Grad students spared fees

by Chris Carroll

The referendum which would have possibly made graduate students pay SGA fees did not pass because 20% of the student body failed to vote on the question, Nader Tavakoli, SGA president, said.

The referendum, which passed in the actual voting during April 26-30, failed because only 1,036 undergraduates were in favor of the bill and 314 were opposed to it. A total of approximately 2,226 undergraduate voters would have been necessary for the bill to be considered.

According to the SGA constitution, "Amendments to the constitution must obtain a majority of the votes cast in a campus wide election providing that at least 20% of the student body vote to become valid." If 20% of the undergraduates voted and a majority of these voters were in favor of the bill, "The board (of trustees) would have to finalize it because the trustees are the only governing body that can assess fees or increase fees," Tavakoli said.

"I think it would have been unfair to assess fees to students who wouldn't have the motivation to use them," Tavakoli said.

Scott Garrett, the legislator who submitted the bill to the SGA vice president, Michelle Gierla, said that he felt there were 2 main reasons for the bill. The 1st being the fact that graduate students take advantage of services that they don't pay for. "In the case that we don't check, they (graduates) are getting services they haven't paid for," he said.

Garrett cited "The Montclairian" and the use of the Drop-In Center as examples of such services.

The 2d reason why Garrett was a proponent of the bill was because he felt that graduates should be involved with SGA sponsored activities. "Having graduate students pay SGA fees would entitle them to go to the functions they aren't entitled to now," he said.

Trips sponsored by the Council on International and National Affairs (CINA) and the College Life Union Board (CLUB) are examples of such functions, he said.

As it stand now, graduate students cannot participate in SGA activities, they can't be members of any Class 1, 2, or 3 Organization, nor can they hold an office in the SGA, Tavakoli said.

"The problem that I saw was that it would be difficult for graduates to take advantage of the activities that undergraduates do" because they aren't here on campus as much as undergraduates are, Tavakoli said.

"As far as the SGA is concerned, they are outsiders," he said.

Boh Rice, a graduate student at MSC, said he "wouldn't like it" if the referendum passed. "Graduates usually don't take advantage of any Class 1 Organizations because they are usually employed fulltime elsewhere and only go to school partttme," he said.

If the referendum had been passed and accepted by the board, graduates would pay the same SGA rates that undergraduates pay: $2 per credit hour up to a maximum of $24 per semester. They would have also been made eligible for participation in all SGA activities and they would be able to hold office in any SGA organization on campus, Tavakoli said.

"The input that I got was that they (graduates) were either indifferent or for the bill," Garrett said. "Unless something phenomenal happens, we'll have to wait till next year to put the referendum on the ballot again," he said.
Kean gets woman for VP

(Union, NJ)--The position of vice president for academic affairs at Kean College (Kean) has had its 1st Black female appointment. "She is the 1st minority in the history of Kean ever appointed to such a high position," according to John O'Reilly, editor-in-chief of the Independent, Kean's newspaper. Dr. Vera King Farris, a middle aged Black female, was appointed on April 21, 1980 after her qualifications were reviewed by the Kean administration, O'Reilly said. From 1970-72 Farris served as the director of the Institute of Innovative Teaching and Counseling for XJ. In 1973 she became an associate professor of biological sciences at the State University of XA at Brockport, and was also the assistant to the academic vice president, and later the dean of special programs at the university. She has served as chairman of the middle states association of colleges and schools in NYC and is currently a National Danforth trustee for the children's TV workshop in NYC. According to O'Reilly, Farris replaced Dr. Stephen Haselton in the position of academic vice president and will begin her term in September 1980.

Iranians want last gunman

(Iran)--Iran's revolutionary government says it'll ask for the extradition of the only gunman surviving the siege at the Iranian Embassy in London. But British Prime Minister Thatcher is said to be determined to resist the request. Police sources say the gunman will be tried in Britain for murder and kidnapping.

Meanwhile, police today put the final toll in the embassy siege. Seven people were killed--5 gunmen and 2 hostages. The final toll was made known after firemen removed the remains of 3 bodies from the burnt out building.

Students vote on new gym

(Wayne, NJ)--Students face a possible increase in tuition fees at William Paterson College (WPC) as a result of a new gym facility bill. The $3.8 million facility is projected to increase the students athletic fees by $2.50 per credit per student, according to Sue Merchant, the news editor for the Beacon, WPC's newspaper. Students, however, have the final say and they will vote on the bill on Tue., May 13, 1980, Merchant said.

Election rules violated

(Camden, NJ)--A presidential candidate for Student Congress was disqualified and reinstated after breaking the election guidelines, according to Fredrick Brancock, a news editor for the Rutgers Greuter (Camden) newspaper. John McGraw, the presidential candidate, was seen distributing campaign literature near the polls on election day and was disqualified, Brancock said.

Carter declares crisis

(Fort Walton Beach, Florida)--The "Boat Flotilla" has now brought nearly 18,000 Cuban refugees to Florida shores--enough for President Carter to declare a state of emergency in Florida. The President issued the order today less than 24 hours after getting a request from Governor Bob Graham. The action is designed to speed federal assistance to areas impacted by the mass migration of Cubans.
Surplus of $200,000

Smaller projects planned

by Mike Davino

The Quarry Development and Student Center Annex Projects have a $200,000 surplus.

