La Campana subject to review

SGA legislation threatens creative control

By Mary Donnelly
Assistant Assignment Editor

In an attempt to improve yearbook quality, the SGA has announced plans to form a review committee to evaluate the contents of the yearbook prior to its publication.

In a vote last spring, the SGA approved La Campana's constitution and added Article XVI which allowed the formation of a review committee. According to SGA Attorney General Oren Zeve, the committee was formed due to "concern for quality" of the yearbook.

La Campana's Associate Editor Chris Cofone challenges the constitutionality of the formation of such a committee as it relates to the First Amendment in the Bill of Rights.

"The First Amendment reads, "Congress shall make no law...prohibiting...or abridging...the freedom of speech, or of the press..." Cofone said, "The SGA put the review committee in the LaCampana constitution without the approval of the yearbook staff."

Zeve explained that the La Campana constitution contained a clause stating the inclusion of faculty and administration in the yearbook. The 1984 yearbook did not include them. Zeve said, "The yearbook represents MSC, there was concern as to how the college was being represented by the 1984 book."

The La Campana constitution has since rescinded any articles referring to exclusion of faculty and administration. Zeve said other organizations are capable of being evaluated in an on-going process where the progress of the organization may be reviewed.

"The yearbook could only be evaluated after publication before this committee was set up," Zeve said.

In an attempt to seek legal council regarding prior restraint rulings, the yearbook editors contacted the Student Press Law Center located in Washington, D.C. Mark Goodman, executive director of the SPLC, stated in a letter, "The United States Supreme Court has consistently recognized that prior restraints of publication are the least tolerable form of First Amendment violation and are made with a strong presumption against their validity..."

In the public college environment, forms of prior restraint are no more tolerable.

"Section One of the Review Committee article explains the composition of the committee. According to the article, two La Campana members, two non-SGA members, one administrator, and one faculty member agreed upon by the Editor-in-Chief of La Campana and the SGA president may sit on the committee." Goodman stated in a telephone interview that, "a faculty member or administrator would be sufficient to constitute government involvement."

Associate Editor Cofone expressed concern for future yearbook staff relations with the SGA. He said, "What if there are more problems between the yearbook and the SGA in the future? This committee can be used as a means of controlling the press."

As part of its argument against the review committee, the yearbook points to other clubs and Class I organizations. Cofone said, "The SGA does not tell The Montclarion or the Quarterly what to print. Cofone cited the policy of post-evaluations of these organizations in the review of their activities.

Cofone said, "A post-evaluation of the yearbook will set guidelines for what the 1987 book and future books should be like."

Recycling program initiated on campus

By Paul Mampliny
Correspondent

On November 24th MSC President Walters inaugurated the recycling project being undertaken by the Conservation Club. Walters said "I am deeply impressed and incredibly proud of the leadership of our students in the Conservation Club. They have made a significant contribution to their college by installing the first white paper recycling program at any state college in New Jersey. By doing so, they have called the attention of this college community to the vital importance of preserving and protecting our environment."

While the recycling program is being conducted on campus, the President of the Conservation Club also plans to start a campaign making it mandatory that all SGA organizations and offices use white paper for all memos and flyers that are put out. If all these flyers were printed in white, they would all be recyclable. The success of the program will depend to a certain extent on the co-operation of the students, faculty members and administration.

Carriage ride rejected by SGA

At last night's SGA meeting, the legislature narrowly voted against the appropriation of $500 for a carriage ride night on campus. Diana Tomsest, Goodinator of Seasonal Celebration, said, "Every organization has donated or attempted to donate a substantial amount to this cause...I feel without the SGA donating they are contradicting their standing on student traditions..." Some SGA members who opposed this appropriation said, this carriage ride is a 'wasteful' expenditure and therefore not worth the approval of the legislature.

A treasurer's report was given by S. L. P. Dina Tomaseth, Coordinating Director of Seasonal Celebration. As of October 31, 1986, the appropriation fund contained $295,168.46 and the unappropriated fund had 139,572.92 for a total of 434,741.37. Ska-bonja said, the SGA financial situation is 'adequate'.

According to Mark Brancato, SGA president, a number of scholarships are being granted by the Alumni Association. The criteria are that you must have 58 credits before September, 1987 and have shown service to the college community. A maximum of $1,000 per scholarship is being made, with a total of $23,000 available. Additional information concerning this is in the SGA office; located in the lower level of the Student Center.

The African National Congress of South Africa will be giving a lecture on apartheid in South Africa. The lecture will be given in Ballroom B of the Student Center on December 10, 1986, at 2:00 p.m. All those interested may contact Michael Dye, Chairperson of Academic Affairs of the Black Student Cooperative Union, at 893-4198.

