MSC employees protest waiver loss

According to Davis, MSC was told by the department of higher education (DHE) that all tuition revenues were to be placed in the state treasury and no waivers would be given unless provided for in a state statute. He said senior citizens and handicapped persons were two such groups eligible for tuition reimbursement.

Davis said providing waivers for MSC employees was a "long-standing policy not previously called into question by the DHE. We thought we had authority to do this. It's common knowledge that nearly all the other colleges were doing the same thing."

Presently, MSC has been the only state college asked to comply with the new policy, but Davis said it may potentially affect other colleges as well.

Robert MacVane, special assistant to MSC President Dr. Donald Walters, was designated to hear the union's grievance on Tuesday and will report back to the employees within 10 days. If the union is dissatisfied with MacVane's findings, it can appeal the decision on the state level.

Meserve, who has been employed by the college since 1964 and is currently a secretary in the foreign language department, said, "We are in exclusive company. Dr. Robert Pines, chairperson of the curriculum and teaching department said, in regard to MSC being one of six currently a secretary in the foreign language department, said, "We are in exclusive company."

The DHE also mandates a semester of student teaching in the senior year, with supervision approximately every other week. For at least ten years, present practice, and in some instances, the school provided more stringent policies than mandated by the state.

For example, the DHE demands evidence that students are proficient in English and mathematics, and that any deficiencies be eradicated by the end of junior year. MSC students, as well as those at the state colleges, must demonstrate proficiency in the two subjects by the end of freshman year.

Furthermore, the revisions call for programs to encompass 30 semester hours in a coherent sequence of professional courses; at MSC, more hours are actually required for this sequence.

The DHE also mandates a semester of student teaching in the senior year, with supervision approximately every other week. For at least ten years, MSC students, as well as those at other schools, must demonstrate proficiency in the two subjects by the end of freshman year.

"The state is singling out MSC and we don't know why. We do know that some people have already resigned as a result of this. One person who worked in Partridge Hall has left and also one in Sprague Library. We believe there are others," Meserve said.

State supports teacher education at MSC

By Eileen Oleksiak

MSC office workers staged a small demonstration on campus Monday to protest the elimination of an employee tuition waiver.

Gertrude Meserve, branch president for union Local 1031 of the Communications Workers of America, said employees were notified of the new policy only one week before tuition payment was due for the fall semester.

"We're protesting the suddenness with which the waivers were taken away. Also, this was done without consultation with our union," Meserve said.

Moreover, all full-time classified employees (those hired upon passing a civil service exam) were entitled to tuition reimbursement for up to six credits per semester, taken at MSC or any other accredited institution.

The MSC employee handbook said this kind of staff training was meant to enhance the knowledge and skills of employees to attract quality employees to MSC. "From that point of view, I'm sad the program has been discontinued."

Richard Davis, director of personnel services, said tuition reimbursement was a benefit that attracted quality employees to MSC. "From that point of view, I'm sad the program has been discontinued."

Job outlook is bright for MSC chemistry majors

By Eileen Oleksiak

For MSC chemistry majors, job availability is probably not a concern. According to John Isidor, chairperson of the college's chemistry department, New Jersey has the second highest concentration of chemical industry in the country. This accounts for the 100 percent professional employment record enjoyed by MSC graduates holding chemistry degrees.

He said, "I'm unaware of any graduate in the last 10 years who doesn't have a good job." Reporting to the board of trustees at this month's meeting, Isidor said a B.S. chemist is likely to find work in his/her field within one or two months of graduation. He will be paid a starting salary ranging from $18,000 to $26,000.

He explained that the salaries are so high because, "good lab people are hard to find. The people in industry are thus accustomed to paying well and advancing the new employee quickly. Most students who do go into industry usually continue their education, which really is a requirement for advancement."

He added that there are work options outside the traditional laboratory setting. For instance, a student can take a job as a chemical librarian. This involves doing research for a scientist. Or, he/she may work as an industrial hygienist which means looking after the safety and welfare of employees who come in contact with chemicals in the workplace.

Isidor said, however, that one work opportunity in particular is often ignored. "We talk to our majors about teacher certification and try to point out the rewards of teaching that go beyond salary. Hopefully salaries will improve but right now low pay is the major factor that drives students away."

Isidor said that a Ph.D. chemist teaching on the college level will start out with a salary of $21,000 and may earn as much as $50,000 yearly with full professor status. The same person going into industry, however, will start with $35,000 and may earn in excess of $60,000 after 10 years.