Barring unforeseen difficulties in construction, the money will be used for several smaller projects, including a sidewalk from the bridge over the railroad tracks near the Clove Rd. Apartments to the main campus.

The surplus is due to several cuts made in the project after it came in over budget when bids were lst submitted for it.

Other suggested smaller projects are paddle ball courts, a lighted basketball court, and a paved railroad crossing.

"Although it seems like a lot, in terms of the overall budget, the surplus is relatively small," Jerome R. Quinn, director of institutional planning, said.

"Because it is so small, we’re not going to spend it until construction proceeds further and we are sure it is not needed for an unanticipated construction problem. For instance, when you move a large amount of earth, it is possible to run into rock, which would cost more to excavate," he continued.

"In October 1979 when we lst advertised for bids on the project, they came in over our $91 million budget. We cut out a 3d softball field, additional parking at the apartments, and various other items. When we advertised again for bids in January 1980, we came in $200,000 under budget," Quinn said.

Quinn said the Student Center Annex and Quarry Development Committee made several recommendations for possible uses of the money. He continued, "One of the items is a sidewalk from the bridge over the railroad tracks near the apartments to the main campus. This would cost around $100,000. The 2d project is the construction of 2 concrete wall paddle ball courts near the apartments’ parking lot. The other projects area lighted basketball court and a paved railroad crossing from the apartments’ parking lot to the new athletic fields."

He added, it is possible the college may receive federal funds for the railroad crossing.

"The committee submitted its recommendations to the administration and they were approved," Quinn said. The committee consisted of Quinn, Nader Tavakoli, SGA president; Thomas Vonow, director of student activities; McKinley Boston, director of intramurals; William McAllister, director of athletics; Joseph McCarty, engineer in charge of maintenance; and students Lisa Burkhard and Brian Gage.

Grappling with grievances

by Lori Jersey

At the present time, each of the 6 schools at MSC has its own procedure to follow in the event that a student should have a grievance against a faculty member. These procedures involve formal steps that student may take to adjudicate a grievance.

Also, at the present time, a proposal for a unified academic grievance procedure drawn from the collected procedures of the 6 schools, is being reviewed, according to Dr. Irwin H. Gawley, vice president for academic affairs. The unified procedure has been proposed in an effort to simplify grievance procedures, Gawley said.

The proposal incorporates elements common to the procedures of the 6 different schools. The unified procedure would be as follows: lst, the student approaches the faculty member with the grievance; 2d, the student may arrange a private conference with the chairman of the department, who will arrange a formal hearing between himself, the student, and the faculty member; 3d the chairman renders a written decision, which may be appealed, to the dean of the school. The dean will render a written decision which may be appealed to the vice president for academic affairs, who renders a written decision and enforces it.

If the proposal is approved, Quinn said. The committee consisted of Quinn, Nader Tavakoli, SGA president; Thomas Vonow, director of student activities; McKinley Boston, director of intramurals; William McAllister, director of athletics; Joseph McCarty, engineer in charge of maintenance; and students Lisa Burkhard and Brian Gage.

Johnson detained

by Chris Carroll

Avery Johnson, a junior at MSC arrested on April 24 in College Hall, has not been expelled from MSC because the college is only “dealing with allegations” in this case, Edward Martin, interim dean of student affairs, said.

Johnson, a resident of Irvington, NJ was arrested after the MSC campus police received a report that he had a controlled dangerous weapon in his possession. He was sitting in Martin’s office when the arrest was made by Little Falls, Montclair, and MSC campus police officers.

Regarding his status as a student, Martin said that no action by the college has been taken thus far. “We have not raced to take any action,” he said. The college is “just letting the legal process take its course,” he added.

Johnson is presently being held in the Passaic County jail awaiting grand jury action, Sgt. William Horaling of the MSC campus police said.

Johnson has not taken any action in the case because he does not know what the courts will decide and he is busy with other student related matters. The incident was a “relatively routine matter if you remove the allegation that there was a weapon,” he said.

Martin explained that the college doesn’t have “very many rules to violate,” but that “continued violation of such rules could jeopardize enrollment at MSC.”

“I would be willing to throw a person out of school to save his life,” Martin added.

Incidents involving students “quite infrequently occur,” Martin said. When they do occur, “most discipline is done by the students,” he said.

Martin said that part of his job as an administrator is to “fine tune the behavior of the college.”

Confusion and lack of organization are the reasons the $60,000 MSC TV monitor system hasn't been working for 2 years. In 1978 work began on the 2 existing monitors, but in April, John Diglio, technical director, stated that the system wasn't working, and by May, according to Thad Stepnoski, director of student activities, the problems should have been solved.

No one was appointed to assume responsibility for the monitors in the fall, and by May, there were only 2 new representatives at large. diglio said that the system hasn't been working for the past 2 years.

Legislative petitions in
by Janine M. Torsiello

Petitions for the position of SGA legislator were due Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Jay Stubofsky, representative at large, explained that there are 3 different types of legislators, those that represent the school, those that represent the campus, and those that represent the student body.

