Students express views on Libyan bombing

By Joanne Cummings and Lynda Fox

"I think that Reagan is doing the right thing but he is going about it in the wrong way. He should go in and destroy all of them (Libyans) rather than just bomb small areas. If they're going to do it, they should bomb them all up, otherwise it will linger on for years." — Pauli Saez, mathematics

A transfer student from Peru, Saez states, "I like peace. I expect that terrorism, it's continuing it. It's not stopping unless there's a legislation vs. diminishing of future terrorism, it's continuing it. We need to show that we're going to do something if they begin to fear us they will still attack our allied countries. This may not stop terrorism; it may just transfer it."

Directions, political science

"I think Reagan's actions were totally justified. Our nation's allies seem to be afraid to get involved, but I don't know why. Our nation is more aggressive than other nations." — Jeanne Rosetti, history

"I don't think we should have done it. Two wrongs don't make a right. We are killing innocent people and lowering ourselves to the level of the terrorists. I'm really upset with the way people on this campus are treating the issue. They feel that we should go in and kill them, and they hope Qaddafi is dead. We are insensitive to the value of human life. It is scary."

"I don't think there's ever any justification for killing innocent human beings. "

"Are we terrorists in the same sense they are (by bombing residential areas and bases)? It's not stopping terrorism, it's continuing it. We need to show that we're going to do something if they begin to fear us they will still attack our allied countries. This may not stop terrorism; it may just transfer it."

I think the students of MSC have now placed their future on this campus are treating the issue. They feel that we should go in and kill them, and they hope Qaddafi is dead. We are insensitive to the value of human life. It is scary."

Over 8 million women in the United States suffer from endometriosis, a chronic disease affecting women in their reproductive years, according to Jacobo Rubino, who spoke Wednesday at the Women's Center. “It is the leading cause of pelvic pain and infertility,” she said.

The endometrium is the tissue that builds up inside the uterus and sheds each month in menstruation. In endometriosis, that tissue develops into growths or implants outside the uterus usually in the abdomen. In rare occurrences, growths form on the lungs, arms, thighs, and other areas. These growths are not cancerous.

“The growths increase in response to menstrual cycle hormones, particularly estrogen,” said Rubino.”They build up, break down and bleed but can’t leave the body. This results in internal bleeding, scar tissue formation, inflammation, and degeneration of the blood and tissue inside the body.”

Other complications include: rupture of the growths which may spread the disease, interference with blood flow, a higher rate of miscarriage, increased risk of pregnancy in the fallopian tubes and infertility.

“Endometriosis tends to worsen with time. It goes in cycles of remission and recurrence,” said Rubino.

The most common symptom of endometriosis is pain before and during periods, during ovulation and with or after intercourse, said Rubino.

“However, it’s important to know there is no relationship between the amount of pain and the extent of endometriosis.”

In addition to pain, heavy or irregular bleeding and infertility may occur.

The most common theory on the cause of the disease is the transplacental migration theory. It suggests that during menstruation some tissue may back up and squeeze out through the fallopian tubes. Other theories propose that endometrial tissue is carried through the lymph system or the blood to other areas, passed on genetically or through surgery.

“There is no empirical evidence that tampon use is related to endometriosis although it is a possibility,” said Rubino. “You just have to use your own judgement.”

The best diagnostic tool is laparoscopy, a minor surgical procedure in which a tiny incision is made by the navel and the abdomen is distended with carbon dioxide gas to make the organs easier to see. An instrument with a light on the end is inserted into the incision to look inside and detect growths.

While there is no cure for endometriosis, treatments include a removal and burning of the growths, hysterectomy or, more commonly, hormonal treatments, said Rubino. Danazol stops estrogen but it is expensive ($100-$150 a month), a low success rate and causes possible side effects of acne, hair growth and nausea.

Accurate diagnosis using a laparoscopy prevents incorrect treatment that could have serious implications. For example, if a person were thought to have endometriosis but it was actually ovarian cancer, hormonal treatments would spread the cancer. Anyone who suspects that they have the disease should talk to other women for possible recommendations of doctors knowledgeable in endometriosis. The Endometriosis Association can provide information too.

“Most importantly, stay informed. Don’t rely on the medical profession to tell you what to do,” she said.

