Students support library hours extension

Twenty percent turnout in referendum success

By Paul Mampilly
Assignment Editor

The referendum conducted last semester, mainly to see if students would support an SGA fee increase was a success.

The organizers mobilized more than 20 percent of the student body to vote on five questions that included extending library hours, increasing the SGA fee, replacing the freshman representative election with a freshmen petition process, removing the student body referendum and also removing grammatical errors and inconsistencies from the constitution of the SGA.

According to Robert Acerra, president of the SGA, over 85 percent of the voters favored the fee increase and nearly 95 percent were in support of the proposed library hours. The other questions were passed with favorable percentages falling between 85 percent and 95 percent.

The campaign for the referendum started in December with flyers posted all over campus encouraging voters to Just say yes.

The campaign cost the SGA approximately $1000. Rob Acerra, president of the SGA said, "The financial benefits of the fee increase outweigh any cost incurred for the publicity and advertising campaign of the referendum." Although the students have ratified the five questions, the fee increase has to be approved by the Board of Trustees.

Acerra stated, "The fee increase will help solve some of the SGA’s financial problems and will also be used for more programming through Class I, Class II and Class III organizations of the SGA."

Acerra was confident that the board would approve of the fee increase and that it would be implemented by Fall '89. Acerra has scheduled meetings with Acting President Dr. Richard Lynde, Acting Vice President for Academic Affairs, Dr. Gregory Waters, President of the Faculty Senate, Lois Guthrie and Director of Library Services, Dr. Blanche Haller for the extension of library hours with immediate effect.

"I am sure the administration will see the academic benefits which would be made possible through an extension," said Acerra.

The Faculty Senate has also passed a resolution urging the administration to look into the extension of the library hours.

Tom Mergola, a legislator said, "The election was a success. We were able to pool the efforts of the entire SGA to gain the necessary votes. The student voice has been heard, now its up to the administrators to act upon the results."

The tabulated results to the referendum questions are given below.

The first question was, "Should the SGA constitution be amended to eliminate gender references and obsolete portions and to clarify and rearrange sections?" and received 1906 (94.6 percent) favorable votes and 108 (5.4 percent) unfavorable votes.

Question 2 asked, "Should the Student Government Fee be increased by the maximum allowable up to $1?" This question received 1754 (86.4 percent) votes for and 277 (13.6 percent) votes against.

"Should the SGA constitution be amended to change freshman representative elections to freshman representative appointments to the legislature?" One thousand six hundred and thirty five (82 percent) supported the amendment and 354 (18 percent) did not.

Question four, which asked if the SGA constitution should be amended to eliminate the power of referendum by the student body and to include general referendum provisions for the legislature?" was approved with 1590 (80.3 percent) in favor and 391 (19.7 percent) unfavorable.

The fifth question asked if "Sprague Library hours should be extended to 12 midnight Sun. through Thur. and to 10 p.m. Fri. and Sat."

The tabulated results to the referendum questions are given below.

The fifth question asked if "Sprague Library hours should be extended to 12 midnight Sun. through Thur. and to 10 p.m. Fri. and Sat." and received 1967 (96.8 percent) votes for and 64 (3.2 percent) against.

Rabbincal intern for JSU

By Samuel Robbins
Correspondent

Teachers. They're all over the place at college. Most teachers you meet are "Doctors." There is someone on campus now who will have a different title when he's finished studying. "Rabbinical intern for master teacher." His name is Shmuel Birnham. As a fifth year rabbincal student at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York City, he is interning as a religious advisor to the Jewish Student Union (JSU). In that role, he hopes to introduce not only the campus' Jewish community but also people of other beliefs to the values and traditions that Judaism has to offer.

Becoming a rabbi was not a lifelong dream for Birnham. In fact, he relates that he did not come to Judaism until age 28. He believes that his distance from Judaism while growing up has actually made his realization more profound.

Birnham says that he has found that "many children who grew up Jewish did not find anything about their religion. They were alienated from it by the formality, liturgy, or even the rabbis." While growing up, he did not experience a lot of those things, so he was able to "discover the meaning for himself, just as everyone must do." "There is a spark within everyone for divinity," he says.