Stubofsky said that he was given a petition with 3 signatures from that department on the petition. He must maintain a minimum cumulative average of 2.5.

Monitors muddled
by Thad Stepnoski

No one was appointed to assume responsibility for the monitors. Stepnoski states that Mike Bobrowicz, chief engineer at WMSU, was appointed to supervise the operation of the monitors.

The administration will fund all repairs and expenses from the college's operating budget, Stepnoski said.

According to Stepnoski, the SGA, student activities, and the administration couldn't decide who was responsible for funding repairs, doing repairs, and supervising operation of the system. As a result, MSC TV's weekly videotaped shows were never broadcast over the monitors, even though it was mechanical possible. Also the system's faulty microprocessor could not be repaired until the organization financially responsible for the repair was decided upon.

Thomson said that he hasn't heard from 3M.

"All problems have now been resolved, and the monitors will be working next semester if the microprocessor is repaired in time," Stepnoski said.

Debbie Thomson, executive producer at Telrad (8 hours of student TV programming produced by the broadcasting department), said that she knew that it was possible throughout the semester to run videotapes on the monitors.

No one was appointed to assume responsibility for the monitors.

Stupofsky said that a supervisor from student activities has to be responsible for supervising the operation of the monitors.

"But we could never get hold of a supervisor if we wanted to broadcast," Thomson said. Thomson added that she is frustrated, "I kept asking who was responsible for supervising the monitors, but no one ever knew. We were able to broadcast only once on the monitors in March," she said.

Stupofsky said that it is unfortunate that MSC TV wasn't able to broadcast because a supervisor wasn't available. He added that he hopes Bobrowicz's appointment solved that problem.

Diglio said that he couldn't help Thomson, "I can not broadcast because a supervisor wasn't responsible for operating the monitors and I didn't have a key for the control room," Diglio stated.

Thomson said that she got special permission to air Telrad 14, but the weekly shows were too much of a hassle to broadcast because she could never find a supervisor. "Now that Bobrowicz is supervising the monitors, I hope that MSC TV's shows will be aired next semester," Thomson said.

SGA President Nader Tavakoli doesn't believe that censorship will be a problem in the future. "Bobrowicz will supervise the operation, but the SGA will have priority over what is broadcast on the monitors," Tavakoli said.

He added that a compromise was reached between the SGA and the administration. "SGA information will have first priority on the monitors, and the administration has the right to censor any nonsensical pornographic or damaging to MSC's image," he said.

Stupofsky said that the weekly shows broadcast over the monitors were never videotaped shows were never broadcast over the monitors.

"Maybe the monitor system will be fixed by the summer so we can experiment with programming for the fall," Stepnoski remarked.

"There is no real campaigning as there is for other SGA offices," Diglio said. He added that the special committee to view the information will probably be formed.

"Hopefully, the monitor system will be fixed by the summer so we can experiment with programming for the fall," Stepnoski remarked.

"We're keeping our fingers crossed, but we don't know," he said.

Auto accident erupts into fight

by Chris Carroll

A fight was reported outside Partridge Hall on May 2, at 11:46 pm by officer Milton Wormley. A male said he was attacked by 3 other males after an exchange of words. The victim allegedly parked his car on the sidewalk West of the building, then drove his car backwards, jumped a curb, and flattened a tire. Three males who were walking on the sidewalk yelled at him to watch out for the people in the area and a verbal dispute began. The victim allegedly opened the trunk of his car, took out a jack, and swung it at 1 of the males and a fight began. The parties were separated by campus police officers. The victim stated that he would seek medical attention for injuries he allegedly received. Officer John Johnston filed the report.

Criminal mischief was reported by Sgt. Charles Giblin on May 3 at 11:30 pm. A Cushman electric scooter was reportedly being driven around the campus grounds. The vehicle was eventually located on the walkway between Parking Lots 12 and 14. While the scooter was unattended, several persons pushed it over a cliff in the lower parking areas, where it fell about 30 feet. A resident assistant (RA) from Bohn Hall reported the accident and it was reported. The vehicle was recovered and it sustained damage to the front end and the undercarriage.

Four males in Freeman Hall 2 were reported last week. A female in Freeman Hall reported that a male entered her room and removed $16 from her desk drawer. The victim was asleep in an adjoining room when she heard noises next to her room. Voice communication was made with the male, but no visual contact was made. The building was searched by campus police officers, but the suspect was not found. Another female in Freeman Hall reported that a male entered her room when she was in the bathroom and removed $20 from her purse. The female allegedly caught a glimpse of the suspect and the physical description of the suspect was made by the campus police.

In Bohn Hall, a female resident had her wallet stolen after she allegedly left her room unattended. The student reported that her driver’s license, her social security card, and her check cashing card were missing. Everything else in the room seemed intact, the report stated.

Another wallet was stolen from a student’s room in Bohn Hall when the resident was across the hall from her room. The resident stated that her driver’s license, her social security card, and her check cashing card were missing. There was no report of cash or checks missing.

A student was transported to Mountainside Hospital on April 30 at 5:30 pm after the student sustained a minor head injury during a sports activity. The student was taken to the emergency and transported to the hospital by campus police. Supt. William Hotaling filed the report.

