10-2-1980

The Montclarion, October 02, 1980
'A major political victory'

Strike shuts down MSC

by Paul Huegel

"My immediate reaction to the strike is that our student unity can overcome apathy and more specifically it can get us the attention and respect of our legislators in Trenton," Brian Cage, SGA president, said in reference to the recent student strike.

The student boycott of classes was 90 to 95 percent effective on both Friday and Monday at MSC. Varying degrees of impact were felt at the other state college strikes.

The idea to boycott classes, in protest of an assembly bill which would take money from the tuition hike and allocate it to the deficit-ridden Tuition Aid Grant Program (TAG), originated at MSC.

The MSC picket lines were up each morning of the boycott at 7:30 am, and were manned largely by SGA legislators and dorm students. There were more volunteers Monday and Friday," Meryl Yourish, chairwoman of the SGA committee to investigate the Assembly bill said.

Of the students that did come up to campus on strike day, she claims "One out of three cars were turned away from the Clove Rd. entrance, and about one out of ten were turned away from the Normal Ave. entrance."

The picketing was nonviolent, although there were reports that one male student was given a ticket for reckless driving.

Strike win spurs talks

by Mary Ann DeFiore

Approximately 400 students protested outside the NJ state assembly session on Monday in opposition to legislation that would reallocate up to $4.5 million from a recent tuition hike to the Tuition Aid Grant (TAG) program.

In what The Star Ledger called "a major political victory" for state college students, state speaker Christopher Jackman (D-Hudson), removed assembly bill A.1972 from consideration and suggested that a forum be established between two representatives from each state college and the Assembly Education Committee.

"This way, both sides can answer each other's questions," he said, adding that Assemblyman Albert Burstein (D-Bergen), a sponsor of the bill, would be present for this discussion.

Students at six of the eight NJ state colleges and NJ Institute of Technology (NJIT) held protests this week in opposition to the transfer of funds. Approximately $9 million was raised through a $2 per credit tuition increase at the rate colleges, Rutgers University, and NJIT. Most of these funds were supposed to be channeled back into state institutions to pay for increased instructional costs, maintenance, and library expansion. The bill would direct these funds to the TAG program which awards financial aid to all sectors of higher education, including NJ students attending private, county, and out-of-state colleges.

As student government representatives attempted to gain the support of various Iraq’s defensive derail

(IRAQ)—Iraq’s president Bani-Sadr said Iraq recaptured the border town of Mehran from the Iraq army yesterday. Mehran is in the central sector of the Iran-Iraq border, about 200 miles Northwest of the oil port of Khorramshahr. Iran also claims its forces have pushed Iraq invaders out of a key city in oil rich Khuzestan province.

Meanwhile, Iran has declared its intentions of keeping the strait of Hormuz open to shipping. But shipping sources in the Indian Ocean Sultanate of Oman are reporting a 30 percent drop in oil tanker traffic through the strait since the outbreak of fighting.

Western sources in Baghdad say both Iraq and Iran should be able to resume shipping quickly if the fighting ends. They say battles along the disputed Shatt Al-Arab waterway to the Persian Gulf have caused little damage to pipelines so far.

Meanwhile Iraq’s foreign minister said he told secretary of state Muskie that the best thing the US can do in the Iraqi-Iranian conflict is not get involved. The two men talked at the UN, and Muskie said he reaffirmed US neutrality.

Anderson on parenthood

(DENVER, CO.)—John Anderson said an Anderson administration would substantially increase federally funded birth control research and expand family planning programs for teenagers. The independent presidential candidate made his assertions in Denver yesterday in an address before the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. He claimed President Carter has failed to encourage programs that would improve family life in America.

Lakes to be tapped for water

(TRENTON, NJ)—The Governor’s Cabinet decided that recreational lakes in NJ will be tapped for drinking water if the water crisis becomes acute. Joseph Santangelo, chief spokesman for Gov. Byrne, says Lake Hopatcong would be the first to have its water transferred to reservoirs serving parched Northeastern counties.

Greenwood Lake straddling the NY border could be lowered to replenish Wanaque Reservoir supplies. But Santangelo says that prospect is less likely because the reservoir is relatively full. No date was set for any lake tapping.

Santangelo says the reservoirs are being lowered by about one half percent a day. He says reservoirs in the Northeast part of the state average 42 percent of capacity. Asked if that meant dry reservoirs in 84 days if the situation doesn’t change, Santangelo agreed.

Other contingency plans discussed at the cabinet meeting include new interconnections between water supplies.

Happy birthday Jimmy

(WASHINGTON, DC)—Yesterday was President Jimmy Carter’s birthday—He’s 56, and he began the day with a campaign foray into Michigan, home of the ailing automotive industry. Carter reasserted his promise that he would remain in the trenches with automakers and unions until the industry is restored to full health.

Rutgers prohibits bartering

Complaints by students at Rutgers University-Camden campus have provoked its dean of students to call for an investigation into bartering practices used by student organizations.

Students complained that the student congress fulfilled a Student Activities Board request for a $5,000 concert appropriation with the stipulation that each member of the congress receive two free tickets. The appropriation was reported by the Gleaner, the campus student newspaper, in its usual congressional report.

During the investigation it was found that the Gleaner had furnished free advertisements for a local pizza parlor in return for pizzas. Bartering of services by student organizations was subsequently prohibited.

News Notes compiled by Susan Solomon.

Corrections services.
WMSC may be silenced
Legislature's plan could cost WMSC its campus listeners

by Chris Carroll

A Newark based radio station, WBGO, may transmit from the same tower. WMSC uses as a part of the legislature's master plan for public broadcasting development, according to Robert Ottenhoff, general manager of WBGO.

If WBGO gets permission from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to transmit from the tower, however, WMSC might not be heard on campus because of interference from WBGO, according to Mike Bobrowicz, chief engineer of WMSC. This interference allegedly could be caused by the high transmitting power of 2,350 watts, which would overshadow WMSC's 10 watts.

"Tower sharing is common," Ottenhoff said. "It's a common thing to share a tower." Interference, however, WBGO may interfere with WMSC transmissions.

Because of its higher wattage and lower position on WMSC's transmitting tower, WBGO may interfere with WMSC transmissions.

Bohn Hall hits dry spell—cold showers on upper floors

by Dorrie T. Christman

The residents of Bohn Hall got a taste of the drought affecting Northern NJ when students living in the dorm remove water for several days. More shortages are expected in the near future.

Monique Amabile, a 16th story resident of Bohn Hall, said, "They closed the bathrooms up here for three days... The water everywhere was cold.

Raymond Stover, director of housing, said he linked the problem to the current water shortage in Northern NJ.

"They closed the bathrooms up here for three days... The water everywhere was cold.

About the cold water situation, McComb said, "The temperature control doesn't go down, just like any mechanical instrument will go out from time to time. We locate the trouble and fix it as soon as possible."

Although it is not certain that there will be another shortage in Bohn Hall, Stover said, "Should Bohn Hall lose water again, we've installed an emergency back up system in case of a fire."

According to the Sept. 28 issue of The Montclair Times, the drought in Northern NJ was caused by a number of factors. Among these are low rainfall levels, high temperatures, inadequate water-storage facilities, and poor pipeline distribution systems.

"They closed the bathrooms up here for three days... The water everywhere was cold."

About the cold water situation, McComb said, "The temperature control doesn't go down, just like any mechanical instrument will go out from time to time. We locate the trouble and fix it as soon as possible."

Although it is not certain that there will be another shortage in Bohn Hall, Stover said, "Should Bohn Hall lose water again, we've installed an emergency back up system in case of a fire."

According to the Sept. 28 issue of The Montclair Times, the drought in Northern NJ was caused by a number of factors. Among these are low rainfall levels, high temperatures, inadequate water-storage facilities, and poor pipeline distribution systems.

Although it is not certain that there will be another shortage in Bohn Hall, Stover said, "Should Bohn Hall lose water again, we've installed an emergency back up system in case of a fire.

According to the Sept. 28 issue of The Montclair Times, the drought in Northern NJ was caused by a number of factors. Among these are low rainfall levels, high temperatures, inadequate water-storage facilities, and poor pipeline distribution systems.
Students boycott classes statewide

by Mary Ann D’Ursu

Well over 20,000 students walked out of classes on seven New Jersey state college campuses on Mon., Sept. 29.

The strikes occurred in opposition to assembly bill A-1972 which would reallocate anywhere from $3 million to $4.5 million to the Tuition Aid Grant TAG.

MSC led the bandwagon with rallying and demonstrations beginning on Friday with a 95 percent effective student boycott of classes.

400 TSC students rally

Approximately 400 Trenton State College TSC students rallied on Friday, supported by their local American Federation of Teachers AFT, AFT president, Arthur Steinman, encouraged the TSC faculty to stand behind the students by not holding classes and not penalizing students who did not attend their scheduled classes. On Monday 100 TSC students marched to the state house from their campus.

The William Paterson College WPC SCA reported 70 percent cooperation from its 13,500 students in opposing the bill. The vote to strike was decided at an emergency SCA meeting Tuesday night followed by a rally at noon on Friday. On Monday students boycotted classes and carloads of picketers went to Trenton.

Ramapo boycott effective

Ramapo College reported a 90 percent effective boycott of classes on Monday following a weekend of organization by the SCA which started at an emergency meeting Friday night at 6 pm.

"You’ve a right to feel that you’ve been unfairly treated and I applaud this rally," Peter Mitchell, president of Stockton State College SSG, said. About 300 SSC students boycotted classes. About 50 percent of the students at the New Jersey Institute of Technology NJIT boycott classes on Friday. Although 70 people represented NJIT in Trenton on Monday, it was business as usual on campus.

Kean College remained quiet considering only roughly 300 of its 15,875 students rallied in protest.

MSC spearheads campaign

MSC started the campaign against the reallocation of tuition increases with their decision to strike on the night of Tue., Sept. 23. SCA representatives from MSC went to TSC and WPC on Wednesday to encourage SGC leaders there to join in the efforts, as MSC students learned of the strike at SCA Information Day. Their support was evidenced by empty classrooms and parking lots on Friday and Monday.

Glassboro State College GSC and Rutgers University remained unshaken throughout fellow strikes and protests. Students attended classes and the only newsmaking item occurred when Rutgers played Princeton University in football.

TAG bill bagged

Strike shuts down MSC

cont. from p.1

...driving, when he drove through the picket line at a dangerous speed. "People got really nasty on Monday. They kept trying to run us down," Yourish said.

Since MSC is one of the closest colleges to NYC, the strike received much media coverage, nearly all of which was affirmative, if at times inaccurate. Those who came with cameras, microphones, and pad and pencil were, CBS, NBC, NJ Nightly News, Channel 68, Channel 13, The New York Times, The Herald News, The Sun-Ledger, and The Record. The student boycott, especially at MSC, is being termed a major political victory.

"We’ve heard how the ‘70’s was the “me” Decade—maybe the ‘80’s will be the “we” decade. This strike for our rights is a hell of a way to start a decade," Yourish said.

The student strike had quite an impact on the sales in the student center, according to Harold Ostroff, manager of business services. Sales were down an estimated 50-75 percent in the cafeteria, dining room, game room and candy store because of the strike, he said.

In the college Supply Store, Joanne St. Denn, textbook manager, said "Sales were down $1,900 on Friday and $4,800 on Monday over last year's figures for the same day."

"Fortunately, we are well into the semester. Had it come earlier, we would have felt it more," she said.

Also opposed to the bill were Assembliesmen Buddy Fortunat (D-Essex), whose district includes MSC campus, and Michael F. Adubato (D-Hudson, Essex), who has supported the students since before the campus strikes occurred.
Dorm construction delayed

by Mike Davino

Construction of the new $1 million dormitory was delayed due to excavation problems and it is not known if the project will be finished by the August 1981 completion date. The 640 bed Blanton Hall will contain a cafeteria to replace the present student cafeteria in Bohn Hall, a new health center, and facilities to host summer conferences.

The new dorm has been designed to contain as many energy saving features as possible.

Delay caused by boulders

"Construction was delayed when boulders which were not detected by soil borings were encountered during excavation," Dr. Raymond M. Stover, director of housing, said. "We were posed with the dilemma of blunting, which may have damaged nearby buildings, or the use of bigger equipment, which would have been more expensive. We decided to proceed with smaller machinery, which took more time," he said.

"It's too early to make any hard and fast predictions on a completion date," Stover said. "If the weather continues to be good and there are no union or material problems, the last time may be made up."

