not make a display of it as to bring about the处分 of our parking permit. It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the screen, although in decidedly cramped quarters.

Case in point: MSC's Student Filmmakers Association (SFA), which has been locked in various fund battles as well as legal battles over their rights to use their equipment, is a little guy that has been pushed around. Last Thursday, the evening of their best turnout in their Nostalgia Film Festival series, SFA members (along with the waiting audience) were turned out of the Math/Science Auditorium because of a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test being conducted there.

To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA officials had set their dates and locations well in advance at the beginning of the semester. To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA hoped to make money out of these screenings to have half a chance to keep on going.

It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the same night that Sam Ervin came to lecture here or "Rhinoceros" was screened, although in decidedly cramped quarters.

Stepping on 'Little Guy'

It's always the little guy who gets stepped on. Cliched, perhaps, but phrases such as this become cliches because of their penchant for applicability.

Case in point: MSC's Student Filmmakers Association (SFA), which has been locked in various fund battles as well as legal battles over their rights to use their equipment, is a little guy that has been pushed around.

Last Thursday, the evening of their best turnout in their Nostalgia Film Festival series, SFA members (along with the waiting audience) were turned out of the Math/Science Auditorium because of a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test being conducted there.

To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA officials had set their dates and locations well in advance at the beginning of the semester. To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA hoped to make money out of these screenings to have half a chance to keep on going.

It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the same night that Sam Ervin came to lecture here or "Rhinoceros" was screened, although in decidedly cramped quarters.

Stepping on 'Little Guy'

It's always the little guy who gets stepped on. Cliched, perhaps, but phrases such as this become cliches because of their penchant for applicability.

Case in point: MSC's Student Filmmakers Association (SFA), which has been locked in various fund battles as well as legal battles over their rights to use their equipment, is a little guy that has been pushed around.

Last Thursday, the evening of their best turnout in their Nostalgia Film Festival series, SFA members (along with the waiting audience) were turned out of the Math/Science Auditorium because of a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test being conducted there.

To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA officials had set their dates and locations well in advance at the beginning of the semester. To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA hoped to make money out of these screenings to have half a chance to keep on going.

It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the same night that Sam Ervin came to lecture here or "Rhinoceros" was screened, although in decidedly cramped quarters.

Stepping on 'Little Guy'

It's always the little guy who gets stepped on. Cliched, perhaps, but phrases such as this become cliches because of their penchant for applicability.

Case in point: MSC's Student Filmmakers Association (SFA), which has been locked in various fund battles as well as legal battles over their rights to use their equipment, is a little guy that has been pushed around.

Last Thursday, the evening of their best turnout in their Nostalgia Film Festival series, SFA members (along with the waiting audience) were turned out of the Math/Science Auditorium because of a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test being conducted there.

To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA officials had set their dates and locations well in advance at the beginning of the semester. To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA hoped to make money out of these screenings to have half a chance to keep on going.

It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the same night that Sam Ervin came to lecture here or "Rhinoceros" was screened, although in decidedly cramped quarters.

Stepping on 'Little Guy'

It's always the little guy who gets stepped on. Cliched, perhaps, but phrases such as this become cliches because of their penchant for applicability.

Case in point: MSC's Student Filmmakers Association (SFA), which has been locked in various fund battles as well as legal battles over their rights to use their equipment, is a little guy that has been pushed around.

Last Thursday, the evening of their best turnout in their Nostalgia Film Festival series, SFA members (along with the waiting audience) were turned out of the Math/Science Auditorium because of a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test being conducted there.

To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA officials had set their dates and locations well in advance at the beginning of the semester. To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA hoped to make money out of these screenings to have half a chance to keep on going.

It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the same night that Sam Ervin came to lecture here or "Rhinoceros" was screened, although in decidedly cramped quarters.

Stepping on 'Little Guy'

It's always the little guy who gets stepped on. Cliched, perhaps, but phrases such as this become cliches because of their penchant for applicability.

Case in point: MSC's Student Filmmakers Association (SFA), which has been locked in various fund battles as well as legal battles over their rights to use their equipment, is a little guy that has been pushed around.