A female student, who cut her hand and was also transported to Mountainside Hospital on April 30 at 11:04 am, stated she was working with a saw in her jewelry class when she cut herself. Officer Albert Sager filed the report.

Operations budgeted

The SGA legislature passed a $103,550 SGA operations budget at yesterday’s meeting.

This budget for the 80-81 fiscal year reflects a $4,500 raise in the pharmacy program, a $2,600 raise in the legal aid plan, $350 in the bilingual lawyer program; a $1,500 increase in the banquet line, and a $1,000 hike in the leadership conference line.

Also passed was a $1,840 appropriation for a summer director who will run and maintain the corporate structure over the summer months. Brian Cige, SGA president-elect, was appointed to the position which he will hold from June 1 to August 31.

There was an amendment to the statutes where the summer director will make $3.50 an hour instead of $3.00 for the 40 hour work week.

The General Corporate Board summer expenses were passed for an appropriation for up to $2,117. This includes up to 6 paid credits each for the corporate board to take during the summer session as well as room and board.

Student Intramural and Leisure Council (SILC) had its $17,300 budget passed. This is an increase of $997 over last year and will be used to purchase a typewriter.

Players budget for $19,950, a decrease of $2100 of last year’s budget, was passed. The major reason that the organizational budget is in such good shape is due to “a very good year” as far as box office sales go. Ron Naples, president of Players, noted there may be a problem due to the resignation of the Forensic Committee’s coach. The new coach may have to be paid for his services whereelse other coach’s services were voluntary. This clause was not taken into consideration in the budget.

Music and Arts Organization Commission (MAOC) was granted a Class 2 charter. The Paralegal Association was also granted a Class 2 charter. This new organization will provide information to the paralegal students who are members of that minor. They will also sponsor a Spanish community program.

Phi Chi Theta, a fraternity to promote women in business was granted a Class 4 charter. The Italian Student Organization (ISO) was granted a Class 2 charter.

Delta Kappa Psi, a fraternity for male business and economics majors, was granted a Class 3 charter.

Q: Does MSC have any placement services for students?
A: There are 2 placement services on campus. The 1st is the Educational Placement Service, located in Chapin Hall, for students in the education field. The 2nd is Career Services, for all other students. The career services, located in Life Hall, is the largest of the 2 and helps find fulltime, parttime and summer employment for MSC students.

Q: Why do students have to pay a late registration fee?
A: This fee is in order to discourage students from late registration and un warranted changes in their schedules.

Q: How many fulltime students attend MSC, and how does MSC compare in size with other 4 year state colleges?
A: According to Marshall Butler, registrar, MSC with 7,800 fulltime undergraduate students is the largest of the 4 year state colleges.

Q: How soon after the semester ends may students expect to receive their grades?
A: According to the registrar’s office, grades will be out by June 16.

Q: What arrangements have been made in the event of rain for commencement?
A: Commencement will be held inside various locations close to school.

The walls have ears

They do it in Russia.
They did it in Germany.
What they did was cause the people. Admittedly it was on a much larger scale than it is on this campus, but the same type of murmurings can be heard.

The TV monitor battle has been decided and the students, who paid for the majority of this prestige project, came out badly beaten.

Although college as it means no means a fantasy land, it should not function as Big Brother. College students do not need another set of parents. Unless we are allowed to think through issues such as programming for ourselves, make our own judgments and enforce them ourselves, we will only become carbon copies of those who have gone before us.

It is immensely frustrating to be told we are adults and yet be deprived of 1 of the few opportunities we have to exercise the responsibility we will be expected to exhibit in a few years.

Allowing decisions concerning our surroundings to be made for us is a policy which will only breed stagnation. In college, our most complicated decisions are whether to cut class, or to park illegally. Why not give us a chance—let us try to utilize the years of education and advice that have been heaped upon us.

The issue of “MSC’s image” is getting a little blown out of proportion. MSC’s image should be dependent on the students who pass through this institution. Why must the higher-ups assume that students have no innate taste? This attitude is condescending and for the most part untrue.

The decision to have the programming for the TV monitors censored by people other than the students shows a lack of confidence in us. Having TV monitors would be a small concession, considering that it will only air on this campus and not the national networks.

A little trust goes a long way and the lack of it is never quite forgotten.

A lesson in diplomacy

We would like to add our voice to those who admire and applaud the fast and efficient manner in which Great Britain, with the help of their very talented commandoes, made quick work of the terrorists’ action in their country. We can only hope that Jimmy and his advisors will take note. The rest of the world already has.

MSC: getting better every year

by Dr. David W. D. Dickson

Our economy may be in the doldrums and our foreign affairs in a depressed condition, but MSC is alive and well.

Improvements in the physical plant are evident all about us. The artificial turf on Sprague Field is beautiful and even more serviceable than anticipated. On the northern rim of the campus, the earth has already been turned for an addition to the Student Center; this and the adjacent Lawton Blanton Dormitory will together provide another quadrangle. Work is also beginning on the "greening" of the Quarry. Playing fields, a small building for lockers and showers, more and safer parking lots and new landscaping are under construction. Before the end of the summer a renovated Life Hall will provide at last good facilities for television instruction and a new art gallery. Already resplendent in its spring beauty, our campus will be even more beautiful and considerably more useful by the fall of 1981.