The SGA granted Class II charters to the Ice Hockey Club, Medieval and Renaissance Society Club, and the Science Fiction Club for the Academic years 1986-88.

Small businesses launched

By John Levy
Correspondent

This semester the Industrial Studies Dept. formed two small businesses aimed at learning experiences and profit-making.

On Dec. 8 and 9 the businesses will set up shop in the Student Center. Class Glass, Inc. sells French cut wine glasses, etched with the MSC bell tower logo and decorated with misletoe. The glasses will be sold in paired sets.

The Back Bug Company sells a wooden hand-held back massager. It consists of four ball-like wheels designed to roll along the back surface while conforming to back curvatures.

Class Glass, Inc. formed its business as a corporation by issuing preferred and common stock. Preferred stock was issued to each member of the company, not to exceed three shares, while 80 shares of common stock was publicly issued.

Final Examination Policy

1. All final examinations must be given during the regularly scheduled examination period. The Schedule of Courses lists days and times of final examination for each class period.
2. No final examination may be given during the last week of classes before the examination period.
3. If no formal examination is scheduled, the class must meet for one hour during the scheduled final examination time, for a class evaluation session.

Thus all classes are required to meet during the final examination period. In the current semester, the final examination period is scheduled for December 17-23, 1986.

Former students stress Co-op importance

In recent weeks the Co-op office heard from two students who enrolled in a Co-op in the spring and summer of 1986. Ms. Orly Ronan, a psychology major, and Ms. Janine Delorme, an English major, both shared their very positive experiences working in the professional world.

Ms. Orly Ronan writes: As a psychology major I thought it important to gain experience in the mental health field. I applied for Co-op and spoke with Joe Stahiey. I found Joe and the Co-op team very helpful. I interviewed for several jobs and was hired by Essex County Hospital. During my eight months employment at Essex County Hospital I was given much responsibility. I helped supervise a ward of schizophrenic patients. I ran groups with them, and reported the progress of each patient I worked with to my supervisor Dr. Susan Kasper.

I am presently working in a Geriatric facility which I enjoy very much. I am very aware also that I have as much to offer as the other graduate students who had previous work experience.

As a result of my Co-op experience I applied to N.Y.U. Graduate School in the Masters in Social Work program. As a rule most masters applicants in the program have been employed in the mental health field for several years. I came directly out of undergraduate school.

Ms. Delorme writes: I used to get butterflies every time I saw the life-size poster that hung on the cafeteria wall in the Student Center. It pictured an older executive type man sitting behind a desk, perking out over his glasses saying, “and what kind of work experience do you have?” Every time I saw that poster I realized how little time I had to prepare for graduation and that unless I acted quickly I would soon be the person sitting across from that executive, shrinking in my seat with nothing to say.

It wasn’t until spring semester of my junior year that I decided to enroll in the Cooperative Education program. Finding a new job seemed like too much of a hassle, plus I knew I would have to take a cut in pay, and give up a decent part-time job that allowed me to make my own hours. I also knew that if I didn’t enroll I would regret it after graduation, especially during an important job interview.

Several weeks later I found myself in the lobby of The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company in Newark. I took special events activities, such as the annual United Way Campaign, attended a newsletter, editing and design seminar, and an overnight workshop on “Managing Organizational Change.”

It has been over a year since I first walked in to the Cooperative Education Office, but I have been back to MSC since then. The last time I walked in to the Student Center cafeteria, I looked at that poster on the wall, smiled and said, “You don’t know the half of it.”

Editorial

Review or censorship?

Enter into the logs a new complaint against the Student Government Association, Inc. of MSC. This from the collected voice of all those concerned with First Amendment rights. La Campana, MSC's yearbook, has had the dubious distinction of having an amendment added to its bylaws intended to protect its constitution initiating a "review committee." The committee, if its true purpose is review, would not be objectionable. The last time we checked our dictionaries here at The Montclarion, the word review meant criticism after an event, in this case, the publication of the yearbook.

But wait. The yearbook review committee is said to convene before the yearbook is sent out to be printed, and is empowered to "judge" what may or may not be printed. Thus, it is, at its keenest, a preview committee. At its worst, it is an instrument of prior restraint. Checking our U.S. Constitution time and time again, we find prior restraint to be illegal. Uh-oh. Problem: What happened to our free expression?

Next Wednesday the SGA legislature is planning to question the constitutionality of the amendment to La Campana's constitution. Not knowing that outcome and not concerning ourselves with legal precedents, The Montclarion feels that this amendment is wrong. It has no positive purpose, and will be a threat to our rights of free expression.

