Presidential Fall Symposium

Redfield defines the educated person

By Lynn M. Cowan
Editor-in-Chief

Dr. James M. Redfield was the keynote speaker at the fifth annual Presidential Fall Symposium, held on Oct. 3 in Memorial Auditorium.

Redfield, professor of social thought and classics at the University of Chicago, spoke on the topic, "Defining the Educated Person: Counterpoints."

"Educators are vulnerable to demands," Redfield said in his opening remarks. "They are subject to all expectations of society. We're expected to teach a subject, and teach our society's values."

Because of these demands, he said, educators tend to make gestures rather than actions.

Redfield used language requirements as an example of these gestures. "Students are not required to learn a language anymore, but to attempt to study it for some time." This, he said, was a gesture, not an action.

Redfield then went on to define knowledge. "In most cultures, there are at least three kinds of knowledge circulating about," he said.

He listed these three types of knowledge as general knowledge, skilled knowledge, and sacred knowledge.

General knowledge, Redfield explained, consists of the things that everyone ought to know...

Skilled knowledge, he continued, consists of the things that a few people know, such as crafts.

Sacred knowledge, he concluded, consists of the things that only certain, privileged people know.

Redfield added that our culture is the exception to these three types of knowledge.

Western culture, he said, has de-mystified this sacred knowledge, but in the process, sacrifice of worldly activity has occurred.

"Most think there should be a relation of theory to the world," Redfield said.

Interdisciplinary work, though, is not the answer, according to Redfield. "When you take two disciplines and put them together, the result is a third discipline—not a combination of the first two."

Redfield said, "The gap between academia and the world is entirely appropriate and useful."

"What the world has to offer can be learned in the world," he said.

Child care center opened

8:00 p.m. throughout the academic year.

"The Child Care Center has been designed to be an exciting, inviting place where children can explore a wide variety of materials and activities," explained Nuzzo. "The center's curriculum will be developmental in nature—it will attempt to provide for the social, emotional, physical and intellectual development of each child.

According to Nuzzo there are presently 170-180 triple rooms which are occupied predominantly by freshmen. This figure has dropped from 200 since the beginning of the semester. In addition, there are 200 students on a waiting list for on campus housing.

One student commented on six people sharing a shower as, "sometimes a problem." Asked if he would like to remain on campus he stated, "I'm not discouraged. The room isn't really a problem and it's better than commuting."

A freshman described the triple situation as being, "weird getting used to, because we don't have space, and we have different sleeping hours, but we all try to be quiet."

She also said, "It's OK. I don't want to move.

Shortage of housing

By Laura Lawson
Correspondent

The demand for on-campus housing at MSC outweighs the available space, according to Dr. Ruth Lugo-Alvarez, director of residence life.

Lugo-Alvarez said, "since fall of 1984 there has been an increasing amount of students who want to remain on campus."

Lugo-Alvarez continued by saying that MSC has the capacity to house 2000 students in the traditional double room. This year 1500 students renewed their requests for housing and 1200 incoming freshmen also applied to live on campus.

Prior to Blanton Hall's being built, selection for housing was based on a "mile rule" which gave student living outside a 20 mile radius of MSC priority, said Lugo-Alvarez. After the addition of Blanton, housing was open to all.

Lugo-Alvarez viewed the increased demand for on-campus housing as a positive reaction to the residence life experience which she said integrate education and culture for an overall experience of personal growth for students.

Lugo-Alvarez said that of the approximately 2200 students living on campus there are presently 170-180 triple rooms which are occupied predominantly by freshmen. This figure has dropped from 200 since the beginning of the semester. In addition, there are 200 students on a waiting list for on campus housing.

Parking issue unresolved

By Laura Lawson Correspondent

When asked if he believed there was a problem with parking on campus, Thomas Stepnowski, assistant vice president for facilities, answered, “Yes, we don’t have enough proximity parking. We must disenfranchise someone.”