More important yet are new developments in our curriculum. New concentrations are now, or soon will be available in applied sociology, community and industrial psychology and bilingual legal aide programs. Before summer we expect the Board of Higher Education to approve new graduate programs: a Master of Business Administration (MBA) and a Master of Education (ME).

Currently, some faculty members are hard at work shaping a new general education program to assure that all our students are profoundly and broadly educated and not merely well trained in marketable skills. Within the next year, the board's requirement that all students be tested to assess their competence in basic intellectual skills will assure that our graduates will be proficient in computation, the English language, and clear thinking.

From external funds the curriculum and teaching department has developed 2 programs, to provide services to secondary teachers in Newark, NJ. By September 1980, a new associate vice president for academic affairs and possibly 4 new deans will be at work to spur curriculum reform and lively intellectual exchange among our faculty and students, heralding a new decade of intellectual vitality for this college.

This has also been a notable year for extracurricular activities. Our football, lacrosse, and women's soccer teams have had superlative seasons while debating and public speaking teams have been successful in numerous tournaments. Musical, dramatic, and journalistic groups are better than ever.

Certainly there is much important work still to be accomplished. We are far from our ideal of achieving intergroup understanding and trust. Yet, on the whole, this has been a good year. Accordingly, on May 28, 1980 some 10,000 people gathered to honor our 1980 graduates who have abundant reason to "Hail Montclair."

Police upset by administration's definition

To the editor:

Incredible. That's the only word I can find to use in response to the logic of administrators who will not arm police officers until there is an overriding danger to the campus police and the campus community. An assault is an assault where does this expertise come from that administrators, untrained and inexperienced in police functions, can justify such statements? What is "overriding danger" as compared to run-of-the-mill danger? And what does it take to "convince" the college that campus police should be armed? The killing of a police officer? That line of thinking fits in well with the "greening" of the Quarry. Playing fields, a small building for lockers and showers, more and safer parking lots and new landscaping are available to support the allegations of the students.

As to the new demand, that an impartial 3d party review the grade in "Organic Chemistry 2," the college will absolutely not allow it. If the students wish to gripe the grade they receive in the course, that is their prerogative, but prior review is a serious breach of academic freedom.

Finally, any request for review of the organic chemistry grade issued must be processed through the official student academic grievance procedure of the School of Mathematics and Science. No other route of appeal will be recognized by the College. Had this procedure been followed originally, the problem probably could have been resolved with a minimum of adverse publicity.

"Holy cow Steve, we're leaking oil. Steve, who is better known as 'Hawk,' opened the hood of his 1967 Chevy while I slid under the car with a flash light. Luckily, it wasn't oil we were leaking, but water. From where I was positioned, the fan looked like it was doing a dance and on top of that the bearing had broken loose."

"At 1 am heading South for Hollywood, FL on the NJ Tpke., the trucks were whaling on top of suitcases, cigarettes, and food."

"When we finally arrived in Hollywood, all scuzz.v and dirty, the 1st thing we did was to steal the water pump right from under the car. It was our only alternative besides sleeping through the night in the car and waiting until the stores opened by Sat., May 10, 1980 in writing. Include name, major, degree, and Social Security number."

"The ride down gets a bit monotonous, so before we left we prepared ourselves," the organized junior said. "I have a book called, What a Laugh, that we read on the way down. It contains all the stupid as well as funny things that've happened to me and my buddies since high school; like when we'd get picked up by the cops, or when some kid would squirt crazy glue into car door locks."

"Being objective Kalajian added, "Yes, I must say that I did a lot of crazy things in my day."

"When we finally arrived in Hollywood, all scoozy and dirty, the 1st thing we did was sit down and have a couple of beers with our friends. They were on the way to the beach so we decided what the heck. We jumped back into the car and went to the beach."

This has not been a good season for the Major Theatre Series. This is due in part to the selection of plays this year which, to say the least, have not been "popular." This is true of the current production, Yerma, a classical tragedy by the Spanish playwright Federico Garcia Lorca. However, this production of the work is so beautifully performed it should be seen despite the fact it is not well known.

Yerma is the story of a woman's desperate need for fulfillment. This woman, Yerma, played by Lorrie Conlan, longs for a child. The core of the conflict is the internal struggle within Yerma to account for her sterility. The play raises the question of personal responsibility in the character of an old woman, played by Ruth Leopold, from whom Yerma seeks advice.

In this production, the director, Dr. Jerome Rockwood of the MSC theater department, has chosen to emphasize this existential theme by portraying the character of Yerma as barren. The blocking, costumes, and set all reflect this idea of Yerma as outside of life in contrast to the rest of the villagers, who are filled with the vibrance of life.

The entire cast of this production of Yerma has done an excellent job of bringing this directorial conception to fruition on the stage. For example, Conlan, as Yerma, is the essence of coldness and sterility. She is new to the MSC stage and in her debut performance must be commended for doing a masterful job. She does the best any actress can do given this interpretation of the play.

