Candidates debate as election nears
By Pasquale DiFulco
Managing Editor

The SGA held a debate Tuesday for candidates seeking office in the upcoming SGA Executive Board elections. Tom Mergola, the sole candidate for SGA President, said in his opening remarks that he "wants to attack more academic issues on campus like the pass/fail option, which we as students let slip right by this year." He supports zero-based budgeting (rather than the current "carryover system") because it alleviates paperwork.

When questioned about the possibility of decreased SGA fee intake, Mergola said that ideally, he "would like more money being spent, but if we don't have the money to continue operating at present standards, unfortunately, the first place to cut funding would be Class One budgets.

Kevin Albero and Matt Mergola, the two candidates for vice president, were asked what they would do if differences of opinion arose between the legislature and the president. Albero said that if a conflict arose between the legislature and the president, "I will support them [the legislature]." Albero said that while he and Mergola got on well, he would be confrontative and would not be a puppet.

Perry Del Vecchio and Mayra Rosa, candidates for treasurer, both agreed with Mergola on the zero-based budget issue. Said Rosa, "It will eliminate headaches."

Del Vecchio felt that "the key to running an effective office is a well-controlled and operated financial system." He also stated that sports clubs "should not be a part of the SGA. They should be a part of the Athletic Department." Rosa said she will "work for and with the students and let them know what is happening to their money.

Rosa did not feel that decreased funds would be a problem, while Del Vecchio stated that he "does not believe we can continue current programming if funds decrease. We would have to condense programming."

Secretary candidates Barbara Gallo and Margaret Cymbala both planned to promote and advertise the SGA. When pressed for specific ways, Gallo said she would "highlight a different service of the SGA in the Montclarion weekly, distribute service flyers in the bookstore, and create an SGA address book."

Cymbala said as editor of Student Voice (a student newsletter), she would create "a higher visibility for the SGA. I would also conduct surveys of freshman and transfers to see what the campus wants and needs. I would also like to make SGA agendas available before meetings."

Board of Trustees Alternate candidates Daniel Forte and Mary Jane Linnehan were asked how they would act if the SGA fee increase is denied by the Board of Trustees at their May meeting.

Forte said that if it was not voted down by the Board of Trustees, he would "go back to the SGA, reorganize and re-present the case for the increase." Linnehan said she would try again, and "perhaps decrease the increase, ask for less."

Counseling system: sorting between the good and bad
By Margaret Cymbala
Correspondent

At registration time for Fall classes draws near, students start thinking about visiting their advisors. Based on reports received from students, some feel that contacting their advisor is a waste of time. Students advisors sometimes appear apathetic, uninformed or do not appear for posted office hours according to students.

Marc Schaeffer, the current director of academic advising, acknowledges that the present system has its flaws, but he feels that students must play a greater role in the advising process. Academic advising must be a combined effort between the students and the advisor; if one of these parties is unwilling to co-operate, then the system fails.

Advising is more than getting a course request sheet signed at registration time. "The signature on the course request sheet marks the culmination of the advising process," according to Schaeffer.

Assigned advisors can be sought out during the semester for questions about GER's or major requirements that have to be taken.

Schaeffer urges students to closely examine the sections in both the course booklet and college catalog which list each GER area and which courses satisfy requirements to make the counseling process run smoother.

Curriculum guide sheets are available to students at the department offices. The guide sheet lists the courses which satisfy the major requirements and GER's.

The student has the right to another advisor if all efforts to work with the advisor assigned to him/her have been frustrated.

Schaeffer suggests that the student have the advisor fill out the worksheet provided in the curriculum guide sheet, specifying which requirement each course satisfies or if it is to be taken as an elective.

Schaeffer noted that students may choose a course assuming that it fulfills a certain requirement while the advisor assumes it is being taken as an elective.

He also emphasized the invaluable necessity of communication between students and their advisors; students must tell what they want and expect from the advisor before any communication can take place. He also stressed the importance of communication between the student and the advisor.

