In hopes of averting a strike, the Montclair State Federation of College Teachers has called for a job action demonstration on Sept. 19 in Trenton. The demonstration will coincide with the Board of Higher Education meeting in Trenton. According to Dr. Catherine Becker, MSC's faculty union president, "The purpose of the demonstration is to show the Chancellor, T. Edward Hollander and the college president that we are strong and united. We want to create the political climate necessary to bring about an equitable contract. Our hope is that such a demonstration will avert a strike."

Economic and non-economic reasons are the cause of the disputes. Over a three year period the state has offered raises in salary of 4.5%, 3.6%, and 3.4%. However, the raises would not take effect until six months into the contract year. The union asserts that the half year "hold back" stipulation actually cuts in half any increases in pay. Also under dispute is the state's "cap" on promotions. The cap limits the percentage of upper rank positions and therefore makes promotions more difficult to obtain.

Librarians and professional staff would be deprived of their academic freedom and job security. The current proposed contract would allow colleges the right to search offices and intercept mail.

The two sides have failed to reach any compromise in negotiations which are currently in recess. The negotiations are scheduled to resume during the week of September 15.

"The demonstration is an attempt to make the State more fully aware of the union's dissatisfaction with the proposed contract. In a newsletter to union members from Jim Keen, strike coordinator, the union claims that policies being followed by the Chancellor and state college presidents are destroying public higher education in New Jersey. They further maintain that the reduction in state college budgets undermines the educational quality of New Jersey higher education and lowers the morale of faculty and staff."

In conclusion Dr. Becker stated, "If we are unable to achieve an equitable contract, we will strike Monday, September 29."

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION:

The MSC Staff Association recently elected new officers. Entire campus affected by water shortage

By Tom Boud

A rupture on the main water line inside the Carlisle Road Water Pit involving a reducing spool was behind last week's water outage. The water pit, located near Normal Avenue, is where the water systems of MSC and the town of Montclair meet.

The reducing spool narrows the flow of water from the 16 inch diameter main water pipe into the 10 inch diameter conduit which serves MSC. It weighs approximately 300 pounds.

Problems concerning MSC's water supply became evident Sept. 1 at 5:50 p.m. when Campus Police Officer Rose Vacca radioed headquarters saying that she saw water gushing from the pit.

The police notified Director of Maintenance Joseph McGinty at his residence who then ordered one of his plumbers to check on the situation.

"He went down to see how serious the leak was and found it was a bad break. I then called in additional help," McGinty said that he also enlisted the aid of the Montclair Water Company. According to McGinty, the water was turned off, it was discovered that the reducing spool piece was cracked open. The cause of the burst is still not known.

Water service was immediately restored by bringing two old pipelines located behind Russ Hall (one six inches wide, the other eight inches) into service. However, the water pressure was not great enough to reach the upper levels of the dormitories. "The dormitories were especially hit because they are taller buildings which require more pressure for water to reach the higher floors," McGinty said, "because of this, a lot of the floors in the dorms had no water."

McGinty noted that nearly the entire campus was affected. "$every building cont. on p. 7

Gusher causes water damage to Bohn Hall

By Johnathan Benjamin

Eight inches of water flooded the eighth floor of Bohn Hall on Mon., Sept. 8, when a toilet began gushing water uncontrollably at 8:15 p.m.

According to Len Roberts, director of Bohn Hall, housing maintenance told him that they believed the problem occurred from a kick to the flushometer on the toilet. At this time there is no evidence that leads to this assumption.

Lisa Harmon, an eighth floor resident of Bohn Hall, believes the problem could have been prevented. "The toilet was causing problems on a lower scale and the proper authorities were notified. No action was taken to correct it and as a result we're left to deal with this."

Students obtained buckets and mops in order to get rid of the water that had seeped into the hallways and dorm rooms. The water eventually reached the stairwells and the elevator, leaking through to the lobby.

The residents claim a maintenance person was notified but arrived an hour later without any tools.

An estimated damage report is not yet available because all damage reports have not been filed.

According to Harmon, Residence Life plans to reimburse the students but only if they present a valid receipt along with the damaged item.

Some items destroyed by the water damage were clothes, books, record albums, rugs, and other items that were left on the floor.

Due to the water there were also some accidents. A female resident injured her knee and plans to receive medical treatment. According to the injured party the college will not assume responsibility for the fall.

Students also claimed that a girl who was previously wearing a neck brace slipped down a fire stairwell due to excessive amounts of water in that area.