Through that spark, people can "build their inner selves, something they often don't take the time to do." Birnham realizes the importance of establishing a career and a future but is concerned that we ignore that inner person. The strength and resources are not there when we need them. He hopes to help "fill that ever-present need." One example he offers is the value of the Sabbath, sundown Friday to sundown Saturday. During that day, a Jew can rest and use the opportunity to stop, listen to the world, and reflect.

Birnham was graduated from Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania in 1976 with a bachelor's degree in sociology. Additionally, he spent time touring the United States, including work building shelter cabins on Mt. Rainier for hikers.

Shmuel Birnham will be available every other Wednesday beginning Feb. 4 in the office, Student Center Room 407. For more information, stop by or call 893-5280.

Student dies in tragic accident

By Shawn M. Smith
Staff Writer

Blanton Hall students will hold a memorial service tonight at 10:00 p.m. in the Blanton Hall atrium for a Blanton Hall resident who was killed by an automobile last week.

Patricia Ann McLoughlin of Red Bank, 19, was killed after being struck by a car on Route 35 in Middleton, according to Edward Martin, dean of students at MSC.

The college administration and residents expressed shock about McLoughlin's sudden death. "It is a terrible tragedy when anyone passes away," said Martin, "but to lose someone who was apparently so bright and vivacious only magnifies the heartache we all feel. I'm sure everyone in the college is concerned about her family and her many friends who have been touched by this tragedy."

Martin indicated that McLoughlin was interested in gymnastics and the student council at Middletown High School South. She was an honors student there, and also maintained a grade point average of over 3.0 at MSC.

Leann Tucker, a friend of McLoughlin, said her friends have had a "really bad time this week." She described Patricia as "a really nice lady," "very active," and "spunky."

Tucker said that Patricia's parents have opened a Patty McLoughlin Trust Fund in order to provide a scholarship for a needy high school student. Any student wishing to donate to the Fund can contact Residence Assistant Dawn Van Der Meulen, 5B22, in Blanton Hall or send donations directly to The Patty McLoughlin Trust Fund, 7, Brook Street, Red Bank, NJ 07701.

Prices of SGA pharmacy program increased

By Mike Heelan
Staff Writer

During the first SGA meeting of the spring semester, the legislature approved an increase for prescriptions provided by Singac pharmacy of Little Falls.

Acerra said, “Last fall, the owner of Singac pharmacy ran approximately 300 dollars in the red from dealing with the SGA. This was primarily because of the large number of birth control prescriptions provided at a lower than average cost by the pharmacy to students.”

According to Acerra, “Until now, a set charge was assessed on all prescriptions purchased through the plan. An average of 150 prescriptions per month were filled for birth control last semester. This formed approximately 60 percent of all orders filled.”

The new price effective today is seven dollars for birth control pills and four dollars for most other prescription drugs. For further information, visit the SGA office in the lower level of the Student Center or by calling 893-4202.

A recruitment drive is in progress to raise the number of SGA legislators. According to Acerra, “The student government is very anxious to see a broad representation of the student body sitting on the legislature. I encourage all concerned to attend the open-house and pick up a petition to become a legislator.”

Any student interested may attend the open house on Feb. 2, in ballroom B of the Student Center between 12 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. Another open house will be held on Feb. 3, in Room 413 of the Student Center between 3:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

The free-phone service available from the SGA to the students has been suspended indefinitely stemming from the most recent vandalism of the phones. A study has been initiated to see if it is worthwhile replacing the damaged phones.

More funds allocated for clean up of landfill

By Jane Bech

With a small agenda, the MSC Board of Trustees met for the last time in 1987 on December 10.

For the first time since he was appointed acting president, Dr. Walters’ treatment has been completed and tests will now be performed.

Additional funds for the removal of the landfill located at the Clove Road apartments was approved.

The new marketing campaign, initiated during the fall of 1987 has proved successful. Lynde reported that two highly successful open houses were held during the fall for prospective students and their parents. Attendance was double that of last year’s events.