Last Thursday, the evening of their best turnout in their Nostalgia Film Festival series, SFA members (along with the waiting audience) were turned out of the Math/Science Auditorium because of a College Level Examination Program (CLEP) test being conducted there.

To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA officials had set their dates and locations well in advance at the beginning of the semester. To the scheduling office it evidently did not matter that SFA hoped to make money out of these screenings to have half a chance to keep on going.

It was quite a feat to draw 30 viewers to see old movies on the same night that Sam Ervin came to lecture here or "Rhinoceros" was screened, although in decidedly cramped quarters.
To the Editor:

In answer to Bob Price's subjective article "Profs' Objectivity a Questionable Virtue," (Thurs., March 13 issue), I should like first to clarify the charge that the state of New Jersey promotes objectivity in the college classroom.

Although it is true that professors are expected to offer a sufficient amount of objective evidence relative to the subject matter, this responsibility should not in any way be construed as a limitation on the professors' or students' rights to offer subjective opinions regarding such evidence.

It might be helpful for professors and students to express such opinions in a manner that indicates the opinions are his own. Because absolute objectivity is possible in only a small percentage of academic material, it is obvious that the instructional and learning process would be hopelessly inadequate were subjective opinions to be eliminated from the classroom.

Perhaps the best approach would be to allow for as many subjective opinions as possible. Even this method would be less than satisfactory should the professor be constrained from stating which position he favors and why he favors it.

The professor has been selected in part because of his supposedly authoritative judgment in the field. The beauty of American education is that it reflects a pluralistic society and in so doing embraces a professorate which offers authoritative information from a broad spectrum of ideological positions.

As to Price's concern that professors might convert students to this or that ideology, I would like to refer such concerned minds to Thomas Jefferson. He never feared any person's desire to take a strong stand on an issue regardless of the person's political or religious beliefs. Jefferson felt that in a society where reason is allowed to operate unconstrained, the reasonable will eventually prevail. For this reason, I feel that conversion of a large number of students to some professor's viewpoint should be taken as an indication that the professor presented some strong rational arguments.

The ironic part of Price's article is his attempt to strengthen the call to objectivity by attacking professors who operate on the assumption that miracles don't happen. Even the Christian philosophers recognized that certitude in one's mind regarding miracles and the literal meaning of the Bible results from faith rather than from a review of scientific or objective evidence.

While it is true that professors who begin with the assumption that certain tenets of religious faith are impossible might lead students to conclusions contrary to Price's, it is also true that professors who assume that "one and one is two" will lead students to conclusions contrary to those who operate from the assumption that "one and one is three." So what? The professor would be biased but his bias would be reflecting the best objective evidence available.

The point from Price's article with which I can agree is the recommendation that students be more critical. I think most professors would be delighted to see a stronger desire on the part of students to do research.

I would also welcome a stronger movement among students to present their subjective opinions growing from such research even if they choose to ignore some of the historical, scientific or ontological arguments against the literal truth of that interesting work, the Bible.

Dr. Ronald F. Haas
Chairman, Educational Foundations

Lil's Watchdog

April 1: Who's the Fool?

Car owners in New Jersey know the pain of getting their cars inspected. You rush to an inspection station that someone has told you is not too crowded only to discover a nightmare of lines. A sea of cars which spew forth polluting fumes into the air and burn precious gasoline stretches out before you.

Beginning April 1 the lines will grow measurably longer as 25% of those polluting machines will be rejected with the advent of new, tougher pollution standards.

As a result, a million cars will be turned away in one year since 4.5 million cars are registered in New Jersey. The cost to each motorist to rectify his violating vehicle will be approximately $55 according to state Sen. James H. Wallwork (R-25th Dist.), a critic of the program.

That's a $50 million expense for New Jersey's air quality. However, the federal government appears to be in no rush to produce these figures.

One would think that the environmental agency would keep careful statistical records in an experiment involving the reduction of pollutants in the air. Present inspection pollution standards are creating a 12% rejection rate. New Jersey motorists are the reluctant subjects of this investigation, shouldn't they be notified of its findings?