To be designated a new advisor students must contact the department's faculty coordinator. If the faculty coordinator is the advisor in question, the request must be routed through the department chairperson.

If a student feels that the advice given by a counselor was totally misleading and an unnecessary course taken as a result, a credit adjustment will be considered as long as the student is able to provide documentation that the advisor had wrongly advised the student.

Schaeffer noted that students may choose a course assuming that it fulfills a certain requirement while the advisor assumes it is being taken as an elective.

He also emphasized the invaluable necessity of communication between students and their advisors; students must tell what they want and expect from the advisor before any communication can take place. He also stressed the importance of communication between the student and the advisor.

For those students who are undecided about what to major in, the academic advising center has professionally trained staff to work with students until they have decided upon a major.

Class I renewals begin

By Mike Heelan
Staff Writer

The process for Class I charter renewals and budgets for the next school year have commenced. All budgets that have been passed are tentative upon the approval of an SGA fee increase by the MSC Board of Trustees at its April 7 meeting.

A class I charter was granted to Quarterly for the 1988-89 school year. Quarterly is responsible for printing Four Walls, an annual literary magazine of prose, poetry, art and photos submitted by students.

A question was raised concerning whether the Drop-In Center would be able to operate better as a Class I organization instead of an SGA service. All Class I's are approved as a budget which is independent of the SGA operations budget. However, the Drop-In Center is under direct SGA operations because of necessary restrictions on membership which are not allowed in Class I constitutions.

The restrictions are related to the sensitive nature of the work.

The Legislature passed a class IV charter to the Phi Delta Psi co-ed fraternity for the 1988-90 school years. The bill which initially failed was passed on a reconsideration vote. Although a "fraternity" has no formal definition, it is being described as a mix between a sorority and a fraternity.

The Legislature approved $1500 from the Montclair Transportation Authority (MTA) for the International Student Organization, a Class IV charter for the Student Organization, a Class II charter for the Student Government Association (SGA). The money will be used for a trip to Boston between April 15-17.

The Legislature also granted $1400 from the MTA to the Political Science, Paralegal, and History Clubs. The money is being used for a jointly sponsored trip to Washington D.C. for the weekend of April 15-17. They will sit in on a session of Congress, visit the Library of Congress, and tour the nation's capital. Any students interested in either trip should contact the SGA at 893-4202 or stop by the office in the Student Center Annex.

Correction

In the March 3 issue of The Montclarion a picture of a Pepsi vending machine was displayed with an erroneous caption. The Montclarion would like to clarify that new Pepsi and Coke machines were installed in selected areas on campus and not all over campus as the caption said. The installation was done by the Faculty Student Co-op and not the Faculty Senate as stated by the caption.
I am running for President of the Student Government Association because I see the opportunity to enhance an already recognized body representing the students of Montclair State College. The SGA's opportunities for growth are boundless and I feel that as president, I could better facilitate that growth. I believe in the motto, "Students Serving Students", and that's exactly what I intend to do. Simply stated, I CARE and I CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE!

MATT GUBALA
A member of the campus Welfare and Internal Affairs committee that lobbied for improvements in the shuttle service and campus escort system. Chairperson of the Constitutional Review committee which evaluates and recommends chartered organizations to the SGA legislature. Vice President and President of the Human Relations Organization, an organization that deals with running meetings and group process, President Pro-Tempore- the captain of the legislature and liaison between the legislature and the Executive Board. Sponsor of the "Vote Yes" campaign which encouraged students to use their student money for student services. 4 semesters experience as a member of the SGA legislator which provided a working knowledge of Robert's Rules of Order and SGA Policy.

KEVIN ALBERO
I believe that through the power of my position I can articulate the needs of the students as I understand them, and I can do this by keeping in close contact with the students. Among the things I would try to do as a Vice President would be to promote a better understanding of the Constitution, to help prevent the administrative staff from overstepping its boundaries and making sure the students get better use of their funds. My decisions to articulate the students needs would be more on the liberal side. I also want to get students to help Friend Advocate in Montclair. This organization has projects that I will try and get students to help with is the Food Co-op in Newark. They distribute food to the needy.

