Bond issue promises new library

By Lynn M. Cowan
Editor-in-Chief

A new library building may be built for Montclair State students if the Jobs, Education and Competitiveness bond issue passes the referendum November 8.

Also included in plans for Montclair State College’s share of the state’s $350 million bond sale is an addition to the music building, a new campus access road, and a new building to house the campus police and central stores/receiving functions.

The state of New Jersey will provide $308 million dollars through the selling of bonds to distribute for construction and renovation of classroom, libraries, computer facilities, and other buildings. The remaining $42 million will be used to expand the state’s advanced technology centers.

The institutions must then provide at least $30 million in matching funds to receive their allotments of the bond funds.

Montclair State will receive $13 million from the state of New Jersey if it matches the funds with $6.5 million of its own.

For students, this would translate into a music building addition, a new campus access road, a new library building, and additional room for classes in Harry E. Sprague library, the present library building.

These plans, however, cannot be put into action until the referendum on the bond issue is passed, stressed student leaders at a recent meeting in Rutgers Newark.

Student Government Associations (SGA) and student newspapers from five New Jersey campuses met to discuss ways to increase student awareness of the Bond issue and its impact on their campuses last Sunday evening.

Rutgers Newark SGA President Adam Gonnelli expressed concern that only 16 to 17 percent of the students that are registered to vote in New Jersey actually do vote.

“However,” he said, “if one student is made aware of the Bond Issue’s impact on his campus, he can then in turn influence several votes—his parents and immediate family will certainly vote in favor of something that is beneficial to their children’s education.”

Gonnelli added that many voters do not want to support the bond issue because they think it will increase their taxes or the money will come out of the present state budget.

“Debt incurred in the 1950’s has been recently paid off. New Jersey now has the capacity to assume a new debt. This means there will be no increase in taxes, and the money won’t come out of the current budget.”

One tactic of increasing student votes was suggested by Montclair State SGA President Tommy Mergola. The college has purchased a quantity of bumper stickers that support the bond issue. “The Montclair State SGA is looking into buying a quantity of the bumper stickers that the college has purchased,” he said.

An additional student awareness method discussed was voter registration drives, a tactic which Kean College SGA President Jeefa Sri already has planned for his campus.

Another tactic suggested to increase student votes was to arrange to have polling booths on campus to make it more convenient for students. The booth, to be set up in the campus’ student centers, would not only be more accessible to students living on campus, but they would also be more visible to the entire campus population.

Robert Hill, SGA President of Rutgers’ New Brunswick, said that his campus has had difficulty in the past securing polling booths in the student centers for a number of reasons, including security and tampering problems. “In addition, the people who live there (in New Brunswick) and the politicians don’t necessarily want student input,” Hill said.

Mergola said even though the residents of New Brunswick and politicians don’t welcome the student vote, “If you push and provide a unified front, the student body is bound to get concessions.”

Campus Police Report

Delivery men are easy prey

By Roy Nelson
Staff Writer

A Dominos delivery man was approached by 3 black males by Webster Hall on Sept. 2. The men said that the pizzas the delivery man carried were theirs, but argued with him about the price of the food. The 3 men then stole the pizzas and fled.

A 1983 Mazda was broken into in Sept. 1. A window was broken and a stereo stolen from the car, which was parked in lot 10. A car which had been previously stolen was recovered on Sept. 1. The 1979 Ford Mustang, stolen from Passaic, was found in lot 13. Two female Blanton Hall residents filed complaints of assaults against a delivery man from Mr. Dino’s on Sept. 2. The first female told campus police that the delivery man had not only lacked but insisted on receiving a tip. This resulted in a physical attack, which the second resident claimed she attempted to discontinue before being assaulted herself.

The delivery man, who subsequently was fired from his job, filed a complaint against the two women with campus police on Sept. 3.

A 1972 Chevrolet Impala was broken into on Sept. 2. A stereo was stolen from the car, which was parked in lot 22.

A bomb threat was called in to Blanton Hall at 2:45 a.m. on Sept. 6. The building was evacuated, but no bomb was found. Campus police say that there is a possible suspect in connection with the threat.