However, Washington has its own blunders to worry about when it comes to pollution eradication. This was evident a few weeks ago when the head of the federal environmental agency publicly admitted that a miscalculation had been committed in ordering car manufacturers to install catalytic converters in all 1976 models.

The device was designed to remove hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide from the exhaust. It was discovered after the order was issued that in the process of removing these two pollutants sulphuric fumes were beed. Needless to say, the environmental agency has reversed its decision regarding the installation of catalytic converters.

TRENTON INVINCIBLE

While Washington openly acknowledges its mistakes, Trenton apparently cannot. Motor vehicle director John A. Waddington predicts that the reinspection of rejected cars will strand inspection stations. He is promoting a bill which allows motorists whose cars are rejected to have state-licensed garages correct the pollution violations. This legislation was introduced in January and is presently filed away in some Assembly committee box.

Even if this legislation is speedily expedited there would hardly be time to certify garages performing the reinspections. Hopefully, the garages would be carefully checked prior to their certification to avoid dubious methods of repair.

As April 1 draws closer inspectors are undoubtedly having second thoughts as to adhering to the present pollution standards or imposing stricter qualifications. If these standards ever come into effect on April Fool's Day, it will be no joke.
"At Long Last Love" Runs Into 'Technical Difficulties'

By Mike Finnegan

Due to serious technical difficulties, director Peter Bogdanovich will not successfully revive a departed movie genre this year with his latest effort "At Long Last Love."

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.

OecLicJ difficulties

Bogdanovich, professing a love of the works of composer-lyricist Cole Porter, undertook to recreate a slick, sophisticated 1930's musical by stringing 16 of Porter's tunes together with a characteristic wispy plotline.

But Bogdanovich, overvaluing the measure of the talent, content and his idealistic concepts, has produced one of the blandest, most self-indulgent musical films in years. He's run into a list of 'technical difficulties.'

As far as the talent goes, the manufactured stars of the 1970's are no match for the witty, stylish rich people characters they play out of the 1930's. Burt Reynolds as a bored millionaire, Cybill Shepherd as a spoiled brat rich girl and Duilio Del Prete as a Spanish gambler, all part of mismatched couples who kept switching partners, are wrong for their roles.

Reynolds doesn't have the basic charm of a Cary Grant and his machismo image doesn't fit into urbanitie. He tends to either whine or drone the lyrics to songs like "Friendship" and "You're the Top," and when he starts having an overly good time or cackles wrong for their roles.
The music department will host the First Annual High School Orchestra Day tomorrow from 8 am-5 pm. Over 400 students from 10 New Jersey high schools will participate.

At the conclusion of presentations by each of the schools a select orchestra will be chosen, composed of the finest players in each ensemble, to play the first movement of Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 in C major. The public is invited to this free concert, to be held at 2:30 pm in Memorial Auditorium.

Sidney Rothstein, director of the Orchestra Society of Philadelphia, will be the guest clinician for the day and will conduct the select orchestra in the Beethoven work.

According to Dr. Jerome Landsman, the coordinator of the program, Rothstein has the ability to transform a random gathering of high school musicians into "a cohesive musical entity, capable of playing a difficult major orchestral composition" within the space of 30 to 45 minutes.

Rothstein will explain his rehearsal methods as he goes along, and the musical score will be projected on a screen for the audience to follow.

MSC To Host Music Competition

The Clawing Quartet, comprised of Dorothy Priessing, piano; Nancy Clarke, violin; Sarah Clarke, viola; and Rosalyn Clarke, cellist; will be presented in a free recital on Sunday at 4 pm in McEachern Recital Hall. Featured on the program will be Cinq Melodies by Prokofiev (for violin and piano), Brahms' Quartet in C minor, and compositions by Priessing for soprano and piano. Soprano Frances Wyatt, a graduate of the Julliard School, will join Priessing for the latter. Priessing is an associate professor of music at MSC.

MONTAGE

John Chiago and Friends will be presented in a free concert entitled “Monsage” tonight at 8 pm in McEachern Recital Hall. The program will feature performances by several MSC music majors.

