Candidates gain little in debate

by Naedine Hazell

Although poll results following Tuesday night's debate between President Jimmy Carter and Gov. Ronald Reagan are not yet in, the consensus is that neither presidential candidate gained significantly by their appearances.

Nothing new was said by either candidates and the theatrics were kept to a minimum, some commentators feel, due to the bland content of the questions.

State coordinators for the three main presidential campaigns contacted yesterday afternoon held diverse opinions of the debate and how it will affect NJ voters.

Kathy Hall, state coordinator of the John Anderson campaign, felt the League of Women Voters, did a good service to the American people. "by not having Anderson take part in the debate, in her estimation, could influence voters two ways: "People may think," after having seen the debate, "My god, they're both losers and vote for Anderson, which is what we're hoping for."

On the other hand, they may feel that because he wasn't a part of the debate he is not running," which isn't true, she said. The media is not treating Anderson as a viable candidate for the presidency. She said NJ voters are traditionally independent and hopes they will continue to vote in this tradition.

Steve McManush, field director for the Reagan/Bush campaign said, "We are very pleased with the debate. We feel that Reagan put a lot of people at ease last night."

He felt however that it's difficult to say so soon just what the public's reaction to the debate would be, "It usually takes time to sink in," McManush said. He felt Carter was helped by not having Anderson there because the incumbent had at least one of his flanks protected.

Press Secretary for the NJ Carter Mondale campaign, Jim McQueen, said, "Reagan was usual simplistic. He just reiterated whole segments of his standard speech. McQueen thought the debates would lead the electorate to consider the vagueness of Reagan's speech. "He freely criticized, but never said what he would do," McQueen charged. As to the vote in NJ, he felt since Carter is pro labor, an important issue in this state, he represented their interests. McQueen claimed that much of the latest Eagleton polls conducted in NJ showed that of the previously undecided voters 32 percent were now in favor of Carter and 32 percent were favoring Reagan.

According to reports in yesterday's New York Times, Carter seemed to have a slight edge during the debates, until the closing remarks when Reagan asked, "Are you better off than you were four years ago?" There more or less unemployment than there was four years ago? Is America as much respected? Throughout the debate, Carter concentrated on criticizing nearly all of Reagan's points, calling them "dangerous" and "disturbing."

In reference to Reagan's stand on the SALT II treaty he said, "There is a disturbing pattern in the attitude of present Reagan. When a man who hopes to be President says take this treaty, and then oppose it, do not vote, do not debate, do not explore the issues, do not finally capitulate on this long negotiation--that is a very dangerous and disturbing thing.

College to put 'bite' in tickets

by Mike Davino

Students who have been ignoring campus parking tickets may be in for a surprise when they attempt to register in the future. Efforts are underway to prevent students who have three or more unpaid tickets from registering.

Campus police and security have shifted emphasis from municipal to campus tickets in an effort to, "keep money from leaving the campus," according to Sgt. Charles Paige of the campus police.

Charles Moore, assistant director of business services, said, "We're going to step up enforcement in the future."

Students who have ignored three or more tickets will probably be prevented from registering. The new policy may be in effect by the end of this semester.

According to Moore, between July 1979 and July 1980, 4,000 campus parking tickets were issued. Of these, 1,723 or 39 percent went unpaid. The loss of revenue due to unpaid tickets during that period amounted to $8,615.

Paige said, "We originally shifted from campus to municipal tickets because the campus tickets had no bite."

"For the results of The Montclarion election poll, turn to p. 3.

Students who have three or more unpaid tickets from registering.

Efforts are underway to prevent students who have three or more unpaid tickets from registering.

This semester however we're again issuing more campus tickets. Around 1,000 have been issued in the past two weeks," Paige said. "We'll see how it works out. We may have to go back to municipal tickets again," he added.

"The campus tickets are issued by campus police, security, and by student aides," Paige said. "There are seven student aides who work varying hours, depending on their class schedules," Paige continued.

"Campus tickets may be appealed to the Board on Transportation Affairs," BOTA, Paige said. "Students can pick up the appeal form at the Business Office. BOTA meets every Thursday to consider the appeals," Paige, who is a member of BOTA added. Dennis Bloshak, another BOTA member, said about 60 percent of the appeals were approved last year.

According to the parking rules printed in the Schedule of Courses, booklets the fines are, for the first violation is $5 and for the second and third violations is $10. The fines may be paid within 10 days of the issue date at the Business Office.

"Moore said, "Security is being sent computer printouts periodically to make them aware of who the repeating offenders are."

For students views on the candidates, see the centerfold.
Stockton guilty of sex bias

(POMONA, NJ)--Stockton State College (SSC) was found guilty of sex discrimination when Dr. Jeanne-André Nelson, assistant professor of French, was denied tenure in December 1979. SSC was ordered to reconsider her for reappointment conferring tenure, The Voice of Higher Education reported.

"This award is a landmark in our nation's efforts on behalf of minorities and women," Mareantonio Lacatena, president of the NJ Council of State College Locals, American Federation of Teachers AFT AFL-CIO who represented Nelson, said in an Oct. 13 press release. "Stockton's affirmative action policy, since its inception in 1972, was "wildly skewed in favor of males, and that the distribution by rank was even more gross."" Lacatena said.

The hearing on Ali will be held at the next meeting of the commission, no date given.

Hostage ceremony planned

(UPPER MONTCLAIR, NJ)--On Tue., Nov. 4, a peaceful, nonreligious service commemorating a year of captivity for the US hostages in Iran will be held at noon in the Student Center Mall. Dr. David W.D. Dickson, MSC president, Brian Cige, SGA president, and Rev. Kenneth Herbst will discuss the hostage situation.

The service is organized by SSCA legislators Meryl Yourish and Deanna Baron.

"As future leaders of this country, it's our responsibility to understand the hostage situation," Dickson said. "We should also be concerned with the future of the 52 Americans." Dickson, Cige, and Herbst agreed that students should have more freedom to express their opinions. Dickson said, "In the future, we should also be concerned with the events that have taken place in the Middle East." Cige said, "We should be concerned with the future of the hostages." Herbst added, "International events such as this should touch each of us in our everyday lives."

Elephants killed in Africa

(WASHINGTON, DC)--A respected animal expert reported a shocking development in Africa: Thousands of elephants are being slaughtered each month to satisfy the demand for ivory jewelry, art objects, and even piano keys.

"It's her conclusion that only 1,300,000 elephants have survived in 35 nations and they say the beasts are being killed off faster than they can reproduce." Herbst added. "I have no objection to paying for the yearbook. However, it seems too bad that we are paying off a past debt. The money should be going toward a better yearbook," Wilf said. "I have no objection to paying for the yearbook. However, it seems too bad that we are paying off a past debt. The money should be going toward a better yearbook," Wilf said. "I have no objection to paying for the yearbook. However, it seems too bad that we are paying off a past debt. The money should be going toward a better yearbook," Wilf said. "I have no objection to paying for the yearbook. However, it seems too bad that we are paying off a past debt. The money should be going toward a better yearbook," Wilf said. "I have no objection to paying for the yearbook. However, it seems too bad that we are paying off a past debt. The money should be going toward a better yearbook," Wilf said.
Carter favored in student poll

by Dennis Bloshuk

A recent poll conducted by The Montclarion showed President Jimmy Carter as the marginal favorite in next week's presidential election.

The poll, conducted last week, shows of the 100 students interviewed, 38 percent favored Carter; 28 percent said they would vote for the independent candidate, John Anderson, and 20 percent favored the republicus candidate, Ronald Reagan. Eleven percent of the students polled said they were undecided.

Upon hearing the results of the poll, a spokesman for the Carter campaign in NJ said, "I'm glad we won. It's only 100 students, but it's a nice sign." The spokesman added that the people working on the Carter campaign are expecting students to come out for Carter.

Carter was also favored in the poll as having the best qualities for dealing with foreign and domestic affairs, and the best leadership qualities.

Despite the crisis in Iran, Carter is heavily favored as having the best qualities for foreign affairs by a two to one margin over Reagan and Anderson. Fifty percent felt Carter was best, while Reagan and Anderson each received 20 percent. Ten percent said they were undecided.

A spokesman for the Reagan campaign in NJ said he was "surprised" by the results. He felt Carter's foreign policy was obviously not working and that even his closest advisors were apologizing for it.

Carter also led the field for the best qualities to deal with domestic affairs with a sizeable showing of 41 percent, as compared to 28 percent for Reagan and 11 percent undecided.

However, when asked who had the best leadership qualities, students preferred Carter over Reagan by a mere one percent margin. Anderson received 21 percent, while 16 percent were undecided.

Although considered unlikely to win the election, Anderson was actually favored over Reagan in several of the questions. Both candidates tied on the question dealing with qualities needed to handle foreign affairs, while a margin of 10 percent considered Reagan the better choice for leadership qualities.

A state coordinator for the Anderson campaign felt The Montclarion poll was atypical in terms of other college polls. "People are forgetting that Anderson is still running because the mass media has been telling people that he's no longer running," she said.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Montclarion election poll</th>
<th>If the presidential election were held today, who would you vote for?</th>
<th>Whom do you think has the best qualities for dealing with foreign affairs?</th>
<th>Whom do you think has the best leadership qualities?</th>
<th>Whom do you feel has the best leadership qualities?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Carter</td>
<td>36%</td>
<td>41%</td>
<td>32%</td>
<td>31%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reagan</td>
<td>23%</td>
<td>20%</td>
<td>32%</td>
<td>21%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson</td>
<td>28%</td>
<td>28%</td>
<td>28%</td>
<td>21%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Undecided</td>
<td>11%</td>
<td>11%</td>
<td>11%</td>
<td>16%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

VP of academic affairs:

Police charged with harassment

by Regina Brzek

Andy McCormick, SGA vice president of academic affairs, has accused two campus police officers of harassment stemming from a report he made public last semester which revealed what he considered unprofessional conduct on the part of the campus police force.

