MSC employees protest waiver loss

By Eileen Oleksiak

MSC office workers staged a small demonstration on campus Monday to protest the elimination of an employee tuition waiver.

Gertrude Meserve, branch president for union local 1031 of the Communications Workers of America, said employees were notified of the new policy only one week before tuition payment was due for the fall semester.

"We’re protesting the suddenness with which the waivers were taken away. Also, this was done without consultation with our union."

Formerly, all full-time classified employees (those hired upon passing a civil service exam) were entitled to tuition reimbursement for up to six credits per semester, taken at MSC or any other accredited institution.

The MSC employee handbook said this kind of staff training was meant to enhance the knowledge and skills of the employee. It added that the courses taken should be of direct relevance to the responsibilities of the employee’s job.

Richard Davis, director of personnel services, said tuition reimbursement was a benefit that attracted quality employees to MSC. “From that point of view, I’m sad the program has been discontinued.”

According to Davis, MSC was told by the department of higher education (DHE) that all tuition revenues were to be placed in the state treasury and no waivers would be given unless provided for in a state statute. He said senior citizens and handicapped persons were two such groups eligible for tuition reimbursement.

Davis said providing waivers for MSC employees was a “long-standing policy not previously called into question by the DHE. We thought we had authority to do this. It’s common knowledge that nearly all the other colleges were doing the same thing.”

Presently, MSC has been the only state college asked to comply with the new policy, but Davis said it may potentially affect other colleges as well.

Robert MacVane, special assistant to MSC President Dr. Donald Walters, was designated to hear the union’s grievance on Tuesday and will report back to the employees within 10 days. If the union is dissatisfied with MacVane’s findings, it can appeal the decision on the state level.

Meserve, who has been employed by the college since 1964 and is currently a secretary in the foreign language department, said, “We are hoping we can encourage the state to give us tuition reimbursement again.”

As it stands now, MSC employees have lost a total of $15 thousand a year in benefits.

“The state is singling out MSC and we don’t know why. We do know that some people have already resigned as a result of this. One person who worked in Partridge Hall has left and also one in Sprague Library. We believe there are others,” Meserve said.

By Dianne Trafet

"It's like an executive company," Dr. Catherine Becker, chairperson of the curriculum and teaching department said, in regard to MSC being one of six New Jersey colleges and universities in full compliance with new teacher licensing standards.

These standards, which were revisions of the administrative code, were introduced by the department of higher education (DHE) and agreed to by the state department of education.

The revisions provide criteria which must be implemented or maintained in teacher education programs, and reflect a concern with the quality of incoming students, Becker said.

At MSC, the requirements did not represent any major deviations from past practices, and in some instances, the school provided more stringent policies than mandated by the state.

For example, the DHE demands evidence that students are proficient in English and mathematics, and that any deficiencies be eradicated by the end of junior year. MSC students, as well as those at the state colleges, must demonstrate proficiency in both subjects by the end of freshman year.

Furthermore, the revisions call for programs to encompass 30 semester hours in a coherent sequence of professional courses; at MSC, more hours are actually required for this sequence.

The DHE also mandates a semester of student teaching in the senior year, with supervision approximately every other week. For at least ten years, MSC has similarly required a full professional semester of student teaching.

Additionally, MSC had already revised its general education requirements (GER) to include 58 credits, before the state demanded that those seeking certification must complete approximately 60 hours of GER studies.

Other state mandates include the regular monitoring of students’ grade point averages, and senior year examinations to demonstrate competence in both the subject matter area of study and professional knowledge.

In addition to MSC, the institutions of higher learning which received state approval for their written teacher education proposals include Caldwell College, the College of St. Elizabeth, Georgian Court College, Northeastern Bible College, and Richard Stockton State College.

According to Dr. Robert Pines, associate professor of the curriculum and teaching department, the state’s findings “are indications of the traditional strength of our program. In addition, they portray our full compliance with new regulations, and acknowledge our willingness to improve.”

Before receiving complete state approval for teacher education programs, the six colleges must undergo stringent on-site evaluations. According to Becker, a 15 person visiting team will come to campus March 11-14 to verify that written policies are put into actual practice.

The 20 colleges and universities which are not in compliance, including Princeton University, Rutgers University, and Trenton State College, have been given until Nov. 1 to make appropriate changes in their curriculums.

Becker said the new standards are designed to attract quality persons into the teaching field. The need for talented teachers also sparked approval for another measure, according to the commissioner of education’s office in Trenton. On Sept. 5, regulations were approved to implement an alternate route to certification which complements the traditional training programs.

This measure, designed to replace emergency certification, requires that those interested in becoming teachers have a bachelor of arts degree, pass a provisional test, and participate in a year long internship.

