A female reported she was attacked by two males in the area between the Drop-in-center and the Student center. The incident occurred on May 2 at 8:30 p.m.

The female was allegedly grabbed from behind and an attempt was made to kiss her. She maced both of them and was able to escape.

A student claimed she was harassed by four white males driving in a Lincoln Continental. They allegedly shouted obscenities at her. The four were later identified and charges are pending. The incident occurred on April 26.

A resident in one of the dorms complained that she was being harassed by a guest of another resident on April 29. No complaint has been signed at this time but the matter is being handled by the administration.

A female resident claimed that she was being harassed with anonymous phone calls, pizzas she did not order and false letters, claiming to be from the administration. The matter is under investigation. The complaint was made on April 29.

A male who would not leave a residents room was escorted out of the residence hall. He was apparently the residents ex-boyfriend. He was advised not to return. The incident occurred at 11 p.m. on May 1.

Bohn hall received a bomb threat at 11:52 p.m. on April 26. The building was evacuated and searched. Nothing was found.

Blanton hall received a bomb threat on April 27 at 3:24 a.m. The building was searched and evacuated; nothing was found.

A 1985 Toyota Corolla was stolen from lot 25 between 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. on April 28 in lot 22.

Blanton hall received a bomb threat at 11:11 a.m. on April 28. The building was evacuated and searched. Nothing was found.

WCSA charter fails

By Mike Heelan
Staff Writer

The SGA legislature continued to question the Class I charter and budget approval process for the 1988-89 academic year.

The SGA legislature approved a class I charter to Class One Concerts for next school year. CIC is an organization dedicated to providing music concerts for students.

The legislature granted operating budgets for the 1988-89 fiscal school year to CIC, BSCU and La Campana. All of these budgets passed represent an increase from the current academic year.

The SGA defeated a bill that would make the Weekend College Student Association a class I chartered organization. WCSA is an organization involved in weekend student-related activities.

A question was raised concerning WCSA's membership; legislators questioned if the organization represented all students. Another legislator said that WCSA conducts its general membership meetings in Spanish.

A few legislators alleged the WSCA has co-ordinated their activities too closely with those of the LASO.

Hector Marcano, treasurer of Weekend College, responding to the allegations, stated that all meetings are conducted in both Spanish and English when necessary.

Marcano said that by WSCA being a Class I organization it would financially be able to expand programming to a larger cross-section of students.

A motion may be made at next week's meeting to consider Weekend College for a Class II charter.

The legislature approved Class II charters for the Linguistics club, Arab club and the Math club for the 1988-90 school years.

A Class III charter was granted to both Phi Sigma Sigma and Lambda Tau Omega for the 1988-90 academic year.

The legislature passed a Class IV charter to Alpha Kappa Alpha for the 1988-89 school year.

When Harris was in college, he viewed MSC as an institution that related to urban problems. Dr. Frank Cordasco and Dr. George King were particularly creative and got funds for programs to address urban problems," he said.

But Dean Harris is discontented with some aspects of MSC today. "In the absence of pressure from students, there is relaxed attention to problems," he said.

"Institutions are influenced by their leadership. When Dr. Thomas Richardson was president in 1975, there was an 'open door' policy. Now people are sent back through the administration. There is strict adherence to the organizational structure which frustrates creative people," he said.

With all of his gripes though, Dean Harris has quite a bit of praise for MSC. "Residence Life," he noted, "used to be a hotbed of racial confrontation. Now, it's a very integrated program." He also said that "affirmative action has been instrumental in bringing awareness to a greater extent here (than at other colleges)."

Our administration recognizes that students shouldn't have to fight to exist." He particularly prides himself on the successful new student orientation, of which he is an integral part.

Although Harris hinted that he "may have overstayed my time" at MSC, he loves it because "the students make all the difference in the world," he said.

He is not sure what he will do when he does leave MSC. "If I stay in the college atmosphere, I'll be the president of a college; if I go into public administration, I'll be the head of some department where I can influence policy. There are a whole lot of folks running things with very little creativity," he observed.