The two officers, Sgt. John Johnston and Michael Potaski, were arrested by Jayne Rich, chief of campus police force. McCormick met with Jayne Rich, chief of campus police force.

"As I got out of my car, my face was covered with a blindfold," said McCormick. He said Rich also had a "handcuff" on his right hand and a "shoe" on his right foot.

McCormick said this next encounter with the officers was particularly harrassing following regulations. McCormick said this next encounter with the officers was particularly harrassing.

"I was concerned, as is everyone, that we maintain a separation of church and state," said McCormick.

A spokesman for the Chi Alpha chapter said, "Chi Alpha is a religious organization that has been the subject of controversy for the past two weeks.

Chi Alpha, nondenominational and religious group chartered by the SGA, was brought under review after an MSC student charged the chapter with "abusing its privileges in order to promote its religious organization." The suit would involve the law of separation of church and state, and would ultimately be made against the Chi Alpha chapter.

Chi Alpha's present charter holds the SGA responsible for its interests in court.

"I am concerned, as is everyone, that we maintain a separation of church and state as well as for allowing for the kind of help and counseling that the chaplains have historically provided," said Jean Armstrong, dean of student affairs.

Ron Naples, president of the Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee of the SGA, said he was satisfied with the resolution of the matter.

"Chi Alpha has been bringing this matter to the attention of the SGA and we have been working with them to resolve the issue," Naples said.

In a press release, the AntiDefamation League/ADL of B'nai B'rith reported that "The encroachment of religious activities in schools was attributed to a trend toward more conservative social attitudes in the public at large, the growing strength of Christian evangelical organizations and some religious organizations attempting to influence public institutions, and the willingness of students to be tolerated. For example things that professors say today, which might not have been accepted ten years ago, are easily accepted today, and so many other things are tolerated. For example things that professors say today, which might not have been accepted ten years ago, are easily accepted today.

"I think that religious organizations have every right in the world to be on campus. I don't see why everyone has trouble tolerating things that professors say today," said McCormick. McCormick said this next encounter with the officers was particularly harrassing.

"My name is McCrimick," McCormick said. "I have been telling people that he's no longer running because the mass media has been telling people that he's no longer running," she said.

SGA addresses Chi Alpha charter

by Mary Ann D'Urso

Last night the Constitutional Review Committee of the SGA scheduled an emergency meeting for Monday to recommend changes to the charter of Chi Alpha, a campus religious organization that has been the subject of controversy for the past two weeks.

Chi Alpha, a nondenominational religious group chartered by the SGA, has been under review after an MSC student charged the chapter with "abusing its privileges in order to promote its religious organization." The suit would involve the law of separation of church and state, and would ultimately be made against the Chi Alpha chapter.

Chi Alpha's present charter holds the SGA responsible for its interests in court.

"I am concerned, as is everyone, that we maintain a separation of church and state as well as for allowing for the kind of help and counseling that the chaplains have historically provided," said Jean Armstrong, dean of student affairs.

Ron Naples, president of the Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee of the SGA, said he was satisfied with the resolution of the matter.

"Chi Alpha has been bringing this matter to the attention of the SGA and we have been working with them to resolve the issue," Naples said.

In a press release, the AntiDefamation League/ADL of B'nai B'rith reported that "The encroachment of religious activities in schools was attributed to a trend toward more conservative social attitudes in the public at large, the growing strength of Christian evangelical organizations and some religious organizations attempting to influence public institutions, and the willingness of students to be tolerated. For example things that professors say today, which might not have been accepted ten years ago, are easily accepted today, and so many other things are tolerated. For example things that professors say today, which might not have been accepted ten years ago, are easily accepted today.

"I think that religious organizations have every right in the world to be on campus. I don't see why everyone has trouble tolerating things that professors say today," said McCormick. McCormick said this next encounter with the officers was particularly harrassing.

"My name is McCrimick," McCormick said. "I have been telling people that he's no longer running because the mass media has been telling people that he's no longer running," she said.

SGA addresses Chi Alpha charter

by Mary Ann D'Urso

Last night the Constitutional Review Committee of the SGA scheduled an emergency meeting for Monday to recommend changes to the charter of Chi Alpha, a campus religious organization that has been the subject of controversy for the past two weeks.

Chi Alpha, a nondenominational religious group chartered by the SGA, has been under review after an MSC student charged the chapter with "abusing its privileges in order to promote its religious organization." The suit would involve the law of separation of church and state, and would ultimately be made against the Chi Alpha chapter.

Chi Alpha's present charter holds the SGA responsible for its interests in court.

"I am concerned, as is everyone, that we maintain a separation of church and state as well as for allowing for the kind of help and counseling that the chaplains have historically provided," said Jean Armstrong, dean of student affairs.

Ron Naples, president of the Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee of the SGA, said he was satisfied with the resolution of the matter.

"Chi Alpha has been bringing this matter to the attention of the SGA and we have been working with them to resolve the issue," Naples said.
Lawsuit costs

Confusion over the meaning of the term "c.c." in blueprints for the construction of the Student Center resulted in faulty construction. That's the latest development in a MSC's $182,000 lawsuit against the center's contractor and architect.

In the blueprints drawn up by the architect, Charles Luckman of Los Angeles, CA, the letters c.c. were written on bricks to be placed in the center mall. The architect intended the abbreviation to mean construction joints—joints that would permit contraction or expansion due to temperature changes. The contractor, the Thomas Construction Co. of Wayne, thought the letters stood for construction joints, a term used to divide the workload into portions. The confusion caused the construction joints not to be installed, resulting in loose bricks, leaks in the center walls, and loose aluminum posts, among other faults. (The confusion cost MSC $52,130 in loose bricks, $18,888 to repair aluminum posts, $27,800 to repair leak, plus $83,162 in other repairs and expenses, totaling $182,000.)

"The contractor is blaming the architect, and the architect is blaming the contractor," Jerome Quinn, director of institutional planning, said. Because of the confusion behind "c.c.," MSC had to pay $182,000 to repair 15 faults in the center last spring, he said.

MSC is suing the architect, Luckman, and the contractor, Thomas. The Educational Facilities Authority/EFA is the plaintiff on MSC's behalf, represented by Marianne Manning, the NJ state deputy attorney. The first defendants to testify this week are Luckman and Thomas.

Quinn has attended the court for the past week, while the suit was heard daily since Sept. 22 in the Passaic County Courthouse by Judge Irving I. Rubin. A six person jury is deciding the case.

To date, the plaintiff has rested and the defendant is stating his case, according to a spokesperson from Rubin's office.

Surrounded by blueprints and papers, Quinn seemed optimistic that MSC will win the case. 'I believe that we (at MSC) are completely right in this matter and we'll get repayment.' A spokesperson for the construction company said Thomas was unavailable for comment.

According to a spokesperson, it may be another week before the suit goes before the jury. 'It depends on how many witnesses are testifying for the defendant,' she said.

Testifying on the state's behalf were: Leonard Donato and Edward Bambach, both of EFA, Jesse Schwartz, a construction expert, Donald Shive, an architectural engineer, Quinn, and Al Wansley, the state architect for NJ, Quinn said.

Consumer Corner

Don't rely on tampons

by Lori McDonough

"Nothing is safe anymore." This is the reaction from many consumers, especially women, to the recent news that tampon use can be linked to toxic shock syndrome (TSS). In the past few months, there has been a link between tampon use and toxic shock until further studies have been completed.

Although the disease strikes mostly women, there have been reported cases of men contracting TSS. The symptoms are very similar to those of the flu: high fever, vomiting, and diarrhea. The most distinctive symptom is the peeling of the skin about 10 days after onset.

According to statistics from the Los Angeles Times, "there have been 408 cases reported with 49 deaths. The incidence varies from region to region, according to how effective the region's surveillance is. Although the connection between toxic shock and tampons has been established, the evidence is still somewhat fuzzy. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, GA, is conducting tests to determine more substantial data. What they do know now is that toxic shock is caused by staphylococcus aureus, a bacterium which secretes a toxin that gets into the bloodstream and causes the symptoms. What they are attempting to determine is if tampons contain anything which might enhance the growth of this bacterium. Until more definite conclusions are available to the public, several actions have been taken to keep the situation under control. Store managers have removed all tampons—the brand linked most to toxic shock—from their shelves. The Food and Drug Administration/FDA has decided to require a label on all tampons warning that there is a link that has been established between these tampons and toxic shock.

The Los Angeles Times also reported that "Women can almost entirely eliminate the risk of toxic shock by not using tampons." Should they choose not to change their personal habits, it might be wise to use tampons for only a part of the day, preferably in the afternoon instead of at night. If a woman develops any of the symptoms described above, she should remove the tampon and call a physician immediately.

Health fair coming

Over 50 health related campus and community organizations, including the American Cancer Society-ACS, the NJ Mental Health Players, and the National Council on Alcoholism, will be on hand in the Student Center Wed., Nov. 5, from 9 am-5 pm for the 1980 Health Fair.