Job outlook is bright for MSC chemistry majors

By Eileen Oleksiai

For MSC chemistry majors, job availability is probably not a concern. According to John Isidor, chairperson of the college's chemistry department, New Jersey has the second highest concentration of chemical industry in the country. This accounts for the 100 percent professional employment record enjoyed by MSC graduates holding chemistry degrees.

He said, "I'm unaware of any graduate in the last 10 years who doesn't have a job."

Reporting to the board of trustees at this month's meeting, Isidor said a B.S. chemist is likely to find work in his/her field within one or two months of graduation. This will be paid with a starting salary ranging from $18,000 to $28,000.

He explained that the salaries are so high because, "good lab people are hard to find. The people in industry are accustomed to paying well and advancing the new employee quickly. Most students who do go into industry usually continue their education, which thus accustomed to paying well and advancing the new employee quickly."

Going into industry, however, will start with a salary of $21,000 and may earn as much as $50,000 yearly with full professor status. The same person going into industry, however, will start with $35,000 and may earn in excess of $60,000 after 10 years.

To receive these top salaries, a student must have top notch training, which Isidor said is available at MSC. He said the college was the first among the state institutions to receive program approval from the American Chemical Society (ACS) in 1974 and is the only state college with that status for four of five years after. "You can have a quality program without approval but ACS stresses more quality and gives students an edge in the job market."

Another unique aspect of the MSC chemistry program is that it is the only one of the nine state colleges to offer a Masters program.

Isidor cited the high cost of equipment as one of the department's problems. He said the college was the first among the state institutions to receive program approval from the American Chemical Society (ACS) in 1974.

Dr. John Isidor, chairman of the chemistry department, poses with some of the equipment that makes student research possible.

According to Isidor, more room is needed in the department. This accounts for the 100 percent professional employment record enjoyed by MSC graduates holding chemistry degrees.

The third floor of Richardson Hall where the department is located, but this would prevent student access and hinder research.

"The lack of space really doesn't matter in terms of quality of the program. Virtually all the colleges have more room. William Paterson College has more than double the space, but they don't do the level of research activity we have."

Isidor noted that the department graduates an average of 20 to 25 B.S. chemists annually, and 50 percent of these are usually female. "This is unusual because chemistry has a poor record of attracting women to science. We think we're making a strong contribution to women in the field."

A program is now being organized by Isidor and his colleagues which would involve going to high schools and trying to interest more people in the field.

NEWS NOTES

Speech Waiver/Placement evaluation

The Speech and Theater department is sponsoring an evaluation service to help students determine whether they will be able to waive MSC's speech communication requirement.

Registration for the evaluation will be held from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., October 24. The registration table will be located outside the Speech and Theater office, Room A126, Life Hall and the fee is $10.

Evening students may only register on Tues. Oct. 2 and Wed. Oct. 3 from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m.

For further information, contact Diane Nobile at 893-4217.

Lecture on "Today's China"

"Cultural Revolution in Today's China" is the title of a free public lecture featuring husband and wife team, Liang Heng and Judith Shapiro, authors of Son of the Revolution. The lecture will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Speech and Theater office, Room A126 Life Hall.

Registration is not required but seating is limited so please plan to arrive early.

A program is now being organized by Isidor and his colleagues which would involve going to high schools and trying to interest more people in the field.

Alcohol comeback in Rat scheduled for this Monday

By Allyson Hoyt

SGA President Dave Handal announced that the Rathskeller will serve alcohol again starting Mon. Sept. 24. The news came shortly after Handal met with the Assistant Dean of Students, Thomas Stepnowski, who approved the proposal.

Business hours are tentatively set for Mon. through Wed. 2 p.m. until 12 p.m. On Thursdays, the Rat will be open from 2 p.m. until 2:30 p.m. After 8 p.m. alcohol only, will be served.

In other business, Handal attended a meeting for the United Student Government Association for New Jersey state colleges Sept. 15. This new organization was started at Keen College. Its primary goal is to keep communication lines open between state schools. Topics that were discussed included various student government formats and the setting up of a voter registration program. The next meeting will be held at MSC, Oct. 20.

Handal will meet with MSC President, Dr. Donald Walters to discuss the allocation of new funds for the college. Handal would like to see this money devoted to purchase lights for the campus and to support better security. The establishment of an escort service would be an example of this. 10 to 20 screened men would be available for See SGA meeting, p. 5

Nobel prize winner sees dangers of technology

By Tom Boud

“Can civilization survive science?”

Dr. Isador Rabi, a 1944 Nobel Prize recipient, attempted to answer that question at MSC Friday while examining causes of technological abuse. He cited chemical dumping and nuclear proliferation as prime examples of such abuse, and discussed the consequences of these trends.