Although the water has been cleared of the eighth floor, the residents are left with the dampness that follows a flood.

Tailgate compromise sought

By Mike Heelan

The SGA Legislation discussed proposals for a policy on tailgate parties at last night's meeting. Presently, there is no policy in effect. The legislation is working to come up with a plan that will be beneficial to all.

One of the suggestions given was to institute a form of controlled tailgating, whereby alcohol consumption would be limited to those 21 and over. Also, tailgating would be restricted to a designated area.

Supporters of the plan to allow controlled alcohol consumption face some tough opposition in the form of state laws which prohibit the consumption of alcohol by underage students. In addition, liability costs are also a concern of the administration.

Although many ideas were discussed, a viable solution to the problem has not yet been found.

According to the administration, a decision will be reached before MSC's next home game which is scheduled for Saturday, September 20.

On September 29, 1986 the teachers at MSC plan to strike if a contract is not agreed upon. Prior to this date, on Sept. 19, 1986 the faculty at MSC will attend a demonstration in Trenton pertaining to the contract. At present, MSC is the only state college without a contract, according to Dr. Catherine Becher, MSC's faculty union president.

In other news, the SGA approved a bill which will provide written and verbal support of senate bill 1350. The bill requires all banks with state accounts to cash state checks upon proper identification of payee. If this bill is passed, the Pilgrim Bank will be required to cash all state checks free of charge. The vice president of External Affairs will look into the matter further and will keep the SGA up to date.

Stolen van recovered

By Vivette Watson

Thieves stole one van and more than $650 in cash and various items during the first week of the semester.

CAMPUS POLICE REPORT

A 1984 Toyota van was stolen from lot 28 between 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The van was recovered on Fri., Sept. 5, in Paramus.

There were three attempted car thefts between 10 p.m. on Wed., Sept. 3 and 1:30 a.m. on Sept. 4. In lot 25, someone broke both side windows of a 1985 Toyota and stole a radar detector valued at $265. Similarly, the driver's window of a 1986 Honda was broken and the car searched.

On Sept. 7, at midnight, Campus Police escorted two males, who refused to show identification, off the Clove Road Apts. complex for harassing residents. One of the males returned 10 minutes later and was arrested for trespassing.

Total value was $94. Between 10 p.m. on Sept. 4, and 11:30 a.m. on Sept. 5, the driver's side door lock of a 1985 Mazda was pried off and the car searched.

At 4 p.m. on Sept. 8, a female student reported that she had left her $100 wool jacket in a College Hall classroom only to return and find it missing.

At 9 p.m. on Sept. 8, a female student walking to her car observed two males walking behind her. They began verbally harassing her and one of the males attempted to push her against a car. The student began screaming and the males fled.

Career preparation essential to job placement

By Maralyn Kinch

How many different job titles can you name? Ten? Twenty? One hundred? Most people are able to identify no more than 200 jobs. That's not too terrific when 20,000 job titles currently exist. People make career decisions without having adequate information. How can one prepare for a career as a technical writer, or as an insurance claims adjuster if one doesn't know that such careers exist?

Career Services can help in a number of ways: through an extensive career library, through DISCOVER, our interactive computerized guidance system there are opportunities for students to speak with faculty, Alumni, and corporate recruiters about the types of work generally available within each area. Discussions will also focus on what it is like to work in those areas.

The programs will be held Tuesdays at noon and students are encouraged to bring lunch, a curious friend and lots of questions. All of these programs will be held in Rm. 126 of the Student Center Annex except where noted.

Water service of water except the Clove Rd. apartments and Gilbreth House, which are on a different water line. According to McGinty, none of the houses located along the campus border on Normal Avenue experienced any loss of water.

Director of Housing Dr. Raymond Stover said that all was done to ease the lack of water in the dormitories. "Dormitory students were referred to other buildings to use the bathrooms. For example, Freeman Hall students used the Panzer Gymnasium facilities and Blanton Hall students used the Stone Hall restrooms."

"This was done because people were lining up eight or ten deep to use the remaining working bathrooms."

A new reducing spool piece arrived from Texas Wednesday morning. McGinty explained the repair process. "My men went down to Newark Airport to pick up the piece. We worked around the clock Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday getting the old spool piece out and putting the new one in."

McGinty added that the removal of the broken reducing spool piece was difficult as well as the installation of the new piece.

On Sept. 5 at 12 a.m., water service to the campus was fully reestablished.

McGinty's crew spent the weekend "bleeding the system" by opening hydrants throughout the campus in order to release trapped air that was making the pipes vibrate.

