Preparations underway for second annual homecoming

By Tom Boud

Final preparations are underway for MSC’s second annual Homecoming celebration which starts on Monday, Oct. 13 and continues until Oct. 19.

The week-long extravaganza consists of a wide variety of events including lectures, dances, concerts, comedy acts, and other special activities such as a bonfire/hayride night, a scavenger hunt, a lip sync contest, and even a recreational football game supported by the Student Intramural & Leisure Council (SILC).

Among some of the other 17 scheduled activities is a Council of International and National Affairs (CINA) sponsored lecture by former Los Angeles Lakers basketball player James Wilkes who will discuss drug abuse in sports, an actors’ improvisation workshop arranged by PLAYERS, a campus-wide scavenger hunt organized by WMSC radio, and a fall fest celebration by College Life Union Board (CLUB) featuring disc jockey music and turtle races.

The Homecoming week will culminate with a parade on Oct. 18 at 1:00 p.m. starting on Carlisle Rd. and proceed through the town of Montclair to Edgemont Park. This will be followed by a Homecoming reception for college administrators and parade dignitaries (such as the grand marshal) from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The MSC Indians will take on their archrival, the William Paterson Pioneers at the 8 p.m. slated Homecoming football game. During halftime, the official Homecoming king and queen will be announced. On Oct. 19, there will be an Oktoberfest party between Bohn and Blanton Halls hosted by the Residence Hall Federation. This afternoon festivity will have candy and cake sales benefiting the class 1,2,3, and 4 organizations and Moussy Bohn and Blanton Halls hosted by the Residence Hall Federation. Agent Orange haunts vet

By Mary Donnelly

Vietnam veteran Dr. Paul Scipione of the MSC Marketing Department is a special consultant to the New Jersey State Commission on Agent Orange.

He feels his involvement with the commission is a continuation of the camaraderie Vietnam vets developed while serving together. “We are an encased group. Outsiders have done a lot to us, but nothing for us.”

The Agent Orange Commission recently released overwhelming evidence linking Agent exposure with health problems to Vietnam veterans and their offspring. The chemical herbicide Agent Orange was used during the Vietnam war to defoliate large jungle areas. Named for the orange-ringed containers it was transported in, Agent Orange contains TCDD, a highly toxic dioxin. Vietnam veteran’s groups claim that Agent Orange has been responsible for numerous health problems including cancer, birth defects, miscarriages, and skin rashes. The federal government has contended until recently that no cause and effect relationship could be adequately established between Agent Orange and health problems.

The N.J. State Commission on Agent Orange announced in September that excessive amounts of TCDD were found in the blood of Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange. This disclosure may be the first step veterans’ groups need in seeking compensation for illnesses they contend were caused by exposure to Agent Orange.

“The Point-Man Project,” named for the lead soldiers who drew enemy fire, took two years of exhaustive research at a cost of approximately $400,000. The money was funded by the New Jersey State Legislature. The project studied three groups of men: veterans heavily exposed to Agent Orange, veterans who served in Vietnam without direct exposure, and Vietnam-era veterans.

The results found by the Commission advance veterans’ claims against the chemical companies and the federal government in two ways: the Commission said the research is able to detect minute traces of dioxin in the bloodstream years after exposure and perhaps most significantly, the research found dioxin levels 10 times higher in exposed veterans than in...

Assistant Dean of Student Affairs James Harris additionally urged all students to attend Homecoming activities. “The amount of work that has gone into it includes all aspects of the college. I hope everyone takes advantage of it.”

According to Campus Police Lieutenant Michael Postaski, extra patrols will be present during the Homecoming week to ensure campus safety as well as to deter illegal alcoholic beverage consumption on campus.

October
TKE members arrested by Little Falls Police

By Linda Longo

Four students representing MSC's TKE fraternity were arrested Oct. 6 for defacing the N.J. Transit railroad trestle. Little Falls Police spotted the students painting on the Cove Road bridge at 10:40 p.m. Detective Sgt. Nelson Romaine said the maximum penalty could be a $1,000 fine or six months in prison in the County jail. "The four students will have to make restitution to N.J. Transit to undo the damage," Romaine said. A court date has not been set.

A 1966 Ford Mustang valued at $900 was stolen from lot 24 between Sept. 29 and 30. It was recovered on Sept. 30 by Totowa Police.

On Sept. 29, a fifth-floor Blanton Hall resident reported that someone had entered his locked room around 1 a.m. and had stolen stereo equipment valued at $450.

On Oct. 5, a female Clove Road resident returned to the laundry room at 8:30 p.m. and found her $60 sweatshirt missing from the dryer.

