MSC takes a look back at...

---The 1931 Indians---

The yearbook read: "...Those who attended the game saw an inspired, infuriated line of red-jerseyed warriors tear the Trenton line to pieces..." Fans continue to watch a tradition of gridiron defense displayed by the 1986 Indian football team.

MSC alumnus is honored as N. J.'s Teacher-of-the-Year

By Mary Donnelly and Mike Woods

The Campus Peace Group sponsored a discussion of United States policy and apartheid with Professor Opoku Agyeman, Africanist and professor of political science at MSC, Wednesday afternoon.

The discussion began with Agyeman describing the historical and institutional racist policies effecting South Africa.

The historical colonialism pressured the South African blacks into a "psychological paralysis" whereby native Africans never developed their own political consciousness. Whites acquired total control of South African political and social policies. Skin color became the "determining factor" in the political hierarchy of the country.

South Africa is rich in vital minerals such as chrome, steel, and gold. Fifty-four percent of the world output of gold is exported from South Africa. The colonists exploited South African blacks as the labor force and exported the native resources for their own profit.

Despite the demise of most colonial systems, South Africa retains its pattern of minority-controlled government.

Agyeman described the colonization of South Africa by the Dutch as the beginning of the "slave mentality" impressed upon the blacks in South Africa. The native black population was found to be a vast resource of labor for the white colonists.

Agyeman stressed in his lecture the U.S. role in upholding Apartheid policy. By viewing world affairs in a bipolar competition between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., South African realities are not viewed in their own right.

Social change, such as the black movement in South Africa, is threatening to U.S. interests. If apartheid crumbles, the U.S. fears that the new leadership will move to the Soviet sphere of influence.

Agyeman concluded the discussion stressing the need for the U.S. government and business to pull support from apartheid-run government. Without U.S. support, Agyeman feels the two sides would be forced to negotiate and reach an equitable compromise.

MSC claims among its alumni some of the state's most noteworthy educators, including this year's New Jersey Teacher-of-the-Year, Gerald Walker of Blairstown.

MSC President Donald E. Walters said "I was delighted to learn of Walker's selection and thrilled by the fact that four other MSC alumni were chosen for county honors".

A chemistry teacher at Livingston High School, Walker, who earned a master's degree from MSC in 1970, was described as an "impressive" teacher by state Education Commissioner Saul Cooperman during ceremonies in North Brunswick. He is now eligible to compete for National Teacher-of-the-Year designation, scheduled for announcement in the Spring.

In addition to Walker, who held the Essex County Teacher-of-the-Year title, other county winners included Bergen County's Teacher-of-the-Year, Tom Domerski of Norwood, a 1968 graduate of MSC who teaches industrial arts at Northern Valley High School in Demarest; Ocean County's Teacher-of-the-Year Michael Roche of Lake-wook, a science teacher at Manchester High School who received a master's degree in environmental studies from Montclair as well as the Passaic County's Teacher-of-the-Year, Christine Krenicky of Passaic, an English teacher at Kittatinny Regional High School who also did graduate work at MSC.

"We have never forgotten that MSC was once known as 'the Harvard of teachers' colleges'" Walters said. "Although our mission has greatly expanded into a multitude of disciplines and degree programs, MSC remains committed to the highest standards of excellence in our teacher training programs".

President Walters pointed to the College's recent creation of a Master of Education degree program as underscoring the commitment, observing that the program is designed to assist classroom teachers in acquiring knowledge, skills and competencies they need to better serve New Jersey's young people.

Governor Thomas Kean signed into law a bill which gives the student body a vote on the board of trustees. After 13 years of an upward battle in the New Jersey State Legislature, the bill was signed into law. The law enables the students to have a say on tuition rates and other important issues regarding the well being of the entire campus. "This is an extremely victorious decision for all students," said SGA Board of Trustees Representative, Mike Rodak.

In addition, Rodak stressed, November 4, 1986 is election day and it is every student's privilege to vote. They should make every effort participate in the democratic process of this country."