The SGA, the governing body of all Class One organizations, of which La Campana is one, has lost sight of its priorities. Their primary goal it seems, is to restrain and control the organization. In order to provide the students with the widest variety of programming possible, student leaders are elected to head these groups because they are the best suited for these positions. La Campana's staff is there because they are the ones dedicated to putting together a yearbook. The SGA is there to provide the money and (supposedly) to support. That's all.

The SGA, by chartering La Campana to produce a yearbook, has given them de facto creative control. La Campana is there to produce the yearbook for the SGA, and not just the SGA. If the SGA feels the need to monitor La Campana, perhaps they should publish their own book. But they can't.

In all fairness, the most recent provisions put into the La Campana constitution are the product of last year's SGA. It is our hope that this year's SGA can begin to recognize its true purpose and put an end to the alienation and deceit that is coming to be associated with them.

Cocaine & Crack: modern drugs

Many people think that they know the facts about cocaine. Some have doled it out for food or other substances which is readily available to the student population.

Twenty-five million Americans have reported using cocaine at least once, and each day thousands more use it for the first time. Because crack is a relatively new drug, there is little data on its use. However, it seems that it is spreading among all ages and classes of people. In fact, 33% of cocaine users have also tried crack. Cocaine is an expensive drug and was once thought of as "the champagne of drugs" because of its use by rich people at high class parties. Now it seems that all classes of people use it, regardless of the price. A cocaine addiction can cost upwards of $3,000 per week to maintain. Many people resort to crime or dealing drugs in order to support their habit. Crack, although cheaper to buy in single doses, can prove to be more expensive in the long run. The high is shorter and more intense, forcing people to constantly buy more. Also, tolerance decreases with continuous use, so the user needs more and more to get the same effect. In the long run, crack addiction can be more expensive than cocaine addiction. Of course, the price paid for addiction can often cost more than money alone.

Cocaine appears in several forms. It is usually a fine white crystal, like powder, although at times it comes in larger pieces which are called "rocks." Cocaine is usually sniffed or snorted into the nose but some users prefer to inject it directly into their veins or smoke it. Sniffing cocaine is called "freebasing," while crack is crystalized freebase cocaine sold in the form of ready-to-smoke rocks. These rocks are nick-named "crack" because of the cracking sound they make as they are smoked.

When cocaine is ingested, the effects begin within the first few minutes, seem to peak within twenty minutes, and disappear within an hour. However, traces of cocaine can be found in the user's blood for up to a week after the use. The effects include increased blood pressure, heart rate, breathing rate, body temperature, and dilated pupils. The user may have a general sense of well being and feel more alert and less hungry.

A stuffy or runny nose may occur with occasional use but sniffing can also bring down the mucous membrane of the nose. Hepatitis or other infectious diseases may occur when cocaine is injected with unsterilized equipment. Overdose deaths can occur when the drug is injected, smoked, or snorted. Deaths are usually a result of convulsive seizures followed by respiratory and cardiac arrest. Some regular users say that they feel restless, irritable, anxious and have difficulty sleeping. Even low doses of cocaine may create psychological problems in some people. Higher doses of cocaine used over a longer period of time may make one seem paranoid or have what is called a "cocaine psychosis" experience. This may include various hallucinations such as touch, sight, taste and smell.

The adverse effects of cocaine can outweigh any pleasurable experiences one might get from it. Lives have been destroyed, families broken up, and people have died from cocaine use. If you or someone you know is a habitual cocaine user or feels they have a problem with cocaine, you may want to call 1-800-COCAINEx, a toll-free 24-hour nationwide hotline, referral, and information service about cocaine. Founded and run by Mark S. Gold and staffed by ex-cocaine users, this number is recognized as an invaluable resource for both users and non-users alike.

The Drop-In Center also has various pieces of information and referrals regarding cocaine and crack as well as other information on alcohol and other drugs. Students lose respect for 'egotistical' Marsh

To the Editor,

As people who attended the Dave Marsh lecture sponsored by CINA on November 18, we were very disappointed with Mr. Marsh's self-satisfied, egotistical, "cooler-than-thou" attitude.

While we were initially impressed by his views concerning the dangers of censorship and political manipulation in the music industry, he soon lost what credibility he had during the "questions and answers" segment of the lecture.

While he spent a good deal of time attacking the established, narrow-minded people who were his greatest threat to music, Dave Marsh shows his true colors when he referred to questions posed about Elvis Costello, Howard Stern, and various Rock publications.