The MSC Alumni Association would like to thank the following students and their organizations for participating in the 1986 MCCA Phonathon held recently at the Alumni House: John Brown, Helen Givels, Flo Sivalis, Rosa Gioeli, Dave Grasso, Paul Griffin, Bill Kramer, Linda Loicano, Cyndi Maddox, John Johnaton, Dan Phelps, Nancy Precone, Thon Shubick, Anne Marie Scutaro, Nanice Valente-(APO); —Suey Condo, Linda Cuccia, Kathy Cronum, Lisa Butera, Denny Durate, Francis Ellen, Roycey Estimates, Larry Freeman, Vince Gagiozio, Stacey Condon, Tom McPhee, Doug Garrett, Barbara Cranfield, Joe Kweders, Sharon Kendall, Michele Madden, Ruth McShack, Sheryl Shelton, Lisa Stanziele, Paul Vitola-(AKP); —Lisa Butera, Bunny Behringer, Allison Boucher, Chris Covert, Gigi Consalvo, Jack Lyons, Barbara McCurnin, Laura Pudimott, Tracey Rowland, Sarah Williams-(CLASS ONE CONCERTS); —Bill Bracker, Michele Danu, Fatimah Hindi, Melissa Higgins, Alissa Lazozotti, Becky Leon, Cynthia Slavinsky, Andrea Tarr-(DROP-IN CENTER); —Tanja Avant, Lisa Garton, Robert Griffin, Anthony Jones and Todd McSween-(SIGMA PHI RHO); —Lisa Dolan, Liz Farkas, Lynn Grasso, Ray Pokorny, Dr. Noreen, Andrea Walter-(SA BLANTON HALL); —Flo Butler, Lisa Edwards, Shawn Snodgrass-(GDP); —Lisa Butera, Ellen Mary Breen, Kathy DePoe, Karen Furman, Mike Stinchcombe-(LEADERS); —Neil Guth, Mike LaVacca, Tom Keenan-(DKP); —Gina Spicero, Margaret Arena, Kathy Cienkowski, held Daniels, Rich Hogan, Mark LaSalle, Eileen O’Connor, Vincenza Leonelli, and Dee Romains. To their efforts, $45,891 was raised by calling alumni and requesting pledges. The overall total was $66,257, making this year’s Phonathon the most successful to date.

Held annually every spring, the Phonathon is an effective technique for raising about 50 percent of the Alumni Association’s annual budget. This budget benefits MSC through student scholarships, faculty and homecoming, athletics and Career Service support.

During the Phonathon, student groups and organizations compete for individual and group prizes with a grand prize of $250 awarded to the group, and $50 to the individual that raises the most money. Individual prizes such as gift certificates to the college bookstore are awarded nightly.

This year’s group prize was awarded to APO whose callers raised $17,408.00. A provision of $10 was awarded to AKP with $5,936; third prize of $25 was awarded to CLASS 1 CONCERTS, which raised a total of $5,130. The individual top caller was John Brown of APO, who collected $50.

Nightly top callers included Tom Shubick, John Brown, Rosa Gioeli, Nancy Precone and Nanice Valente of APO; Allison Boucher and Tracey Rowland of CLASS 1 CONCERTS; Howard McSwieg of SIGMA PHI RHO; Cynthia Slavinsky of DROP-IN CENTER; Ray Pokorny from 5A BLANTON HALL and volunteer Dee Romains.

Snack bar raided at College Hall

By Vivette Watson
Burglars kicked in the door of the Snack Bar in College Hall between 4:21 p.m. on Sun., April 6 and 6:08 a.m. on Mon., April 7, and stole 24 cartons of cigarettes and six boxes of candy. Total value of items is $325.

The incident was repeated between 7:30 p.m. on Thurs., April 10 and 6:05 a.m. on Fri., April 11. Money, candy, drinks and cigarettes were stolen. The total value of cash and items is undetermined. Campus police are investigating the two incidents.

On Wed., April 9, between 7:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. the owner of a '79 Chevy Monte Carlo returned to his car in lot 13. He found the front windshield smashed. On Tues., April 8, between 9:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. persons attempted to remove the T’Roof of an '81 Chevy Camaro in lot 22.

Someone broke the window of a '74 Pontiac in lot 30, between 7:30 p.m. and 11:10 p.m. on Sun., April 13 and stole a 150 pair of sneakers.