To receive these top salaries, a student must have top notch training, which Isidor said is available at MSC. He said the college was the first among the state institutions to receive program approval from the American Chemical Society (ACS) in 1974 and remained the only state college with that status for four of five years after. "You can have a quality program without approval but ACS stresses more quality and gives students an edge in the job market."

Another unique aspect of the MSC chemistry program is that it is the only one of the nine state colleges to offer a Masters program.

Isidor cited the high cost of equipment as one of the department's problems. "We have a wish list that runs half a million dollars, but our biggest need is space." Isidor said it might be possible to store all the equipment on the third floor of Richardson Hall where the department is located, but this would prevent student access and hinder research.

"The lack of space really doesn't matter in terms of quality of the program. Virtually all the colleges have more room. William Paterson College has more than double the space, but they don't do the level of research activity we have."

Isidor noted that the department graduates an average of 20 to 25 B.S. chemists annually and 50 percent of these are usually female. "This is unusual because chemistry has a poor record of attracting women to science. We think we're making a strong contribution to women in the field."

A program is now being organized by Isidor and his colleagues which would involve going to high schools and trying to interest more people in the field.

NEWS NOTES

Speech Waiver/Placement evaluation

The Speech and Theater department is sponsoring an evaluation service to help students determine whether they will be able to waive MSC's speech communication requirement.

Registration for the evaluation will be held from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., October 24. The registration table will be located outside the Speech and Theater office, Room A126, Life Hall and the fee is $10.

Evening students may only register on Tues. Oct. 2 and Wed. Oct. 3 from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. For further information, contact Diane Holub at 893-4217.

Lecture on "Today's China"

"Cultural Revolution in Today's China" is the title of a free public lecture taking place in Russ Hall's Kops Lounge, Wed. Oct. 4 at 3 p.m. Sponsors include the East Asian Studies program of the School of Humanities and Social Science in cooperation with Phi Alpha Theta, the Honorary History Society. For further information on the lecture may be obtained by contacting Dr. Kenneth Olenik (201) 893-7563.

Alcohol comeback in Rat scheduled for this Monday

By Allyson Hoyt

SGA President Dave Handal announced that the Rathskeller will serve alcohol again starting Mon. Sept. 24. The news came shortly after Handal met with the Assistant Dean of Students, Thomas Stepnowski, who approved the proposal.

Business hours are tentatively set for Mon. through Wed. 2 p.m. until 12 p.m. On Thursdays, the Rat will be open from 2 p.m. until 2 a.m. After 8 p.m. alcohol only, will be served.

In other business, Handal attended a meeting for the United Student Government Association for New Jersey state colleges Sept. 15. This new organization was started at Keen College. Its primary goal is to keep communication lines open between state schools. Topics that were discussed included various student government formats and the setting up of a voter registration program. The next meeting will be held at MSC, Oct. 20.

Handal will meet with MSC President Dr. Donald Walters to discuss the allocation of new funds for the college. Handal would like to see this money used to purchase lights for the campus and to support better security. The establishment of an escort service would be an example of this. 10 to 20 screened men would be available for See SGA meeting, p. 5

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER M/F
By Tom Boud

"Can civilization survive science?" Dr. Isador Rabi, a 1944 Nobel Prize recipient, attempted to answer that question at MSC Friday while examining causes of technological abuse. He cited chemical dumping and nuclear proliferation as prime examples of such abuse, and discussed the consequences of these trends.

Rabi said, "We are already in an age where science has the power to destroy entire human institutions." Today's technological problems date back to the turn of the century with the discoveries of the neutron, the electron, and the X-ray.

These discoveries led to what Rabi called "a free spirit of science" which caused man to think that technology can be used in any given way without severe consequences. As a result, mankind gained much scientifically, but lost much ethically.

"Too much freewheeling innovation" gave way to rampant and careless application of man's technological progress. According to Rabi, common citizens as well as the governments of the world do not fully realize the gravity of this problem. "They do not fully understand that science really can bring about the death of nature," he said.

Rabi proposed that an entirely new set of ethics be written to insure the security of the future. He called for rigid and stringent criteria so that this "intolerable outburst" can be defused.

Rabi concluded by urging, "This is not a statement. This is an emotional appeal to take serious matters seriously before the unthinkable happens."

This was the first in a series of Nobel Laureate lectures sponsored by the department of mathematics and computer science. The second lecture, titled The Birth and Prospects of Expert Systems, will be presented by Dr. Joshua Lederberg on Wed. Oct. 10, at noon.

Brian O'Reilly, vice president of student affairs, said the organization will be working on three major projects. The first concerns a policy which will monitor any changes on campus. The second project involves a teacher evaluation pamphlet which will include every professor's qualifications and other information students might need. The third project is a student referral service which will direct students to tutors and counselors.