DROP-IN CENTER
TRAINING SESSION
893-5271

Located between Math/Science and Student Center

Application Deadline: Feb. 5

The Drop-In Center, (an information, referral and peer counseling service) is staffed entirely by student volunteers. The caliber of the services offered to the student body cannot be maintained without you. If you want to help people, learn more about yourself, and do something constructive with your time for 10 hours (min.) a week, this could be the toughest non-paying job you have ever loved. While the training is rigorous and the commitment level high, the experience will be carried throughout your life.

The Drop-In Center is a good place to grow for students of all majors. We will teach you the lost art of listening as you learn by doing.

In-service instruction will include: On-campus referrals, Bus and Rail routing, Psychological referrals, Health referrals, Sexual Health referrals and Publicity.

Registration and counseling needs

Registration. MSC students hear that word and cringe. They've become accustomed to mass confusion, poor organization, and a great amount of time spent waiting for classes that they may or may not get. So many believe it is an unavoidable fact of college life.

Counseling. This word strikes no particular reaction in an MSC student, because many have never been given a good example of what it means. Students know their counselors (if at all) as the people who will sign their registration forms, regardless of the classes they've taken, and without any advice on their choices. This too has been accepted as a fact of college life.

Perhaps we are too parochial on our views on life. Evidence has been observed at other college campuses about their methods of registration. Imagine one displaced student's shock when she found herself on the campus of Syracuse University, one of the east coast's largest institutions, listening to undergraduates describe their computerized registration system. They actually walked into a building and discussed courses with a counselor who then scheduled the courses by computer. The students then walked out a half hour later, schedules in hand!

Of course, Syracuse University is very large. But how does one explain the fact that a smaller college, such as Union County College, has a system where students can actually phone in their schedules? No lines, no hassles.

Here at MSC, we've begun to modernize a bit late. The Student Information System (SIS) was introduced to the registrar's office this past February and will take approximately 18 months to complete. Late registration and add/drop will still be held, and the new system will not guarantee that your entire schedule will be delivered intact. But registration procedures will certainly be more efficient.

Unfortunately, the counseling MSC students receive cannot be replaced through computerization. The fact remains that any student at any college, large or small, is still in need of personal academic guidance. At the late registration for the spring of 1988, those in Panzer gym found that the small circle of counselors in the center were outnumbered by students hired by the registrar's office to work for minimum wage during the three-day session.

It is wonderful that MSC will soon catch up with other educational institutions in registration procedures. However, our counseling system is still the most important factor in registering for new classes.

A dangerous "press-edent?"

Two weeks ago, the Supreme Court handed down its decision in Hazelwood School District v. Kuhlmeier. The Court upheld the authority of the high school's principal to restrict what is printed in the school's public forum for its intended audience. Next Justice White develops a distinction in Tinker.

"Whether a school [must] tolerate particular student speech is different from whether a school [must] affirmatively promote particular student speech." The first refers to "personal expression which happens to occur on school premises," the other to school-sponsored publications.

This second question addresses "publications and activities that [may be] perceived to bear the imprimatur of the school, whether or not [it] occurs in a traditional classroom setting, so long as [it] is supervised by faculty members and designed to impart particular knowledge or skills to student participants and audiences.

The distinction drawn by the Court is perfectly valid. Justice William J. Brennan's dissent that the "Court [never] intimated a distinction between personal and school-sponsored speech in any other context" carries no weight, since the Court often develops distinctions which were not necessarily present earlier.

The majority wants the "educator to assure that the participants learn whatever lessons the activity is designed to teach, that readers are not exposed to material that may be inappropriate for their level of maturity, and [emphasis added] that the views of the individual speaker are not erroneously attributed to the school." This reasoning concludes that the school must be able to "dissociate itself" by simply censoring student-journalists.

The dissenters appropriately counter that "the state educator's mandate to inculcate values is not a general warrant to act as 'thought police' stifling discussion of all but state-approved topics and advocacy of all but the official position.

The balance must be struck between these majority and dissenting views. As the Court noted in Tinker, there are "special characteristics of the school environment." One of the public school's missions is "teaching children to respect the diversity of ideas that is fundamental to the American system. (Tinker) The Supreme Court should be careful not to insulate students from the "real" world even more than presently. Its reasoning in Hazelwood runs that very real and dangerous risk.

