Police reveals assault suspect's description

By Raymond Ecke
Staff Writer

In last week's Campus Police Report, The Montclarion reported an attempted assault occurred on campus just after 8:30 p.m. on May 2. The female was between the Drop-in-Center and the Student Center. The female was allegedly accosted from behind and held by one suspect while the other assaulted her. She escaped by using mace on the individuals, who then fled on foot.

New developments have emerged in the alleged May 2 attack of a female by two males.

The campus police have prepared a sketch of one of the suspects and a description of the second around campus.

The first suspect is a black male with medium to dark complexion. He stands at 5'11", with a medium to large build. His hair is shaved close to his head on both sides but is longer on top. He was last seen wearing dark jeans with a button-down leather jacket. He also has an earring in his left ear that looks like a cross with a snake or vine design.

The second suspect is also a black male and is taller than the other suspect. His hair style is similar to that of the first suspect's. He has a cut from a razor on the side of his head behind one ear. He was last seen wearing dark jeans with a three-quarter length leather coat.

Sargeant Deborah Newcombe of Campus Police said that the composite has been taken to dorm directors around campus. Although some said that he looked familiar, none have been able to make a positive identification. Newcombe also added that if there are any witnesses to the crime, they should come forward by calling the Campus police at either 893-5222 or 893-4111.

Legislature finishes budgets, charters

By Mike Healan
Staff Writer

At the last SGA meeting of the semester, the legislature finished the class one charter renewal and budget process for the upcoming year.

The legislature approved class one charters to The Montclarion, Conservation Club, CLUB, and SILC. These organizations sponsor events open to all SMC students.

A two-class charter was approved to the Geoscience club for the 1988-90 school years.

The SGA passed class four charters to Alpha Kappa Psi, Phi Chi Theta and Kappa Alpha Psi for the 1988-90 academic years.

The Montclarion's budget was passed unanimous.

At the last board of trustees meeting of the 1988 academic year, the University unanimously passed a motion to grant president Dr. Donald E. Walters an extension of his leave of absence until the board reconvenes on Sept. 15, 1988.

Vice chairperson to the board, Dr. Robert Altman, who chaired the meeting in the absence of chairman Murray Cole. Altman said that despite significant progress, Walters had not recovered sufficiently, and "could thus not be permitted to return."

Altman further explained that the extension would give the president an additional four months to recover and the board time to discuss what actions should be taken if the president is not able to return.

A major point of discussion was the approval of the 1988-89 budget. Vice president of Administration and Finance, Mr. William Griffin pointed out a number of significant revisions that have been made in the budget since it was originally presented.

These changes have been made upon consulting various campus constituencies, said Griffin.

An agreement for a new waiver policy regarding the distinguished Garden State Scholarships was made.

Student trustee, Michael Rodak made an amendment to the original budget proposal which includes a tuition increase of $4, and a $1 and 75c increase in SGA and SUB fees respectively.

Rodak's amendment called for a reduction in the total increase. Tuition would increase by $3.50, the SGA fee by 75c, and the SUB fee by 50c, according to Rodak's plan.

"Although I realize an increase is necessary, I have to stand behind this amendment. As a student representative, I must secure the affordability of education," Rodak said.

SGA President—elect Tom Mergola addressed the board.

He cited the fall 1987 referendum, in which 89 percent of the students who voted approved a $1 SGA fee increase.

Mergola asked the board to ignore Rodak's 75c SGA fee proposal and grant the full $1 increase.

"I am concerned our programming will be affected if we don't get the full increase. We already face a 22 percent decrease in student enrollment within the next five years," Mergola said.

He also stated that the SGA had never before requested a fee increase.

Rodak's amendment was unanimously defeated by the re­sponse of the board. The board proceeded to vote on the original motion which was approved. Rodak was the only opposing vote. The new tuition rates will go into effect next fall.

Dr. Joseph Moore, vice president of the Teacher's Union and AFT, addressed the board. He was especially worried that no statement was made in the budget plan about the AFT involvement.