Sponsored by the Health Professions Association and the department of health professions, the fair will make available a number of valuable screenings and tests. A Sequoia Medical Analysis System/SMAC blood chemistry analysis, that performs 22 different analyses on one blood sample, will be available for an $8 charge. Other tests, from tests for tuberculosis to urinalysis, will also be available.

For more information, contact Dr. Joan Fieke at 893-4103 or Dr. John Redd at 893-4187.

Women's Choice

A NEW Reproductive Health Center Designed for Women

FREE pregnancy tests  FREE counseling

ABORTION by board certified gynecologists

One Low Fee • Strictly Confidential

489-2266

10 Zabriskie Street, Hackensack

PART TIME EMPLOYMENT

UNITED PARCEL SERVICE

SADDLE BROOK

LOADING/UNLOADING

$5.51/hr. to

$9.19/hr.

FULL BENEFITS

APPLY: TUES. & THURS.

9 AM TO 3 PM

At ST. ATHANASIOS CHURCH

51 PARAMUS ROAD, PARAMUS

OR CALL 864-2810 ex.255

*
Ex-custodian threatens supervisor

by Chris Carroll

A former custodian in the Student Center allegedly threatened the supervisor of student center personnel during a telephone conversation on Oct. 24, according to officer Robert Williams. The custodian had been fired on Sept. 13 for "excessive absenteeism and insubordination" and had complained to his supervisor of his troubles with unemployment, Williams said. In the telephone conversation, the custodian allegedly said, "I'm going to get you," Williams said. No charges have been brought against the custodian, but he has been warned of his actions, Williams said.

A report of a suspicious person in Panzer Gym was filed by a graduate assistant on Oct. 21 at 8:02 pm. Officer Charles Jones spoke with the assistant, who said she saw a person, who she believed was male, standing behind a shower curtain. The assistant told the person he was in the wrong area of the gym; then she left the area. The lifeguard on duty was notified, and the area was checked. No one was found in the area, the report stated.

Two thefts occurred on the fourth floor of the Student Center between 3:40 and 6:30 pm on Oct. 20. The first theft occurred sometime after a member of Players left the Class I Organization's office. When the president of Players returned to the office, he found a typewriter and an adding machine missing. Officer James Faschnacht responded. Officer Debra Newcombe was dispatched to the center that same night on a second report of a theft. A member of the Latin American Student Organization/LASO was not sure if he locked the office. A duffle bag and camera were stolen, the report stated. The two thefts, which campus police said may possibly be related, are under investigation.

A theft of three typewriters and a calculator from an office in Chapin Hall occurred between Oct. 20 and 21. According to the report, the perpetrator entered Room 106 by an undetermined method and removed the missing items. The value of the stolen property is approximately $2,355. Officer Robert Williams is investigating.

A trash can fire was extinguished in the Math Science Building by officer Joseph Pezzino on Oct. 25. Pezzino smelled smoke in the first floor hallway and discovered a trash can ablaze near Room 106. He put out the fire with an extinguisher, and, with the assistance of Sgt. Herbert Lloyd, searched the building for other fires, but none were found.

SGA News

Contract bill fails

by Susan Solomon

Last night the legislature voted down a bill which, if passed, would have delegated contractual signing power to the office of the SGA treasurer. The bill, which was coauthored by the Appropriations and Government and Administrations Committees and submitted at last week's SGA meeting, was presented to the SGA attorneys. The attorneys' review of the matter suggested that a conference between the president and treasurer concerning the SGA's financial status would be most helpful in determining which Class I Organization event contracts are feasible and worthy of the president's signed approval. However, they felt that the mandatory inclusion of the treasurer's signature on the document would be little more than a detriment to the processing of the contracts which are already tightly constrained by the time element of the current approval process.

During the legislative debate on the bill it was also brought up that passage of this bill would require a statute change in the SGA constitution, lessening the powers of the office of the president. It was also expressed by several legislators that such action would leave the other executive board positions open to reinterpretation, something the legislature feels is unnecessary.

Len Ricci and Phillip Karali were appointed legislators at large from the business and political science departments respectively.

A bill was passed endorsing the Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee's investigation into the possibility of MSC creating its own marching band.

For all events sponsored by Class II Organizations requiring ticket sales, it was voted that an attended sales table be operated for a minimum of 30 minutes per day in the Student Center lobby until all tickets are sold.
Parking lot—or a college?

Commuters have cars, some 8200 with decals. MSC has parking spaces, some 4400. Campus police have tickets, some 1000 in the last two weeks. And course booklets and registration forms go hand in hand. You wonder how it all ties together—simple. The administration is considering banning registration for those students who have three or more parking tickets. The move is intended to inhibit the creative parker, the one who stops due to frustration and fatigue and refuses to find two painted white lines.

This possible move by the administration will not work. The college is obligated to provide parking spaces for all decreed students. When the institution does not meet its responsibility, how can anything less than angry students be expected?

MSC is allegedly an institution of higher education. The administration is turning its back on the very principles of its existence should this plan be adopted. How can a learning facility deny its body food for thought? An empty classroom becomes one large. Does the backbone of MSC lie in parking lots or ticket happy police?

MSC is a commuter college. Parking is a very real problem for the majority of the student body. Students cannot be expected to pay for the problems of a construction happy campus. Students did not create the parking dilemma on this campus. Being locked out of classes cannot be expected.

MSC has taught it?

MSC is allegedly an institution of higher education. The administration is turning its back on the very principles of its existence should this plan be adopted. How can a learning facility deny its body food for thought? An empty classroom becomes one large. Does the backbone of MSC lie in parking lots or ticket happy police?

MSC is a commuter college. Parking is a very real problem for the majority of the student body. Students cannot be expected to pay for the problems of a construction happy campus. Students did not create the parking dilemma on this campus. Being locked out of classes cannot be expected.

In the end does education mean playing the parking game?

Why should students buy decals for nonexistent parking spots? Why should students pay for tickets they receive when they have to make their own parking areas because the administration cannot provide such areas?

The administration cutting off the education of its students for exercising everything that the administration cannot provide such areas?

the institution does not meet its responsibility, how can anything less than angry students be expected?

The administration is turning its back on the very principles of its existence should this plan be adopted. How can a learning facility deny its body food for thought? An empty classroom becomes one large. Does the backbone of MSC lie in parking lots or ticket happy police?

MSC is a commuter college. Parking is a very real problem for the majority of the student body. Students cannot be expected to pay for the problems of a construction happy campus. Students did not create the parking dilemma on this campus. Being locked out of classes cannot be expected.

In the end does education mean playing the parking game?

Why should students buy decals for nonexistent parking spots? Why should students pay for tickets they receive when they have to make their own parking areas because the administration cannot provide such areas?

The administration cutting off the education of its students for exercising everything that the administration cannot provide such areas?

"No, I won't do it. I've been trying to avoid it for weeks. I will not do it, Nora."

"You've got to do it. It's your civic duty. You just can't ignore it and he will go anyway."

"Just watch me."

"You have to write about the election."

"What election?"

"I'll forget you just said that."

"And I'll forget what you just said. Why can't I just write about the parking problem?"

"Meryl, nobody wants to hear about the parking problem."

"Nora, just look at the choices we have. A peanut farmer, a retired actor, and a congressman. Translated, that's four more years like the last four. Do you want to sit there, or—well, you've read all about Abscam, I presume."

"You can't judge people by their former occupations. As I recall, you were washing dogs three years ago," Nora said.

"Bathing," I corrected. "Not washing. I was a dog baker."

"But he's got the job for a month."

"What happened? Were you all washed up?" I said, breaking into hysteric laughter.

"Funny, Nor. You ought to write a humor column or something. Wit like that shouldn't be wasted."

"You're getting nasty lately. Are you still upset that you didn't get the Pulitzer last year?"

"I think I still haven't discussed the election."

"What do you want me to say?" I screamed. "I feel like we're choosing between Woop, woop, woop or sticks his finger in your eye or has curly hair."

"Now look, Meryl. I think you're going a bit too far. None of them have curly hair."

"Do you realize no one even knows what color Reagan's hair really is? Or even if it's all his."

"Who cares?"

"Exactly!" I cried. "Who cares? I will read the papers, and I will listen to the debates, and I will definitely vote, but I will not write a column about Huey, Dewey, and Louie."

"Do you realize no one even knows what color Reagan's hair really is? Or even if it's all his."

Meryl Yorough is a staff writer for The Montclarion.

On Second Thought/Meryl Yorough

Election ’80: who cares?

"No, I won't do it. I've been trying to avoid it for weeks. I will not do it, Nora."

"You've got to do it. It's your civic duty. You just can't ignore it and hope it will go anyway."

"You have to write about the election."

"What election?"

"I'll forget you just said that."

"And I'll forget what you just said. Why can't I just write about the parking problem?"

"Meryl, nobody wants to hear about the parking problem."

"Nora, just look at the choices we have. A peanut farmer, a retired actor, and a congressman. Translated, that's four more years like the last four. Do you want to sit there, or—well, you've read all about Abscam, I presume."

"You can't judge people by their former occupations. As I recall, you were washing dogs three years ago," Nora said.

"Bathing," I corrected. "Not washing. I was a dog baker."

"But he's got the job for a month."

"What happened? Were you all washed up?" I said, breaking into hysteric laughter.

"Funny, Nor. You ought to write a humor column or something. Wit like that shouldn't be wasted."

"You're getting nasty lately. Are you still upset that you didn't get the Pulitzer last year?"

"I think I still haven't discussed the election."