Bookstore gets a bad rap

Once again, the spring semester has arrived at MSC. As with the beginning of any semester, it's a time of registration lines, bills, and book-buying.

Book-buying has always been tough—especially when it follows the tuition bill. Every semester, there are the same complaints. Professors request we purchase books that they rarely refer to. Money is spent with the aggravating thought that not even a quarter of it will be refunded at buy-back.

Students make the mistake of blaming the high prices on the College Bookstore, viewing it as a profit-hungry monopoly out to claim the first-born child of each of its customers. Richard Ammerman, manager of the College Bookstore, says this is not the case. The College Bookstore’s mark up follows the national averages of current industry mark ups: 20 to 25 percent.

So what's the story behind the College Bookstore's high prices? "Textbook prices (even for textbooks at wholesale) are literally outrageous," says Ammerman. In the past one and a half years, however, the bookstore has tried to deflect the wholesale prices by selling more used books at reduced prices. There are, according to Ammerman, "Three times the amount of used books being sold this year than last year."

To facilitate the sale of used books, the bookstore has increased its buy-back list, which helps students financially by increasing the amount of books they can sell at buy-back. The buy-back policy, of course, has its drawbacks. Why must students sell books for less than half of what they paid for them? The crucial factor in the amount of money a book will return at buy-back is based on the demand for it. If a professor will request a book for the bookstore's need for it hasn't been filled, then students will receive a 50 percent refund on their purchase. If the book is outdated, or if there is no demand for it, or if the bookstore's stocks have been filled, then the student is at the mercy of the wholesaler's buy-back rate which is significantly lower than the bookstore's.

There are about eight major wholesalers on the market today. If anybody can be branded a greedy monopolizer with an eye for our first-born, they're the ones. The College Bookstore does what it can by selling as many used books as possible. Private owned bookstores were convinced by low prices to put anything lower mark-up percentages. One local bookstore owner said, "It's impossible to make a buck selling books to compare to a college bookstore. The circumstances are completely different—you'd be better off comparing a grocery store to a pet shop." Another owner stated, "I don't have the restrictions placed on me that the bookstore has. I'm my own boss, and I can take cuts that they can't. I also don't have an extraordinary amount of rent to pay like they have."

None of the privately owned bookstores would volunteer information on their mark up averages. "The College Bookstore holds an open door policy, but also asks for students to have questions about policies, all they have to do is ask."

Rob's Remarks...

SGA seeks student input

Let me start by welcoming all of you and transferring out those who have left from what I hope was a very safe and pleasant winter break. For those of you who will be graduating in May I wish you all the best of luck during your final semester.

For those freshmen and transfers out there who have just experienced your first week of good ole Montclair State, I am confident you will enjoy your stay and will take advantage of the finer educations available.

Your Student Government Association (SGA) was hard at work during the winter preparing for what I hope is a very eventful semester. The Spring semester has arrived at MSC and with it new opportunities for serving the campus and a major thrust of the SGA's current recruitment drive.

Become a part of it! Experience the benefits the theme of the recruitment program. The benefits of becoming a legislator are many. A student will be able to gain great leadership and organizational skills which may be put to use when searching for a job. The opportunity for must attend staff meetings and do committee work.

If all this sounds interesting and you wish to learn more about the difference in what goes on at MSC, take time to attend the SGA Open House. Sched­uled for this Tuesday, February 2 at 12:00 noon in the Student Center Ballrooms and Wednes­day, February 3 at 3:00pm in room 413 of the Student Center, this event will provide students with information on all aspects of the SGA.

Rob Acerra
SGA president

SGA seeks student input

The SGA legislature has been decreasing in size for the last several years while the number of issues concerning the students have dramatically increased. The SGA feels confident that with this endorsement the Board of Trustees will unanimously vote in favor of such an increase, thus enabling the SGA to vastly improve the programs and services offered to you.

The SGA fee increase is to help pay for the skyrocketing price of prescriptions. A $3.50 co-pay was all that was previously requested. The new co-pay will amount to $8 each week for all birth control pills and $4.00 for any other prescription.