A new cafeteria is planned for the new dorm to replace the inadequate one in Bohn Hall. Office space and storage areas are planned for the Bohn Hall Cafeteria Building. Whether or not this rotation has been clearly decided yet, Stover said. A health center will also be located in the new dorm, he added. "The current health center is located outside of the main campus. It would better serve the college when it is located in a main area of the campus," Stover said.

"We will be able to attract more summer conferences if we have a self-contained facility on campus," Stover said. These summer conferences help to pay for the cost of student housing down, he explained.

"The dorm will have a roofed courtyard in the center of it," Stover said, pointing to a model located in his Bohn Hall office. "About half the rooms will be located inside, thereby diminishing outside wall space and heat loss. The skylights are angled so that in the winter, when the sun is low in the sky, the building will pick up heat—called a solar gain. In the summer the solar gain is discouraged because the sun is higher in the sky," he said.

All the comforts of home

The dorm will be fully carpeted and air conditioned and have four floors of student rooms, Stover said. "Each room will be its own house and contain about 40 students and have its own director. Each floor will be further divided into four neighborhoods for a total of 16 neighborhoods," Stover said.

The dorm is designed in a suite arrangement with double rooms separated by a bathroom which they share, he continued. "This dorm will have more single rooms than any other on campus," Stover said. "There will be 32. Sixteen will be for resident assistants and the others will be for grabs," Stover concluded.

SGA news

Funds allotted

by Meryl Yourish

Appropriations dominated the business of the day, and SGA President Brian Cigem discussed the process of the student strike.

The Riding Club was appropriate $1,025 to hold a horse show on Oct. 26. Alpha Kappa Psi was given $152 from the Montclair Transportation Authority fund to hire a bus for their trip to the NY Stock Exchange next week. The trip is open to all students. The Accounting Club was appropriated $125, while $650 was taken from Unappropriated Surplus to cover the costs of the strike. This went to pay for food, transportation costs, and three walkie-talkies.

The most controversial appropriation failed. The Geoscience Club asked for $325 to sponsor a trip to construction of Blanton Hall is behind schedule due to excavation problems and its completion may be delayed.

Consumer Corner

Check that warranty

by Lori McDonough

Picture this: The photo finish is now official; you’ve just hit the daily double. Suddenly your mind is bogged down with ideas of how to spend your $300 winnings. You decide to bank most of it, but you’re going to splurge just a bit, and buy yourself that watch you’ve wanted for so long. You purchased what you believe to be a good brand; however, after several months the watch begins to break down. Soon it doesn’t work at all. You search frantically for that piece of paper that can help you get a refund—what is it called—a warranty; and then you remember that you threw it out.

Does this situation sound familiar? Maybe you weren’t lucky enough to win the daily double, but more than likely you’re one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them. If so, then wake up. The state legislature is considering a new law to protect your rights. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice.

The Dorm will be fully carpeted and air conditioned and have four floors of student rooms, Stover said. "Each room will be its own house and contain about 40 students and have its own director. Each floor will be further divided into four neighborhoods for a total of 16 neighborhoods," Stover said.

The dorm is designed in a suite arrangement with double rooms separated by a bathroom which they share, he continued. "This dorm will have more single rooms than any other on campus," Stover said. "There will be 32. Sixteen will be for resident assistants and the others will be for grabs," Stover concluded.

The most controversial appropriation failed. The Geoscience Club asked for $325 to sponsor a trip to construction of Blanton Hall is behind schedule due to excavation problems and its completion may be delayed.

Consumer Corner

Check that warranty

by Lori McDonough

Picture this: The photo finish is now official; you’ve just hit the daily double. Suddenly your mind is bogged down with ideas of how to spend your $300 winnings. You decide to bank most of it, but you’re going to splurge just a bit, and buy yourself that watch you’ve wanted for so long. You purchased what you believe to be a good brand; however, after several months the watch begins to break down. Soon it doesn’t work at all. You search frantically for that piece of paper that can help you get a refund—what is it called—a warranty; and then you remember that you threw it out.

Does this situation sound familiar? Maybe you weren’t lucky enough to win the daily double, but more than likely you’re one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them. If so, then wake up. The state legislature is considering a new law to protect your rights. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice.

The Dorm will be fully carpeted and air conditioned and have four floors of student rooms, Stover said. "Each room will be its own house and contain about 40 students and have its own director. Each floor will be further divided into four neighborhoods for a total of 16 neighborhoods," Stover said.

The dorm is designed in a suite arrangement with double rooms separated by a bathroom which they share, he continued. "This dorm will have more single rooms than any other on campus," Stover said. "There will be 32. Sixteen will be for resident assistants and the others will be for grabs," Stover concluded.

The most controversial appropriation failed. The Geoscience Club asked for $325 to sponsor a trip to construction of Blanton Hall is behind schedule due to excavation problems and its completion may be delayed.

Consumer Corner

Check that warranty

by Lori McDonough

Picture this: The photo finish is now official; you’ve just hit the daily double. Suddenly your mind is bogged down with ideas of how to spend your $300 winnings. You decide to bank most of it, but you’re going to splurge just a bit, and buy yourself that watch you’ve wanted for so long. You purchased what you believe to be a good brand; however, after several months the watch begins to break down. Soon it doesn’t work at all. You search frantically for that piece of paper that can help you get a refund—what is it called—a warranty; and then you remember that you threw it out.

Does this situation sound familiar? Maybe you weren’t lucky enough to win the daily double, but more than likely you’re one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them. If so, then wake up. The state legislature is considering a new law to protect your rights. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice.

The Dorm will be fully carpeted and air conditioned and have four floors of student rooms, Stover said. "Each room will be its own house and contain about 40 students and have its own director. Each floor will be further divided into four neighborhoods for a total of 16 neighborhoods," Stover said.

The dorm is designed in a suite arrangement with double rooms separated by a bathroom which they share, he continued. "This dorm will have more single rooms than any other on campus," Stover said. "There will be 32. Sixteen will be for resident assistants and the others will be for grabs," Stover concluded.

The most controversial appropriation failed. The Geoscience Club asked for $325 to sponsor a trip to construction of Blanton Hall is behind schedule due to excavation problems and its completion may be delayed.

Consumer Corner

Check that warranty

by Lori McDonough

Picture this: The photo finish is now official; you’ve just hit the daily double. Suddenly your mind is bogged down with ideas of how to spend your $300 winnings. You decide to bank most of it, but you’re going to splurge just a bit, and buy yourself that watch you’ve wanted for so long. You purchased what you believe to be a good brand; however, after several months the watch begins to break down. Soon it doesn’t work at all. You search frantically for that piece of paper that can help you get a refund—what is it called—a warranty; and then you remember that you threw it out.

Does this situation sound familiar? Maybe you weren’t lucky enough to win the daily double, but more than likely you’re one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them. If so, then wake up. The state legislature is considering a new law to protect your rights. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice. If you’ve been one of those indifferent consumers who doesn’t even look at warranties, never mind understand them, you’ve been doing yourself a disservice.

The Dorm will be fully carpeted and air conditioned and have four floors of student rooms, Stover said. "Each room will be its own house and contain about 40 students and have its own director. Each floor will be further divided into four neighborhoods for a total of 16 neighborhoods," Stover said.

The dorm is designed in a suite arrangement with double rooms separated by a bathroom which they share, he continued. "This dorm will have more single rooms than any other on campus," Stover said. "There will be 32. Sixteen will be for resident assistants and the others will be for grabs," Stover concluded.
Campus Police Report

Man arrested for pot possession

by Chris Carroll

An 18-year-old nonstudent was arrested on Sept. 27 for possession of over 25 grams of marijuana. The arrest was made at 8:24 pm by sgt. Charles Giblin in Lot 14.

While on patrol, Giblin and officer Debra Newcombe observed three vehicles in Lot 14 and recognized one vehicle, a white van, as being chased from the campus on numerous occasions. Giblin approached the van after all the occupants had exited and noticed four plastic bags on the floor of the vehicle. Upon further investigation, Giblin said, it was ascertained that the substance in the bags "was believed to be marijuana." Also found in the van was a bag containing dried mushrooms, he said. The owner of the van was then placed under arrest for possession of over 25 grams of marijuana. He was taken to campus police headquarters, fingerprinted, photographed, and released on $200 bail pending a court appearance, Giblin said.

A male exchange student was struck on the back of the head in the Line Arts Building in an attempted robbery on Sept. 15 at 3:08 pm. The student was walking when he was struck from behind with a blunt instrument by an unidentified male in an attempt to steal the cassette recorder he was carrying, the report said. The student struggled with the assailant, yelled for help, and the assailant fled. Officer Charles Jones filed the report.

A theft of a wallet from the women's locker facility in Panzer Gym occurred on Sept. 24 at 9:20 pm. A male, described as being of college age and wearing a green shirt, allegedly had assed one woman then stole another woman's pocketbook. The victim of the theft chased the male and recovered her pocketbook, but the wallet was missing.

Two vehicles were involved in an accident on Carlisle Rd. on Sept. 26 at 1:26 pm. One vehicle, while attempting to turn off Carlisle Rd. towards Lot 6, was struck from the rear by another vehicle trying to exit the campus. The two occupants of the car turning off Carlisle Rd. complained of neck pain due to the rear end collision, but refused treatment. No summons was issued at the time of the accident, but it is under investigation by Giblin.

Timothy Pucilowski reported his motorcycle stolen from Lot 12 on Sept. 23. Pucilowski parked his 1977 Kawasaki there in the morning and when he returned at 3:02 pm found it missing. Officer James Fassnacht filed the report.

Cancer kills prof

According to the Rutgers Observer, six cases of cancer among the university's employes, including the death of one professor, have been linked to atmospheric conditions within Smith Hall, a classroom facility of Rutgers University Newark. At least 40 other employes have contracted ailments ranging from headaches to tuberculosis. Improper maintenance, poor ventilation, and plumbing leaks are under suspicion as contributing causes to the problem. The school's Institute for Animal Behavior, situated on the fourth floor of the building, has been cited as a possible cause of contamination.

A final report by the health department is due at the end of the month.

The MSC Jewish Student Union

SPONSORS: (ONCE AGAIN)

ISRAELI DANCING

1st and 3rd Tues. of each month beginning Oct. 7 in Ballroom C of the Student Center. 8 - 9:30 pm

ALL WELCOME

DATES:
Oct. 7 & 21
Nov. 4 & 18
Dec. 2 & 16

Students - .50¢
Others - .75¢

The camera or car you are looking for may be in the classified section!

PROBLEM PREGNANCY?

Free pregnancy testing and counseling.

Birthright 743-2061.
Teach-in tomorrow

Five groups that oppose draft registration will be the guests of Montclair Students For Peace MSP at a teach-in tomorrow from 9 am - 3 pm in Student Center Ballrooms A and B. The groups are NJ Students Against Nuclear Energy SANE, NJ Coalition Against Registration and the Draft CARD, Newman House, War Resisters League, and American Friends Service Committee.

A speaker at the teach-in, which will include workshops, is Al Swenson, program coordinator for NJ SANE. "The purpose of the teach-in and discussion will be to make people aware of the real potential of a draft after the elections in November," Swenson said in a telephone interview. "I think the mood in Washington is for US troops to get involved in the Persian Gulf area to protect our oil interests and to complete the massive operation they have planned; they'll need a draft," he said.

According to Selective Service reports, approximately four million males have registered, but those who did not could face a five year prison term and a $10,000 fine if caught.

With the large number of eligible males, chances of being caught for not registering are slight, according to Swenson.

When you need some notes at 3:00 a.m., you find out who your friends are.

You left the notes for chapter 6 in the library. A sure sign that tomorrow’s test will be heavy with questions from chapter 6. Someone you know is about to get a phone call. He’s not going to like it, but he’s going to come through. When this is over, do something special for him. Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here’s to good friends.
Strikers honored for efforts

New life has been pumped back into college students. At least those in NJ. And it is long overdue.

It has been too long since students have fought and rallied for what they believe in. It has been too long since The Montclarion, the SGA, and the faculty have agreed on an issue and worked together to achieve a goal.

And when you think about it, was it really all that difficult a task? All it started with was a little organization, a little rime, and a few people with a lot of heart and a contagious enthusiasm that fired up to six other institutions. It spread alright, and the finished product was dynamic.

So, isn't it a great feeling to take a stand and not sit back waiting for someone else to fight for your rights. And isn't it terrific when you're successful in your efforts? We think so.

At this time we would like to extend sincere congratulations to the many students who walked the picket lines on Friday and Monday, and also to those who helped us rally in Trenton. We hope your scratchy voices and aching feet are healed by now.