O'Reilly encourages students to join any academic organization. In the past most students' GPAs have risen while involved. O'Reilly said, "When you join an organization, you don't suffer. You gain."

Wendy P. Schultz was elected President Pro-Tempe of the SGA, and Kathy Smith was appointed SGA clerk. The following students have been appointed to the legislature: Darren Abe, Daniel Caivano, Matthew Russas, Roy Morchian, Bruce Evans, and Wayne Adams.

Property is stolen from parked cars on campus

By Mary Ellen Madssac

There were several thefts from parked cars on campus this week.

On Sept. 11 in Lot 22, vandals entered a '77 Chevy and took the ignition switch. The cost of the damage is unknown.

In Lot 17, just outside Blanton Hall, two separate thefts occurred. Sometime between the morning of Thurs., Sept. 13 and Fri., Sept. 14, vandals snapped off fenders from a '78 Camaro. Campus police have no suspects.

Speakers and 12 cassettes worth a total of $200, campus police said.

Thieves broke into a '74 Volkswagen outside Blanton Hall, two separate thefts occurred. Sometime between the morning of Thurs., Sept. 13 and Fri., Sept. 14, a young man found semi-conscious outside the music building, decided to scare the women by following and then running after them. He was caught and released to the two adults who accompanied him on campus.

On Sept. 10 in Bohn Hall, a fire burned papers and melted the plastic of a stereo system. The fire was caused by a hot iron in a resident's room.

Computer makes job search a breeze

By Joan Riegel

Business is booming at Career Services! Since late August the phones have stopped ringing with calls from employers listing both full-time and part-time jobs. Last year the office listed an average of 300 part-time positions per month.

This semester the office is taking advantage of modern technological advances by implementing computers to match job seekers with part-time positions. The computerized system, put in place over the summer, will reduce the time needed to match student registrants with the many attractive positions being listed. It will improve service to both employers and students.

Job seekers can come to the office, fill out the part-time job registration form, and become part of the system's database. When permanent positions are listed, the file is searched to match applicants with jobs based on majors and minors, skills, experiences, location preferences, availability, GPA, and job categories. The computer prints out labels; copies of the position are mailed to the student's local address. If interested, the student will contact the employer to set up an interview and then inform Career Services when he/she has found a job.

Employers list such a large number of jobs with the Career Services office because of the outstanding reputation of MSC students as employees. The student body as a whole is known to possess that old-fashioned quality—the work ethic—and employers are lavish in praising them for their fine preparation, reliability, and productivity.

Many part-time or summer jobs have led directly to offers of permanent positions upon graduation with such companies as Aetna, State Farm, and AT&T.

All students are encouraged to come into Career Services to register for the computerized job matching. While in the office it is strongly suggested that students check the part-time job books for the most current listings. Those books should be checked periodically.

Attendances is also recommended at the part-time job orientations which explore methods for seeking part-time jobs in areas where positions are not posted frequently. It is also suggested that students check The Montclarion for on-campus recruiting dates by People Express, which employed over 200 MSC students last year as reservists, and companies such as Stern's and U.P.S., which come on campus to recruit for numerous positions.

Seniors should pick up information about registration for the CRS, the computerized system for matching applicants with full-time jobs, a service that has been offered since 1979. All students should pick up a seminar schedule and start attending seminars about various aspects of career exploration and job seeking.

SILC IS A CLASS I ORGANIZATION OF THE SGA
Springsteen sings about cars, girls, and traditional values

By George F. Will

My friend Bruce Springsteen... Okay, he’s only my acquaintance, but my children now think I am a serious person. I met him because his colleague Max Weinberg and Max’s wife Rebecca invited me to enjoy Max’s work, which I did. He plays drums for Springsteen, who plays rock and roll and purists, of whom there are lots. For ten shows in New Jersey, he recently sold 16,000 $16 tickets in the first hour, all 202,000 in a day. His albums can sell one million copies on the first day of release.

There is not a smidgen of androgyny in Springsteen who, rocketing around the stage in a T-shirt and headband, resembles Robert DeNiro in the combat scenes of The Deerhunter. This is rock for the United Steelworkers, accompanied by the opening barrage of the battle of the Somme. The saintly Rebecca met me with a small pouch of cotton—for my ears, she explained. She: “And cars and girls.”

Male fan: “No, no, it’s about community and roots and perseverance and family.”

She: “And cars and girls.”

