First of Several Forums Meets

By Rich Figel

Irritated Freeman Hall students voiced their dissatisfaction over the change in the administration's policy toward alcohol in the dorms Tuesday evening in a public meeting with Lawton W. Blanton, dean of students.

Blanton offered justification for his prohibition of alcohol in public areas, which include any area in a dorm outside of an individual's room, but many students felt that Blanton's fears are unfounded.

"THE POSSIBILITY of minors at a dorm party," Blanton explained, "and then later getting involved in an accident would make the school and myself liable."

At the meeting SGA president, Manny C. Menendez questioned the fact that SGA was never consulted about the change in policy. Blanton said he did consult students last year, but offered no names when he was questioned further.

DURING THE discussion Menendez asked where he could find the written policy concerning alcohol policy. Although there is no official written policy approved by the MSC Board of Trustees Blanton feels it is necessary to "protect the students." Blanton said he is in the process of writing a policy. The SGA was not the only student organization to be angered by Blanton's prohibition rule.

Elections Won't Fill All Seats

By Frances Fleischner

In a situation identical to last spring's SGA executive branch election, in which Paul Scaffidi won the executive vice-presidency uncontested, Kevin Kesby is running without opposition for SGA's second office in this fall's elections.

Ballots may be cast today for this office, as well as for 29 legislative seats and four freshman-at-large, in the Student Center lobby until 3 pm.

IN ADDITION to the lack of competition in the vice-presidential election, only nine students, Janis Arribaldi, Ruth Dobrowok, Michael Danzis, Annette Dimagli, Jose Fuentes, Percy Hill, Steven Soricelli, Sandra Vassell and Jonathan Weirich are running as candidates for eight of the 29 legislative seats.

This means that the remaining 21 seats will be filled by appointment of SGA president Manny C. Menendez.

subject to the advice and consent of the legislature.

There is some contention in the freshmen-at-large election, in which five students, Helene Basker, Nancy Catanzaro, Karen Ann Gainer, Michelle Lukas and Tina Wajany are running for four positions. WHEN ASKED why an election must be held, a student candidate, did not work with Manny for some new services, such as a Day Care Center and campus ambulance service, but these aren't definite yet.

When questioned as to why, in his opinion, he is the only vice-presidential candidate, Kesby said, "It's rather obvious. Apathy is well-known here. Paul (Scaffidi) former vice-president whose resignation three weeks ago made this election necessary) was unopposed, and so was Maryanne (Preztunik, SGA secretary). It's unfortunate. Students pay $60 a year to the SGA; I plan to work with Manny for some new services, such as a Day Care Center.

Dungan: Hike Possible

By Janet Byrne

It may be "necessary to raise tuition" if $10 million asked of the state legislature by the state Board of Higher Education is not appropriated to the state colleges, Ralph A. Dungan, chancellor of education, said Friday, according to The Herald-News.

What is being requested, MSC President David W.D. Dickson said Tuesday, is a "supplementary appropriation of $10 million — less than half of what was cut." Dickson was referring to the $26 million reduction already made in this year's higher education budget.

AFTER THE legislature votes in November, Dickson said, either the same number of students presently attending state colleges will receive a "cheaper education," or enrollments will be decreased in an effort to keep the quality of education constant.

If $10 million is allocated by the legislature, the colleges will subsist on that, Dickson outlined as the third alternative.

Asking how the $10 million, if issued by the legislature, would be divided among the eight state colleges, Dickson said possibly "on a per capita basis."

THE NUMBER of full-time graduates and undergraduates at a college would then determine what per cent of the $10 million it would be allotted.

Dickson rated MSC "one of the more fortunate" state colleges and Jersey City State (JCC) "the worst" in terms of their "reserves" and "carry-over" monies.

No faculty members have yet been laid off at MSC, despite the $26 million budget cut. JCC, Dickson lamented, has had to "out real people — real live faculty."

JCC is receiving "extra money from the Rutgers School of Medicine and Dentistry," Dickson mentioned. If the appeal is not answered, Dickson continued, JCC should theoretically, be given a larger than-proportional amount of the $10 million requested.

Pictureless ID Cards Pose Pub Problem

By Amy Kroll

The Rathskeller, located on the first floor of the Student Center, has been forced to tighten its proofing procedures because of the pictureless ID cards issued to this year's freshman class, according to Harold Ostroff, business manager. Ostroff said the new policy is being ordered to protect both the students and the Rathskeller's liquor license.

"IF AN ABC (Alcoholic Beverage Commission) man comes in and finds students who are under age the Rathskeller will be charged with an infraction on its license," Ostroff said. "Three such infractions," he continued, "would result in the lifting of the Rathskeller's license."

Students who cannot show picture identification are required to sign a statement taking responsibility for any fraud or misinformation on their part. Ostroff said the penalty for fraud which is fine, imprisonment or both, would definitely be enforced.

Ostroff said the penalty for fraud which is fine, imprisonment or both, would definitely be enforced. According to Ostroff a request for special "Rathskeller ID's was made to the Faculty Student Co-op which runs the Rathskeller.

"Doris B. Aadal, co-op director said, "The decision rests with the Registrar's Office because they are the ones who are handling the college ID system now."

The problem is the cost factor -- $1 per card. The Co-op will meet with the college administration sometime this week to determine whether or not picture IDs will be issued. Aadal said "Once we get the go-ahead, it's a matter of just buying the film."

The RATHSKELLER plans to open a new $120,000 kitchen facility by January 1976. Located in the room behind the food area, it will feature a walk-up window where students can buy pizza to take out or to eat in the Rathskeller.

There are also plans to reopen the room adjacent to the Rathskeller which was formerly the Craft Shop. According to Aadal the room is already completed and will hold an additional 80 students.

The room has been used in the past but "proofing is a problem," Aadal said. The Co-op will meet with Ostroff this week to discuss plans to connect the two rooms by means of a 40-inch archway. This entrance will be located on the same wall as the double doors but will connect the two rooms internally, eliminating the problem of proofing.

This ROOM will be used when the Rathskeller becomes crowded or it may be rented by students for private parties. Ostroff feels that the additional space will alleviate some of the crowding and long lines which have become a problem lately. He said that admittance to the Rathskeller would be on a "first-come-first-serve" basis and the remainder of people will just have to wait in line.

According to Ostroff the Rathskeller will feature entertainment every other Saturday.

On these nights students will be able to hear name bands without having to pay a cover charge.

OSTROFF ALSO said that he had considered opening the Rathskeller on Sundays but the operating cost would be too high to justify the extra hours. The "Flat" as it is called by some of its patron, is open six days a week.