We would also like to congratulate the SGA whose long hours of planning, strategy making, emergency meetings and poster posting, paid off in the end. And to those SGA members who spoke at other college student government meetings and convinced them to join MSC on the bandwagon to Trenton, our hats come off to you.

We extend our gratitude to the AT T, the faculty senate and the rest of the faculty for standing behind us when we needed them.

Lastly, we offer congratulations to Meryl Yorough who three weeks ago suggested to the SGA legislature that we're not going to stand for any more garbage. We are not interested in adoption of unjust legislation. From now on, they're going to have to ask for our approval before they pass any legislation concerning state colleges.

We are standing, I think, on the brink of a new era of activism. We have shown that we can make our point peacefully and loudly enough so that we are not ignored.

I am very pleased with the students of this college. You have not been idle. You have made the boycott work. The faculty members were great too. For the first time in a long time, every sector of the college community united to fight for our rights—students, faculty, and even the administration.

OK. I have had enough of seriousness. Time to lighten up a little.

There were quite a few phrases running around this past week that needed a little translation. I'll tell you what they were and translate for you. After several years on this paper, I think I'm well versed in administration.

"I think the students are striking over a very self-serving issue."...T. Edward Holland, chancellor of higher education.

Translation: I think you're all acting like selfish, spoiled brats and you deserve a spanking. Don't you realize the '60's are over? Besides, nobody cares what students have to say anyway.

"The faculty supports you."...Marco Lancatena, NJ president of the American Federation of Teachers-AFT.

Translation: We're going out on strike in the spring, and we're not dummies. We want your support.

"I don't support the strike, but I support the objective."...Dr. David W. D. Dickson, MSC president.

Translation: It's about time you kids woke up and started protecting your rights. I'd strike too, but I'd lose my job. Our students have to know the issues thoroughly before they go on strike. Besides, it's Princeton Weekend...

"What kind of assembly would we be if we bowed to every pressure group that came along?"...Albert Burstein.

Translation: Where's our money? You think we're going to change our minds without a few bribes? Come on, this is 1980!

"...a major political victory."...Robert Brann, The Star-Ledger.

Translation: Darn! Those kids did it! I don't believe it!! I just lost $20!! What's this world coming to, anyway?

I hope you have it. I hope I made things a bit clearer for you. Once you've gotten used to Administration, it's not too hard to tell what they're really saying. Reading between the lines is a lot more fun when you know how to do it.

Meryl Yorough is a staff writer for The Montclarion.
2. October, 1980 The Magazine

Bulletin Board

Arts

The New Jersey Ballet Company will be at West Morris Central High School on Sat., Oct. 18 at 8 pm. Tickets are $10 for reserved seats and $7.50 for general admission. For additional information or for tickets call 879-5842, 879-7064, or 879-6589.

Lecture

There will be a four week course entitled 'The Art of Parenthood' at the Valley Rd. Covenant Church, 17 Valley Rd., Montclair, NJ. The course is designed for future parents and parents of young children. Each week there will be a discussion on various topics on parenthood with a different speaker every week.

Oct. 7, the topic will be When parents become parents. The speaker for this discussion will be William Lutz, the director of the Montclair Counseling Center.

Oct. 14, Emergency medical care for children is the subject with Dr. Howard C. Schlacter as the speaker.

Oct. 21 will have the topic Living with your preschooler and liking it and the speaker will be Claudia Young, who is a former teacher/director of the Watchung Cooperative Nursery School.

There will be an open panel discussion on Oct. 28 called Parents talk about parents.

There is a recommendation for a $2 donation for the course $5.00 per class. There is also a nursery there, which is available upon request, but you must give five days notice call Diane Martz for this at 744-1704. For more information on the course call 746-6868.

Sport

Varsity Soccer
Sat., Oct. 4 vs Stockton State at 1 pm.
Tues., Oct. 7 at William Paterson College at 8 pm.
Sat., Oct. 11 vs Upsala College at 10:30 am.
Wed., Oct. 15 at Kean College at 3:30 pm.
Fri., Oct. 17 vs New York University at 3:30 pm.
Wed., Oct. 22 at Kings College at 8:15 pm.
Sat., Oct. 25 vs Ramapo College at 11 am.
Wed., Oct. 29 vs Trenton State at 8 pm.
Sat., Nov. 1 at Glassboro State at 1:30 pm.
Wed., Nov. 5 at Montmouth College at 3 pm.

Varsity Football
Sat., Oct. 4 at Ramapo College at 2 pm.
Sat., Oct. 11 at Seton Hall University at 8 pm.
Sat., Oct. 18 vs William Paterson College at 8 pm.
Sat., Oct. 25 at Central Connecticut State at 1:30 pm.
Sat., Nov. 1 vs Trenton State at 8 pm.
Sat., Nov. 8 vs Jersey City State at 2 pm.
Sat., Nov. 15 vs Glassboro State at 8 pm.

Baseball
Thur., Oct. 2 at William Paterson College at 3 pm.
Sat., Oct. 4 vs Rider College at 1 pm.
Sun., Oct. 5 vs St. Peter's College at 1 pm.
Wed., Oct. 8 at Seton Hall University at 3 pm.
Sun., Dec. 12 at Upsala College at 1 pm.

Varsity Field Hockey
Thur., Oct. 2 at Temple University at 12 pm.
Sat., Oct. 4 at CW Post College at 1 pm.
Tues., Oct. 7 at William Paterson College at 3:30 pm.
Thurs., Oct. 9 vs Rutgers University at 3:30 pm.
Sat., Oct. 11 vs Hofstra University at 11 am.
Tues., Oct. 14 at Princeton University at 3:30 pm.
Fri., Oct. 17 at Trenton State at 3:30 pm.
Tues., Oct. 21 at Glassboro State at 3:30 pm.
Thurs., Oct. 23 vs Kean College at 3:30 pm.
Mon., Oct. 27 vs East Stroudsburg State at 3 pm.
Fri., Oct. 31 at La Salle College at 3 pm.
Tues., Nov. 4 at St. Joseph's University at 3:30 pm.

Women's Tennis
Sat., Oct. 4 vs Stockton State at 1 pm.
Tues., Oct. 7 at William Paterson College at 8 pm.
Sat., Oct. 11 vs Upsala College at 10:30 am.
Wed., Oct. 15 at Kean College at 3:30 pm.
Fri., Oct. 17 vs New York University at 3:30 pm.
Wed., Oct. 22 at Kings College at 8:15 pm.
Sat., Oct. 25 vs Ramapo College at 11 am.
Wed., Oct. 29 vs Trenton State at 8 pm.
Sat., Nov. 1 vs Glassboro State at 1:30 pm.
Wed., Nov. 5 at Montmouth College at 3 pm.

Freshman Football
Mon., Oct. 6 at Princeton University at 3:30 pm.
Mon., Oct. 13 at Glassboro State at 3:30 pm.
Mon., Oct. 20 vs Kean College at 3:30 pm.
Fri., Oct. 31 at Columbia University at 3:30 pm.

Misc.

There will be a Draft Teach-in on Fri., Oct. 3, in Student Center Ballrooms A and B. From 9 am to 3 pm. During the Teach-in there will be workshops, speakers, and open discussion on the Draft and related issues. The Teach-in is sponsored by the Montclair Students for Peace.

Psi Chi, the national honor society for psychology, is now accepting applications for membership. The requirements are:
An overall grade point average of 3.3.
A minimum psychology grade point average of 3.5.
At least 12 completed credits in psychology with a minimum of three psychology credits in progress.
Applications are outside the psychology office in Russ Hall, are due no later than Fri., Oct. 24.

The Student Intramural and Leisur Council/SILC will be holding its Trivia Contests on Oct. 8, 15, 22, and 29. Each week will offer different topics. On Oct. 8 it will be TV; Oct. 15 it will be movies; Oct. 22 will have sports, and on Oct. 29 the topic will be potpourri. Cash prizes will be given each week to the students who know the most trivia for that week's subject. The contests will be held at noon in the Student Center Ballrooms. For more information call the SILC Office at 893-5245.

Outtakes

Photo by Stan Godlewski
October, 1980  Vol. 3 No. 1

Contents

feature

And then he was gone: The perfect crime is foiled by the human element of doubt. by Bob Friedman. Please turn to page 5.

Rumors from Trenton: Louis Lavelle tells a behind the scenes story of the first student strike at MSC in 10 years. Taken day by day, from beginning to end, he reports the facts and rumors that were not printed in the metropolitan press. Please turn to page 6.

Test your knowledge: This handy guide has been designed to help you through the trying years. If you are close to graduating this will function well as a check list before facing social gatherings on the "outside." Please turn to the centerfold.

There's no place like home: Coping with dorm life. A witty and refreshing story of transition by Jules Korzeniowski. Please turn to page 10.

Kermit's quips on cuisine: This new column in The Magazine by Kermit the Frog, will appear monthly with tips on fine dining. This month, where and where not to eat brunch. Please turn to page 12.

A mind in the gutter: Sex looms large in the minds of those who have never had it. For a review of the new off-Broadway play, "Albums", dealing with this theme, please turn to page 13. By Bonnie Jerbasi.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder: but it also makes the eyes wander. Another off-Broadway play dealing with love. Please turn to page 13 for a review of "Passione" by Victoria Michaels.

Sprinkling of Stardust: Woody Allen's latest movie, Stardust Memories, has been termed a movie, within a movie, with a movie. For the review by Debbie Johnson, please turn to page 14.

Tempest needs tempering: The new film version of Shakespeare's play The Tempest is enough to sink any ship or audience. For the review by Stephen Kantrowitz please turn to page 15.

Rocking around: For the latest in local rock and roll and where you can find it. Bill Melo sports on page 15.

In every issue

Bulletin Board, page 2
Off the Record, page 4

Cover photo by Phil Lanoue
Playing it safe

There won't be much competition in the race for the state legislature in Boston's 19th Suffolk District this November. On the Democratic side will be William F. Galvin, and the Republican column will feature, you guessed it, William F. Galvin. It seems that the state representative decided to swing the odds a little more in his favor by running in both the Democratic and Republican primaries. He won them both!

Jails grounded

According to US News and World Report, the Navy is planning to ground a squadron of their first line fighter planes, the F-14 Tomcats, because it doesn't have enough people to maintain and fly them.

He's doing it the hard way

A gentleman by the name of John Brown was waiting patiently as police arrived in response to a vandalism complaint in Great Falls, MT last week. 'I did it,' Brown confessed, pointing to a window he just broke. When asked why, Brown answered, 'Because I need a roof over my head and three square meals a day.'

Brown went further, by requesting that he be taken to the county jail, which orders out from a nearby fast food restaurant.

Brown got his wish. He was arrested, charged with criminal mischief, and taken to the county jail, which orders out from a nearby fast food restaurant.

It's too late to say 'sorry'

Until recently, a foundry owned by one Richard Saunders in Wichita, KS was in the business of fabricating wing flaps for Boeing 747 jets. According to aviation officials, it was 'the most outstanding foundry in the US.' An inspector from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration/OSHA found several safety hazards however, and Saunders called him a few choice adjectives and threw him out. Four OSHA inspectors soon returned, and found a total of 23 violations. The necessary electrical work alone as demanded by OSHA would have cost Saunders in excess of $500,000. Rather than fight it out in court, or comply with the changes, Saunders elected to close the factory and lay off all the employees. A spokesman for OSHA reportedly commented, 'We don't understand why he did that, we could have negotiated.'

Tampons are un'Rely'able

Proctor and Gamble has agreed to launch a major advertising campaign warning women not to use their Rely tampons, after two studies showed a closer association between Rely and toxic shock syndrome than other tampons.

Toxic shock, a sometimes fatal disease, is blamed on bacteria. Although some women and nonmenstruating women are among the victims of toxic shock, 95 percent of the cases reported involve women 30 years and under. The media campaign, targeted at women between the ages 18 and 34, will tell women that they should no longer use Rely tampons.

Middle class carries burden

According to the IRS, a recent report on tax returns processed during the first seven months of the year shows that the bulk of the income tax burden lies with those individuals, couples, and families whose annual incomes range between $15,000 and $50,000. Break those figures into percentages, and it means that 38.2 percent of the taxpaying population is paying 60.1 percent of the taxes.

CIA documents not so secret

The Washington Post reports that spies of the Soviet Union needn't worry about getting their hands on sensitive US military documents, as the Library of Congress regularly sends copies of all official documents to the likes of the USSR and Cuba. Sen. Jim Stasser (D-TN) said he was 'amazed and dismayed' to learn that CIA maps andatlases, foreign policy position documents, and US intelligence assessments were among the publications being sent abroad. Most outrageous to him was an army technical manual outlining operation and uses of the Lance surface to surface missile system currently deployed at home and in Europe. Upon inquiring as to who approved these shipments, Sasser was told, "No one. Everything is shipped automatically unless someone objects."