Let’s not quibble. Cars and girls are American values, and this lyric surely expresses some elemental American values, and this lyric surely expresses some elemental American sentiment: “Now mister the day my number comes in/I ain’t never gonna ride in no used car again.”

I have not got a clue about Springsteen’s politics, if any, but flags get waved at his concerts while he sings and the recitation of closed factories and other problems always seems punctuated by a grand, cheerful affirmation: “Born in the U.S.A.”

His songs, and the engaging homilies with which he introduces them, tell listeners to “downsize” their expectations—his phrase, borrowed from the auto industry, naturally. It is music for saying good-bye to Peter Pan: Life is real, life is earnest, life is a lot of work, but... “Friday night’s pay night, guys fresh out of work/Talking about the weekend, scrubbing off the dirt.../In my head I keep a picture of a pretty little miss/Someday mister I’m gonna lead a better life than this.”

An evening with Springsteen—an evening tends to wash over into the a.m., the concerts lasting four hours—is vivid proof that the work ethic is alive and well. Backstage there hovers the odor of Ben-Gay: Springsteen is an athlete draining himself for every audience.

But, then, consider Max Weinberg’s bandaged fingers. The rigors of drumming have led to five tendinitis operations. He soaks his hands in hot water before a concert, in ice afterward, and sleeps with tight gloves on. Yes, of course, the whole E Street Band is making enough money to ease the pain. But they are not charging as much as they could, and the customers are happy. How many American businesses can say that?

If all Americans in labor and management, who make steel or cars or shoes or textiles—made their products with as much energy and confidence as Springsteen and his merry band make music, there would be no need for Congress to be thinking about protectionism. No “domestic content” legislation is needed in the music industry. The British and other invasions have been met and matched.

In any age of lackadaisical effort and slipshod products, anyone who does anything anything legal—conspicuously well and with zest is a national asset. Springsteen’s tour is hard, honest work and evidence of the astonishing vitality of America’s regions and generations. They produce distinctive tones of Foie that other regions and generations embrace. There still is nothing quite like being born in the U.S.A.

Do you think political candidates should voice their opinions on religious or moral issues?

"Religion shouldn’t be an issue in politics at all. One reason is that it helps parochial schools by giving them tax breaks, when it is only the rich who can afford to send their children to those schools. Public schools are always getting gyped. Also, groups like the Moral Majority have too much of an influence on legislation, when they shouldn’t be involved at all."

Walter Padly
Graduate/geology

"I think it’s up to the individuals to form their own opinions about morality. If politicians spoke about all religions, it might be beneficial. But if they single out one religion for political comment, then it would not be."

Paula Roumellotis
Freshman/undeclared

"Yes, as far as moral issues are concerned. All people, including politicians, are entitled to their opinions. Each person should be able to use their position to express that opinion."

Alma Martinez
Freshman/Italian

Students will turn a deaf ear to overzealous campus preachers

To the editor:

There is a problem at MSC that seems to be occurring more often and therefore warrants attention. I’m talking about those individuals who take advantage of a beautiful day by standing in the middle of the Student Center mall and begin preaching the word of God to MSC students.

These Bible-toting disciples of whose organization I must admit I am ignorant insist on infringing on conversations by yelling, at the top of their lungs, their individual beliefs. I am the last person to squelch anyone’s freedom of expression or speech, but when the freedom of three or four hundred other people is being violated at the expense of one and inequity occurs.

I, too, am affiliated with an organization here on campus and must deal with the challenge of communicating a message to the college community. The key to effective communication is to talk to and with people not at them. A message sender must have a message receiver and subsequent feedback. The only element of this scenario that exists in these periodic preachings is the part of the sender: a very loud and irritating sender with no receivers.

There are many avenues of communication available here on campus: The Montclarion, seminars, symposiums, parties, flyer literature, and signs which can all be effective ways of communicating with the students and simultaneously respecting everyone’s precious freedom.

Failure to pursue these alternatives will only lead to my anger multiplied by the several hundred other “sinners” in the mall area, who want to enjoy the peace and beauty of our campus to study, read, or talk.

Our campus police force is limited and am sure they have better things to do than to periodically ask these preachers nicely to shut up. The officers must tell them what they are obviously unable to interpret from the students’ lack of interest.

Therefore I strongly suggest that these preachers begin to respect the rights of the student body including my own, because without public support, their organization is history!

Positive art reviews are needed

To the editor:

An article appearing in the first issue of The Montclarion entitled Actors in Wartime Drama Fright to Stay Alive was a disappointing interpretation of the first Players production of The Girl on the Via Flaminia. In what was otherwise an excellent first edition, the piece by S.C. Wood took on too critical a tone and was off-target as to why such an article would be useful in the first place.