Group Enters Third Year

Jacoby New NJSA VP

Leo F. Jacoby, co-chairman of Council on Commuter Affairs (COCA) and former SGA vice-president of external affairs, was recently selected as vice president of the New Jersey Student Association (NJSA).

In addition to Jacoby, a junior political science major at MSC, Scott Stark of Stockton State College was selected as NJSA president after serving as interim president of the NJSA last spring after the resignation of Angela Genove. The position of president and vice-president is on a yearly basis.

THE NJSA, which has been in existence for three years, serves as a student government for the eight state colleges in New Jersey. Jacoby explained that the NJSA works in a dual capacity as a political service organization for the students which it represents.

"Since we represent state colleges it is necessary to deal with state governments," was the explanation that Jacoby gave for the political side of the NJSA.

However, the organization, whose office is close to the State House in Trenton, can also offer services such as group rates on concerts or books for students.

SOME OF the accomplishments of the NJSA in the past year have been the unification of the eight state colleges in New Jersey, meetings with assemblymen on education issues, and organized rallies and lobbying in Trenton, particularly on the tuition issue. The NJSA was also instrumental in the placing of two of their members on the student advisory committee.

A major concern of the NJSA in the coming year will be the averting of a tuition hike. The unified student group can affect policymaking in Trenton as well as acting as an informational outlet for the lawmakers there.

Jacoby noted that the present situation of two NJSA officers from opposite ends of the state will be an aid to communication since both he and Stark can reach student leaders at the colleges in their area. He added that the NJSA office in Trenton will be a central point between the two.

ONE ADDITIONAL aspect of the NJSA is the financial area. Since the organization is funded by the student governments at the various colleges on a basis proportional to the financial status of the school, it will be necessary to determine the amount that each college can afford to pay.

Legislature Votes to Reopen Security Investigation

By Patti McEvoy

The SGA legislature Tuesday passed a bill reopening the Security Investigation Hearings to investigate and to evaluate the security force on campus and voted to form a special committee to organize against the possibility of a tuition increase in the near future.

"We have a responsibility to prepare ourselves for a tuition increase," SGA President Manny C. Menendez said. A voter registration drive will be conducted for students to insure a strong youth voice in the final decision of a tuition hike when elections roll around in November.

At least two thousand voter registration forms will be available to students with a postmark deadline of Mon. Oct. 6. "We'll bring thousands of kids to Trenton if we have to," Menendez said.

THE SUBMISSION of the bill by Menendez was prompted by what he thought of as a lack of action on the part of the administration last semester in developing a comprehensive police/security system.

The bill calls for an evaluation committee with the SGA president serving as convener; the chairperson will be decided on by the committee.

According to Menendez, MSC lacks trained security personnel.

"Ninety-nine percent of the security force on campus are not trained officers and could have a detrimental effect on the students; we have a duty to students to investigate," Menendez said at the meeting.

The main complaint of the SGA is that the police on campus, appointed by the Board of Trustees, have not undergone the training that is mandatory for certification as a police officer assigned to MSC.

"I'M WORRIED that our officers will not know how to react to a crisis," Menendez said in discussion of the bill.

In emergency legislation, submitted again by Menendez, the legislative body voted that the SGA go on record as being against the alcoholic interim ban imposed in the campus dormitories. The bill also calls for an investigation of the policy.

"THEY SHOULD have come to the students for advice before imposing a prohibitive ban, instead of after they've halted use of alcohol in public," Menendez said.

In other matters, the SGA voted unanimously on a bill calling for a joint meeting of the Welfare/Internal Affairs and Appropriations Committees to develop and make recommendations on an interim pharmacy program as the response for a student pharmacy program has increased.

Campus Exchange Begins

Students, faculty and administrators will be able to air their views on issues affecting MSC in an informal atmosphere as the 1975-1976 Campus Exchange meets for the first time on Thurs., Oct. 2 at 2 pm in the Student Center Ballroom B.

MSC President David W.D. Dickson described the Campus Exchange as “an opportunity for completely open-door, free discussion on issues germane to the college.”

Anyone may attend the hour-long forum but participants should reserve time to speak by calling the President’s secretary Rose Metz at 893-4211. No specific agenda has been compiled for Thursday’s session, Dickson said.

Dickson hopes to hold Campus Exchange meetings once or twice a month as was done last semester. He cited tuition, classroom crowding and the prohibitive liquor policy for residence halls as issues of particular concern to students that could be raised at Thursday’s meeting.

Organizations Meet

The first summit meeting in the SGA’s unification drive to solidify Class One, Two and Three organizations was sparsely attended on Sept. 21.

According to SGA publicity director Janet Byrne, the meeting was held in an effort to make organizations self-sufficient in dealing with their allotted finances.

However, SGA secretary Maryanne Przucnik noted that many of the organizations that the SGA wanted to see represented, especially on the Class Two and Three levels, were not in attendance.

The meeting was also held to determine what organizations are functioning properly according to SGA statutes, and which groups are properly staffed and chartered according to procedures outlined in the SGA constitution.

Organization members who wish to determine the status of their club, whether as a funded or non-funded organization should contact the SGA office, Student Center fourth floor (893-4202, 4203).

Jewish Groups Unite

Representatives of seven Jewish student groups on New Jersey college campuses, including MSC’s Jewish Student Union, have recently formed the Alliance of Jewish Student Organizations.

Sue Vialar of Rutgers/Newark and Ami Hertzoff of William Paterson College (WPC) will serve as co-chairpersons of the alliance. Student representatives include MSC’s Debbie Kutner, Mark Friedman of Union College, Missy Glass, WPC, and Roberta Miller and Vicki Shorr, both of Kean College.

Making Policy

The issue of alcoholic beverages being allowed in residence hall parties has become a cause célèbre during the past week. Since last year’s issue the SGA has brought itself into the matter.

This is a step toward the kind of cooperation that satisfactory policy decisions require – meetings before the fact.

Meetings before the fact could solve a lot of problems, such as the security controversy, and prior announcement of eventike repairs on campus could be a big help as well.

To Park or Not to Park

The MSC campus seems to become more crowded on a daily basis every year and the parking situation grows in congestion proportionally.

For now, while most people are attending all or most of their scheduled course sessions, the lots seem to fill up sooner and sooner. This calls for a reinforcement of some basic ideas of courtesy and consideration.

To those people who can’t manage to position their cars in a parking spot before they leave for class, then others might be able to get their cars in position. To those people who patrol the upper lots in wait for someone to pull out, could you bear in mind that other cars may want to get past you to park no matter where an available space is?

