Dr. Walters resigns from presidency

By Virginia Delgado
Correspondent

On Sept. 15 the Board of Trustees held their first meeting of the 1988-89 academic year. At the meeting, it was reported that President Donald E. Walters will terminate his presidency due to medical reasons after Nov. 1, 1988. Until a new president can be appointed, Dr. Richard S. Lynde will continue as acting president.

Mr. Murray Cole, chairperson of the board, said that under Walters' tenure, the college has won two challenge grants, one for the school of fine and performing arts, and another for the Institute for Critical Thinking.

Cole added that Walters has improved the physical appearance of the college and developed many outstanding programs such as the international studies program and the college honors program, and he has brought new ethics and values to the school.

"His leadership and contributions will be remembered and valued," said Cole.

Addressing the point that the committee will have a very short time to find a new president, Cole stated, "the process will not be rushed and it will be given the attention required.

During the conference session, Dr. Geoffrey Newman, dean of the school of fine and performing arts, reported on the programs and activities the school has undertaken since it was awarded $5.7 million in a Challenge Grant in 1986.

Two of their most successful projects were Theaterfest and The Ellis Island Project. They have also used the money to purchase a great deal of state of the art equipment.

The board members approved a policy for construction projects. In accordance with MSC policy and procedure for construction, the board must approve all projects in excess of $200,000.

A number of projects, aimed at improving the campus facilities will be awarded by the Division of Buildings and Construction (DBC).

Vice President of Administration and Finance William H. Griffith updated the board on the Jobs, Education, and Competitiveness Bond Issue.

This bond, if passed, would bring $350 million to the state's public and private colleges and universities. According to Griffith, $308 million would be used for providing construction and renovation of buildings. The remaining $42 million would be dedicated to expanding the state's network of advanced technology centers.

The college would use $15.7 million of the funds from the bond act towards a new library, Griffith said.

With the bond issue passed, plus subsequent matching funds, MSC may also appropriate $1.3 million for an addition to the McEachern Music building.

Sprague Library's 25th anniversary celebrated

By Amber Smith
Correspondent

With a festive, fall spirit, staff members will kick off Sprague Library's 25th anniversary in October.

Spearheading the event is Luis Rodriguez, circulation librarian. The focus of this year's celebration is to reflect on the library's history, the changes in services over the years, and its future, said Rodriguez.

Student related activities include a "Do You Know Your Library?" contest, where prizes will be awarded, and amnesty at the circulation desk, where students will be given breaks on book fines.

A student reception will take place Oct. 4 and 5 in front of the library. Balloons, pencils, bookmarks, and book bags will be handed out and refreshments will be served. In the event of inclement weather, the event will take place in the library lobby.

A formal reception will take place on Oct. 7. The keynote speaker will be Joan Segal, executive director of the Association of College and Research Libraries, American Library Association, said Rodriguez. Segal will speak about the relationship between the future scholar and library.

Other speakers will include Gregory Waters, acting vice president of academic affairs, and a retired MSC librarian. The reception is by invitation only, and Montclair State deans, faculty, retired librarians, top area administrators and library directors are expected to attend.

An exhibit will be on display the entire month of October, said Rodriguez. It will show the changes Sprague Library has undergone since it was built.

The Sprague building was constructed in 1963, according to Rodriguez. Library services were formerly conducted in College Hall.

The library was built in honor of Dr. Harry A. Sprague, educator and former MSC president, who visualized a "great central library and "adequate facilities" for Montclair State College, according to a library document.

As stated in a 1977 Star Ledger article, Sprague received his B.S., M.A., and Ph.D from Columbia University. He received his honorary degrees from Fairleigh Dickinson University and Montclair State College.

Library Director Blanche Haller was able to see the changes the library has gone through in the past 25 years. Haller said, "Montclair State has grown tremendously, which has resulted in the library's annual Presidential Symposium, which gives participants an opportunity to examine issues of national concern to higher education.

During Walters' presidency, the Justice William J. Brennan, Jr. chapter of the Essex Inn of Court was instituted on campus as the New Jersey Bar Association's first effort in a program of career development, accord-

Mentors help minorities overcome their difficulties

By Lynn M. Cowan
Editor-in-Chief

The Minority Student Mentor Program held its first reception on Monday, Sept. 19.

The “Get Acquainted Reception” was held in the Student Center Ballrooms at 4:00 p.m.