In another news, Director of Campus Police, Cailltre emphasized that illegal parking may cause a serious fire hazard to the campus. Therefore, cars will continue to be ticketed and in some cases towed at the owner's expense. Cailltre also stressed that an additional night shuttle bus driver is still being sought for the shuttle route.

A debate was held during last night's SGA meeting regarding the class status of the Ice Hockey Club. Presently, the Hockey Club is a class II organization, and the argument has centered around whether it should become a class III organization.

This issue is important to the Hockey Club to maintain their operating costs. For these reasons, they want to be granted a class II charter for the academic years 1986-88. Finally, a class IV charter was granted to the Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity for the academic years 1986-1988.

World Series Champions received lots of attention

Well, who would have guessed, years ago when the Mets were a laughing stock around the cellar of the National League Eastern Division that we would all be sitting back enjoying the Mets and their World Series Championship of 1986?

When the Mets ran away with the NL East pennant race this year, Mets fans got a glimmer of hope that this might be our year. Two weeks ago, when they won the NL pennant, we were teased into wanting it all—suddenly we would accept nothing less than all the marbles. This Monday, when we were granted that, our dreams were fulfilled.

Yes, I know, we are using our editorial space to write about the Mets again. Yes, we are going to write on endlessly about this team that has captured the hearts of everyone (except those jealous Yankee fans) in the Metropolitan area. Why? For good reason. In some circles, the Mets have singlehandedly begun a new "era of good feelings."

This team has had such an effect that ABC's Monday Night Football suffered its worst ratings ever. This was during a New Jersey Giants/Washington Redskins rivalry that would command any fan base if they had attracted a huge share of the television market.

The Mets have so captured the hearts of New Yorkers and New Jerseyans that at the Giants football game, more than half the crowd was sporting bright orange or televisions to keep in touch with Game 7 of the Series. When Mets pitcher Jesse Orosco struck out Boston's Marty Barrett to clinch the victory, Giants Stadium erupted with a roar. These were Giants fans watching a football game, yet the loudest crowd noise of the evening came because of the Mets—the team that now owns the New York area.

During Lionel Richie's concert at Madison Square Garden, fans erupted into a spontaneous cheer as the Mets rallied during Richie's "Lady." Richie was a sport about it, though, providing the crowd with inning-by-inning updates between songs. Clearly, these are not everyday occurrences for a typical baseball team.

Years from now, people will be asking each other, "Where were you when the 1986 Mets won the World Series?" Some suggest, and many hope, that this will be the start of a dynasty, and, just the beginning of many more great things to come.

Star Wars—the "Crayola" shield

BOSTON—Until I saw the commercial, I had no idea that "Star Wars" was so simple even a kindergarten child could understand it. I thought you needed physics when all you really needed was Crayolas. The regular box of Crayolas, not even the giant size.

The 30-second television spot, brought to me courtesy of the Coalition for the Strategic Defense Initiative, changed all that. It opened with Crayola figures of Mom, Dad, and Spot. (I think it was Spot, though it might have been a small brown horse without a mane—hard to tell.) There was also a black Crayola house and a yellow Crayola sun.

While the school piano tinkled in the background, a little girl narrated her wonderful tale of ten Crayolas in search of national security. "I asked my daddy what this 'Star Wars' stuff is all about," she began. "He said right now we can't protect ourselves from nuclear weapons and that's why the President wants to build the Peace Shield."

As she reported this, a white line appeared in a huge arc that covered the house, family, horse/dog and even the sun. This was the Crayola Peace Shield. The young narrator went on to explain how "it would stop missiles in outer space so they couldn't hit our house." On cue, little brown Crayola missiles bumped up against the white Crayola shield and were destroyed.

The girl concluded, "Then nobody could win a war and if nobody could win a war there's no reason to start one." With that, the shield turned into a rainbow and even the sun began to smile.