Democrats’ Victory Alarms GOP

The Democratic victory in New Hampshire’s special senate election by former tax-fraud commissioner John A. Durkin has sent a shudder of fear throughout the Republican community.

The most serious blow was the minimal effect of campaign appearances by President Gerald R. Ford and former California Governor Ronald Reagan. Louis Wyman, the former House representative actually did better in New Hampshire than his Democratic counterpart, yet could not afford vital tv ads.

In addition to union support, the Durkin movement was headed by Joseph Grandmason, the political genius that directed Sen. George McGovern’s (D.-S.D.) upset victory in the 1972 Presidential primary in that state. His organizational policies really turned the tide for the Democrats.

Wyman, which many Republicans thought was pronounced dead, loomed as a specter in the minds of the New Hampshire voters. Wyman has been under investigation for the alleged “selling” of his congressional seat for campaign funds under the Richard M. Nixon administration.

PARTY DIVISION

Wyman was also a victim of a split in the Republican Party within its state. William Loeb, the newspaper baron and a staunch conservative, did not come out in favor of Wyman. Instead, Loeb supported the American Party candidate Carmen Chimento. In doing so Loeb had hoped to join forces with Governor Meldrim Thomson to form a conservative party that would endorse Reagan for President.

The presence of Ford and Reagan seemed to do more harm then good for Wyman. Each went to New Hampshire with the intent of helping the GOP cause. But in doing so they also aided their own position in their future showdown for the Republican presidential nomination in the nation’s first primary for the 1976 election.

Be this as it may, the GOP will have to deal with a political roundhouse if they are to come up with a plan to neutralize labor’s influence in the political roundhouse if they are to come up with a plan to neutralize labor’s influence in the political roundhouse if they are to come up with a plan to neutralize labor’s influence in the political roundhouse if they are to come up with a plan to neutralize labor’s influence in the political roundhouse if they are to come up with a plan to neutralize labor’s influence in the political roundhouse.

Equal Time

By Grover Furr

When teachers and other government employees strike in their own interest, we help other working people. But only big business—the banks and their politicians—ever strike in their own interest. We help out -all alike.

Carl Silvestri wrote, in the Sept. 18 issue of the MONTCLARION about “the public interest.” But it doesn’t exist. There is no common interest waiting out society. This is a bosses’ notion, heavily promoted by the media (all big-business controlled). It is used to take away jobs from the rest of us. When the last time you heard the idea of the “public interest” used to defend any strike or fight by employees for their rights?

The right to strike can be won only by striking. In private industry, strikes were illegal until the 1930’s. Industrial workers smashed the anti-labor laws by unloading and fighting back against the Depression. Their militancy forced the government to gradually “give” recognition to the union movement.

BLOCK STRIKES

Any attack on the right to strike of any workers is a blow against all. The same arguments used today to deny government workers bargaining rights were used after World War II to deny the strike to railway workers; to prevent labor unity through outlawing sympathy strikes; to weaken strikes by allowing injunctions against mass picketing.

The goal of business, the courts and both political parties is to take away our right to fight for a better standard of living. At the same time, they are trying to rescind all the pro-salarv-social welfare programs (including education) won as a result of labor union pressure.

Local school boards do not reflect the interests of working people. They are usually dominated by, and responsive to, business interest. Go to Harry S. Sprague Library and look at School Board Notes, the journal of the Association of School Boards of New Jersey. It’s an anti-labor, pro-business, and reactionary as Business Week or Fortune.

INTERESTS SAME

Every thing a teachers’ union does should be guided by the fact that the interest of teachers is identical with that of students, labor, and all those who benefit from public education. The NJEA hates organized labor, says working people are ignorant reactionaries, and that teachers should ally with politicians! For all their numbers and money, they accomplish little.

Teachers’ unions do not always represent their members responsibly. But they can be made to do so.

Members of the Rank-and-File Caucus in the MSC AFT local are working to correct the mistakes of our own union, give it better leadership, and build it, as an essential way to fight for better education. We invite all members of the MSC community to contact us with your ideas.

Ed’s Note: Grover Furr is a member of the Rank-and-File Caucus, MSCFT and the Rank-and-File Caucus, MSCT.
One of the two clouds that have hung low over all of us, darkening bauxitic fall days of this new term, seems to have dissipated. It now appears unlikely that the second semester will see the tuition increase which has threatened since the onset of the budget crisis.

The other cloud has less potential for building into a thunderhead but it nonetheless affects our entire community in significant and painful ways. It is the prospect of operating during this academic year on a budget $1.5 million below the figure requested, without diminishing the quality and diversity of education to which this college is committed.

It is the mind of some public officials that the colleges should accomplish the necessary economies by cutting marginal programs and activities; this stance has understandable appeal to a citizenry worn and weary by the budget writhings of the summer just past. But the first consideration is that by now, in the second year of budget cuts eight to 10 percent below the barely adequate, there is little left to trim.

This administration believes that a vigorous effort is called for, beginning with close attention to studies being conducted by the Ford Commission on Post-Secondary Education and questions such as these:

One: What is the relative ability of our students and their families to meet college costs?

Two: What proportion of higher education costs should a state pay, as against the student?

Three: What proportion of higher education costs should be borne by the student?

A necessary second step, in our view, is an appeal to the legislature for supplementary funding. It should not be difficult to demonstrate, for instance, the long-range costs to the state of persistent fall-off from the equitable funding formula which the state has advocated, developed and refined for more than a decade.

Both these approaches will take time. In the days just ahead, this administration will attempt to affect economies wherever consistent with our mission, to educate the legislature and the citizenry to the increasing problem which alcohol abuse represents, and to push for the passage of legislation which deals with many of the problems.

Finally, is the MONTCLARION, which is always on a tight schedule to make up the paper and get it to the printer, to hold up for hours while some designate of the SGA examines the paper to make sure everything is suitable to their tastes?

Published through the use of student funds, illegally, but conveniently, taxed by the state, and monitored and doled out by the SGA in return for publications catering to the particular taste of the government in power?

Larry Hopper
English/broadcasting, 1977

To the Editor:

Recently Manny C. Mendez III, president of the SGA, distributed a memorandum to all SGA affiliated organizations "requesting" that they indicate on all publications that it was paid for by SGA funds. In addition he "requested" that pre-publication proofs be shown the SGA before publication of the material.

The faint odor of censorship notwithstanding, there are some items that need to be looked at in regards to this memorandum. What does the term SGA funds imply?

It connotes the idea that the SGA is directly responsible for any and all publications and as such each and every publication is a mouth piece for that organization, not a reflection of the individual parts of the campus student community.