There are 4000 available parking spaces on campus, said Stepnowski, compared to the approximate 8000 cars with decals. He said that lot 28 on Clove Road generally has 300-500 empty spaces. The 350 spaces in lot 13 are said to turn over six times a day.

Lot 13 is frequently reserved for visitor use, in addition to its space limitations. According to Stepnowski and Campus Police, if more than 50 spaces are to be reserved, the campus police must notify the SGA in advance so the dates and numbers may be published in the Montclarion.

An SGA representative said this policy has not yet been instituted.

Last spring, the SGA staged a protest to call to the attention of the administration, student dissatisfaction with the use of lot 13 and the inconvenience of Freeman Hall residents who were previously required to park overnight across the campus.

The parking committee, with three student representatives, met after the protest and compiled a proposal submitted for review to Mr. William Griffith, vice president of Administration and Public Affairs at Montclair.

The proposed parking plan included suggestions for overnight parking for Freeman Hall residents in lot 30, ten designated handicap and temporarily disabled spots in lot 13, reinforcement of lot 17 as commuter parking, and the advance notification by campus police to SGA of reserved parking for visitors in lot 13.

So far, the only concrete change in parking regulations has been the allocation of 30 random overnight spaces in lot 30 for Freeman Hall residents and the establishment of ten permanently reserved handicapped spaces in lot 13, Stepnowski said.

Perly Del Vecchio, treasurer of the SGA and student representative on the parking committee, said, “(We) came to a compromise and nothing has come of it. Everybody thought it was a fair proposal and it would be accepted.”

Stepnowski said, “The protest was helpful for people to understand the problem.” On the issue of lot 13 he stated, “A philosophical difference existed between how the college treats visitors and how the protesting students think visitors should be treated.”

Del Vecchio said, “The college should be regarding the students consideration first and then outside guests and visitors.” He is concerned with who controls the requests legitimate? We don’t want the policy abused,” he said.

In reference to the proposal, Del Vecchio added, “Accepted by the committee, but not by Bill Griffith. The students voiced concern, but the administration said no.”

Stepnowski compared to the dissatisfaction with the use of lot 13 and the inconvenience of Freeman Hall residents whose visits are for the benefit of the students, he added, “It is his ‘burden to make sure we have a safe campus and parking is a component in the entire safety package.”

Proposal of mandatory ESL

By Lynn M. Cowan
Editor-in-Chief

The Hispanic Caucus held its first general meeting on Oct. 4 to discuss making English as a Second Language (ESL) grant.

Dr. Alice Freed, ESL coordinator, spoke about $73,000, one-year grant awarded to the linguistics department to expand the ESL program.

She reported on the progress the program has made in identifying students who need ESL courses to improve their English communication skills.

Freed said students are identified for testing for the ESL program based on a three-credit question Home Language Survey and examination of writing samples.

This screening process, she said, does not automatically place students in the ESL courses, but it does recommend that they be tested to determine their need for the courses.

She added that the grant has also provided funding for an ESL tutor in the campus Tutoring Center, and faculty advising for ESL courses.

Freed proposed that all properly identified students should be required to take an ESL placement test. Subsequently, if their test results showed a need, the ESL courses.

“Students are not required to take these courses, and there are some with a real need who refuse to,” she said.

Her interpretation, said Freed, was that students felt there was a stigma attached to ESL courses.

Mr. Jose Magdalena, career counselor, agreed with the proposal. “I see people graduating from this institution who really have very poor mastery of the English language. These folks are in serious trouble. If the instrument (screening process) is valid and shows the need, then the testing should be required,” he said.

Dr. Joanne Englebert of the Spanish department of the Hispanic caucus to examine why the students viewed the ESL courses as a stigma.

The caucus convened, agreeing that it would encourage students with a need for ESL training to enroll in the courses.

President’s Symposium

Liberal is superior

By Libyane McClean Correspondent

The participants of the Presidential Fall Symposium break-out session titled “Career,” agreed unanimously that liberally educated people are better prepared for the future.