Between 11:30 p.m., Sept. 5 and 9:30 a.m., Sept. 6, a 1984 Volkswagen was vandalized. The car was parked in lot 24, and the windshield wipers were stolen after it was broken into.

An A-floor apartment at the Cleve Road Apartments was burgled sometime between 1:50 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. Sept. 6. The apartment’s window screen was cut and the window opened to gain access into the room. A radio was stolen from the apartment.

Two brass lamps were stolen from the office of the Vice President of Academic Affairs. The theft occurred between Sept. 1 and Sept. 6.

A professor in the English department reported receiving several obscene phone calls. Since the report’s filing on Sept. 6, more calls have been received.

Between 8:30 p.m., Sept. 6 and 1:00 a.m., Sept. 7, a 1982 Pontiac Grand Prix was stolen from lot 20.

Bond issue discussed

By Kristine Roome
Staff Writer

At last night's SGA meeting, the bond issue was discussed. If it should pass, MSC will be appropriated $13 million. Proposed money will go towards a new library and campus police station, as well as a new access road to the college and an expansion of the musical facilities.

This issue can be voted on by registered voters in the upcoming election. Getting students to register to vote was also discussed. A registration drive should begin in a week or two.

Since the recent retirement of former physician Dr. Rosenberg after 31 years, the College Health Center has been without a doctor. By Oct. 1 this will be remedied with a service group.

At the home football game this Sat. against East Stroudsburg State College, tailgating and parties will be allowed but no alcohol will be permitted.

After much work by the Welfare & Internal Committee, steps at the Clove Road Apartments will be constructed.

For those who may want to be involved in the SGA but don't have the time to be a legislator, there are 19 available student seats on campus-wide committees dealing with various topics that need to be filled.

Q. With all of the hospital waste being washed up on the Jersey Shore, what do you think should be done about it?

"First, they should find the source of the dumpings. After they've found out who the dumpers are, they should be given a heavy fine for the first offense, and jail for any offense after that."

Alexis Drullinsky

"They should get the people responsible for the dumpings. Tom Kean should start taking some responsibility for it!"

Matt Siegal

"I feel that the dumpers should be given an automatic jail term with a fine, and community service when they come out!"

Eddie Hernandez

"Find the source of the problem and incinerate the waste like it is supposed to be."

Bob De Steno

"First, they should find the source of the dumpings. After they've found out who the dumpers are, they should be given a heavy fine for the first offense, and jail for any offense after that."

Alexis Drullinsky

"I think that nothing can really be done about the waste, just stop the dumpers."

Registration

Confirmation schedules were mailed to all students for the fall 1988 semester, on Sept. 22, 1988. Schedules for students who live on campus were sent to their home address.

Students must review this schedule to make sure that the courses agree (by number, day, and time) with those which they are attending.

If there is ANY discrepancy with your schedule, you must report to the Office of the Registrar, Immediately!

Failure to resolve these discrepancies will result in no credit or failing grades for some of your courses. All registration must be made by October 4, 1988.

If you have not received a confirmation schedule, you must report to the Office of the Registrar immediately.

All copies of your registration transactions should be brought with you when making inquiries.

A101 Freshman Orientation

Nothing could have prepared me for the first few moments with my roommate. "Anique"—nothing more, just "Anique"—was her name. Change the "A" to a "U" and you've got a description.

When they asked what type of roommate I wanted, I didn't know that I needed to be more specific than non-smoker. I could swear I saw a picture of Anique on a postcard I got from London. Within five minutes, I found out that she was an Art History student, into the Psychedelic Furs, and totally against the domestication of animals.

I was just about ready to put in for a room transfer when she reached into her leather backpack, pulled out a can of Suisse Mocha, and offered me a cup. Okay, I decided I'd keep an open mind.

As we sipped our cups, I found out that Anique and I share the same fondness for Cary Grant movies, the same disdain for wine coolers, and the same ex-boyfriend. That gave us plenty to talk about.

Get out there and vote

"It doesn't matter," "I don't have the time," "I don't like the either of the candidates," these are just a few "reasons" eligible voters will use for not doing their duty on Nov 8.