Middle class carries burden

According to the IRS, a recent report on tax returns processed during the first seven months of the year shows that the bulk of the income tax burden lies with those individuals, couples, and families whose annual incomes range between $15,000 and $50,000. Break those figures into percentages, and it means that 38.2 percent of the taxpaying population is paying 60.1 percent of the taxes.

CIA documents not so secret

The Washington Post reports that spies of the Soviet Union needn't worry about getting their hands on sensitive US military documents, as the Library of Congress regularly sends copies of all official documents to the likes of the USSR and Cuba. Sen. Jim Stasser (D-TN) said he was 'amazed and dismayed' to learn that CIA maps and atlases, foreign policy position documents, and US intelligence assessments were among the publications being sent abroad. Most outrageous to him was an army technical manual outlining operation and uses of the Lance surface to surface missile system currently deployed at home and in Europe. Upon inquiring as to who approved these shipments, Sasser was told, "No one. Everything is shipped automatically unless someone objects."

The perfect crime ... it's just a matter of time

by Bob Friedman

I was reading an old issue of Galaxy magazine and working on my fourth beer of the night—sixth, if you count the two I had on the way to work. The damndest looking car I've ever seen pulled up.

Maybe car is the wrong word. It didn't look like anything you'd call a car. It looked more like something some crazy kid with an erector set had put together in the dark. There were bars, rods, mirrors, and antennas sticking out of it in every direction—lights flashing in about eight different colors, and popping and squawling noises like the sounds a radio makes when you're tuning it between stations. And the weirdest part of all was that the damn thing didn't have any wheels. I could see it perfectly from my parking booth—there are streetlights all over the place, and the neon sign over Fred's Bar and Grill down the block is colored lights starting to go on and off, and then it just disappeared.

"You got a license to drive that thing?" I asked. The guy in the driver's seat just smiled back. "You wouldn't believe me if I told you," he said.

I downed some more beer. "Try me," I said.

He paused, then he laughed. "Well," he said, "I'll tell you. Nobody can catch me now. Nobody!" He stared into my eyes. "What would you say, I asked, "if I told you I was from over 100 years in the future?"

I met his stare. "I'd say tell me more." He laughed again, louder this time, sounding like he was so pleased with himself that he just couldn't stand it. "I," he said, "have just committed the perfect crime. The ultimate crime. The crime that nobody will ever be able to solve. I have murdered a man--"

"The ultimate crime. The crime that nobody will ever be able to solve. I have murdered a man--"

Quietly when I had finished. "A pretty good story. Now let me tell you one. Say that sometime in the future—oh, about 200 years from now—time machines have become pretty common things. If you have money, you can buy them, just like you buy yachts or planes today, and lots of people have them. Say that a few of those people come up with the same idea you had—to commit a crime and then escape into the past. And say that the cops, knowing all about this, invent a gizmo that makes all those suspicious time machines only land in certain special places in the past, where someone's waiting undercover to catch the crooks. I set the empty beer can down on the hood of the car and scratched my chin. 'It would all have to seem pretty normal and everyday, so people in this time wouldn't notice anything going on.' I looked out at a passing bus, then back at him. 'A parking lot would do pretty well, don't you think?' He didn't answer, his face had gone completely pale. I went on.

'Now, say that a criminal with a time machine from earlier in the future—about 100 years or so—managed to land himself in one of those places. The cop waiting there could do one of two things. He could arrest him, and do what he usually does—he shoot him on the spot. Or he could just forget about it and let the man go back to his own time, where he'd have at least a 50-50 chance of getting out of it alive.' I stopped, looked at him again. 'What do you think?' I said.

But he didn't wait around to reply. He turned and ran, and was back in that weird car in a flash; the top hissing shut behind him. There was a long, whining sound while the engine, or whatever was in that thing, warmed up, and then all the different colored lights started going on and off, and then it just disappeared completely, without leaving so much as a speck of dirt behind.

I stood there in the middle of the lot for a while, laughing, thinking about what a good thing imagination is, thinking about how maybe, sometimes, if you work at it, there is a little bit of justice in the world. Then I went back to the booth and opened up another beer and finished reading my magazine.
Trenton heard

by Louis Lavelle

According to Marco Lacatena, president of the NJ Council of the American Federation of Teachers/AFT, T. Edward Hollander, chancellor of higher education met early this summer with a select group of "legislative leaders." Lacatena claimed Hollander told the legislators that if they would go along with a $2 per credit tuition hike, up to half of the $9 million accumulated by such a move would be appropriated to Tuition Aid Grants/TAG--a nifty piece of legislation that would directly benefit these legislators by providing more financial assistance for students in their constituencies, who would rather go to expensive private institutions than enter the degenerating state college system.

In June, Hollander met with the NJ Council of State Colleges/NICSC, a group comprised of the presidents and chairmen of the boards of the eight state colleges, Rutgers University, and the New Jersey Institute of Technology/NJIT, and told them that if they OK'd a tuition increase, the money would help keep the state college system solvent by replacing some of the $23 million cut from the higher education budget by NJ Governor Brendan T. Byrne.

After this meeting, the state college presidents were left with the impression that most of the money from the tuition hike would eventually be returned to the state college system. On July 28, NJ senate president Joseph P. Merlino (D-13th district) and Sen. Matthew Feldman (D-37th district) introduced S.1430, a companion bill to A.1972, to the senate. On August 4, the bill passed the senate by a vote of 32-0. Hollander had seven days, between July 28 and August 4, to inform the state college presidents that there was legislation in the senate to reassign up to half the tuition hike money to TAG--yet he chose not to.

The board of higher education can implement any tuition hike without anyone's approval, as long as it's consistent with the board policy of charging students no more than 30 percent the cost of their education, according to Lacatena. The tuition hike money would go toward the TAG deficit (if Assembly Bill A.1972 was passed) in the TAG account due to overenrollment (from 29,000 students last year to 47,000 this, the second year of the program) and poor forecasting based on new eligibility rules--a deficit, Lacatena said, Hollander's "directly responsible for." Lacatena claimed Hollander told him that if Assembly Bill A.1972 was passed, he would go to the president of the state colleges by telling them the tuition hike money would pay for improvements on the individual campuses when he had already told the "legislative leaders" that half would go to TAG! According to Lacatena, because he needed it to bail out a $4.2 million deficit in the TAG account due to overenrollment (from 29,000 students last year to 47,000 this, the second year of the program) and poor forecasting based on new eligibility rules--a deficit, Lacatena said, Hollander's "directly responsible for." Lacatena claimed Hollander told him that if Assembly Bill A.1972 was passed, he would go to the president of the state colleges by telling them the tuition hike money would pay for improvements on the individual campuses when he had already told the "legislative leaders" that half would go to TAG!

According to Lacatena, because he needed it to bail out a $4.2 million deficit in the TAG account due to overenrollment (from 29,000 students last year to 47,000 this, the second year of the program) and poor forecasting based on new eligibility rules--a deficit, Lacatena said, Hollander's "directly responsible for." Lacatena claimed Hollander told him that if Assembly Bill A.1972 was passed, he would go to the president of the state colleges by telling them the tuition hike money would pay for improvements on the individual campuses when he had already told the "legislative leaders" that half would go to TAG!

But why, if what Lacatena said is true, did Hollander blatantly lie to the presidents of the state colleges by telling them the tuition hike money would pay for improvements on the individual campuses when he had already told the "legislative leaders" that half would go to TAG? According to Lacatena, because he needed it to bail out a $4.2 million deficit in the TAG account due to overenrollment (from 29,000 students last year to 47,000 this, the second year of the program) and poor forecasting based on new eligibility rules--a deficit, Lacatena said, Hollander's "directly responsible for." Lacatena claimed Hollander told him that if Assembly Bill A.1972 was passed, he would go to the president of the state colleges by telling them the tuition hike money would pay for improvements on the individual campuses when he had already told the "legislative leaders" that half would go to TAG!

Everything Marcus said doesn't deny the fact that TAG, by admissions of its director, John Reeves, aides students in all sectors of the higher education community. Two million of TAG's $28 million budget went to send NJ students to out of state colleges last year.

At the board's July meeting, when Hollander presented TAG tables that would give only 10 percent of the tuition hike money to TAG, Dr. Jerome Pollock, president of Fairleigh Dickinson University/FDU (a private institution) and a member of the board suggested that the board adhere to its November 1978 policy and give half the tuition hike money to TAG. Hollander insisted that TAG didn't need that much, however the legislature thought differently. Marcus said, the legislature rejected those tables because only the most needy were going to receive increases over last year's allocation, whereas the legislature wanted an across-the-

the mice that roared board increase. It then proposed the 50 percent figure in the bill.

NJU: After operating on ten-year-old TAG tables, we'll mean that if the student received $736 for financial aid last year, and tuition was increased to $800 (both annual amounts based on two 16 credit semesters), he would still only receive $736 in aid. If the bill was passed Monday, new tables reactivated in September will have to be negotiated by the board and the legislature. If not, both groups will have had to make due with what they have and cut 50 percent of the tuition hike money, or $900,000.

If "an amount not less than $3 million and not to exceed 50 percent" of this summer's $11 million is to go to the TAG program, as the bill proposes, and TAG, by its own admission, grants financial aid to NJ students at each institution imposed during 1980."

"For committee consideration."

"The ironic part about the bill is that it asks state college students to absorb a tuition hike, the second in two years for TAG, because the size of its grants to students paying this higher tuition. Why, student leaders ask, take the money out of the state college students in the form of a new tuition rate and increase..."
Although quoting television is not wholly unlike quoting comic books; it does serve it's purpose at times. It entertains and we hope the following will too. We just thought we'd throw these in, so you have something to say at boring parties.

"Who loves you, baby?"-Koko
"Missed it by that much"-Get Smart
"He's dead, Jim"-Star Trek
"One of these days, Alice"-Honeymooners
"Walt! I love Lucy"
"I'm Chevy Chase and you're not"-Saturday Night Live
"Jane, you ignorant slut"-Saturday Night Live
"Don't drink the milk, it's spoiled"-Little Rascals
"God'll get you for that"-Maurie
"Stifle yourself, Edith"-All in the Family
"Oscar, Oscar, Oscar"-The Odd Couple
"Say good night Dick"-Laugh-In
"And here's Johnny"-Tonight Show
"Oh, Wilbur"-The Mr. Ed Show
"I love it when you speak French"-The Adams Family
"Great Caesar's ghost"-Superman
"Good Evening"-Alfred Hitchcock
"Who was that masked man?"-The Lone Ranger

There is nothing more embarrassing than trying to impress someone by throwing around rather large words and mispronouncing them. Listed below are some of the most often mispronounced words used today. Practice them. We'd hate to see you put your foot in your mouth more than you have to.

bourgeois-often confused as a color somewhat close to turquoise, bourgeois, pronounced [boo-zhew], originally referred to a freeman of a medieval town, a member possessing the characteristic traits or viewpoint of the bourgeoisie (middle class).

quay-No, this has nothing to do with Charo's quiche, quiche, usually of concrete or stone, with facilities for loading and unloading ships.

buoy-Wrong again. I suppose you thought this was the surname of Broadway's Elephant Man, David Bowie. Buoy, pronounced [boi], is a floating object anchored in a lake to warn of upcoming rocks.

quiche-got ya! No, this has nothing to do with Charo's quiche, quiche, oo. A quiche, pronounced [kesh], is a cheese pie.

chic-No, not a baby chicken. If you are chic, pronounced [check], you have a smart elegance in your style and dress.

debonair-OK, this was your last chance and you blew it. No, this is not someone who counteracts with a de-bone-e. Someone who is debonair, pronounced [deb-a-nar], is of good race or breed, is affable, genial and courteous.

You probably believe that the college education you are receiving now will equip you with all the knowledge necessary to become a huge success upon graduation. To some extent, this is true. However, there are other bodies of knowledge that may or may not be offered in a classroom curriculum. The following categories list information that college students should know or have at least heard of before graduation. Some you may recognize, others you may not. Test your awareness, and find out what you know. You may be in for a few surprises.

The following literary quotes not only will make you sound literate, but you never know when one might crop up on an exam. Other than that, they are useful when attempting to prove to friends and parents, that you have learned something in college.