Whatever he does, you can bet "I'll be president," Dean Harris laughed.

Dean Harris will be honored at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 7 in the Student Center ballrooms by the Black Alumni Association, the Black Student Cooperative Union and the Association of Black Faculty and Staff. All are invited to attend.

Dealing with drugs today; it’s causes and effects

In today’s drug oriented society it is nearly impossible to get away from drugs. Most people start their day out with them – a cup of coffee or a cigarette.

Throughout the day we continually put drugs into our systems, whether it is a capsule to relieve a cold or a beer at the end of the day.

Since we can not get away from drugs, we can not get away from their abuse.

Drug abuse is the use of drugs for non-medical purposes which results in impaired physical, mental, emotional or social well-being.

Abuse is best described in terms of what drug is used, how often and how much of it is used.

Narcotics, sedatives, alcohol, tobacco, stimulants, marijuana, inhalants and hallucinogens are the major drugs abused.

There are various reasons why people abuse these substances. Some use it as an escape from problems or uncontrollable and upsetting situations, while others abuse it to enjoy the drug effects.

The effects of drugs on the user are well known; cancer, liver disease, depression, inability to function normally, memory loss and death are a few among many.

However, the user is not the only one effected. Alcohol for example is known as a “family disease” because it is as damaging to the family as it is to the alcoholic.

The statistics for users of individual drugs are hard to calculate. However with alcohol, it is estimated that there are ten million people suffering from the disease in the U.S. New Jersey alone has more than half a million alcoholics.

Mental health centers, clinics, schools and hospitals across the country are filled with people trying to combat their addiction.

Treatment for users include drug-free or methadone maintenance approaches in residential or outpatient facilities.

Rehabilitation services such as counseling and job training are also available. Support provided by self-help groups such as Alcohols Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous are also an important part of recovery.

According to the National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information, telephone hot lines are often the first source of advice and information.

The Drop-in center, a student run organization located between Richardson Hall and the Student Center, has extensive files on all types of drugs and their effects.

The Drop—in center can also offer telephone numbers of drug hotlines as well as treatment centers for both users and their friends and family.

The staff is also trained in counseling. These services are free and most importantly confidential.

If you think you might have a drinking or drug problem, or if you know someone who does, the Drop-In Center is there 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Call 893-5271 or drop in. The Drop-In Center is a service of the SGA.

Points of campus interest

Next Thursday, the Board of Trustees will hold their final meeting of this academic year. An issue of campus-wide importance is on the agenda: the question of the selection of a permanent college president. MSC has been without a permanent college president for about eight months, when President Donald Walters became ill with a brain lesion. Instead, Richard Lynde, formerly vice president for academic affairs, has been named acting president in his absence.

Asked about what he thinks the outcome of the Board meeting might be, Edward Martin, dean of students, could not comment on the possibility of a replacement for Walters. He did remark on Walters' policies and standards that he feels have benefited our campus by attracting more applicants to our college, even though the applicant pool itself is becoming smaller.

This may be very true. Walters has instituted many practices and programs intended to benefit the college and its enrollment. But all of Walters' improvements could be negated by further delay on the Board's decision. After all, how attractive is a college without a permanent president?

In other areas of campus interest, The Montclarion has completed its editorial elections. In the first issue of the fall 1988 semester, you can expect to see the following names in The Montclarion press box:

Editor-in-Chief...Jennifer G. Stelwich
Managing Editor...Kenny Peck
Artistic Director...Jennifer G. Stelwich
Assignment Editor...Jan Bech Nielsen
News Ed...Ray Ecke
Copy Ed...Dave Gagne

The Montclarion would like to apologize for misinformation printed in last week's editorial. It was written, "We all know of Lee Iaccoca, who didn't have a college degree in business or otherwise." Lee Iaccoca does in fact have a B.S. in engineering and an M.E. from Princeton University.

Don't keep the help in the dark

WASHINGTON—Years ago, a woman of my acquaintance told me two rules of life that I have found to be true. One is that you must treat children and household help the same. Never tell them your plans lest they worry, fret and make things difficult for you. That woman could be President of the United States.