Patricia Luengo, flute, and Helen Podence, harpichord, will join Chiago, a double bassist, in the Bach Suite No. 2 in B minor. The Telemann Canonic Sonata will be performed by Chiago and Judy Superman, also a double bassist.

Kent Laflue, lute and guitar, will be heard in works by Albeniz, Debussy, Dowland and Satie.

Chiago and Podence on harp will present two works by Debussy. The finale will be virtuoso work by Erwin Schulhoff for double bass, flute, and viola to be performed by Chiago, Luengo and Denise Barker.

NJ SYMPHONY

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will perform at Montclair High School this Saturday at 8:30 pm.

The program will feature Hector Berlioz’ “Harold in Italy” symphony for solo viola and orchestra. Principal violist Jesse Levine will be the viola soloist. Maestro Henry Lewis will lead the group in Beethoven’s Symphony No. 7, as well as other Romantic masterpieces from the 19th century repertoire.

Ticket prices are $6.50 and $5.60.

POETRY CONTEST

The National Poetry Anthology has announced its annual spring competition. The deadline for submissions is April 10.

Any student attending either junior or senior college is eligible for the competition. There is no limitation as to form or theme. Each poem must be typed or printed on a separate sheet, and must bear the name and home address of the student, as well as the college address.

Manuscripts should be sent to: Office of the Press, National Poetry Press, 3210 Selby Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90034.
By Lonny Cohen

"Because we don't have the long ball threat, we'll have to run more," admitted both coach Clary Anderson and co-captain Stu Richter as they look forward to the 1975 Montclair State baseball season.

Gone from last year's New Jersey State College Athletic Conference championship team are power hitters such as Karl Gordon (now with the Chicago Cubs), Bob DeJianne (set a record of 20 home runs in three years), Tony Scarlett, Jim Rake and John Van Brunt.

"We'll miss them, there's no question about it," commented Anderson, "We're limited in the infield but deep in the outfield."

DEEP IN the outfield means speedster Paul Pignatello in center-field. Pignatello stole 10 bases last year but "looks at too many strikes" according to Anderson. Pitching "Piggy" in right field will be co-captain Dan Dunn. (298 average in 1974) and either Dean Ulik or Jerry Cassilio is left.

The infield became even more limited when a knee injury to Stu Richter took his .370 average out of the lineup until mid-April. This will cause a major shift all around the infield by taking strong hitting John Scoras (.281, 30 RBIs in 1974) out of the outfield, and either Dean Ulik or Jerry Cassilio is left.

Thus far, the scramble for the open position is being led by sophomore Rusty Page. Battling Page for the position are Al McNickel and freshman Tom Kraljic.

The main facet of this year's team will be a complete turnabout in style of play. After being able to score "rashes of runs" the Indians may not be able to change to the hit-and-run type of play that will be required of this year's tribe. "It will be a slow process" analyzed Richter. "But the guys are going to have to realize that this is the way to win."

SO THIS year the coach has an eye to the future. Replacing the lost veterans in the top positions are three freshmen, Roger Neill, Glenn Dyksstra, and Lance Wyldstein. Neill and Dyksstra played for Ramapo High School's state championship team last year. Wyldstein's achievements include Newark City Champion honors.

"The freshman are conscientious and they really want to please," said the second-year coach, "In a few years this team should really be in business." Petry continued: "If the freshman can come around this year and beat some people they're not supposed to beat, we could cause some trouble in this league."

Returning veterans are sophomore Ray Salani, juniors Steve Goff and Mark Cucuzella, who will probably occupy the fourth, fifth, and sixth positions, respectively. Junior Bruce Weisberg, out for the first time, has been playing well and may break into the starting six. Senior Mark Fistes and freshman Larry Kostula round out the squad and will be used as reserves and doubles players.

LAST YEAR the Indians boasted a 2-2 record in the league and combined for an overall 8-6 standing. MSC will compete in 13 matches this year, with the first match on April 3, at Seton Hall.