On April 9, at 2:26 a.m. a female caller reported a bomb in Bohn Hall. Similarly, a male caller reported a bomb on the fifth floor of Blanthon Hall at 4:40 a.m. on Sat., April 12. The buildings were evacuated and searched. No bombs were found.

MSC budget reviewed

By Tom Boud
Vice President for Administration and Finance William Griffith conducted a presentation discussing the state-budget and MSC's financial status for 1987, at last Thursday's Board of Trustees meeting.

"The State of New Jersey is earmarking 3.7 billion dollars (40% of the state budget) for education of all types for fiscal 1987. This is a 230 million dollar increase from the previous budget but only 9 million is set aside for higher education," Griffith said.

"Fiscal 1987 may not solve all of our budgetary problems but at least higher education is keeping up with all other areas of the budget in terms of monetary appropriations," he said.

Faculty Senate Representative Kathleen Wilkins underlined the need for more money, citing faculty morale. "Faculty morale is low because they are overextending themselves. They are understaffed and not getting enough secretarial help and they find themselves struggling to maintain the level of teaching quality to the students," Wilkins said.

Wilkins said that unsatisfactory advancement opportunities are also contributing to the moral problem. "Poor promotional opportunities and poor benefits compound the problem. This is all related to the problem of underfunding. In fact, MSC is being singled out among all other colleges for having a history of underfunding."

MSC President Donald Walters responded to Wilkins' report of low faculty morale. "I am aware of the underfunding situation and have been lobbying a long time for more money by regularly meeting with state legislators. A lot of effort has gone in but no pay off has been achieved," said Walters.

Waiters called upon the public to protest the shortage of funds. "I think it's time the public, especially college students, should contact their state legislators and let them know that they care about MSC's financial troubles. After all, this issue affects their education," Walters said.

In other news the Board of Trustees unanimously approved a preliminary proposal for a joint five-year Bachelor/MA program in practical anthropology. Dr. Bertha Quintana, chairperson of the anthropology department explained the envisaged merger in a later interview. "This innovative idea would put the Bachelor of Anthropology and the Masters of Anthropology together in a five-year program. The proposed program itself involves 151 semester hours of study with 12 of those hours in actual field work," said Quintana.

Quintana said that the program is the first of its kind in New Jersey. "Insofare as practical anthropology, this is definitely a unique program which is also geared toward the job market; especially middle level positions in non-faculty professions." Dr. Greg Walters, assistant vice-president for academic affairs who is overseeing the proposal's movement said in a telephone interview. "The BA/MA proposal will soon be in the hands of the Dept. of Higher Education which will circulate it among all the other state colleges in New Jersey for additional input."

11 scholarships offered to students

By Regina Slavinski
Nicholas Michelli Dean of Professional Studies, announced the availability of eleven new scholarships for Education majors for the 86-87 school year.

Eight $500 scholarships for senior student teachers will be granted by the Ruth Lewin Endowment Fund. Applicants must show financial need and academic performance.

Three $1000 scholarships for juniors or seniors fully admitted into the teacher education program will be funded by the Teachers Club of Montclair. Applicants will be judged on academic performance in addition to activities and a written essay indicating a commitment to teaching.

"There is an impending shortage of teachers," said Michelli. He estimates 1.6 million openings for teachers in the coming decade with 40,000 positions available in New Jersey alone.

"The government raised the starting salary of those holding a Bachelor's degree in education and a teaching certificate from $13,000 a year to $18,500 a year," he said.

Michelli hopes the scholarships, job availability, and higher pay scale will encourage students to pursue education as a career. Applications will be available, April 23, at Chapin Hall, Room 106 (and due back) May 2. Scholarships will be awarded at a ceremony, May 21.

Jones won with 881 votes to Barbara McCunnis's 404 votes. "I have never felt so incredibly ecstatic and exalted as there is financial waste in our system."

For the position of secretary, Patty Mudrick, who in his term has started a legacy of good representation. It now must be continued. My message to the Board; students deserve respect and I will make sure that they get it. I feel that the board must become more involved with students. I look forward to dealing with President Walters and the Board of Trustees for I bring my ten years of political experience to that body. The time for representation is now and I am pleased to hold this position."

Mike has been a legislator and has chaired the External Affairs Committee. Presently he is the vice president for external affairs on the President's Cabinet and he is also the assistant to the Mayor and Council in Hackensack.