What it in fact denotes is they are paying out of SGA funds but fees taxed from the students by the state. This tax is not authorized by the students here, but just accepted as a fact that they have to contribute to something a great many of them do not partake of.

Additionally a registering student does not have the option of disregarding these fees, even when there is no desire on the part of the student to utilize the services provided by the fee. This is especially true in regard to part-time evening students who come to classes and leave taking virtually no part in on-campus activities.

Finally, is the MONTCLARION, which is always on a tight schedule to make up the paper and get it to the printer, to hold up for hours while some designate of the SGA examines the paper to make sure everything is suitable to their tastes?

Is the SGA willing to advance an additional $1000 a semester to fund the paper to make sure everything is suitable to their tastes?

To the Editor:

Recently the SGA executive officers and the MONTCLARION’s staff have been working to get the SGA a parking space at the Bob Hall parking lot. Now the resident students would gladly shovel the $10 fee for a parking decal if we were granted the privilege of parking on campus. After paying $2000 a year or more to attend MSC, compared with the smaller amount which the commuter pays, any dorm student fortunate enough to be able to afford a car should be granted a parking space if he requests it.

We ask Dudiak: Can dorm students without cars continue to supply the funds for the upkeep of parking lots that they are denied the privilege of using?

This is a response to Raymond Daddad’s letter appearing in the Sept. 18 issue of the MONTCLARION. We offer the suggestion that he get out of bed a little earlier if he wishes to find a choice parking space which he obviously feels he deserves in the Bob Hall parking lot.

Recently Manny C. Mendez III, president of the SGA, distributed a memorandum to all SGA affiliated organizations "requesting" that they indicate on all publications that it was paid for by SGA funds. In addition he "requested" that pre-publication proofs be shown the SGA before publication of the material.

The faint odor of censorship notwithstanding, there are some items that need to be looked at in regards to this memorandum. What does the term SGA funds imply?

It connotes the idea that the SGA is directly responsible for any and all publications and as such each and every publication is a mouth piece for that organization, not a reflection of the individual parts of the campus student community.

What it in fact denotes is they are paying out of SGA funds but fees taxed from the students by the state. This tax is not authorized by the students here, but just accepted as a fact that they have to contribute to something a great many of them do not partake of.

Additionally a registering student does not have the option of disregarding these fees, even when there is no desire on the part of the student to utilize the services provided by the fee. This is especially true in regard to part-time evening students who come to classes and leave taking virtually no part in on-campus activities.

Finally, is the MONTCLARION, which is always on a tight schedule to make up the paper and get it to the printer, to hold up for hours while some designate of the SGA examines the paper to make sure everything is suitable to their tastes?

Exceptional Talent Unleashed in Springsteen Disc

By Richard Galasso

Does the future of rock and roll really lie in the music of Bruce Springsteen? Very possibly, since there is little doubt that Springsteen is a sleeping talent ready to be unleashed on the music industry. His music is undoubtedly one of the most creative art forms to surface in the 1970's. Springsteen's music is exceptionial and his method extraordinary.

His new album, "Born to Run" (Columbia PC-33796), has generally been given the recognition it deserves. Only one week after its release the album rose to the number 10 spot on the Record World charts.

"BORN TO Run" is one of the most fascinating albums of the year. Although it cannot match the intensity of Springsteen's last LP, it still has the potential to be one of this year's most popular and most durable albums.

Springsteen's lyrics are emotionally expressionistic in their combinations of phrases. The words are surrounded by crisp and timely sax solos accompanied by the new Springsteen's own band is considered incredibly tight, and the addition of Sancious and the Brecker brothers makes it that much tighter.

Springsteen's ability is diverse in the literal sense. Nearly everything he has ever recorded has been accepted as not only progressive but extraordinary in its own right, and "Born to Run" is no exception.

"BLUES FOR ALLAH"

The Grateful Dead's "Blues for Allah" (Grateful Dead G-D-LA494-G), is being promoted as the super album from the "legendary" Grateful Dead.

From a purely objective viewpoint, this promotional pitch cannot be denied. It is very possible that The Grateful Dead are as fine a group of musical artists as have emerged from the 60's rock culture. Even so, the use of the word "legendary" to sell the Dead's album is no more than a typical American business maneuver to promote a product which is not worth the hype.

While there have only been a few American or English bands who have accomplished the musical feats that the Dead have within the last 10 years, "Blues for Allah" emerges at a bland, inferior work and may be the group's worst album to date.

The album contains five relatively slow paced instrumental tracks, something the Dead have not experimented with too often. Needless to say, the final product is worthy.

Excluding these five cuts, there are at least three more tracks on the album which have little or no meaning to the listener. While it is perhaps understandable that at this time in their career the Dead are not as concerned with the listener as they are with self-conscious representations of their musical talent, they may have become just a bit too self-indulgent here to win popular acclaim.

There are a few bright spots in the album. This stems from too many Leach, Godchaux and Kreutzman compositions, and the lack of the basic Dead repitoire of Hunter/Garcia and Lesh, Godchaux and Kreutzman. The Dead fans should not be overly concerned. The Dead continue to make concept styled LP's they may soon find themselves lost in their own counter-culture.

Since most of the conclusions above are based on "Blues for Allah," Dead fans should not be overly concerned. The Dead have consistently churned out fascinating LP's over the past decade, and this album hopefully does not signal a halt in their musical/artistic growth. It has been charged that the Dead are mellowing themselves out of business, and while "Blues for Allah" does much to substantiate that claim, the Dead will hopefully regain their former status in rock with future albums.

CORRECTION: In last week's MONTCLARION, it was mistakenly reported that Marion Z. Murphy appeared in Players' production of "The House of Blue Leaves." Murphy was house manager for the production and did not appear in the play itself. Mary Grace Nowak played the part attributed to Murphy. The MONTCLARION regrets the error.

Barnet to Lecture In Calcia Auditorium

Artist Will Barnet will kick off the fine arts department's fall Art Forum series with a free lecture today from 1-3 pm in Calcia Auditorium.

Barnet's address in in conjunction with an exhibit of some of his works in Gallery One through Fri., Oct. 10. A PRINTMAKER for more than 40 years, Barnet began to work with paint in the 1940's. The Gallery One exhibit includes both oils and lithographs. In all art media, Barnet displays a fascination with the human figure. His wife and children often serve as inspiration for his pictures, representing themes for all humanity as well as the intimacy of personal portraits.

In the 1930's Barnet studied with Charles Lockre, a famed printmaker and art educator. His work during that period was influenced by the outstanding French lithographer Honore Daumier.

