MSC banks on
teller machine

By Paul Mampilly
Assignment Editor

First Jersey National Bank has installed an automatic teller machine in the student center to replace the Pilgrim State Bank.

Once Pilgrim notified MSC of its decision to move, the administration began soliciting proposals from banks in the area. Dr. Barry Cohen, assistant vice-president for finance, stressed that every effort was made to get a full service bank on campus but none of the banks solicited were willing to provide complete bank facilities at MSC.

According to Cohen, the bank was selected because they were willing to provide the 'highest quality service at the least cost.' First Jersey was the only bank willing to install and maintain an ATM at no cost to MSC.

The contract signed between MSC and the bank is, according to Cohen, on a one year renewable basis. A lease agreement at no cost to either MSC or First Jersey is in effect with regard to the space taken by the ATM. Cohen also stated that 'the bank is willing to install a second ATM machine depending on the volume of usage' on the machine currently installed.

When asked about the problem of vandalism and possible victimisation of students using the ATM, he said that at this time security measures were not yet worked out.

To use the ATM, students will have to open an account with the bank and acquire the necessary access card. The bank offers a choice of over 20 types of accounts, a convenient bank-by-phone feature and access to over 10,000 ATM's across the country. First Jersey also has full service offices in Montclair and Bloomfield.

Representatives of the First Jersey will be available in the residence halls and at SGA meetings.

Student steals
SGA checks

By Lynn M. Cowan
News Editor

An ongoing investigation during the summer led to the arrest of an MSC student who stole SGA checks from the mail.

The checks totaled $1,100 and were recovered when the student tried to cash them in a Rutherford bank. The case is currently awaiting trial.

An attempted burglary was halted when a Clove Road resident entered the room and found an unidentified person lifting the screen off the window.

Twenty-one student parking decals were stolen from the business office on Sept. 2. Witnesses said an unidentified male reached behind the unattended service desk's glass partition and took the decals.

On Sept. 4, a first-floor Stone Hall room was entered through its back window. Several anti-Semitic messages were written on the walls and a note left, addressed to one of the residents. The entry occurred sometime between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m.

Between 12 p.m. Sept. 4 and 8 a.m. Sept. 7, an unknown intruder entered Mallory Hall and tampered with a cigarette machine. Only a minor amount was reported stolen.

On Sept. 6 at 2 a.m., a pizza delivery man was attacked by several males in front of Blanton Hall. Several pizza pies were stolen.

On Sept. 8, at 12:20 a.m., a pizza delivery was knocked to the ground by three black males. The assailants fled the scene with a pizza and the delivery was taken to the Mountainside Hospital, Upper Montclair.

Drop-In Center recruiting for Fall

Almost everyone who visits MSC wonders about the house located between the Student Center and Richardson Hall. That is the Drop-In Center, where student volunteers serve MSC with a valid ID to receive prescriptions at a low discounted rate.

Information is available in the SGA office, located in the lower level of the Student Center or by calling 893-4202. An appropriation of $470 dollars was granted to the Recreation Professions Club, a class II organization of the SGA. The money will be used for attending a meeting this weekend at Great Escape in Lake George, New York.

Parking rules

Various improvements were made to campus facilities this past summer which were designed to provide better parking and pedestrian safety.

Lot # 13, which serves as a joint student and visitor lot, has a newly constructed automatic gate and attendant booth. In the past, when meetings and conferences were held on campus, the lot was closed to all vehicles even though only a portion of it was required. With an attendant controlling incoming cars, both meeting members and students will have use of the lot.

More structures have been placed to prevent unauthorized vehicles from entering the pedestrian area. Parking capacity in the inner area is extremely limited. When lined spaces are filled, no other vehicles will be permitted.

Tailgating issue rehashed again

By Mike Heelan
Staff Writer

Tailgating at football games was discussed during last night's SGA meeting. Last year we had better attendance than we ever had before. Our belief is that it was because alcohol was not permitted,' said Dean of Students, Dean Martin.

In addition, SGA President Rob Accera, stressed campus police will be 'cracking down' on violators.

Alternative arrangements are being made to have alcohol available in the Rathskellar prior to and after each home game. All students are encouraged to attend the game this Saturday night at 8 p.m. against Wagner.