The truth is there is no "reason" not to vote. It is a responsibility that every one in this country has. Unfortunately, many do not see it that way. A recent survey showed only 16 to 17 percent of college students in America actually take the time out to vote.

The student government has taken steps to make voter registration easier for the students of Montclair.

In about two weeks the SGA will be holding a voter registration drive in an attempt to get students involved. Absentee ballots will be made available for students who live on campus and are without transportation.

At a meeting between SGA leaders recently, the president of Rutgers New Brunswick SGA, Robert Hill, complained that he could only arrange for a 4-hour bus brought on campus, but was met with resistance from the town of New Brunswick and the college administration.

While suggestions were circulating about what would be the best approach to convince municipal and administrative officials of the need for voting booths on campus, another student from Rutgers said, "Hey, if these people really wanted to vote, don't you think they would make the effort to go into town and cast a ballot? Most voting booths are centrally located."

This student had a point. It's often not convenient for campus residents, to say, get their hair cut, or shop for a present. Even so, somehow they manage to get these inconvenient errands done. Is it a matter of importance? Are we a campus of self-absorbed individuals who care more about the way their hair looks than who is leading their country?

With the bond issue on the ballot, Montclair State stands to receive $1.4 million in state funds. These monies, with the addition of the college's $6.5 million, can be used for the building of a new library, construction of a new access road to the college and the purchase of supplies like student computers.

In addition, this means more classrooms in Harry E. Sprice Library, the old library building. This will open up much-needed space, and some speculate that business majors may even have their own building.

By the way, you will not only be doing your duty but helping to procure funds that will inevitably help the student population.

Stated simply, get out there and register. For those of you that don't—you have absolutely no right to complain.

WASHINGTON—I think often now of people I know who attest to George Bush's good qualities—intelligence, sensitivity and, they insist, decency. These people know Bush and so they take into account. Still, the campaign he's waging reflects none of those qualities.

What we see emerging is George Bush the demagogue. Gone is the wimp, the elitist—all the pejorative terms once used (sometimes unfairly) to characterize the Vice President. In its place is a new man—a politician who cannot pass up the cheap shot and who thinks campaigns are only about winning and not, as the cliche goes, about how you play the game. George Bush plays dirty.

Take the Pledge of Allegiance flap. Bush has seized on it because it's symbolic of something else—respect for the civil rights of minorities. Is Bush waging a campaign against that? Does he think that Jehovah Witnesses should be compelled to recite the Pledge in violation of their religious beliefs? The Supreme Court in 1943 ruled otherwise. What does Bush believe?

The principles enunciated in that Supreme Court decision represent the very best in Americanism. Bush must know this. Yet he persists in nagging Dukakis about his veto. He is, in fact, saying "minority rights be damned!" Is he saying a Supreme Court decision can be ignored? Just what in the world is he saying?

I think Bush is saying that almost anything is justified in that most holy of all causes—a winning presidential campaign. His constant attack on the American Civil Liberties Union is in the same spirit (meanness) as his attack on Dukakis for vetoing the Pledge bill. The ACLU, to its credit, has never been a popular organization. That's because it devotes itself to unpopular causes—ones that often, over time, gain near universal acceptance.

For instance, the ACLU in 1942 challenged the constitutionality of the internment of Japanese-Americans. President Reagan just signed a bill that attempted to repress that outrage. Was the ACLU wrong in 1942? If so, the President's own description of Dukakis today. A little late, they have adopted the original ACLU position.

The ACLU then defended the right of John T. Scopes to teach evolution, the right to publish James Joyce's "Ulysses" in the United States, the right of blacks to attend integrated schools, the right of the poor to legal counsel (the Miranda case), the principle of one-man-one-vote, the rights of blacks and others to vote. And the ACLU was one of the first to insist that the Constitution applies to women. Now even Robert Bork agrees.

The ACLU has also worked the other side of the ideological street. When it thought constitutional principles were at stake, it defended the rights of Nazis, KKK members, John Bircher, zealous anti-communists, conservative political groups and employers fighting unionization.

What we see in this menu of causes prompts the ACLU to bag as well.