An evening student lost her purse on Sept. 30. Eight days later, on Oct. 7, the purse, missing $35, was found on a shuttle bus.

On Sept. 30 a College Hall professor reported $13 missing from a desk in Room 306.

The owner of a 1972 Volkswagen Beetle reported, on Oct. 1, that two tires were slashed and air was let out of the other two tires. The car had been parked in lot 21.

On Oct. 2, a Bohn Hall custodian found a bag containing a coffee can filled with a flammable fluid and a book of matches on a shelf two feet above a stove on the seventh floor.

A male Clove Road resident was bitten by a mouse in the apartments' parking lot on Oct. 3. After killing the mouse, the student took it to campus police to be tested for rabies.

A vacuum cleaner was stolen from a Bohn Hall custodian while she was cleaning a lobby on Oct. 6. Someone from Blanton Hall called campus police and reported seeing two students bring a vacuum cleaner into Blanton Hall at 11:25 a.m. The vacuum cleaner was recovered and charges or administrative action are pending.

On Oct. 5, three males, looking for a party, entered a Blanton dorm room at 2:30 a.m. The three reportedly took room keys and threw them over the balcony and into the cafeteria. The keys were recovered that morning.

SGA preps for homecoming

By Mike Heelan

Final arrangements for Homecoming were discussed by Homecoming coordinator Martha Losche at last night's SGA meeting. This second annual extravaganza will consist of seventeen scheduled activities and will begin Monday, October 13, and run through Sunday, October 19. All students are welcome and encouraged to participate in this exciting event.

According to SGA President Mark Brancato, the office of the Registrar estimates a possible 10% decrease in full-time enrollment at MSC for this semester. As a result, the SGA stands to lose up to $50,000 dollars in student fees.

Submission of completed course request forms to registrar October 8, 1986 - October 17, 1986.

Study Abroad in Spain

The Spanish/Italian Department will offer its study abroad program in Spain during Winter Session, 1987. The study tour will leave New York on December 27, 1986 and return on January 16, 1987. The course is entitled "Contemporary Spain" and its main purpose is to study and experience firsthand today's Spain.

In Madrid and in Barcelona the group will stay in first-class hotels with two meals daily included. From last year's experience, service and food in these Spanish hotels was excellent. They also provide facilities for after-dinner discussions and other meetings for the group.

The cost of the trip is $1,250 which includes airfare, hotels, meals, charter bus, train ride (from Madrid to Barcelona) and all cultural excursions. MSC tuition for 3 credits is $125.25 The course number is V 1105 0375-Study Abroad.

The registration begins on October 8. For more information, contact Dr. John Hwang at 893-4285.

Winter Session Tour of China

Visit China and Southeast Asia from Dec. 29 to Jan. 13 with Ellen Mohammed on her 11th Study Tour to China and earn 3 graduate or undergraduate credits. Non-students, as well as students from other colleges and universities are invited to attend.

This course is a study of art, sculpture and architecture in Peking, Mongolia, Guilin, Kumming, Hangchou, Xian, Hongkong and Bangkok of Southeast Asia.

The cost of this tour is $2,340, which includes round trip airfare from New York to China and Bangkok, tours in all cities listed, intercontinental travel, hotel, three meals daily in China, and breakfast in Hongkong and, Bangkok.

For further information contact Prof. Ellen Mohammed at 893-7283 or 718-778-9417.

An Open Letter to the College Community

The Latin American Student Organization invites you to participate in LASO's programming of activities this coming year which will include art exhibitions, lectures, ballet and folkloric dancing, and concerts by prominent Hispanic artists. These social, cultural and educational activities will be coordinated to promote an awareness of the Latin culture to the College and surrounding communities. We hope you can attend our next general meetings which have been scheduled for:

* Tuesday, October 14 at 1:00 in the Student Center, Rm. 413.
* Thursday, October 16 at 12:00 in the Student Center, Rm. 412.

You are welcome to stop by and visit our office. We are located in Room 100, Student Center Annex. For further information feel free to call us at 893-4440. Please join us! We look forward to your participation and to meeting you in the near future.

Campus news blackout leaves MSC in the dark

Apparently, there is currently a serious blackout of information here at MSC: a blackout that involves the entire student body. We at The Montclarion know that at the very least, a sexual assault occurred in Blanton Hall around 2 a.m. Saturday morning. This we know for certain. From there, things get cloudy. They have been telling us that the situation is more serious than the college will admit. But, because of a lack of cooperation on the part of the campus police and Residence Life, information about the incident is available to the students of MSC.

To begin with, the campus police are not saying a word to anybody. They have told the students and those who do know something about the case to have been ordered to hush up. Residence life officials have their resident assistants keeping quiet on the issue as well. Consequently, a very serious matter is being kept secret from the student body, who, for their own safety, should be informed.