And when it comes to children, we know something about President Reagan as father but not enough to say whether he was good at telling his kids his plans for the future. Other rules, though, the story is different. Reagan has threatened to veto a mammoth trade bill (three years in the making) because, among other things, it contains a provision compelling large firms to give workers 60 days' notice before plant closings.

This innocuous provision, already incorporated in some union-management contracts (rubber and auto workers, for instance), has economic conservatives in a dither. They say it will cost money. It will, but so does the eight-hour day, child-labor laws, the minimum wage, health plans and even washrooms. In the ringing words of the Chamber of Commerce, the provision would force the company to "behave as management's hands behind its back." It might—and that's the whole idea. In fact, in this case, it's time it was done.

Both the President and the Republican Party would be wise to wake up and smell the coffee. In this case, the cup of java is called the Jackson campaign. One element in its surprising, although idea. In fact, in this case, it's time it was done.

Human relations must overcome prejudice

On Friday, April 31, I had the distinct pleasure of attending a conference on human relations leadership at Rutgers University entitled “Human Relations on New Jersey Campuses: Strengthening the Colleague Experience.” As guests of Acting President Richard Lynde, Montclair State had a delegation of five people representing various groups on campus.

The conference attempted to bring together New Jersey’s sixty institutions of higher education together to address the concerns of racism, sexism, religious and ethnic attacks and homophobia.

I left the day long conference with a feeling of exhilaration, a feeling that I was going to return to MSC and begin to improve what I had left behind. But then I began to think. What was it that I had learned? Why was it that I was going to do to better the human relations at MSC? I was not going to come back to MSC and administrate the racial issues. I knew I was not going to single-handedly remove the segregation in our cafeterias or make Thurney a multicultural evening. I was not going to increase the number of minority faculty on campus or establish a multicultural foundation in all courses. I was not going to establish a campus-wide human relations mission statement or be able to devote 1% of the college’s yearly budget to human relations.

No, I was definitely not going to do it alone. As the conference’s keynote speaker, the Honorable Mayor Henry Cisneros of San Antonio proclaimed, “The leaders of our campuses must develop themes around which the campus should rally around.”

Cisneros insisted, “It is up to the president of each institution to begin putting a stop to racial issues. The purpose is to educate the entire campus.” The leaders on those who attended the conference. The meeting centered around the racial issues which are present on our campus. As an institution, we were planning to address these issues.

Many of us pointed out the progress which has been made over the past several years. Everyone agreed the Residence Life program was a prime example of what needs to be done. In the field of education, the mentoring and the simple yet constructive interaction amongst the students and professionals have proven incredibly successful.

Now we pose the question: How do we take a model such as this one and expand it to the rest of the campus? First and foremost, we need some form of a college-wide policy statement on racism, sexism, religious and ethnic attacks and homophobia. This statement needs to clearly define those actions which will not be tolerated at MSC and the college’s position on those who choose to participate in such acts. It needs to be compiled by a diverse representative group of the campus community. Most importantly, though, this statement must be published so it may be shared with the entire campus.

This statement alone should begin to foster dialogue amongst not only the leaders of the college, but also, more critically, amongst the students. It is the minority students on campus who are suffering. Not only the Black and Latin Americans on campus but also the females, and the gay and lesbian populations. They are suffering from the lack of sensitivity given them in and out of their classes.

Yet the dialogue should not stop here. Classes on racism and sexism should be offered to introduce all students to the issues around them. The program at William Paterson College, is part of the General Education Requirements in which all students must enroll.

These two suggestions are not mine alone, but ones that have been mentioned for many years. This is where the persistence comes into the forefront. No matter how hard one person or any group of individuals tries to rid their campus of racial concerns, the issues will simply not disappear overnight.

One must realize a very few people can not make it happen yet those same few people can stop it from ever happening.

At MSC, and throughout the entire country, the time is now. The environment for initiative is perfect. MSC is far ahead of the other state colleges in their programs and should not let this hold us back.

We must challenge ourselves, because we are on the cutting edge of the human relations movement. It is only with patience, participation, and demands that we will come that which has been left to grow.