But the season really begins this weekend when the team heads for Miami Beach and warm weather. For eight days the squad will practice and play matches against Florida opponents and other northern teams that have also made the trip.

"It's an excellent experience and a lot of fun," said the coach. "The competition is upgraded. You have to get to learn to hit the more difficult shot when you get the chance."

MSC will compete in 13 matches this year, with the first match on April 3, at Seton Hall.

By Steve Nuiver

For the MSC men's tennis team, 1975 will be a rebuilding year.

Last year, through graduation, the team lost six reserves and doubles players.

For the MSC men's tennis team, 1975 will be a rebuilding year.

Last year, through graduation, the team lost six reserves and doubles players.

For the MSC men's tennis team, 1975 will be a rebuilding year.

Last year, through graduation, the team lost six reserves and doubles players.

For the MSC men's tennis team, 1975 will be a rebuilding year.

Last year, through graduation, the team lost six reserves and doubles players.

For the MSC men's tennis team, 1975 will be a rebuilding year.

Last year, through graduation, the team lost six reserves and doubles players.

For the MSC men's tennis team, 1975 will be a rebuilding year.

Last year, through graduation, the team lost six reserves and doubles players.
Guketlov Nabs Fifth in Nationals

By John Delery

PRINCETON — “When I got to the semi-finals against Brown I could taste first place. I really thought I was going to win the whole thing. But I guess he wanted it just a little bit more.”

Nabil Guketlov’s sentiments after his 7-0 loss to the University of Michigan’s Jim Brown ended his chances of winning the Division 1 118-pound title last weekend at Princeton University.

Guketlov won his opening round match with little trouble, then came head to head with Brown who had already beaten him 5-3 earlier this season. Brown took a quick 3-0 lead, held it, and then went on to win as Guketlov shot a desperation move and was caught off balance for another three points which the eventual runnerup used to ice the bout away.

“I SAW that time was running down and I had to do something so I shot hoping to catch Brown unaware. The move was there but it didn’t work. If he had a person in it it was supposedly impossible to get out of,” Guketlov revealed.

So as luck had it Guketlov drew Lambert and as soon as match began it was nearly over. He put Guketlov on his back with a head lock for a 5-0 advantage.

“BEFORE THE tournament I was told to watch for a kid named Jeff Lambert from Boston University who had one move, a terrific head lock. If he got a person in it it was supposedly impossible to get out of,” Guketlov explained.

The move was there but it didn’t work. “I was kind of tight before that match but I settled down quickly,” Guketlov admitted.

He almost relaxed too much in his next match and it almost caused an early exit for the two-time Division 3 champ.

“IF GUKETLOV is disappointed by finishing fifth he has the fact that he was the only Division 3 entrant to place. The Division 3 champs had four of its five wrestlers knocked out in the first round while the other MSC hopefuls Mike Land on another referee’s decision, and Vinnie Tundo went to the sidelines early, losing to Clarion State’s Don Rohn 4-2 in overtime.

By Rich Keller

Eastern Regional Gymnastics Championships starting tomorrow will bring an end to the career of Jan King, while it will virtually be the beginning of what promises to be a very satisfying career for freshman Debbie Rapp. It’s almost like the changing of the guard.

King modestly admits that “Debbie, as a freshman, is on a level comparable to me right now!” Following that gracious comment, King made a statement that resembled an accusation. “Debbie had had a lot more experience than I had when I was her age,” but excuse is eroded from your mind as she quickly added that Rapp definitely has “lots of ability.”

RAPP. A graduate of Paramus High School, hadn’t let year’s success go to her head. She states that “I want to do well as an individual, I’d be lying if I didn’t say that, but team success means a lot to me also.”

A pair 105-pound physical education major, Rapp started with gymnastics at the age of 12 basically because, “it was the thing that little kids in my area did to keep out of trouble.” Rapp stated that her parents involved were in a gymnastics club (Bokol-Little Ferry Gymnastics Club) and encouraged their kids to get into the swing of things to stay in shape.

“I was tiny back then and even though I had to start from scratch, it was easy to teach because of my size,” Rapp cited.