Dave Handal, SGA President for the past two years is pleased with the students choices for next year's executive board and is optimistic about the future of the SGA. "I think that we have the most qualified people for the positions and there is no doubt in my mind that next year's executive board will be the best ever. I feel that I have learned a phenomenal amount in my two years. I have no regrets and I wish my successors the best of luck!"

Dean of Students Dr. Edward Martin also expressed his congratulations and is looking forward to an excellent cooperative year. He believes that the incoming executive board is primed for representing the students' interests.

Memorial Service for Prof. Chapman

A memorial service will be held for Professor Anne M. Chapman on Sunday, April 20, at the fountain in front of Harry Sprague Library at 2:30 p.m.

Chapman, a professor in the fine arts department, died Sunday, March 30, after a long illness.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, Chapman attended the Cleveland Institute of Arts and the Cranbrook Academy of Art, earning degrees in Ceramics and Sculpture. She taught at the University of Mississippi, Pennsylvania State University, the University of Florida, New York University, and the University of New Mexico.

In 1966, Professor Chapman came to M.S.C. Most recently, she taught color studies and papermaking; she also taught sculpture and fibers. She was an accomplished artist in all these fields, exhibiting her work and the work of her students in this year's papermaking exhibit on campus; her works in drawing, painting, fibers and clay are in the permanent collections of the Cleveland Museum of Art, the Everson Museum of Art, the New Jersey State Museum, and other galleries and museums; her work is also in many private collections. She won various awards, including honors at the New Jersey Craftsmen's Show.

Chapman also co-designed the Sprague Library fountain with retired art faculty member Brian Watkins of M.S.C. The fountain, entitled "Four Elements," consists of four reflective planes representing the four elements of air, fire, water and earth. It was designed to replace the original fountain, which was part of the Sprague Library ventilation system. Installed in 1977, the fountain was funded in part by a gift from the Class of 1970.

Chapman is survived by her stepmother, Mary Chapman, and her aunt, Grace Gerschman.

Bombs aren't the only weapon against Qaddafi

The whole world is in an uproar over America's bombing of military targets in Libya. Here, the majority of the media has said that most Americans are backing this direct retaliation to terrorism. Yet, there are people demonstrating against it.

While terrorism has been on the rise over the past few months and many innocent people have been murdered, why have we decided that Qaddafi personifies terrorism? While he may be the loudest and most insane mouthpiece, who's to say that he represents all terrorists? There are many terrorist groups roaming around Europe who do not belong to the Qaddafi school of terrorism. Yet, if another terrorist attack occurs as a result of our bombing, in Libya, will we assume that the Colonel has struck again?

Qaddafi is not innocent; Libyan terrorist attacks have made it clear that he considers all Americans enemies. So what can we lose by bombing them; one may ask? Perhaps a lot more than we realize.

At this point there are reports of a revolution in Libya. Will this civil strife against Qaddafi, supposedly escalated by our attack, work to our advantage and squash terrorist tactics? Maybe we've scared them. Or will the entire Arab region back Libya? Will our action cause them to drop their differences and unite? Is this the match that will light the fuse to the crazy time bomb of global terrorism?

Only time will tell if we did the right thing.

What we should keep in mind is that violent reactions like this should never become a habit. Instead, we should increase measures to convince our allies, who have denounced this military action, that total economic sanctions is the only peaceful ways of stopping terrorism. Maybe this attack will push them in that direction.

In the meantime, America too should make sure all of its monies and businesses are out of Libya. Total economic sanctions is the only way to hurt Qaddafi.

So while this attack may have been necessary to show that we won't stand for terrorism anymore, it isn't the ultimate solution. Money is a more powerful weapon. If we can cripple Qaddafi in this way, then the battle against terrorism may be won without additional loss of life.
To the editor:
The Montclarion has demonstrated once again that it is a biased faction of the SGA. In last week's issue, the lead article headlined that three prominent SGA legislators were removed from their positions due to "unexcused absences". Was there any motive or point in headlining a statement that could not be followed by a story? I feel that this was a blatant display of manipulative editing. When was the last time SGA news was frontpaged, much less the lead story?! Not only did the Montclarion prove this once, but it reinforced its position with John Paul's cartoon. I found the cartoon to be a belligerent display of political satire. It was inappropriate, futilously drawn and captioned in very poor taste. The legislators were not dismissed due to incompetence but to one too many missed meetings. This leads me to me next point. The group of SGA bureaucrats that dismissed the legislators are extremely confused. First of all I heard through the SGA "grapevine", that I had been dismissed before receiving any formal notification from Gary Takavorian, President Pro-tempore. Secondly, upon receiving the formal notification of my dismissal, I read that I had surpassed the limit of three unexcused absences. Four absences would constitute surpassing the legal limit, yet I missed only three. Furthermore, one of my absences was due to a medical problem which I brought to the attention of Pam Gorsky, Secretary of the SGA. Incompetent "ex-legislator" speaks on SGA