"What do you want me to say?" I screamed. "I feel like we're choosing between Woop, woop, woop or sticks his finger in your eye or has curly hair."

"Now look, Meryl. I think you're going a bit too far. None of them have curly hair."

"Do you realize no one even knows what color Reagan's hair really is? Or even if it's all his."

"Who cares?"

"Exactly!" I cried. "Who cares? I will read the papers, and I will listen to the debates, and I will definitely vote, but I will not write a column about Huey, Dewey, and Louie."

"Do you realize no one even knows what color Reagan's hair really is? Or even if it's all his."

Meryl Yorough is a staff writer for The Montclarion.

On Second Thought/Meryl Yorough

Election ’80: who cares?
Guest Spot

Karali's column questioned

by Mike Sinatra

Obviously, The Montclarion columnist Phil Karali has had little experience in political commentary, otherwise he would not have written such a trite and trivial column on President Jimmy Carter for the Oct. 2 issue of The Montclarion. Karali did not bother to examine the truly relevant factors of this election, namely the stands of individual candidates and their parties on key issues. Instead, he chose to define a rather halfhearted rabbit punch at the image of Carter. I am writing this rebuttal because I believe it is necessary to bring Karali out of the clouds and reveal to him the true nature of US politics.

First of all, Karali alleges that Carter's 'misused political power' has had a harmful impact on his major opponents during this campaign. Politics is a rough game, Karali; you do not get penalized for hitting your opponent from the blind side, or for stealing his "Get out of jail free" cards. Any possible advantage must be seized, quickly and decisively, by a candidate. Besides, the scheduling of an optimistic news conference on the day of a primary hardly constitutes "misuse of political power." Richard Nixon, a republican endorser of Ronald Reagan, was the true epitome of a president misusing his power, and no one with any political acumen at all would even remotely consider Carter's actions analogous to Nixon's. Carter's stress on Chappaquidick and his emphasis on Reagan's ultraconservative (yes, nearly racist) background demonstrates a shrewd, incisive, politically sharp mind, and not the haphazard rambling of an inept candidate attempting to disguise a lesser than sparkling career behind a flurry of political counterpunching, a la Reagan.

Just as, take offense to some of Karali's alleged "facts" pertaining to the Carter campaign. First, the "faithful delegate" rule, which bound each delegate elected in state primaries to the candidate chosen by the voters, has been enacted in every Democratic Party convention since the institution of the primary reform laws in the early part of this century. Such a rule is essential to a democratic process because it gives the average voter, not a convention delegate or a backroom party boss, the power of candidate selection. Karali attempted to portray this standard procedure as a Carter ploy concocted for the sole purpose of securing the presidency. That the attempt failed is tragic, but to call the rescue mission an underhanded political maneuver is a distortion of reality.

Fourth, Karali attacked the release of information pertaining to the Stealth, or noxious bomber, as a political move to divert criticism away from his defense policy. There is no doubt that the leak of information was intentional; however, considering that technology of this sort has been in use for at least 10 years, a leak of some general information is not as earthshattering as Karali would have us believe. The reason why the leak occurred is quite obvious. Reagan has been portraying himself as a junior John Wayne splashing ashore at Normandy with guns drawn, shouting, "Okay, Carter, what have you done to strengthen the US and make it more secure?" To which Carter, sly and subtle as always, released some information about the Stealth technology, which has been and will continue to be upgraded according to the provisions of Carter's defense budgets over the past four years.

Finally, Karali asks if Carter is a man of integrity or if he is just doing anything to win. My response would be that Carter is certainly a man of integrity, who is doing everything necessary to win in November.

Reagan may rant and rave, and Anderson may insist that third party candidates espousing $50 a gallon gasoline taxes could win, but the shrewd, honest and intelligent political talents of Carter should prevail on Nov. 4.

Mike Sinatra is a junior political science major.

Point of information

Winter housing made possible in Freeman

by Brian Cige

An opportunity not available to MSC students for the past several years will be an option for many during this winter session period. That option is housing in Freeman Hall.

I initiated the idea not only for those who need an extra three credits to graduate, but also for those who find commuting is too expensive, if not impossible, and for those who have not yet experienced dorm living.

Furthermore, athletes need to be here to train for their winter sports, students have to be here to rehearse for school plays, and foreign / independent students either can't make it home, or don't have a home to make it to.

Many students have to consider their employment schedule. On campus, jobs continue, and, more importantly, it is very difficult to take a month's leave of absence from an off campus job. We should make every possible attempt to help students earn their salary when it helps them pay their way through school.

The cost for this program will lessen with the number of participants. Of primary importance is that the room, board, and tuition are covered for those who qualify for financial aid.

Meal tickets guarantee a hot lunch and dinner five days a week. Costs may seem high, but the overhead varies little in preparing food for 100 or 600 students. The room will cost less than $35 a week.

Look for more information in the Housing Office, fourth floor, Bohn Hall, or contact John Shearman, assistant director of housing (893-5232). Take advantage of this opportunity. Applications are available now through October 31. Contact Shearman if your interest arises after the deadline. Good luck and thanks.

Brian Cige is SGA president.

Students Speak

Carter chosen hands down

by Georgia Panagakos and Phil Lanoue

Who do you think you'll vote for in the upcoming presidential election?

"President Carter, of course. Not because I really want to, but because I'm afraid of Reagan getting in. Reagan is too aggressive and too conservative for me."

Cathy Lauer 1982 psychology

"My vote is going to Carter because I think that he has gained a lot of experience in his four year term. Also, because he believes in peace and in helping the common man."

John Zue 1982 computer science

"Carter. I figure, as it is right now, it's hard to choose any of the new candidates. We really know nothing of them except by the campaigns they attend. I believe I'll vote for the lesser of the two evils."

Steven McQueen 1984 communications

"I'm voting for Carter because he has the experience of four years, and so he can finish what he has already started."

Shirley Arpin 1982 undeclared

"I'm voting for Carter because Carter has proven nothing in his term, and Reagan does not have enough experience beyond being a terrible actor."

Marc De Filippis 1981 economics

"Anderson, because Carter has proven nothing in his term, and Reagan does not have enough experience beyond being a terrible actor."

"Anderson. But I'm not sure I'm voting for Carter."

"President Carter, for the mere reason that Kennedy is backing him up. I was going to vote for Kennedy originally, but since he lost, I'll vote for Carter."

Greg Barteloni 1984 business

"I'm voting for Carter because he has the experience of four years, and so he can finish what he has already started."

Annamarie Panciello 1981 fine arts

"President Carter, of course. Not because I really want to, but because I'm afraid of Reagan getting in. Reagan is too aggressive and too conservative for me."

"President Carter, of course. Not because I really want to, but because I'm afraid of Reagan getting in. Reagan is too aggressive and too conservative for me."

Mike Tropeano 1981 business administration

"I'm voting for John Anderson because I don't believe in voting for the lesser of two evils. I believe the Anderson can do the job and it is very unfortunate that not too many people feel the way I do."

"I'm voting for John Anderson because I don't believe in voting for the lesser of two evils. I believe the Anderson can do the job and it is very unfortunate that not too many people feel the way I do."

Mike Tropeano 1981 business administration
TV: impact that makes or breaks a presidential candidate

With the recent debate in Cleveland, on Tuesday night, the question arises of the impact that TV can have on a presidential election. From the 1960 election until the present, TV has aided or hindered candidates for the presidency. A closer examination shows the tremendous impact that it actually has.

The history of TV and presidential elections goes back to 1948, but its power was felt beginning with the 1960 election. It was then John F. Kennedy took advantage of this electronic media to overcome Richard M. Nixon. Although many who listened on radio felt Nixon had "won" the debates, Kennedy's appearance and confidence convinced the country to vote for him. President Lyndon B. Johnson was affected by TV in a negative fashion, for the graphic pictures of the war in Vietnam were his apocalyptic politico. It is ironic to note that Johnson had three sets in the Oval Office, so that he could watch all three network news programs.

Nixon also felt the power of the tube, both positively and negatively. The pictures from his 1972 trip to China portrayed him as a grand leader of the Western world. But his pitiful face across the screen Aug. 8, 1974 proved in the end that it did him in. The nation was reminded constantly of his political mistake through the Watergate hearings broadcasts, and the constant reports on the news for over a year.

The 1976 election produced the Eastern Europe gaffe of President Gerald R. Ford in a television debate. ("I don't consider Eastern Europe as a Soviet sphere of influence.") This mistake was crucial, and many considered it to be a major reason that Ford lost.

The 1980 presidential election has shown how the political campaigners have used TV as an accessible and cheap way to get exposure. Thus, the campaign strategists have their candidates hold rallies around noon or 1 pm so they will appear on the local news and possibly national news that night. TV also lends credibility to a candidate, whether it be advertisements or reports on his campaign. Because of this, John Anderson, Ed Clark, and Barry Commoner, as well as the other candidates, lack credibility, a crucial element in an election. Yet, although a commercial may be superficial and not quite address the issues, the more commercials a candidate has aired, the better off he is. Of course, an incumbent running has the biggest advantage, for he can also call a press conference, which is almost guaranteed publicity.

Important conclusions can be drawn from the argument presented. One is that everything in a campaign revolves around the coverage that can be obtained, for every rally is staged for TV. The other unfortunate conclusion, in this writer's opinion, is that TV has more impact on people than newspapers. But the most important idea is that TV's power can not be equaled in determining an election, for it can either make or break a candidate.

Phill Karali is a columnist for The Montclarion.