Maybe it's your calculator.

We know that a cheap calculator can cost you blood, sweat and time.

Investing in a Hewlett-Packard calculator, on the other hand, can save you time and again.

HP calculators not only have better functions. They function better. Without sticking keys and bad connections.

Through October 31, you can get the cream of the calculators at a non-fat price.

Were cutting $10 off the HP-12C. That buys you more built-in functions than anyone else's financial calculator.

And were giving away a free Advantage Module, a $40 value, with every HP-41 and Advanced Scientific calculator you buy. This 12K-byte plug-in, menu-driven ROM was designed specifically for students.

So drop by your campus bookstore and compare HP calculators with the rest. By midterm, you'll see what a deal this is.

Career Services offering job-hunting opportunities

In the past, occupational choice was restricted by class, sex, race or social position. Several factors, including educational opportunities and laws against discrimination have eliminated these barriers to selecting a career.

Career counselors in the Career Services office help students identify their skills, interests, and values during individual or group sessions. Current articles and books on thousands of job titles can be found in the extensive career library to further aid students. Information is also available about employment trends, salaries, qualifications and the prospects for a particular career.

A student will also have the opportunity to speak with people who are working in their field of interest.

Career Services’ Alumni Network has over 300 graduates who volunteer their time to provide information on future career possibilities.

The Career Services office is located in the Student Center Annex, Room 104 and is open daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and on Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Appointments are not necessary to use the library and look at the part-time and full-time job listings.

All career planning and job-hunting seminars require no pre-registration. Individual hour-long counseling sessions need to be scheduled in advance. There will be drop-in hours beginning the week of Sept. 28 every Monday and Wednesday from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon and every Tuesday afternoon from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Any career concern can be discussed with a counselor at that time without an appointment.

Schedule Review

Students should review their schedules to check for any discrepancies and report them as soon as possible to the Registrar. Failure to resolve schedule conflicts will result in no credit or failing grades in some courses. All registration corrections must be made by Oct. 1, 1987.

editorial

Do you really get what you pay for?

Everybody is looking for something. At least that seems to be the case here at MSC. In the last three or four years MSC has been in pursuit of excellence and it's starting to show. Unfortunately, it's more on one end than the other.

The college has become more selective in its admissions. Higher S.A.T. scores, better high school transcripts, personal statements, and even school districts are pushing up the norm for selection criteria. The results are brighter, more competitive, and ambitious students. These are the students who will improve the image of MSC with their greater potential.

Ironically enough, the potential of MSC is what's restricting its image. It's up to the college to fulfill its end of the bargain. After all, students are looking for something, too.

Here at MSC we have some of the best and brightest faculty members. But too often, students are forced to select the nameless and faceless "Staff" instructors for class. When it comes down to it adjuncts just don't provide the support a student seeks outside the classroom.

Each year students are faced with the dilemma of signing up for courses around a number of criteria. Trying to cope with major courses, GER courses and work schedules is difficult enough without professors' insistence on teaching only when it's convenient. The Montclarion stresses the need for faculty and administration to adjust to needs of the college's changing student population.

To compound the situation, we discover in the middle of July that our course request from April cannot be filled because of cancellations or too many requests. In-person registration is that last-ditch effort to save a schedule from ruins of the Registrar's Office. Hence, we continue to wait patiently for computers which will bring us into the modern age.

When it comes down to it, we received a 10% increase in tuition. We're entitled to demand something for our money. We've achieved so far is the creation of the hardest medievo school to get into. It's about time our money was spent wisely on a worthwhile cause.

BOSTON — Let me admit, right off the bat, that my offspring are not perfect. How many people will say that in public? Though I have raised them from infancy, nurtured them, spared neither expense nor affection in their upbringing, they have their flaws and I know it.

Take the two before me, both thoroughly mature. I must admit that their shape and complexion are just a bit off. They bear some scars, a bit of discoloration. They are a touch mishapen and carry internal marks of a genetic background that is, well, anomalous.

But when you are in the tomato-raising business, looks aren't everything. Taste is everything. These are my Big Boys.