I feel that I was a dedicated and competent SGA legislator. I was a member of the Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee, working on creating a judiciary court to represent the students. I was shocked and appalled to read this biased statement and view the Editorial cartoon. In my own defense, this is the true story behind last weeks "article". But Don't worry I will be an SGA legislator again!

Kudos given to SAGA's support of "Superdance"

To the editor:
I would like to publicly thank John Hicks and SAGA foods for all their support during Montclarion's Superdance - a 24 hour dance marathon to benefit Muscular Dystrophy.

Since Superdance lasted for so many hours our dancers were provided with food and beverages. All food for the dance was donated from various patrons. This year donations were made by the Rat, Pioneer Foods, Drakes Cakes, McDonalds, and SAGA.

These guidelines must be adhered to or the letter may not be printed. The Montclarion reserves the right to edit all letters for reasons of style and brevity.

Montclarion recieves praise for anti-smoking column

To the editor:
We applaud The Montclarion for its column by Ellen Goodman suggesting that Nancy Reagan should add tobacco to the list of drugs whose dangers she wants to eliminate from our country.

Since participants in a discussion in the December Harpers Magazine having many different viewpoints about drugs agree that tobacco is the entry drug, in the sense that users of all illegal drugs begin with tobacco it is especially important that tobacco not be casually accepted in educational institutions.

New Jersey already has laws against smoking in the classrooms, auditoriums, and halls of state colleges, but MSC's population continues to be plagued by smoke. We urge students, faculty, and staff to observe these laws and to encourage others to do so.

Stevie Ray Vaughan blasts MSC

By Gary Ruff

Sweating, grimacing and flailing his instrument like a man possessed, Stevie Ray Vaughan proved his reputation as America's premier blues guitarist in a stunning performance at MSC's Panzer Gym on Sunday, April 13. The sold-out concert explored the range of Stevie Ray's talents, from rockers like "Look at Little Sister" and "Scuttlebuttin'" to showpieces like the bluesy "Dirty Pool" and Jimi Hendrix's pulsing feedback freak-out "Third Stone from the Sun." On the latter number, his final encore, Stevie Ray mercilessly thrashed his classic, time-worn Stratocaster, swinging it by the tremolo bar, playing behind his back and even standing on the guitar to produce weird sounds.

Stevie Ray's band, Double Trouble, effortlessly generated a powerful musical structure to support his guitar pyrotechnics. Between drummer Chris Layton and bassist Tommy Shannon, the strong rhythmic backbone of Stevie Ray's songs was very compelling. As for Stevie Ray's singing, it is anything but sweet, but its power is undeniable.

The concert was marred by only one problem—rather poor sound quality. This cannot be blamed solely on the acoustics of the packed gymnasium. Rather, it seemed that the bass was disproportionately loud, producing a painfully throbbing roar like that of a landing jet. Still the fact that this sound-drowning effect detracted little from the excitement of the music is a tribute to the raw talent of Stevie Ray Vaughan.

Musical growth hasn't diminished live Rush

By Mark Ptak

Not many bands these days are able to keep the attention of their audience and fans for any considerable length of time. Some are lucky if they can keep their heads above water past the first album. Rush, on the other hand, has not only survived drastic changes in textures and rhythms but has also been able to fill arenas and keep a captive following for more than ten years.

On March 31 and April 1, Rush played the Brendan Byrne Arena, with their opening band being, once again, Marillion. I really felt sorry for Marillion when they opened for Rush on their Signals tour at Radio City Music Hall because they were nearly booed off the stage. This time, however, it seemed that the crowd was more tolerant of their style of music. Still, it was almost impossible not to hear faint voices from behind crying, "Rush! We want Rush!" Rush is what they wanted, and indeed Rush is what they got.