Like that artist, he drew upon the life around him for subject matter, creating scenes of simple people in simple pursuits. Many of his lithographs in that decade reflect his concern with social problems sparked by the Depression, such as labor strife and tenement life.

Musically speaking, the group as well as the session musicians involved in the recording of “So Fine” are all competent. The talent of the musicians is in question, however, one questions the purpose of an album of this sort, particularly from a group that is one of the biggest concert attractions in the country. As the film moves towards the conclusion comedy is the keynote to the action. It springs from the hopelessness of the two thieves in carrying out the heist and also from the omnipotent power of ‘Murphy’s Law,’ which states that if something can possibly go wrong, it will. The film tries to make an honest living in spite of the all-pervasive corruption. But the powers that be want to make an honest living in spite of the all-pervasive corruption. The FBI is the bad guy and one can wonder afterward if the FBI informs Sonny that Sal must die of the cancer. In the context of the film it appears that the FBI is the bad guy and one can wonder afterward if they are ever the good guys even outside the context of the film. It is not merely the idea that they use deception in the same manner as the criminals, but the fact that they so coldly execute their plans, emotionless, and unbeatable that is so disturbing. They seem so inhuman, like automaton, as they drive to the last rights of the kill. It makes one speculate as to exactly what kind of supermen they are, but at the same time it is comforting to know that after months of searching the FBI never found Patty Hearst. Performances, with the exception of John Cassavetes as Sal, are uniformly good and Pacino is outstanding. There is no trace of the young Corleone, or Serpico, in Pacino’s interpretation of Sonny; rather, it is an unbeatable that is so disturbing. Charles Durning as the harassled but affable police lieutenant projects the frustrated exaggeration of his position and is miles removed from James Brown’s efficient FBI agent. CAZALET, The exception noted above, played Sal just as he did the weak brother in “The Godfather” and Gene Hackman’s assistant in “The Conversation.” All these characters were weak, inconsequential beings and Cazale fitted the roles nicely. However, it remains to be seen whether he can play another type of role or is destined to remain a character actor.

“Dog Day Afternoon,” rated “R” because of the language, is basically an enjoyable, entertaining film that raises several questions worth pondering. But if you’re not involved in thought provoking ideas you can still get a wealth of good moviegoing entertainment from the story itself, and what’s more you’ll be treated to another great performance by Pacino.

Dog Day Afternoon

By Larry Hopper

“Dog Day Afternoon,” the new film starring Al Pacino in a story about a bank robbery when everything goes wrong, is a film where everything goes right.

The actual event the film is based on occurred almost three years ago in Brooklyn. Two men, Sonny and Sal, move in on a bank at closing time to hold it up. Through a series of inest moves the cops are alerted and soon have the place surrounded. A stalemate results between the police and the thieves because they are holding several bank employees as hostages.

SONNY’S BRAVOAD and the caution of the police leads to a carthnic atmosphere on the streets. Network camera men go obsolete, phone calls inundate the bank, and Sonny and Sal’s problems are compounded by a bank guard with asthma, a manager with diabetes, and the cool cunning of the FBI.

When it is discovered that Sonny is robbing the bank to provide his male wife with enough money for a medical operation, pay billers move in on an already chaotic scene.

In director Sidney Lumet’s hands what could easily be handled in poor sets is transformed into a story which it is, for the most part, thoroughly enjoyable and inventive. The only real problem with the picture derives from its poor structure.

At THE OUT, and for more than half the film, comedy is the keynote to the action. It springs from the hopeless inefficacy of the two thieves in carrying out the heist and also from the omnipotent power of ‘Murphy’s Law,’ which states that if something can possibly go wrong, it will.

“White Line Fever” is as convincing and affecting a film as you’re likely to come across these days. Screenwriter Ken Friedman and Jonathan Kaplan (who also directed) have taken a well-known practice of illegal trucking — and fashioned around an absorbing, realistic screenplay without sordidness.

Good, Absorbing

Trucking Drama

By Tom I’malcolm

“White Line Fever” is as convincing and affecting a film as you’re likely to come across these days. Screenwriter Ken Friedman and Jonathan Kaplan (who also directed) have taken a well-known practice of illegal trucking — and fashioned around an absorbing, realistic screenplay without sordidness.

There is no one violent confrontation after another as Huemer determines not to be crushed by the big boys. He soon becomes an inspiration to other truckers and they begin to rally behind him.

“White Line Fever” might be counted as a war movie excessively violent by some, but the movie succeeds in convincing the viewer that the violence is realistic and understandable given the situation. The movie never steers very far from real life and the depiction of the Western trucking industry and the people involved in it seems precise, detailed and authentic.

THE STORY and the way it’s handled makes “White Line Fever” seem, finally, less violent a film than, say, “Walking Tall,” which was somewhat similar in its honest little man vs. corrupt big business theme but which did not succeed in justifying violence or making any of the events of the film credible.

Vincent turns in another solid performance as Huemer. One of the most charismatic of our young actors, he combines charm and good looks with a kind of animal magnetism, and he’s no slouch in the acting department either. He and Kay Lenz as his wife play off each other beautifully.

Lanz is very appealing as a young, pretty, very much in love with his husband and intensely aware of her sexuality. Together, Vincent and Lenz make an extraordinarily appealing cinematic duo, and they certainly have more appeal than the team of Newman and Redford, Nicholson and Barstey, and such.

SLIM PICKENS does his standard down-home, good ol’ boy bit, and as usual it’s a joy to watch him.

Beautiful scenery abounds and one comes away with a genuine feel for the locale and its people, thanks to Kaplan’s sharp eye for detail and the fine performances of the supporting cast.

Gerry B. Trudeau’s biting comic strip “Doonesbury” became the first comic strip ever to win the Pulitzer Prize this year. Its contemporary conscience and oftentimes characters now contribute to making “The Doonesbury Chronicles” (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 210 pp., $3.95), a collection of seven years worth of cartoons, a valuable canon that acts as a barometer of the late 1960’s.

This first major Doonesbury retrospective features 572 strips (including Sunday color pages) and brings together all of Trudeau’s nest of characters that weather campus protests, Watergate and other intrigues of former US President Richard M. Nixon, Women’s Lib, the Vietnam War and President Gerald R. Ford’s economic misfortunes.

THE CAST of characters is a familiar repertory of avid fans:

Mike Doonesbury is the college schnook, complete with rectangular nose and dangling eyeglasses. Here the reader gets some early glimpses of Mike striking out with girls and trying to play the eternal liberal from the period before the strip gained national prominence.