Frankly, alwayas like coloring, not to mention story hour at school. This tale had just enough truth in it to be especially appealing. Creating a "Peace Shield" isn't really much harder, after all, then drawing a gigantic white line around the sun. The real sun. In fact instead of financing the Pentagon's efforts at "Star Wars," I think we should commission the artist Christo to wrap the United States the way he wrapped that island in Florida. It would be cheaper.

What is so artistic about the pro-SDI spot isn't just the coloring. It's the timing. The 30-second commercial has already been seen in Washington and the conservative coalition is planning to air it nationally in the next pre-summit days. It is just a small—child-sized—part of the campaign to convince the American public that the President is right, the a "Star Wars" defense is too important to bargain away for something silly like nuclear arms reduction. After all it doesn't matter how many nuclear bombs there are if we all have our white Crayolas handy.

This isn't the first cartoon rendition of "Star Wars." The network news shows SDI working with astonishing regularity. They continually offer some artist's concept of an incoming missile being blown up. The artist never misses. The "visually" contribute to the notion that SDI not only exists (it doesn't), but that it can work.

Nor is this the only commercial. The Defense Department has carefully orchestrated a series of "tests" under the Strategic Defense Initiative Organization. They are really what MIT physicist Kosta Tsipis calls "an unchallenged advertising campaign."

One by one, we have been treated to ever-so-successful reports of engineering tests, complete with dramatic "blow-em-up" film footage straight out of a video game. They purport to show a new defensive technology in the making. But in fact, as Tsipis and his colleague Philip Morison who have analyzed the tests report, they were "mainly simulations of progress, orchestrated and widely reported for public effect."

In fairness, the Reagan administration needs all the "Star Wars" ads it can muster. The public doesn't share the President's consuming commitment. We remain convinced that any new U.S. weapons program will be inevitably matched by the Soviets in a never-ending arms race. In the latest ABC-Washington Post poll, 74 percent of us would trade the fantasy of SDI for a substantial reduction in nuclear arms.

With a summit around the corner, we can count on a beefed-up advertising campaign to sell Ronald Reagan's "Star Wars." Perhaps a few more spiffy "tests" from the Defense Department, certainly a spate of these 30-second sagas from the Coalition. We're off to Never-Never Land. Gap if you believe in white Crayola Peace Shields.

Music Chair protests The Montclarion's treatment of "Kiss Me, Kate"

To the Editor:
I attended last Friday's performance of "Kiss Me, Kate" and was impressed with all aspects of the show. I found the orchestra as well as the singers to be quite fine, and wondered how Tony Bavaro could have written such a negative review of the orchestra as he did in last week's Montclarion. Upon inquiring, I discovered that he had attended a rehearsal of the show, not a performance.

I think that it is most unfair to write a review based upon attendance at a rehearsal, the purpose of which is to prepare for a performance. I assume that the purpose of printing a review in The Montclarion is to give the readers information on a performance. This cannot be accomplished by reviewing a rehearsal.

I hope that Tony Bavaro attended a performance of "Kiss Me, Kate" and would review that. That would allow him to present his assessment of the show fairly to both the readers of The Montclarion and to the students and faculty who have worked very hard to present a quality show.

Litterbugs, and their trash on the MSC campus, still an issue for concern

To the Editor:

The issue of litter should be of at least some interest to all those attending and working at MSC, because we're faced with it everyday. I don't see why people choose to throw garbage on the grounds of MSC (or anywhere else for that matter), instead of into the readily available garbage cans. What's the deal? Haven't you ever learned to respect nature or public property, or even to just clean up after yourselves? It's really disgusting!

However, each and every one of us can do something to help stop the problem at MSC, and wherever we may go. All that you have to do is clean up after yourself. Show some respect for your environment and your fellow students at MSC, by taking your garbage (be it this newspaper, plastic cups, bottles, and cans, butts, or candy wrappers), carrying it to the nearest garbage can, and dropping it through the opening.