Surely George Bush understands the principles involved. He may not agree with the ACLU on each and every issue (I sure don't). But for him to say, as he has repeatedly, that Mike Dukakis is "a card-carrying member of the ACLU" is not only evocative of McCarthyism ("card-carrying member of the Communist Party"), it's insulting to the voter.

Bush's attack on Dukakis for his Pledge veto and his characterization of him as a member of the ACLU really says nothing. It does not tell us whether Bush would compel a teacher who is a Jehovah Witness to recite the pledge or whether he thinks the internment of American citizens was a ducky idea. Maybe in a debate, Dukakis could put those questions to him. Maybe, even, Dukakis would unabashedly enumerate what his principles are—that even without a Supreme Court decision, he would be loath to compel anyone to recite the Pledge.

(Oak, I'm a dreamer.)

All his life, George Bush has done what's necessary to advance his career. He has been both a moderate and a conservative. He has switched his position on abortion so often that, earlier this year, his own campaign organization could not say if he once was pro-choice. Now he is waging a campaign that recalls Spiro Agnew, another moderate-cum-conservative who stood, boldly, for nothing.

It could be Bush is telling us something with his attacks on Dukakis. It could be we are hearing from a man who is tone deaf to minority rights. But if that's the case, then this is not the George the right describes. By his friends—a man who takes such evident joy in his Hispanic grandchildren. He wouldn't dare tell his grandchildren that his opponent is a card-carrying member of the ACLU. In the name for what the ACLU has done for Hispanics, they might wish they could vote for Dukakis.

“Broads and Booze”: Dan Quayle’s sugar-coated life

To the Editor:

Who is Dan Quayle? The hoopla over his use of family influence to avoid military service in Vietnam is obscuring other defects in his background.

Quayle’s close friends and family acknowledge his glaring lack of intellectual ability. Theodore Bendall, Quayle family attorney recently said that if there was one thing he could change about the Indiana senator it would be to “increase his IQ. He is not an intellect.” Quayle’s father freely admits that his son’s main interest in law school was “broads and booze.”

Dan Quayle’s mediocre academic standing in high school apparently prevented him from applying to major universities. Instead he went to little DePauw University where his grandfather was a member of the board of trustees and a major contributor.

In college Quayle had a reputation for being a poor student, frequently drinking to excess, and dating many women. A former professor says Quayle received mostly Cs and he got a D in at least one course in his major, political science. His good looks and nonintellectual image led some classmates to nickname him derivatively as “face man.”

Clark Adams, a former classmate, said: “He was not a guy to take a position on anything except who his date was on Friday night and where to get drunk on Saturday night.” Another classmate, Joseph Wirt, said Quayle majored in “girls, golf, and alcohol!” at DePauw.

Quayle’s college record was so spotty that a furor erupted in 1982 when the college announced it would award an honorary doctor of laws degree to Quayle. The faculty secretly voted 32-24 against awarding the degree.

Despite Quayle’s assertion last week that “I was interested in joining the National Guard because it enabled me to go to law school as soon as possible,” he did not go to law school right away. He did not meet the academic requirements of Indiana University’s law school. “They wouldn’t take him in,” his father, James Quayle told the Washington Post. A year later, “Somehow he got in, he talked his way in” and attended night school, James Quayle said.

Although Quayle said that he sought to bypass the military because of his intense interest in becoming a lawyer, there is no evidence that he accomplished anything substantial as an attorney. Quayle’s friends in the legal profession cannot remember any cases that he handled. Almost immediately after opening his law practice, Quayle told his father he wanted to do something else and became assistant publisher of his father’s newspaper.

His grandfather, Eugene Pulman, who headed the most powerful newspaper empire in Indiana was famous for blandly mixing right wing politics and newspaper journalism with impunity. Quayle’s father, James Quayle was a member of the ultraconservative John Birch Society in the 1960’s.

The financial and editorial backing of his father got Quayle elected to the House in 1976. With the strong backing of his uncle’s Indianapolis newspapers he became a U.S. senator in 1980.

Voters have an opportunity to beat Bush and bag Quayle in November. Dan Quayle is another example of the intellectually bankrupt yuppie scum the country club Republicans are trying to foist on the American public as a poor excuse for leadership. The voters can see through their goody-two-shoes facade and trite cliches.