Dr. Thomas Venendall of the Speech and Theatre department moderated the group session. He defined a liberal educated person as a person capable of finding knowledge.

Charles Robbins, associate employer manager for Prudential, said “This characteristic would help students tremendously in every field.”

Tina Jacobowitz of Educational Leadership said, “Liberal educated students have the ability to act reasonably, adjust their thinking, and take responsibility for their actions.”

Some students in the group explained that the priorities which have been impressed on them are different than those of the other group members. “Students are worried about themselves,” one student said, “I am worried about getting a job...a good job.”

Good jobs are often associated with the liberal majors such as business, which is why student do not major in liberal arts, the student explained.

Candelario Zapata, assistant to the dean of students, said, “Today, students treat themselves like fast food restaurants.”

Dr. Carlos Pratt of the psychology department represented, “It hasn’t always been that way.”

The students also worried about the impact of an educational institution’s reputation. According to Robbins, MSC students who are ‘pre-employment students’ can compete effectively. “Two years down the road it doesn’t matter where you went to school. Will they hire you or not can you do the job,” Robbins said. “The key to success is open-mindedness and hard work.”

Global view urged

By Jane Bech Nielsen

At the Presidential Fall Symposium break-out session titled “Global Perspective,” it was concluded that Americans must become better educated about the outside world and its interconnectedness of world affairs.

Dr. William Berlin of political science stressed that this outside world does not necessarily mean countries outside of the U.S. or the world itself.

“Tina Jacobowitz of Educational Leadership said, “Liberal educated students have the ability to act reasonably, adjust their thinking, and take responsibility for their actions.”

Masturbator terrorizes library

By Rob Tomeo
Correspondent

On Sept. 29, a female student reported to the campus police an incident that occurred on Sept. 27 at 9:00 p.m. at Sprague Library.

The female was sitting in the first floor of the library near the reference section, when a man sat down next to her and started staring at her. At first she ignored him, but she later discovered that he was masturbating. The police have a description of the man.

The campus police recently received reports from female residents in Bohn Hall on the 10th and 14th floors, that a male resident also of Bohn Hall had been harassing them.

On Sept. 30, the male reportedly hid in the women's bathrooms and stared at the females while they were using them. He also reportedly followed the females to their rooms, trying to talk to them.

On Sept. 30, the male was identified and arrested. He has been charged with harassment and trespassing and will be arraigned on Friday, Oct. 7 in Clifton Municipal Court.

Pending the outcome of the court proceedings, he has been thrown out of the dorms and suspended from school.

On Sept. 30 at 1:40 a.m., the campus police received a call from an assistant manager in Blanton Hall that a male resident was trying to break into another resident's room.

The youth who was under the influence of alcohol, was apprehended by the police and identified as being under the legal drinking age. The minor was brought to Mountainside Hospital for treatment and will be charged with illegal consumption of alcohol beverages.

On Oct. 1 close to 1 a.m., the campus police apprehended an individual that had smashed the window of a fire exit door in Bohn Hall.

The person, who was identified as a visitor and not an MSC student, claimed he was emotionally upset due to family problems. He is reimbursing the college for damages, and no charges will be pressed against him.

On Sept. 30 and 4 pm on Oct. 3, the Hoboken Police recovered the car on Oct. 4 after it had received extensive damage, including a punched out ignition, a missing front seat, and a damaged steering column.

The event is held from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m., and is free of charge. All are welcome.

Open forum on bond proposed
By William Kane and Jennifer McCall

The idea of an open forum regarding the bond issue was debated and a bill was passed allowing for the issue to be discussed with the appropriate administrators present.

Due to state regulations regarding classroom size, money from the bond issue will not go towards the construction of new classrooms.

As of now steps at Clove Road will not be built until next summer. Tom Mergola and the Welfare and Internal Affairs Committee are trying to have them built before this winter.