By the same token, Stephen Clark, as her husband Juan is filled with the insensitivity and indifference necessary to justify Yerma's growing hatred of him and her final act of brutal violence toward him at the end of the play.

In contrast to the darkly drawn characters of Yerma and Juan, the portrayals of the villagers are light and airy and provide the humor in the play. Most notable among these are Michele Tauber as the gossipy laundress, and Sharon Cullen as Tauber's sidekick. The laundress scene, in fact, is well orchestrated and adds much needed comic relief to the play.

However, the most exceptional bit of acting in the play is the work of Steven Greenberg, as Victor. Juan's best friend and the object of Yerma's repressed desire. In this role, Greenberg has successfully mixed sensuality with love, loyalty, and innocence. His performance typifies the highest values of Greek art: simple yet beautiful. This cannot be said of the set, though. John Figola's set is a hodgepodge of varying levels of cards. In and of themselves these platforms, with the exception of the color, green and yellow, are visually appealing. However, they are not functional. The actors are miraculously able to move on the set despite its dangerous potential.

Figola is a master of lighting, and his considerable talent in this area is apparent in Yerma. His lighting design enhances the mood in addition to just providing focus for the actors. The opening lighting cue, for instance, is breathtaking.

The single most enjoyable aspect of this production is the lifting Spanish guitar music played intermittently throughout the show. It was composed and performed by Howard Greenblatt of the MSC music department. It beautifully enhances the mood created by Figola's lighting and Rockwood's stage pictures.

The costumes, as always, are beautiful. Joe Bella demonstrates a clear insight for the characters and the clothes of the pre-Spanish Civil War period. Rockwood's directorial interpretation of Yerma as an individual shirking responsibility for her predicament is no more defensible than viewing her as a tragic heroine victimized by fate. However, to take the latter classical view of tragedy would have engendered a lot more sympathy for Yerma. Also, it would have strengthened audience identification with her, added a humanistic element, and made Yerma a lot more playable. Rockwood's Yerma is a frigid mannequin, nothing more.

The play is currently in production at Memorial Auditorium through Sat., May 10, 1980, at 8:30 pm, with a matinee Friday at 2:15 pm.
Philiarmonic improving a bit

by Stephen Kantrowitz

The New Philharmonic of Northwest NJ ended their 1979-80 season with a concert featuring 3 Northern NJ choruses on April 27, 1980, at Parsippany High School. This was far superior to the previous concert that I attended in February. It was obvious that the pieces were rehearsed and prepared with much more care than those of the February performance.

The concert began with Serenade to Music, by Ralph Vaughan Williams (1872-1958). Vaughan Williams was the foremost English composer in the 1st half of the 20th century. He came under the influence of the folksong revival and absorbed its spirit into his system.

Serenade to Music was written in 1938 for 16 solo singers and orchestra. Featured was the Summit Chorale, under the direction of Gary Nair. The soloists were far from outstanding, but the choir seemed to be straining in some spots, and the soprano's voice cracked quite often. Both the alto and bass were on the other hand, more than satisfactory. Cleverer, more precise diction on the part of the chorus was highly desired.

The orchestra played with a smooth and pleasant sound, although they were too loud in some spots. The opening violin solos were tenderly played by the orchestra's concertmaster, Oscar Rosander, a former professor of violin at MSC. The piece was deftly conducted by Leon Hyman, the musical director, and a music faculty member at MSC. Hyman successfully captured the beautiful melodic, almost sensual spirit of the piece.

The 2d piece was Chichester Psalms by Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky (1840-1893). This symphony was written in 1888 and is an assimilation of folk material so complete that it is barely suspected to be of non-French origins. It's a dramatic work and contains great contrasts between dark and light.

The performance was lacking in several aspects. First of all, there were some technical problems. In the first movement, the woodwinds sounded a bit flat and somewhat nasal. The strings were too soft in some sections, while overpowering in others. In the 2d movement, the cellos were somewhat flat, and there were some syncopations in the horn section.

Secondly, and far more important, something was obviously lacking. Hyman's interpretation of the piece, in all but the last movement which was solid and exciting, was rather dull. Tchaikovsky can sound rather monotonous if not played with the right amount of emotion. Such was the case.

The 1980-81 season of the New Philharmonic promises to be both varied and interesting. I hope the orchestra is able to recognize its weaknesses and improve to a degree that will make their concerts more inspiring. I wish them a lot of luck.
Serial' soggy even without milk
by Regina Macioci

Serial is a movie that attempts to poke fun at adults who feel that the best way to bridge the generation gap is to act as high school adolescents. But its attempts are feeble. The basic fault of the movie is that the story was written too much on the surface. Although the subject is very interesting, thought, instead it was more a badly written comedy that was too ridiculous to be funny. The story opens in San Francisco, CA where the main couples in the story live. Harvey and Kate have a daughter, who is encouraged to "do her own thing" by her mother. One way of expressing her individuality is by calling her parents by their 1st names. Because Harvey still holds on to his old fashioned ways, Joan, his daughter, runs away and joins the Church of Oriental Christian Harmony. The objective of this cult--that has its entire house decorated in purple--is to spend every waking hour telling people that they love them.