Mark Slackmeyer, the frustrated campus radical who takes over the college president’s house without a lot of resistance and whose father is still debating whether or not to disinherit him:

B.D., TheEunosso Vietnam veteran who was so sorry to see the war go but finds football a fitting substitute:

Fried, the Viet Cong terrorist who gets trapped to Laos and is hoodwinked into taking his vacation in a Cambodian battle zone:

Zonker, the hippie freak who likes to play U-boat in the commune’s Walden puddle:

and the priceless conspirators (“Today’s cover-up cuties is . . . John Ehrlichman!” “Profile of Natalie Wood!”, “Annie’s love life is a mystery even to her!”) and the priceless speeches that Nixon engaged in inside the hallowed White House walls.

THE VOLUME also includes a superb introduction by political writer Garry Wilu, who analyzes the reasons for the comic strip’s huge appeal that led to its syndication in over 350 North American newspapers.

“Doonesbury” has been generally on target with American youth’s attitudes toward current issues, and now loyal fans of the controversial comic strip, which has brought down the ax of censorship on occasion, have a nearly complete reference set to laugh with America’s idiocies of the last seven years with “The Doonesbury Chronicles” as an education as well as an entertainment.
Indian Nine Not Horsing Around

By Al Barton

Like some well-trained thoroughbreds MSC’s baseball nine often breaks quickly from the gate. Separated from the pack, they often leg following their fast start and seem venerable. Just when they seem ready to take them rise to the challenge, kick up their heels and come home a winner.

Such was the case Monday at Holter Park. Scoring three times in the first inning, the Indians used the strong pitching of Len Zolto and Rusty Pace, as well as timely defensive play to turn back Fordham University in a fall baseball contest 3-2.

“We always jump off to a quick lead and then for some reason let up,” explained Pace. “But when we need the big plays, we make them.”

The Tribe jumped on Fordham starter and loser Billy Hill immediately en route to its eighth consecutive win. Last fall hurler Pete Horn stroked a single and sped home on Dean Unik’s double. Hill retired the next two hitters but Gerry Casalino delivered a RBI double. Kevin Donohoe then closed out the MSC scoring by pounding the third Indian two-bagger of the stanza, driving in Casalino.

The Tribe was not to score again but it made little difference as Zolto and Pace made the first inning bundle stand up.

Zolto started and the sophomore right-hander picked up his second win without a defeat. He was nicked for a run in the visiting third when the Rams’ Mike Bird singled and scored on Bob Di Vincenzo’s double.

The Indians coasted until the seventh when Fordham mounted a serious threat. A hit bytern, an error and a fielders choice loaded the bases with none out. Designated hitter Greg Costa rapped the ball to shortstop Keith Murray who quickly started a 4-6-3 double play. A run scored on the play but the twin killing broke the back of Fordham’s rally.

“The EIGHT inning saw Zolto again struggle as he lost his control. With one away he walked DiVincenzo and Mark Pietro. With the potential tying and go ahead runs on base Alex Tornillo called the curve-ball Pace into action.

“I wanted to keep the ball down,” related the lanky righthander. “With one out I was looking for a double play or even a strikeout.”

Pace got not one strikeout but two as he fanned Mike O’Connel and Mark Pleto. With the two as he fanned Mike O’Connel and Mark Pleto. With the two as he fanned Mike O’Connel and Mark Pleto.

Harriers, Rain Don't Mix

By Bill McNair

On a rainy, rainy day when swimming the course seemed more logical than running it, the MSC cross-country team fell victim to Fairleigh Dickinson University and Rider College. Former Indian coach George Horn (center) and Dave MacRae look on.

The score did indicate however, that both FDU and Rider are the best competition that the Indians will face all year.

Whether or not that means that Indians can't swim is debatable but it was a rude re-entry into better competition for the Tribe after it crushed Stockton State in its opener.

The best MSC could do in its wet triumph was a fifth place by Mike Exton. After that, you'd have to look all the way down to the 13th spot for another Indian, Len Guida, followed by Tom Munyan in 15th.

But new coach, James E. Harris, seems to have inherited the unshakeable optimism of his predecessor George Horn. Behind the clouds, and the final results, he found his silver lining.

"We ran our best times even though the meet was in the rain," Harris commented. "We didn't run as well as our score would indicate."

The score did indicate however, that an FDU runner took the top spot and two other Knights were in the top five. Randy Grashtouse, corriled third followed by teammate Mike Saunders in the fourth spot.

Rider College posted one runner in the top five, namely Dennis Pawlowski who finished second in a time of 25:50, six seconds off the winning pace. The next two Rider harriers Peter Trocy and Pat Hickey placed sixth and eighth, sandwiching FDU man Joseph Glaimo in the seventh slot.

Harris felt that Rider "ran better than they expected" as far as the overall meet went the coach believes that FDU and Rider are the best competition that the Indians will face all year.

Before the start's gun even sounded the MSC team was beset with problems. They were hampered by an injury to the number two runner, Dan Doherty, who is sidelined with a broken wrist and a sprained ankle. Freshman Fablo Mejia, who looked good after the first meet, failed to show up and, according to Harris, "also hurt the team's chances for victory."

He is very hopeful that both Doherty and Mejia will be back for the upcoming meet with unbeaten Glassboro State College on Saturday.

Field Hockey Must Rebuild Defense

By Hank Gola

Coach Donna Ollan's principal task as she faces the 1975 field hockey season is to find some scoring punch on the left side of the attack and rebuild a sturdy defense.

The Squaws, whose inability to find the net contributed to a late season slide and a 4-5-3 record last year, were hit hard defensively through graduation but will return with the right side of their attack virtually intact.

"DEFENSIVELY WE'RE going to need some support from our JV's and it's too early to tell how that will turn out yet," Olsen explained. "We're also looking at certain positions on offense and need to find the right combination on the left side."

Yet the Squaws should have some scoring punch with seniors Patty Carty, Cindy Berezino and sophomore Anna Winberg making up the strong side of the attack. All three started last year and Winberg was the team's leading scorer.

Roxanne Cole, who saw some action toward the end of last season, also should help out on offense. While a pair of returnees anchor the defense, Carol Manziien and Karen Dahlenstrom, who made the all-college New Atlantic all-star squad Tracy Brown is back after a strong season in the nets.

The schedule doesn't give MSC any breaks. However, the university of Delaware has been added to an already strong slate that includes powerful Kings College, Glassboro State College, Trenton State College and Princeton University.

"I FEEL that Delaware really strengthens our schedule," Glassboro and Trenton are always tough and Kings will be out for revenge after we beat them for their first loss in two years," Olsen said.