MAYRA ROSA
I am running for SGA Treasurer because of my qualifications and my interest to work for and with students. As SGA Treasurer, I will continue fostering SGA's motto of "Students Serving Students" by Student Organizations, and most importantly, SGA itself. I was appointed as a student member of the Finance Committee, which is in charge of the Finance Committee, which reviews all budgets and appropriations. I am also a member of the Government and Administration Committee, which reviews all the financial policies of the SGA. I also serve on the Appropriations Committee that reviews all budgets and appropriations. As Treasurer, I feel that I can protect the trust and money the students place in the SGA.

MARY JANE LINNEHAN
As a student of MSC I would like to take advantage of the opportunities available to me. As a result of becoming a member of the Drop-In-Center and the SGA, I have become aware of the many services and activities available to students of MSC, as well as the community. My campus involvement, however, informed me of the students' concerns and hopes for the future. With several years experience ahead of me as a student at MSC, I will put forth my best effort to see that the many positive aspects of the college are continued, and that student, faculty, and administration concerns are addressed, hopefully catalyzing change if need be. In fulfilling the position as the student alternate to the Board of Trustees, I would make a sincere effort to hear the student's voice, and be an objective liaison between the campus community and administration.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"Our Victory does not lie in our seeing imperfections, but in not consenting to them."

Francis de Sales

When I was a student, I not only didn't like "spring breaks," I didn't like school either. If I had a good vacation, I didn't want to come back to school. I would spend the next two weeks wishing I was somewhere else. You can guess what happened to my grades. By letting my mind wander, I cheated myself out of learning and grades. I was capable of. I have gotten better, but if it still wasn't a problem for me, I wouldn't be writing this now.

What is true on the physical plane is also true on the spiritual plane. In the 16th century, John of the Cross wrote:

"The soul that is attached to anything, however much good there may be in it, will not arrive at the liberty of divine union. For whether it be a strong wire, a rope or a slender and delicate thread that holds the bird, it matters not, if it really holds fast, for, until the cord is broken, the bird cannot fly. So the soul, held by the bonds of human affections, however slight they may be, cannot, while they last, make its way to God.

As you finish your spring semester, give your attention to your studies, but attach your soul to something higher.

Montclarion endorses exec. SGA candidates

Each year, before SGA elections, The Montclarion editorial staff endorses the candidates running for positions on the SGA executive board. This year, with only one position left uncontested—that of the SGA president—the editors debated on the advantages and drawbacks of each candidate.

For the student alternate of the Board of Trustees, Daniel Forte has our support. He seems to be better grounded in his vision, whereas Mary Jane Linnehan was unfocused and lacked clarity.

Margaret Cymbala is tailor-made for the position of secretary. She does not appeal at all to the staff. Cast our vote as "none of the above."

This takes us to the one uncontested position on the ballot: president. We know Tommy Mergola as a fellow organization leader—the man who pulled Quarterly back to its feet and fought tooth-and-nail for something he believes in. Tommy gets our support; he well deserves it.

Now, all that’s left is for students to VOTE. It only takes a minute and it can make the difference in issues that will affect you next semester.

Refugee camps: Palestine in exile

BAQAA, Jordan—The woman is old, stunted—a rutted face, shaking hands and an eye that keeps closing on her. She is bare of furniture, her husband dead, her prospects of permanent exile almost certain and yet age has granted her a luxury almost unheard in a Palestinian refugee camp: a room of her own.

Across the small courtyard, nine members of the old woman’s family live in one room. Next door is a family of 18. They have three rooms and this is how they live: eight in one room, six in another and four in the last. Bedding is piled in the corner, taken down at night and spread on the cement floor. Everyone—parents, children and grandparents—sleep together.