"I think therefore I am"-Descartes
"It was the best of times; it was the worst of times"-Charles Dickens, Tale of Two Cities
"God is dead"-Nietzsche
"Nietzsche's quiche is dead"-God
"So it goes"-Kurt Vonnegut, Slaughterhouse Five
"To be or not to be"-Shakespeare, Hamlet
"Twas brillig and the slithy toves did gyre and gimble in the wabe"-Lewis Carroll, Jabberwocky
"That she blows"-Herman Melville, Moby Dick
"The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated"-Mark Twain
"There's a unicorn in the garden"-James Thurber
"The end justifies the means"-Marcel Marceau
"It was cold, drunk and dirty and so was she"-Stan Godlewski
"The story flies best that has a villain for one wing and a hero for the other"-Norman Mailer
"No man is an island, unto himself"-John Donne
"Out, out damn'd spot"-Shakespeare, Much Ado
"Elementary, my dear Watson"-Sherlock Holmes
"Take me home to Tara"-Gone With the Wind
"A loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and thou"-Omar Khayyam
"Hell is other people"-Jean Paul Sartre

The following are oldies but goodies, that we've attributed to the authors or the very characters. This should help to keep them straight and also afford you some laughs. If you're at impressions this should help your repertoire.

"Hell is other people"-Jean Paul Sartre
"A loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and thou"-Omar Khayyam
"One of these days, Alice"-Honeymooners
"Neither are we"-Paul Newman, The Sting
"My right leg is Christmas, my left leg is New Year's. Come up and dance between the holiday"-Mae Kahn, Blazing Saddles
"I never forget a face, but in case I'll make an exception"-Groucho Marx
"I had an orgasm the other night"-Milady
"Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn"-Rhett Butler, Gone With the Wind
"Stella"-Tennessee Williams, Streetcar Named Desire
"The Force be with you"-Yoda, Star Wars
"He's not as tough as he looks"-Robert Redford, The Sting
"Neither are we"-Paul Newman, The Sting
"It's twue, it's twue"-Jackie Mason
"Here's looking at you"-Groucho Marx
"I was cold, drunk and dirty and so was she"-Stan Godlewski
"Through the looking glass"-Lewis Carroll, Alice in Wonderland
"The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated"-Mark Twain
"There's a unicorn in the garden"-James Thurber
"The end justifies the means"-Marcel Marceau
"It was cold, drunk and dirty and so was she"-Stan Godlewski
"The story flies best that has a villain for one wing and a hero for the other"-Norman Mailer
"No man is an island, unto himself"-John Donne
"Out, out damn'd spot"-Shakespeare, Much Ado
"Elementary, my dear Watson"-Sherlock Holmes
"Take me home to Tara"-Gone With the Wind
"A loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and thou"-Omar Khayyam
"Hell is other people"-Jean Paul Sartre

The following are oldies but goodies, that we've attributed to the authors or the very characters. This should help to keep them straight and also afford you some laughs. If you're at impressions this should help your repertoire.
At one time or another, we all secretly desire to be famous. The following list of couples have led lives that have made them household names in countries all over the world. Grab a friend and study them carefully. Perhaps one day in the future, the two of you will do something that the public will remember for years.

Josephine and Napoleon had one of the finest love affairs ever. Both noted for their voracious sexual appetites, they loved, loved, and loved. Josephine, born in the islands, whored her way into Napoleon’s heart and eventually his kingdom. She was famous for the muslin dresses so that they accentuated her figure. Many women, following her lead, died from pneumonia. Napoleon was famous for his womanizing the battles he won for France, and his insatiable ego.

Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun, another love crazed couple, were often photographed in bed together by the Gestapo. Married just a few minutes before their deaths, they stayed true to Till death do us part. Eva was supposedly to have attempted suicide several times because Hitler would not make love to her. The tales of their perversions disgusted Europe for many years.

Robert Richards and Renee Richards are an inseparable couple in mind and heart. Rumor has it that they can almost read each other’s minds. They are however, never seen together at the same place at the same time. There were several accusations made a couple of years ago, that Robert had committed suicide and that Renee had possessed his body, but Renee claims that she is not a possessive person. ‘I love Robert, as myself,’ Renee was rumored to have said, ‘But, he lives on in me.’

Simone de Beauvoir and Jean Paul Sartre were inseparable companions until his death earlier this year. Both philosophers, Sartre espoused existentialism, while she was very vocal about women’s rights. True to her opinions on a woman retaining her independence, she never married or lived with Jean Paul Sartre although they retained apartments just around the corner from one another.

Zelda and Scott Fitzgerald, one of the most famous couples of the 1920’s were madly in love with each other. Zelda was well known for her drinking, her tendency toward insanity, and her attempts and final success at suicide. Scott was well known, of course for his novels, his drinking, and his womanizing. They gave up their American heritage for many years immediately after World War I, and lived largely in France. They were part of the jetset of the 1920’s.
The lobby was brightly lit and crowded. I recognized no one. Self-consciously I tread past the 300 blankly staring aluminum mailboxes, avoiding feet and eye contact along the way. Parking myself in an institutional easy chair in a green and gold padded lounge, I shoved my face in a book and pretended to read. I was "home." This was Bohn Hall, where I was to live for the next two years.

There's no place like Bohn

by Jules Korzeniowski

The lobby was brightly lit and crowded. I recognized no one. Self-consciously I tread past the 300 blankly staring aluminum mailboxes, avoiding feet and eye contact along the way. Parking myself in an institutional easy chair in a green and gold padded lounge, I shoved my face in a book and pretended to read. I was "home." This was Bohn Hall, where I was to live for the next two years.
The transition wasn't too bad considering I was the only male on the floor and a representative of the only unpopular fraternity. I didn't want to mix work and play and kept my hands to myself. I also spent a lot of time in the shower. This went on for several days and I discovered how much I had to worry about. Then a strange thing happened.

I was asleep one night when I heard the door to my room open. Normally that wouldn't be too disconcerting since people sometimes make errors at night and it was an established fact that one of roommates or it could be one of my male friends from the 13th floor. However, I had locked the door to my room. No, my hair stood on end and I was convinced I was being attacked. I didn't panic, nor did I act as if anything was amiss. Making good time and these cardiovascular exercising mazes on my way to the cafeteria or elevators, I would often descend another alternative; the stairs. Each elevator full of people is humiliating.

But running into doors before an it was something I did when I slept. I was too busy with my studies and the demands of a college social life. But that wasn't the only thing I was worrying about. In a nervous breakdown or moved out. Nights were counterbalanced by an abundance of interesting company, parking myself in the lounge I closed my eyes and let the noise of the nighttime drift into my dreams. The food was OK. Montclair's dining hall was one of the few places on campus where I could get a meal without having to worry about the cost. The food was OK.

Bohn Hall was like a self-contained community of 600. And as much such entities it needs some governmental system to govern. I entered the Bohn Hall Coordinating Council. It's a council that coordinates activities in Bohn Hall. Here student reps could shout off steam and irritate our state and federal legislators. And they did, sometimes for hours, getting nothing accomplished. Being a loner and somewhat of a ham, I did my bit to outdo the rest. Needing something to gripe about, and being representa­tive of the people, our student reps represented a lot about the quality of our food and found great time for parties in the lounges. Typically, the members separated three group, those against, and those who couldn't care less. I was with those who wanted to be confronted by a man dragging a body covered in blood through the fire doors. Bad as it was, the girl was OK. She had merely pushed the glass of the door too quickly and had cut herself. A week later while visiting a friend in the front of the building or on the fifth and sixth floors was almost up in the front of the building or on the third and the lobby between the fifth and sixth floors was almost normally that wouldn't be too disconcerting since people sometimes make errors at night and it was an established fact that one of roommates or it could be one of my male friends from the 13th floor. However, I had locked the door to my room. No, my hair stood on end and I was convinced I was being attacked. I didn't panic, nor did I act as if anything was amiss. Making good time and these cardiovascular exercising mazes on my way to the cafeteria or elevators, I would often descend another alternative; the stairs. Each elevator full of people is humiliating.

But running into doors before an it was something I did when I slept. I was too busy with my studies and the demands of a college social life. But that wasn't the only thing I was worrying about. In a nervous breakdown or moved out. Nights were counterbalanced by an abundance of interesting company, parking myself in the lounge I closed my eyes and let the noise of the nighttime drift into my dreams. The food was OK. Montclair's dining hall was one of the few places on campus where I could get a meal without having to worry about the cost. The food was OK.

Bohn Hall was like a self-contained community of 600. And as much such entities it needs some governmental system to govern. I entered the Bohn Hall Coordinating Council. It's a council that coordinates activities in Bohn Hall. Here student reps could shout off steam and irritate our state and federal legislators. And they did, sometimes for hours, getting nothing accomplished. Being a loner and somewhat of a ham, I did my bit to outdo the rest. Needing something to gripe about, and being representa­tive of the people, our student reps represented a lot about the quality of our food and found great time for parties in the lounges. Typically, the members separated three group, those against, and those who couldn't care less. I was with those who wanted to be confronted by a man dragging a body covered in blood through the fire doors. Bad as it was, the girl was OK. She had merely pushed the glass of the door too quickly and had cut herself. A week later while visiting a friend in the front of the building or on the fifth and sixth floors was almost up in the front of the building or on the third and the lobby between the fifth and sixth floors was almost

I managed to make it through the first semester in one piece, and the long winter recess gave me a chance to reevaluate. When the second semester started Bohn Hall was back to being a hotbed of activity. People were more themselves, knew their way around, kept their own friends and had arrived at various compromises depending on the situation. The noise problem, the lack of privacy, and the crazy drunk on Thursday nights were counterbalanced by an abundance of interesting company, parking myself in the lounge I closed my eyes and let the noise of the nighttime drift into my dreams. The food was OK. Montclair's dining hall was one of the few places on campus where I could get a meal without having to worry about the cost. The food was OK.
Kermit’s quips on cuisine

NYC’s Chelsea district, with its long rows of factory lofts and grey apartment buildings, still hasn’t achieved the chic status of Soho and Greenwich Village. But along one of those dingy blocks, on 18th Street and 7th Avenue (down the block from Barnes and Noble), you’ll find one of the best brunch values in the city at Harvey’s Chelsea Restaurant.

The interior of Harvey’s is authentic gilded age NY. It’s not one of those restaurants, as many in NY, where the owners found an old bar with some tables, rejuvenated it, and announced to the world that the interior was genuine antique. Harvey’s has been there awhile; since 1898. You know it’s the real article the moment you walk in: rich wooden tables bearing white linen covers, accented by red linen napkins, lit by genuine Tiffany lamps.* All this is surrounded by Mahogany paneling bordered by a shiny brass railing. Unpretentious mirrors add a reflective depth for those with a narcissistic or people watching bent. The luxurious aroma of coffee cut with cinnamon permeates the room, while the dessert display almost makes one forget about the main meal.

The all male waiting crew is polite and gay. The omelettes and griddle cakes do more than just tease the palette, but the prices barely tickle the pocketbook. All this complemented with a bottomless cup of the best coffee in town.

The music is classical, the clientele respectable, the required dress unpretentious.

Feather’s

Situated on Fifth Ave., a couple of blocks from Washington Square, Feathers looks deceivingly charming from the outside. Its glassed-in cafe with hanging plants is typical of the NY scene.

(*I should have known that even entering the place was a mistake. While I was going through the doors several disgusted people warned me against it. “Don’t go in there frog, you’ll be sorry.”

It took all of five minutes to realize they were right. I was uncomfortably seated on a fake leather couch which had seen better days, by the dirty dish depository. The meal, or what they passed off as such, was more like an attempt by me at an omelette; all wrong. I shouted by request for a ham and cheese omelette from the waiter as he sped by and 45 minutes later it was presented to me, minus the cheese. Actually, it was a shell of eggs, in which was harbored some very small pieces of ham, I dwoned another bloody Mary, which was free, and sadly realized that drinking away my problems wasn’t going to work; there wasn’t a drop of liquor.

As I contemplated my sorry excuse of an omelette and the dead daisy hanging from a dilapidated Perrier bottle, I realized that Feathers was for the birds.)
Remember the '60s--early Beach Boys, the Beatles, Monkees, and Bob Dylan? Many of us grew up to their music, with Brian Wilson and Paul McCartney as our heroes at-large. David Rimmer's comedy "Albums" recreates this time in history and presents four characters who "come of age" between 1963 and 1967.

Billy (Kevin Bacon) is the all-American, cool jock whose girlfriend is none other than the popular blonde cheerleader, Peggy Jenny Wright. Their sidekicks are Boo (Keith Gordon), a self-conscious wimp who hides behind the tough facade of Bob Dylan, and Trish (Jan Leslie Harding), a Beatlemaniac who can't "make-out" without fantasizing about a rock star. "I've got to stop falling in love with pictures of the Beatles after giving a hortive kiss to an eight by ten glossy of John Lennon."