In addition, the Squaws will be working towards a berth in the Mid-Atlantic Region Tournament, to be held for the first time on Nov. 13, 14 and 15. The tourney, which serves as a step toward the national tournament should provide some type of impetus.

"We're in a tough region with the schools from Philadelphia, the hub of hockey," Olsen said. "We'll have our work cut out for us."

The Squaws kick off their season at Brooklyn College on Tues., Sept. 30. Their first home game is Tues., Oct. 14 against William Paterson College. All home matches are at Brookside Park.

The athletic department department would like to pass on the reminder that admission to all home football games is free to all students with a validated SGA ID. If you miss the game on Saturday, you can get a second chance when game films are shown in the Student Center this week following the game at noon. Admission to these screenings, narrated by Don MacKay, is free.

MSC students are trying to start a men's swim club in the hope that it may develop into a varsity team. All interested persons are asked to contact a Al Zaidi at Penzer Gym Pool 4—6 pm Monday through Thursday and 3—4 pm on Friday. If they get enough interest, workouts will begin about Oct. 15.

The MSC Alumni Association is holding its third annual Inter-College Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament on Homecoming day, Sat. Oct. 4. There is an entrance fee of five dollars for student teams and 10 dollars for other teams. AII are considered tax deductible contributions toward the tennis facilities. Fees are necessary for admission to Penzer Gym Pool and nylon swim suits are required for all.

The schedule doesn't give MSC any breaks. However, the university of Delaware has been added to an already strong slate that includes powerful Kings College, Glassboro State College, Trenton State College and Princeton University.
Second-year Jersey City State College coach Bill McKeown regained a long since lost Friday night. The Goths, who went 0-9 last year, finally got their first win ever as their football team with a 24-19 victory over Providence College.

Everywhere, both. Trenton State College and Glassboro State College reveled in their records at 1-1, the Lions picking up a win in their first game ever at the Athletic Conference rival William Patterson College, 33-6, and the Profs edging Salisbury State, 21-14. Kean College was surprised by New York Tech, 19-0.

Ken Belchik threw for two TD’s and Bob Cowan set a school record with a 99-yard kickoff return to spark the Gothic win. Belchik hit Jim Murdza for a 12-yard score in the first quarter and Pinetop R. Hunter and Bruce Tynell for 29 yards and a TD in the second, giving JSCC a 15-0 lead.

After the Fliers closed the gap to 22-7 in the third period, Cowan led it with his run on the ensuing kickoff. The Gothic defense sparked also, picking up four interceptions.

Glassboro State got back on the winning track as junior quarterback Mike Cawley passed for one TD and ran for another. The Profs were tied at 14 in the last quarter when Jerry Falton returned a punt 40 yards to the 15-yard line. Cawley, who was 11 for 15 and 110 yards, hit Fulton Jones in the end zone on the next play.

Jim Watson had given the Seahawks a 7-0 halftime lead when he tallied the first of his two TD’s on an 8-yard run. But the Profs came back with a four-yard keeper by Cawley and a one-yard TD plunge by Jim Abbatamato to make it 14-7. Watson added a field goal with a 48-yard end sweep for a score.

Trenton State relied on the combined 232-yard rushing performance of Nata Woodard and Tom Markey. Woodard, who stands only 5-foot-7 and weighs 160 pounds, ran for 128 yards and scored two touchdowns, one on a three-yard Odd tackle and the other on a five-yard sweep. Markey added 104 yards on only 11 carries.

Kean was held to four yards rushing by a stingy New York Tech defense and fell for the second straight time. The Squires, who lost seven yards on the ground against MSC last week, now have minus three rushing yards on the year.

Owls Nothing to Hoot About

By Hank Gola

Harry Shay wasn’t talking after his Southern Connecticut State College football squad was upset by Wesleyan, 21-14, in its opener. At least he wasn’t talking positively.

"We were too the game," Shay said. "We saw Monticello play East Stroudsburg and for the first time in a few years we are outmatched at virtually every position. We’re in some for a-ballgame.

Counting on an MSC romp? Now listen to Clary Anderson.

"HARRY SHAY is a chronic worrier. He’ll tell you that he can’t even put a team on the field. Don’t listen to him. It’s going to be an even-matched ballgame," Anderson warned.

Whatever the Eastern Football Conference game at Sprague Field Saturday at 8 p.m. turns out to be, it will start out as a matchup of two teams in virtually the same position, trying to iron out mistakes in the offense.

"It’s going to be a big game for both of us," Anderson explained. "We are both coming off losses where we didn’t play well and we need this win to get going."

Ask Shay where his squad needs the most improvement and he’ll answer quickly.

"OUR KICKING game. There’s no doubt about that. We had four punts blocked and it cost us the ballgame," he said.

The Owls also fumbled twice and had a pass intercepted, hardly an impressive performance against Wesleyan.

"We were the favorites and played poorly," Shay noted. "And we did all those things against a team like Wesleyan and Montclair is a much better football team than it has been in a long time.

MSC could be a much better football team than it has shown so far. The unit, which has sputtered, the Indians have lost good teams to step foot on Sprague Field this year. The world-famous Hawthorne Caballeros drum and bugle corps has been engaged for halftime activity and if they perform anywhere near the style they did two years ago here, it will be some treat. They may even be better than the football game.

The veteran coach was primarily concerned with the Tribe’s rushing game.

"We have to be able to pick up more yardage on first down. And we are not picking up the long gain. Gwathney almost broke a couple but he did a lot on his own. The passing game could improve also but it hasn’t been the quarterback’s fault. The ball has been there but our receivers have failed to come through.

The Tribe’s defense, which boasts two of the best backs in the league, linebacker Brad Messina and back Jim Satagaj, is about as capable as you’d find anywhere with two former pro football stars and its been a big reason why MSC has been a consistent winner.

The defensive performance so far can be credited in part to defensive coordinator McKinley Boston and secondary overer Ken Graham. Both played there in the NFL and without spreading any false praise, they have done one great job. Boston, who has turned down the NFL offer since his days at Seton Hall University, seems to have found a home at MSC while Graham’s secondary is perhaps the strongest facet of the team.

While offensive coordinator Mackey has been having difficulty getting the option to click, his zest for coaching is unbelievable. Give him some salt and he’ll eat the football. The University of Massachusetts alumnus is the likely choice to take over whenever Clay Anderson steps down.

While Homecoming in two weeks does feature a good football game, it will probably have one of the only unbeatable teams to step foot on Sprague Field this year. The world-famous Hawthorne Caballeros drum and bugle corps has been engaged for halftime activity and if they perform anywhere near the style they did two years ago here, it will be some treat. They may even be better than the football game.