This is Baqaa, a Palestinian refugee camp on the outskirts of Amman. Some 70,000 people live here—probably more, but no one knows for sure. The streets are unpaved, bustling with people, carts, donkeys, herds of goats, children going to school and from school, merchants, the idle and, of course, the Jordanian police—both uniformed and secret—who watch their “Palestinian brethren” to keep them from leaving Baqaa (and Palestinians don’t), King Hussein runs a police state.

On this day it is raining. It has rained much this year—precious water for this arid region. But in the camps, the water is no boon. The streets are puddled and muddy, slippery to the foot, fetid to the nose. Homes are damp and chilly and the long dresses of women have a hem of caked mud.

This camp, these people, are the underclass of the Palestinian Diaspora. In the West Bank, about half of all Palestinians live in camps much like this one. The inhabitants stay (and suffer) because they remain what they always were: poor. Many of them were once farmers, but neither here nor on the West Bank is land available for farming. Few things are sadder or more hapless than a farmer without his land.

But some Palestinians still in camps because they prefer to, because a camp is Palestine in exile—a village transplanted from lovely Galilee to harsh Jordan. Ask someone where they are from and—no matter how lengthy their exile or even if they were born in Jordan—they will name a place in Israel; I am from Jerusalem. I am from Jaffa. I am from Jericho.

The camps are a new element in the age-old Arab-Israeli struggle. As one Palestinian intellectual pointed out, for once Palestinian leadership on the West Bank has not come from the "petty bourgeoisie"—sons of the middle class. This time, it was the camps that erupted. It is the impoverished who taunt the army. It is the underclass who die.

To Mohamed Milhem, a member of the PLO executive committee and a former West Bank mayor deported by Israel in 1980, everything has changed in the last three months. The Arab world, particularly the Palestinians, are stirring and moderate (he counts himself as one) are losing ground. Television pictures from the West Bank—the beatings, the stonings—have roused Palestinians everywhere. But these are Israelis. Look what they are doing to our children. The Israelis asked for it. And one holy man, a sheik, reached into theJordan for the sleeping passages—one to condemn the slaughter of the innocent. Milhem shrugged. He does not know if such passages exist.

Time is running out, Milhem says. “The spark” of the West Bank and Gaza disturbances will eventually inflame the entire Middle East: “There is no escape. Whether the Arab regimes like it or not, they will have to face the Palestinian people.”

Mere rhetoric? Who knows. Western analysts here such talk with a grain of salt. The situation is well in hand, they say. The Arab countries, particularly Jordan, can contain their Palestinians and, in due course, Israel will subdue the disturbances. Yet PLO officials, Palestinian intellectuals and Western experts find themselves in the same analytical bed: Israel is in an untenable position. Sooner or later, Palestinians will revert again.

Meanwhile in Baqaa, the rain persists and mud oozes underfoot. Residents sleep eight or nine to a room and yet produce a birth rate that’s the second highest in the world. The misery of the camps is cut only by the dream of “the return.” For more than a millennium, it sustained Jews in their Diaspora (“If I forget thee, Jerusalem...”) and now it sustains Palestinians in theirs.

The old woman, one eye closing, has difficulty seeing. But not at night. Then both eyes closed, she can see all the way to Palestine.

In the March 3 edition of The Montclarion, it was erroneously stated in Mr. Mark Schaeffer’s letter to the editor, “Students admitted as freshmen for fall 1985 or thereafter...”. The statement should have read, “Students admitted as freshmen for fall 1983 or thereafter and transfer students admitted for fall 1985 or thereafter...”. The Montclarion regrets any confusion this error may have caused.

Academy awaits Oscars ceremony

By Tony Bavaro
Correspondent

The following is the second part of a two-part series looking ahead to the Oscars.

In the Best Director's category, this is the first award ceremony in Academy history where no American director was recognized. The Italian director Bernardo Bertolucci is the winner of the award wrapped up for Last Emperor, Norman Jewison, nominated for Moonstruck, may also have a shot.

Most of the production awards, it appears, will go to the epic about imperial China The Last Emperor, including the award for best cinematography, which will probably go to Vittorio Storaro. The film will probably receive the awards for costume design and art direction also.