By doing this simple maneuver we can surely improve the atmosphere at MSC and anywhere that we may go. Please try this next time you are faced with your garbage. I believe that you'll find it relatively painless, and its consequences quite satisfying.

North Jersey spawns new generation of music

By Stacey Dunlevy

I can recall it being six years ago, reading in Creem how other countries had flowering music scenes and we, the United States (the country that origins based it in the first place), had none. Little that writer knew....and how blind I was to believe him. In 1980 the seeds of an underground music scene, the Bowery, a music scene in our own state of New Jersey, were being planted.

Greenwich Village had been enjoying a great deal of success with its local music since 1975. The Ramones, Patti Smith, Television, Talking Heads (just to name a few) had come out of that area. This large amount of music, art, and nightlife attracted many young people to live in Lower Manhattan, whether they were involved with the scene or not. As a result, real estate prices skyrocketed. The factors of affordable living drove many musicians and artists out of the city and into New Jersey.

Thus was begun the "Hoboken scene." Lately, most of the individual musicians are natives of New Jersey, but the transplanted atmosphere of Greenwich Village has survived. The Bongos, Feelies, and Cucumbers are a few of the established underground bands to have started playing. Maxwell's, the main club in Hoboken, is a result. Newer rising artists associated with the Hoboken scene are Tiny Lipton, Spiral Jetty, Chris Stamey, The Cucumbers, The Bongos, The Feelies, and Gut Bank, all have released records. One record to look for which has an excellent overview of the Hoboken music scene is "Luxury Condos Coming To Your Neighborhood," which has material by Syd Straw, The Wygals, The Raunch Hands, Deep Six, and more.

But wait! There's more to New Jersey than the neighborhood of "Oi! Blue Eyes!" From Wayne halls Maximum America, a quartet of crazy funk— The Magic Bands. They have a new album coming out soon. Then, there are the Dirt Club in Bloomfield, and put on a rocking show. If you read this publication, you may run across the Hoboken and Maxwell's, or you may remember that another Wayne band, Drarama, has a record out on the French New Rose label. The Feelies are one of the few groups that will be performing at the Hobo Univercity as a result.

Two groups formed in New Jersey have released records by now. Freehold is one, and the other, Tina's Boys, are forming in the wake of certain well-known groups. Tina's Boys have released a record, "Blue Monday." What's more, Led Zeppelin's first three albums (1969-1970) showed what heavy metal could be. Led Zeppelin came onto the music scene in 1965 and rock "Moby Dick." We proved how much we enjoyed their music by selling out every show and purchasing well over 15 million of their albums. What's more, Led Zep's music seems to be as popular today as ever.

There have been many talented groups in the music industry (both past and present) but Led Zeppelin was more than just a great band. They were one of rock's few true "supergroups": band whose influence has a far-reaching impact on the music of history. Creative music and fine lyrics are also important ingredients to supergroup status. But a supergroup can also be defined as a group who has incredible success from beginning to end, consistently matching or exceeding their own high standard of musical quality.

Led Zep's first three albums (1969-1970) showed that what heavy rock was supposed to sound like. Jimmy Page and Co. were already sitting in the spotlight at 95 million copies. Fans had to wonder how much better they could possibly get. Once the first three great million copies the hard rock band, they expect more great music. They get spoiled and don't settle for anything less. But think of it this way: you achieve an artist's point of view; you achieve superstar status, are given the title of a legend, and find yourself expected to live up to that title. If the next album is a flop, everyone calls you a fluke. The music ranges from the psychedelic sound of the three-guitarists, to the punk-metal edged bite of Gut Bank, to the comic pop of Desk A. One of the most musical with tight harmonies in the backing singing, and hooked-fillet guitar playing runs. On the edge of the other end of the spectrum, put out more, pick up a Village Voice and see who's playing at Maxwell's, or check out your local record store for record reviews by these bands. Tiny Lipton, Spiral Jetty, Chris Stamey, The Cucumbers, The Bongos, The Feelies, and Gut Bank all have released records. One record to look for which has an excellent overview of the Hoboken music scene is "Luxury Condos Coming To Your Neighborhood," which has material by Syd Straw, The Wygals, The Raunch Hands, Deep Six, and more.