Rabi said, “We are already in an age where science has the power to destroy entire human institutions.” Today’s technological problems date back to the turn of the century with the discoveries of the neutron, the electron, and the X-ray.

These discoveries led to what Rabi called “a free spirit of science” which caused man to think that technology can be used in any given way without severe consequences. As a result, mankind gained much scientifically, but lost much ethically.

“Too much freewheeling innovation” gave way to rampant and careless application of man’s technological progress.

According to Rabi, common citizens as well as the governments of the world do not fully realize the gravity of this problem. “They do not fully understand that science really can bring about the death of nature,” he said. Rabi proposed that an entirely new set of ethics be written to insure the security of the future. He called for rigid and stringent criteria so that this “intolerable outburst” can be defused.

Rabi concluded by urging, “This is not a statement. This is an emotional appeal to take serious matters seriously before the unthinkable happens.”

This was the first in a series of Nobel Laureate lectures sponsored by the department of mathematics and computer science. The second lecture, titled The Birth and Prospects of Expert Systems, will be presented by Dr. Joshua Lederberg on Wed., Oct. 10, at noon.

SILC IS A CLASS I ORGANIZATION OF THE SGA
Springsteen sings about cars, girls, and traditional values

By George F. Will

My friend Bruce Springsteen... Okay, he’s only my acquaintance, but my children now think I am a serious person. I met him because his colleague Max Weinberg and Max’s wife Rebecca invited me to enjoy Max’s work, which I did. He plays drums for Springsteen, who plays rock and roll for purists, of whom there are lots. For ten shows in New Jersey, he recently sold 16,000 $16 tickets in the first hour, all 202,000 in a day. His albums can sell one million copies on the first day of release.

There is not a smidgen of androgyny in Springsteen who, rocketing around the stage in a T-shirt and headband, resembles Robert DeNiro in the combat scenes of The Deerhunter. This is rock for the United Steelworkers, accompanied by the opening barrage of the battle of the Somme. The saintly Rebecca met me with a small pouch of cotton—for my ears, she explained. She thinks I am a poor specimen, I may be the only 43-year-old American so out of the swim that I do not first number before packing my ears.

For the uninitiated, the sensory blitzkrieg of a Springsteen concert is stunningly and orderly young adults earnestly and double-breastedly suit up and pack backpacks stuffed full of them. Springsteen’s fans say his message affirms the right values. Certainly his manner does.

Many of his fans regarded me as exotic fauna at the concert (a bow tie and double-breasted blazer is not the dress code) and undertook to instruct me. A typical tutorial went like this:

Me: “What do you like about him?”
Male fan: “He sings about faith and traditional values.”

Male fan: “No, no, it’s about community and roots and perseverance and family.”
She: “And cars and girls.”

Let’s not quibble. Cars and girls are American values, and this lyric surely expresses some elemental American values, and this lyric surely expresses some elemental American sentiment:

“Now mister the day my number comes in/ I ain’t gonna ride in no used car again.”

I have not got a clue about Springsteen’s politics, if any, but flags get waved at his concerts while he sings songs about hard times. He is no whiner and the recitation of closed factories and other problems always seems punctuated by a grand, cheerful affirmation: Born in the U.S.A.

His songs, and the engaging homilies with which he introduces them, tell listeners to “downsize” their expectations—his phrase, borrowed from the auto industry, naturally. It is music for saying goodbye to Peter Pan: Life is real, life is earnest, life is a lot of work, but...

An evening with Springsteen—once an evening tended to wash over into the a.m., the concerts lasting four hours—is vivid proof that the work ethic is alive and well. Backstage there hovers the odor of Ben-Gay: Springsteen is an athlete draining himself for every audience. But, then, consider Max Weinberg’s bandaged fingers. The rigors of drumming have led to five tendonitis operations. He soaks his hands in hot water before a concert, in ice afterward, and sleeps with tight gloves on. Yes, of course, the whole E Street Band is making enough money to ease the pain. But they are not charging as much as they could, and the customers are happy. How many American businesses can say that?

If all Americans in labor and management, who make steel or cars or shoes or textiles—made their products with as much energy and confidence as Springsteen and his merry band make music, there would be no need for Congress to be thinking about protectionism. No “domestic content” legislation is needed in the music industry. The British and other invasions have been met and matched.

In any age of lackadaisical effort and slipshod products, anyone who does anything anything legal-conspicuously well and with zest is a national asset. Springsteen’s tour is hard, honest work and evidence of the astonishing vitality of America’s regions and generations. They produce distinctive tones of voice that other regions and generations embrace. There still is nothing quite like being born in the U.S.A.