A letter was sent to George Bush inviting him to speak on campus. A similar letter will be sent to Michael Dukakis in the near future.

The election for President Pro. Temp. was determined unconstitutional because Tammy Burke did not receive a majority of the votes. A new election was held and Tom Czerniecki is now the new President Pro. Temp.

South American tour

By Carl Chase
Correspondent

Students can now sign up for a two-week tour of Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires during the winter intersession, the sociology department announced.

The tour is offered to students, families and friends, and may be made without receiving credits for the sociology course, Comparative Social Analysis, for which the trip is required.

Professor Benjamin Hadis, an Argentine native and expert, will conduct the tours and the course, which involves class lectures.

Departure is scheduled for Jan. 5 with participants returning on Jan. 20. The tour takes place in the South American summertime, so the four nights spent in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, will allow time to enjoy the city's famous beaches, Hadis said.

According to Hadis, the group will stay in Buenos Aires, the Brazilian capital, for nine nights at the Grand Hotel. In addition to the usual tourist attractions, the group will have some free time, and will participate in special walking tours, exploring seven neighborhoods outside the regular tourist circuit (some outside the city).

The cost of the tour is $1,250 and includes half-day tours of both cities, all accommodations and hotel tips, daily Continental breakfast, hotel room tax and service charges.

For about $40, students can opt to go on an excursion to the Paradise Islands, Brazil, Hadis added. Other excursions cost less and none are required to affect one's course grade.

Interested students can make reservations by calling Dr. Hadis at 893-7276 or 746-8029. Spaces are limited to 15.

Intro. to the Short Story

When Carla told me that my date was a little short, I thought she was talking dollars and cents, not feet and inches. So there I was at the door, in my spiked heels, staring at the top of my date's head.

All I could think was, how do I get myself out of this? I could imagine how my legs would ache if I had to walk around with my knees bent all evening. So to stall for time, while figuring out how to fake malaria, I made us some Double Dutch Chocolate.

When I brought it into the living room, I discovered that Gary was a chocolate lover too. Ahh, a man after my own heart. Okay, I decided I'll give him a chance. So we sat down and saw each other face to face for the first time. He had a nice smile.

After some small talk—I mean conversation—I discovered that we both love Updike, hate the winter weather, and both have miniature schnauzers. So, we made a date to introduce Shadow and Schatzi next week.

Packing: Do we really get what we pay for?

On Tuesday, April 12, 1988, the students of MSC held a demonstration to protest the insufficient parking on campus. Although the protest was peaceful, it was bordered from student complaints, some of the problems were in fact resolved.

A prime concern was that no visitor parking be allowed in lot 13. It was also requested that Freeman Hall residents be allowed to park in lot 30.

Protesters wanted a student majority on the Parking Committee, and hoped that students would be permitted to see the budget which shows how money from parking fees and tickets is being spent.

Finally, protesters asked that a full apology from the administration be printed in the The Montclarion for the improper use of lot 13 since the installation of the new booth.

Since last April, Freeman Hall residents have been able to utilize lot 30, there is a student majority on the Parking Committee, and a copy of the budget has been made available.

But in addition, parking fees were increased by $10 and tickets by $5. So far this semester there have been at least 29 reports of car thefts and vandalism. This leads students to the obvious question: What are we getting for our money?

The question of visitor parking in lot 13 is somewhat sketchy. According to Tommy Mergola, SGA President, there has been no visitor parking there so far this semester.

At a recent meeting of the parking committee (Mergola and SGA Treasurer Trey Per Del Vecchio are members of the committee) it was voted four to three to keep lot 13 free of visitors. The committee's recommendation was then passed on to Vice President of Finance and Administration Bill Griffith, who could choose to use the recommendation or not.

But here's the odd part: Mr. Stepanowski, Director of Facilities and a member of the Parking Committee, does not recall the outcome of any such vote for the proposal ever taking place. A copy of the minutes of the meeting has been requested by Mergola but has been met with considerable embarrassment.