He claims that Costello had called Ray Charles a "filthy, ignorant nigger." This is a distortion of the facts. In reality, the incident, which took place around 1979, involved a misunderstanding between Costello and Ronnie Raitt, in which Raitt thought she overheard Costello make the aforementioned remark. This was later cleared up. It is shocking that such a highly touted rock writer still doesn't have the facts straight as well as answer them accurately.

Mr. Marsh also takes a disliking to Howard Stern. This is his opinion, to which he is entitled. However, he stoops so low as to make wild accusations about Stern, such as calling him a "bigot" and a "Nazi." This is after he admitted to not listening to the show. This sure sounds like the triumph of ignorance over us. Never mind the fact that Stern himself is Jewish and works with a black, female co-host; that is what he is entitled. But tanks and aircraft are not destroyed the way the President's deal with Iran. I am not talking about the morality of dealing with terrorists. Or the morality of lying to the American people and our allies. That's the easy stuff of ethics class. Morality 101, fall semester.

What I've been waiting for is the impact of this fiasco on George Shultz, the Secretary of State. What will he do? What is his next move? What does he recommend to the President? I do not want to see it close its doors. The Rat has always been a tradition on this campus. I am sure not. Many, I am sure, feel as I do that the majority of the students do not want to see it close its doors.

A memorable 'November to Remember' needed Alcohol

To the Editor,

I would like to address the problem involving the possibility of closing the Rathskellar. In an article it was stated that if the "November to Remember" programming was not successful the Rat could face a possible closing. I applaud the SGA for the programming they have scheduled. Monday Night Football and the "Comedian Night" along with various other additions are attractive to the students except for one problem, no alcohol is served. I do not want to be misunderstood, alcohol is not necessary for students to enjoy these activities, but as is evident by the extremely low attendance at these events, it does play a large part.

I remember this campus before the drinking age was changed and the rules regarding alcohol were much stricter. That time was split in half, half served alcohol for those with proper I.D. and the other half were for those under age so that they too could enjoy the programming. It was successful, and it worked.

Concert praise appreciated

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Chambre Jazz Ensemble, we would like to thank Lisa Zdienicki for her thoughtful reply of our performance in the cafeteria on Friday the 31st at luncheon. It is such a rewarding experience to get a reply why not bring it back. Many students left at the end of the night only having heard half the show. This is our choice and this was ours.

Kurtis Blow has produced quality, meaningful rap in the past. However, his new album, Kingdom Blow, isn’t nearly as good as the others. In fact, Kingdom Blow is nothing more than a sand castle that flopped. It appears as if Blow tried everything to make this album work, but nothing does. In the song “Street Rock,” Bob Dylan sings a few lines. Dylan doesn’t make it as a rapper and on this song the song sounds as if he just got over the flu. Midway through the track there is a musical interlude. It doesn’t help the song at all.

After the discouraging song comes another. “The Bronx” is a big disappointment. The introduction features the voice of Bugs Bunny, and then the rap song begins. The two main lines are “The Bronx” and “I have the power.” This is an awful song and Blow sounds off key. “Unity Party Jam” is a song which begins effectively. This song has an uptempo beat and there are good sound effects. The only thing missing from it is rap. Blow doesn’t sing one line in it. The jam is all instrumental, and becomes boring after the first two minutes.

This album is a joke! No one can take it seriously when there’s a song about Magilla Gorilla. That’s right - the cartoon that featured the monkey in the window with Mr. Peebles and Ogee. Blow attempts to tell the story of the gorilla in rap form and it just doesn’t work. The beat is fast-paced but the lyrics make no sense. However, “Magilla Gorilla” is much better than “I’m Chillin.” This rap song starts with the Transformer commercial and goes downhill from there on out.

The best song is the final cut. In this case the beat was saved for last. The song “Reasons For Wanting You” is a sincere, clear and emotional song. Blow scored with this hit, but everything else failed. He should have followed the format of the last song in order to make the rest of the album work.

In all honesty, Kingdom Blow is disappointing. It lacks any consistency or meaning. The only reason Blow will make money is because of the attractive album cover. If you are a serious Kurtis Blow fan, then it would be worth buying just for the cover. If you’re not a rap or Blow fan just blow this one off your Christmas list.

Tiny Lights’ LP brings psychedelia into the 80’s

By Stacey Dunleavy
Correspondent

I’ve heard. The intertwining voices and instruments create a better mind-expanding sound than any old Jefferson Airplane you could dig up. Donna’s singing sounds much better in the studio, and all through the record her voice has a calming quality. The next song, “Looking At Your Door,” is closest to a “rock”er on the album, although it has a conspicuous resemblance to the Yardbirds’ “Heart Full of Soul.”