The theme of the play centers around the fact that the awkwardness of adolescence can only be overcome after sex has been conquered. I doubt that this was a known or practiced fact of the '60s. In a press conference following the premiere, director Joan Rimmer said, "Sex looms large in the minds of those who never had it--after it happens it becomes a part of life, but not the only part."

Working with this theory, Silver has managed to capture many fears that teens have about sex, i.e. "Mother never told me the real good stuff."

The play begins when the kids are in high school. The first act follows the growth and friendships. Unfortunately the play has no growth or plot of its own. The performances reminded me of a TV situation-comedy, but the language did not.

At times the dialogue is immature and offensive. The four letter words are a bit much for the script and added an unnecessary tension. As far as being a comedy, the play was lacking a few essentials--namely funny lines.

Fortunately, there is almost continuous background music, all chosen by Rimmer, to spice things up. Such '60s favorites as Surfing Girl, Little Deuce Coupe, I'm a Believer, and offensive. The four letter words..."

The universality of the theme allowed for a lot of reflections. Everyone knows a girl like Peggy--the girl most likely to...And Billy, who is really a square looking off--who dreams about "only aunts, uncles and cousins" as compared to Bob's visions of Mick lager in sadomasochistic drag.

The best thing about this offBroadway play, aside from the fact that it will never go to Broadway, is the atmosphere of the '60s that was successfully captured. The costumes--purple and orange mini-skirts, heavy blue sky eye shadow, plaid jackets, and fishnet stockings--scenery, and props were used effectively. Considering the challenges that the set producer David Potts had to deal with, he did a fine job setting up the six different scenes that were necessary--ranging from a girl's bedroom to the Quarry of ill-repute.

"Albums" was originally at the WPA Theater but has moved to Greenwich Village's Cherry Lane Theatre. The Arts Theatre.
Mercury still King of Queen

by Darrel Lippman

Queen
Madison Square Garden
Sept. 28, 1980

Despite the fact that Queen, at times, has been labeled as a bubble gum type band geared for celebrities. Freddie Mercury and company staged a scintillating rock concert at Madison Square Garden Sunday night.

Sporting a new thick mustache (which makes the British king of Rock look Spanish), Mercury felt it was his place to explain to the jam packed audience that he "grew up for NY" and doesn't give a damn what anyone thinks of it.

Mercury was walking on thin ice when he made the transformation to keep up with today's aspects of rock but failing to fall through. His group has attained abundant success and respecting during its eight years, allowing for a change like the one on their most recent LP, "The Game." Each of the group's four different facets of today's rock, whether it be the Elvis Presley sounding Crazy little thing called love, the disco beat of Another one bites the dust, or the fast pace tempo of Rock It.

It seems Mercury can do no wrong. After much beckoning and chants of "We want Queen," the band finally sold out (Monday and Tuesday showings were also sold out), Queen appeared through a huge smoke screen and array of lighting effects. Mercury is quite adept at poking fun of people who take themselves too seriously.

At a film festival in the Stardust Hotel, we see Bates' eccentricity being used as a clever, funny comedian. That is one of the things that make In God We Trust a halfway bearable movie. Without these, the movie would've been a total flop.

It's a spoof of organized religion, focuses on Brother Ambrose, played by Marty Feldman. Sent out into the world by his superiors to raise money for the mortgage on the monastery where he's lived all his life, he's a naive, innocent monk discovering the evils of the world for the first time. "I've heard about sin, but I know nothing of its practices," wide eyed Ambrose says to Louise Lasser, a prostitute he later makes pregnant and marries.

Ambrose tries to get the money for the mortgage from a famous preacher and a philosopher named Armageddon T. Thunderbird, played by Andy Kaufman. He's a Rev. Ike-type of character who has his own TV sermon, complete with a chorus line called The Thunderbirdettes, who sing "It's not the thought, it's the..."

The church on wheels is adorned with two golden arches and keeps a digital count of all the souls that are saved. The church, already filled with flashbacks, a surrealistic hue. One is never quite sure where the reality ends and the fantasy begins. It also exaggerates the primarily eccentric appearance of Bate's caricatures of ourselves in the real audience which are wickedly amusing and sad.

Silver Screen Memories is not a funny film in the usual Allen tradition. The humor is caustic and biting. It is also manipulative. Heavy, intellectual meaning escapes the viewer, and because we seem to naturally search for it, the action is often confusing to follow.

Maybe that is the point Allen wishes to make, for Stardust Memories is quite adept at poking fun of people who take themselves too seriously.
Jarman's The Tempest lacks taste

by Steven Krantrowitz

Derek Jarman's seedy new filmed version of Shakespeare's The Tempest, is enough to sink any ship. I welcome modern interpretations of Shakespeare's work, if they are handled with taste and respect, which this so obviously wasn't. The Tempest is a lovely, magical fairy tale, and the way Jarman played Shakespeare wrote. Although it has traditionally been placed among his Comedies, it belongs in a genre all its own.

Jarman's film, although certainly bold and daring, simply failed at almost every level. It is premiering at the British Film Center series at the New York Film Festival, and opened at the Cinema III Theater on Sept. 26. The plot is essentially uncomplicated. Prospero, a magician and the deposed Duke of Milan, lives on an enchanted island with is beautiful daughter, Miranda, a monstrous servant, Caliban; an enslaved spirit, Ariel; and an assortment of fairies and beasts. Prospero learns that his brother, Antonio; Alonso, King of Naples; and Sebastian, Alonso's brother, are sailing past his island, so he conjures up a storm. The shipwrecked crew come ashore and are lured to the castle of Prospero.

To complete the crew we have Gonzalo, his erstwhile courtier; Ferdinand, Alonso's son; and a pair of drunk fools, Stephano and Trinculo. Prospero imprisons his enemies, but finally forgives them and sets them free. There is a joyous celebration: Ferdinand and Miranda have fallen in love and decided to marry. Finally everyone leaves, save Prospero, who looks back on his enchanted island, his days of magic and dreams gone forever.

Jarman had the not so brilliant idea of changing the locale. His film is set in a gloomy, decrepid mansion. We greatly miss the magical island Shakespeare described. The biggest problem with the set was that the rooms were dimly lit and we had a rather hard time making out the performers. Jarman wanted to prevent the viewer from seeing the miserable condition the castle was in, but instead prevented us from seeing the actors.

Casting Heathcote Williams in the lead role of Prospero was another mistake. Williams is a sincere actor, but lacked the dimensions that his character demanded. He was also much too young to play Prospero. We expected to find an aged, wise magician, and instead found a man not much older than his daughter Miranda, who was played by Toyah Willcox. Willcox, dressed in a hoop skirt and petticoats, had her own problems as well. For starters, her hair looked like it had just come out of a starch vat in a laundry. But more importantly, she lacked the innocent naivete that the part demanded, and instead came across as being sultry and whorish. Unquestionably the most tacky and tasteless creatures in the film were the evil Caliban (Jack Birkett) and his mother Sycorax (Claire Davenport). Birkett's Caliban was a seedy old man one would expect to find living in a gutter. It was strange to find him speaking perfect, Shakespearean passages, when in the previous scene he had been eating raw eggs with the yolk dripping down his chin.

One thing that puzzled me was why the shipwrecked crew came upon the island in full dress, not at all disheveled. They looked as if their boat had docked and they simply stepped off. In contrast, Jarman had Prospero and Miranda looking as if they had been dragged from the bottom of the ocean.

Filming performances were given by David Meyer as Ferdinand, Christopher Biggins as Stephano, and Peter Turner as Trinculo. All three performances were unbelievable and original in execution.

The film bordered on ludicrous, and practically fell apart during the grand finale celebration scene. Several dozen sailors entered and danced a frantic mazurka. Following this, the goddess (Elizabeth Welch) strutted in and sang a blurry rendition of Stormy Weather, a la Lena Horne. This scene, although the most well done in the entire film, was completely out of place.

The film, probably the worst British film I've ever seen, received a perplexingly warm reception from the audience. Jarman, who freely adapted the film from Shakespeare's text, missed the boat.

Rocking around in October

by Bill Melo

October promises to be an exciting month as far as the local rock scene goes. The biggest news is the annual Rock the Shire in Lyndhurst will be presenting major artists in concert Thursday evenings. The small club has been a new wave dance club for several months now and the news that New Jerseyans have a place to see bands perform new music besides Maxwells in Hoboken comes as a welcome surprise.

The lineup for October includes the Speedies on Oct. 9, The Stranglers on Oct. 16 and The Psychedelic Furs on Oct. 23. Speaking of the Psychedelic Furs, they put on an excellent show at NY's Irving Plaza last Friday night. The band rocked the house with songs off their eponymous debut album. Support was by the Albany Units.

October is also a time when record companies begin their Christmas season record push. October releases should include The Specials' second, entitled More Specials, the third album by The Police, a new Talking Heads disc, and the fifth record by Bruce Springsteen. The Springsteen album will be a two record set containing 21 songs. Look for a very high retail price on this one as it took seemingly forever to record. Records already out include Elvis Costello's Tolking Liberties, which is a compilation of non-LP B sides, outtakes, etc. Also out is The Stranglers' fourth US release entitled, oddly enough, Stranglers IV.

One of rock's most chameleon-like performers over the years has been David Bowie. His new album Scary Monsters is his most commercial work in years. The record features fine guitar from rock veteran Robert Fripp and piano from Roy Bittan. Coinciding with the release of Scary Monsters is Bowie's part in the Broadway play The Elephant Man. He will be playing the lead role in the production. Also of note, the Art Theatre on E. 8th St. in the Village will be showing the uncut version of The Man Who Fell To Earth starring David Bowie for a limited engagement.

The rock world was shocked last week by the death of John Bonham, drummer for Led Zeppelin. The news comes on the heels of the announcement that Zepplin would be playing their first US tour in three years. The Selecter have apparently had enough of the Specials-lead Two-Tone record label. They have left the fold and will release all future records on their own label, Has Public Image Limited broken up? Words is that band leaders John Lydon and Keith Levene have become disenchanted with bassist Jih Weble. They have already dismissed drummer Marty Atkin.

Rock Calendar

THUR., OCT. 2
MoDettes — Englander's Pub
Geo's — Malibu Club
FRIDAY, OCT. 3
Protex — The 80's
MoDettes — Irving Plaza
The Dance — Maxwells
SAT., OCT. 4
Split Enz — Irving Plaza
The Fast — Max's Kansas City
The Plug — Danceteria
Coming to The Capitol Theatre
Oct. 7 — Jeff Beck
Oct. 10 — Pat Benatar
Oct. 11 — Joan Armatrading
Oct. 15 — America
Oct. 19 — Gary Numan
She's tough... but she sides with the little guy.

And she's out to beat the mob at their own game.

COLUMBIA PICTURES PRESENTS
A JOHN CASSAVETES FILM

GENA ROWLANDS is GLORIA

Music by BILL CONTI  Produced by SAM SHAW
Written & Directed by JOHN CASSAVETES

COMING SOON TO A THEATRE NEAR YOU!
Students Speak

Students knew strike issue
by Mindy Goldstein and Phil Lanoue

Were you aware of the issue involved in this week's student strike before it occurred?

"Yes I did. I didn't think that we should support students studying outside of NJ."

Gary Wrezci
1981 French

"Yes, a professor told me. I felt that it was unfair for the tuition money to be used for a purpose that was not the original intention."

Jeanette Aughey
1981 general humanities

"I knew because I read about it in The Montclarion. I was surprised that our tuition was raised for that purpose."

Tom Knott
1981 biology

"I did not know until Thursday. I thought it was unfair that the state was trying to take the money away from us. I thought it was good that the students united on the issue."

Erica Sturdevant
1984 English

"No I didn't. I feel that it is wrong that they used our tuition money for that. I think the students were justified in protesting."

Phil Pietschner
1984 undeclared

"No I wasn't aware of it. I'm glad I was notified of the issue. I feel that the state's purpose for our money was wrong and I feel the students did a good job in standing up for that. They felt what was right."

Janet Mara
1984 undeclared

Point of information

The board of trustees-MSC's driving force
by Ken Brown

As we look around us this fall we see many changes here at MSC. Construction of a new dorm, an annex to the Student Center and the creation of new parking facilities are the most obvious. There are also changes academically this year with the reorganization of schools taking place and some new faces on the administration, as well as in the classrooms. We are all affected directly by these things. Yet, how many of us really know or even think about how the above things came about. Or, for that matter, who the people were that made these decisions?