Unmitigated gall ruins commencement ceremony

I’m really looking forward to this new school year. What’s that? You think I’m kidding? No, I’m not. I really feel that this will be one of the most productive years MSC students will ever see.

I see unlimited growth for the SGA. I see more student involvement, more student input in the administrative policies of the college. I see more events from the programming class’s. I see Class II, III’s and IV’s playing a much larger role in the SGA structure. I see an unheralded new dawning for students.

After our successful “VOTE YES” campaign and protest over lack of student parking, I know we can and will make a difference. We will not sit idly by while our concerns are not addressed, which leads me to voice a concern I’ve heard all summer from some of the graduates of 1988.

A little flashback—the date is May 24, 1988. A sweltering hot, sunny day. A proud moment for 2400 graduates and their families. A time they wish to recall for all their lives. A day the graduates have been striving for: the completion of those tenuous college years.

Graduates have been striving for: the completion of those tenuous college years. They look forward for words of encouragement from our guest speaker. They expect some congratulatory remarks. They await to hear how they will prosper as graduates of MSC. Sure, they get this alright. What they also received was a six minute unscheduled lecture by Senator Wynona Lipman. This lecture featured her perspective on our school’s racial problems. I quote her, “However, we are also at a school which is struggling with the problem of racial conflicts.”

“Here! Just what racial conflicts is she referring to? We haven’t had one report of racial conflicts all year!”

I hope she wasn’t alluding to the track coach incident. If she was, she ought to get her facts straight before she makes erroneous statements. You know what that’s called? Unmitigated gall! How dare anyone take this facile atmosphere and turn it into a political and racial forum!

Back in April, during SGA officer elections, the students voted on whether or not they wanted to have their names read at commencement. Eighty-eight percent of those voting wanted the names to be read. Isn’t it amazing that the college administration did not allow graduating students names to be read aloud, after a majority voted in favor to do so?

This request couldn’t be granted because of lack of time but they allowed a non-scheduled speaker a recipient of a honorary degree, to waste six minutes of our time by telling us of non-existent problems on our campus.

I believe that we have a unique and diverse blend of cultural and racial representation on this campus. The integration of these backgrounds creates an atmosphere that others envy and allows this existence to be harmonious and fruitful to every student. Black, white, Arab, Hispanic, it doesn’t matter, our bond here makes our relationship special and that’s something I’m proud of. “I accept it (the honorary degree) with mixed emotions,” she said. Well, maybe it’s time we find some recipients that will enjoy their award and have something constructive and positive to say.

Grant Jones says he is “delighted with Campus Police and all others in their work in apprehending these people.” He is also “very happy with the support of students to double check the information and help get these convictions in court.”

Martin adds that he has a commitment to prosecute, and the college does now have the capacity to apprehend both bomb threats and false fire alarms. He said, “We do care, and we will do whatever we can.”

Errors last week

In last week’s issue of The Guide, Delta Kappa Psi and the Accounting Club were overlooked in the listing of class organizations.

In addition, HRO is not having a pre-weekend workshop on Oct. 5.

The Montclarion regrets any confusion these errors may have caused.

Minority students

A Minority Students Mentors reception will be held on Monday, Sept. 19, from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., in the Student Center Ballrooms A and B.

This reception is for all freshmen minority students in order to introduce them to their mentors. Refreshments will be served.

"Wonderful," "Sunshine of Your Love," and Mellob Beer's "After Midnight" and an extremely well-arranged cover of Bob Marley's "Stand Up." But as important as Clapton's brilliance was his lack of pomp to get his point across. He simply played his guitar, never trying to impress us with meaningless guitar runs at ludicrous speeds, always trying to be tasteful and precise. No wasted notes here.

Well, Clapton is still Clapton and Buckwheat Zydeco is a great band. Everyone should buy their self-titled album.

Unfortunately, arena-rock is purely merchandising, and very few bands actually create art, rather they sell you their packaged goods. Go to clubs. Better yet, stay home and listen to recog to reggae.