The next cut is “Song of the Weak,” a folky song with some great twisting string sounds. The last track of the first side is “Does the Limbo.” It has a good sound, but even with the lyric sheet I can’t figure what it’s about. The effect of the farfisa organ is appropriate for this song, it sounds the most psychedelic of the whole record.

The first cut of the second side, “Sweet Solutions,” has lyrics by the band’s cellist Jane Scarpantoni. It sounds like the band has been playing with Indian and Arab music. This song is filled with meditative drones and the lead singer moans like a Moam cantor. “Painted Skies” is a little too 70’s-super­group for my taste. It sounds like a depressed Bob Seger. I am surprised to hear Donna playing violin in tune, though. There is more 80’s psy­chedelia on the next track, which also has unintelligible lyrics. This segues directly into the last track, “Blue Dot Cleaner.”

All in all, this is a great album to listen to for atmosphere. The one thing missing is energy. I’d like to see them live again just to find out if any of the technical work in the studio has helped their act, and if their energy is retained in the club atmosphere.

MTS presents Williams’ “The Night of the Iguana”

By Pasquale DiFulco

Major Theatre Series continued its season with the Wednesday night opening of “The Night of the Iguana” by Tennessee Williams. In “Iguana,” Williams explores the mundane existences to which some folks are bound, or as director Ramon Delgado puts it, “the struggle to find the freedom and serenity that all of God’s creatures seek.”

The play’s multi-level set, designed by James Martino, gave this audience member the urge to climb onstage and crawl among all its nooks and crannies. Martino’s flair for creative is accentuated by John Ehrenberg’s colorful lighting design. The hot summer sun is cleverly portrayed through Ehrenberg’s use of yellow, red, and orange, washing the stage with the spider-like shadows of Martino’s ‘jungle.’ Perhaps students should be given more of an opportunity to design shows, because these two gentlemen certainly proved they are competent.

Notable performances were given by quite a few of the cast members. Sandi Rossi came off well as the uptight Miss Fellows. Jennifer Russell was coy as the young temptress and is a national competition designed to identify and promote quality in college-level theatre production.” “The Night of the Iguana” is M5C’s production entered in the competition. If chosen, it would be presented at the Regional Festival in Ithaca, New York, in January.

McKinley Boston - a good man

We can all remember our first experience as freshmen or transfers on the campus of MSC. Everyone was a stranger at the time. Four years of college can go by quickly once friends are made. However, teachers, administrators or coaches can play a vital role in the growth of a student.

Looking back at my four years at MSC, I learned from many administrators, but one individual responsible for molding my character and playing a vital influence in my development as a person must be McKinley Boston. Boston was the defensive coordinator for the MSC Indian football team and was a key component of campus recreation.

Boston, who has been a coach at MSC for 14 years, is leaving his present duties to become the Athletic Director for Kean College. "Mc" played quarterback for the Columbia Lions (NY) and the New York Giants (NFL) before coming to MSC. He is a defensive master and coached many athletes at MSC that went on to play professional football. One such person is Sam Mills, who is now a linebacker with the New Orleans Saints. In order to have professional football and succeed in life, one must possess special qualities as a person.

The Jet's Journal
Perry Schwarz

Boston has these qualities and is able to relay them to other athletes and students. He has a way of putting a person straight away and coaches them to give his honest comments: He can make the most complex football coverage or formation easy to learn or teach ethics in the journalism field.

For me, he left me feeling articles. Not all of it was positive. In fact, I improved my writing because of his consistent comments. I owe a lot of my key articles and interviews to Mac. He pointed me in the right direction.

He does the same on the football field—verbalizes what is wrong and explains how to correct it. Mac has a special characteristic that enables a person to reach deep inside to improve. Maybe that's why Dan Zakasheski has been a defensive All-American for the last two years.

The final characteristic is that he is always accessible and willing to communicate effectively. I don't know of another administrator that would put aside his own business and discuss a problem or answer questions for students or athletes as quickly as Mac would without bureaucratic excuses.

I can safely say that MSC is losing a good man and coach and Kean College is gaining one. On a personal basis, I want to say to coach McKinley Boston, "thanks for everything, Mac. I won't forget what you did for this football program and the college community."

Football: the year in review

By Perry Schwarz
Staff Writer

Another football season has come and gone. The Indians opened their off-season weight training for next year, when they will shoot for the national title which they were so close to last year. The Indians rounded out the season at 10-2. Within those 12 games a lot of action-packed games and exciting matches-ups were seen.