This is just one reason why the college's top three administrators have endorsed the $1.00 increase in the SGA fee. The SGA feels confident that with this endorsement the Board of Trustees will unanimously vote in favor of such an increase, thus enabling the SGA to vastly improve the programs and services offered to you.

The SGA fee increase is needed improvements carried to the administration your students who made this idea of encouragement were greatly appreciated. Still, it was you the tion who continually supported professors who made an­

The drop-in Center was formed by students in 1970 because of the increasing need for a helpline on campus. At that time, it was only open from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 a.m. Thoughout the years, the center has trained students to become the new staff members responsible for serving the campus community.

On Feb. 7, the Drop-In Center will begin its 18th year of operation. The training period will last two weeks. Students will be introduced to the reflective style of counselling which is an essential part of the Drop-In Center. The training period is intense. Those who adapt to the reflective style of counselling may be invited to join the staff. Once on staff, each member is required to spend a minimum of ten to fifteen hours a week helping out at the center. They must also attend staff meetings and do committee work.

The Drop-In Center helps students about a variety of issues ranging from suicide prevention, sexual assault, human sexuality, relationships, safety on campus and feedback.

Applications can be obtained at the Drop-In Center from now until Feb. 5. Applications, regardless of major, are encour­aged to apply.

Applying to the center indicates that one has a desire to help others. During the training session, we look for a variety of skills and qualities. Through participation in the training session one will learn useful skills and meet interesting people. For more information, contact the center at 893-5271 or stop by for an application.

The Drop-In Center

There is a small yellow building between the Student Center and Richardson Hall that many MSC students aren't aware of. But every MSC student has the opportunity to take advantage of the services offered inside this building.

The Drop-In Center, a pro­gram provided by your SGA, is a peer counselling, information, and referral service that is open 24 hours a day for 365 days a year, during the fall and spring semesters. Out of respect for the students who take advantage of the Drop-In Center, it is a confidential campus facility. The Drop-In offers a wide spectrum of information ranging from drinking and driving to suicide, to health and other related issues. Our motto is "If we can't help you, we know somebody who can."

Moonstruck shines

By Jennifer G. Stelevich
Arts Editor

As the sun sets and the moon reaches its apex of radiance, magic fills the air. This ivory body brightly glows upon the people in its path. So does Norman Jewison's new film, Moonstruck. Shining brightly, the movie entertains with its own warm glow. The characters invite the audience to care for them and join their families. From the kitchen to the living room, the Castorini's welcome the moviegoers to their humble abode.

Cher (Suspect, Mask) stars as widow Loretta Castorini. With a tough drawl and hopeless brown eyes, she portrays a vibrant character. Cher performs marvelously; this is possibly her best film. Her lines are delivered naturally as she reveals the inner depth of her role.

After accepting a marriage proposal from Johnny Cammareri (Danny Aiello), Loretta's father Cosmo (Vincent Gardenia) doesn't approve of her engagement. He predicts she will have bad luck in marriage. Ironically, he is having an affair.

Before the marriage can occur, Johnny must go to Italy to see his dying mother. Loretta and Johnny never marry, since he has a change of heart.

While Johnny is away, Loretta has an affair with his younger brother Ronny (Nicholas Cage). Cage (Peggy Sue Got Married, Valley Girl) plays a mixture of gruffness and sensitivity. His tender performance reveals well-cast abilities. Loretta's mother Rose (Olympia Dukakis) wisely intercepts anecdotes and insults. Maternal wisdom and pasta are definitely her specialties.

The cast is wonderfully directed by Jewison. Each glance and phrase glides rhythmically throughout the film. Jewison allows the characters to breathe. Their emotions appear real and the intimate infatuation is touching.

The symbolic theme of the moon is combined with the love among the many characters. Its brightness gives them hope and revitalizes their lives.

The Castorini family reveals compassion and strong will. The audience can easily recognize aunts and uncles, or even closer relatives, in the lovable characters.

Moonstruck combines happiness and confusion in a well performed film. This movie is a delightful, heart-warming comedy. Leaving the theatre, patrons hummed and sang Amore, the closing tune. Not every film stirs an audience so well. Moonstruck deserves three and one half stars.