Because the assault occurred in one of the dorms, the matter must be very delicate for the college. Apparently it is for this reason that the campus police have been reluctant to say anything about the case. Adverse publicity is being avoided but at the cost of student awareness.

Yet, we at The Montclarion feel that because this happened in a dormitory, it becomes even more important for the students to be informed. The student body wants to know. It does not want names or addresses. It wants the courtesy of a few simple facts about such an occurrence on their campus. However, the only knowledge that any student can get comes in the form of rumors. That is, for all students, the only source remaining.

It is The Montclarion’s contention that the students have the right to know what’s happening on their campus, in their dorms, maybe on the very floor where they live. It does not seem like an unreasonable request that, when something as serious as this happens, the students be told. This is not the first rape to occur on campus, but it is the first time students have been kept in the dark (or is it?).

It is in the best interest of the administration to dispel the rumors that are now running rampant on campus, before these rumors cause more damage than the truth ever could.

If this particular incident is being intentionally covered up, the question arises whether similar episodes have occurred before without our knowledge. We would like to believe this couldn’t happen, but we’re no longer so sure. This “no comment” practice, if continued, will only lead to mistrust, paranoia, and a total lack of faith in the entire college.

Faculty deserves fair treatment

So, it seems that the strike threat is over. The American Federation of Teachers (AFT), along with its 3,000 state-wide faculty and non-teaching professionals is on the verge of getting a new contract containing many of the items the AFT has doggedly battled over since October, 1985. That is to say, the AFT managed to get a three-year 16.5% salary increase as well as preventing the merit pay system from superseding the year-by-year increment salary system, which would have a professor’s raises hinging on whether or not he pleases the administration.

In addition, the faculty kept personnel issues (job reclassification, sick leave benefits) that formerly fell under the civil service structure from being changed at the state’s will. They even convinced the state that the Gestapo-like practice of searching a professor’s office and confiscating his mail should be a thing of the past. However, in light of these apparently magnificent accomplishments, New Jersey’s teaching faculty are still singled out as targets of abuse.

Consider, to begin with, that the salary increase does not at all reflect what a college professor should be making. The starting salary of an associate professor with a Ph.D., provided that you could reach that level, is only $25,000. This is not even worth the effort one must go through to get a doctorate in the first place. It is often taken for granted that a doctoral student must do exhaustive research, write an extensive thesis, and undergo comprehensive examinations excluding regular coursework to achieve this honor.

Yet after all this labor, the Ph.D. graduate finds little financial reward in college teaching. Dr. Robert Glick of the French department, a professor with more than 10 years of experience, pointed this out to me recently by saying, “My former undergraduate students are making more money than I am.” What compounds the salary questions is that the state has money sitting idle in its treasury but no real intentions to make faculty stipends more equitable.

Bearing this in mind, it’s no wonder that New Jersey ranks 49th in the nation when it comes to educational spending. By the way, this also explains why we have severely understaffed academic departments, a decrepit Music Building, and poorly maintained dormitories, just to name a few things.

The state’s hostile attitude can be seen also through the fact that they let contract negotiations go down to the wire, thinking all the while they can overpower the AFT like a herd of sheep, that they can take away advancement opportunities using their ruthless promotion caps (which they did) so New Jersey’s nine state colleges can have more administrative positions for bureaucrats; that the state kept merit pay as a one-time monetary award so as to create favoritism and faculty disillusion.

The point is that the state is killing education by driving intellectually talented people into other professions where better salaries, careers, and treatment are offered. Needless to say, this drastically affects the quality of instruction that we students receive and as a result, the faculty and the students all suffer.

What’s more is that the state and all the college administrations assume an adversarial attitude without any logical premise. It makes no sense that they repeatedly work against the AFT at contract negotiation time when their primary duty is to help the faculty. This involves loosening the promotion caps, doing away with merit pay, and allocating funds for adequate departmental staffs.

Fine education is heavily contingent on a well-educated, interested, adequately paid faculty. The state must realize the need to support the AFT wholeheartedly and to treat the faculty with care. Until this happens, there will be more strike threats, more turmoil and more unnecessary animosity.

English and Italian clubs conflict explained

To the editor:

I am responding to the letter regarding the English club's programming problem, printed in the September 25th issue. The Montclarion would first like to applaud those involved for taking the initiative to voice their concerns to the/College/organization. I encourage all students to express their opinions on the financial operating budget, on the procedures that are being followed, and on the policies under which we all must live. It is only through these constraints that the price of a meal in the college and its various offices and departments may better serve you.