Clapton fans are not alone in the music world. Anyone who has listened to the radio for more than an hour a week would have recognized 90% of the tunes played. Nothing obscure here, just pure classic trade marks Clapton golden nuggets.

Nolan's Notes

By Jarrett Nolan

Hello and welcome to the first edition of Nolan's Notes. I am its namesake, Jarrett. Before I hit the dirt on what's happening in musocdom, let me tell you a little bit about myself. I am a broadcasting major and a psychology minor. I also am a third semester junior. (I liked being a junior so much, I decided to do it again.)

I'm going to try to do this a bit differently than my predecessor, Pasquale DiFalco, and expand the general interest of the column to other musical styles, other than rock. So if you have any information, trivia questions, or tidbits that I may have inadvertently overlooked, send them to me in care of The Montclarion.

Now the virgin column of the year starts off with Michael Jackson trying to do something that hasn't been done in about 25 years—remember what he originally looked like.

Actually, he's trying to tie a record for the most number ones in a 12-month period. The Beatles went from March 1964 to February 1965 and scored six. MJ started his track run in September of last year with "I Just Can't Stop Loving You." He's got until the 24th of the month to tie it. His sixth single (?), "Another Part of Me," doesn't look too promising at its current position of 12...While on the topic of Michael, Taylor Dayne is touring with him on the European leg of his tour. Doesn't he wish his voice was as deep as hers?

D.J. Jazzy Jeff and the Fresh Prince are being sued by the makers of the Nightmare on Elm Street. The movie makers say that Jeff and the Prince had infringed on copyright benefits upon hearing their spoof, "A Nightmare on My Street." Jeff and Prince's record label will start putting stickers on the single stating that their "Nightmare" isn't affiliated with the movie series, hoping it will reduce the price of the lawsuit.

Mini-notes: The MTV Video Awards were broadcast on September 7th with Arsenio Hall in the captain's seat. Winners included Suzanne Vega, Guns 'n' Roses, and Los Lobos. Prince, earning two, and INXS, with five, were the big winners of the evening...Rob Base and D.J. E-Z Rock have an album coming out. It Takes Two hits the stores later this month...This month's album releases also include Anita Baker and Luther Vandross. Metallica's Anthrax is already out...Everyone's favorite "Bass" has a 4-song EP expected out on the 6th...

Trivia question for the week was given to me by Evan Weissman. Where did Pink Floyd get their name? Think about it. Until next week...
From reel to real

By Luisa Carrizo and Jennifer G. Stelevich

As the summer sun sizzled and the humidity matched the scorching temperature, the air conditioned relief of the local movie theatre was sometimes better than the films themselves.

Beginning the summer recap is probably the most creative film of the year. Who Framed Roger Rabbit? a murder mystery set in "Toon Town," stars everyone's favorite cartoon characters. With the leading "man" a rabbit and his wife a scantily drawn bombshell, the movie releases the audience from the stale types cast in other films.

The magic of this chaotic comedy is in its daring technicality. With both human performers and colorful characters the movie offers cinematic fun for all ages.

Consider if you will, off beat wife Angela, played by starlet Michelle Pfeiffer, married to a mob boss. When this mobster hubby is murdered by the mob's big cheese, her problems are far from ceasing. This mob chieftan decides he wants to play cat-and-mouse with Angela as his insanely jealous wife harasses her.

To top it off, she falls for the FBI agent who thinks she's an accessory to her husband's murder. Sound confusing? Entertaining? Not really. But Pfeiffer's performance was really big.

Speaking of "big," Tom Hanks was spectacular in his portrayal of a little boy in a man's body. His mannerisms and actions were truly convincing. Big gave us the opportunity to return to our childhood where our biggest worry was what color ball we would bounce. With his strong performance, Big was a truly enjoyable comedy.

Once upon a time there was a boy named Pee Wee...but now he's a man...or is he? Pee Wee's Big Top Adventure is another trip into the time-warped mind of Paul Reubens, star of his half hour comedy show and Pee Wee's Big Adventure.