"Establishing a budget has clearcut contractual implications, because teachers will get hired later on by the changes," Moore noted.

Rodak summed up his year as the first student trustee by saying that his presence at the board showed that students have a standing, and that it provided for an opportunity to share student concerns about tuition, enrollment and retention.

He then proceeded to hand over his seat to Robin Miller, the new student trustee to the board. Rodak said that he was sure she would "continue to reflect on student concerns."

"Who's who" this year at MSC

The 1988 edition of "Who's who among students in American Universities and Colleges," will include the names of 16 students from MSC.

These students are selected based on their academic performance, community service, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

The 16 students chosen from MSC join an elite group of students, chosen from more than 1,400 institutions of higher education from the 50 states and several foreign nations.

This year's recipients of the honor from MSC are: SGA President, Robert Acerra; Vice President Lisa Harris; Executive Secretary, Rene Kendelski; Student trustee, Mike Rodak, Thornton Bowman, Michael Caboy, Lynda Fox, Lynne Gingerelli, Lisa Greene, Michele Lawrence, Theresa Lewis, William Nash, Pedro Ramos, Iris Requeiro, Michele Samarya and Shawn Smith.

The SGA's proposed budget was passed unanimously.

A budget line is a segment of the total budget for which a sum of money is specified for a set purpose. This was brought into question because a lesser amount of money was given to another class one organization for the same purpose.

The SGA approved an operating budget of $17,330 to SILC for the 1988-89 fiscal school year.

This figure represents the smallest increase among the SGA class one organizations.

An increase of $1600 was budgeted for over the next academic year.

SGA President Rob Acerra raised objections to The Montclarion's budget because pizza is delivered to staffers every Wednesday. His objections are based on a statute in the SGA constitution that prohibits any form of remuneration to students for working in an organization. None of the legislators agreed with Acerra and The Montclarion's budget was passed unanimously.

However, during last night's SGA meeting, the legislature, was allowed to order subs or pizzas for themselves; Acerra was caught eating his words.

Resident jumps from window to evade police

By Paul Mampilly

A complaint was lodged that marijuana was being smoked in a second floor room in Freeman hall. When the police approached to investigate the room which was apparently wide open, the resident jumped out of the window.

The police found marijuana and drug paraphernalia that upon testing revealed cocaine residue. The resident returned later in the evening and was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance abuse.

A group of students was setting up equipment near the Sprague library when a bystander who had been watching them suddenly grabbed one of the bags and ran. The students pursued the thief and recovered the bag. A positive identification of the thief has been made.

Blanton hall received a bomb threat on May 4 at 11:55 p.m. The building was evacuated and searched. Nothing was found.

The front and rear tires on the driver's side of a car were flattened on May 6 in lot 23.

Residents in Bohn hall complained of receiving annoying and harassing phone calls between April 29 and May 4.

A radar mount and jumper cable were stolen from a '88 Volkswagen parked in lot 30.

A locked moneybox was reported stolen on May 4. The box had been pried open and $60 was stolen.

The trunk lock of a '79 Buick was broken in an attempt to enter it. The attempt occurred on May 4 in lot 23.

A purse left unattended was stolen from Sprague library on May 4.

Bohn hall received a bomb threat on May 3 at 11:55 p.m. The building was evacuated and searched. Nothing was found.

Route 2 through Northern America, beginning in Seattle, Washington and ending in Atlantic City.

The entire trip is 3,425 miles and will take 47 days, with the “trekkers” averaging about 80 miles per day.

“Participants range in age from 12-61,” said Field. The American Lung Association will provide support systems along the way.

All bicyclists are required to solicit sponsors to pledge a total of at least $5,000 to enter the trek. Although the American Lung Association will get the money, Field says she'll benefit also.

“I'm sure that when I'm pedaling and gasping for breath it will make me realize what people with lung disease go through every day. To think someone lives that way makes you appreciative. It's a reality check,” she said.

Kim entered the trek “on a whim,” and claims she has not done any serious cycling.