Drink and Driving Can Kill a Friendship.
The Rat gets a reprieve

Though many meetings and telephone calls between all the parties involved, it looks like alcohol is returning to the Rat. Starting next Monday, Sept. 24, the Rat will no longer be dry.

The Montclarion would like to thank all those involved for their effort and their concern in this matter. We would also like to thank the administration for reversing their decision. It is an important step in keeping MSC students on campus if they are going to drink.

We encourage students who are going to use the Rat not to abuse their privilege. If you are going to drink, don't drink to excess. If you do, don't drive. Students with friends who get drunk, make sure they get home, wherever that may be, safely.

Remember, alcohol is a drug and can be easily abused.

Register now to vote! The deadline is approaching

In this week's edition of The Montclarion, and in the following weeks, we will be printing voter registration forms. With only two-and-a-half weeks left to register it's important to register now, before it's too late. Registration deadline is Oct. 6.

The Montclarion reminds all students not registered to vote to do so. Exercise your constitutional rights! For too long, college students have remained an untapped wealth of voting potential. When the voting age was lowered to 18 for the 1972 presidential election, those opposed to it feared that many students would vote for McGovern defeat Nixon. As history shows, that didn't happen. Since then student voters have not been taken seriously.

The mentality that one vote doesn't make a difference has been erased from our minds. If enough people who think this way take the time to vote, perhaps there would be a noticeable difference. We'll never know until we try.

We have the potential to change the future. Instead of complaining about the way things are, register and vote. Try to be the catalyst that starts the winds of change blowing. Use the power-18-register and vote! Before it's too late.

The non-separation of Church and State

By Colman McCarthy

In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost. No. Holy Spirit. No Ghost. I was raised, as were most pre-Vatican II Catholics, listening to that argument. Ghosts is what the Catholics said. Spirit was the Protestant word. After years of it, and both sides weary of the nonsense, a new dispute arose. Why is it "in the name of the Father?" Father is sexist, it was said. God being neither male nor female. It should be "In the name of the Parenting Partner ...." Parallel to this holy war of words was the political one. In 1960, the fear was that if elected John Kennedy would take orders from Rome. Today the fear is that if re-elected Ronald Reagan will take orders from L'nhburg, the Virginia Vatican of Jerry Falwell. Behind every throne, it is suspected, is a power. And current powers like Falwell, as well as a deaf secretariat could be unaware, have their agenda.

As in the debate about Ghost and Spirit, the one now raging about religion and politics is meaningless. The Constitution forbids a state religion but it does nothing to prevent a state piety. Where is the separation of church and state when laws exempt religions from paying property taxes, when clergymen open each day's session of the Senate and House with prayers, when church-related colleges accept Pentagon money for ROTC programs or when seminarians, as during the Vietnam War, are exempt from the draft. With all these trappings of civil religion, how can a partnership not occur? Recent presidents and preachers, each blessing the other's ambitions, have been anything but separatists.

Lyndon Johnson seduced Billy Graham into being the unofficial court chaplain. Richard Nixon, in addition to using the White House for prayer services, had a Jesuit priest as his speechwriter, one who defended Nixon's moral integrity to the moment the helicopter swept up from the south lawn. Jimmy Carter said he was born-again, with his rebirth prompting him to teach a regular Sunday school class.

Ronald Reagan announced that he, too, was born-again. That infusion of amazing grace led to teaching a regular Sunday school class. Reagan's spirit is the Prot­

It is funded, in part, by funds received from the Student Government Association Inc. of Montclair State College. Advertising rates are available upon request in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex, or by calling the business department (201) 893-5237. The views expressed in the editorial pages, with the exception of the main editorial, do not necessarily reflect the opinion of The Montclarion.
"Religion shouldn't be an issue in politics at all. One reason is that it helps parochial schools by giving them tax breaks, when it is only the rich who can afford to send their children to those schools. Public schools are always getting gyped. Also, groups like the Moral Majority have too much of an influence on legislation, when they shouldn't be involved at all."

Walter Padly Graduate/geology

"I think it's up to the individuals to form their own opinions about morality. If politicians spoke about all religions, it might be beneficial. But if they single out one religion for political comment, then it would not be."

Paula Roumelotis Freshman/undeclared

"Yes, as far as moral issues are concerned. All people, including politicians, are entitled to their own opinions, and should be able to use their position to express that opinion."

Alma Martinez Freshman/Italian

Positive art reviews are needed

To the editor:

An article appearing in the first issue of The Montclarion entitled "Actors in Wartime Drama Fight to Stay Alive" was a disappointing interpretation of the first Players production of "The Girl on the Via Flaminia." In what was otherwise an excellent first edition, the piece by S.C. Wood took on too critical a tone and was off-target as to why such an article would be useful in the first place.