In other areas of The Montclarion’s first issue, I was inspired by the attention given to the student body as a community, a diverse group, and most importantly as one in need of stimulation and encouragement.

However, I have not found this to be true in the arts and entertainment section when it comes to on-campus, student sponsored events. I do not believe that anyone is to blame in particular, for we all have to take responsibility for how we value fellow students and their work. But it is my view that entertainment events on campus have a much larger role than simply to provide entertainment.

They serve to bring students together by providing a friendly forum, showing students that other students can operate in professional or semi-professional ways, and they are also cheap. So it is natural for me to become angry when I see a good effort so narrowly and even bitterly knocked down.

Some individuals would say we have to be as harsh as we can to provide the most suggestions for improvement. But it would appear to me that the average student, or the theatre arts person, would not be motivated to do anything in the face of such ambiguously negative words like “dying,” “glumly,” or “flop” used to describe the event.

In addition, the “criticism” has no valuable structure. For example, in the article it was never made clear what was being criticized in particular. Toward the end, the author said it was solely the script that was to blame. But this seems an oversimplified suggestion because a play is a composite of efforts. To negate the whole while blaming the part is an insult to the other parts, i.e., the actors, sets, etc.

I never saw The Girl on the Via Flaminia. I am not an expert in drama nor do I claim to be. But I am a student who can make up my own mind about what I like and do not like. I place more value on a show’s availability on campus, rather than its ability or inability.

I hope the arts writers in the future will look at our college’s arts events in an experimental context. They should try to keep an open mind about what art is really supposed to do for us, and fill the students with something other than the emptiness that the shows are alleged to have.

Bernstein's anti-hero discovers self in Windy City

By Michelle A. Congello

After a year of sex, bloodshed, high school hyperbole, laser beams and oh-too-coincidental situations, it is refreshing to see a simple yet thought provoking film come to the silver screen. Windy City, writer-director Armyan Bernstein's very human story of dreams deferred, satisfies the viewer in every possible way.

Basically the story is about a group of friends who grew up together, and unwillingly grew apart. Their attempted recapturing of "old times" brings them closer to their inevitable and self imposed styles.

The protagonist, Danny (John Shea) is a struggling writer who doesn't understand why he is even bothering to struggle. It seems he has permanent writer's block. His quest is to write a novel on the adventures of his friends who go by the name "Rogues." The only person who believes in, or cares about, Danny's writing is Emily (Kate Capshaw): his one great love, whom he loses because of his reluctance to make a commitment.

The movie consists of a series of flashbacks to a time in Danny's life when everything seemed to be going well. The Rogues' relationships were strong, and Danny's relationship with Emily was everything he wanted it to be. The flashbacks are done in a fairly traditional style—a fade to black and white which then blends evenly to color.

Danny is the archetypal anti-hero. He is an ordinary guy with not-so-ordinary dreams. He simply wants to be a pirate with his best friend, Sol; what is so absurd about that?

His relationship with Sol (Josh, Mostel) is perhaps the most touching in the movie. Danny is the contemplator and Sol is the doer. At one point while Danny is "thinking" about getting wrapped back, Sol says, "Dustin Hoffman wouldn't let her get away."

Bernstein, whose past experiences with screen plays, other directors and script "variations," have not been positive, says of the film, "This time I was determined the screenplay would get to the screen the way I had envisioned it from the beginning, and that I wasn't directing." Judging by the end result, it seems his great expectations have been fulfilled.

The casting for the film could not have been more impeccable. John Shea (critically noted for his role in Costa-Gavras' Missing) portrayed Danny perfectly. He has the unique gift of transcending all the nonsense and getting down to that which is essential (though an excellent script does help). Says Shea of the script and his role, "It was love at first sight."

Kate Capshaw (recently famed for her role in Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom), illustrated Emily's wants, needs and frustrations superbly. She gave us enough of Emily to make us want more. This role affords Capshaw the chance to display her acting abilities in a more dramatic light. When asked how she felt about the script Capshaw replies, "I'm always surprised how I continue to be moved by the movie."

Although they are new comers to the screen, the Rogues (Jim Borrelli, Jeffrey DeMunn, Eric Pierpoint, Lewis J. Stadlen and James Sutorius) are an extremely talented group of young actors. They are the ensemble group in this film, but each character has its turbulences and troubles. They furnish Shea and Capshaw with the strongest pedestal with which to build their characters on.

When asked to sum up in one sentence what the film was about, Bernstein said, "It is about a man who loses everything, and in the process discovers himself."