The answers to the above questions are the board of trustees made the final decision in each case. Some of these decisions were made years ago, while others more recently. Some were received warmly, while others stirred up much controversy. But all in all, with the above matters the trustees had final word.

The trustees were created by the Higher Education Act of 1966. The act called for the trustees to serve as the governing body of the college. They were given the power to establish policies, determine education curriculum, make personnel decisions, and look after the best interest of the college. It is called on to set long term as well as short term goals for the college and to see that these goals are attained. MSC's trustees consist of nine members. They are: Dr. Ernest May, Chairman; Borden Putnam, vice chairman; Millicent Anisfeld, Secretary; Dr. Lincoln Hawkins, Mary Jainerson, Lillian Valdes, Dr. Hans Hillerbrand, and Dr. Robert Birnbaum.

The ninth position is vacant due to a recent resignation and will be filled shortly. These people come from various academic and business oriented backgrounds. Each plays a vital role in the running of MSC and every student should be aware of this.

The position of student representative to the board comes in here. As student representative it is my job to present your interest and feelings to the trustees. I am a source of information to you, the students, to the SCA, and to the trustees. My role calls for me to keep you abreast of the new issues; to get your reactions to them and then relay your feelings to the trustees. The position calls for me to work closely with the SCA as we strive to make MSC a better place, and to solve your problems. It also calls on me to develop a good working relationship with the college administration as well as the trustees. Most of all, this position provides the most involved part of the decision making process, student input.

I am here not only to represent the student body but to serve each of you individually. It is my job to help you solve any problem, answer any question to the best of my ability, and to be open to any ideas or suggestions you may have. Without your input my position is useless, and the decisions of the trustees ineffective. You, the students, make MSC what it is today, and I've been prepared for it. I've been patient for too long already. I want results NOW. And believe me, I plan to get them.

The trustees meet once a month. The next meeting is Oct. 15, 1980 at 8 p.m. in the Russ Hall Lounge. I encourage you all to attend if you can. Ken Brown is the student representative to the board of trustees.
Integrity is an important quality when one looks at a presidential candidate. It is most often the character of a candidate and how he handles himself in the face of adversity.

President Carter's integrity throughout this presidential campaign leaves many questions about his character. The behavior against his opponents has been truthless, ruthless, and has directly hurt this country. Carter continues toward his three opponents show the facts.

Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) felt the wrath of his dirty politics the most of the three opponents. There are four points to be considered. The Carter campaign continuously brought up the Chappaquiddick incident, smearing Kennedy's character.

Carter also agreed to debate when losing, but when ahead declined. A misuse of his political power was in holding news conferences early in the morning on the days that primary voting took place.

Finally the most blatant example is how Carter, with help from the Democratic National Committee, pursued the "fairness doctrine" rule the first time it had ever been used in the history of the party.

Carter's behavior toward Ronald Reagan has also been quite negative. He has called Reagan a racist in so many words and refuses to debate him unless John Anderson is omitted from the debate.

Anderson's treatment has also been vindictive. Carter has called him a "take liberal" on occasions, and a "creation of the media," thus giving him no chance in his mind to determine the outcome of the election. Anderson shows that he is actually afraid of him.

Two incidents come to mind during the campaign. They looked as though they were "campaign induced" to produce enthusiasm and votes. The most tragic is that of the Iranian rescue mission. Ill-advised, it cost Carter his secretary of state and eight American lives, but it did produce a "rally around the flag" effect.

The second was the release of information pertaining to the Stealth, or "invisible" bomber, to silence critics of his defense policy. Both these incidents in fact hurt the integrity of the US throughout the world.

The point to be considered is that Carter has seemed to take the "do anything to win" attitude into the election. He has refused to debate and throughout the campaign has refused to address the issues. The reason being is that it would be difficult to defend his record. The question must be asked: Is he a man of integrity?

Phil Karali is a columnist for The Montclarion.

Between the lines/ Phill Karali

Carter a man of integrity?

Get your act together and join LASO

by Barbara Bonilla

The initials LASO stand for a very important organization on this campus. LASO is the only Latin American Student Organization of Class I standing of the SGA. It has been a long, hard road for us to achieve this, but with constant hard work and education, it has existed for 11 years and will go on existing with your help. What can you do? If you're a Latin American, a Spanish major, or not interested in Latin culture, then you should be joining us right now.

This year, we are busy planning many events. Our first, "get together," went very well. We had a large group turnout and the results of the evening were very prosperous. Our next event was a "Latin Cacaphony" with some brilliant Latin performers and an enjoyable evening for all. This took place on Sept. 24 at 8 pm in the third floor of the Student Center.

Our other events include: A Halloween dance with the Black Student Cooperative Union BSCU, a trip to NY to see the concert with Tito Puente, and many more exciting and interesting films and lectures with some special people.

Soapbox

Arts criticisms get a terrible review

It seems this paper’s film critics belong to the “A Critic Should Have Everything; It Shows He Has Great Values” school of criticism. Out of six reviews, the closest they came to a compliment was saying that Fame was “not bad—not great, but not bad.” I personally thought the movie was excellent.

In Chris Henderson's review of Xanadu, he assuming “Chris” is short for “Christopher” and not “Christina,” forgive me if I’m wrong, doesn’t even mention its frequent (and freaky) special effects, which is one of the highlights (or, if you believe Henderson, the highlight) of the movie.

He also complains about the lack of plot. So? Classics like Mary Poppins and Apocalypse Now have survived fine with just a trace of plot.

I don’t know what he thought was wrong with the “Tuesday is Wednesday” line. However, I’ll admit, in the review, it may have seemed a bit odd, but in the movie it made perfect sense. If he couldn’t understand it, the only explanation I could suggest is that he was dozing off.

Bonnie Jerbasi’s review was a mess. In her review of Airplane she said, “If there’s not such a gigantic, mood when I went to see it, I would have been reduced to tears.” First that is a “hypothetically contrary to fact,” an attempt to predict what would have happened if the situation was different. This technique is how Monday morning quarterbacks always win the game. Second, I believe this mood was caused by the movie itself; it put me into one, or possibly she was stove when she went to see it, which would explain her mood and her horsing around. In my humble opinion and that of several of my friends, it was the best comedy to come along in many years.

For a good review, it is important that the reviewer pay attention to the movie, although it seems doubtful Jerbasi was. The proper reply to Robert Hays is “Surely, you don’t mean...” “...and don’t call me Shirley,” not “My name is not Shirley.” It is spoken two times, not five, by Leslie Nielsen, not Robert Stack. She also states “the gags are so obvious...you’ll be laughing at it (the movie).” It was just as obvious that style was intentional.

As I have already stated, I thought Fame was excellent. Of the over twenty movies I’ve seen this year, it was the only one I thought worthy of my second viewing.

Even Richard Freedman, film critic, whom I believed to be the worst and most negative critic until I read The Montclarion, gave the three movies, Xanadu, Airplane and Fame, each three stars out of four, which is rather high for him. So, I’m not alone in my disagreement.

I do admit Raise the Titanic needed help, but Jerbasi was a bit off center when she said it was “two hours too long.” Basically it was the right idea in the wrong direction; the movie was two hours too short. It seems the excellent 314 page book doesn’t squeeze into small spaces as well as the Yogi Kostr, so it comes off with the depths of a cheap TV movie.

I have said “in my opinion” and words to that effect several times thought out this letter. They were notably absent in the newspapers’ reviews, as in most critiques, yet they are the most important words, for they show the reviewer knows that his humble opinion is just that, and not the word of God.

I will close this much too long letter with a piece of personal philosophy. A person gets out of a movie what he puts into it. Whether he goes looking for faults or entertainment, he will find it.

James M. Curran

Letters to the editor

All letters to the editor must be typed, double spaced, and submitted by noon Friday before Thursday’s edition. All letters will be edited for style and space. All letters must also include name, year, and major.
datebook

Thur., Oct. 2, 1980
FOLK DANCING: MSC Folk Dancers, Life Hall, Room 128, 8-10 pm, MSC students $50, others $1. Instructions and request dancing in international dance forms.
DISCUSSION: Barry Com­moner’s Citizens’ Party Informal Discussion, Anthropology Club, Russ Hall Lounge, 7:30 pm, free. Music, refreshments, voter registration. Explore the real solutions to our energy, environmental, and economics problems.
CLUB: Simu, Student Center Ballrooms, 8 pm, Free.
MEETING: Second Careers Club, Russ Hall Lounge, 8 pm.
DRAFT TEACH-IN: Sponsored by Montclair Students for Peace, Student Center Ballrooms A and B, 9 am-5 pm, Free. For more information call 471-5742.
Wed. Oct. 8, 1980
MEETING: Montclair Students for Peace, Student Center Fourth floor at noon. Free. Meets every Wednesday.
MEETING: Every Wednesday.

Looking for concert tickets?? Check out the Classifieds

KEAN COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY
JANUARY OVERSEAS 1981

- ETHNOGRAPHIC RESEARCH IN PUERTO RICO
  Jan. 8 — 18
- ASSESSMENT OF THE EXCEPTIONAL LEARNER: A CARRIBBEAN PERSPECTIVE
  Jan. 12 — 26
- THE POLITICS OF ISRAEL
  Dec. 28 — Jan. 18
- CONTEMPORARY LONDON THEATRE
  Jan. 3 — 17
- ENGLAND & GERMANY: A FOCUS ON GENERAL AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION
  Jan. 5 — 20
- SEX ROLES IN BRITISH READING MATERIALS
  Jan. 3 — 20
- RUSSIAN STUDIES IN LENINGRAD & MOSCOW
  Jan. 11 — 20
- LITERATURE AT ITS SOURCE: LONDON TO EDINBURG & BACK
  Jan. 3 — 20
- RELATED MUSICAL ARTS — AMSTERDAM, BERLIN, WARSAW
  Jan. 6 — 20

Credits for courses listed above are transferable.
WANTED: Car pool. Morristown Township, Basking Ridge Road, 2.25 miles. Call 893-1101 after 9:30 am. Even one day would help us both. WANTED: Are you a bass player in a progressive rock 'n' roll'? If you have experience, call Bob or Jim at 759-1653.

WANTED: Someone that can fix a refrigerator only three miles from campus. Please call Gini at 267-5578.

WANTED: Any female student who recently received an incidence of indirect exposure on campus, is asked to contact Sgt. Herbert Delaney or Sgt. Harold Mack at 893-5222 or 893-9674. We need your statement and eyewitness identification of the arrested suspect (from a group of photographs) in order to keep this man away from the campus. It could also help us to get him to treatment.

WANTED: Excellent phonographs, with tan vinyl top, new clutch, and nails cut. Two shots, $250. Call 751-6936. Debbie, after 5 area.

WANTED: Registered Doberman puppies, one week old. Beautiful sheep, a good buy at $200. Great gas mileage. Call 746-2919.

WANTED: Barnyard bartender. No experience necessary, will train. Great opportunity for college student. Call after 7 pm, 546-9782, ask for Marty.

WANTED: Square dance caller for country western dance parties. Four to be arranged. Call at 893-4843 or Frankie at ext. 353.

WANTED: Travel agency needs travel agents to help run ski trips in return for free trip plus commissions. Call Rich 828-4966.

WANTED: W. M. College looking for sports team management and related work. For more information call Steve Dalton at 893-9256.

WANTED: Roommate, Belleville area 6 rooms, $150 plus utilities, 751-6936. Debbie, after 5 pm.

WANTED: Male student wanted to clean bachelor's room. Do light repairs. One day or two half days per week and occasional hours shopping and helping out at dinner parties at home. Must be on campus. MSC, $4 per hour. Call 568-0454 weekdays and 256-1929 evenings and weekends.

TYPING: Typing done, quick and reasonable. MSC pickup and delivery. Call 835-2436 between 4 and 9 pm.

TYPING/WORD PROCESSING: Professional services, reasonable rates for papers, theses, dissertations. Call (211) 896-6667. 1:30 to June 1, 1981. The cost of $2,589 includes round trip jet fare to Spain, accommodations, meals, and related activities. For full information call 1-800-253-9964 (A Program of Trinity Christian College).

SEMESTER IN SPAIN: South Orange, NJ. 07079. 3:50. Almost Backstage, Box 575, South Orange, NJ. 07079. Concerts and theater tickets available. Send for free illustrated catalog. Contact Lens Supplies, Box 7453, Phoenix, AZ 85011.

WOMEN HELPING WOMEN: Cute, comical, full of life, great friends. Contact Lens Supplies, Box 7453, Phoenix, AZ 85011.