Secondly, I need to make a confession. As a student assistant within the Office of Student Activities, it was I, who unknowingly neglected to enter the table reservation book. I apologize to both the English and Italian club's request for a table in the college and its various offices and departments. I am hopeful that they will be able to resume the amicable relationship that your organizations have formed, with the student body.

English and Italian clubs conflict explained

To the editor:

I understand that The Montclarion sympathizes with all MSC students when it comes to parking. Therefore, this letter is addressed to those commuters that feel that they should pay more than commuters for the same parking space. Each MSC dorm resident pays approximately $2,400 a year to live on campus. This year lasts for eight months. Simple math shows that two residents will need only a total of $600 for a tiny room each month. For this outrageous amount of money the residents eat poor food, live with many restricting rules, and share a tiny cinder block room with up to two other roommates. On top of that, these residents pay extra money for spaces that they need. Many residents, like myself, need to commute to work and home. We also use our cars for convenience just as you would at your home. Therefore, shouldn't we be given the right to park as close to our homes as possible so that we feel safe walking to and from our cars at night. In addition, all students can be better protected from vandalism and theft which usually occurs between midnight and early morning hours.

MSC is a small campus, if you walk from the farthest point of the pit to Russ Hall it should only take fifteen minutes. You also have the option of the regular shuttle bus which is provided for commuters. I have commuted several times before and have taken the walk; perhaps you should consider it a good exercise.

The administration should weigh the two sides and then make Lot 17 and all other lots first come, first serve for all MSC students including residents.

Dorm parking is necessary

To the editor:

I would like to register a complaint with which I am sure any campus resident will agree. The dining services at MSC are atrocious! The average resident paid $450 for meals last year. Gourmet dinners were not served but the food was edible and drink was always supplied. Recently Montclair has changed food services and the fortunate residents are entitled to pay an additional $40 a semester to receive little or nothing.

For example, Freeman Hall cafeteria has brought in some new food vendors. We no longer are served dinner on weekdays at a time. Again, this weekend past several friends and I stood in line at Blanton Hall cafeteria for twenty minutes. We were served a plate of greasy french fries that greatly resembled lumps of cold lard because we were too hungry to eat them. At the same time, a classmate was served a plate of Flylows, the course meal prepared by Julia Child himself. We were served a plate of cold lard because we were too hungry to eat them.

Parking problems addressed by legislator

To the editor:

"Parking sucks!" This is a common phrase utilized by students each time it's apparent there are not enough parking spaces on campus. However, what few people realize is there are more than enough parking spaces.

Why are students making this mistake? Are spaces hidden from students? No. Students believing there aren't enough spaces simply aren't including the enormous Clove Road parking lot. One can look down at it at any time of day and see it half empty.

The Clove Rd. lot may seem far away from campus, but thanks to our trusty, efficient shuttle bus service, the classrooms and offices are only about five minutes away. But wait?! A MSC student doesn't need to read the preceding sentence twice to know something is wrong with it. As a student who has attended MSC for four years, sat on the student government for all four, and chaired a committee that has dealt with the shuttle bus service as a priority, I say there is definitely something wrong with it. My knowledge comes from surveys, petitions and written complaints and my personal experience with the service.

The ideal situation would be to have a maximum of a fifteen minute wait at each stop except for the hours of 9 am - 2 pm when the most students go to class, where it should be ten minutes (I remember this to be the situation my freshman year). Students have complained about 25-45 minute waits, some of these being on days it has rained. It is damaging to a student's entire day when having to park far away and arriving to class late because the shuttle took too long to arrive.

Many times the bus does arrive in reasonable time, but can't last students on because there are too many already aboard. The majority of these complaints come from those who've park ed on Clove. Those parking on campus can at least walk over a reasonable distance and terrain. Those parking on Clove have an average 25 minute walk over hills. Too many times, only one bus is running both the Quarry and Clove routes during popular morning and afternoon hours.

Students have previously said if they knew there was a dependable shuttle service, there would be more students parking on Clove and less illegally parking on campus. Thus, when a student is told there is ample parking space, it implies there is a consistent shuttle service. Therefore, if the administration wants the answer that there is plenty of parking on campus to be a satisfactory one, they had better make the shuttle service a higher priority.

If the administration is to provide a shuttle service, it should be consistent and dependable. If it isn't, students will continue to lose faith in the service. Continue not including Clove Rd. as a MSC parking lot, and continue to waste time and money for campus police by illegally parking. If the administration cannot supply satisfactory shuttle service, it should abolish it and advertise MSC does not provide bus service, so students will know what to expect when they attend MSC.