In case anyone missed the ACE awards broadcast on HBO Sunday, don't worry—this one was as boring as any other award show except it had no commercials.

Here's a quick rundown of who won: HBO won 15 of the 35 awards presented while A & E earned five to finish second. Showtime grabbed three awards, and Super Station TBS and Disney had two each.

Robin Williams won three awards including Best Comedy Special for Robin Williams—An Evening at the Met.

Speaking of Mr. Williams, I hope everyone caught his appearance on Saturday Night Live. He proved once again that he is the funniest man in America. NBC did receive at least 30 complaints about his “Mr. Happy” joke, but who's counting.

Attention Hollywood Squares fans! The game show will leave the air in September, even though it finished second behind Wheel of Fortune.

Moonlighting fans will be given the chance to see Bruce Willis and Cybill Sheppard in a new way. Their season finale, to be aired in May, will be shot in 3-D.

A new process called Nuoptix will be used for several action shoots on location in the USA network. Enjoy.

Art and reason

When Mark and I decided to spend the weekend at his mother’s house, I never imagined I would be walking into a mouse’s nightmare. There were cats everywhere.

Cat plaques, cat statues, cat clocks, even a cat mat. I couldn’t begin to duplicate her collection of kitty litter if I spent a year at a garage sale. Conspicuously absent, however, was a real cat. Strange, I thought, and began to fear that a weekend with cat woman could be a lot less than purr-fect.

But then she came home, and Mark introduced her. She looked surprisingly well—no leopard pants. In fact, you could say she was the cat’s meow, but I’d rather not.

She offered me a cup of Dutch Chocolate Mint. Now that was something I could relate to. Then she brought it into the most beautiful, distinctly unfeline china I’d ever seen. As we sipped, I found out that Mrs. Campbell has her own weakness for chocolate, loves the theater as much as I do, but, incredibly, never saw “Cats.” So Mark and I are taking her next month.

What's What in MSC sports

Men's Swimming

The 400-meter relay team, consisting of Andy Pecoraro, Bob Bagnato, Mike Pavolony and Karl Angersbach, grabbed a first place finish but the Indians could not overtake five first place berths captured by Glassboro State as the Profs defeated MSC by a score of 104-60.

Pecoraro and Angersbach continued to shine against NY Maritime, as each swimmer captured two victories. Pecoraro won the 1000 and 500 meters freestyles in 10:36.95 and 71.5 respectively, while Angersbach took the 200 meter freestyle in 1:57.21 and the 100 meter freestyle in 52.92.

Women's Swimming

Gail Meneghin walked away with two first place victories against Glassboro State but the Profs accumulated five wins of their own to secure the victory, 97-63. Meneghin was part of a winning 400-meter relay that grabbed first place in a time of 4:22.71. Kim Muller, Tabitha Jacobus and Jackie Press were Meneghin's teammates in the race.

Against Southern Connecticut, Muller, Jacobus, Meneghin and Alycia Witten took first place in the 200-meter medley in a time of 159.7. Witten also won the 100-meter breaststroke in 107.15 while Meneghin took the 200-meter breaststroke in 242.7 and the 200 meter IM in 218.16. The combination of Leslie DeLuca, Kathleen LaRosa, Press and Witten also was victorious, capturing first in the 200-meter free medley in 158.25. The Indians, however, were on the short end of a 129-92 decision.

Wrestling

In a triangular meet at Ithaca, John Kadarsha pinned his opponent at 3:24 of the second period in the 118 pound class to help the Indians to a victory. Jim DeSopo also notched a win in the heavyweight division.

MSC also faced the number one ranked Division III team in the nation in Trenton State and came away with a loss despite strong showings by Pete Gonzalez (134) and Karl Monaco (150), who each pinned their opponents. Mike Massefiski (142) and Pete Georgoutsos (190) both registered decisions for the Indians, who are ranked sixth nationally.

Gymnastics

In a triangular meet at Ursinus University, Carrie Spender took third place in the all-around competition with a 27.2 total, while teammates Valerie Vogler and Danielle Oehlich won the floor exercise and the balance beam respectively. Vogler grabbed an 8.05 on floor, while Oehlich finished with a 7.8 on beam.