McGinty conveyed his gratitude for his men. "They did an outstanding job. My men really committed themselves and inconvenience to the campus was limited."

MSC President Walters recognized the campus community for their tolerance. "I think everyone was admirably patient throughout the ordeal and extend my personal thanks for their cooperation. I particularly want to thank Maintenance Director Joseph McGinty and the members of his staff whose extraordinary effort enabled us to solve this problem as expeditiously as we did."

Some student reaction to the water crisis differed significantly from the administration's version. "The situation wasn't too good. There wasn't enough communication from the housing authorities. It took an hour to find out about the water problem," said Danetta Albright, a Webster Hall resident.

Stone Hall resident Rich Marvin-chambers supported this opinion, saying, "The conditions were very unsanitary. They should have cancelled classes."

Even today, there are still a few students who don't have an HP calculator.

That's because there are better than 2500 software packages available for them — more than for any other calculator.

There's even a special plug-in software package (we call it the Advantage Module) that's designed to handle the specific problems an engineering student has to solve in his, or her, course work.

No wonder professionals in engineering and the physical sciences widely regard HP calculators as the best you can get.

So check one out. Then, when your mother calls to ask if you're getting enough sleep, you won't have to lie.

Burning the midnight oil may be necessary. Burning the 2:00 or 3:00 or 4:00 AM oil is absurd. Especially when an HP calculator can get the answers you want — in time to get a good night's sleep.

For instance, our HP-15C Professional Scientific Calculator has more built-in advanced math and statistical power than any other calculator. Our HP-41 Advanced Scientific Calculators have even more potential.

By the way, if you want more information, just give us a call at 800-FOR-HPPC. Ask for Dept. 658C.

Administration must not outlaw tailgating at MSC

On September 20, 1986, the MSC football team will be hosting its first home game of the season against East Stroudsburg State University at Sprague Field. That is certain. What is not certain, though, is whether or not there will be any MSC students hosting tailgate parties in the parking lots.

The state of New Jersey and the MSC administration are currently concerned with alcohol consumption by undergraduate students and the problems that often go hand-in-hand with tailgating. While the state is trying to crack down on underage drinkers, the MSC administration is primarily concerned with the liability aspect of it. If there is a lawsuit-related problem occurs because of a pre-game tailgate party.

While concerns on both the part of the state and the administration are legitimate, the SGA and the administration must look for a viable solution to the problem.

Once again, the students and the administration are on different sides of the fence (so what else is new?): but a compromise must be made that will allow some form of regulated tailgating at MSC home football contests.

While it is often easy for the administration to look upon tailgating as a potential disaster, there are also certain benefits to the pre-game festivities.

For five Saturday nights out of the semester, there can be some unity among the student body. The occasions to show some sort of school spirit are enough without the possible elimination of tailgating further threatening this endangered species. Tailgate parties are an important part of the football atmosphere and serve not only to give the students a chance to show support not only for the football team, but for each other as well.

Whether anyone wants to say it or believe it, a certain amount of illegal drinking will occur, regardless of tailgate outlaw tailgating at MSC.

The SGA and the administration must find a way to hammer out a compromise that will somehow keep tailgating alive. The positive aspects of tailgating must not be ignored. If nothing else, during those five days in the semester, apathy is thrown out the window and students have a reason to support MSC.

While the football game remains the center of the festivities, tailgating allows the students to "make a day of it." Those occasions where the MSC community acts as a whole are all too rare to begin with, and must not be outlawed.

If the SGA and the administration can iron out definite rules and regulations, post them, and enforce them, there is no reason tailgating will have to be viewed as a problem. Tailgating can serve to MSC's benefit.

CASCAD BAY, Maine—"Is it quiet up there?" My friend asks this question wistfully. She has called long distance, from her city to my countryside, from her desk to my cottage.

"Yes," I answer her. There is no urban clutter here. No jarring cosmopolitan Muzak of subway and construction, rock and rush-hour voices. We are protected. The water that surrounds this island absorbs the din of the other world. Yes, it is quiet up here.

But when I return to my listening post at the hammock, I know that I hear more sounds than silence. The motor of passing lobster boats, the foghorn across the bay, the language of a dozen different birds.

Slowly, I sift through the hundred sounds that form this rural chorus. A honeybee shopping the rosehips in front of the porch, a mole rustling through the bushes, a hawk piping its song above me. If I concentrate, I imagine that I can even make out different voices of the wind moving through alder, bayberry or birch.