In other areas of The Montclarion's first issue, I was inspired by the attention given to the student body as a complete, diverse group, and most importantly as one in need of stimulation and encouragement.

However, I have not found this to be true in the arts and entertainment section when it comes to on-campus, student sponsored events. I do not believe that anyone is to blame in particular, for we all have to take responsibility for how we value fellow students and their work. But it is my view that entertainment events on campus have a much larger role than simply to provide entertainment.

They serve to bring students together by providing a friendly forum, show students that other students can operate in professional or semi-professional ways, and they are also cheap. So it is natural for me to become angry when I see a good effort so poorly treated.

I hope the arts writers in the future will look at our college's arts events in an experimental context. They should try to keep an open mind about what art is really supposed to do for us, and fill the students with something other than the emptiness that the shows are alleged to have.

Bernstein's anti-hero discovers self in Windy City

By Michelle A. Congello

After a year of sex, bloodshed, high school hyperbole, laser beams and oh-too-coincidental situations, it is refreshing to see a simple yet thought provoking film come to the silver screen. Windy City, writer-director Armyan Bernstein's very human story of dreams deferred, satisfies the viewer in every possible way.

Basically the story is about a group of friends who grew up together, and unwillingly grew apart. Their attempted recapturing of "old times" brings them closer to their inevitable and self imposed lives.

The protagonist, Danny (John Shea) is a struggling writer who doesn't understand why he is even bothering to struggle. It seems he has permanent writer's block. His quest is to write a novel on the adventures of his friends who go by the name "Rogues." The only person who believes in, or cares about Danny's writing is Emily (Kate Capshaw): his one great love, whom he loses because of his reluctance to make a commitment.

The movie consists of a series of flashbacks to a time in Danny's life when everything seemed to be going well. The Rogues' relationships were strong, and Danny's relationship with Emily was everything he wanted it to be. The flashbacks are done in a fairly traditional style—a fade to black and white which then blends evenly to color.

Danny is the archetypal anti-hero. He is an ordinary guy with not-so-ordinary dreams. He simply wants to be a pirate with his best friend, Sol; what is so absurd about that?

His relationship with Sol (Josh Mostel) is perhaps the most touching in the movie. Danny is the contemplator and Sol is the doer. At one point while Danny is "thinking" about getting back, Sol says, "Dustin Hoffman wouldn't let her get away."

Bernstein, whose past experiences with screen plays, other directors and script "variations," have not been positive, says of the film, "This time I was determined the screenplay would get to the screen the way I had envisioned it from the beginning, and that meant directing." Judging by the end result, it seems his great expectations have been fulfilled.

The casting for the film could not have been more impeccable. John Shea (critically noted for his role in Costa-Gavras' Missing) portrayed Danny perfectly. He has the unique gift of transcending all the nonsense and getting down to that which is essential (though an excellent script does help). Says Shea of the script and his role, "It was love at first sight."

Kate Capshaw (recently famed for her role in Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom), illustrated Emily's wants, needs and frustrations superbly. She gave us enough of Emily to make us want more. This role affords Capshaw the chance to display her acting abilities in a more dramatic light. When asked how she felt about the script Capshaw replies "I'm always surprised how I continue to be moved by the movie."

Although they are new comers to the screen, the Rogues (Jim Borrelli, Jeffrey DeMunn, Eric Pierpoint, Lewis J. Stadlen and James Sutorus) are an extremely talented group of young actors. They are the ensemble group in this film, but each character has its turmoils and troubles. They furnish Sapow and Capshaw with the strongest pedestal with which to build their characters on.

When asked to sum up in one sentence what the film was about, Bernstein said, "It is about a man who loses everything, and in the process discovers himself."

Windy City is the type of film that makes you smile for hours afterward. Very simply, it brings all that has seemed to go on vacation, back home.

Smyth's powerful singing invigorates Scandal concert

The hunger of the audience in Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday night was satisfied when Scandal featuring Patty Smyth appeared on stage rocking to "She Broke Your Heart." The excitement and clamar was not only present in the audience. Patty was also excited: "This is great! It's been a long time since we've been on the road. I can finally say, I want to go to college." An absence from the public scene and the replacement of three original players hasn't seemed to alter Patty's style. In fact, it may have improved it.

With the release of their 1984 album, Warrior, the five-member band which hails from New York, certainly deserves some credit.

The rhythm and beat of the music was in tune with Smyth's strong, powerful voice and the backup vocals also added to the atmosphere. This stirred the audience into either a trance or an excitable mood depending on what lyric was played.