“What, me know what I'm doing?” she joked. She does keep in shape by light biking, doing yoga, meditating and “walking from the parking lot to class,” she quipped.

Although the participants are required to have the $5,000 pledge money in by June 6, she has raised only $600 because she has been trying to juggle her responsibilities at school and work while also trying to raise pledge money. If she does not collect the required amount, she won't be able to participate.

However, she feels positive that she will raise the money and refuses to think about the possibility of not going. “I'm going to go,” she said firmly.

Anyone wishing to make a pledge to Kim's TransAmerica bicycle trek may call a check or money order to her: Freeman Hall, Room 211, MSC. Anyone wanting to give cash should see her in person.

SGA prez gives the grade to campus

With the end of another academic year upon us, students are anxiously awaiting the receipt of their grades. So I thought I would take this opportunity to issue my own report.

In order to allow them to only read the executive summary of this article and put their rubber stamp to it, I have decided to begin my report card with the college’s Board of Trustees.

For the majority of you who are unfamiliar with the BOT, they are the individuals who meet the second Thursday of each month to...well, they meet on the second Thursday of each month.

The board has throughout the course of the year made headlines for many of their actions. One notable headline included, “Cleanup cost underestimated.” Do you recall the board missing the mark by nearly 45 percent on the cost of the landfill cleanup?

Wait, what about, “Tuition raised despite boost in state support.” The board, after many recommendations from an accreditation body chose to allow only a select few administrators develop a college-wide budget proposal.

And who can forget, “Reverse discrimination charged in coach hiring.” Yes, despite a serious protest from the members of the track team alleging a less qualified person was being recommended over the current track coach, the board approved the hiring of a high school coach.

In the most embarrassing and thoroughly disgusting display of executive supression I have seen at MSC, the board refused to allow those opposed to the hiring a fair chance to speak.

In light of the above mentioned actions and the lack of direction the MSC Board of Trustees has given the college since the passage of the autonomy legislation, I will grant the board a dismal ‘D plus’.

I will now go from the Board of Trustees to the Office of the (Acting) President. While this office was headed by a former dean-turned-vice-president-of-Academic-Affairs-turned-Acting-President, the entire office was able to provide a great deal of support and guidance to the students, faculty, and staff alike.

Specifically, when it came to meeting with the acting president on issues such as extended library hours or just discussing the possibility of having graduation names announced at commencement exercises, he always availed himself to the students.

The support staff within in the Office of the (acting) President, when asked to defend certain issues which placed them on the opposing side of the students, handled themselves for the most part with sincerity and what seemed like a real sense of caring.

The time and dedication exemplified by the acting president in a job which demands such a strong commitment to an overall campus community wins a much deserved ‘A’.

On to the various divisions within the college. Let’s start with the Division of Academic Affairs. Again, it is a division which is headed by an acting college official exhibiting a good deal of interest in the student body. Having taken a beating on the academic advisement program at MSC and seeing a tremendous amount of disapproval being voiced by the students on the issue of pass/fail, the division has nonetheless demonstrated a desire to reach out to the students.

MSC was fortunate enough to have been graced with a visiting fellow this past year, yet has been unsuccessful in seeing one MSC student take part in the Opera Music Theatre Inst.

tute. All in all, the division has made progress on many issues and will surely continue to move forward with a great number of valuable programs. The division of academic affairs is proudly awarded a B.

Moving right along, our next stop is the division of student affairs. The division, tarnished with the track incident, has had somewhat of a rough year. Listening to the complaints of many students over the lack of professional staff in the Office of Student Activities, it seems to me the leadership has chosen to ignore the cries for additional staff in lieu of increased personnel for themselves.

This, coupled with the content on pg. 11.

Here’s to the future

Another semester at MSC has come and gone. For some of us, it won't be easy saying good-bye after four years or more. Then, there are some of us who have been counting the days since freshman orientation. These are the ones who have had one foot out the door for most of their college career. And in retrospect, many of the same types of people more than likely complained about how nothing got accomplished or little progress was made in their years at MSC. These people are the cynics.