Empire of the Sun, although praised by critics, was not included in the Best Director and Best Director categories, received several production nominations, including best cinematography, art direction and costume design. But the Academy's seemingly biased position against Spielberg may keep the film from receiving any awards at all.

In the Best Song category, the award will probably go to either "The Time of My Life" from Dirty Dancing, or "Nothing's Gonna Stop Us Now" from what may have been the flop of the year, Mannequin.

The supporting role categories are, as usual, rather wide open. In these categories especially, the Academy throws out an open term of "best," and chooses instead sentimental favorites and old stand-bys.

This year, the performer who is perhaps most deserving of a supporting role award is Morgan Freeman, nominated as Best Supporting Actor for his role as "Street Smarts," a performer for which he has already won several awards.

Of course, the Academy may feel the need to give the supporting role award to Vincent Gardenia, a likeable character actor who has been nominated in the past, or perhaps even to Sean Connery, a veteran film performer who has never been nominated before and who, this year, conducted an aggressive campaign in the Hollywood trade papers to gain himself a nomination. Gardenia and Connery have been nominated for Moonstruck and The Untouchables, respectively.

The actress who has the best chance of winning the award in the supporting role category is Olympia Dukakis, for her role as Cher's wisecracking mother in Moonstruck. Already the recipient of the Golden Globe and L.A. Film Critic's awards, Dukakis is thought to be the leading contender in her category.

Still, there is the chance that the Academy will toss the award to Ann Sothern, '76, for her first nominated role in The Whales of August. The big surprise in the supporting role category was the nomination of Anne Ramsey for her role as the impossible mother in the smashed comedy Throw Momma From the Train.

Regardless of the eventual outcome of the awards, perhaps the best way to approach them is in a half-serious, fun-loving fashion. When the awards ceremony opens on April 11th, no doubt we will have the chance to delight in their usual tackiness, or to yawn loudly during the long dry spell before the show approach. Thus, the Academy seems to be fighting the ceremonies, in which no one is sure what to do next and we get several seconds of quiet emptiness.

Approaching the awards, broadcast in a serio-comic manner may be the only way to truly enjoy it. Not taking the ultimate decisions of the Academy too seriously is also a good rule of thumb. This is, we must remember, the same group of voters who gave best picture awards to The Greatest Show on Earth and a Best Actor award to Richard Burton for Cleopatra.

These are the same people who would have you believe that, in 1960, John Wayne's flea bitten, dull epic The Alamo was more worthy of a picture nomination than Psycho, Exodus, or Inherit the Wind.

Certainly, time has taught us that the Academy not only can, but definitely will, make ridiculous errors in the selection of its winners. The Academy serves only to hurt its own reputation through such mediocre choices. The reputations of Greta Garbo, King Vidor and Alfred Hitchcock have not been hurt by the fact that they never received an Oscar.

In spite of the silliness of Academy choices and the even sillier quality of the ceremonies, there is hardly a critic who would pass up the chance to watch one of the awards shows. Given annually, the awards ceremonies have become a part of life in the spring. The fact that this year's awards will give us no more reason to have faith in the Academy's choice of winners than the previous awards ceremonies have will probably not deter people from watching them. Who knows, there's always hope.

A hearty hello fellow T.V. viewers! America's Most Wanted, the two month old show that recreates unsolved crimes then offers viewers a chance to help by offering an 800 number, has helped in arresting some really dangerous criminals. Recently apprehended were four brutal rapists and murderers. One in fact was one the F.B.I.'s 10 most wanted list.

For instance, Donald Adams, a convicted rapist who was released from a Massachusetts prison because of an error in the administration, was caught only a few days after the show he appeared on was aired.

The show is hosted by John Walsh, whose own son was kidnapped and murdered. America's Most Wanted has been drawing very high ratings and can be seen Sundays on Fox.