Windy City is the type of film that makes you smile for hours afterward. Very simply, it brings all that has seemed to go on vacation, back home.
Smyth captures the audience's attention with her gregarious style.

By Elizabeth Millar

The hunger of the audience in Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday night was satisfied when Scandal (featuring Patty Smyth) appeared on stage rocking to "She Broke Your Heart." The excitement and clamor was not only present in the audience, Patty was also excited—"This is great! It's been a long time since we've been on the road. I can finally say I want to go to college." An absence from the public scene and the replacement of three original players hasn't seemed to alter Patty's style. In fact, it may have improved it.

With the release of their 1984 album, Warrior, the five member band which hails from New York, certainly deserves some credit.

The rhythm and beat of the music was in tune with Smyth's strong, powerful voice and the backup vocals also added to the atmosphere. This stirred the audience into either a trance or an excitable mood depending on what lyric was played.

Patty Smyth as leader is amiable and spunky enough to capture the audience's attention. Among the members, there was a lot of unity and communication which always makes a good concert—great. In front of the drummer Patty rocked to her favorite song, "Love Game," and paraded around the stage throughout the entire concert. With a "blast from the past" the group sang "Love's Got a Line on You" which woke the audience up and in response they were dancing and having a good time.

"Less Than Half," (Warrior) was a tune Patty wrote herself and described it as being "pessimistic, but sentimental." Perhaps the best song performed was the last, "Goodbye To You." Patty really didn't want to make her exit; shortly after, she returned for an encore of two songs one which was dedicated to the audience, "All I Want," also from Warrior. Prior to Scandal's introduction, a group from New York, The Rescue, performed. According to an MSC student, Louie Pacelli, "They're a new group and if you don't know their music, you can't be that rowdy." The Rescue was a new wave group, and the audience was there to see a rock band. The consensus of the crowd was that they were mediocre.

Towards the end of their act, they began to get the audience involved in their communication with each other was spectacular. The Rescue played danceable music; however, it differed from the type the audience demanded. Perhaps if the volume had been one notch lower, the spectators would have understood their verbatim, for the music overshadowed their words. The opening act was equal to Scandal in the amount of playing time, which was unfair to the audience. The desire to see what they paid for is best described by Kathy Orazem: "They were pretty good, but I'm excited to see Scandal."

lead and left fielder Andy Welter's sacrifice fly to left brought in the last run of the inning.

Tom Carey pitched two scoreless innings to carry the 5-1 MSC lead into the 8th. In the visitor's half of the inning, Bloomfield capitalized on two MSC errors to bridge the gap to 5-3. However, with the tying run on first and only one out, the defense bailed itself out on a tailor-made 5-4-3 double play initiated by Yeager.

Once again, when Bloomfield seemed to get back in the game, the Indians shut the door as they countered with four of their own runs in the eighth. With one out, shortstop Ron Spadaro-walked, then Rich DeMaio hit a liner drive down the first baseline that everyone, including Rich himself, thought was foul. The foul call never came from the umpire. With Coach Cooney waving Spadaro around to score, DeMaio cruised around to third while the Bloomfield left fielder retrieved the ball.

Tim Johnson got his second hit of the game to drive in DeMaio, which brought up Olsson. Unlike DeMaio's hit, there was no doubt about Olsson's. He plated a home run high into the trees beyond the left field fence for the final two runs of the game.

Olsson pitched the ninth and retired Bloomfield (1-1) easily to preserve the victory for the Indians (4-1).

After the game, Coach Cooney had praise for his pitchers, especially Olsson. "Whenever you get Dan in in late innings, you've got the game or at least a good chance to win the game. And I think he's one of the best hitters on the team."

He also commented that catcher Chuck Thomas, who missed last season with a broken foot, "is playing well, too...he's been a real pleasant surprise and has hit much better than I thought he would. It's not easy to sit out a year."

If all, it wasn't a spectacular show by the Indians, but they did display the ability to hit when they had to. Cooney was pleased with the output from his team Friday and stated, "We played pretty well and hit the ball well. We did have one shaky defensive inning when Bloomfield drew closer, but defensive plays got us out of it...that's a good sign when you have a bad inning and still win."

MSC 10 - FDU 3

MSC defeated Farleigh Dickinson University of Madison 10-3 Monday at Pittser Field. The offense was supplied by senior Dave Stanislawczyk, who ripped a two-run home run. Tim Jones and Kevin Trynor each picked up two hits.