Hopefully the majority, with one eye towards the future, will survey their college career and see things in their true perspective. They will look at the problems encountered over the years, learn from their mistakes, and try to build upon the successes. These people are the hopeful, the optimists.

The cynics and optimists do not get along. They simply try to achieve their goals in different ways: one by complaining, the other by dedication.

The SGA recently elected its new executive board. The cynic says, "Next semester won't be any better than this one." The optimist says, "Maybe they'll be able to make some advancements for student activities and organizations.

We can't deny some things need improvement. Student apathy heads the list. But do you realize that one place you won't find apathy is in the Class One organizations?

These clubs have a special identity—again, something for everyone. Yet, many MSC students don't realize this.

These organizations have one problem—lack of student input. They each want their objectives to be filled and want to bring the campus the best concerts, yearbooks, lectures, speeches, and, yes, even newspapers, if they can.

And, although they may be lacking in student input, they don't lack one important thing—pride.

The experience you can gain from hard work, in addition to relationships that will endure well beyond your college years, is invaluable. Working with a group of nutty editors until 4:00 a.m. putting a newspaper together can have its advantages. Sweeping up the pit after a Spring Carnival at 2:00 a.m. might be an eye-opening adventure.

So, over the summer break, think about your involvement in this semester's activities. If it doesn't amount to much, maybe it's time you stopped complaining.
Professor's views on lecturer: Objectivity is a facade for Sontag

To the editor:

Lisa Martucci, in rejecting Professor Spencer's comments on Susan Sontag's lecture, raises the following objections:

"The questions referred to by Spencer were geared toward pursuing the topic, not for the edification of the audience…"

She goes on to add, "The plight of the Palestinians in exile was neither raised nor suggested by the lecture itself, and while I am sympathetic to the anguish provided by the situation, I have difficulty understanding its relevance to Sontag's talk."

Ms. Martucci, needless to say, has missed the point.

It was precisely for the "edification" of people like her, who were ignorant or insensitive to the political ramifications of Sontag's talk, that such questions were raised by me. Sontag, under the guise of a rational, "objective" intellectual, wished to alert us, her pedestrian audience, to our "subjective" reading of history, the subjectivity she claimed we denied when we use notions like the "decade" to define particular eras in history.

The example she chose to illustrate the danger in using such an ambiguous unit as the decade to reveal her own ideological subjectivity.

By insisting that we see a woman photographer who worked in Germany in the 1930's as a Nazi collaborator (which she probably was), implied however, that anyone who lived and worked in Germany during the 1930's should be regarded as a potential Nazi unless proven otherwise.

Surely this a a racist, ideologically subjective assumption, just as is the assumption that all Israelis (and all Jews) conspire to murder Palestinians by a fascist Israeli regime. It is one that is headed by a prime minister who equates Palestinians with Nazis, the very belief that he himself belongs to the Chosen Race (note the similarity with the Nazi notion of the Aryans).

If indeed the term "decade" masks political realities, then certainly one of the glaring political realities of the decade of the '80's is the resurgence of Fascism—this time in the very country that was created as a haven for victims of the Nazi holocaust! Such a perspective unmasking no less than that of the Germany of the 1930's.

Instead of seeing the connection in this line of thought and giving it the measured response it deserved, Sontag lost her "cool" on hearing the word "Palestinian" and concluded her argument by a facetious "Socratic". "Objective" thinker was revealed to be just that—a facade.

The fact of the matter is that no one, least of all Sontag, can ever claim to "unmask" ideologically-charged language in an "objective" way.

We expose others' ideological biases only to reveal our own: just as Lisa Martucci reveals her own bias.

The stagnation of propaganda

Remember a few years ago when Bob Geldoff assembled the rock stars in England for Band-Aid? The world was in an uproar after viewing pictures of tens of thousands of people in Northern Ethiopia starving.