Martha and Bill and their son see a family therapist, Leonard Miller, once a week. The boy has no qualms about using 4 letter words in front of his parents. The therapist is just as bad when he gives the boy a doll named Gay Bruce. This gay doll is supposed to help the child let out his aggressions. It is obvious that there is nothing wrong with the child, but his family thinks that psychological therapy is "in.

Last, but not least, the executive of a very prestigious company in San Francisco parades as a member of a homosexual motorcycle gang on weekends.

Throughout the movie the women spend their days holding consciousness-raising meetings where they say anything that is on their minds--even if it hurts someone else. In 1 particular scene, the women are discussing their sex lives openly as the cleaning women look on, astonished. Thinking that this Black maid would be totally ignorant concerning female sexuality, they asked her how her sex life was. Totally confused over the problem and the need for talking about it, she said, "Well, I don't know what you ladies are saying, but last night I had 7 orgasms."

In the end Harvey, Kate, and Joan are the only characters to realize that order and responsibility would help them to feel that their lives had some meaning; not that sex 5 times a day with multiple orgasms is the prescription for a perfect marriage.

The characters are shallow and very, very flat. There is nothing more known about these people than that they live every day to keep up with the changing times.

Also, the foul language is disgusting. Although there are no real sex scenes to speak of, the bad language makes up for them.

The creators of Serial made 2 correct moves, though. The 1st is to have the film set in San Francisco, which is well known for being the home of people who do not follow the mainstream of society. The background scenery is beautiful. The frequent scenes using the Golden Gate Bridge and the ferry added much color to the movie.

The other asset is the music. The movie's musical score contains appropriate lyrics such as, "It's a changing world, but it's still fun."

Sure, it's a changing world, but if Serial had come out about 5 years back, it would probably have been a smash hit. It's too early to tell what will happen now, but I'm not sure that it will make the same impact on society as it might have back then.

MSC sticks it to SSC

by Terry Mullane

On Tuesday, the MSC women's lacrosse team chalked up its 3d win of the season by defeating Stockton State College (SSC). The 1st year Squaws consistently attacked the weaker Ospreys throughout the game, scoring 23 goals to SSC's 4.

Up until now, the Squaws have been a club sport, funding many of their own expenses. This is their 1st year of varsity competition. Many of their opponents have an established lacrosse program. For example, Trenton State College (TSC) (which MSC lost to 11-9 earlier in the season), has competed on the varsity level for over 30 years.

Fifteen seconds into the game, MSC started their scoring assault of the stick of Diane Massing. Senior cocaptain Patti LoPresto and attack player Roz Goldschmidt added 2 1st half goals a piece, as the Squaws produced their highest output of the season. When the halftime buzzer sounded, MSC headed to the locker room leading 15-1.

In the 2d half, cocaptain Pep Wood and defender Sue Rird led a tenacious Squaw defense, limiting SSC to just 3 goals. The MSC offense continued to sparkle on goals by Marramee Cappuccio, Wood, and Bird. When the game ended, the scoreboard read 23-4 in the Squaws' favor.

MSC was led by the team's leading scorers Goldschmidt and Massina, with 6 and 5 goals, respectively. Wood and LoPresto added 2 goals apiece. Nilza Ramirez displayed fine goal tending with the assist of defense woman Mary Carrigan.

Today, MSC will host Centenary College on Sprague Field at 4 pm. This will be the Squaws final game of the season. Come watch Coach Jan Beiber's Squaws "stick it to 'cm."
Squaws ‘have guts’

by Meryl Yoush

The women’s softball team has guts. They battled their way back from losing the 1st game of the division 2 Eastern Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (EAWA) playoffs and won 4 straight—including 3 in a row on Saturday.

MSC eliminated West Chester State College (WCC; 7-1 on Friday after losing to LaSalle College (LaSalle), 1-0. On Saturday morning, they breezed past Central Connecticut State College (CCSC; 9-0). Then came the grudge match—the Squaws faced a cocky LaSalle at 1 pm in a game they had to win to stay alive. They knew they were better than 8th seeded LaSalle—‘bush league’ was the most popular phrase the Squaws were using to describe them.

MSC roared out of the starting gate with 3 runs in the bottom of the 2d. Rightfielder Kim Volanowski hit a 1 out grounder that went right through the 3d baseman’s legs. Patty Van Caulenberge followed with a bunt that was thrown past the 1st baseman, allowing Volanowski to reach 3d. A passed ball put Van Caulenberge on 2d, and hot hitting Terry Kulik (7 for 16 in the series) smashed a grounder to left that the leftfielder dropped, to drive in a run.

LaSalle’s pitcher, Laura Frieze, who had treated fans to an exhibition of disco dancing before the game, treated MSC to an exhibition of bad pitching by giving Robin Krause a number of walks.

Judy Popadacne bases loaded walks. Frieze got the hook, and in came Vice Smith, the pitcher who had beaten the Squaws on Friday. Smith got Bonnie O’Connor to bounce to short for the force at home, and Nancy Oseley flew to right to end the inning.