Dr. Richard A. Lynde, acting president, said in his welcoming address that the program is a unique experiment.

“These students now know they have someone to go to, someone to talk to who has been there before,” Lynde said.

Dr. Curtis M. Jackson, director of Intra-Collegiate Academic Programs (ICAP), provided a brief history of the program.

“It was modest to begin with,” Jackson said. “The program’s original goal was to provide a maximum of 75 students with about 20 mentors to help them in their transition to college.”

Jackson added, “Presently, there are over 100 mentors to serve 226 potential minority students.”

Dr. Carlos Pratt, assistant professor of psychology, stressed the minority mentors that “faculty members want you to succeed—they are ready to help you.”

After the reception, Jackson spoke of the reason the college instituted the program.

“The program began as an effort to improve the retention of students,” Jackson noted. “Research tells us that the people who make a connection—a bridge between themselves and someone who can guide them—early in their college career, are more likely to stay at college.”

“A minority student has a more difficult time making such connections at college,” Jackson added. “Most students find the first few weeks of school traumatic, and are afraid of reaching out or getting involved in college activities.”

“But because of the racism that is prevalent in our society, minority students are faced with additional barriers such as preconceptions of their backgrounds and values,” Jackson said.

He added that he hopes this program will be able to cut across racial barriers.

“I want these students to see Montclair State as a caring place,” Jackson said.

Jackson believes the program is the first of its kind in New Jersey, and he hopes that the advantages of the program will eventually spread to other students.

News Notes

Registration

Confirmation schedules were mailed to all students for the fall 1988 semester, on Sept. 22, 1988. Schedules for students who live on campus were sent to their home address.

Students must review this schedule to make sure that the courses agree (by number, day, and time) with those which they are attending.

If there is ANY discrepancy with your schedule, you must report to the Office of the Registrar, Immediately!

Failure to resolve these discrepancies will result in no credit or failing grades for some of your courses. All registration must be made by October 4, 1988.

If you have not received a confirmation schedule, you must report to the Office of the Registrar immediately.

All copies of your registration transactions should be brought with you when making inquiries.

The car was stopped at 1:30 a.m., Sept. 7, in the Lincoln Tunnel for a motor vehicle violation by a Port Authority police officer. When the officer pulled the driver of the car, Tito Ortiz, over he noticed that there was no damage to the steering column.

The patrolman opened the door to grab Ortiz, but was pulled in by the driver and dragged 500 feet before the car crashed head-on into a bus.

The officer suffered superficial wounds. Ortiz was charged with aggravated assault, resisting arrest, possession of a stolen vehicle, and possession of burglary's tools.

A Clove Road resident reported that she was being harassed by her ex-boyfriend on Sept. 7. No complaints were filed, but the resident said she would file one if the harassment continued.

She added, "We've gone from the small, essentially teacher's college collection, to the sophisticated state-of-art library we have today."

Commenting on the 25th library anniversary, Haller said it is the perfect opportunity for a festive occasion.

Rodriguez added that there are up-to-date services which have allowed the library to expand. New services include an increased book collection, computerized retrieval services, interlibrary loan services, a separate government document depository department, non-print media services, and a change from the Dewey Decimal to the Library of Congress system.

Jarieau Israel, a junior majoring in political science, was asked if he was pleased with library efficiency and services. "It's fine, except for the hours. I wish they would extend them," said Israel.

Another student, who asked not to be identified, said, "The services are excellent in regard to updated book selections. However, the fault of the system is that there are no renewals of books. The highest mark is given for access time and updated book selections."

The last library anniversary took place in 1978, according to Pat Sanders, coordinator of reference services. Sanders said this year's anniversary is expected to be larger because of increased publicity.

At Smith Corona, simplicity is the mother of invention.

We started out with a very simple idea:
To make electronic typewriters and word processors that have lots of great features but are very simple to use.
So simple you don't have to keep one eye on your typing and one eye on the instruction manual.
So simple you don't need a degree in computer programming to operate them.
So simple they can even make a confirmed non-typist comfortable at the keyboard.
Call it human engineering if you like. Or call it ergonomics. Or call it plain old inspiration.
What we came up with is a line of remarkable typewriters that are sophisticated without being complicated.
In fact, they're unlike any other typewriters you've ever seen before... or used before...or muttered at before.