Winter Hours is a local band which plays rock and roll, but luckily the record that they've just released makes up for that. The Confectional, a record of the musical satisfaction fans look for.

Like many local pop bands, Winter Hours has gotten labeled an "REM clone." However, while plenty of bands use the same jangly, hooky, arpeggiated guitar lines which REM popularized, there are some with real talent. Winter Hours is one of those bands.

In the spotlight: Winter Hours

The satisfaction one receives from Winter Hours lies in the melodies. The Confectional, "The Confessional," and "Ten Minutes" have some of the most beautiful vocal lines and sensitive songwriting of any local band. The B-side "September Street" is a slower song with intricate guitar weaving by Bob Perry and Michael Garuccio. After the EP, the guitar work of these two lead players is like a musical tapestry. Also, to further tear off the "REM" label, the lyrics on The Confectional are direct and easy to understand. Give it a listen.

Indians suffer first defeat at hands of Salisbury St.

By Perry Schwartz

Funnny things occur to visiting teams on homecoming day. MSC defeated its homecoming rival William Paterson 36-0, and defeated its homecoming day matchup at Seagull Stadium in Maryland.

This was a battle between two similar teams. Many expected a battle of offenses, but the opposite occurred. A total of seven turnovers were committed by both teams and only three touchdowns were scored. Salisbury, with the win, is riding a 11-game win streak against the New Jersey Athletic Conference.

The Seagulls clearly controlled the first quarter. The Seagulls (6-1) ran nine plays as compared to the Seagulls' 22. Salisbury opened the scoring on their second possession. The Seagulls capped a 7-yard drive when quarterback Kevin White rolled three yards to his left untouched. Bill Maurer hit the extra point right and the first quarter.

The Indians came up with exciting plays in the second quarter, but couldn't convert any into scores. They were stalled at SSC's 12-yard line at the half. Two highlights for MSC were Walter Briggs' 36-yard scamble and his 52-yard completion to Ed Oshvis. Briggs capped a 14-yard drive which continued from the previous period, by throwing a 12-yard strike to Bryan Scipo. The Indians had two opportunities to win in the half, but couldn't score. Both of those possessions resulted in Briggs getting the turf on a sack. The closest was with 2:00 left in the game.

What's What in MSC sports

Compiled by Jim Nicoles.

The MSC women's cross-country team at least this week, may have that extra intangible it takes to be on the doorstep of posting its first win over a conference foe.

In two meets, five MSC foes fell by the wayside as the Indians took the third place slot in both.

The Indians' streak of success, Last Wednesday, at Gannett Mountain in West Paterson, the Indians swept the Lady Ephesians and the Ephesians, and Rampo by identical shutout scores, 44-0.

The first six finishers on the day were all from MSC, led by Jessica Levinskas. Levinskas finished 1:37, followed by teammates Ross Domingues (20:43); Rob Robertson (21:04); Rose Coley (21:37); Elizabeth Giles (22:07); and Benedetta Wysocki (23:06).

Tuesday afternoon the Indians captured two more wins, the time from 5-1-6 Georgians (22:34) and Monmouth (15-45). While the Indians at Gannett Mountain finished in 18:59 to lead all runners, Levinskas (19:14), Domingues (20:32), Robertson (20:47), and Coley (21:01) took the next four places. Wysocki improved on her previous time to finish eighth in 22:39 and help wrap up the MSC win.

HOCKEY

The 1986-87 season for the Metropolitan Conference Championships M.S.C. Indians will begin on Wednesday, November 5th at Brunswick Arena with a 7:00 p.m. face off vs. the Jaspears of Manhattan College, who won the Cup last March by the eastern Indians. The Indians then storm into the Montclair Arena to play Southern Connecticut. The first rounds of the championship will take place in the last year's playoffs. The first home game will be on Sunday, November 9th at 3:00 p.m. These are two of the victims of the Indian enroute to bring home the first ever conference championship.