Latin Insights

LASO symbolizes brotherhood and pride

by Barbara Bonilla

The Latin American Student Organization/LASO symbolizes the brotherhood among Latin American students. Our goal is to make known the cultural roots of all the MSC Hispanics by having dances, films, speakers, lectures, concerts, art exhibits, and plays. During the next two weeks (Oct. 27-Nov. 7), LASO will be sponsoring a clothing drive for the recent Cuban refugees in this country. LASO will be collecting clothing for them; especially needed are winter clothing and blankets, socks, shoes, gloves, jackets and or coats, and anything warm you can contribute to help these people out in these harsh winter months of NJ. Collection areas will be at LASO, fourth floor of the Student Center and Dr. Englebert, professor Janet Sinsi, on the fourth floor of Partridge Hall. We would greatly appreciate your donations.

We invite you to join our organization and cooperate in our goal; if you are Latin—cooperate, if you are not—unite.

Barbara Bonilla is vice president of LASO.

MEN: PLEDGE

Alpha Phi Omega

"The Service Fraternity

with the Social Twist"

MSC's ONLY National Frat.

open to ALL Majors!!

We even have our own office!!

Pledging Starts: Nov. 2

Memorial Auditorium

9 am - 3 pm
CLUB Presents:
The Montclair State College

WINTER BALL
"1980"

Time: 8pm to 1am
Date: December 4, 1980
Price: $36. per couple

Place: Grand Ballroom,
The Cameo Lounge,

Cocktail Hour: 8-9pm Garfield, N.J.
and then continuously until 1am

Music: The famous
"Frank Bennett Orchestra"

Bids go on sale on Thursday
November 6th from 8am until 12pm in the Student Center Ballrooms...
WHILE THEY LAST!!

COME CELEBRATE THE END OF THE FALL SEMESTER!!!

Under the laws of the State of New Jersey, students and their guests who are under 19 years of age are prohibited from drinking Alcoholic Beverages. Bid purchasers are responsible for guests as well as themselves regarding these laws.

A CLASS ONE ORGANIZATION OF YOUR SGA
The 1980 presidential election is drawing nearer and nearer. For many students, this is the first presidential election they are eligible to vote in. To find out what the students are thinking, we interviewed a group of them and discovered positive as well as negative reactions to the three main candidates and their campaigns.

by Linda Martelli

"Reagan is a responsible candidate, and I believe he will do a good job as president. The people in the US need a change. I like Reagan's defense policy. Our country must maintain certain standards and try to keep our defense up to that of the USSR. He has also had good ideas on Cold War." Ida Bruno, a political science major at MSC, continued. "I am interested in politics and am working on the campaign in my home town of Westwood. When I entered college I was a history major and changed to political science after taking a course in politics. I was interested in politics before I was able to vote. After reading literature on both of the candidates, I decided to back up Reagan. I wanted to know more about the campaign and the candidates, so I am working on the election."

Because of his interest in politics, Bruno gives up her free time and puts aside her blouse, Bruno continued, "I am enjoying working on the campaign and believe Reagan has a good chance to win. Many people are wrapped up in their own life and don't get involved in elections. They should realize that who is running their country does involve them. I enjoy meeting people who want to vote for Reagan. Reagan is capable of restoring faith in the American people, and I am behind him all the way."

by Barbara Spallitta

"I always say that we should leave well enough alone, and I think Carter is doing a pretty good job of running our country." Kelly, a 19-year-old sophomore, said very matter of factly. "For some reason, I trust him. There aren't any specific occurrences which I could point out, so I just say that it's a gut feeling I have about Carter. And when I'm really not sure about something, I just follow my instincts," the brunette said, shaking her head.

At first I didn't even register to vote. I figured that it didn't matter. I thought that my vote wouldn't make any difference-so why bother? Finally I felt that the rest of the world should be able to make the right decision about a presidential candidate without me. Then all of a sudden it hit me. I realized that our country--was in a lot of trouble and at any moment it could get worse. So I began to pay attention to the candidates and the issues."

"At the very beginning of the campaign I was not quite sold and possibly even leaning toward Reagan. But Reagan took care of that very quickly by selecting George Bush as his running mate. Bush seems to have such a demanding and arrogant air about him, you can believe his words, but Reagan, on the other hand, is someone who you can trust. Kelly, who considers herself a democrat, said.

"But I honestly feel that Carter is doing a decent job, and I'll stick with him and hope that he wins. Either way the vote goes, I hope our next president will have the power and courage to keep the US safe and involved in the world that we are still number one," the petite 5 foot 2 inch sophomore said, emphasizing the point.

"Pointing to a green and white Carter/Mondale button pinned to her brown leather purse, Marone continued, "I actively and openly support Carter. I go to the Democratic headquarters in my town two or three nights a week, where I telephone people in the surrounding areas to make them more aware of the issues. We also send out literature in support of Carter.

"This is all volunteer work and I love it. On election day I will be down at the polls handing out flyers and encouraging people to vote for Carter," the pretty brunette said, as her brown eyes lit up in excitement.

"We need a strong president. The Republican Party is what we need to represent our country. Carter does not deserve another try. The only way things got done is if a Republican is in office. The strong sense of responsibility of the Republicans can help our country stay strong," Bruno added with a concerned look on her face.

"Bruno ended with, "I am enjoying working on the campaign and believe Reagan has a good chance to win. I enjoy meeting people who want to vote for Reagan. Reagan is capable of restoring faith in the American people, and I am behind him all the way."

by Carla Zarro

It's all the way with Carter again," Kathy Marone shouted. "I believe President Carter has proven himself to the American people. He hasn't backed down and apologized to the Iranians to get our hostages released. That's not the way to do it. We have to show the rest of the world that we are still number one, the petite 5 foot 2 inch sophomore said, emphasizing the point.

Looking at the steps outside Partridge Hall, Marone continued, "I will also be right there when they count the votes from our district. Then I'll head back to the headquarters, where we have a big celebration planned.

"We're going to have several kegs of beer, and the neighborhood pizza parlor is supplying us with about 30 pizzas. Everyone who works at the headquarters will be bringing food, too. I'm making 48 brownies," the 19-year-old nutrition major said excitedly.

"I'm not worried about the party being a disaster. Carter will beat Reagan. Everyone must know by now that Reagan is for war. When he gets into office he'll be shipping people off to some foreign country. People have to realize this and vote for Carter."

"This is the first time I've ever been involved with a campaign at any level. It's really very exciting and rewarding. It makes you feel like you're doing something for the country. I plan to be involved in many campaigns as I possibly can," she concluded.

Election 1980: students voice
Voting does count; at least, John Stouter and Cheryl Rose agreed he does. And both will vote next month because of their belief.

"Someone has to get involved; hopefully those in college--those who are educated--can make a better decision on this. It will help," Stouter said. He added that voting "can eventually help." Rose's fear of dictatorship was her main reason for voting.

"If someone does something, they're letting other people make decisions for them. We could just as well have a king for a ruler," she said.

Stouter said he's an independent--"I voted for Bill Bradley and Gerald Ford, a republican." Rose said she's not declared but leans toward the Democratic party. Both are senior English majors, and both are not voting for Reagan.

"In voting for Anderson," Stouter said, "I'm leaning toward an antivote." According to Stouter, if Anderson gets enough votes, it might make other candidates realize that they are not representing the people.

"It would be an interesting situation to start both major parties into realizing that they're not representing us."

He added that although it's idealistic, it could be started in this country. "It would be nice to get a triparty vote." On the other hand, Rose is supporting Carter. "I feel, contrary to what most people believe, Carter has done a worthwhile job, and, contrasted to the other candidates, he has had the experience in office," she said.

"He's been able to understand the system and find out how it works and doesn't work."

"I look at the candidate as a person, not as a machine. The other two candidates are machines. Carter is the everyman type," she added.

"I don't want to go to war," Stouter said--this being his reason for not voting for Reagan.

Rose agreed, "Carter will go out of his way to keep peace in the world." Rose has another reason for not voting for Reagan. "I would never vote for someone like Reagan who's trying to force a certain set of ideals on us when he denies equal rights and abortion," she added, especially when the majority of people are women.

Does either one of them feel that people are aware of the political issues at stake in this election?

"Most people, myself included, are not aware," Stouter said. "I watched the Anderson/Reagan debate and have read some material about the election. However, I was surprised that he was more concerned with getting through school.

"Reagan has some beliefs which I agree with. I don't believe in abortions. I don't think the federal government should have to pay for hundreds of thousands of abortions." Rose added, "especially when the issue hits them in the face, like Reagan and the ERA and abortion.

I didn't see any point in voting this year," Danny Toledo, a junior at MSC, said.

"What are your choices? Reagan and Carter. Voting for Anderson is just like voting for Reagan. So what does this all boil down to; a warmonger and a peanut farmer.

"If Reagan wins, there's no doubt that he will reinstate the draft or go to war. I have too much to live for to give up my life now," the 21-year-old business major said. "I plan to finish school first and hopefully get a job working with the stock market so I can make something of myself."

Looking up from The New York Times, he was reading, Toledo continued, "Carter is a no-brainer package either. He left our hostages in Iran for almost a year and has the whole world laughing at us. Since the rescue mission failed he's just sat back and waited for the Iranians to come to some conclusion about them. And I'm sure if they are released before the election he will take full credit. I just hope everyone realizes that's a lot of bull.