Human relations must overcome prejudice.

One must realize a very few people can not make it happen yet those same few people can stop it from ever happening.

At MSC, and throughout the entire country, the time is now. The environment for initiative is perfect. MSC is far ahead of the other state colleges in their programs and should not let this hold us back.

We must challenge ourselves, because we are on the cutting edge of the human relations movement. It is only with patience, participation, and demands that we will come that which has been left to grow.

Israeli rule over Palestinians is fascist

To the editor:
Prof. Edward Aronow's letter of April 21 on Israeli treatment of Palestinians is so filled with error and distortion that one short response can only begin to correct it.

Israeli rule over Palestinians is essentially fascist. The Israeli army assault on the West Bank town of Beita in the wake of the death of an Israeli teenager can only be described as a pogrom—brutal, murderous error and distortion that one short response can only begin to correct. Israeli rule over Palestinians is fascist. The Israeli army assault on the West Bank town of Beita in the wake of the death of an Israeli teenager can only be described as a pogrom—brutal, murderous error and distortion that one short response can only begin to correct.

Killing persons armed only with stones or "trying to flee"—including numerous Palestinian teenagers—collective punishment, beatings, imprisonment without trial for indefinite periods, deportations—this is fascist repression, akin to Nazi terrorism.

The lesson of World War II—especially of the Nazi holocaust—it that fascism cannot be fought with "moderation." Mass Palestinian protests, including violent protests, must be welcomed, and supported by all those who oppose injustice. Pacifist and "non-violent" protest would be morally irresponsible, since they can never succeed against fascist oppression, but only lead to the unnecessary deaths of many protesters.

Terrorist assassinations, whether by the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO), or the far more numerous acts of terrorist murder by the Israeli army and settlers, must be condemned. However, Israel is far more guilty in this regard, quantitatively, then the PLO.

About 10 times the number of Palestinians have been murdered by Israel than the number of Israelis murdered by PLO terrorists. Yet Israeli terrorist repression against Palestinians is termed "retaliation" or "assassination" in the U.S. media! Israeli fascist brutalities follow a long history or working with some of the worst fascists on earth, including South Africa, Iran, Turkey, and Argentina. Israel is a major supplier of arms and military advisors to South Africa. Israeli advisors helped train the Iranian Secret Police under the fascist Shah in torture techniques. Today Israel is the major arms supplier to Khomeini's Iran.

One need not look far to find the roots of Israeli terrorism and fascism. Take Israeli Prime Minister Yitzak Shamir personally behind the fascist Shab in torture techniques. Today Israel is the major arms supplier to Khomeini's Iran.

The roots of World War II are still with us. Israel is a major supplier of arms and military advisors to South Africa. Israeli advisors helped train the Iranian Secret Police under the fascist Shah in torture techniques. Today Israel is the major arms supplier to Khomeini's Iran.

The Israeli rulers must prevent this, while keeping the super-exploited Palestinian workers nearby and without rights. The parallel with South Africa—or with American treatment of "illegal aliens" and minorities—is unmistakable.

At all costs, Israeli bosses must prevent this, while keeping the super-exploited Palestinian workers nearby and without rights. The parallel with South Africa—or with American treatment of "illegal aliens" and minorities—is unmistakable.

"How important is sex in a relationship?"

Compiled and photographed by Wally Acuna

"A commitment should not be based on sex alone. A solid relationship should be founded on friendship and compatibility. I believe that sex can also be an important part of a relationship, but the friendship comes first."

Lore Swadtha
English/freshman

"If both people involved in the relationship are willing to make a commitment to each other, then sex should just come naturally."

Tom Matarazzo
psychology/junior

"If two people love each other, it can be a very beautiful experience to share. Unfortunately, too many people have casual attitudes towards sex. It can enhance a love relationship, but if the commitment is based on sex, those two individuals are going nowhere."

Peter Jarosz
communication sci. and disorders/junior

"I feel that sex is important but, it should never be the sustaining factor of the relationship. Other factors are friendship, trust, and someone to confide in."