We call the SD 700 the Memory Typewriter. You just may call it the simplest typewriter in memory.
It features a 2000 character editable memory you can access with the mere flip of a switch.
Combined with the 16 character LCD display you can proofread, correct and make changes before you ever put anything down on paper.

Our engineers racked their brains so you won't have to.

We've reformed the correction system.
Add features like a Spell-Right 50,000 word electronic dictionary, WordFind, WordEraser, Full Line Correction, and much more and you've got a typewriter that's not just incredibly simple to use, but simply impossible to pass up.

Of course, the same goes for every other Smith Corona typewriter and word processor as well.

Which is why we recommend that you hurry to your nearest store and try our machines yourself.
Obviously, they won't come to you.

Quality should be job one

Though it comes as no great surprise to many, the Board of Trustees announced last Thursday the resignation of the college president, Dr. Donald E. Walters.

For many students the choice of a new president is no great concern, but before one simply dismisses it, consider what Dr. Walters had done during his four year term.

Walters set high standards for himself, his faculty, and the students. These standards contributed to many different and conflicting views of our former president.

Some saw Walters as a man dedicated to improving the quality of the college by raising standards of admission and supporting the organization of programs such as the college honors program. When Walters viewed the pass/fail option as one that should not be extended to non-Education (ED-FG) courses, the student body rose in uproar. Students complained of not being able to carry the same course loads they had carried previously. Sad tales of work schedules and the car payments that necessitated these schedules were traded among students around campus.

Others saw him as an elitist who was driving away the standard fare that MSC had come to expect from high schools every year. Students without competitive grades or SAT scores knew they were assured a place at MSC. Many applied to the college as a "safe" choice, school, one they were confident they could attend if all else failed.

Walters sought to change this view and raise the quality of the students to a level that would make MSC more than a "safe" choice, more than an alternative.

In addition, Walters fought in a statewide campaign for the passage of autonomy legislation, in essence making MSC responsible not to the state, but to itself for budgeting.

If Walters had not pursued such standards for excellence at this institution, would we have been the only state college to receive two challenge grants totaling $6.9 million? No one can say for sure.

But why list a man's credentials if he won't be our president any longer? Simply make known what we hope the search committee that reviews candidates for the presidency can recognize the same qualities in another individual.

We don't need a politician, we need a president who is committed to continuing MSC's tradition of quality. When students speak of higher education, hopefully the committee will not interpret this as a need for taller buildings.

Reverse racism vs. pure racism

To the editor:

Tom Mergola wrote last week of Senator Wynona Lipman's "unmitigated gall" in referring to what Mergola terms "the track coach incident" of last Spring as an example of racial conflict.

Mergola suggested Lipman "ought to get her facts straight," but himself fails to state the facts as he sees them.

I am far from wanting to defend Lipman. But I followed this incident carefully in the press. Let me summarize what seems to me to be the "facts" as they emerged.

Some MSC faculty and students attacked the hiring of a black applicant, Mr. John Benton, over a white one, Vic Mizzone, as an example of something called "reverse racism." However, no evidence to support this charge was ever printed in the articles on the subject that I saw, whether in The Montclarion or elsewhere.

The piece of information which was made public— that the Administration chose not to hire the candidate ranked highest by a faculty committee— can hardly be counted as evidence of "reverse racism," since (1) this charge has occurred many times at MSC without such charges being raised; and (2) it is clear from the fact that the faculty committee had to pick three candidates that this might occur. (Both Mr. Benton and Mr. Mizzone were among the top three candidates).

Charges of "racism" and of "reverse racism" are so serious that they should never be made without the presentation of full evidence, carefully presented. Those who brought the "reverse racism" charge certainly had ample access to the press and every opportunity to present their evidence. That they never did so strongly suggests their case is very weak, and they know it.

It appeared to me then, and does still today, that the "track coach" case was more probably an example, not of "reverse racism," but of racism pure and simple. Since no evidence was presented, those who made the inflammatory charge of "reverse racism" seem to think that the hiring of a black candidate over a white one was illegitimate or immoral on the face of it, with no proof of the charge of "reverse racism" even being necessary.

If it is not anti-black racism to suggest that the hiring of a black over a white candidate is prima facie evidence of "reverse racism," I don't know what racism is.

The mass media deserves criticism as well for the way in which they echoed or gave publicity to the charge of "reverse racism," without demanding evidence or pointing out, in their articles, the lack of it. I'm sorry to have to include The Montclarion in this criticism, since I am one of their strongest supporters.