And while we're on the subject of crime- Michael Pitts was arrested after an appearance on Mr. Ed, and was charged with kidnapping and murder. Geraldo, Pitts, a homeless man, was arrested after he was identified by a Virginia hair salon owner who claimed her husband robbed his salon.

Pitts phoned the Geraldo show this week from Rikers Island, where he is being held awaiting extradition back to 'ol Virginia. Pitts claims he was not in Virginia at the time and questions how he could be identified since according to police reports on Mr. Ed, the suspects were wearing ski masks. Pitts is not about to fight the extradition since he is confident that he will be exonerated when it comes to trial.

ABC is having a bit of difficulty trying to produce the Baby Jessica Story because of an on-going war in Texas over "Baby Jessica Story," in which no one is sure what the show will do next and we get several seconds of quiet emptiness.

During those moments when the music stopped, lively dialogue took over and many aspects of human existence were explored. Such notions as faith, generosity, betrayal, arrogance, and religious persecution did much to set the old noodle thinking. It was enough to draw even the most jaded emotions and one's intellect.

Besides great music and profound themes, there was the eyetestsaving display of light thanks to the creativity of Lighting Designer Jeff Davis. This is not to mention the different sets used as the play took everyone by storm.

Jesus Christ Superstar is an absolute must to see. It is an extraordinary display of light, with the precision and coordination, the diverse themes presented, and the artistic talent set designs, Jesus Christ Superstar proudly earns four stars.
Biloxi on screen a hit for Simon

By Jennifer G. Stelvich

As Eugene, Broderick whines effectively and performs his part with the grace he revealed as the stage character. His metered comedy is well delivered and not forced. Broderick brings to life the magic of Simon’s script and is outstanding.

Director Mike Nichols has taken Simon’s play and flawlessly transformed it in the movie theatre. Opening and closing the film as the recruits’ train passes through fog and new lands is a wonderful passage of time and location. Abstractions such as this and hikes through swamps genuinely develop the marvelous script and actors.

The basic training segments do not rely on slapstick comedy like Stripes. It is a humorous account of Simon’s experiences in the army. From the mess hall to push-ups and to Eugene’s first love, Biloxi Blues supplies the viewer with a realistic picture of a young man struggling emotionally, mentally and physically.

With its sentimentality and rousing one-liners, Biloxi Blues is definitely a hit. Simon’s dialogue, fine performances and good directing win the movie three and three quarter stars.

In the 1960's an actor-director went looking for America—and created a new kind of film. The man was Dennis Hopper. Easy Rider was the film that defined an era.

As an actor and director, he has always gone to the edge, taking us places we'd never seen before. Easy Rider, Blue Velvet, River's Edge. Now, in 1988, he finds director Dennis Hopper in the streets of Los Angeles, in a war zone where gang members and innocent people alike are killed over territorial emblems of red and blue. Over COLORS.

And again, he takes us places we've never seen before with the first realistic motion picture about the war against street gangs.

To do it he has brought together an extraordinary cast and crew. All of them sharing a fierce devotion to the director's vision. And leading the cast, two motion picture actors of unparalleled intensity—Sean Penn and Robert Duvall.

When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college. They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for a little pay.

But I joined the Army National Guard. And I'm earning $18,000 by working just 2 days a month and 2 weeks a year. I got a $2,000 cash bonus when I finished my advanced technical training, and I'm getting $5,000 in educational benefits, thanks to the New GI Bill. Over 6 years, I'll earn a minimum salary of $11,000. It all adds up to $18,000 that I can put toward college.

And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

ART AND REASON
When Mark and I decided to spend the weekend at his mother's house, I never imagined I would be walking into a mouse's nightmare. There were cats everywhere.

Cat plaques, cat statues, cat clocks, even a cat mat. I couldn't begin to duplicate her collection of kitty litter if I spent a year at a garage sale. Conspicuously absent, however, was a real cat. Strange, I thought, and began to fear that a weekend with cat woman could be a lot less than purr-fect.