After an opening victory against Wagner College, the Indians hosted Division II rival East Stroudsburg. The Indians won the game 17-10. The victory was the first time that MSC won back-to-back games at the start of the season, breaking a 10-year-jinx.

The highlight of the game was Joe Altorame's sixth interception return in the final seconds of play. Altorame made a pair of interceptions in the Wagner game. By the end of the season, the sophomores would own the MSC record for interceptions (10).

Walter Briggs threw for 269 yards to surpass the 1,000-yard mark on the season and he was on his way to becoming MSC and New Jersey leading passer.

The Indians returned home to what was the best home crowd college football has seen in a long time. Sprague Field was packed with over 5,000 fans to see the Indians outlast rival William Paterson. The Indians wanted to show their fans that last year's 15-14 win was no fluke - and they did. MSC shutout the Pioneers 36-0.

And the winners are...

The results from The Montclarion's first sports survey are in - and you picked the teams that will go down Into team as well. MSC's favorite! Here they are:

Baseball:
1. Nets (62%)
2. Yankees (31%)
3. Red Sox (5%)
4. Braves (2%)

Basketball:
1. Nets (38%)
2. Knicks (33%)
3. Celtics (13%)
4. TIE 76ers (13%)

Hockey:
1. Rangers (33%)
2. Devils (25%)
3. TIE Islanders (25%)
4. MSC (8%)

Swimmers look to be competitive

By Patty Jones
Correspondent

MSC swimming and diving coach Doug Backlund is looking forward to a very successful season for both men and women.

"Both teams are working hard in practice and I can sense a feeling of togetherness and competitiveness among the swimmers," remarked Backlund. "I am excited andPsyched up and that's very important.

The men and women Indians started practice October 15, 1986 with double sessions: weight training (Mon. Wed. Fri. mornings) and regular workouts every afternoon Monday through Friday. All of the swimmers are concentrating and taking their practice sessions seriously in order to meet up with the challenge that the newly installed NCAA scoring system brings.

The NCAA imposed a major change in the scoring system for this season. This change will affect every division in the country.

The scoring system was comprised of seven points for a first place finish in the relay competition. The following are individual competitive points for first place, 3 points for second place and 1 point for third place. The team scoring system brings with it a chance for three more swimmers to place and will obviously make the team races more exciting.

In relay competition, the new system will award nine points to the relay team placing first, four and two points for the second and third finishes respectively. As far as individual competition is concerned, the new scoring system will affect it the most because out of six swimmers, five will place and the points received will be 7-4-3-2-1.

The men's team, led by returning letterman Rich Taylor, is ready for the new season. They are conditioned and have the necessary depth to compete with the new scoring system. The team only lost three key swimmers to graduation and are expected to finish the season with a similar record to last year's 7-4.

"I think we'll be able to hold our own against the big guns this season," says Taylor. Taylor was a national qualifier last year and he represents the strength of the team. Taylor is the MSC record-holder in the following events: the 50 and 100 yard freestyle, 400 yard freestyle relay and 400 medley relay.

The men are also led by senior captain Paul Griffin, the only returning diver on the team. He holds the team record in one-meter diving. Freshman Mike Malocia shows great potential, for the diving team.

Other key swimmers aboard the men's team are sophomore Andy Urcia, who was the returning record-holder in the 1650-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle, 500-yard freestyle, 800-yard freestyle, sophomore Dave Eaglesham, record-holder in the 200-yard butterfly; senior Mike Samaras record-holder in the 200-yard breaststroke; and sophomore Ed Burleigh, record-holder in the 200-yard breaststroke, 400-yard freestyle, the 400-yard freestyle relay and the 800-free-relay.

The Lady Indians finished last season with an impressive winning record of 10-1. For this year's team it will be a five-way swimmer missing. Freshman coach Greg Lockard, "The women will swim better nationally this year, but for the most part, I'll call it a rebuilding season."

Lockard went on to add that the goal for the Lady Indians is to finish in the top three in the Metropolitan Conference, despite losing Jeannie Beuer, All-American and key record-holder.

As far as dual meet competition is concerned, the team may suffer as a result of the new scoring system. "We just lack the depth," say Backlund.

Led by captains and returning letter winners, seniors Ann Marie Kwiatkowski and senior Pam Roussel, the team opened its season with two victories. On November 11th, the Lady Indians defeated New York University 107-97. A fine performance was exhibited by freshman Tabitha Jacobus who finished the 400-yard freestyle in 56.4 seconds. Jacobus represents fine talent on the team.