King, a former student at JP Stevens-Issel High School, got involved with gymnastics when she also joined a club in seventh grade. “I knew I had strong legs because when I was young, I was always very active. I was introduced to gymnastics in gym class and I caught on quick, because I enjoyed it and because I was small,” King recalled. She continued, “I like it so much that I joined the club.

TO RAPP. Her strongest event and her favorite event are one and the same. “I really enjoy working floor exercises,” she stated.

Armstrong stated. “Everyone spotted me there. They have a sort of rhythm and I like that.”

GUKETLOV admitted. “I was kind of tight before that match I didn’t know whether to be happy that I got as far as I did or be sad because I might have been eliminated.”

Guketlov observed that “the wrestler who wins here is the one who has the most confidence in himself. I wasn’t scared by the stars or get psyched out. I guess I didn’t do well as an individual, I’d be lying” he added.

After his loss to Brown, Guketlov went into the consolation round

This season, Brown took a quick 3-0 lead, held it, and then went on to win as Guketlov shot a desperation move and was caught off balance for another three points which the eventual runnerup used to ice the bout away.

“I SAW that time was running down and I had to do something so I shot hoping to catch Brown unaware. The move was there but it didn’t work. If he had a person in it it was supposedly impossible to get out of,” Guketlov revealed.

So as luck had it Guketlov drew Lambert and as soon as match began it was nearly over. He put Guketlov on his back with a head lock for a 5-0 advantage.

“BEFORE THE tournament I was told to watch for a kid named Jeff Lambert from Boston University who had one move, a terrific head lock. If he got a person in it it was supposedly impossible to get out of,” Guketlov explained.

The move was there but it didn’t work. “I was kind of tight before that match but I settled down quickly,” Guketlov admitted.

He almost relaxed too much in his next match and it almost caused an early exit for the two-time Division 3 champ.

“IF GUKETLOV is disappointed by finishing fifth he has the fact that he was the only Division 3 entrant to place. The Division 3 champs had four of its five wrestlers knocked out in the first round while the other MSC hopefuls Mike Land on another referee’s decision, and Vinnie Tundo went to the sidelines early, losing to Clarion State’s Don Rohn 4-2 in overtime.

By Rich Keller

Eastern Regional Gymnastics Championships starting tomorrow will bring an end to the career of Jan King, while it will virtually be the beginning of what promises to be a very satisfying career for freshman Debbie Rapp. It’s almost like the changing of the guard.

King modestly admits that “Debbie, as a freshman, is on a level comparable to me right now!” Following that gracious comment, King made a statement that resembled an accusation. “Debbie had had a lot more experience than I had when I was her age,” but excuse is eroded from your mind as she quickly added that Rapp definitely has “lots of ability.”

RAPP. A graduate of Paramus High School, hadn’t let year’s success go to her head. She states that “I want to do well as an individual, I’d be lying if I didn’t say that, but team success means a lot to me also.”

A pair 105-pound physical education major, Rapp started with gymnastics at the age of 12 basically because, “it was the thing that little kids in my area did to keep out of trouble.” Rapp stated that her parents involved were in a gymnastics club (Bokol-Little Ferry Gymnastics Club) and encouraged their kids to get into the swing of things to stay in shape.

“I was tiny back then and even though I had to start from scratch, it was easy to teach because of my size,” Rapp cited.

King, a former student at JP Stevens-Issel High School, got involved with gymnastics when she also joined a club in seventh grade. “I knew I had strong legs because when I was young, I was always very active. I was introduced to gymnastics in gym class and I caught on quick, because I enjoyed it and because I was small,” King recalled. She continued, “I like it so much that I joined the club.

TO RAPP. Her strongest event and her favorite event are one and the same. “I really enjoy working floor exercises,” she stated.

Armstrong stated. “Everyone spotted me there. They have a sort of rhythm and I like that.”

GUKETLOV admitted. “I was kind of tight before that match I didn’t know whether to be happy that I got as far as I did or be sad because I might have been eliminated.”