But then she came home, and Mark introduced her. She was dressed surprisingly well—no leopard pants. In fact, you could say she was the cat's meow, but I'd rather not.

She offered me a cup of Dutch Chocolate Mint. Now that was something I could relate to. Then she brought it out in the most beautiful, distinctly unfeline china I'd ever seen. As we sipped, I found out that Mrs. Campbell has my same weakness for chocolate, loves the theater as much as I do, but, incredibly, never saw "Cats." So Mark and I are taking her next month.

KU was OK
Danny Manning led Kansas University (KU) to an 83-79 victory over Oklahoma Monday night in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship game. But before KU is remembered as a one-man team, let's look more deeply into the contest.

Chris Piper, who unlike Manning will not pursue a career in basketball, was the Jayhawks' key player defensively, doing a fine job on the Sooners' dynamic duo of Stacey King and Harvey Grant.

Milt Newton was a perfect six-for-six from the field for Kansas, while point guard Kevin Pritchard added 13 points in a solid performance.

Of course, KU had some help. Oklahoma scored only 29 second half points after the first half found the teams knotted at 50 apiece.

Maybe that was due to the fact that the Jayhawks were able to slow the tempo down, thus taking the Sooners out of their game. Or maybe it was due to the Sooners' cold shooting down the stretch. Whatever the reason, the Jayhawks should be remembered not as the Danny Manning Show, or the championship team with the most losses, but simply as the best team of 1987-88.

Devil 'dogs
The underdog Devils went into the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs last night with upset on their minds. This despite the fact that they haven't won at the Nassau Coliseum since late 1984. But they didn't have goaltender Sean Burke back then, and they feel he may be the difference. He certainly was in New Jersey's late season drive for a playoff spot.

The team has been playing extremely well, as it seems they feel unbeatable with the rookie in goal. Mentally, this team is at its peak, and they're playing with confidence for the first time in a long time. Though a die-hard Ranger fan (and yes, I died pretty hard Sunday night), I feel compelled to root for the Devils (probably because they're playing the Isles.)

At the Meadowlands BJ's Boardwalk went first over and won for fun the other night. George's Joy would have won Tuesday with a better trip. Call For Rain will be chalk, but he was great Saturday night.

Last week's selections: LD's Mark won, paying $54.00; Tiger Blue Chip was fourth; New Issue was fourth.

Monmouth 15-MSC 9

Monmouth erupted for seven runs in the fifth inning enroute to a 15-9 win over MSC yesterday at Pittser Field.

The Indians found themselves in a hole early in the game as Monmouth's Dino D'Ambrisco walked and scored on an RBI single by Mike Haber.

MSC tied it in the second on a walk to junior John Deutsch, a single by centerfielder Leroy Horn and a sacrifice fly by catcher Mike Dixon.

A big third inning by Monmouth spelled the end for Indian starter Fran Gallagher, as five runs crossed the plate.

The Indians responded in their half of the third with four runs of their own. Singles by Rich Preziotti and Tim North and run-scoring singles by junior John McClain, Deutsch and freshman Troy Bowers cut the MSC deficit to 6-5.

The eight-run fifth, however, capped off by back-to-back RBI doubles by Monmouth's Charlie Forsyth and Joe Errico, gave the Gulls a 14-5 advantage.

MSC vainly attempted to come back with a pair of runs in both the fifth and sixth, with Preziotti and Deutsch driving in all four runs. But the Indians were unable to overcome the huge Monmouth lead.

The Indians fell to 9-7 with the loss, while Monmouth improved to 6-8.

St. Joseph's 6-MSC 2

St. Joseph's took a 5-0 lead and held on for a 6-2 win Tuesday at Pittser Field.

Consecutive singles in the second gave St. Joseph's a 2-0 lead, and back-to-back doubles in the sixth inning made it 5-0.

MSC climbed back into it with two in the seventh, courtesy of RBI singles by Tim North and Steve Pizza. But the Indians were held scoreless the rest of the way.

Wayne Masters took the loss for MSC.