In short: the charge of "reverse racism" was touted about at MSC and elsewhere, and then dropped without the evidence for the chance to examine the validity of the charge for themselves. This whole affair stinks of racism. Until Mr. Mergola, and those who raised the charge in this irresponsible manner, set forth their evidence publicly, some of the stink will stick to them.

Candidates avoid college vote

It's that time again. Cool breezes, autumn leaves, campaign promises. Campaign promises! That's right, it's an election year. Your thoughts should now be directed toward the political races on the local, state and national levels.

Those politicians, such as Pete Dawkins and Frank Lautenberg, want your vote. To get it, they're supposed to act concerned about your needs and show their support by visiting your campus. They're supposed to send their campaign managers and representatives to various colleges and universities to drum up student support. Well, where are they?

Maybe the fact that only 17 percent of all eligible students actually vote allows these politicians to think they should concentrate elsewhere in their quest for voter turnout. Maybe they feel that students just don't care enough to vote and make a difference. Or maybe they realize that students are simply too intellectual and want the promises cast aside to reveal the real issues.

Whatever the reason, it seems they're reluctant to face our concerns without all the unnecessary political jargon.

For example, I received a phone call regarding an invitation to lunch with senate hopeful Pete Dawkins (R). I was asked how I stood on the Dawkins campaign.

What I was basically and cleverly being asked was whether I would vote for Dawkins. When I responded that my political stance is non-partisan, that lunch invitation was withdrawn.

It was clear to me that as a student leader and vice president of the SGA, you could not have the privilege to meet with someone that might represent you in public office. Since my non-partisan approach didn't please those invitation senders, I guess my concern and those of my peers at MSC just don't matter enough to warrant a meeting, let alone lunch.

And what's Frank Lautenberg's excuse? Several SGAs across the state have banded together to get the two to agree on a debate or political forum sponsored by students. Every time that Dawkins has agreed and committed to a date and place, Lautenberg bows out, claiming some conflict with his scheduling.

Come on, Frank and Pete; cut us some slack and let's make this election year something today's students can look back upon with some sense of history.

This all leads me to implore you, the student, to register, vote and be heard. The SGA will be there to assist you. Keep your eyes open next week for information about the voter registration drive being sponsored by the SGA.

This past Saturday saw the gathering of five of the world’s best drummers in Memorial Auditorium, as Modern Drummer Magazine presented Drum Festival ’88.

The day-long event left hardly a seat unfilled as drummers, percussionists and fans from as far away as Jerusalem, Israel gathered to learn from, and enjoy the performances of, some of music’s top players.

The show began with an appearance from legendary drummer/percussionist Carl Palmer. Best known for his work with Emerson, Lake and Palmer and Asia, he entertained questions from the audience and demonstrated various techniques and exercises for better playing.

Always enthusiastic and exhibiting a wry English sense of humor, Palmer commented on the “animalistic” nature of the instrument and climaxed his segment with a thunderous solo that left jaws hanging wide open.

Following Palmer was West Coast studio whiz Harvey Mason who, before saying a word to the crowd, sat down and performed an alternately subtle and not-so-subtle piece of playing. He went on to play along with recorded tracks from an upcoming George Benson album, and explained his use of triggering digital sampled sounds from his acoustic drums.

Next up was a relatively new star on the drumming scene, Dennis Chambers, who announced with his speed and intensity on the drum set. Chambers, who is currently playing with fusion guitarist John Scofield, took requests from those in the audience and drew a few laughs when he revealed that he wasn’t actually using the drum pedals of the company that he was endorsing.

After a brief intermission, the clinic continued with a performance from New Jersey’s own Peter Erskine. Erskine, who is the author of Modern Drummer’s Jazz Workshop column as well as his own book, spoke about his feelings about jazz in general and drumming in particular.

He said that the role of the drummer was to “make the music feel good, and to make the musicians making the music feel good.”

Formerly with Weather Report and currently a solo artist, Erskine expressed his interest in “improvised instrumental music” and stressed the importance of clarity in one’s playing.

Rounding out the event was a special performance from Steve Smith and his jazz/rock band, Vital Information. Recognized for his work with jazz violinist Jean-Luc Ponty and Journey, Smith turned his segment more into a concert than a clinic; and the result of the five-piece band ripped through selections from the band’s past and current recordings.