Marillion exited stage left after about 30 minutes and soon enough the stage was set for the opening of the featured band. And what an opening it was! The crowd was on their feet for most of "Spirit of Radio" and "Limelight." Rush then went into the most popular song of their new LP Power Windows. The powerful "Big Money." Rush's ammunition, adding an extra dimension to the brilliant light show and live performance. The videos gave much more atmosphere to the idealistically conceptual songs such as "Subdivisions" and "Teritories," and even more color to the frightening "Witch Hunt." And, of course, what would a Rush concert be without the ever-popular and infamous "Neil Peart Drum Solo?" Yes, it occurred once again in "YYZ," if you haven't already guessed. Personally, I think drum solos went out in the 70's. Besides, I was there to perceive the tightness of the band as a whole, not as individuals. But Joe Concert wants a drum solo, and Peart obliges. Beyond that, the tightness of the band was exquisite, considering that the cuts from Power Windows focused on more textual musical ideas.

Being a musician and a keyboardist, I found "Mystic Rhythms" and "Grand Designs" to be more musically interesting than the rest of the set because of the synthesizer programming. Don't get me wrong, I enjoyed "Tom Sawyer," "Closer to the Heart," "The Trees," and "Distant Early Warning" just as much as Joe Concert on my left. And the best thing Rush did was to revitalize "2112" as an encore. It's just refreshing to know that some bands are making use of the technology that's available without having the technology dictate the direction of the music. If, after all this time, Rush can still keep the attention of their fans, old and new, then they deserve whatever success they receive.

Exploring art in Soho
Small galleries offer a break from the norm

By Beth Lysaght
If you are interested in taking a trip to the island of Manhattan this weekend to take in the museums, why not bypass the standards like the Guggenheim and Metropolitan, and head for Soho. There are a number of interesting exhibits currently showing a variety of new artworks.

If you are not sure where to go you can start at 420 West Broadway. This building contains a number of galleries which are showing the works of contemporary artists. These galleries include: Leo Castelli, Carpenter and Hochman, Charles Cowles, German Van Eck, 49th Parallel, and Sonnabend.

On exhibit at the Leo Castelli Gallery, David Salle's paintings have a resolved quality. In most of his pieces he has divided the canvas with perpendicular wooden sticks, which brings a nice three dimensional feel so the observer can become more drawn into the work. Also, his use of a canvas within a canvas, each painted with different kinds of strokes, incorporated an unexpected unity into the pieces. The subject matter, a woman, is somehow secondary to the actual forms created by the combined styles.

If you are interested in sculpture and/or entomology you'll enjoy the work of Michael Lucero, being displayed at the Charles Cowles Gallery. The work depicts various insects, with a concentration on butterflies. They are painted with clouds and wings, and decorated with cracked rocks, which form mazes much like the tunnels insects make.

If you are into architecture, the 49th Parallel is exhibiting "A Measure of Consensus: Canadian Architecture in Translation," which includes photos of urban and suburban Canada. Also displayed were aerial views of the city and grid tracks. The superimposed color squares, triangles and circles over these black and white photos bring to light the qualities of good architecture, giving depth by combining and stacking shapes like sculpture. Also, the variations of superimposed shapes are unbalanced enough to create interest, but not enough to destroy the sense of unity.

At the other galleries were primarily paintings which you can experience for yourself. While down there pick up a gallery guide to find the type of work you most would want to see. In Soho, there is an exhibit for almost every artistic interest.

Studio Theater Productions:
An Evening of One-Acts
Three one-act plays will be performed in the Studio Theater on Fri., April 18 and Sat., April 19 at 8 p.m. The plays include "Cahoot's Macbeth" by Tom Stoppard (directed by Thom Sweeney) and two plays by John Guare, "The Loveliest Afternoon of the Year" and "Something I'll Tell You Tuesday," both directed by Ruth Ann Hyson. Indians split with Trenton, defeat WPC and Ramapo

Garrity's (2-0) pitching sealed the victory for MSC. The senior righthander worked 3 2/3 innings of relief, allowing only two hits while striking out two and walking one. The Indians' offense managed ten hits, with McClain and DelSol getting two apiece to lead the attack.