After Geldoff's get-together (the idea for which he stole from George Harrison), the same was done here in the United States—USA for Africa. As a result of these efforts, plus many other fundraising operations, millions of dollars in cash and food were made available to end the famine.

Yet throughout all the activities, one vital piece of information was pretty much overlooked by the world. Yes, there was a drought; yes, people and food were made available to end the famine.

But even the fact that the world was starving; but the food shortage would not have been nearly as severe without the Ethiopian civil war which prevented food from reaching the famine areas.

The reporting resulted in a misrepresentation of the nature of the famine, though it may have been unintentional. But as a rule, the selection of news stories and the way they are presented, both in print and electronically, reflect a bias.

The pictures the reporter selects or the words that are used, are used to do what the biased journalist does. Editors decide whether a story goes on the front page with a banner headline or is buried on page sixty nine, in a corner.

There are other times, however, when the media is used to create the news, to influence the interpretation of events or to effect future events. Rarely when this occurs is the public alerted to this effort, which is exclusively political.

The hostage ordeal in Iran exemplifies using the media to create the news. Anti-American protests, which consumed Teheran and the population usually began as a result of the presence of news cameras, not the reverse. The media became a political tool.

The Soviet Union provides a classic example of using the media to influence the interpretation of events. Because the press in the Soviet Union is state-operated, the government creates, reports, and interprets the news. But outside the Soviet Union, the government practices "disinformation."

By announcing an official interpretation is state-operated, the government creates, reports, media became a political tool.

Population usually began as a result of the events. Rarely when this occurs is the public headline or is buried on page sixty nine, in a story that are used can, and often do, slant the allegedly "neutral" information. Surely any attempt to define particular eras in history.

The example she chose to illustrate the danger in using such an ambiguous unit as the decade to reveal her own ideological subjectivity.

By insisting that we see a woman photographer who worked in Germany in the 1930's as a Nazi collaborator (which she probably was), implied however, that anyone who lived and worked in Germany during the 1930's should be regarded as a potential Nazi unless proven otherwise.

The hostage ordeal in Iran exemplifies using the political process of trying to effect future events.

The pictures the reporter selects or the words that are used can, and often do, slant the allegedly "neutral" information. Surely any attempt to define particular eras in history.

Lights, camera, action for MSC Film Festival

By Chris Williams
Staff Writer

The posters advise "See Amazing Student Films." Whomever penned this phrase must have spent a lot of time around room 224A of Calcia Hall (the "film mecca of MSC"). While there, this person obviously viewed films that comprise the Fifth Annual Student Film Festival. The program, under the dutiful hands of Michael Siporin, Douglas Tomlison and Janet Cutler, has flourished in recent years, as the festival has proved.

The films in the festival vary from animation to live action—the real to the surreal.

The animation process is a long and tedious one, accordingly the live action films out number the animation productions. There are several of these works in the presentation, such as "City Life," Judi Forio's first animated film. It is a colorful examination of a day in N. Y. written, directed and produced by the talented Forio. The film has a wealth of ideas and talents. "Keys" by Janine Schaeffer, "an adventure in espionage and keeping even his most avid followers off his trail. His Dolby the following of David Bowie, his chameleon-like changes would be well-documented.

First there was his commercial breakthrough with the successful, pop-oriented The Golden Age of Blimpo. Dolby is impressed by his work with Foreigner on that band's 4 album. Next came the marvelous "The Flat Earth," watching Dolby progress to serious songwriter. Then it was off to the movies, with soundtracks to Fever Pitch, Gothic (with a distinct medieval flavor) and Howard the Duck (Dolby's successful return to the world of pop music).

But there's little more than an unfunny, often-angry, sometimes vulgar changeup in Dolby's already-confusing career. Except for Byrne, who prefers a somewhat humorous single, "Airhead," there's no hint of pop music anywhere on this album.

Instead, there's enough to make you wonder why "E & Me" simply put, "Elvis Lives." The productions show that MSC film students though often overlooked, have a wealth of ideas and talents. And with more students enrolling in filmmaking courses than ever before, this festival can be only an example of good things to come.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS.