On November 15th, the Indians won another close meet, 103-101 over Marist College though MSC swam with five key swimmers missing. Freshman Cindy Strodel swam exceptionally well, setting a new school record of 222.19 in the 200-yard breaststroke. She broke the old MSC record by four seconds.

Returning key swimmer junior Gail Menaugh and senior Doug Backlund are expected to return with the strength of the team. This outstanding swimmer holds the record in the following events: the 50-yard freestyle, 200-yard breaststroke, 200- and 500-yard freestyle, 400-yard medley and free relays. Two new freshman, Jacobs and Strodel along with captains Kwiatkowski and Roussel also bring great potential and talent to the team.

Newcomer Karen Furman, a sophomore, has added the needed depth to the diving team. Furman, along with returning senior Kathie DeBonis and sophomore Grace Smith are the key divers.

After the second fumble, MSC drove 51 yards. Briggs locked up with Bryan Scipio for the score. Colasurdo's point gave MSC a 14-0 advantage going into halftime. The key play in this score was a 41-yard strike from Briggs to Chavis over the middle.

After the MSC fumble recovery on the Hofstra 24, the Indians drove six plays for a third score. Leroy Horn scored from the two with 5:05 in the quarter. The Indians had a substantial lead, but a few errors enabled Hofstra to give MSC a run for its money. The Dutchman scored on a nine-yard pass from the two with 5:05 in the period.

Chavis mishandled the ensuing kick-off and Hofstra recovered the fumble. The Flying Dutchman connected the turnover to a score early in the fourth. It completed a nine-play 41-yard drive and cut the deficit to 21-14.

That's when Castiglia stepped in to make the big plays. After MSC was forced to punt, Matt Flannery received the ball on a reverse and streaked up the sideline until the sophomore punter snagged him at the Hofstra 45.

Colasurdo's 28-yarder ended a seven-play, 49-yard drive with 2:31 left in the game. MSC led 24-14, but the Dutchman managed one more score with ended the scoring 24-21.

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, the Montclarion will publish a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia.

If you think you have the right answer to the stumper, drop It off at The Montclarion, Room 113 in the Student Center Annex. The names of those who submit the correct answer will be published in the next week's issue.

Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m. So start working and get into those trivia books.

1. How many career home runs did Willie Mays hit?
2. Who is the first baseball player to have been recorded as throwing a pitch 100 miles-per-hour?
3. The King of Sweden paid tribute to this football-playing Indian.
4. How long is a volleyball court?
5. Who was the first black player in the American League?

Answer:

We Are a Very Young Team Gelston admitted, noting that it takes time to build chemistry. "No matter how good the grape, it takes time. We lack experience. We are four players deep at the guard spot, but the only one with experience is Steve Swinton."

The Indians opened their season against Whittier College of California at Panzer Gym on November 23. The Poets, with a front line consisting of a pair of 6-8 players was a good test for the Indian team.

Mike Farell scored the first basket of the year for MSC off a Swinton feed to draw first blood. Swinton's corner jumper gave MSC a 4-0 lead, and the Indians were off and running. Barry Brown came off the bench to give the Indians a 17-14 lead with his jump shooting. The Poets started to make a run at MSC as they penetrated the Indians' press and dumped the ball inside to their big men. At the half the Poets had a 24-19 lead.

With Swinton guards penetrating and dishing the ball off to their big men inside, 6-8 power forward Wells went on a tear as he scored six straight baskets to give Whittier a 44-32 lead. At the ten-minute mark, a Wilson Rodriguez jumper gave the Indians hope as they cut the lead to 47-42.

With Mark Scott and Karl Wright playing good defense on the Poets inside players they were able to creep back into the game. With both teams locked in a defensive struggle, Scott made a baseline turnaround jumper to keep MSC close 51-46. With baskets by Brown and Wright the Indians trailed by just two points, 52-50.

Wright then made the play of the game as he kept the ball in play as he was falling. "Carl Wright made a tremendous play," said Gelston. "It was the greatest defensive play I have seen in a long time."

The play resulted in Rodriguez being the recipient of the pass as he took the ball coast to coast to draw the foul and make both free throws to give MSC a 55-54 lead. The lead did not last long as both teams traded leads to leave the score tied with one minute remaining.

With the score tied 62-62 and the Indians holding the ball for the last shot, Rodriguez hit a jumper from the top of the key but the shot was disallowed because a timeout was called before the shot. The Poets took advantage of the break and were able to work the ball inside and score with 10 seconds left in the game.

Ithaca 29-MSC 15

In last year’s Division III playoff, the MSC football team lost to Ithaca College 50-28. History repeated itself Saturday as the Indians (10-2) once again lost to the Bombers (11-0), 29-15, to fall out of the race for the National championship.