In game two, Trenton jumped out to a 3-1 lead in the first. MSC responded with a pair of runs in the second, one on an RBI double by Spadoro, the other on an RBI single by Johnson. The Indians then staked themselves to a 4-3 advantage in the fourth inning and played the rest of the game as if they had no chance of losing it. After the fourth inning, they had just three hits and four baserunners, none of which scored. Defensively they committed three errors. When Trenton tied the score in the sixth and pushed across a two-out run in the ninth to win it, the Indians believed they could lose. But it was too late.

Ray Castellano suffered the loss in relief of starter Jeff Vandereof (three runs in one inning), and Brian Cheswick (4 1/3 innings, one run). Castellano went 3 1/3 innings, allowed one run on three hits, walked two and struck out two.

MSC 9 - Wm. Paterson 0

With most of the area's media attention centered around William Paterson as the Pioneers gathered a 15-1-1 record, the MSC baseball team was almost forgotten. Until last Friday, that is.

The Indians recaptured their share of the NJAC limelight Friday when they pounded the Pioneers, 9-0, in Wayne.

MSC starter Anthony Foti (six innings of work) and reliever Shaun Garrity shut down Paterson(15-2-1) on eight hits to hand them their first conference loss. The Indians climbed into a tie in the Northern Division of the NJAC at the time with a record of 4-1.

Tim Jones belted a triple and three singles, had three RBI, and three runs scored to pace the Indian onslaught. Pepe Herrero had three hits including a solo home run. Ron Spadaro added three singles to aid the Indian cause.

MSC 15 - Ramapo 2

Last year, it was one of the most hotly contested rivalries the then-New Jersey State Athletic Conference had ever seen. MSC and Ramapo met eight times last year with MSC taking six of those contests. The last Indian win sent them into the Division III World Series while leaving Roadrunners at home. It's safe to say there was no love lost between the two schools.

That left for a lot of promise in the teams' first clash this season—a clash that never materialized. Ramapo's

Volleyball marathon
held for Susan Arms

By Barb Hinkle

The 9th Annual Volleyball Marathon was held this past weekend at Panzer Gym. The brainchild of Maria Tome, a former president of the Student Intramural and Leisure Council, the marathon is held annually during the spring semester in order to raise money for a chosen charity/beneficiary.

Past marathons have been held for such organizations as Cystic Fibrosis, New Jersey Association for Blind Athletes, and The United Way. This year's beneficiary was Susan Arms, a former student of MSC. Susan contracted euroribromatosis, a hereditary neurological disease which has left her blind and deaf.

Teams from fifteen organizations participated in this year's marathon. Some teams requested specific hours to play throughout the night while other groups pulled teams together for drop-in competition. Larry's Team participated the entire eighteen hours and took on anyone willing to play.

Dean Martin led a team from the Office of Student Activities which took on the SILC Alumni team headed by Frank Petrozzino. Later on in the morning the courts were blessed by a team from the Newman Center led by Father Art Humphrey. Dave Handal and the Student Government Association played during the early morning hours on Saturday. Other teams participating were from Alpha Phi Omega, Delta Kappa Psi, Class l Concerts, Alpha Kappa Psi, Senate, The Boomers, SOT's, Motley Crew, The Montclair Wrecks, and WMSC.

Throughout the evening and morning, various prized donated by local businesses were raffled off. The entire marathon rocked to the tunes played by WMSC disc jockeys.

Special thanks to Kris Jager for taking on this event. Also to Theresa Feduniewicz, Donna Melkonich, Kathy Glendon, Debbie Ballway, Pete Smith, Don Phelps, and Eileen Beltran.

If anyone wishes to make a donation to the Susan Arms Foundation, contact Kris Jager at 893-5245.

MSC tramples Ramapo

pitching faltered while the Indians' offense racked up 10 hits and 15 walks en route to a 15-2 thrashing of the Roadrunners in Mahwah.

The Indians opened up a 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning, but Ramapo struck back with a pair of runs in their half of the first off MSC starter and winner Lee Gentile (3-0). Those runs came in the form of a Vinnie Giles two-run home run. Gentile was unbeatable the rest of the way. He shut out Ramapo for the rest of the six-inning contest halted by darkness. Gentile allowed five hits, struck out four, and walked none.

While Ramapo's offense was being silenced by Gentile, the Indians belted three Ramapo pitchers for two runs in the third, two in the fourth, three in the fifth, and four in the sixth. The umpires then signalled the TKO. Andy Welted knocked in three runs with a double and triple, Ron Spadaro went 3-for-4, scored three runs and drove in two. Lou Bianco had a solo home run.