"Our economy is a disaster. As far as I can see, Carter has done nothing to bring down inflation. The price of gas is outrageous. Most of my friends can't even afford to fill up their tanks every week on their salaries, which are only between $50 and $60 a week. We've had to form a carpool, which sometimes proves to be an inconvenience because not all our schedules coincide. But there is no other way we would make it to school five days a week," Toledo said, with a not of annoyance in his voice.

"Besides, I think they've taken police tactics to the lowest possible form--name calling. Carter calls Reagan this; Reagan calls Carter that. Are these grown men running for the office of president of the US, or are they three-year-old fighting over a toy in a playground?"

"What I would like to know is if there are any real issues in the campaign. I haven't heard either one of them speak about anything significant. The debate between Reagan and Anderson was a farce. Reagan very skillfully avoided answering many of the questions."

"I do believe that Carter is the lesser of two evils. At least he won't lead us to war."

-By Carla Zarro
In association with Orpheus Entertainment

presents

Tom Browne
plus Special Guest

Bobbi Humphries

November 17th
Memorial Auditorium
Reserve Seating

$4.50 with MSC I.D.
$6.00 others

Tickets on sale
10 am — 3 pm everyday
Starting Friday in the Student Center Lobby

Class One Concerts is a Class One Organization of the SGA
Controversial comedy
Suicide worth committing
by Darrel Lippman

The Suicide, the critically acclaimed comedy which opened at the Arena Theater (245 W 52nd) on Sept. 22, and which is running for C h r i s t o p h e r ' s in t e r e s t in g threads, descends upon the hookers. Needless to say, it was quite amusing to hear the conversation. The set of doors also served as the entrance to the audience, but are invisible to the audience. If they exclaim. The comedy then turns serious as Erdman's performance continues its conversation.

Semyon was lowered from the rafters of the stage. All of this is simply sparkling as Semyon, who has been unemployed for a year. After a last ditch effort to get rich quick by learning to play the tuba fails, Semyon contemplates suicide. When it is learned that he is going to commit suicide, Podsekalnikov's comrades come out of the woodwork to convince him not to die a rebel without a cause. For example, an intellectual (John Heffernan) tells Semyon to leave a note saying that he died of being a member of the absurd intelligentsia. Others, from a Marxist to a laborer (played by the star, Derek Jacobi), who has been unemploye...
The New York Yankees have their Columbus farm club. The highly acclaimed Joffrey Dance Company has the Joffrey II Dancers, Last Friday night this group of 12 performed before a sold out crowd at MCA's Metropolitan Opera House. Judging from the warm reception they received, it is clear Joffrey II has established a reputation and following of its own.

Joffrey II, which will celebrate its 11th birthday in November, is the training ground for the NYC-based Joffrey Ballet. This second company grew out of the Joffrey affiliated American Ballet Center's scholarship program. It is a way of giving promising new dancers performing experience.

The group, whose alumni comprise three-fourths of the present company, comprised 12 personnel, performed four ballets to music piped in over the auditorium's PA system.

The Elephant Man

by Deborah J. Johnson

While lack of a live orchestra may seem disconcerting to some, for Joffrey II it is a practical way of dealing with a season made up of one-night stands across the country.

One of the best pieces of Fiday night's program was Frederick Ashton's Monotones II (a Pas de Trois). The two dancers, dressed simply in white leotards and caps, perfectly delivered a classical ballet to the music of Eric Satie's Trois Gymnopédies. Unlike the opening piece (Natalie Zampako's Seperti), which also featured classical ballet, the choreography here seemed to flow more easily with the music.

Emily Keeler's Rammaker was also performed. Adapted from selections of Aaron Copland's The Red Pony, it spotlighted an energetic Lail Evans as Starbuck, who takes the lead to dance in for another choreographed scene. Ron Reagan, son of presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, also danced in a piece of rogue soft murmurs among members of the audience.

The backdrop and lighting for Rammaker were appropriately done in dry, subdued shades of orange, yellow, and brown. The dancers were costumed in frontier dress common to the early 1900's—the women in long grungy dresses, and the men in britches and cowboy hats. The Rammaker indeed ends with rainfall—a sun shower—characterized by bright lighting and an exuberant Staruck highkicking and tossing his hat into the air.

The most entertaining ballet of the evening was the "Hubba Huba Ding Dong" of the 1940's, complete with crepe paper streamers, a punch table, argyle socks, and saddle shoes. Couples enthusiastically "interbugged," "frugged," and "monkeyed" the carefree night away to music by The Jellibobs. The most entertaining dance piece of the evening, it was all you could do to put your feet on the floor, and with the help of some friends in the back of the house, you were sent on a ship back to the hospital.

In one particularly cruel scene, Merrick is torn from the company of two people who make fun of his strange dress. Soon, a sobbing forms and corners him against a wall, pulling off his mask. He turns to leave but they grab him. He's out of breath. "I am not an animal. I am a man," he shrieks as the crowd stares in wonder at his deformed face.

In this scene, especially, the theme of the movie is intensified. People cannot and will not accept anyone who is different, whether it be in appearance or manner. No matter how hard Merrick tries to live in peace, it seems that there are always people there to remind him that he is a 'freak' and therefore unacceptable to the world.

Although fine performances were given by Hopkins, Gielgud, and Bancroft, the best one came from John Hurt who played Merrick. In one gesture or expression, he could carry over the entire performance. He added a gentle nature to his character. Hurt portrayed the mild mannered, accepting Merrick with such a human quality that it was not uncommon to the early 1900's—totally enjoyable experience.

The most entertaining ballet of the evening was the "Hubba Huba Ding Dong" of the 1940's, complete with crepe paper streamers, a punch table, argyle socks, and saddle shoes. Couples enthusiastically "interbugged," "frugged," and "monkeyed" the carefree night away to music by The Jellibobs. The most entertaining dance piece of the evening, it was all you could do to put your feet on the floor, and with the help of some friends in the back of the house, you were sent on a ship back to the hospital.

In one particularly cruel scene, Merrick is torn from the company of two people who make fun of his strange dress. Soon, a sobbing forms and corners him against a wall, pulling off his mask. He turns to leave but they grab him. He's out of breath. "I am not an animal. I am a man," he shrieks as the crowd stares in wonder at his deformed face.

In this scene, especially, the theme of the movie is intensified. People cannot and will not accept anyone who is different, whether it be in appearance or manner. No matter how hard Merrick tries to live in peace, it seems that there are always people there to remind him that he is a 'freak' and therefore unacceptable to the world.

Although fine performances were given by Hopkins, Gielgud, and Bancroft, the best one came from John Hurt who played Merrick. In one gesture or expression, he could carry over the entire performance. He added a gentle nature to his character. Hurt portrayed the mild mannered, accepting Merrick with such a human quality that it was not uncommon to the early 1900's—totally enjoyable experience.

The most entertaining ballet of the evening was the "Hubba Huba Ding Dong" of the 1940's, complete with crepe paper streamers, a punch table, argyle socks, and saddle shoes. Couples enthusiastically "interbugged," "frugged," and "monkeyed" the carefree night away to music by The Jellibobs. The most entertaining dance piece of the evening, it was all you could do to put your feet on the floor, and with the help of some friends in the back of the house, you were sent on a ship back to the hospital.

In one particularly cruel scene, Merrick is torn from the company of two people who make fun of his strange dress. Soon, a sobbing forms and corners him against a wall, pulling off his mask. He turns to leave but they grab him. He's out of breath. "I am not an animal. I am a man," he shrieks as the crowd stares in wonder at his deformed face.

In this scene, especially, the theme of the movie is intensified. People cannot and will not accept anyone who is different, whether it be in appearance or manner. No matter how hard Merrick tries to live in peace, it seems that there are always people there to remind him that he is a 'freak' and therefore unacceptable to the world.

Although fine performances were given by Hopkins, Gielgud, and Bancroft, the best one came from John Hurt who played Merrick. In one gesture or expression, he could carry over the entire performance. He added a gentle nature to his character. Hurt portrayed the mild mannered, accepting Merrick with such a human quality that it was not uncommon to the early 1900's—totally enjoyable experience.

The most entertaining ballet of the evening was the "Hubba Huba Ding Dong" of the 1940's, complete with crepe paper streamers, a punch table, argyle socks, and saddle shoes. Couples enthusiastically "interbugged," "frugged," and "monkeyed" the carefree night away to music by The Jellibobs. The most entertaining dance piece of the evening, it was all you could do to put your feet on the floor, and with the help of some friends in the back of the house, you were sent on a ship back to the hospital.

In one particularly cruel scene, Merrick is torn from the company of two people who make fun of his strange dress. Soon, a sobbing forms and corners him against a wall, pulling off his mask. He turns to leave but they grab him. He's out of breath. "I am not an animal. I am a man," he shrieks as the crowd stares in wonder at his deformed face.
Rumors are spreading about a new pub

"RUMORS"
Thurs.: OLDIES
Rock Party

50¢ drinks
8 pm - Midnight

Music of the 50's, 60's, & 70's
"You name it, we'll play it"

a friendly atmosphere
a contemporary look

Attire - Casual but Neat - No Slobs

437 MAIN ST. WEST ORANGE, N.J.
325-3230

$27 per day
Includes: Twin beds, A/C
Room, Minutes from Beach,
3 meals per day, Plus:
activity program.

242 Bellevue Ave
Upper Montclair, N.J
Tel: 744-8724

ALSO - Low cost air or bus departures.

datebook

Thur., Oct. 30, 1980

FOLK DANCING: MSC folk dancers, Life Hall, Room 125F 8-10:30 pm. MSC Students $1, others $2. Instructions and request dancing in international dance. Great fun and exercise. Meets every Thursday.