"Nobody drives my car but me."

"Are you OK to drive?" "What?! a few beers?"

DRINKING AND DRIVING CAN KILL A FRIENDSHIP

Toto-The Seventh One (CBS Records)

Toto. "Ah, yes. What ever happened to them?" you ask. Well, three albums after their multi-grammy award winning album IV they're still trying to match the commercial success of that critically acclaimed album that propelled them to the top of the charts.

To help re-kindle the fires of their past success they've re-instated the logo from the IV album and even included a number in the title of their latest effort, The Seventh One. I believe it works.

Toto is a band made up of first-class studio musicians but after listening to the bands of The Seventh One, I am always left with a feeling of the total not being equal to the sum of the parts. This case is no exception.

I still enjoy their music, however, and believe that they are one of the most interesting and talented groups of the decade. The Seventh One is packed with beautiful ballads and semi-rocking tunes that should take the key to success that Toto has been anticipating.

Their ballads are melodic and original, their love songs, pop. Their heartwrenching lyrics and solos are probably some of the best on this album.

"E & Me" simply put, "Elvis Lives." The productions show that MSC film students though often overlooked, have a wealth of ideas and talents. And with more students enrolling in filmmaking courses than ever before, this festival can be only an example of good things to come.

Kings of the Sun-Kings of the Sun (RCA)

First impressions of a new release are formed from what little you can hear. On "Stop Loving You," Toto proved in an excellent product this time out. "Mushan'ga," "These Chains," "A Thousand Years," and the image the band seems to project. Kings of the Sun come across as just another trash metal band, with singles entitled "Serapentine," "Black Leather," "Hot to Trot," and a wardrobe consisting mainly of black leather jackets, boots, and long hair.

If you know the album, as well.

"Blind" and "Mr. Jones," the funk that once classified this band, is reintroduced. And Byrne brays his lyrics with a conviction reminiscent of the band's early years. Throughout the first side, the popscapes keep coming with an unaggressive but upbeat tempo.

The Writers Guild of America has decided not to picket the Tonight Show, even though Carson's actions may warrant it. "Our position is that, in the past, Carson has been supportive of the writers, and we hope he'll return to the bargaining table soon," said one union spokes-

The guests for Wednesday have not been announced. A network official said that they are trying to protect the guests from possible union pressure. Personally, I am looking forward to seeing if Johnny does any better or worse than he usually does, and I hope you're going to admit the guy's got guts.

The number one show in America makes its way into the fun-filled world of syndication this fall. That's right. The Cosby Show will be on WWOR-TV starting this fall at 6:30 p.m. This new development may present a problem for Peter Jennings' World News Tonight on WABC and for the CBS Evening News with Dan Rather.

The only option for them is to move their telecasts ahead one half hour. Actually, this might just happen. Rumor has it that this is what's actually being planned for Dan Rather. Even when they're repeats, Cosby still kicks butt.

According to an item in the New York Post, inside sources say WWOR paid a local record of $266,750 per week for the Cosby reruns. This works out to $13.975 billion a year. Where does The Post find these sources?

From the "Yeah, I know work once ever seen a lub buh barking with the natives on my own island ain't no picnic, buddy" file. Marion Brando has been cast as Nelson Mandela in ABC's production of The African Saga.

Unfortunately, the projected 5 hour mini-series has been put on hold because of the writers strike. The special will also star.

Jane Fonda and Sidney Poitier. Brando's last appearance on T.V. was in Roots: The Next Generation back in 1979. His last movie appearance was in The Formula in 1980. It's good work if you can get it.

The Cosby Show. Jennings' 70th Birthday Celebration will air June 11 live from London's Wembley Stadium. The concert is to benefit groups fighting apartheid and children's organizations will star Bill Wyman, David Sanborn, Chris-

Dee Hutton, Roberts Evans, Whoopee Goldberg, Ashford and Simpson, Harry Belafonte, Joe Cocker, Natalie Cole and Lionel. Steven Mandela has been in prison since 1963 for trying to over-throw the white minor-government.