Of course, it is preferable to keep it. Students should be able to spend more time in class than in trying to get there. Campus police asks students to be of assistance by phoning in any complaints about the shuttle service to 893-5222.

New anti-smoking award introduced

To the editor:

I hereby offer a $100 Bertha Clark Clean Air award for the MSC student who does the most to rid the campus of tobacco smoke in the next six months. Applicants should send to me (in care of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science) an essay by April 15, 1987, telling what they have done to eliminate public smoking on campus. I will be in W-115 to discuss projects with interested students and to give suggestions at 11:00 AM on Friday, October 24.

Betha Clark was my mother. She suffered terribly for days when people smoked near her, and tried to avoid smokers. However, she worked avidly for a better world for young people and sometimes had to testify or meet people in smoke-filled rooms. Last year I watched her gag to death on a respirator.

Smoking kills a thousand Americans a day. In 1985 alone it killed more Americans than were killed in all the battles of World War II. The majority of American adults are non-smokers who suffer physically when exposed to others' smoke.

Let's make our campus safe from this lethal, illegal menace! Could you use $100, earned by working for a good cause?

Would you prefer the national speed limit to be increased to 65 M.P.H.?

I am in favor of raising the speed limit to 65 because it encourages people like myself to drive even faster. I also feel that this will be the cause of more highway fatalities in the future.

Tim Groves
Junior/economics

I think that 55 is fast enough. There are already enough accidents at the present speed limit.

Donna Pelt
Senior/foods and nutrition

I agree that the speed limit should be changed to 65 on the highways because the majority of the drivers exceed the speed limit anyway. But also, drivers should be allowed to drive 55 if they stay in the right lane.

Karen Flynn
Senior/economics

It's outdated! The cars are fast enough to handle the faster speed limit. People drive over 55 anyway and get away with it, so 65 might as well be legal.

Same old drama with a suspicious twist

By Gary Ruff

Once again, MSC has become the scene of a tug of war between those who attend the school and those who run it. Once again it looks like the students will come out the losers. An old story? It’s certainly nothing new to Players, the student-run, SGA-funded theatrical group whose existence is threatened by a policy that would prevent a show from going on off campus sometime soon.

Last fall, the department first placed restrictions upon Players’ access to the campus. As a result of this treatment, Players was forced to resemble a refugee camp, scrounging for space where and when they could, the inner strength of Players to the grimacing in the face of an uncertain future.

These students had little to grin about last summer as they found themselves in a discouraging dilemma: a show to put on and nowhere to put it. Those who saw Players’ production of “The Soft Touch” may have been surprised at the group’s choice of location for their show. With its low cost, easy accessibility, and distractions from other students was subject to constant interruptions. The department’s Majors Theatre Series program needs student participation. With its low draw, Players’ four shows each semester. Players’ shows have also been a source of dollars worth of equipment. Faculty presence is not available for the late hours Players’ shows attract a large audience drawn by Players’ four shows each semester. Players’ shows have also become a means of local auditors. MTs aim for a profit from its programming. Players, being in -dependent organization, the Student Government Association. It is an unsavory situation. For the department and the students, the decision of which company to support is a decision that they must absorb this expense.

But is it so? Is there really a competition? The department’s Majors Theatre Series program needs student participation. With its low draw, Players’ four shows each semester. Players’ shows have also been a source of dollars worth of equipment. Faculty presence is not available for the late hours Players’ shows attract a large audience drawn by Players’ four shows each semester. Players’ shows have also become a means of local auditors. MTs aim for a profit from its programming. Players, being in -dependent organization, the Student Government Association. It is an unsavory situation. For the department and the students, the decision of which company to support is a decision that they must absorb this expense.

As faculty advisor to Players for four years, department chairman Dr. Gerald Ratilff is not completely insensitive to the group’s needs and problems. Still, the department’s policies remain grossly unfair. Ratilff argues that Memorial Auditorium is available to Players—but only on the week of performance. Again, there is fear of liability, and the department insists that Players hire a faculty member to supervise operations. Unlike the Student Center management, however, the department does not offer Players’ budget to absorb the expenses of Players’ set-up.

Ratilff claims that lack of supervision over Players’ activities in Memorial have resulted in the loss of thousands of dollars worth of equipment. Faculty presence, he complains, is simply not available for the late hours Players’ shows attract a large audience drawn by Players’ four shows each semester. Players’ shows have also become a means of local auditors. MTs aim for a profit from its programming. Players, being in -dependent organization, the Student Government Association. It is an unsavory situation. For the department and the students, the decision of which company to support is a decision that they must absorb this expense.

Despite the many obstacles, Players is determined to retain its independence. The department expresses its respect for this independence, and gratifies its demands it as an excuse for washing its hands of Players. If the department has its way, it seems, there will be no future for Players.