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week's issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What is the name given to sports teams at the University of Massachusetts?
2. Who was the only baseball player to be named Most Valuable Player in both major leagues?
3. What NFL team played in the Super Bowl four times but never won?
4. What boxer was known as the Manassa Mauler?
5. What famous 1892 fight was the first world's championship ever settled with gloves?

This week's stumper:

What is former NFL great Sonny Jurgenson's real first name?

Nothing but a heartbreak

Men fall to Kean

By Kenny Peck
Sports Editor

Pressure defense by Kean yielded costly MSC turnovers in the second half, enabling the Cougars to escape Panzer Gym with a 62-58 win in a New Jersey Athletic Conference men's basketball contest last night.

"I'm pleased with the way we played," Indian head coach Ollie Gelston said afterward. "We just played a little panicky when we were pressed."

MSC took a 32-30 lead into the locker room at halftime, and built it into a five point bulge on a Chris Albertson basket 3:09 into the second half. But Kean ran off seven straight points, 60-56, on a Greg Gilmore basket.

MSC's Chris Albertson scores on a layup last night against Kean. The Indians lost, 62-58.

MSC had been down by 10 points, 60-56, on a Greg Gilmore basket.

MSC was able to stay in it, and we could have won it. I just hope we make the playoffs and get another shot at them."

MSC's Kris Augustine made two free throws with seven seconds left to put Kean up by three.

The Indians managed to get off a three-point shot at the buzzer, but freshman Nicky Rhodes narrowly missed as the attempt bounced off the rim.

MSC had been down by 10 twice in the game but fought back gamely each time.

"We played hard," said Indian Head Coach Jill Jeffrey. "We were able to stay in it, and we could have won it. I just hope we make the playoffs and get another shot at them."

MSC fell to 13-6 with the loss.

Cougars outlast women

By Kenny Peck
Sports Editor

The MSC women's basketball team fell to Kean, 69-66, last night in a New Jersey Athletic Conference game in Union.

MSC senior Nancy Phillips scored her 1000th career point on a free throw in the fourth quarter. Phillips finished the game with 21 points.

The Cougars' Kris Augustine made two free throws with seven seconds left to put Kean up by three.

The Indians managed to get off a three-point shot at the buzzer, but freshman Nicky Rhodes narrowly missed as the attempt bounced off the rim.

MSC had been down by 10 twice in the game but fought back gamely each time.

"We played hard," said Indian Head Coach Jill Jeffrey. "We were able to stay in it, and we could have won it. I just hope we make the playoffs and get another shot at them."

MSC fell to 13-6 with the loss.

Three new coaches named by Athletic Dept.

By Sid Banditt
Correspondent

The MSC Athletic Department has recently appointed three new head coaches to fill openings in the lacrosse, baseball, and gymnastic coaching staffs.

Norman Schoenig was named as the new head baseball coach for the 1988 season.

Schoenig is a 1973 graduate of MSC with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Social Studies. He is a former member of the 1972 Indian baseball squad.

He returns to his alma mater after accumulating 14 years of coaching experience on levels varying from grade school to semi-professional.

He began his coaching career at Rockaway Valley School in Boonton, N.J., where he started out as a history teacher, and later went on to become head baseball coach.

Schoenig returned to teach and coach baseball and football at MSC from 1977-83. While at MSC, he led the team to several Division III Regional, State and National Championships.

In 1983, Schoenig left MSC to be the assistant coach at Rutgers University. He helped the team to an NCAA Regional berth as well as number one ranking team defensively in the nation.

Coach Schoenig makes his return to MSC to take charge of former coach Kevin Cooney's 1987 championship team, as Cooney resigned to take over the head coaching job at Florida Atlantic.

Jena Agosta was named the new gymnastics coach for the remainder of the 1988 season.

Agosta is a 1977 graduate of Kean College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Special Education.

She is the former coach of the Valley High School girls gymnastics squad, where she also was a teacher and head cheerleading coach for three years.

Coach Agosta replaces Keith Harris as head coach of the team. Harris was recently relieved of his duties as a result of illness.

MSC welcomes Douglas Al-