LaSalle came back in the top of the 3d with 2 runs on 4 walks and an infielid hit off pitcher Val Julian. They tied it up on a protested play at the 5th. With 1 out and women on 1st and 3d, LaSalle’s batter, Hunted, O’Connor checked the runner at 3d, and threw to 1st for the out. The batter knocked down Popadacne (covering at 1st), and a run scored before she could get up and throw the ball. MSC claimed interference but the 1st base umpire overruled and said that the runner was not out of the baseline.

The score remained tied until the bottom of the 7th. Popadacne led off with a chop to 3d which went past the 3d baseman into left field. Frieze, no longer dancing, threw the ball over the fence behind 1st, and Popadacne went to 2d. A wild pitch to O’Connor sent her to 3d with no outs, and sent the already frenzied fans and team into hysterics. O’Connor responded with a long smash to deep right center, scoring Popadacne with the winning run, 4-3.

MSC blew them away, 11-3, in the final game of the series an hour later. The Squaws collected 11 runs on 11 hits, 3 walks, and 3 LaSalle errors in a game highlighted by the 6 run 5th inning. Julian pitched her 3d victory in 2 days—the win over WCCSC on Friday and back to back victories over LaSalle—to improve her record to 9-2.

The Squaws will meet old rivals Seton Hall University (SHU), who upset 2d seeded LaSalle at SHU, in a 2 out 3 game series advances to the finals in Sacramento.

IM Highlights

by Mike Ritz

There were no games played last week in the men’s and coed softball leagues due to rain and bad field conditions. Play resumed this week with men’s quarter final games and coed semifinal games.

The mixed 2-on-2 basketball tournament was held last Monday. The tournament consisted of 8 male and female teams. Bob Chazowski and Terry Romaniuk defeated Randy Meissner and Mary Johnston to capture the tournament crown.

Coming events: The men’s 1-on-1 basketball tournament will be held on Mon., May 12 and Tue., May 13 in Panzer Gym at 7:30. Applications are now available in the SHU Office, 4th floor, Student Center.
Indians gain playoff berth

by Paul Huegel

The baseball team earned a berth in post-season play as they upset both Upsala College (Upsala) and William Paterson College (WPC) over the weekend.

It appears that the Tribe has finally peaked and is beginning to live up to their preseason boasts. Their recent success can only be analyzed as a total team effort. The pitching has been practically untouchable, and the bats have been reloaded with additional rounds of extra base hits.

MSC's record presently stands at 16-12.

Fri., May 2, 1980

MSC's ace, Glenn "Preacher" Roe, chalked up his 4th victory of the season as the Indians nipped WPC, 6-4, at Pittser Field.

The Tribe broke a 2-2 deadlock in the 4th inning to put the game on ice. Co-captain John Guarino singled home 2 of the 4 runs scored in the inning.

Second baseman Bill Slawinski notched his 2nd home run of the year.

Sat., May 3, 1980

In Wayne, the next day, WPC got their revenge as the Pioneers routed the Tribe, 15-7. WPC pulled ahead 11-2 with 6 runs in the 4th. MSC battled back, but to no avail.

Joe Ross hit his 2nd home run in as many days. This 1, his 9th as a Pioneer, set a new WPC record.

Sun., May 4, 1980

While the hurricane winds were upsetting the tents across the campus at Carnival, the Indians were doing a little of their own upsetting.

Upsala brought their number 2 national ranking (for division 3 colleges) to Pittser Field. They left with their 2nd defeat of the year, 9-6.

A pair of Bob's proved to be too much for the cocky Vikings. Bob Fortunato continued to yield the big bat for the Tribe. His 3 hits on the day, drove 4 runs across the plate.

In the bottom of the 4th, he singled in a run that contributed to MSC's securing an early 8-3 lead.

His triple in the 2nd produced 2 more runs and, in the 7th, he single scored a 4th run.

Bob Henriques fanned 5 en route to evening his record at 2-2.

Upsala's Jon Vatcher suffered his 1st defeat in 10 decisions.

Man., May 5, 1980

Still on cloud 9 from the day before's shocker, the Indians sent fireballing freshman, Jay Aldrich, against Jersey City State College's (JCSC) "Green Machine."

For the 2nd time out, the man from "K" allowed only 4 hits as MSC remained on the warpath, 13-1. Last Wednesday, Aldrich used 11 strikeouts and rendered only 4 hits, as he blanked Rutgers University/Newark, 7-0.

The Tribe scored 6 runs in the 6th and blasted 16 hits at the hapless Gothics.

Catcher Vin Tiberi slammed an opposite field home run in the 5th as MSC took batting practice, both before and during the game.

Tue., May 6, 1980

In their final regular season game of the year, the Indians dropped an 8-4 decision to Seton Hall University (SHU) at Pittser Field. It was the Pirates' 20th victory of the season and their 8th consecutive 20 win year.

SHU went ahead to stay (8-3) in the 5th, when they scored 4 runs.

Ed Reilly was the mound star, going the distance while striking out 8 and walking none. Mike Sheppard led the offense, going 3 for 5 with 2 RBIs.

MSC's Tony Sabato hit a solo shot over the left field fence en route to a 3 for 4 day at the plate.

SMOKE SIGNALS: Playoff action begins this afternoon when the Tribe hosts Glassboro State College (GSC) at 3 pm on Pittser Field. During the season, MSC dropped a close 5-4 decision to GSC.