Such an outcome would rob many students of the opportunity to work in theatre, since Players employs and casts far more non-majors than Major Theatre Series. Also, the deterioration of Players would be a serious loss to the quality and variety of theatre at MSC. There is a certain boldness and magic in Players’ shows which few MTs faculty directors have been able to bring off. Player’s chance to shine is the “House.”

The New Jersey Chamber Music Society will perform Fri., Oct. 10 at 8:30 p.m. in Union Congregational Church. 176 Cooper Ave., Upper Montclair. The concert will feature guest pianists Hugh Wolff and Benjamin Silas. Works by Schuman, Kodaly, Schubart and Hindemith will be included. For more information, call 746-6608.

The MSC Orchestra performs on Sun., Oct. 12 at 3 p.m. in St. Mark’s Church, 51 Elm St., Montclair. For more information, call 683-5112. Officially, those who want to join Players should at least have access to the college’s theatrical facilities.

The School of Fine and Performing Arts just received a $5.7 million “Challenge” grant from the state, for the purpose of reviving and expanding its programming. Players, being independent, cannot legally receive any of these funds. But a portion of this huge sum could be used in a way that would benefit all concerned: to renovate the existing auditoriums in Calcia and Morehead Halls. This would give the department the ambitious schedule some techs and a ready-made teaching room; perhaps then they might see fit to share the space with Players. With the help of the SGA, Players could also build a shed on campus for storage and, if necessary, for construction.

Despite the many obstacles, Players is determined to retain its independence. The department expresses its respect for this independence, and gratifies its demands it as an excuse for washing its hands of Players. If the department has its way, it seems, there will be no future for Players.

Skilled direction fails to save dismal Blue Velvet

By Jim Nicoletti

Lumberton, U.S.A. is a lovely, peaceful out-oftown. Complete with white picket fences, quaint flower gardens, and an abundance of blue skies, you would almost expect it to be a Norman Rockwell portrait. That is, until Mr. Beaumont suffers a stroke while watering his perfectly-trimmed lawn and his son Jeffrey stumbles upon a severed human ear in the field behind his house. Thus begins the black (and dismal) comedy Blue Velvet, one of the most talked-about movies of the year.

Jeffrey (Kyle MacLachlan) proceeds to get himself and Sandy (Laura Dern), a local detective's daughter, involved in a brutal murder-kidnapping plot headed by the equally brutal Frankie (Dennis Hopper). The over-curious Jeffrey (who's no match for James Stewart) then involves himself in a series of voyeuristic schemes involving the sadomasochistic world of nightclub singer Valerie (Isabella Rossellini). All this is done in an effort to unravel the mystery of the ear.

The main problem with Blue Velvet is that director David Lynch (The Elephant Man, Dune) is too concerned with his filmmaking and not concerned enough about making a good film. Apparently, Lynch, who also wrote the screenplay, tried to do too many things with the film. Among them, he attempted to make a horror mystery and infuse it with comedy. Unfortunately, the horror-mystery is laughable, and the comedic interludes are horrific.

Even worse, however, is the fact that Lynch seems to have known what he was doing wrong, and did it anyway. The film is masterfully-crafted from the technical viewpoint. Every camera angle is perfect, and everything Lynch wants to convey through the lens is conveyed uniquely and cleverly. What leaves the movie flat, empty and uninteresting is what he actually conveys. The emphasis is on style over content.

The film is full of completely unconvincing acting performances and the plot has its share of inconsistencies. The first problem centers around the motives of Jeffrey. He initially returns home from college when he hears of his father's attack and appears at first to be touched. However, after the severed ear appears on the scene Jeffrey's thoughts and actions are turned completely from his father, and only once again during the rest of the movie is there any mention of him. That is only the first of many strings Lynch left untied in this movie, the last involving the deaths of two of the conspirators.

Complaint #2 - makeup problems. The morning after Jeffrey is stabbed in the cheek, his scar has disappeared. Hours later, the scar mysteriously reappears. Later on, his face is severely beaten by Frankie and company. Two days later, his baby-face features have returned. True, these are small details, but ones so absolutely inexcusable that they only serve to magnify all the other flaws.

Complaint #3 - the characters, even if they were portrayed well, are one-dimensional at best and undefined at worst. Sandy's detective father winds up either as part of the criminal scheme or simply as a complete dolt. We never know which is the case. By the end of the movie, we don't care.

To the movie's credit, the cinematography is excellent; both camera work and editing structures are unique, innovative and superb. Lynch uses combinations of close-ups and intense light/dark images in ways few have done before. His affinity for tilted camera angles is also quite effective. There is one magnificent scene early in the movie when a low angle camera slowly crawls along the ground, cutting through blades of grass as though they were huge trees.