SEMINAR ON POWER AND COMMUNICATION: The NJ Department of Higher Education has reinstated the tuition credit program for the 1980-81 academic year. Applications are available at the veterans office Room 227, 5180 for veterans who served on active duty between Dec. 31, 1960-August, 1974.

LOST: Contact Lens Supplies, Box 7453, Phoenix, AZ 85011.
You are cordially invited to a PUBLIC SEMINAR and discussion on

Africans Attitudes Toward The U.S. Policy In Africa In 1970's & 1980's

DATE: Mon., Oct. 6
TIME: 3:30 - 5:00
PLACE: Russ Hall Lounge

SPEAKERS:
Dr. Wa-Githumo, Dept. of History
Dr. Cassilly, Dept of Political Science
Dr. Franke, Dept. of Sociology

SPONSORS: Afro-American Studies Program

DON'T MAKE ANY PLANS FOR OCT. 4 because the Alliance of Jewish Student Organization is starting the year with a:

WESTERN DISCO

DAY: Sat., Oct. 4
TIME: 8:30 - 12:30 pm
PLACE: YW — YWHA of Metro N.J.
760 Northfield Ave
West Orange, N.J.
PRICE: $2.99 Refreshments included with NOT ONE but TWO PROFESSIONAL DJ’S from SOUND ENTERTAINMENT with all kinds of dance music

So get into some WESTERN DUDS, hop on your horse, and gallop on down to the "Y" for the time of your life.

For more info. call: (DAY) JSS — 642-1922
(NITE) Lorraine - 943-8294

FREE

OVER THE GARDEN WALL
Natural Food Restaurant

SPECIALIZING IN GOURMET
NATURAL AND CONTINENTAL
CUISINE

in a soho like atmosphere
Located at
5 N. Fullerton Ave
Montclair (off Bloomfield Ave near the Clarendon Theatre)

HOURS
Juice Bar: 9 - 5:30
Lunch: 11:30 - 2:30
Dinner: 5:30 - 9:30

PLEASE BRING THIS COUPON YOUR CHOICE OF:
Freshly squeezed carrot juice
Homemade carrot cake
Honey ice cream
with the purchase of lunch or dinner

SPEAKERS needs the following musicians to complete their orchestra for their upcoming musical SHENANDOAH:

ATTENTION MUSICIANS:

Viola, Cello
Guitar/Banjo
Harmonica
Bassoon
Grundy leads Indians over Kean

by Ann Marie Miskewicz

Kean College's Kean homecoming festivities were spoiled Saturday afternoon as senior tailback Bill Grundy scored two second quarter touchdowns and added another fourth quarter to lead MSC over Kean, 28-13, in a New Jersey State College Athletic Conference NJSCAC game.

Over 300 yards in total penalties were called against both teams, which allowed for some questionable officiating for both sides, defensive coach McKinley Boston said. "There were some holding and clipping calls made that could not be verified afterwards in the game films."

MSC was penalized for 154 yards and Kean for 147 yards. "A Pop Warner team would not give up that many penalties," Boston emphasized.

Kean jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead in the second quarter, but soon lost it as MSC capitalized on two pass interference calls, both leading to touchdown runs by Grundy.

The first interference infraction called against Kean was the result of an aborted field goal attempt by MSC's kicker, Keith Sahlin. Holder Don Lewis could not get a grip on the ball, so Sahlin picked up the ball and fired it to Tony Cucci, who was interfered with on the two yard line. Two plays later, Grundy dove from the one yard line to tie the game 7-7.

MSC retained possession of the football after a successful on side kick by Sahlin was recovered by senior Terry Porter. Another pass interference call against Kean left the ball on the one yard line and Grundy again plunged over for the score, giving MSC a 14-7 halftime lead.

Early in the third quarter, with the ball on MSC's own 40 yard line, coach Fred Hill reached into his bag of tricks and called for an end around to wide receiver Porter. The speedster from Mahwah raced 60 yards for the score, giving MSC a 21-7 lead.

Grundy leads Indians over Kean

Freshman quarterback Mark Casale, from Union, made his MSC debut by replacing Scott Fischer in the fourth quarter, but it was short lived as he was intercepted by defensive back Paul Mertz, who dashed 23 yards for Kean's final score.

MSC's final score came after they took a short punt and drove 27 yards in four plays. Grundy went over from the three yard line, giving him a total of 82 yards for the day.

MSC also fell victim to the inept officiating early in the second half. Tight end Hubert Bond caught a 20 yard pass, and eluded at least seven tackles in a spectacular 68 yard touchdown run, only to see it nullified by a holding penalty.

Senior tackle Mike Popek led the defense with 13 tackles, followed by senior linebacker and co-captain Sam Mills with seven. The defense only allowed Kean 35 rushing yards in the game and has now given up only 114 yards rushing in three games for a 38.0 average per game.

Ramapo next for gridders

It will be "Montclair Night" at MSC this coming Saturday when the host Indians face Ramapo College/Ramapo in an 8 pm start. Montclair residents will be admitted to the game at half price, and festivities will take place to honor the town.

The game will be the first meeting on the gridiron between the two schools. Ramapo is competing as a varsity team this year after several seasons as a club football powerhouse. "I think that this should be the start of a very intense rivalry," MSC head coach Fred Hill commented. "Ramapo is a very good football team and until someone beats them, they are going to be very confident. That can really help a team," he added.

Ramapo has outscored its two opponents by a 43-9 margin in picking up a pair of victories. Quarterback Mike LaFrance has completed 51 percent of his passes while averaging just under 24 yards per completion. Linebacker John Boback has led the defense with 22 tackles thus far.

MSC has two straight victories following a season opening defeat. Tailback Bill Grundy has led the offense to those victories, rushing for 243 yards on 50 carries. Quarterback Scott Fischer has completed 57 percent of his passes in guiding the MSC offense with precision. The MSC defense is led by linebacker Sam Mills with 32 tackles and tackle Mike Popek with 26 tackles.

Both teams are 1-0 in New Jersey State College Athletic Conference play, with each owning a victory over Kean College. Ramapo beat the Squires, 16-0, and the Indians topped Kean, 28-13.

Sports Extras

The women's tennis team suffered their second setback of the season, last Saturday, as the Bucietts of Seton Hall University SHU breezed to a 7-2 victory at MSC.

MSC's second singles player, Mary Lynn DeFeo, provided all of the Tribe's "punch" as she accounted for victories in both singles and doubles. Her 6-4, 6-2 rout of SHU's Tina Sullivan gave the Squaws their first points in the match. Later in the day, she teamed with Sandy Ficair to blank Pam Carpenter and Laura Fairbanks 6-0, 6-0.

DeFeo was the only Squaw that really played her game vs SHU. The rest of the MSC squad seemed to be bothered by a strong wind that zipped across the courts.

On a whole, the Buciett's are not that much stronger than the Tribe. The lip sided scores are deceiving. Surely, the weather played a key role in the match.

GSC blanks Tribe for second straight

History repeated itself this Saturday as the MSC harriers were again shut out by an impressive Glassboro State College/GSC squad. Last season GSC defeated the Indians by the same score of 15-0. Saturday's loss evened MSC's record to 1-1.

GSC was led by a potential all-American, Ringo Adamson (24:47). The next six places were captured by GSC runners. Places two through six tied at 25:23, while seventh place was captured in 25:29.

The Tribe was led by Ian Gordon, whose time of 25:30 was only good enough for an eighth place finish. This was Gordon's best time on Garrett Mtn. "I am pleased with the fact that my times are dropping; however, I feel that I'm not running anywhere near my potential," he commented.

Following Gordon were Steve Boyle (26:17), Charles Cilwak (26:34), Kevin Leonard (26:46); and Dan Wiggins (27:10). Rounding out MSC's top seven finishers were Tom Schwarz (27:22) and Frank Nelson (27:47).

Coach James Harris was disappointed that his team did not fare better. He did, however, have some positive comments. "While the results are not a true indicator of the effort put into the race, I am pleased with the fact that all but one of my runners bettered their last week's performances," he noted.

The MSC harriers knew that GSC was going to be a tough meet, but they didn't realize just how tough. For some reason the Pros are always in peak condition when they run in Montclair, and this year was no exception. GSC's coach was even heard complimenting many of his runners on their personal record breaking performances.

In the sports corner/Matt Ward

Weather could affect Series play

This year's baseball season will conclude this week, and the playoffs and World Series which will follow could possibly be played in the same cold temperatures as last year's. John Dondrak has high series with a 624; possibly be played in the same conditions as last year's.

The venue for the playoffs might be the same as last year's. Weather could affect Series play. Cold temperatures as last year's. John Dondrak has high series with a 624. Possibly be played in the same conditions as last year's.

In women's volleyball, Woodstock leads the league with a 6-0 record. Two teams, the Ziggy's and the Wonder Women, follow in a close second with 4-1 records. Both teams are making strong bids for the championship.

IM Highlights

by Mike Ritz

After two weeks in the men's football league, only three teams remain unbeaten. In division I, the Terriers shut out the Shore Boys, 21-0 and beat Deathswish 19-6, to keep their record untarnished.

In division II, the Eastriders crushed the Bruins 28-0 and squeaked by the Verona Inn, 13-12. The Vegetables had wins over the Wizards, 34-0, and the Bootleggers, 30-0, to stay tied for first.

In the coed league, the Bomb Squad kept in its winning ways beating the Motley Crew 22-0 and Trouble 18-6. The Bohners put on another offensive show crushing Steve's Stampede, 43-16.

The Brass won both of their games and only scored four points in doing so. They won on good defense and timely safeties.

The Camroon Rags still lead all teams in the fall bowling league with a 14-0 record.

Charlie Goring leads in the high average category with a 196 average while Ken Brandt holds high game honors with a 224.平均 while Ken Brandt holds high game honors with a 224.

COMING EVENTS: Men's three-on-three basketball will be held on Tue., Oct. 7 and Wed., Oct. 8 at 8 pm in Panzer Gym. The SHEC Trivia Contest will be held on Wed., Oct. 8 at noon in the Student Center Ballrooms. Registration will be on sight.

Weather could affect Series play

This year's baseball season will conclude this week, and the playoffs and World Series will follow. Cold temperatures as last year's. John Dondrak has high series with a 624. Possibly be played in the same conditions as last year's.
Junior Alvaro Tarrago scored two goals and Frank Erli added the winner, as the Indians edged previously undefeated Pratt University Pratt, 3-2, last Saturday at Sprague Field.

It took them 427 minutes but they finally did it—MSC put the ball in the back of the net. After two preseason scrimmages and two early season losses, the Tribe had not been able to score. It seemed that a penalty kick might even become difficult to convert.

All of that became history, however, when with 17:05 gone in the first half. Tarrago took a Greg Srivala pass, lured Pratt goalkeeper Tarry Tabarov out of the net, and pushed into the left corner to tie the game at 1-1.

Pratt had gone on top just three minutes into the game when striker AI Young dribbled through the MSC defense and uncorked an 18 yard rocket past a diving Paul Huegel.

Erli—a fullback who switched to forward in the second half for added scoring punch—called the game winner at the 58:17 point of the second half. After receiving an indirect kick inside of Pratt's 20, Erli took a tap pass from Tarrago and booted it past an unprepared Labaron. Pratt's goalkeeper and defense had suffered a temporary mental lapse as they tried to form a wall in front of the goal.

Obviously not hearing the referee's whistle to play on, they stood in shock as Erli parried the Tribe's third goal.

Tarrago also had the Indians' second goal, tapping in a loose ball in front of the Pratt net just 7:03 after he had tied the game.

Pratt's other score came on a penalty kick late in the game after a hands ball was called against MSC.

Ed Ratavarung beat Huegel for a second half replacement Mike Tropiano to his right side for the score.

The game, which was switched to Sprague Field from Pratt's dust bowl in Brooklyn, NY, was a poor example of English style, kick and run soccer.

The 50 or so fans that sat in the windy mini stadium did see an MSC victory. They did not, however, see good soccer.

Almost the entire game was spent blindly booting the ball upfield and running after it. Rarely would either team crisply pass the ball from one side of the turf to the other.

MSC, for the first time all season, outshot their opponent, putting 19 shots on net to Pratt's 18.

Goalkeepers Huegel and Tropiano combined for 16 saves for the Tribe.

Tropiano made the save of the game—and the year, thus far—diving high in the air to deflect an almost sure goal, over the crossbar, with Pratt pressuring late in the game.

The Indians have two big conference games upcoming. On Sat., Oct. 4, MSC opposes Stockton State College on Sprague Field at 1 pm. Three days later, on Tue., Oct. 7, the Tribe goes up against William Paterson College, in Wayne at 8 pm.