The one-hour-plus performance brought a standing ovation from the audience, which had been there for over seven hours by that point.

Drum Festival ’88 was also marked by special appearances by Anton Fig (Freddy’s Comets, The World’s Most Dangerous Band) and Rod Morgenstein (voted best progressive rock drummer in M.D.’s 1985 Reader’s Poll), both of whom drew winning tickets for various door prizes.

Noted session player Danny Gottlieb was also on hand to present the 1988 Hall of Fame Award to renowned drummer/teacher Ed Shaughnessy, who received a generous amount of applause from the audience.

At the end of the day, a very satisfied crowd was left to compare notes and to look forward to Drum Festival ’89.

As informative and educational as it is entertaining, there is no doubt that this year’s gathering is going to be one tough act to follow.

Drum Festival ’88 scored big with music fans of Smith, Erskine and Palmer.

On September 10 & 11 The 1988 New York Guitar Show made its way to 12th Street in Greenwich Village. This annual event provides one with the chance to play vintage guitars and the satisfaction of giving to charity.

This year, the guitar show was held as a benefit for the AIDS Resource Foundation for Children.

For a mere six dollars, one got the opportunity to see and play dream guitars, get a cool Elvis stamp on the back of your ticket, donate money to help solve the growing problem of children born with AIDS.

In addition to great sounding guitars, the show provided its attendants with priceless opportunities to talk with others with a common love; music! Even Billy (of ZZ Top) showed up for some “down-home” jams and sweet guitars.

Because of the size of the show, guitarists were able to purchase a vintage guitar at reasonable prices. Guitars which sell for upwards of $10,000 over the counter were available to the public for as little as $1,500.

These prices were not the only deals which were offered to the public; at one table, one could purchase a packet of actual grass from Grace-Land or a bottle of Mississippi River water.

So what, “you ask? Okay, you’re right; so what, but the table did exemplify the friendly, open and generally fun attitude of most of the people in attendance.

Guitars such as vintage ’57 Stratocasters and ’59 Sunburst Les Paul’s were widespread but the real and truly affordable treasures of the show lied within the bizarre realm of “innovative” craftsmanship. Such creations as the all-aluminum guitar, and the see-through electric violin were prime for the picking.

This reporter purchased a home-made Telecaster which plays like a dream and sounds like the end of the world for a mere $50. Other such “buys” were widespread. Some tables had box after box of used effects, cables, microphones, pick-ups, etc. for five to twenty dollars. Most tables, however, specialized in the rare and hard to find.

The show also provided the opportunity to play the collection of guitars in the country. Dealers came from as far as Texas and Rhode Island to sell their guitars at the show. The variety of dealers spurned competitive price slashing and a great cross-section of vintage guitars which are still available for purchase today.

Overall, the show was a success and left this reporter looking forward to next year’s event, The New York Guitar Show.

Artists amaze at Amnesty

By Raymond Ecke
and Kris Roome

The chimes of freedom rang quite clear in Philadelphia Monday, as the Amnesty Human Rights Now tour made its only East Coast area stop at the John F. Kennedy Arena.

The show which featured; Peter Gabriel, Tracy Chapman, Sting and Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band, got under way around 5 p.m. with a suprise performance by folk legend Joan Baez.

Standing alone center stage a young and obviously a little nervous Chapman began the eight and a half hour show.

In a set that included songs like “Fast Car” and “Talkin ’ Bout a Revolution” she truly set the mood for what was forthcoming.

I only wish that Chapman had used a full band. In a small club the acoustic guitar would have sufficed but with a crowd as large as the one at JFK, some of her message may have lost its impact.

Beginning with “King of Pain,” Sting performed like a man with a cause. Looking quite dapper, the ex-policeman played many of his more political songs like “If You Love Somebody Set Them Free” and “They Dance Alone.” During the latter he was joined by Gabriel who helped out on vocals.

At the end of Sting’s set he was joined by Springsteen who surprised everyone with a remarkable version of “Every Breath You Take.”

Gabriel was introduced by Springsteen who called Gabriel a constant source of inspiration during the whole tour.

Without a doubt Gabriel turned in the most intense and creative performance of the evening. Many of his songs are the essence of the cause. Songs like “Games Without Frontiers” and “Into the War” were sung while he and the band marched military style around the stage added to the already prevalent feeling of anti war.