Is information being suppressed? Is the administration deliberately stonewalling the efforts of the Parking Committee? In terms of parking, when will students get what they pay for?

The students of the college have better parking arrangements. After all, if the students of this college aren't accommodated, who should we accommodate? It is our belief that this serious problem will not be resolved without the full cooperation of the administration.

Fetus jailed for moms addiction

WASHINGTON—Brenda A. Vaughan is pregnant, due in Sept., to give birth to her first child. The venue for what is often called a happy event will be the D.C. Jail. Vaughan has been officially convicted of posing bad checks (for which the sentence is usually probation) and unofficially of taking drugs. The sentence for that is jail until the baby is delivered.

"I'm going to keep her locked up until the baby is born because she tested positive for cocaine when she came before me," Superior Court Judge Peter H. Wolf said when sentencing Vaughan. "She's apparently an addictive personality and I'll be darned if I'll have the baby born that way."

Some facts. Vaughan is 30 and unmarried. She was convicted of passing $721.98 in checks against the account of an employment agency where she had worked. The agency had put Vaughan through a private drug-rehabilitation program with no apparent success. Vaughan tested positive for cocaine, but admits only to using marijuana on the day of her sentencing—not what's known as a smart career move.

Wolf's decision was hailed by some as "Solomonic"—and just to show how Solomonic he is, the judge went on vacation and refuses to talk to reporters. Others, though, denounced the decision. "He was wrong to sentence her to jail to protect her fetus," said the legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "That's her business, not his."

And Dorothy Jones, president of the D.C. chapter of the National Organization for Women, said "It's just part of a terrible trend of putting fetal right over women's rights. They're treated as vessels for the fetus, not individuals. If it were a man in this case, he would have received a lesser sentence."

This is one of those dilemmas where everyone has a point. But Judge Wolf has embarked down a road that ought to give anyone pause. At what point should the state step in to play parent? After all, not much is known about infants born addicted to cocaine except that they are far better off than those addicted to heroin. One expert, Dr. Stephen Kandell of New York's Beth Israel Hospital, says cocaine addiction can result in an underweight newborn with detectably different brain-wave patterns. But the symptoms, he said, are "transient"—meaning they soon disappear and in no way can be compared to those caused by heroin addiction.

Contrast those findings with what we know about alcoholism. Not only is "fetal alcohol syndrome" life-threatening, but a pregnant woman who abuses alcohol may fall or neglect her diet. Deprived of alcohol, she may suffer seizures which could affect the blood supply of the fetus. Would the judge hold such a woman in jail? Should a judge hold such a woman in jail?

On the other hand, is the protection of Vaughan's fetus only "her business," as the ACLU says? Hardly. And does it matter that a man would be treated differently, as NOW says? Thats's silly. Men don't get pregnant. Vaughan has, and she's chosen to have her baby. She has her rights, but also her obligations. The foremost of them at the moment is to deliver a healthy baby.

Vaughan's case is symptomatic of so much that is ugly and sad in our society. Here is a judge who feels he must keep a woman imprisoned because, really, there is no other way to ensure she remains drug-free—there are not enough social workers, clinics, drug-prevention programs to do the job. Here is a judge who also knows his control substantially ends the moment a child is born. Jail turns out to be the one environment we can control—and even then not entirely. Drugs are simply not under our control.

But Wolf's good intentions are not the issue. He has reacted much as I do when I see a pregnant woman smoking—with fury, with indignation, with an almost consuming urge to berate her on the spot. But more than cowardice keeps me mum. I am not the parent. That's not my child. A danger is present, but it is neither really clear nor present. Lots of health kids are born to smokers and, from the evidence, new-borns addicted to cocaine are in no real peril.