Our young star falls in love. But alas, he already has a girlfriend! This isn't the preschool type story. Pee Wee's Big Top Adventure is a masterful caper of mafia gangs and the FBI. The two actors compliment each other throughout the film as they race the clock in this well-timed comedy.

Clearly staged and well performed, the film marks originality in its combination of adventure with two fine actors in roles which couldn't have fit better together.

With comedy and heat coming from the movies, there really was no escape from the summer sun. Audiences can only hope the winter winds will be warmed by more cinematic sizzles.

Greetings once again T.V. fans, yes its me, Ray, your so humble television columnist ready to give you the latest in television news.

Saturday Night Live begins its 14th season on Oct, 8. Hosting SNL's first show will be Tom "the Big man" Hanks and musical guest Keith "thank God I quit drugs, I look so much better" Richards. Executive producer Lorne Michaels has a long list of hot celebs set to host the new season. One word of warning, expect the first four shows to focus on the upcoming election.

Johnny Cash to play Davy Crockett? Yes it's true, Johnny Tim Dunigan to a younger Crockett played by an old man recalling tales of his life. According to the show's producer Bill Boggs, there is a good chance that he will be a guest. Gosh, if Dan Rather confused him what will Morton or more importantly his audience do to him? Stay tuned.

Roseanne Barr makes her network premiere on ABC in her own sit-com called (creatively enough) Roseanne. The show begins on Oct 18 and can be seen on Tuesday's before Moonlighting.

The Morton Downey Jr. Show is in the process of trying to book vice-president George Bush for an upcoming show. The show will concentrate on the Flintstone kids as they learn the importance of just saying "no" to drugs. It will also feature new anti-drug lyrics set to the music of Michael Jackson's Beat It plus another song written by his sister LaToya. My question is will Nancy be sporting a bone through her coif? For all those who enjoy Win Lose or Draw, the show will be taping today at the Wollman Rink in Central Park. It begins at 9 a.m. till 6 p.m. No tickets are needed and all are invited to attend. The shows will air on CBS the week of November 14. Call me Mr. Inquisitive but why do they call it Win Lose or Draw? It seems to me they don't have a choice, they just draw. Duh!

The Magical World of Disney. Cash plays Davy as an old man recalling tales of his life to a younger Crockett played by Tim Dunigan.

Pennant chases and horse races

By Ian Saarman

The Mets rate an “A” With the baseball season winding down, it looks as if the Oakland Athletics and New York Mets have established themselves as the teams to beat.

In the American League, the A’s are running away with the Western division crown, leading last year’s world champion Minnesota Twins by an overwhelming 10 games. The A’s powerful lineup is led by superstar Rickey Henderson, who is rapidly closing in on 40 home run-40 stolen base season. Add Mark McGwire, Dave Parker and All-Star Game MVP Terry Steinbach to that lineup and you have a home run threat almost every time up. What sets the A’s apart from the rest however, is their pitching staff. Dave Stewart, Bob Welch and Storm Davis all have over 15 wins and bullpen ace Dennis Eckersley leads the league in saves.

In the National League East, it’s still up for grabs. The Atlanta Braves lead the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers by 4½ games. That lead is not as safe as it seems, however, because all three teams have been struggling in the last month. Even the Milwaukee Brewers have jumped back into the race. Anyway, whoever wins the East doesn’t figure to have enough left to beat Oakland.

In the National League West, the Mets have finally pulled away from the pesky Pittsburgh Pirates. Darryl Strawberry has carried the Mets for most of the season and is expected to do so in the playoffs. The Mets pitching staff has overcome injuries all year and now Dwight Gooden, Ron Darling and David Cone are all back in top form. Look for rookie third baseman Greg Jeffries to continue to contribute down the stretch run.

In the National League West, the Los Angeles Dodgers have been on top all year and should be at the end. The only team with an outside chance is the Houston Astros, who are five games out. Newly acquired Kirk Gibson has returned the Dodgers to their glory days and should win the NL MVP. Orel Hershiser is the ace of the pitching staff and the surprising Tim Leary has become a solid starter to help put the Dodgers over the top. The only problem facing the Dodgers now is how to beat the Mets. New York has beaten L.A. 10 out of 11 games this year and most of those games were blowouts. If the Dodgers can overcome that barrier they could pull it out.