Patty Smyth as leader is amiable and spunky enough to capture the audience's attention. Among the members, there was a lot of unity and communication which always makes a good concert-great. In front of the drummer Patty rocked to her favorite song "Love Game," and paraded around the stage throughout the entire concert. With a "blast from the past" the group sung "Love's Got a Line on You," which woke the audience up and in response they were dancing and having a good time.

"Less Than Half" (Warrior) was a tune Patty wrote herself and described it as being "pessimistic but sentimental." Perhaps the best song performed was the last, "Goodbye To You." Patty really didn't want to make her exit; shortly after, she returned for an encore of two songs one which was dedicated to the audience, "All I Want," also from Warrior.

Prior to Scandal's introduction, a group from New York, The Rescue, performed. According to an MSC student, Louie Pacelli, "They're a new group and if you don't know their music you can't be that rowdy." The Rescue was a new wave group, and the audience was there to see a rock band. The consensus of the crowd was that they were mediocre.

Towards the end of their act, they began to get the audience involved and their communication with each other was spectacular. The Rescue played danceable music; however, it differed from the type the audience demanded. Perhaps if the volume had been one notch lower, the spectators would have understood their verbatim, for the music overshadowed their words. The opening act was equal to Scandal in the amount of playing time, which was unfair to the audience. The desire to see what they paid for is best described by Kathy Orazem: "They were pretty good, but I'm excited to see Scandal."

lead and left fielder Andy Welter's sacrifice fly to left brought in the last run of the inning.

Tom Carey pitched two scoreless innings to carry the 5-1 MSC lead into the 8th. In the visitor's half of the inning, Bloomfield capitalized on two MSC errors to bridge the gap to 5-3. However, with the tying run on first and only one out, the defense bailed itself out on a tailor-made 5-4-3 double play initiated by Yeager.

Once again, when Bloomfield seemed to get back in the game, the Indians shut the door as they countered with four of their own runs in the eighth. With one out, shortstop Ron Spadaro walked, then Rich DeMaio hit a line drive down the first baseline that everyone, including Rich himself, thought was foul. The foul call never came from the umpire. With Coach Cooney waving Spadaro around to score, DeMaio cruised around to third while the Bloomfield left fielder retrieved the ball.

Tim Johnson got his second hit of the game to drive in DeMaio, which brought up Olsson. Unlike DeMaio's hit, there was no doubt about Olsson's. He blasted a home run high into the trees beyond the left field fence for the final two runs of the game.

Olsson pitched the ninth and retired Bloomfield (1-1) easily to preserve the victory for the Indians (4-1).

After the game, Coach Cooney had praise for his pitchers, especially Olsson. "Whenever you get Dan in in late innings, you've got the game or at least a good chance to win the game. And I think he's one of the best hitters on the team."

He also commented that catcher Chuck Thomas, who missed last season with a broken foot, "is playing well, too...he's been a real pleasant surprise and has hit much better than I thought he would. It's not easy to sit out a year."

In all, it wasn't a spectacular show by the Indians, but they did display the ability to hit when they had to. Cooney was pleased with the output from his team Friday and stated, "We played pretty well and hit the ball well. We did have one shaky defensive inning when Bloomfield drew closer, but defensive plays got us out of it...that's a good sign when you have a bad inning and still win."

MSC 10 - FDU 3

MSC defeated Farleigh Dickinson University of Madison 10-3 Monday at Pittser Field. The offense was supplied by senior Dave Stanislavczyk, who ripped a two-run home run. Tim Jones and Kevin Trynor each picked up two hits.

Stanislavczyk homered sparked a four-run seventh inning that put the contest out of reach, increasing the lead to 9-3. Dan Olsson picked up his first victory of the season as he struck out five while walking only one in three innings of one-hit relief.

The women's field hockey team had plenty to celebrate yesterday as they won their first game of the season by defeating Bridgeport 3-0. Kim Troast knocked in two goals and Dawn Grice scored the other. Freshman goalie Kelly Brooman made 10 saves to hold the opposition scoreless, as the team increased its record to 1-2.
Men's cross country starts season off on right foot by beating Stockton

By Ben Smith

The men's cross country team started off the season with an impressive victory over Stockton State. The final score was MSC 20 — Stockton 42. Stockton's Chris Hayden took first place, the fleetfooted Indians captured the next six places. Freshmen John Cuozzo and John Hogan led the team finishing second and third respectively. Two freshmen were running in their first collegiate meet and Coach Harris was more than pleased with their strong performances. Following Cuozzo and Hogan were veterans Pete Guthrie, George Krauss, Greg Spadavecchia, and Frank Liebel.