Southampton 9-MSC 8
MSC’s Dave French summed it up, “In good lacrosse you won’t find any sissies.” The fact that he was on the Indians’ sideline with a broken leg only added weight to his statement.

The Indians went up against a gritty Southampton team on Saturday, at Sprague field. MSC was beaten 9-8, as the Colonials exploded for four goals in the fourth quarter to cement the victory. With the loss, the Indians’ record dropped to 3-4.

Al Renosa and Mike Nugent got the Indians off to a fast start as they scored three goals in the first quarter. MSC dictated the pace of the game early on, and had many scoring opportunities, but they did not capitalize on them. Senior Gordon Smalley weaved through the Colonials defense to score an unassisted goal in the second period. Tony Petrone scored two goals in the second quarter to bring his tally to 12 goals scored in four games.

MSC dominated the third period with Marty Tuumfio, the Indians’ premier player, taking control. At 7:21 Brian Walters scored a goal on a penalty shot to give MSC a 6-5 lead. With Walters’ second goal of the quarter, the score was 7-5. Southampton slowed the tempo of the game down to gain control, and the strategy was successful as the Colonials scored at the three minute mark to draw closer at 7-6.

MSC 16—FDU 7
Petrone poured in six goals to spark the Indians to a 16-7 victory over Fairleigh Dickinson Monday at Sprague Field. Ed Sargent scored three goals and set up another, and Ron Francis-co added two goals and three assists for the Indians.

MSC lacrosse coach Tim Sullivan, on his impression on his team’s win over Fairleigh Dickinson University, said “FDU is not as skilled as some of the teams we have played, but we played a good game.”

The coach singled out Tuumfio, who has “excelled in his defensive position, and has been a strong contributor to our defense.”

The coach said he is also pleased with the overall performance of the team. “The team is drastically improved from last year. The scoring input has improved and the team is more skilled.”

Softball team sweeps Rutgers, fall to second in loss to Kean

Kean 5 — MSC 2

The MSC softball team ranked #6 in the country in Division III, suffered its first New Jersey Athletic Conference loss on Tuesday night as they dropped a 5-2 decision to Kean College at Quarry Field. The loss dropped the Indians to 16-5 overall and 4-1 in the conference. Trenton State stands alone in first place with a record of 4-0.

Ranked twelfth in the nation in Division III, Kean tallied three runs in the top of the first inning. That was enough offense for Kean to improve its NJAC record to 2-3 and overall to 15-7. Sandy Fisher smashed a bases-loaded double to right to tie the contest for the first time since the third inning, and Blanco was intentionally passed on to second when the ball eluded the shortstop. Dina DeAquino (8-4) fell victim to MSC’s lack of offensive production as Upsala upset MSC, 2-1 Thursday in East Orange.

DeAquino yielded both hits in the third inning when Upsala tallied its only runs of the game. Sue Eppright tripled in one run with two outs, then scored on Tracy Sedlak’s timely single for a 2-0 Upsala lead. That was all they would need.

The Indians managed their run in the top of the sixth when Donna Brooks doubled and scored on Debbie Emery’s one-out triple to right field. Emery was left stranded at third, though, ending MSC’s chances of victory.

Bloomfield 14 — MSC 10

Despite taking three of four New Jersey Athletic Conference contests this week, the MSC baseball team left off by losing two of its last three games. First they dropped the second game of a doubleheader with Trenton State on Saturday, then, after a victory against New Jersey Tech, they dropped a 14-10 decision to Bloomfield College Tuesday in East Orange.

The Indians (17-6-1) took a 3-0 lead against Bloomfield in the top of the first when three solo home runs came from the top four men in the batting order. Centerfielder Tim Johnson and shortstop Jim Fasano smashed a pair to lead off the game, then with one out, leftfielder Andy Walter connected for a three run Indian lead. The Indians got out to a 6-2 lead in the third inning, but that was the extent of the MSC highlights. Bloomfield erupted for seven runs in the sixth inning to overtake the Indians, 14-10.

MSC 4 - NJIT 3

John Deutsch led off the MSC eighth inning with a double, then scored on a groundout by Jim Fasano to provide the Indians with the margin of victory as they defeated the New Jersey Institute of Technology (NJIT) Sunday in Newark, 4-3.