Guketlov observed that “the wrestler who wins here is the one who has the most confidence in himself. I wasn’t scared by the stars or get psyched out. I guess I didn’t do well as an individual, I’d be lying” he added.

After his loss to Brown, Guketlov went into the consolation round

This season, Brown took a quick 3-0 lead, held it, and then went on to win as Guketlov shot a desperation move and was caught off balance for another three points which the eventual runnerup used to ice the bout away.

“I SAW that time was running down and I had to do something so I shot hoping to catch Brown unaware. The move was there but it didn’t work. If he had a person in it it was supposedly impossible to get out of,” Guketlov revealed.

So as luck had it Guketlov drew Lambert and as soon as match began it was nearly over. He put Guketlov on his back with a head lock for a 5-0 advantage.

“BEFORE THE tournament I was told to watch for a kid named Jeff Lambert from Boston University who had one move, a terrific head lock. If he got a person in it it was supposedly impossible to get out of,” Guketlov explained.

The move was there but it didn’t work. “I was kind of tight before that match but I settled down quickly,” Guketlov admitted.

He almost relaxed too much in his next match and it almost caused an early exit for the two-time Division 3 champ.

“IF GUKETLOV is disappointed by finishing fifth he has the fact that he was the only Division 3 entrant to place. The Division 3 champs had four of its five wrestlers knocked out in the first round while the other MSC hopefuls Mike Land on another referee’s decision, and Vinnie Tundo went to the sidelines early, losing to Clarion State’s Don Rohn 4-2 in overtime.
From Takedown to Pushup

By John Delery

"I'm rarin' to go. I've been working hard every day. Lifting, getting my weight where it's supposed to be. I'll be psyche by Saturday no doubt about that.

The words of Phil Gripaldi right? No.

Then maybe Terry Manton? Wrong again.

The above statement belongs to Ed Alber, a one time MSC wrestling standout who will be trying his first collegiate weightlifting competition later on this week.

HE'LL BE handling in his wrestling uniform for one of an Indian lifter this Saturday and Sunday at the Amateur Athletic Union National Collegiate Weightlifting Championships at the University of Iowa.

For Alber it will be his baptism by fire. "I only took up the sport a month ago under the advice of George Leggett," Alber explained.

"I've lifted before but this has been a crash course to say the least," George Leggett, Alber explained. "I'm  raring to go. I've been working hard every day. Lifting, getting my weight where it's supposed to be. I'll be psyche by Saturday no doubt about that.

Whatever differences Alber can come up with though he can't escape the one job that plagued him through his years on the mat; the week in and week out shedding of unwanted pounds.

"I USUALLY weight about 140 pounds but going down to lift at 123 isn't easy," he revealed. So it's back to the old routine of running and not eating.

"It was easy when I was wrestling. I could lose five pounds in an hour just working out with the team."

"But it's not that way in the weight room," he hastily claimed.

Getting down to weight though might be the simplest thing confronting Alber in his attempt to bring home the 123-pound crown.

"I've had some trouble lately with my technique," the 5-foot-8 senior mentioned. "I haven't been keeping my back straight and in this sport technique and style are the main ingredients to victory," he reasoned.

"I used to just do power lifting when I was wrestling. I would do some repetitions to build up my upper body and legs but in Olympic style weightlifting you must pay strict attention to your technique," the stockily-built Alber answered.

TAKING TIME out from practice Alber noted that "weightlifting on this level is more of a science than anything else. Anyone can just lift weights but retaining the heights that a guy like Gripaldi has reached you must have a real love for the sport," Alber commented.

According to Alber you have to have a "head" for the sport if you want to go far in this a very lonely and forgotten sport.

"It's more or less like wrestling for me. Alber conceded. All I think about is going out and lifting the weight just like I used to go out and just concentrate on beating my opponent. You can psyche yourself out too easily in this sport if you worry about how many pounds are on the bar!"

SGA Wins Some, Loses Some

Hank Gola

Here's an updated figure for you sports fans! The SGA is batting 500.

Applause to the student legislators for picking up the athletic department's slack and funding the weightlifting team's trip to the national championships in Iowa.