Stingy Stroudsburg Stifles Tribe, 14-3

By Bob Scherer

East Stroudsburg State College put out a superb defensive effort and halfback Pete Rodacho supplied the needed offense as the Pennsylvania school won its second straight defeating MSC, 14-3, at Stroudsburg High School March 25.

MSC's lone score, a 27-yard field goal by Bob Valli was all the Warrior defense needed as it limited the Indian option offense to only 80 yards rushing and repeatedly turned back the Tribe scoring threats.

Rodacho was ESSC's offensive standout as he rushed 30 times for 96 yards, scored one touchdown and threw up the option pass for the other.

THE FINAL score of the evening came midway through the third quarter and proved fatal for the Indians.

East Stroudsburg had possession on its own 37 via an MSC punt. Three successive runs by Rodacho brought the ball to the MSC 14 then followed by the key play of the game. ESSC's quarterback Mike Terwilliger dropped back to pass on second down and finding no receiver open chose to run the ball. The deft signal-caller weaved through the Tribe's defense and scrambled 30 yards before cornerback Barry Gobin dragged him down on the MSC 14-yard line.

Two plays later, from the 10, Rodacho took a pitch from Terwilliger and running to his right tossed the option pass to wide receiver Gray Seamans who was alone in the right corner of the end zone. Bob Gwathney, ESSC's unorthodox-made the score 14-3 for the home team.

The Warriors' first scoring was spurred by an MSC fumble after the Indians had recovered a fumbled punt reception and had taken control on the ESSC 38. They moved the ball to the 21 when a pitch-out from quarterback Randy Schenauer to Jim Gwathney was fumbled and recovered by the Warriors' Mike Stambaugh.

THE ENSUING 12-play, 70-yard touchdown drive was highlighted by a running of Radocha and an 18-yard run by right end Gary Laubsch after receiving a screen pass from Terwilliger. The two-yard TD plunge by Radocha followed by Boyd's successful kick conversion gave East Stroudsburg a 7-0 first quarter lead.

"We mishandled too many options," MSC coach Clary Anderson noted in the losers' lockerroom. "Our pass-catching must also improve. We'd get two hands on the ball and yet didn't hold on."

The Warriors were threatening to score again in the second stanza when a clutch play by MSC lineman Bill Swann turned the game around. ESSC was in a third-and-goal situation from the Tribe six-yard line when anもちろん Swann deflected and then hauled in a pass attempt by Terwilliger. The big right end gobbled 20 yards to give MSC possession on its own 30.

THE INDIANS then put together the finest drive of the night. Led by the hard running of fullback Bob Gardner and halfback Jim Gwathney, MSC rallied the ball down the middle of the Warrior defense in a time-consuming, 16-play, 60-yard march which was cut short on the ESSC 10-yard line and culminated in the field goal by Valli. A 16-yard jet of Gwathney and an 11-yard pass interference call keyed the impressive drive that narrowed East Stroudsburg's lead to 7-3 at the half.

"Our timing down with the quarterback there will be less fumbles you don't cut back." And the Warriors' lead blocker sometimes guessed wrong and worked on the wrong man," he surmised.

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR Don MacKay also took some of the blame. He felt that another factor was the failure to notice a defensive maneuver on the part of the Warrior secondary. This resulted in MSC blockers hitting the wrong defensive back leaving another one free to make the tackle.

MSC switched from last year's power-I offense to the option to take advantage of its wealth of backs and to utilize them all. Indian senior halfback Jim Gwathney feels that the biggest asset this backfield has faced is adjusting to the new offense. "It's hard adjusting from the power-I offense of last year to the wishbone," Gwathney remarked. "Under the power-I we were used to cutting back, getting the block, and going through the hole. Now it's always somewhere in the backfield where you don't cut back."

HE CONTINUED, "Once we get our timing down with the quarterback there will be less fumbles and we'll be all right. There are going to be plenty of big plays when it comes. Many times we've been one man away from breaking it. It's got to turn our way eventually."

Nevertheless, with all its faults, MacKay insists that the offense played 'such better against a stronger East Stroudsburg defense than against Kean in the opening game. "We graded out higher this week against a superior team," he confidently said. "There was an improvement in our execution and we'll continue to get better and make less mistakes."

ANDERSON CONSIDERED the Warriors to be a formidable foe and he felt they played a tough game deserving of the victory. "East Stroudsburg came to play; they have a sound excellent football team," he remarked. "This week when we take on Southern Connecticut we're going to be more aggressive and ball conscience. Look for a more diversified offense."

"One thing we must do is make our quarterback play better. We're going to be a formidable foe and he felt they played a tough game deserving of the victory."

"I don't think this one contest will make the season," Anderson finalized. "Besides, playing a game without scoring a touchdown is not something I want to get used to."

FINDING A HOLE: Indian halfback Jim Gwathney tries to elude East Stroudsburg State College defensive tackle John Sellen (65) and linebackers Doug Schafer (53) and Willard Stem (25) as they zone in for the tackle. The 'Indians wishbone offense had its problems and the MSC backs found little running room all evening in absorbing a 14-3 loss at Stroudsburg High School.

WARRIOR WEAPON: East Stroudsburg State College quarterback Mike Terwilliger hands the ball to halfback Pete Rodacho (42) in the first quarter of Saturday night's game. Rodacho went on to carry for 96 yards and was involved in both TD's which led the Warriors to a 14-3 win over MSC.

"I think this one contest will make the season," Anderson finalized. "Besides, playing a football game without scoring a touchdown is not something I want to get used to."

Wishbone Not Working Yet

By Steve Nuiver

After last Saturday night's 14-3 loss at the hands of East Stroudsburg State College, a question mark still looms over the effectiveness of MSC's wishbone offense.

"We've been a little off at the correct play at the correct time," coach Clary Anderson explained. "Against East Stroudsburg we had three scoring opportunities and it was the lack of that one big play which hurt us."

OF THE THREE times the Indians were within striking distance the best they could achieve was Bob Valli's 27-yard field goal. They just couldn't seem to get the ball into the end zone.

"We're a team that's a little less explosive than we just couldn't seem to get the ball into the end zone on any of our fumbles," Anderson said. "We received their hands on the ball but they just couldn't seem to grab it."

On that night Indian quarterbacks completed only two of 15 passes.

The MSC backs were having their problems too. They were never able to get much farther than the Warrior line backers before they were brought down. This, Anderson attributes to the failure of the Indians to execute key blocks.

"The lead blocker sometimes guessed wrong and worked on the wrong man," he surmised.