David Leon
political science/sophomore

"Sex is important as long as both people are mature enough to handle the responsibilities, but a relationship can be good without sex also."

Shakespeare's Dream play awakens audience

By Tom Boud
Staff Writer

Every MSC student has heard the name Shakespeare so many times that it's incredible no one has died from an overdose of boredom. However, you can not judge a play simply by its author. A Midsummer Night's Dream, one of the Bard of Avon's funnier works, definitely serves to back up this point.

A Midsummer Night's Dream takes us back to the mystical realm of Athens where high-powered romance spectacles...

A Midsummer Night's Dream is that you will laugh heartily, merrily, and frequently. Along with the humorous dialogue, the playgoer enjoys the hilarious antics of the Mechanicals, a bunch of ragtag actors striving clumsily to prepare and put on a skit for the other dignitaries of Athens.

The most notable of these buffoons is Tom Mischia's portrayal of Nick Bottom. He falls, stumbles, and tumbles everywhere and gets your funnybone going.

The play does give the impression of a dreamy world and the occasional presence of classical music sets you thinking on a flight across the clear, nocturnal sky.

Moreover, A Midsummer Night's Dream reminds you of a romantic love and its impulsiveness. It tells us that passion can be under passion's control and demonstrates how passion clouds up the mind. It depicts the kind of love that cannot take place in reality but does in our fantasies.

Set designer Lewis Foden put a lot of elbow grease into creating an artistically tasteful set. The set is a flowery array that changes from violet-blue to light red and even to bluish-green. There are bronze-colored metal hoops dangling from the ceiling as well as a descending swing which brings the all-powerful Oberon to the floor.

Costume designer Bruce Goodrich also flaunted his skills by creating glittering togas. He went to the extent of designing patchwork outfits for the Mechanicals corresponding to their disorganized behavior.

Lysander. There is also the King Hermia slowly has the hots for Shakespere's high-powered romance spectacle...

General admission is $3, and $2 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are $6 standard, $5 senior citizens, faculty, staff and alumni and $3 for students. For more information call the Box Office at 893-5112.

High y'all! Submitted for your approval, a tennis player with a quick backhand as well as a quick temper. There's a sign that says, "Fernando, a new comer to the tournament." Yes, it's true, 'Fernando,' a new comer to the tournament.

Let's not overlook Alexander F. Schat's rendition of Titania, Queen of the Immortals. One thing for certain is that her vigorous voice does her justice.

Giants come up big

By Roy Nelson
Staff Writer

John Linnell and John Flansburgh are just two guys from Brooklyn, really. They play a new school of music, which is a little like the last two people you'd expect to come up with a rock concert, let alone on the stage at The Ritz Friday night. Yes, and they, as in They Might Be Giants, are also the closest thing to a "can't-miss" concert band this side of--well, you fill in the blank.

Yes, this kind of high praise can sound skeptical. How can a band this obscure be this good? Well, they have something to do with the fact that their record company is based in Hoboken. And it could have something to do with the fact that they play the kind of upbeat, fun, yes, even corny kind of music that would (almost) never reach the airwaves. And it could have something to do with the fact that they have a unique and appealing sound--and that they are not afraid to play them.

Dan Kidney and the Pulusions

Dan Kidney and the Pulusions

Once upon a time, Dan ("It's my real last name") Kidney moved from Ohio to New Jersey. Since that fateful day five years ago, he has surrounded himself with an impressive array of musicians. A cult following followed.

This band's music is a refreshing departure from the schlack that dominates radiowaves (See Tiffany). And now it's finally committed to tape.

See, Kidney and the boys built a reputation from their five dates. So, after much bally-hoo and to-do, the first full-length collection of Kidney's music has arrived.

Actually, there are not real surprises here. Bruce Hensall's (Hotel California) production has sharpened the band's rough edges; he took away some of the guts and added some much-needed gloss.

The recorded stuff has a popier sound than the band's live performances. But let's be realistic; who's doesn't.

Standout tracks include "Never Let Up" and "Left Hand Turn." To be perfectly honest, there isn't a throwaway tune on the f2-song tape.