When I walk the island, I hear my own footsteps on the dirt. When I read, I hear the pages of my book turn. With time, I may even be able to distinguish the separate sounds the incoming tide makes lapping at seaweed or rock or mussel bed.

It has taken me a week to tune into these low decibels. To really hear the quiet, I do not live my urban life at such a frequency. Like most city people, I have been trained to listen each day only to the squelchiest wheel, the most insistent, hardest-rock level of audio demands.

The sounds of my urban life are manufactured to compete with one another. The honk of a horn, the ring of a telephone, the alarm of the ringing telephone—how is it possible to hear m yself think?"
MSC student wants more classes on weekends

To the editor:

As the Weekend and Part-time Students may know, there are very limited classes available for students on Saturdays. It would be convenient if there were more of a variety of courses available for those students who could not take the course load. Students who work full-time during the week may definitely find it helpful and relieving to expand their course schedules to Saturdays rather than cram everything on the week after work. In addition, those students who are married and have families may find it easier to make arrangements for babysitting on Saturdays.

MSC should provide students with more courses on Saturdays in all areas. It would be surprising to find how many students would find attending more classes on Saturdays appealing.

Summer is the time of year when teenagers and college students usually have a laid-back attitude. Their only goal is to get a rich, brown tan. When they return to school a definite physical appearance is evident. For me, I had a few changes over the break, but it didn't include a tan.

"If it came in a bottle, then everyone would have a good, healthy body."

On Wednesday, June 25, a co-worker and I ran a mile at the track field on campus. I did feel the same way when I first ran. In fact, I felt great! Knowing someone is there beside you helps a great deal for emotional support, because the person is out there going through the same trials.

I added an extra lap a day, and built up my workout to three miles. The only thing that changed was the setting. I worked at a sleep-over camp during the summer but continued to run. There were many more hills and rugged terrain in this location and the heat was excruciating. I wanted to quit numerous times, but there were two things that kept me motivated. The first one, my desire to compete within myself. The second was the FM headset I received as a gift. The music kept my mind occupied while running. It gave me the notion that someone was out on Route 31 helping me get through the steep hills and rough land. Everything was going well during the run, but then I felt the worst happened.

Monday, July 21. My run went smoothly, but on the way back, my left hamstring tightened as if the leg was spinted. The pain caused me to stumble on my left side, scraping my shoulder and leg severely. It was the pain I felt from my leg, however, that outweighed everything else. I was on a highway 1 1/2 miles away from the camp. There were no phones and cars passed me by. I had to find out just how much endurance I had developed and put it to work by limping back to the camp.

Upon the visit to the medical room, I found out I severely strained a hamstring. It hurt like hell. The day after, I attended an orientation at the college. Throughout the evening my hamstring throbbed. I felt as if it wanted to break through the ace bandage. I couldn't get my mind off of the pain, but finally I breathed out and a tear slid from my eye. From that moment on, I sucked the pain in and it didn't show again. I remembered how I felt when I was running and I wanted to experience that feeling again, injury or no injury.

I received whirlpools, massages, and applied heat to help the process of the healing. I did not subsided and began to start my running again from scratch. One mile at a time.

At first the pain from the leg seared my concentration. I knew it was going to hurt but I had to start someday. The morning after the run was the worst. My lower back bothered me, the calf muscles felt like fresh rubber bands. Everytime I stretched, the muscle contracted. I overcame the pain and the healing process.

Why did I put up with the sweat and pain? The emotional high one can receive from accomplishing something is greater than anything else, in my opinion. When there's competition, the winning and victory is greater.

I can now understand how Carl Lewis felt when winning his gold medals. I have a new respect for runners.

After a few personal conflicts and some advice from friends, I decided to venture into a sport that I initially felt was dull and exhausting. Running is exciting when a ball is involved, but I soon learned it can be just as exciting without one. There's a lot of strategy involved with running not only physically, but mentally. With this new outlook on the sport I immediately strapped on my Pony track shoes, shorts, FM headsets and the road was waiting for me to tackle it. So I began my trek into track.

In the beginning I ran one mile vigorously. The path included hills, bumpy gravel-covered areas and flatland. After my first run, my legs stiffened like glue and a nauseating sensation rushed from my stomach to throat. I grabbed hold of myself and asked, "Why would anyone want to do this?" It would be weeks before my question was answered.

Indians already preparing for Homecoming vs. WPC

By Perry Schwartz

Traditions are working their way back to Montclair State. The biggest traditions reestablished in 1985 were Homecoming and Spring Week. Now Homecoming ’86 is around the corner and will be better than ever!