But for lacking foresight in turning down the MONTCLARION's request to send a sports writer with the team, informs us that they'll be tasting his first national title.

"Thank God for the SGA," Gripaldi observed. "But there are some deadbeats around here."

ARE YOU talking about the athletic department?

"Call them whatever you want. You'd think they'd want to boost a national champ," he answered. "Why, other teams will see this big Montclair freak coming and figure we have a lot of support. If they only knew that we got zero dollars from the athletic department. To me it shows a lot of apathy. To have to go the SGA for money is a disgrace.

He says that before he approaches a bar laden with weights. A grimace, some effort and it's over.

"Hey, we may be hearing something about that," he said. "But let's not worry about it. Let's get credit where credit is due.

THAT'S TYPICAL Gripaldi. His dedication is high and he believes in himself and his causes. His adopted motto, "The person who's fearless will always succeed," speaks for itself.

Therein lies part of the reason why Gripaldi jetisoned to the top of American weightlifting and why he was able to break two records and hoist a total of 743 pounds (319 in snatch and 424 in clean and jerk) at last year's college championships. His lifts totaled more than the winner of the super heavyweight class, two divisions higher.

As any lifter will tell you, the sport is virtually ignored in the United States. On the popularity scale, it ranks slightly above tiddly winks and somewhere below stickball. And when it comes to press coverage of weightlifting, the community notes hold priority.

"It can be frustrating," team captain Phil Gripaldi recently confided. "When a guy hits a home run, it's all over the sports pages but if I break an American record I'm lucky to get one sentence."

That's from a veteran of two Olympics and weightlifting championships too numerous to mention.

So what does the SGA do at its latest session? They deny Intensive coverage of the lifter's by giving an eyewitness report the thumbs down.

LET ME clear the situation up somewhat. Plans drawn up last October make accommodations for 18 team members. As the roster dwindles down to 17 another space is opened up. Barry Hennis, coach of the team, informs us that they'll be glad to have a MONTCLARION reporter take up the spot as long as the SGA, the master funder, approves.

So to the SGA we go. They complain that this isn't fair to the other media (WMSC and La Campana). Well, the radio station-sports stuff is practically non-existent; they don't even cover basketball games at Panzer Gym.

And since our reporter would have taken pictures, the Yearbook wouldn't have been slightly. We frequently exchange pictures with La Campana. Since the lifter competes in only one event per year, their efforts will go unreported in the SGA. Since we didn't have a man at the event, they can count on a short hear-say story in the MONTCLARION and no better at all in La Campana. It won't do justice to the national championship they'll probably bring home.

But THAT'S what you can expect. The measure was narrowly defeated in the SGA and even won by plurality. Kudos should go to those who voted for it. But I must say, through experience, that there are some SGA members with a personal vendetta against the MONTCLARION. In the back of their minds, we store every anti-SGA editorial and vote accordingly.

It's too bad that you always have to play politics. In this game, the weightlifters are going to lose.

"Thank God for the SGA," Gripaldi praised.

Thank Him only half-way, Phil.

Phil Does It Easy

By Hank Gola

Any reporter assigned to cover the Amateur Athletic Union National Collegiate Weightlifting Championships this weekend can have a lot of time by writing up the 198-pound division before hand.

There's little doubt that MSC's Phil Gripaldi will walk away with the gold medal as he did last year. The two-time Olympian is out of everyoned else's league, the only world-class lifter in the tourney.

"It's really unfair," admitted the 26-year-old graduate student. "It's like a major league playing in the little leagues. But I'm only competing to insure the team of the championship; not to make a college kid look bad."

Grippaldi's intentions go further than that. As he explains it, anything that helps Montclair State's national champ weightlifters is good. But he thinks his years in wrestling will always succeed," speaks for itself.

Gripaldi is also unmistakable on the MSC campus where he cuts an anti-SGA editorial and vote.

"I used to just do power lifting when I was wrestling. I would do some repetitions to build up my upper body and legs but in Olympic style weightlifting you must pay strict attention to your technique," the stockily-built Alber answered.

Thank Him only half-way, Phil.