Stanislawczyk homered sparked a four-run seventh inning that put the contest out of reach, increasing the lead to 9-3. Dan Olsson picked up his first victory of the season as he struck out five while walking only one in three innings of one-hit relief.
Women's cross country may face rebuilding season

By Anna Schiavo

The women’s cross country team, who finished 7-4 last season, lost three of their top runners to graduation last May. The team is a young one; there is only one senior on the team, Captain Dana Caruso. Due to these facts this will be a rebuilding year for the Indians.

This is Caruso’s fourth year with the Tribe. She finished first in the New Jersey Athletic Conference and was the number one runner on the team last season.

“I’ve enjoyed coaching her more than any other athlete in my seven years at MSC. She is very unselfish and she is the type of athlete that will do anything that is asked of her,” said Head Coach Michelle Willis.

“I think we will be competitive this year, we have a complete team. In the last two meets, we ran strong. Our times were good for the beginning of the season,” Captain Dana Caruso said.

Caruso feels that a good runner has to “work hard. Every year you try to progress. Running improvement is the main concern.”

“Her strategy is expected to be even better than she was last season due to the vast amount of training she put in over the summer,” said Coach Willis.

Sophomore Liz Dilla is a hard-working runner who is an example of dedication to the sport.

“During practices and meets,” the Coach said, “they cheer each other on and pull each other through.”

Two runners out because of illness are sophomore Mary Beth Riccuito and junior Dagmar Schmidt.

“I’m really disappointed in the turnout this year. There were three freshmen that would have boosted our program who for one reason or another chose not to come out,” said the MSC coach.

If anyone is interested in coming out for the team it is not too late to do so. Contact Coach Willis at 893-4372.

Men’s cross country starts season off on right foot by beating Stockton

By Ben Smith

The men’s cross country team started the season with an impressive victory over Stockton State. The final score was MSC 20 — Stockton 42.

Stockton’s Chris Hayden took first place, the fleetfooted Indians captured the next six places. Freshmen John Cuozzo and John Hogan led the team finishing second and third respectively.

“Two freshmen were running in their first collegiate meet and Coach Harris was more than pleased with their strong performances. Following Cuozzo and Hogan were veterans Pete Guthrie, George Krauss, Greg Spadavecchia, and Frank Liebel.

Men’s cross country starts season off on right foot by beating Stockton

A little over a minute separated the top six MSC runners which means there will be healthy competition amongst the team members this season.

Coach James Harris is very optimistic about this season. Along with the two outstanding freshman prospects, most of last year’s runners remained on the team. Dave Hennigan was the only runner lost to graduation. If the team remains healthy and works hard they will be a force to reckon with.

Co-Captain Frank Lieber, running despite a slight injury, managed to take seventh place against Stockton and is expected to do much better when healthy. Veterans Hogan, Guthrie, Krauss, Spadavecchia, and Liebel finished only seconds behind their freshmen teammates.

Captain James O’Hara ran a disappointing race but he will lead the team to many victories when running up to his full ability. Carlos Esteves and Wayne Block finished respectably and promise great improvement as the season progresses. MSC’s toughest competitor over the past years has been Glassboro State. For six years Glassboro outman the Indians. Rider College and Albany State College have also been thorns in MSC’s heels.

However, all three may be in for a few surprises when they square off against this year’s squad.

The cross country team is still open to any new members who wish to run. Many prospective athletes feel that joining an athletic team may hurt their academic records. On the contrary, Coach Harris, who is also the Assistant Dean of Students, believes that competing on cross country or any other athletic teams may enhance students’ academic ability.

If anyone wishes to join the team please contact Dean Harris in room 217C, College Hall or call 893-4206.
Player Profile

Cowan to Dodgers: School comes first

By Anna Schiavo

The dream that all baseball players have since the first moment they hold a bat or throw a ball came true for the Indians' own John Cowan. He was drafted by the L.A. Dodgers in the fourth phase of the June 12 free agent draft in the twenty-fourth round. The fact that Cowan was the sixth hundred and twenty-fourth pick of the nation may be a sign of things to come in the future since Tom Seaver was once picked in the same round.

Last season Cowan batted .366. He led the team in RBIs with 50 and in home runs with eight.

"John has got a major league arm. He can hit for both power and average which are the qualities that make a great player," said Head Coach Kevin Cooney.

Last season Cowan's athletic abilities not only made him All-Conference and All-American in five categories but also attracted the attention of the Dodgers Organization. Two scouts from the famed baseball club met with Cowan and his parents, in hopes of signing him. The scouts did everything in their power to sign him. They offered him what they usually offer and an incentive bonus.

Not to sign with the Dodgers was one of the toughest decisions in my life. I was up nights where I couldn't sleep. I had to go out and run, with my walkman on, just to relieve some of the tension," said the Indian outfielder.