If not, it could be a Mets sweep.

Football Follies The NFL is into its second week and the best team so far has to be the San Francisco 49ers. They have beaten the tough New Orleans Saints and New York Giants, both on the road. Yes, they were very close games, but any team who can beat the Saints and the Giants on the road is off to a great start.

The most disappointing team so far has to be the Cleveland Browns. Picked by many to finally reach the Super Bowl, the Browns are 1-1 and have yet to score a touchdown. The Browns have been hurt by injuries to Bernie Kosar, Webster Slaughter and Hanford Dixon, but at this point, it might not even matter.

Down the Belmont backstretch There is an outstanding horse race at Belmont this Saturday called the Woodward. Forty Niner, the favorite for Horse of the Year honors, will be matched up against last year’s Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, Alysheba. Other horses to watch in the race include Brian’s Time and Alysheba to battle down the stretch run.

At the Meadowlands On opening day at the Big M, a two year old by the name of Two Pence ran well considering the monster he was up against that day. Against moderate to high priced allowance horses, Two Pence may be ready to score.

Also, watch for grass horses shipping in from New England tracks, as they’re finding the Meadowlands surface much easier to run on. Finally, horses wearing mud caulks did very well last year at the beginning of the Meadowlands meet, and we’re looking for that trend to continue.

Trivia Time-Out Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week’s issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What college did Bob Cousy coach following his retiring from the NBA?
2. What thoroughbred finished second to the Triple Crown winner in each of the three races in 1978?
3. What Miami Dolphins quarterback played even after being diagnosed as legally blind?
4. What legendary pitcher struck out the first eight batters he faced in his major league debut?
5. How many pennants did the New York Yankees win under Casey Stengel?

This week’s stumper: What was the starting backcourt for the New Orleans Jazz in their first ever game in 1974?

Indians to face Div. II
East Stroudsburg in home opener Saturday

By Kenny Peck
Sports Editor

The MSC football team will host Division II East Stroudsburg in the Indians’ home opener at Sprague Field Saturday.

MSC comes off a 31-14 triumph over Division II Mansfield on September 3, while the Warriors topped Southern Connecticut last week, 19-9.

East Stroudsburg will look for senior running back Gary Gardiner to carry much of the load offensively, while freshmen Rick Sterner and sophomore Alexis Greaves will also see action in the Warrior backfield.

Quarterbacking chores will be split between junior Tom Taylor and freshman Jerry Wargo.

Sampson, who plays defensive end, and Coyle, a defensive tackle, are the only two returning starters from last season.

Seniors Dennis Segich and Joe McLaughlin head a very strong East Stroudsburg secondary.

Curts Bunch and Linus Bolden comprise the remainder of the Warrior defensive backfield.

East Stroudsburg employs Todd McNamara as both its punter and placekicker.

McNamee kicked two field goals last week and set a school record with a 78-yard punt.

McLaughlin is the team’s punt and kick returner. Against Southern Connecticut Saturday, McLaughlin had a 53-yard return for a score and a 27-yarder to set up another Warrior touchdown.

The Indians (2-1-2) found themselves behind 2-0 early before rallying for a 3-3 tie in regulation.

The MSC soccer team battled NJJT a 2-0 halftime lead.

Neither team was able to score in the second half as they jumped out to a 1-0 record this year.

The field hockey season got off to an electrifying start for the Indians last Saturday.

The team defeated Delaware Valley in not only their first game of the season but also the first under new coach Marge Snyder. The young Indian squad, consisting of six seniors and five sophomores, is headed by tri-captains Kim Kelly, Bernadette Phillips, and Heather Jeffery, all of whom are juniors.

The team is coming off an 8-9-3 record from last year but seem revitalized under their new coach as they jumped out to their 1-0 record this year.

The offense started the new season with a balanced attack with each of the forwards scoring one goal in Saturday’s game.

Junior Mary Liuzzi scored the first goal, which got the team rolling and cleared the way for senior Fran Devito and sophomore Judy DeMarco to knock in the winning goal as well as an insurance goal enroute to a 3-1 victory.