Walter Briggs, who became New Jersey’s leading collegiate passer with 7,378 career yards, threw a 30-yard score to Ed Chavis with 1:26 left. Another conversion sealed the scoring, 29-15.

After the interception, Ithaca began a drive from its 33. The Bombers went 67 yards on seven plays and scored with 1:26 left. Another conversion sealed the scoring, 29-15.

While the Indians turned their equipment in this week, Ithaca advanced to play Salisbury State College (11-0) in the Division III semi-final. The Seagulls were the only team to defeat MSC in the regular season.

MSC 24 - Hofstra 21

Whoever said big things don’t come in little packages wasn’t at the first round of the Division III playoffs where the Indians (10-1) beat Hofstra University (9-2), 24-21, in Long Island.

The Bombers scored the go-ahead touchdown after completing a 99-yard drive. They took the ball after a punt and marched 15 plays. Middaugh hit George Mack from seven yards. Instead of an extra point, they elected to go for a two-point conversion and got it. Middaugh hit Mack in the endzone on a pass and Ithaca led 21-15.

In the third period Greg Faust recovered on Ithaca’s fumble and Ulyses Del Rio intercepted a pass for the Indians. However, neither turnover was converted. MSC went for a first down on fourth down, but a Briggs pass fell incomplete and Ithaca took over.

The next MSC drive resulted in Briggs being intercepted on a third-down attempt.

After the interception, Ithaca began a drive from its 33. The Bombers went 67 yards on seven plays and scored with 1:26 left. Another conversion sealed the scoring, 29-15.

The Indians started off slowly, trailing 15-6 at the midway point of the first half. They then went on a 13-4 scoring binge to take a lead they would not look back on. Nancy Phillips hit for a field goal and Bratton followed with a free throw to give MSC a 37-29 lead at the half. Despite playing generally uninspiring basketball, from there, the scoring explosion began and the game belonged to MSC.

With a 41-32 lead and 18:17 left in the game, MSC ran off a string of 14 consecutive points in the next six minutes. That provided the Indians with a 54-35 lead that all but humbled the nail in the Profs’ coffin.

"It took us awhile to get started," admitted Jeffery. "I don’t think we played defense until they scored 20 points. Once we did get going, we kept the momentum for the entire game."

Center Sue Ehrmann collected 10 points on the night to provide MSC with much of its inside punch. Says Jeffrey of the 6-0 junior, "Sue is probably my biggest delight right now. She’s really come out of her shell and has become a very big inside force. That’s something we’re really going to benefit from this year."" Phillips, a 6-0 junior who switched from center to forward this past year, had 15 “quiet” points against the Profs. She should emerge as one of the most potent forces the Jeffrey Reign has seen.

"Moving Sue Ehrmann to center and Nancy out to forward has given Nancy the chance to benefit from her shooting range," says Jeffrey. "She’s getting the open shots now, but she’s just not hitting them with the consistency I know she can. As soon as she’s used to being back at forward, she’ll be scoring a lot more."

One Indian who has improved her scoring this season is point guard Sue Becker. Becker had 13 points Tuesday night against the Profs. The 5-6 sophomore has taken over the role of playmaker and Jeffrey has been pleased with the results.

"Sue has really taken on the role of team leader this season," said Jeffrey. "She’s playing tough defense and controlling the offense very well. Her outside shot has improved, too, and that takes the heat off some of the inside people."

Speed and skill help Lady Indians to quick start

"We have a real different look this year," said Jeffery. "Last year, we had a team that was deliberate and slow. This season we’ve added a lot more quickness and you’re going to see a lot more flashiness. We’ll have a lot more opportunities to score."

Those words from the third-year MSC women’s basketball head coach on the heels of the Indians’ 83-65 victory over Glassboro State Tuesday night at Panzer Gym. It was a game that proved Jeffery’s words to be true. The Indians got double-digit scoring efforts from five players and erupted for 46 second-half points to win the game going away, 59-35.

In the fourth quarter, MSC punter Paul Castiglia, who averaged a 38-yard punting average, kicked a 67-yard field goal with 1:18 in the fourth. By Tony Colasurdo. Rick Giancola knew the potential of both kickers because and athletes. Some kickers can do just that, but our guys are football players and give that extra assistance on the field."

MSC did things right in the quarterfinal round against Hofstra. The Flying Dutchmen led 28-24 in the fourth quarter, but the Bombers turned the game over after completing a 99-yard drive. Middaugh hit Mack in the endzone on a pass and Ithaca led 21-15.