A little over a minute separated the top six MSC runners which means there will be healthy competition amongst the team members this season. Coach James Harris is very optimistic about this season. Along with the two outstanding freshman prospects, most of last year's runners remained on the team. Dave Hennigan was the only runner lost to graduation. If the team remains healthy and works hard they will be a force to reckon with.

Co-Captain Frank Lieber, running despite a slight injury, managed to take seventh place against Stockton and is expected to do much better when healthy. Veterans Hogan, Guthrie, Krauss, Spadavecchia, and Liebel finished only seconds behind their freshmen teammates.

Captain James O'Hora ran a disappointing race but he will lead the team to many victories when running up to his full ability. Carlos Esteves and Wayne Block finished respectably and promise great improvement as the season progresses. MSC's toughest competitor over the past years has been Glassboro State. For six years Glassboro outran the Indians. Rider College and Albany State College have also been thorns in MSC's heels. However, all three maybe in for a few surprises when they square off against this year's squad.

The cross country team is still open to any new members who wish to run. Many prospective athletes feel that joining an athletic team may enhance their academic records. On the contrary, Coach Harris, who is also the Assistant Dean of Students, believes that competing on cross country or any other athletic teams may enhance students' academic ability.

If anyone wishes to join the team please contact Dean Harris in room 217C, College Hall or call 893-4206.
Cowan to Dodgers: School comes first

By Anna Schiavo

The dream that all baseball players have since the first moment they hold a bat or throw a ball came true for the Indians' own John Cowan. He was drafted by the L.A. Dodgers in the fourth phase of the June 12 free agent draft in the twenty-fourth round.

The fact that Cowan was the six hundred and twenty fourth pick of the nation may be a sign of things to come in the future since Tom Seaver was once picked in the same round.

Last season Cowan batted .366. He led the team in R.B.I.'s with 50 and in home runs with eight.

"John has got a major league arm. He can hit for both power and average which are the qualities that make a great player," said Head Coach Kevin Cooney.

Last season Cowan's athletic abilities not only made him All-Conference and All-American in five categories but also attracted the attention of the Dodgers Organization. Two scouts from the famed baseball club met with Cowan and his parents, in hopes of signing him. The scouts did everything in their power to sign him. They offered him what they usually offer and an incentive bonus.

"Not to sign with the Dodgers was one of the toughest decisions in my life. I was up nights where I couldn't sleep. I had to go out and run, with my walkman on, just to relieve some of the tension," said the Indian outfielder.

Recently a scout from the Milwaukee Brewers asked Coach Cooney what was the true story on why Cowan did not sign. "Upon hearing that John just wanted to finish school the scout remarked "There is a young man who has his priorities in order," said the MSC coach.

Cowan's interest in baseball runs in the family. His grandfather was a semi-pro ball player and his father coached. An alumnus of St. Joseph's High School in West New York, he was All-State for two years and third team All-State.

The senior economics major came to MSC as a fourth string first baseman. Former Head Baseball Coach Fred Hill and his staff recognized the makings of a fine outfielder in the freshman. Cowan had no objections to the move. He likes chasing fly balls and "the challenge of throwing people out," he said.

Although signing would have meant the fulfilment of Cowan's lifelong ambition, he chose to return to MSC and complete his education. Understandably, the decision was not an easy one.

"I don't like losing. I'm a hungry ball player who is always trying to achieve," said Cowan.

Over the summer the right fielder played in the Metropolitan semi-pro baseball league with the Clifton Baskingers. He also played summer baseball in the Essex County league.

Cowan feels that in playing baseball at the college level you "can't expect the coach to pamper you and tell you to play baseball. You have to be mature enough to realize that it is your life."

"There is a young man who has his priorities in order," said the Indian outfielder.

Men's soccer team hopes their practice will make them perfect

By Tom Branna

Practice makes perfect. If this old adage holds true, the MSC soccer team hopes practice also makes a contender. Despite losses in the first two games of the season to East Stroudsburg and Mercy, both by scores of 4-2, the Indians feel the season should be a successful one.

"We had only 10 days to practice for the season opener," explained Head Coach Philip Santiago. "And with only four starters back from last year's squad, the team needs time to gel."

Among the returning Indians is co-captain John Ioannou, a junior center-forward. What Pele is to soccer worldwide, Ioannou is to MSC. In only two years, the Greek native has shattered every scoring record at MSC and is nearing the 40 goal plateau for his career.

"John can do it all for us," said Santiago. "He should have no trouble reaching All-American status."

While Ioannou may be MSC's biggest scoring threat, he is by no means the only one. Senior forward George Kyriacou, who hammered in 14 goals last year, gives MSC a balanced attack.