Recently a scout from the Milwaukee Brewers asked Coach Cooney what was the true story on why Cowan did not sign. "Upon hearing that John just wanted to finish school the scout remarked "There is a young man who has his priorities in order," said the MSC coach.

Cowan's interest in baseball runs in the family. His grandfather was a semi-pro ball player and his father coached. An alumnus of St. Joseph's High School in West New York, he was All-County for two years and third team All-State.

The senior economics major came to MSC as a fourth string first baseman. Former Head Baseball Coach Fred Hill and his staff recognized the makings of a fine outfielder in the freshman. Cowan had no objections to the move. He likes chasing fly balls and "the challenge of throwing people out," he said.

A shared trait of all athletes who stand out in their particular sport is simply the desire to win. Cowan feels that in playing baseball at the college level you "can't expect the coach to pamper you and tell you to play baseball. You have to be mature enough to realize that it is your life."

MSC loses 10-7

Dan Dooley, MSC's punter, came on to boot five punts for 173 yards. His longest was 41 yards.

In the fourth with the clock running down, the Warriors struck on Stroudsburg's third possession. After a Briggs interception, quarterback Charlie Diskin led his team downfield in 10 plays. Two key passes of the drive went to Tim Bishop and Joe Ronvan. They were both good for 27 yards, putting them at the 3-yard line of MSC. Diskin flipp ed a pass to Bishop and the tables turned. The score was now 10-7 after a Pingatore extra point with 1:44 left.

MSC took over after the kickoff, at the 17-yard line. After a costly penalty, Briggs' next pass was intercepted by a Warrior player at mid-field. The Warriors sat on the ball and MSC saw their chances of winning expire.

MSC has nothing to be ashamed of. They played their hearts out and did what they had to do, except win. The Indians intercepted the Warriors three times. They gained 292 yards to ESU's 246 yards and had 33 rushing attempts to their 23.

Rick Giancola is a determined coach and they will be ready for Kean College this Saturday when they meet in Newark's School Stadium for the championship. Last year the Indians won six consecutive games after they defeated Kean. Hopefully the problems in this game will be ironed out for the next contest.

Men's soccer team hopes their practice will make them perfect

By Tom Branna

Practice makes perfect. If this old adage holds true, the MSC soccer team hopes practice also makes a contender. Despite losses in the first two games of the season to East Stroudsburg and Mercy, both by scores of 4-2, the Indians feel the season should be a successful one.

"We had only 10 days to practice for the season opener," explained Head Coach Philip Santiago. "And with only four starters back from last year's squad, the team needs time to gel."

Among the returning Indians is co-captain John Ioannou, a junior center-forward. What Pele is to soccer world-wide, Ioannou is to MSC. In only two years, the Greek native has shattered every scoring record at MSC and is nearing the 40 goal plateau for his career.

"John can do it all for us," said Santiago. "He should have no trouble reaching All-American status."

While Ioannou may be MSC's biggest scoring threat, he is by no means the only one. Senior forward George Kyriacou, who hammered in 14 goals last year, gives MSC a balanced attack.

On defense, the graduation of All-American goalkeeper Eric Nelson could be a problem for the Indians, but Santiago has high hopes for sophomore Mike Fierstein.

"Without a doubt, Eric is a tough act to follow," admitted Santiago. "But I believe Mike has the talent to keep us competitive in every game."

One experienced member of the defense is junior fullback Dan Cotreau. Cotreau, a co-captain, is expected to maintain order when opponents move into Indian territory.

Other veterans for the Indians include junior Ray Macco and Dan Simon, a sophomore. The hardworking duo start at halfback and fullback respectively.

Among the newcomers to MSC are midfielder Tony Ioannou, John's younger brother, and John's cousin Ivan, a sweeper.

Overall, Santiago calls the 1984 edition of the Indians the "highest skill" team he has seen in his five years at the helm of the soccer program.

"We have enough talent to be a force in the NJSAC (New Jersey State Athletic Conference) this season," Santiago said.

"We have the players who give Kean (ranked fifth in the nation) some problems. As the season progresses and we get more game experience and practice, this could possibly be MSC's best year ever."

Practice makes perfect and perfect usually makes a championship.

The game played last Saturday at Sprague Field between MSC and East Stroudsburg was an intense and aggressive game of football from the pre-game activities to the sound of the horn ending the fourth quarter. However, in the end ESU prevailed, 10-7. Statistically MSC overpowered the Warriors who had to go all the way back into third on the first of four Bloomfield baserunners and end the threat.