Have a great- cool summer and I'll see ya in the fall. Best of luck to the graduates!

And in the end, the love you take is equal to the love you make...Well, folks, I'd be lying if I wrote this isn't a sentimental moment for me. This is the final R-N-R I'll be writing for The Montclarion. Here goes...Concerts, concerts, concerts.

Along with the two upcoming supershows — The Monsters of Rock Tour with Van Halen, Scorpions, Metallica, Dokken, and Kingdom Come and The Atlantic Records 40th Anniversary Party with Led Zeppelin, The Who, Yes, et al. — other stars coming to our area before the fall include Bruce Springsteen, Rod Stewart, and Robert Plant (solo). Love the newest stuff by Steely Dan and Graham Parker...Motley Crue has been hit with a $2.6 million suit by two Alabama teens who claim they were injured by illegally used fireworks at a Crue concert. One teen lost an eye, the other split a lip. This band has had its share of controversy. Remember when singer Vince Neil was found guilty of manslaughter? What next?...The final trivia question is: What graduating writer of rock-n-roll is eternally grateful to his readers for sneaking a peek at his column every week?...Hope you've enjoyed reading. A happy and prosperous future to you all...And dis marks duf final "Don't all..."

Martin's brawl getting boring

By Kenny Peck

Odds and Ends  Yeah, Billy Martin was in another brawl. So what's new? And anyway, so what? The manager's escapades have become not so unexpected, and in fact, rather tiresome. The New York media, however, insists on running it into the ground. . . . Devils' coach Jim Schoenfeld was absolutely priceless after New Jersey lost to the Bruins following Game 3 of the playoff series. In fact, I've gotta believe "Have another doughnut, you fat pig" ranks up there with "The Giants win the pennant, the Giants win the pennant". On the same note, you have to give the Devils, especially Schoenfeld, a lot of credit for their performance this season, no matter what happened last night against Boston...Alright, so Private Terms "failed to fire" on Derby Day. But let's not jump on the Winning Colors bandwagon just yet. A faster pace (promised by Woody Stephens courtesy of 49er) and a return to his home track for the Preakness might give Terms an edge. By the way, what happened to all the speed horses that were supposed to pressure Colors early? I don't care what anyone says (not even Eddie P.), if 49er pushes her, she's done...The Knicks will be one of the best teams in the league next year, and I can't wait. If they could just pick up a power forward somewhere and lose all of that dead weight they're carrying (Pat Cummings comes to mind), we'd be in for a special kind of year...Special to the MSC football team: Mark, Jeff Vanderoef...At the Meadowlands finds itself on the plus side to the tune of $56.40 on a $2 flat bet. This is due largely to Gaylord Perry who paid $54.00 and gave us a needed boost. Anyway, we had a great time, and we hope to see you in the Fall. P.S. Stay away from Freehold Raceway. (Special thanks to "Slim" Jim Nicosia for all of his help this past year, because I couldn't have made it through without him.)

Last week's selection: EZ to Win ran third.

Trenton knocks off MSC

By Dennis Campbell
Staff Writer

Call it the Trenton State curse, but for the second time this season, the Lady Indians came up short against Trenton State College.

This time MSC suffered a 5-2 setback, denying the Indians the New Jersey State Athletic Conference title for the second year in a row.

In the first game Trenton, 34-5, did a number on the Indians' ace pitcher Dina DeAquino as they collected 18 hits enroute to an 10-2 win.

The Indians and DeAquino hung tough to stay in the competition, as she threw a five hitter to give MSC a 6-1 victory against No. 12 Kean.

The Lady Indians, who dominated teams with their defense early in the season, seemed to have lost their fielding edge in the last two weeks. In their last few games, MSC has committed numerous critical fielding errors.

In the Indians' first game against Trenton, four errors accounted for three runs.

Lisa Costello and Pam McCrakes provided the offensive spark for the Lions as Costello singled, doubled and drove in two runs and McCrakes knocked in a run and collected three singles.