On defense, the graduation of All-American goalkeeper Eric Nelson could be a problem for the Indians, but Santiago has high hopes for sophomore Mike Fierstein.

"Without a doubt, Eric is a tough act to follow," admitted Santiago. "But I believe Mike has the talent to keep us competitive in every game."

One experienced member of the defense is junior fullback Dan Cotreau. Cotreau, a co-captain, is expected to maintain order when opponents move into Indian territory.

Other veterans for the Indians include junior Ray Macco and Dan Simon, a sophomore. The hardworking duo start at halfback and fullback respectively. Among the newcomers to MSC are midfielder Tony Ioannou, John's younger brother, and John's cousin Ivan, a sweeper.

Overall, Santiago calls the 1984 edition of the Indians the "highest skill" team he has seen in his five years at the helm of the soccer program.

"We have enough talent to be a force in the NJSAC (New Jersey State Athletic Conference) this season," Santiago said. "We have the players who give Kean (ranked fifth in the nation) some problems. As the season progresses and we get more game experience and practice, this could possibly be MSC's best year ever."

Practice makes perfect and perfect usually makes a championship.

The game played last Saturday at Sprague Field between MSC and East Stroudsburg was an intense and aggressive battle of football from the pre-game activities to the sound of the horn ending the fourth quarter. However, in the end ESU prevailed, 10-7. Statistically MSC overpowered the Warriors and took control of the game.

Some of the key defensive players were James Overby, who had six tackles and Gross, who scraped up six yards. In the second half, Perri, who had three extra points and a field goal against Wagner, couldn't get on track on Saturday evening. One of the key factors that hurt both teams was Sprague Field itself. The turf was very slippery from the weekend hold with the team that is Superior to the Bloomfield College baseball squad, belting three Bloomfield pitchers for fourteen hits in route to a 9-3 victory.

The Indians got right down to business in the bottom half of the first inning. With one out, back-to-back singles by Dan Olsson and Bob Yeager put runners on first and second. Right fielder John Cowan then came through with an RBI double to score Olsson, while Yeager was out trying to gain third. From there, the Indians never looked back. While MSC starter and winner Shaun Garrity was holding Bloomfield to one hit through the first four innings, the Indians collected another run in the third on the first of four Bloomfield errors. Yeager (3-for-5) and Bob Yeager put runners on first and second and advanced to second on a wild pitch, then came home on a mishandled Cowan shot to second base. The Pride Bowl spirit is supported and up-kept by Project Pride, Inc., of Newark, sponsors of the Bowl game, a non-salaried, multi-racial and multi-ethnic self-help organization. Its interests encompass education and service to persons of all ages. The group runs recreation programs for youngsters and civic clubs for older adults, and provides academic tutoring and financial aid. Since its inception, the program has awarded college scholarships to more than 70 young people. Although the final score of the Sept. 22 game will indicate a victory and a defeat, there will be no losers if the Pride Bowl spirit is supported and upheld.

When MSC meets Keen College on the football field in Newark's School Stadium Saturday, Sept. 22, at 2 p.m., there will be more riding on the game than the lifetime rivalry of two NCAA Division III teams. Over the past six years, the Pride Bowl has become a tradition, and for the last three years, one in which MSC has had a part.

It wasn't the prettiest game in MSC baseball history, but on Friday afternoon at Pieter Field the Indians proved superior to the Bloomfield College baseball squad, belting three Bloomfield pitchers for fourteen hits in route to a 9-3 victory.

It was a game that saw nine errors committed between the two teams and included a few questionable umpiring calls.

The fifth inning, Garrity's last, saw Bloomfield draw close at 2-1. Erik Kurchos doubled with two outs and was later driven in by a single, Garrity, a 5-11 junior, ended the inning with a good play on a ground ball by second baseman Jody Tobia to strand three Bloomfield baserunners and end the threat.

Just as Bloomfield narrowed the lead to one, the Indians put some runs back between the two. In the bottom half of the fifth, the MSC batters woke up to the tune of three runs. It was clearly a case of the team turning it on when they had to. They seemed to have control throughout the game.

"It's nice to see they can score early," said MSC Coach Kevin Cooney, "and keep scoring later, too... they work hard and have a good attitude." "Keep scoring" is just what they did.

Center fielder Tim Johnson led off the fifth with a walk. Olsson and Yeager each followed with singles, Yeager's driving in a run. Cowan then walked to load the bases. Tobia singled for a 4-1 lead. On the Warriors' next drive, after an MSC punt, they surged 10 plays only to settle for a field goal. Briggs took the Indians seven yards with a 7-yard pass to receiver Van Perri's kick was good.