Metro Conference, by far the most difficult

That's what at least one of 16 college teams in the league. In hopes of retaining the title, the team brings back veteran defenders, Captain Doug Gannett and Tony Sicale. Along with them are the returning forwards: Martin Akerson, Mike Antonis, Ed Hall, Joe Blundo, Scott Fenton, and Eric Von Derr. Back again to mind the net will be Eric Madison. The Indians lost two two downs and one field goal in the fourth quarter.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Oliver Gelston, MSC's Director of Inter-Collegiate Athletics, recently appointed Stephanie A. Burt Assistant Women's Basketball Coach.

Burt will work under third-year coach Joe Delefa. "The game was a physical, competitive match throughout. The Indians battled until the end and came up with one score, but couldn't get any more. Briggs capped a 14-yard drive which continued from the previous period, by throwing a 12-yard strike to Bryan Scipo. The Indians had two opportunities to win in the half, but couldn't score. Both of those possessions resulted in Briggs getting the turf on a sack. The closest was with 2:00 left in the game.

The third quarter was a defensive battle. The Indians' three possessions resulted in three scores and no downs on loss. The Seagulls didn't fare any better. They were intercepted and fumbled in two possessions. They were stalled on their third and with 1:21 remaining. White scored his second touchdown on a six-yard scamble. The final tally was a 12-yard field goal and made the score 13-0.

Soccer

By Dennis Campbell

The MSC soccer team's 2-0 loss to Glassboro State Friday night at Sprague Field had the Indian team screaming foul play. Said MSC Assistant coach Joe Delera, "The game was ruined by the officiating. I don't consider it a 2-0 loss at all. The game was just taken away from us by the officials."

The game had the entire Indian coaching staff seeing red, as three red cards were given to the team, resulting in three ejections from the game. When the dust had settled, a total of two fights, players and one assistant coach ejections were recorded.

The action though, was not complete, as the Indians were forced to play the game with only nine men yet Glassboro (14-1-2) stood still. Losing two players in the first half of the game did not prove the fatal blow to the Indian team. What killed them was two hand balls called in the penalty area resulting in two penalty kicks. Glassboro converted both to collect their only goals and seal the victory.

The game started with both teams locked in a defensive struggle, was highlighted by tough man-to-man defenses. Glassboro State applied full court defensive pressure, neutralizing the MSC midfield and cutting off the Indians' line of attack.

At 18:01 Glassboro had their first scoring chance but MSC's Michael Notofero played off a defender and blocked the shot. Freshman goalee Howard Hyde kept the Indians in the game with great plays, including a crucial save on a breakaway attempt in which he came out to punch the ball away.

Temper flared at 37:29 as a few players were involved in fistfights. When it was over MSC's Raymond Sterling and Robert Chreny were kicked out of the game, and the Indians found themselves at a two player disadvantage. Despite the loss of the two players, they kept up the pressure on the Glassboro team. Goalkeeper Hyde said, "We played great with nine players. We played them even."

Hyde said the courage and confidence which the team displayed in being forced to play with nine players was overwhelming, but the team is using to putting adversity aside to come up with a fine performance.

"We play that way all the time," Hyde said. "This time though the referees just took the game away from us. I was really pumped up between the importance of the game and the refs. We wanted to take the action to them."

The second half started at a furious pace with Glassboro attacking and keeping the pressure on the Indian defense. The Profs almost scored when Hyde just got his fingers on a punishing shot that Vince Nicoles cleared

With Glassboro applying the pressure, Hyde came to the foreground. He was splendid in goal, keeping the Indians in the game. With the game looking all as if it would go into overtime a hand ball was called in the penalty area at 73:19 which the Glassboro team converted on to take a 1-0 lead. That call incensed Delera, who then had a heated debate with the officials, resulting in his ejection from the game.