If I understand correctly, the recording will also be available on CD by month's end. Be sure to get it while the gettin's good.

Happy birthday to you...Hey, hey, hey, R-R-R corner turns two years old this week! To commemorate this joyous event, I have culled the "Best Of The Barbs" through the years. Here goes...(From May 1986) The N.Y. Mets have recorded a rap single. Those who have heard it say it's pretty awful, but when you're the best team in baseball, it doesn't matter, does it?...(From Oct. 1986) What is Paul McCartney trying to prove with this new piece of junk he's passing off as an album? Go...live off your residuals already...(From March 1987) What's the deal with Capitol Records' releasing Beatles' CDs in mono? Is like getting a Casio™ when you're expecting a Steinway™... (From April 1987) I was just comparing the Billboard™ CD and album charts and discovered something peculiar. The Beastie Boys own the number one slot on the album chart, followed closely by Bon Jovi. Yet neither band shows up on the CD chart until the seventh spot. Conclusion: Thirteen-year-olds can't read...(From July 1987) Can you believe that Tiffany has burned up the mall circuit, what's next, soda shops?...It's been a blast through these many moons. Thanks for coming along for the ride. Last column next week...Answer to last week's trivia question: David Crosby, after being asked by a policeman why he carried a gun, responded "John Lennon..."...Don't all...

A Positive Point About Breast Cancer.

Now we can see it before you can feel it. When it’s no bigger than the dot on this page.
And when it’s 90% curable. With the best chance of saving the breast.
The trick is catching it early. And that’s exactly what a mammogram can do.
A mammogram is a simple x-ray that’s simply the best news yet for detecting breast cancer. And saving lives.
If you’re over 35, ask your doctor about mammography.

Private Terms has best shot in Derby

By Kenny Peck

And down the stretch they come As the first Saturday in May approaches, more and more questions arise pertaining to the entrants for the 114th running of the Kentucky Derby.

A big factor that must be considered when attempting to predict the winner of this Saturday’s race is the strategy employed by the respective riders. How will the race be run? Will 49er or Seeking the Gold pressure Winning Colors on the lead? Will the pace then be fast enough to allow horses like Kingpost and Brian’s Time to close? Can they let Winning Colors loose on the lead and expect her to look back? Will Chris Antley be able to keep Private Terms within striking distance of the leaders early?

Another pertinent factor is the size of the field. Horse like Brian’s Time, Kingpost and Risen Star may run into traffic problems if allowed to sit too far back.

D. Wayne Lukas, trainer of Winning Colors, says that no one would dare chase his horse on the front, claiming it would be a “kamikaze mission”. But they certainly won’t let her set her own pace on the lead and expect her to look back? Will Chris Antley be able to keep Private Terms within striking distance of the leaders early?

A selection: Private Terms, in a hell of a race.

Mizzone Update The Vic Mizzone issue refuses to come to rest. Last week, former track coach Dr. George Horn announced his “resignation” from the MSC Hall of Fame, citing the Mizzone case as the reason.

Also, the issue has become a hot item in the metropolitan area. After a segment on The Bob Grant Show on WABC-AM radio, Mizzone was asked to speak about the case on Steve Malzberg’s show with Morton Downey Jr., which will appear on either Monday or Tuesday or some time in the near future.

The Lady Indians got back on the winning track Tuesday as they swept William Paterson 6-2 and 3-4, in Wayne. MSC also salvaged a split of a doubleheader with Kean College on Friday.

After opening with a 4-0 record in the NJAC, the Indians have now dropped three games to conference rivals.

MSC 6-William Paterson 2

In the opener, Linda Giarusso and Donna Brooks took the lead as they each singled home a run in the fourth to give the Indians a 4-2 lead. Lisa Parvin closed out the scoring with a two run single in the fifth.

MSC 3-William Paterson 0

Centerfielder Donna Brooks doubled and scored on a two out double by Stacy Barbossa to give the Indians a 1-0 lead in the third inning.

Dixon, Devins honored by N.J. Baseball Writers Assn.