Years ago, when I first planted a victory garden (a victory over rocks, bits of glass, and the real thing, I have come to regard as the real thing, I have come to regard their offspring as the real thing, I have come to regard as the real thing, I have come to regard as the real thing, I have come to regard

VOYAGER IV
Rundgren for president

By Roy Nelson
Correspondent

In 1986, Todd Rundgren proved to the musical world that he could create an album complete with musical arrangements entirely sans musical instruments (A Capella). In 1987, Rundgren went one step further and proved he could take his show live and create his same brand of eclectic pop completely sans musicians (The “TR in ’88: Am I President Yet?” Tour).

And not surprisingly for those who have charted his unusual career, he’s two-for-two.

Touring solo is not something new for Rundgren, a pop veteran of twenty years now. However, in the past, how shows were naturally, limited to acoustic acts or those with guest musicians and such. This time around, it’s necessary, as Rundgren infused modern technology into his show to create something very unique.

Armed with a ‘band’ consisting of himself, a single synthesizer, four guitars (two acoustic, two electric), Commodore and Macintosh computers and the newest in software, Rundgren pulled off another coup last Thursday at Club Bene Dinner Theatre in South Amboy. Since it’s really the closing night of the tour, Rundgren came out looking tired, but relaxed. His voice was not flawless, but neither did it seem to matter. This wasn’t going to be an exhibition of raw talent, but rather a show. And Rundgren was there to do more than sing. He was there to entertain, and he didn’t let one person down.

Rundgren certainly didn’t cheat the crowd in terms of time, as he performed for close to two and a half hours. He interspersed his two dozen-or-so songs with hilarious commentaries on the political and music communities, taking good rips at everyone from Ronald Reagan (“I don’t think he knows his brains is leaking out of his nose…”), to himself and his back-up guitarists and shooing off his back-up synthesizers last. All in all, Rundgren walked away with the fans as if they were personal friends—again something very unusual in today’s cold, impersonal, hour-and-a-half performance world.

Rundgren opened the show with three acoustic guitar songs—“Love of the Common Man” (1984), “There Goes My Inspiration” (1982), and “Lyisistrata” (1980). It was an effective opening, and Rundgren gave the pseudo-love songs a new vibrance and life, considering the age of the material, the breakage of the one and his single guitar, and the fact that it was the final night of the tour. That night, Rundgren then stepped back to the keyboard and played, not without error, “Too Far Gone” (1975) and “Song of the Viking” (1972). It was then that the show began to open up musically. Rundgren brought on a computer center stage and unveiled the software. He performed the equally “Mated,” from Utopia’s 1985 album, “POV,” and his most recent effort, an edged-edged “Love in Action,” from Utopia’s “Wrong Planet” in 1978. Surprisingly, the intimacy between him and his crowd was fabulous. The entire club served as Rundgren’s stage, its cozy atmosphere and shallow ceilings proliferating the living room effect. Rundgren took advantage of the comfortable setting, talking to the fans as if they were personal friends—again something very unusual in today’s cold, impersonal, hour-and-a-half performance world.

During the last set, Rundgren showed off his multi-instrument abilities, including a solo on the synthesizer, a quick fly by on the guitar, and a back-up guitar on “Situation.” The house went wild.

Moyet dazzles the Beacon

By Diane Thonus
Correspondent

Alison Moyet played her first American show in years Thursday night at the Beacon Theatre in New York City and the only way to describe it is—triumphant! Tickets had been sold out for weeks, and the Beacon is not only one of the most intimate music venues in town, it seemed to be nothing but loyal followers from almost every phase of her career; the Yar era, the Alf and Raindancing solo albums, and the classic R & B performing that Europe has come to love in the past few years.

The show opened with “Love Resurrection” and anticipation was carefully manipulated by a long introduction with a box guitar solo by tour member Nir Taylor (no relation to any of the Duran’s, by the way). Moyet certainly looked happy to be there, and was dressed simply and comfortably in a long black tunic and black pants, topped off by a black boots and a shimmery over of Otis Redding’s “Try A Little Tenderness.”