“Biko,” a song about the murdered South African leader was truly a sight to behold. With a tear in his eye Gabriel said “the rest is up to you.” He turned his microphone towards the audience and walked off the stage while the crowd continued to chant the final words of the song.

If Gabriel was the conscience of the show then Springsteen was the heart. Sporting six earrings in his left ear and one in his right, he played with more muscle than on any of the Tunnel of Love tour dates.

A Boss set would not be complete without a few suprises and this one had two. First, Sting joined in for a wonderful version of “The River” and later he played “Jungle Land,” which he hasn’t played since 1980.

The show was capped off with all of the performers together singing Bob Marley’s classic “Stand Up For Your Rights.” It was a fitting end to an amazing day of music and awareness.

Records third and fourth shutouts
Stahl leads booters past Sony Brook, Jersey City

By Ian Saarmann
Staff Writer

One thing is certain about the 1988 MSC soccer team. As goalie Jim Stahl goes, so go the Indians.

Stahl has recorded four shutouts in the young season, and it is by no coincidence that the Indians have a record of 4-2-2. This fact is not overlooked by Coach Masur.

"Jim's come on real well for us," Coach Masur said. "He's always had the potential; but not the right motivation. At summer camp his play became much sharper. Now that he's playing every day, his intensity has grown and he has become a real leader for the team."

Stahl has been so good that Coach Masur has developed a small concern. It is the type of concern that a coach can live with, however.

"It bothers me a little that we have not won a game when the other team has scored," Coach Masur said. "I'd like to see the team respond in a more positive way when an opponent scores."

Coach Masur didn't get a chance to see that this week, however, because the Indians shut out both Stony Brook and Jersey City State.

Rob Chesney scored a goal and added two assists to lead MSC to a 4-0 win at Jersey City on last night.

Vinny McGowan opened the scoring for the Indians, and his goal was followed by Chesney's tally. The Indians took a 2-0 lead into halftime, and put the game out of reach early in the second half with two quick goals.

Freshman Louie Ken-Kwofie and Scott Logan finished off the scoring and gave some of the younger players a chance for some valuable playing time.

"Overall, we played well," co-captain Mike Nothofer said. "We're starting to develop some consistency and everyone is contributing. That's what were going to need in the long run."

Last Monday, the Indians traveled to Stony Brook for a game with the Patriots. Chesney's goal at 35:36 of the first half held up as the Indians beat the Patriots 1-0. Stahl had eight saves for MSC and the tough Indian defense recorded another shutout.

Midfielder Bobby Brig suffered a broken nose and a third degree concussion after being headed by an opponent right before halftime. The junior is expected to recover and be back in the Indian lineup shortly.

The Indians host Stockton on Friday, September 23rd with a high school game between Kearney H.S. and Montclair H.S. preceding that.

Errors last week
In last week's issue of The Montclarion, the calendar of activities incorrectly lists CLUB as showing the movie "Raw" on Sept. 2 to Sept. 6. The correct date is Sept. 26, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Montclarion regrets any confusion this error may have caused.
Chesney receives Montclarion honor

By Mary Carlomagno
Staff Writer

Returning to the soccer field last week after a two game absence was junior co-captain Rob Chesney.

Chesney, who was suffering from a viral infection, came back Monday and scored MSC's only goal against Stony Brook, putting an end to a two-game Indian winless streak and earning him this week's Athlete of the Week honors.

"Rob started out having a great season, but then he was sidelined. We suffered a tie to NJIT, which was a mental letdown, and then a loss to Rutgers Camden. Without Rob, we were missing some leadership," said Head Coach Dave Masur.

The Indians are a young team, as their roster includes five freshman. Chesney, with three years of experience, offers leadership and sets an example for the younger players.

"The team has a lot of talent. Hopefully we will be able to put everything together, hit the right combinations and have a winning season," said Chesney.

Team unity will be a major factor for a winning season. Chesney attributed the Indian success to the combination of Coach Masur's new system and team unity.

Coach Masur is in his second coaching season at MSC. He feels that given leadership and composure, the team will be able "to play the kind of soccer we are capable of."

As far as what the season holds, Chesney feels very confident.

"We have a shot to win the conference. The teams to beat are Kean, Glassboro, and Trenton. We just have to go there with the attitude that we have to beat everyone," he said.