Fri., Oct. 31, 1980

CLUB: Information meeting for C.I.U.B.'s trip to Acapulco will be held from 10 am - 12 pm in meeting Room 1 of the Student Center.

Fri., Nov. 4, 1980

ISRAELI DANCING: Jewish Student Union sponsors Israeli Dancing, Student Center Ballroom C, 8-9:30 pm. $50 students, $75 others.

MEETING: Marketing Club meeting, Student Center Room 1, 10:30 am. New members welcome.

Tues., Nov. 4, 1980

HOSTAGE SERVICE: There will be a service for the American hostages in Iran at 12 pm in the Student Center Mall, rain or shine. Sponsored by the Student Government Association. Remember them.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Are you interested in photography? Then help to start the photography club by becoming a member. Call Louis at 744-9889 or come to Room 1135 Bohn Hall.

ANNOUNCEMENT: Anthro-site newsletter now available outside Room 215, Russ Hall.

MEETING: Riding club meeting, Student Center, Purple Conference Room, 8 pm.

Wed., Nov. 5, 1980

PANEL DISCUSSION AND COFFEE HOUR: 2-4 pm in Russ Hall Lounge. Panelists are four working paralegals in different types of job situations who come from widely diverse educational backgrounds. The discussion will center upon the role and education of a paralegal. There will be ample time for questions. In addition, those attending can learn about the Paralegal Association of NJ and the Montclair State Paralegal Students Association.

Thur., Nov. 6, 1980

WINTER BALL: Tickets go on sale 8 am, Tue., Dec. 16, 1980

Wed., Nov. 5, 1980

The Jewish Student Union of Montclair State College cordially invites you to attend a Chanukah Cocktail Party Saturday, December 6, 1980 at 8:30 p.m.

Temple Shemini Emanah
67 Park Street
Montclair, New Jersey
Wine, Hors D'oeuvres and Desserts will be served
Entertainment throughout the evening

Donation: $12.00 per person
Limited reservations... advance payment required.

Send name and monies to:
Jewish Student Union
Life Hall
Montclair State College
Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043
R.S.V.P. by November 24, 1980
For more information call 893-5280

Come enjoy your Winter Break with C.I.U.B. in

ACAPULCO

Jan. 6 - 13
8 days, 7 nights

$429 per person
includes: airfare hotel transfers

MEETINGS:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Location</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Oct. 31</td>
<td>10 am</td>
<td>Meeting Room 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nov. 3 &amp; 4</td>
<td>12 - 1 pm</td>
<td>Ballroom C</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nov. 7</td>
<td>10 am</td>
<td>Ballroom C</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FINAL PAYMENT DUE DEC. 1

Any questions call: 893-5232

C.I.U.B. is a class one organization of your SGA
C.L.U.B. Presents A Trip To ATLANTIC CITY
Fri., Nov. 21
Buses leave from Partridge Hall - 7 pm
Buses leave from Park Place Casino, Atlantic City - 3 am
COST: $14 per person
$10 returned upon arrival at Park Place Casino
TICKETS ARE ON SALE in the C.L.U.B. office on the 4th floor, Student Center.
C.L.U.B. is a class one organization of your SGA

TERRIFIC P/T JOBS
UNITED PARCEL SERVICE
evening/nite or early am hours
5.51 - 9.19 per hour
Applications - Interview At:
799 Jefferson Rd
Parsippany, N.J.
884-1525
M/F equal opportunity employer

HELP WANTED: Parttime $6 an hour salary, men and women needed for two positions with branches throughout Northeastern NJ. Hours are flexible and ideal for students. Call 2-9209.

COUNSELING: Project CAUSE a federally funded program which invites MNC undergraduates in peer-tutoring activities with Hispanic/Hispanic children in the Paterson School district, invites students from all departments to participate. Six academic credits will be awarded per semester. Traveling expenses to and from Paterson are refunded. If interested contact Dr. Ana Raisin, Room 435, Partridge Hall, 12-1 pm.

JOBS: Attention students f/t, p/t. Excellent career opportunities. A chance to use your education. Call 785-0706, ext. 310. Flexible hours.

ENTERTAINMENT: Bekchodrs-complete versatility in dinner and dance music for all occasions. Call 997-1773 or 946-9414.

FOR SALE: 1968 Camaro, 327 ci. 4 sp., 4 bbl. am/fm cassette w/power booster. Dark green w-pearl pinstriping. Must see. Asking $2800. Call 785-9368 w/power booster.

LOST: Blue star-sapphire in gold setting. If found please contact Bunny, 5125.

LOST: If found please contact Bunny, 5125.

WANTED: Responsible roommate to share house in Montclair. Must be dependable, good driver; preferably someone able to repair furniture, etc. $4 an hour. Call 256-0030 between 11-5:30 pm.

HELP WANTED: Young man, parttime, hours negotiable, to work in antique shop. Must be dependable, good driver;

HELP WANTED: Young man, parttime, hours negotiable, to work in antique shop. Must be dependable, good driver; preferably someone able to repair furniture, etc. $4 an hour. Call 256-0030 between 11-5:30 pm.

HELP WANTED: Young man, parttime, hours negotiable, to work in antique shop. Must be dependable, good driver; preferably someone able to repair furniture, etc. $4 an hour. Call 256-0030 between 11-5:30 pm.

HELP WANTED: Young man, parttime, hours negotiable, to work in antique shop. Must be dependable, good driver; preferably someone able to repair furniture, etc. $4 an hour. Call 256-0030 between 11-5:30 pm.

HELP WANTED: Young man, parttime, hours negotiable, to work in antique shop. Must be dependable, good driver; preferably someone able to repair furniture, etc. $4 an hour. Call 256-0030 between 11-5:30 pm.

HELP WANTED: Young man, parttime, hours negotiable, to work in antique shop. Must be dependable, good driver; preferably someone able to repair furniture, etc. $4 an hour. Call 256-0030 between 11-5:30 pm.
You Can Still Make A Difference

While careers in public service may not be as fashionable as they were a decade ago, such careers can be very rewarding and personally satisfying.

After just three months of intensive training at The Institute for Paralegal Training, you will be prepared to work in government agencies, public service organizations and law firms as a Legal Assistant in the fields of Administrative and Public Law or Criminal Law. You will do work traditionally performed by attorneys. You will work in the dynamic field of government legislation and regulation and be involved in such areas as: Environmental Law, Food Drug and Health Law, Criminal Justice, Equal Opportunity, Welfare, Energy, and Product Safety Law.

Furthermore, you will earn graduate credit towards a Master of Arts in Legal Studies through Antioch School of Law for all course work completed at The Institute.

We are the nation’s first and most respected school for paralegal training, and since 1970, have trained more than 4,000 college graduates from across the country.

If you are a senior of high academic standing and looking for a meaningful career, contact your Placement Office for an interview with our representative.

We will visit your campus on: Thursday, December 4

Attention All Students
Tickets will be given to cars parked in Lot 9 blocking the aisle that parallels the Baseball Field

Effective Friday, Oct. 8
For more info call B.O.T.A. ext. 4204
A service of your SGA

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
and
BURNS COUNTRY INN
presents:

the Ugly Prof. On Campus contest or U.P.O.C.

LOOK FOR OUR AD NEXT WEEK, AND VOTE ON YOUR CHOICE OF NOMINEES!!!!!
Corpora, Zurichin lead Eastsiders to men's title

The men's football league ended last week with one of the most exciting games of the year. Mickey Corpora hit Bob Zurichin with 23 seconds on the clock to give the Eastsiders a 13-12 victory over the Vegetables/VEG. This is their first title losing the previous two by 0-9 in the finals.

ES started the scoring when Corpora hit Jim Mazzoroski with a 13 yard touchdown pass. Minutes later Steve Luongo of the VEG hit Perry Brosi with a seven yard touchdown pass. ES were forced to quick kick on their next possession. The kick only went 15 yards leaving the VEG in good field position.

Five plays later, the drive was stopped on an interception by Randy Miers. But the VEG got the ball back late in the first half and scored on a 30 yard touchdown pass from Luongo to Phil Timme. The score at halftime was 12-7.

ES held the VEG on their first possession of the second half. ES drove the length of the field only to be stopped by a Tim LaPointe interception. The game then turned into a defensive struggle. ES got the ball with less than two minutes left on the clock.

They again drove the length of the field on three key catches by Bob Wood. On third and four, Corpora hit Zurichin with the winner. The VEG got the ball back, but failed to advance it.

The coed final was a much different game than that of the men's. From the first couple of series of downs, the outcome was predictable. With effective use of their women the Bohlers jumped out to a quick 18 point lead and never looked back, defeating the Shore Boys Plus, 37-0.

All the Bohlers touchdowns were scored by their women. Fran Kjar had two touchdowns of 10 and 15 yards. Jill Alexander and Lisa DiBisiglie both had touchdown's of 10 yards.

The Shore Boys' plus offense could not do anything all night. Their closest penetration was to the three points a game en route to their second straight title.

The Geeks still lead all teams with a 33-9 record in the fall bowling league. Brian's Bunch is in second at 31-11 and the Oldtimers are in third at 26-16. John Dvorak and Cynthia Jancz lead all scoring categories for the fourth straight week.

COMING EVENTS:

Billiards tournament will be held on Wed., Nov. 5 in the Student Center Game Room.

MSC close second in conference final

by Daniel Wiggins

The MSC cross country team competed in two meets this past week. On Oct. 21, they ran in the combined all-state, New Jersey State College Athletic Conference/NJSCAC meet. On Saturday, the team raced a very tough Rider College/Rider squad.