The only slow point to the show was rendition of “Ne Me Quitte Pas,” a very emotional song that would have had a bigger impact if more of the audience present actually spoke the song itself seemed worthy for a part in the play. Moyet undeviatingly cast the directing. He followed that song with his sincere and moving tribute to Marvin Gaye, “Lost Horizon,” from A Capella. Rundgren finished the night out with a set complete with computer data and the anthemic “Drive,” from his 1982 release The Ever-Popular Tortured Artist Effect, and ended the evening with “One World,” from his 1987 tour as he has all his tours for the last twenty years.

Afterward he announced he was dropping out of the presidential race because, “With my cheek’s past, Gary Hart would look like a saint.” But from the show he put on last Thursday, had he run he surely would’ve gotten 1,000 votes from the people in attendance.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money.

Think again.

Since January 1987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct-dialed out-of-state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1 800 222-0300.

And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere to anywhere, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.

The stars shine at MSC

Traditions are a high priority at MSC and the athletic programs are a major part of this tradition. Championship teams, All-Americans, and competitive contests are easily found on campus.

Walter Briggs, who set the state record for passing yardage last season, was impressive as a free agent in the New York Jets camp this past summer. Although he was recently released, he is awaiting another opportunity to showcase his talents. He will certainly get his chance in the near future.

Baseball's Jim Fasano finally captured the World Series Championship ring he dreamed of for the past four years. Fasano showed support, leadership, and gritty determination in leading the Indians to a National Championship. His career batting average of .387 set a new school record. He also established career records for runs scored (149), hits (199), and total bases (313).

The Detroit Tigers recognized these qualities and talents and have given him the opportunity to play Class A ball in their organization. Fasano will report to Lakeland, Florida next March.

"I know I'll be faced with the same challenge in spring training of proving that I can play," said Fasano. "It's no different than at Montclair State. I'll just have to prove myself again."

Another baseball star, junior John Deutsch, is expected to be a high draft choice with a major league club when he becomes eligible in the upcoming months.

The MSC softball team finished with a 34-10 record and made it to the World Series, where they finished a very respectable fourth. The team consisted of no less than five All-Americans, including pitcher Dina DeAquino, catcher Marge Theobald, first baseman Tracey Burke, second baseman Linda Giarrusso, and left fielder Andrea Peters. It was the second time that Peters and Theobald were selected to the All-America squad.

Gail Meneghin, Pam Rousell, Tabitha Jacobs, Cindy Strodel and Kim Muller received All-American honors for the swim team. The team placed sixth in the Division III nationals last year.

New students at MSC should become part of the school's tradition, either as a fan or an athlete. The sports programs will once again be a dominating factor on campus and one should take the plunge in getting involved. This college has one of the finest Division III programs in the nation, so come on out and show your support.

Scouting report: The Seahawks

By Kenny Peck
Sports Editor

The Wagner Seahawks, coming off a 14-0 victory over the William Paterson Pioneers last week, invade Sprague Field Saturday night to take on MSC. It will be the opening game of the year for the Indians.

A big factor in Saturday's game is whether or not junior tailback Terry Underwood will see action. Underwood went down with a deep shoulder bruise and is listed as questionable for the game. If he is not able to play, it will seriously compromise Wagner's chances.

The offensive line for Wagner, which averages about 253 pounds, is led by two All-American candidates in Rich Negrin and Aaron Campbell. Heading the defense will be first-year starter Greg Kovac, a junior who spent the last two years backing up since graduating Jesse Foote.

The Seahawks defense is an experienced group led by the defensive front of Rich Robinson, George Gaspar, Troy Henry and Ron Langella. The ability of MSC's offensive line to handle this group may prove vital.

Head Coach Walt Hameline picked up career victory number 50 with last week's win against William Paterson last week but Robb will be more of a challenge for him.

MSC vs. William Paterson

Key matchups:

MSC RT Doug Robb vs. DE Troy Henry-Henry was a force against William Paterson last week but Robb will be more of a challenge for him.

MSC QB Leon Kosowski vs. Wagner secondary-Kosowski is inexperienced, and the Seahawks secondary is full of veterans. It will be a good test for him.

The 1987 football season kicks off for MSC Saturday against non-conference rival Wagner College, and the Indians are counting on a few of their "question marks" to lead the way.