The team's schedule has many home games remaining, and Chesney hopes that fans will come out and be supportive.

Chesney stated, "It takes unity. Everyone working together is essential. What is most important is to maintain a positive winning attitude."

quarterback sacks, one pass breakup, and a total of four tackles. Junior standout Paul Cioffi, coming off a hot game against Mansfield after which he earned defensive player of the week honors, racked up a team leading eight tackles.

Castiglia had an outstanding game for the special teams, keeping the ball away from star kick returner Joe McLaughlin. Castiglia also responded well under pressure, as with just 1:42 showing on the clock he was forced to punt from inside his own end zone.

Castiglia was given a low snap which he was able to control, stepped to his right to avoid a defender, and let loose a 56-yard bomb. The punt left ESU deep in its own end where the MSC defense held them for a 48-yard gain right sideline for a 48-yard gain.

Unfortunately for the Indians, the pass over ESU was not without its price. Offensive lineman Joe Fernandez suffered a sprained ankle and is listed as doubtful for the upcoming Ramapo game. Also, transfer tight end Matt Kingfield is questionable for the Ramapo game due to a bruised left shoulder.

Indian info: The Warriors were coming off a banner game against Southern Connecticut, in which they prevailed, 19-9. Some highlights for East Stroudsburg were punter Todd McNamee’s school record-breaking 78-yard boot and senior safety Joe McLaughlin’s 53-yard punt return for a touchdown...ESU holds an overall lead in their series with the Indians to hold on to win. The pass wasn’t pretty, but it was successful, as Fiore leaped and grabbed the Indians’ first touchdown of the game.

Baffige, meanwhile, lay on the ground, his only clue to the result being the roar of the 3,901 fans. Baffige’s second scoring pass of the game went to Scott Vega, which gave the Indians a 14-5 lead, enough of a cushion for the Indians to hold on to win. The pass to Vega came just three plays after Baffige hit sophomore receiver Frank Mariconda, who raced down the right sideline for a 48-yard gain to the ESU 20 yard line.

Baffige has played quarterback for championship caliber teams since high school. Playing for Union High, the dominant team in Group IV New Jersey high school football, prepared Baffige well for the rigors of college ball.

When MSC quarterback Ed Baffige called “split right 55 bangle” on third and ten from East Stroudsburg’s 36-yard line, he wasn’t exactly expecting what was about to occur. The play called for Baffige to throw to his right, but it was broken up, and Baffige was forced to scramble as the Warrior defense swarmed in.

Seeing receiver John Fiore open, Baffige lofted a pass just as he was crunched by a Warrior tackle, causing the ball to act, as some would say, like a “duck.”

The pass wasn’t pretty, but it was successful, as Fiore leaped and grabbed the Indians’ first touchdown of the game.

While playing for Union, Baffige won three consecutive state championships, the final one coming in his senior season when he started and led the Farmers to a hard fought 15-8 victory over Roxbury.

MSC’s young quarterback has started every game since replacing Leon Kislowski in the second half of last year’s opener versus Wagner.

Baffige completed 77 of his 151 attempts last year for a 51% completion rate and racked up 1059 yards and seven touchdowns. This year, Baffige has already thrown for 279 yards and three touchdowns in just two games.

The young MSC quarterback has improved with every game and “sees good things coming up for the team” in this season.

Baffige also added that he was very happy with the win over ESU. He also was quick to point out that the team still has a big test in the October 2 game when the Indians collide head on with the Wagner Seahawks, the defending Division III National Champions.

MSC tops E. Stroudsburg

The Montclarion/Thursday, September 22, 1988

---

Placekicker Tony Colasurdo follows through on the first of his two extra points Saturday against East Stroudsburg. The Indians won, 14-12.
Let’s (not) see the replay

The opening kickoff of Sunday’s Giants-Cowboys game was mishandled by Dallas’ Darrell Clack on the one-yard line. The ball rolled into the end zone, and Clack retrieved it and attempted to run it out. But Mark Collins tackled Clack after a few steps, and referee Pat Haggerty mistakenly called it a safety when it should have been a touchback. The Giants then went on to win the game by the margin of the safety, 12-10.

In this era of technological advances, such a blown call is not likely to escape the eyes of the replay official. This one did and, arguably, it cost the Cowboys the game. But one should not blame Haggerty, or even the replay official, Armen Terzian. The blame should go to the NFL for instituting the replay rule and not carrying it out 100%. Because now every close play or questionable call is expected to be not only reviewed, but called correctly every time. And that’s just not going to happen, because the officials are human and are going to make mistakes.