Last year the Indians defeated C.W. Post College in front of a packed Homecoming football crowd. This year the competition is local and should stir twice the excitement as last year’s contest did. This year William Paterson will come to Sprague Field and try to avenge a 15-14 defeat, but it won’t be easy.

“I’m confident that this year Homecoming will be much better,” Martha Losche, Homecoming chairman, said. “We added to the events from last year, but kept the traditions activities like the pep rally, bonfire, and the college,” Losche said. “We added to the events from last year, but kept the traditions activities like the pep rally, bonfire, and hayride.”

Losche said the organizational part of Homecoming has been time-consuming, but presently the week-long events have jelled together to make for a great time for the students. The hardest part of the organization has been the parade operations.

“The parade is the hardest part of the week because we had to map a route feasible for the town of Montclair and the college,” Losche said. “We also need the support of the class I’s, II’s, III’s and IV’s in the parade. Their involvement is vital to the success of the parade and the week.”

The organizations that are committed to sponsoring events for the week are the Black Student Cooperative Union (BSCU), Council On International and National Affairs (CINA), College Life Union Board (CLUB), Players, and Class One Concerts.

Another area of importance is the Grand Marshall. Last year Baltimore Stars (USFL) All-League Linebacker and MSC alumni Sam Mills held the title. Mills is now playing for the New Orleans Saints (NFL). There are a few ideas in mind for this year’s Grand Marshall, but nothing is definite.

“There are many things still to get done and as the week draws nearer will have to be done,” Losche asserted. “There’s a place for anyone interested in helping with the event and the manpower during the week will be greatly appreciated.”

As the football team prepares for their games, with hard work on the field, there are many others hard at work in the student center. With all the effort involved the Pioneers picked a wrong time to enter “Indian territory.”

Anyone interested in lending a hand contact Ms. Losche in the SGA office or call 893-4202.

Football team prepares for '86 campaign

Indians look sharp in Saturday scrimmage

The Indian football squad talks over some last minute strategies before their team's first test was the powerful no way. After MSC's opening loss to East Stroudsburg at Sprague Field on September 8, by the score 3-1, and motion. After Muhlenberg College in stylish fashion Saturday afternoon. The Indians won the controlled scrimmage 17-3.

The Indian offense will keep defenses on their toes this season. Any routine play on any drive could become a big-play situation as evidenced in Saturday's game.

"I'm not surprised we came up with the big play, but our opponent was," head coach Rick Giancola said. "When a team plays together, and has receivers like Ed (Chavis), Ahmad (Field), and Bryan (Scipio) playing anything can happen. We do what we do best which is run and pass. Our opponent can't forget any facet of our offense or else it will result in a big play."

The Indian's first score came early in the first quarter when Ed Chavis literally stole the ball between two Muhlenberg defenders in the air and raced approximately 80 yards to put the first six point on the board. Paul Castiglia kicked the extra point.

The next possession was similar to the first. Senior quarterback Walter Briggs locked up with Ahmad Field from 60 yards to advance the score 13-0. Tony Calasurdo added the PAT. On the following drive, MSC stalled and Calasurdo booted a 37-yard field goal to end the scoring. The final-MSC 17, Muhlenberg 3.

"They played a basic 50-defense, which is what we practiced against for the 10 days of camp," running back Ed Hernandez said. "Physically they weren't competitive. We expect Wagner to be tougher."

The area MSC needs improvement in is mental mistakes which cause penalties. The Indians accumulated 15 during the scrimmage. Giancola said the errors were not deliberate ones, like clipping, but of mental errors and discipline.

"We have some areas still to work on this week," Giancola said. "I want the players to keep up the intensity and consistency in a game situation. I would prefer our players in an actual game-type situation instead of a 10-play scrimmage situation. That way the players would feel the actual pressure of a game situation of third-and-long or fourth-and-one play."

Defensively the 'd-linemen were impressive as last year. They showed quickness and pursuit to the ball and the hitting on both sides of the ball was good.

"The players had a lot of enthusiasm on Saturday," Hernandez said. "However, we have to be strong and eliminate the mental errors if we expect to beat Wagner. We can't win a game with 15 penalties so sharpening and tightening loose ends in practice is a must."

Indian soccer team tumbles in opener

There are those who say that soccer is a non-contact sport, that the game can be compared to ballet for its grace and motion. After MSC's opening loss to East Stroudsburg, the Indians must improve by 15 penalties so sharpening and tightening loose ends in practice is a must.