Sophomore Leon Kisowski seems to be more of an answer than a question mark as he takes over the duties of running MSC's high-powered offense. The vacancy was created with the graduation of Walter Briggs, a state record holder with 7378 career passing yards.

"I am confident Leon will get the ball to the right people,"Head Coach Rick Giancola said. "I don't think it's fair to compare him with Walter or Mark Casale (the MSC quarterback before Briggs). They are all unique individuals, but statistically I feel Leon has the potential to be better than both of the former quarterbacks." Enough said.

Kisowski will have plenty of help moving the offense, as the MSC backfield is as solid as they come. Junior Leroy Horn returns from a banner baseball season at halfback, and senior Ed Hernandez joins him to form a very powerful tandem. The Indians have another weapon in veteran Ed Pedicine, who will also see plenty of time.

also see plenty of time.

The offensive line will be anchored by returners Mike Devy, Ernie Giampietro and Doug Robb. The leadership they provide is probably their most important contribution, although the size and strength they add will certainly not hurt.

The receiving corps will be led by returning junior Amod Field, a track and field All-American. Sophomore Mike Scott and junior Dexter Hairston will also see action at the split end position.

Defensively, the Indians are not as experienced as Giancola would like, but there is a solid crop of returnees and a good nucleus to build on. Dave Harris and Ulyses Del Rio lead the secondary unit, while the brother combination of Miguel and John Hernandez will return to lead the linebacking corps.

Harris will especially be in a leadership position as he will be calling the signals for the secondary, thus playing a major role for some of the defense's younger players.

The kicking game is an obvious Indian strongpoint. Kickers Tony Colasurdo and punter Paul Castiglia return, giving MSC a distinct advantage over most opponents. Each was selected to the All-Conference team last season.

New coaches also grace this season's roster. Bill Johnson will assume defensive coordinating duties in addition to coaching the defensive line. Rich Bello will handle the outside linebackers, Bob Daily will return to MSC as the secondary coach and Ed Agresta will handle the inside backers.

"The bulk of this year's team is made up of underclassmen," Giancola said. "We have 10 seniors, but the young players will contribute to this club in some facet. The coaching staff and I are going to place the players in the best possible positions so that we can get the productivity and performance needed to be successful."

New coach leads the way

This year signals a new beginning for Montclair State soccer. With the addition of a new coach and the graduation of veteran players, this season promises to be a challenging one for the Indians.

Dave Masur, former member of the Chicago Sting and Toledo Pride of the Major Indoor Soccer League, replaces Tony Allitio as MSC head coach. Masur comes to Montclair State with a proven record of excellence. He was the captain of the 1983 undefeated Rutgers University soccer team, and he recently completed two years as assistant coach at Rutgers.

Masur acknowledges that this year's team is made up primarily of sophomores, but sees the opportunity to mold the players into his style of play.

With this in mind, Masur says, the mood of the team is upbeat. Along with assistants Mark Edelstein and Angelo Pallitta, his outlined goal is to instill the attitude and determination of Division I soccer into the MSC program.

Co-captain Mike Nothero says of the team, "We are much improved from last year as we have a good group of experienced players returning to the team."

Nothero sees the teamwork being much better as a result of the early conditioning work and the rigorous practices that the team has been put through. "Everyone has put in a lot of time and effort so far, with early morning and night practices," he says. "The dedication will definitely pay off this season."

Masur brings a new perspective to the job. With new ideas and different organizational ideas, he is confident of success this season. His role is to develop a winning attitude among the players, "We had gone a little stale," the coach said in reference to last year's team. With his emphasis on the work ethic, the result is a harder working, more determined team.

Masur is optimistic about the team's chances this year. The offense will be led by Adam McNally, Robert Briggs and Rick Caruso, players with the potential to score goals in bunches. With rugged defender Vinny Nicosia returning, the MSC defense will again be dominant. Midfield will be led by Robert Chesney and Bill Fitzgerald.

The Indians open the season against Mercy, who recently tied #5 ranked Seton Hall, followed by meetings with Division II powerhouse East Stroudsburg, and Glassboro State, ranked in the Division III top ten.

The coach stresses that his goal is to take the soccer program to the Division I level. With the school's facilities, its academic standards, and the reputation and assistance of its athletic department, this goal seems within reach.