The point is, the replay rule stinks. Yes, there have been many instances where the replay has shown the initial call by the official to be incorrect, and the calls were then changed. But what about when there’s a late hit, holding, or even illegal motion that the officials miss? Technically, these are also blown calls, but since these are judgement calls, they are not subject to review (in actuality, isn’t every call a judgement call? Didn’t Haggerty make a split-second decision, thereby using his own ‘judgement’?).

It’s up to the NFL to either abolish the rule or modify it to ensure more consistency. As it stands now, it seems unlikely that the league will take a step backward and totally eliminate it. And that’s probably good. But if the NFL should choose to keep the rule, it should be done right, or not at all.

MSC opens NJAC play with Ramapo

The Indians travel to Mahwah Saturday to take on Ramapo in their first New Jersey Athletic Conference contest. The Indians will be looking to win their third straight game of the year and their tenth straight dating back to last season.

The Roadrunners, coming off a 20-18 loss to Kean Saturday, are in search of their second win of the year, as they opened the season with a win over Stony Brook.

This Saturday will mark only the ninth time the two teams have met, and the Roadrunners are in search of their first win against the Indians. In fact, Ramapo hasn’t scored a touchdown against MSC since 1983. Last season, the Indians marched out to a 21-0 lead after the first quarter and a 30-0 halftime lead enroute to a 65-0 romp over the Roadrunners.

Ramapo finished the game with negative total yardage.

First-year Head Coach Jim Miceli has installed a pro-option type offense into Ramapo’s attack to try to change that. The key for Ramapo will be to attempt to control the line of scrimmage. The Indians have manhandled their opposition on both sides of the ball in their opening two games, both victories.

Quarterback James Grant has many receivers to choose from, including juniors Tom Bonham and Dave Albano. Bonham was the Roadrunner signal-caller last season.

Juniors Jeff Wethrummiller and Tony Perez head the backfield for the Roadrunners, as each average about seven carries per game.

On defense, Ramapo is led by a strong linebacking corps, made up of sophomores Henry Niemczyk and Wallie Jennings and junior Joe Hudson.

Deepback Dom Pomponio heads a young group in the secondary. The junior is the team’s leading tackler and is the defense’s best in man-to-man coverage.

The Roadrunners will be off next week before travelling to Glassboro State on October 15. MSC, meanwhile, will face defending Division III National Champion Wagner in the Pride Bowl on October 8.

Indians tip East Stroudsburg, 14-12

By Bryan Moreyko
Staff Writer

Sophomore Ed Baffige led the MSC football squad to their ninth straight victory with a 14-12 win over East Stroudsburg University Saturday at Sprague Field.

The MSC streak has been running since October 3 of last year, when the Indians rolled past Ramapo, 65-0, and has continued since.

The Indians' home opener was plagued by rain and a slight wind. But those fans who braved the cold were fortunate to see a very close game.

Both teams found the weather to be a major factor, as the ball and field became extremely slippery. Coach Giancola's Indians prevailed despite the weather and despite the fact that they were playing a very respectable division II team in East Stroudsburg.

Baffige threw for two touchdowns in the game, accounting for all of the scoring for the home team. The first score of the game came on a strange but effective 36-yard pass play, resulting in an MSC touchdown.

Baffige dropped back to pass on the ESU 36-yard line, scrambled, and just as he was hit, let loose to receiver John Fiore, who leaped and came down with it for a score. The ensuing extra point by senior Tony Colasurdo made it 7-0, and MSC took that lead into halftime.

The Warriors scored in the third quarter on a field goal from 35 yards out and later benefited from a safety when the snap to MSC punter Paul Castiglia was high and he was forced to run the ball out of the end zone.

Towards the very end of the quarter, MSC struck back with Baffige hitting Scott Vega for 14 yards and six more points. The extra point kick was good, and the Indian lead jumped to 14-5.

The Warriors took the ensuing kickoff and began what was to become a 74-yard touchdown drive, highlighted by a 56-yard pass completion on a crossing pattern to a streaking Dennis Mailhot. After the extra point, the score stood at 14-12.

The MSC defense was led by senior Matt Clark, who had two cont. on p. 22.