Lynch's use of sound is in line with the mastery of Hitchcock's best scores and effects. He couples intensified sounds with the extreme close-ups to create his most evocative scenes. Lynch's choice of score is always perfectly appropriate.

Lynch does so much so well, especially early in the movie, to entice the viewer. Unfortunately, the film quickly falls short of expectations. You leave the theater feeling cheated, as if you know Lynch and company could have done something better with their ideas. As a black comedy, last year's After Hours was far better. Blue Velvet's characters are not very believable, its story not very engaging, and its focus not very clear. Offbeat, cult attractiveness it has. True attention to style and detail it has. But this movie is best left to viewings at filmmakers' conventions.

Trivia

Each week the Montclarion will publish a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia.

If you think you have the right answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion, Room 113 in the Student Center Annex. The names of those who submit the correct answer will be published in the next week’s issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m. So start working and get into those trivia books.

1. Which pro football player was the first back to rush for more than 2,000 yards in one season?
2. How many colors are in the Olympic flag?
3. What slang group did Elmer Layden belong to?
4. What was the best finish the New York Mets had under Casey Stengel?
5. Who was the first woman to win 2 Wimbledon titles?

Answer to last week’s stumper:
Who is the losingest coach in the University of Notre Dame’s history?
Gerry Faust

Submit the correct answer: Tom Branna

What’s What in MSC Sports

Things couldn’t be looking better for the MSC women’s cross-country team.

The 4-1 Indians harriers placed a close second in a five-school meet at Washington Crossing State Park in Trenton Saturday.

While Trenton State edged the Indians 24-31 to come away the big winner on the day, MSC completely dominated the other three schools to go 3-1 on the day.

Jersey City and Seton Hall proved to be no match for the Indians, who shut out both teams, 15-45. Queens fell to MSC by a closer 24-31 final tally.

Rosa Domingues and Jessica Levin-skas led the Indian runners with times of 20:56 and 20:57 respectively. Those time were good enough for Domingues to place third and Levin-skas fourth among all runners. Rose Coley (22:04), Elizabeth Gonzalez (22:07), and Jill Robertson (22:15) finished 10th, 11th, and 12th among all runners to compete the Indians’ domination of Jersey City, Seton Hall, and Queens.

In seven matchups so far this sea-son, the women have only their loss to Trenton Saturday marred their rec­ord. Two no contests were recorded along with the four Indian wins.

Administrators: out of the office and into the stands at Sprague

The football team’s win total is increasing each week and so is the attendance at the MSC football games. What I am happy to notice is that the administration is beginning to attend the football games.

In my three years at the college I missed three home football games. In all of those games I never noticed any of the key administrators at the game, but last week I did. Saturday Night when the Indians stomped Ramapo College 33-0, I noticed Dr. Roland Garrett, V.P. of Academic Affairs; Bill Griffith, V.P. of Finance; Dean Edward Martin; and former President Dr. David Dickson sitting among the students and interacting with a few of them at the game.

Now I may be wrong, and administrators may have been at previous football matchups, but this is the first time I saw the group of administra tors sitting among the students and watching an MSC regular season football game until the final quarter. As far as I could tell, they were enjoying the game. They truly made their presence felt in a social atmosphere.

This proves that our administration may be beginning to take notice of the student involvement and the football team’s capabilities. I hope the homecoming game on October 19. because that will be another great evening.

There are areas in the athletic department that need to be adjusted, just as there are in any academic and administrative department. I don’t want to see the needs of the athletes and the department in general to be neglected. From what I saw on Saturday the interest is there, and I would like to see it maintained.

I believe the administrators should take their jobs from the office and spend time interacting with students, listen to problems, but most of all make themselves visible among the student body and see what actually goes on. if they did Saturday. Once we do this on a regular basis, then I feel MSC can truthfully be called “The Best State College in New Jersey.”

Indians throttle Ramapo, 33-0, after slow start

By Perry Schwarz

After a competitive, exciting first quarter of football, the MSC Indians mounted a second quarter scoring spree and ran over Ramapo College 33-0 in a New Jersey Athletic Conference matchup Saturday at Sprague Field.

The 4-0 Indians were picked to win the contest by 43 points, but experienced a slow start in the beginning. The Indians fumbled, were intercepted, and punted in their first three possessions. Tony Colasurdo scraped up the first three points of the game for MSC when he booted a 47-yard field goal with 10:33 on the clock.

"Ramapo gave us some sloppy fronts and used different game defenses. We weren't aware of," said MSC lineman Mike DeTroia. "Once we got to the sidelines and discussed the strategy with the staff we got back on track."