In the state meet, held at Holmdel park, MSC placed third to Glassboro State College/GSC (35) and Rutgers University (38). This was MSC's finest showing all year considering the injuries they have sustained.

In the conference scoring, the MSC Harriers were second only to GSC--regional powerhouse and national qualifiers of a year ago.

In the race, Ian Gordon—the top runner on the team—placed fourth overall and second in the conference behind Ringo Adamson of GSC, with a time of 26:03. Following Gordon for the Harriers were Dan Wiggins (27:10), Peter Guthrie (27:19), Charles Gilwix, and Frank Nelson rounding out the top five. Others finishing in the top seven were Tom Schwartz and Pete Smith.

This Saturday, while many of MSC's students were enjoying the indoors, the Harriers were running in a torrential downpour and three inches of mud and water. The team was defeated by Rider 20-19 on a flooded Garret Mtn. in West Paterson, NJ. It was truly an experience for the rain or shine Harriers.

MSC was led by Gordon (second place), in a time of 25:57. Following Gordon were Wiggins (sixth place), Gilwix, and Julius Munde. All of the team's losses have come from the same teams they were defeated by last year, and their record ends at a very respectable 12-3.

On Sun. Nov. 9, the team will be at Van Cortlandt Park in NYC for the CTC meet.

MSC is gladly looking forward to the return of Steve Boyle and Kevin Leonard, who were beset with injuries a few weeks ago. These two will help in filling the gaps on the team and improve the chances of doing well in the meets to come.

In the Sports Corner/Matt Ward

Could Shula revive Giants?

After this National Football League (NFL) season, Don Shula, head coach of the Miami Dolphins, will end his current contract with that organization. It's no secret that Shula has had consistently poor relations with general manager Joe Robbie, and unless there is a sudden turn of events his tenure with the team will end.

The good news concerning the Shula situation deals with the Giants. It's easy to see that things are looking up for the team. There is a strong belief that other clubs are getting justifiably annoyed at halfhearted efforts. They want positive signs for hope.

Getting Shula won't automatically guarantee respectability and success, but it will put the club on the right road and get them off the dead end street they've been on for nearly 17 years.

For those viewers who tune into collegiate football this weekend, watch the nationally televised South Carolina-Georgia game. The favorite for this year's Heisman Trophy, George Rogers, will display his awesome talent for the Gamecocks.

Thus far he leads the nation in rushing with 1,089 yards, and barring injury should be able to top the 1,500 yard level for the second straight season. Last year he was named first team Associated Press All American, and third team AP; of course football hasn't been in an offensive mode since the Giants. It's been slow in coming, the praise from pro scouts has been unceasing.

Watching this will be interesting to see whether a great player from a school not blessed in football tradition finally wins the Heisman. For too long the "big name" schools have dominated winning the award.

There is no doubt in my mind that Rogers has all the opportunity to be another Earl Campbell. The team able to draft him can only improve any weaknesses in a running game.

Despite all the talk to the contrary, you can be sure of two things when the smoke clears; either Dave Winfield will be a Yankee or George Steinbrenner will have another run in with commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Kuhn has long had a policy of watching over potential trades and free agents with the same intensity of a mother hen over her eggs. There is widespread speculation that if a deal can be made, legal action from the Major League Player Association may ensue. There is also a strong belief that other clubs are getting together to insure that the Yankees don't get Winfield.

Congratulations are in order to MSC's Kirk Sabin. This fine kicker has been considered a career free agent, and not a school record in the school's history. His first extra point against William Paterson College gave him his first record—career extra points (79). If any pro team is smart—hopefully the Jets are listening—they'll give him at least a tryout, because Pat Leahy has been anything but consistent.

Bill Virdon received the award as Major League Manager of the Year for his fine job with the Houston Astros. However, two other pilots deserved it to a greater degree. Bobby Cox of the Atlanta Braves did a marvelous job, and so did Billy Martin with the Minnesota Twins. It's time the league stopped their neglect of these legitimate contenders next season in their respective divisions.
Tribe crowns Kings, 5-0

Booters unbeaten in last three

by William Delorm

After snapping a five game losing streak on Oct. 17 vs New York University/NU, the soccer Indians have gone on a tear. Undefeated in their last three games, the Tribe made a two and one half hour trip to Pennsylvania last Wednesday to play Kings College/Kings. The long boring bus ride, however, was worth it, as MSC came away with its most impressive victory of the season 5-0.

On Saturday, a torrential rain ended MSC’s game with conference cellar rival Ramapo College/Ramapo in a 1-1 tie. Forward Joe Myśliwiec has played a major role in the Tribe’s resurrection, having discovered how to put the ball in the net. It was his first half goal that knotted Ramapo on Saturday, and on Wednesday, his hat trick buried Kings.

In Wednesday’s game, it wasn’t the fact that Kings was that bad; it was the fact that MSC had finally zeroed their shots in on goal instead of at the crowd and the airplanes overhead.

They did, however, miss a pair of penalty kicks. Steve Reiterberger and Myśliwiec were the culprits. MSC has converted only one of four attempts this season. Such has been the Indians luck.

Goalkeeper Mike Tropeano recorded his first shutout of the year while still nursing a badly sprained thumb. His play of late could make him a strong candidate for all-conference selection along with sweeper Paul Laddy.

Midfielder Gary Holt netted his first goal of the season and Alvaro Tarrago got his team leading sixth for the Tribe.

Not even Sprague Field’s astroturf could withstand the storm on Saturday. After one-half of play and the game tied at 1-1, both sides decided that rowboats would make offside a little different to call and so the game was called.

Both sides had scored on poor goals as a result of the field conditions. The ball would hit the carpet, skid once then plop to a dead stop, making it difficult for the goalkeeper to decide when to go after it. As it turned out, both goalies were only burned once each, however.

The booters face their toughest test of the ’80 season when Glassboro State College/GSC comes up to Sprague Field this Sat., Nov. 1 (1:30 pm).

The Profs are having another sensational season on the pitch, having already clinched the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference title.

Last year, GSC reached the division III finals before being ousted for the title by Albion University, 2-1. The Profs have all of their starters back from that squad including prolific scorer Scott Salisbury and goalkeeper Walt Gorrill.

Their biggest victory so far this season, was a 17-0 destruction of Jersey City State College.

MSC hopes that things will continue to click for them and that the astroturf and a large crowd can help them disrupt the Profs.

Indians take sixth straight

by John Huegel

Tailbacks Bill Grundy and Mike Horn once again added the offensive fireworks and the MSC defense continued their dominance, as the Indians nipped a pesky Central Connecticut State College/CCSC football team, 14-6, Saturday in New Britain, CN.

On the first play following the second half kickoff, Grundy supplied the Tribe with what would turn out to be all the scoring they would need.

The senior tailback took the handoff and swept wide left, broke a tackle and darted 80 yards to the end zone. Kicker Keith Sahlin booted the extra point and MSC led 7-6.

Grundy picked up more than half of his game total of 141 yards on that carry.

CCSC struck in the first quarter when a roughing the punter penalty gave them a large crowd can help them disrupt the Profs.

The Profs are having another sensational season on the pitch, having already clinched the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference title.

Last year, GSC reached the division III finals before being ousted for the title by Albion University, 2-1. The Profs have all of their starters back from that squad including prolific scorer Scott Salisbury and goalkeeper Walt Gorrill.

Their biggest victory so far this season, was a 17-0 destruction of Jersey City State College.

MSC hopes that things will continue to click for them and that the astroturf and a large crowd can help them disrupt the Profs.

The booters face their toughest test of the ‘80 season when Glassboro State College/GSC comes up to Sprague Field this Sat., Nov. 1 (1:30 pm).

The Profs are having another sensational season on the pitch, having already clinched the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference title.

Last year, GSC reached the division III finals before being ousted for the title by Albion University, 2-1. The Profs have all of their starters back from that squad including prolific scorer Scott Salisbury and goalkeeper Walt Gorrill.

Their biggest victory so far this season, was a 17-0 destruction of Jersey City State College.

MSC hopes that things will continue to click for them and that the astroturf and a large crowd can help them disrupt the Profs.

The extra point, however, sailed wide. Klein, who year in and year out catches an average of 10 passes against the Indians, looked as if he would once again give MSC fits. The defensive secondary had other ideas.

Both sides had scored on poor goals as a result of the field conditions. The ball would hit the carpet, skid once then plop to a dead stop, making it difficult for the goalkeeper to decide when to go after it. As it turned out, both goalies were only burned once each, however.

The booters face their toughest test of the ‘80 season when Glassboro State College/GSC comes up to Sprague Field this Sat., Nov. 1 (1:30 pm).

The Profs are having another sensational season on the pitch, having already clinched the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference title.

Last year, GSC reached the division III finals before being ousted for the title by Albion University, 2-1. The Profs have all of their starters back from that squad including prolific scorer Scott Salisbury and goalkeeper Walt Gorrill.

Their biggest victory so far this season, was a 17-0 destruction of Jersey City State College.

MSC hopes that things will continue to click for them and that the astroturf and a large crowd can help them disrupt the Profs.

MSC, who is now ranked 13th in the nation in division III, confronts Trenton State College on Sat., Nov. 1 at 8 pm at Sprague Field. A win here could clinch the conference title for a third straight year. All are encouraged to come out early for the pregame balloon liftoff sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi for the benefit of the American Cancer Society.