The New Jersey College Baseball Association named left-hander Brian Devins as co-pitcher of the week while Mike Dixon received co-player of the week honors for his play last week.

Devins worked three innings against Upsala in MSC's 30-16 win and came back to start and complete a key game against New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC) rival Glassboro State.

The Indians defeated the Profs, 7-2, as Devins struck out seven. The sophomore now leads the team with 66 strikeouts in 65.2 innings.

Dixon hit .615 (8-13) during the week, including three doubles, two triples, a home run and five runs batted in. The freshman also stretched his consecutive game hitting streak to eight.

The longest hitting streak for the Indians thus far this season was recently snapped, as junior John McClain was held hitless by Rutgers-Camden in the first game of a doubleheader.

The leftfielder had a 15-game streak going into that game.

Rider 10-MSC 3

The Indians (21-13) could not stop hot hitting Rider College (21-17), who notched their twelfth straight win with a 10-3 victory over MSC Tuesday in Lawrenceville.

First baseman John Deutsch knocked in two of the Indians three runs, as he went four for four.

Jersey City St. 4-MSC 3

The Indians dropped a heartbreaker to the Goths as Jersey City State scored two runs with two out in the ninth inning to nip MSC, 4-3.

Dixon had a homer and a triple and knocked in two runs for MSC.

Kean 4-MSC 1

The Indians were the victims of costly errors that plagued them during the game as three runs were scored on errors. Linda Giarusso provided key hitting for MSC, as she had a single and a triple to drive in the lone Indian run.

MSC 3-Kean 2

The Lady Indians scored two runs in the first inning and withstood a fierce rally by Kean in the fifth inning for the win.

In the first, Donna Brooks led off and Barbossa's sharp double to right brought home the first run. Kean scored two runs in the fifth to keep the game close.

The Indians end the regular season with a 26-7 mark, and will be in the New Jersey Athletic Conference playoffs this weekend at a site to be determined.

MSC 7-Glassboro St. 2

After a rainout of their doubleheader on Saturday, MSC and Glassboro State met Sunday in Glassboro, and the Indians escaped with a 7-2 win behind a strong performance by Devins.

Indian Info: The Indians are 10-3 in the northern division of the NJAC conference...Dixon leads the scoring with a two run single and a triple to drive in the lone Indian run.

The lacrosse team repeated as conference champions this season with a perfect 8-0 mark in the Knickerbocker conference.

The Indians, with a new head coach in Doug Allston and a mixture of inexperienced and new players, billed this season as a rebuilding year.

But the team hasn't missed a beat, and Saturday was no exception as MSC defeated Southhampton, 17-9, to secure the title.

The Indians biggest obstacle to the conference title was the Kean game carried over to Saturday.

"It seemed like Saturday's game against South Hampton was much easier. We knew what we had to do to win. After the Kean game, the pressure was lessened, and we really came out to play," Jack Belanger secured the win for the Indians as he scored with 29 seconds remaining in the game to break up the 8-8 tie.

The goal was highly contested by Kean, as middle Joe Petrone was the field during the first 11 seconds of the overtime period when he should have been serving the remainder of his penalty. The score was finally allowed when Kean brought up the infraction after the goal was scored.

Joe Petrone paced the Indian attack with 3 goals, and Tony Petrone added two. Riddick, Peter Zurich and Pete Franklin added one apiece.

The Indians host the first round of the ECAC tournament on Saturday, May 7th, at 4:00 p.m., as they take on Stony Brook at Sprague Field.

Martial arts club started

He performs graceful ballet-like movements, until a shrill cry forces the white-garbed student to change direction. A scene from a Chuck Norris special? Hardly. It is a description of the beginning karate class held at the Panzer gym. The class stresses the discipline of martial arts, as an art form.

The instructors are Bill Sullivan, a faculty member of MSC who maintains a second degree black belt in Tae kwon-do, and his assistant, Kenneth Key, MSC's Veterans Counselor. Key is a black belt.

The club's specific goals include sponsored tournaments, free classes in self-defense, first-aid and other community related events.