Colasurdo opened the second quarter with another field goal. The sophomore hit from 21 yards out with 10:33 remaining in the half to put the Indians up 6-0. The next score came only two minutes later. MSC quarterback Walter Briggs threw a 42-yard strike to receiver Amhad Field for the first touchdown of the game and a 13-0 advantage.

"We came out flat, but once we got on track we did what worked for us," said Field. "Ramapo played us tight in the beginning, but then we went behind the zone and made some receptions. Once we were successful with that, they gave us a cushion and that opened our offense."

Icing on the cake was provided by halftime Ed Hernandez and Leroy Horn, who had touchdowns runs of three and four yards respectively. Colasurdo missed the extra point after Horn's score, but the Indians went in at halftime with a comfortable 26-0 lead.

The Indian defense had given up chunks of yardage at the start of the game, but clamped down the loose ends by the midpoint of the first and played tough football. The Roadrunners completed only one third down conversion out of 11 attempts in the game.

"Ramapo played with an unbalanced offensive line and gave us different looks which we had to adjust to," said MSC defensive lineman Dan Zakeshesfski.

"We wanted to get a feel for what they were working with and when we found out, we put on the pressure. We played a regular defense and sent their offense to the sideline consistently after three plays."

The final score came in the third period. Freshman back Rufus Coward ran 12 yards to cap a seven-play, 41-yard drive. Colasurdo's point put the final score at 33-

Quiet, methodically, they have gone about their winning ways this fall.

Though few fans get the chance to visit the sometimes-chilly Pittser Field during the fall months, the MSC baseball team has collected a highly-successful 16-3-1 record during their pre-season campaign. Fall is a tune-up time for the Indians, who last year finished third in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III World Series, but MSC head coach Kevin Cooney likes to take all the games seriously. After three straight years of going to the series but returning home without a national championship, Cooney and company desperately want to be kings come next May.

"The offensive line is not playing consistently from the start," said Cooney. "I feel sorry for the team that we're playing. We have strong and physical guys, but we need that mental power at the start also."

The Indians will be on the road this week to take on last year's homecoming rival C.W. Post College in an afternoon game on Long Island.

Baseball team quietly dominates the opposition

Quietly, methodically, they have gone about their winning ways this fall.

Though few fans get the chance to visit the sometimes-chilly Pittser Field during the fall months, the MSC baseball team has collected a highly-successful 16-3-1 record during their pre-season campaign. Fall is a tune-up time for the Indians, who last year finished third in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division III World Series, but MSC head coach Kevin Cooney likes to take all the games seriously. After three straight years of going to the series but returning home without a national championship, Cooney and company desperately want to be kings come next May.

This spring's campaign looks to be as promising as any in recent MSC history. The team is strong in every department, deep on the bench, and has a good blend of youth and experience. The list of talent on this year's squad is a long one.

The biggest story of 1986's spring is also one of the keys to the Indians' success in 1987—senior pitcher Anthony Foti. The 6-10 southpaw from Elizabeth was 10-1 last season and established himself as the New Jersey Athletic Conference's (NJAC) top hurler.

Foti relies on changing speeds a lot and has an excellent repertoire to shut down any opposing team. Last year, against eventual NJAC champion William Paterson, Foti went 4-0 and completely turned around what was thought to be a potent Pioneer lineup. Against Foti they were puzzycats.

Junior first baseman Pepe Herrero owns a home run hitting power as MSC has seen in years. The second-year transfer from Rutgers has tremendous power to all fields and led the Indians last year when he swatted 12 round-trippers, including a pair of grand slams.

Senior shortstop Jim Fasano is the heart of the Indian lineup on both defense and offense. Last season, Fasano was the only returning member of the All-NJAC team and he has become a leader for MSC on and off the field.

Outfielder/first baseman John Deutsch is a prominent figure at 6-5, 210 lbs. The lefty-hitting, righty-throwing sophomore from Phillipsburg was a late last season as a designated hitter and surprised some people with his penchant for hitting line drives.

The rest of the Indians pitching staff doesn't appear too shabby. Returners Brian Cheswick, Ray Castellano, Dave Kern, Jeff Vanderolf, and Wayne Masters are all quality pitchers. Vanderolf, a 6-4 sophomore, got good experience as a starter last season and handled many of the Indians' tougher Division I assignments. Cheswick was the MSC ace out of the bullpen last season. The 6-4, hard-throwing southpaw from Wayne was used extensively in tight situations and was consistently reliable. Castellano and Kern also provided the '86 Indians with relief and Kern will probably see starting assignments this season.