The judge has overstated himself. He seems to be reacting to the anti-drug hysteria of the moment, subscribing in his own way to the ethic that nothing—not civil liberties as in testing, not proportion as in the Coast Guard's Zero Tolerance boat-seizure program and not common sense as when occasional marijuana use is equated to heroin addiction—should impede the war on drugs. "Just say no" may be a harmess enough slogan—but not when it's the response to a justifiable request for freedom.

Maybe not for the protection of her child, but certainly for the protection of us all, Vaughan ought to be let go.
Response to racism continues

Some remain confident in Quayle

Within a day or two after these words appear, judgment will be passed on the abilities of Dan Quayle. It can’t be supposed that George Bush does not know that the selection of Quayle as his running mate has crystallized into the ultimate question about Bush’s capacity to lead the nation. It isn’t only the old business about Quayle’s joining the National Guard presumably to avoid the real possibility of serving combat duty in Vietnam (“Why does a chicken cross the road?” is the latest taunt. Answer: “To join the National Guard.”)

That was, of course, the major anti-Quayle launch. But in this selection, Quayle has been chaperoned in ways entirely inconsistent with the respect owing to someone deemed qualified to serve as vice president. The changes in his image, which is a combination of patriotic bombast and domestic treacle, are neatly and concisely.

“I have heard worse. I’m trying to think why,” Rosenblatt said, “Well,” Rosenblatt said, pensively, “I have heard worse. I’m trying to think why.”

But after the brief exposure before the veterans groups, the impression hardened that Quayle was being tethered for fear that he would not act — and not act — persuasively. In one burst of analysis he got so tethered in his language that he was writing not only like Dwight Eisenhower, but his worst, but like Eisenhower drunk. Although any of the dozen talk shows willing and eager to invite him to appear did so, Sunday after Sunday, he remained in relative reclusion, delivering only before remote R.F.D. crowds his stump speech, which is a combination of patriotic bombast and domestic treacle.

I owe to this depressing account to relay the results of my own desultory investigations. When CBS accosted Jeane Kirkpatrick in New Orleans on the floor of the Republican convention to give her the news that Dan Quayle was the choice of George Bush, she flushed with enthusiasm. Now, Mrs. Kirkpatrick is not the kind of person who coos easily. A telephone call established that in her dealings with Quayle on the subject of arms control, she was greatly impressed by his mastery of the subject. Another call, this time to Jack Kemp, yielded a second vote of confidence.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said flat-out that Dan Quayle was not qualified to serve as vice president, that if Bush is elected, he will last for at least eight years, and that if Dukakis is elected, he will as president, that if the Bush ticket were elected, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said flat-out that Dan Quayle was not qualified to serve as vice president, that if Bush is elected, he will last for at least eight years, and that if Dukakis is elected, he will as president, that if the Bush ticket were elected, he would hope that our sportsmen would have more class than to shout “Bulls—t!” and to cheer when a member of the TSC team was injured. I hope these boys realize that the behavior they displayed was childish and definitely uncalled for.

I would like to congratulate our women’s field hockey team on a great game, and hope that in no way did they support such unsportsmen like qualities.

MSC soccer team’s behavior ruins game

I would like to direct this letter to the MSC men’s soccer team and any other male in the obnoxious group at Thursday night’s women’s field hockey game.

I would like to congratulate our women’s field hockey team on a great game, and hope that in no way did they support such unsportsmen like qualities.

I was embarrassed not only for myself, but for the school which I represent. I have a friend on the TSC team and was truly ashamed to face her and her teammates after the game.

I would hope that our sportsmen would have more class than to shout “Bulls—t!” and to cheer when a member of the TSC team was injured. I hope these boys realize that the behavior they displayed was childish and definitely uncalled for.

Circus bears the Big Apple

By Jennifer G. Stevelich
Arts/Entertainment Editor

Oh boy! The circus is coming to town. After a long absence, the Moscow Circus returns for a 14-city American tour. Currently the colorful exhibitioners offer one magnificent ring on the world’s most glorious stage. Having only one ring gives each performer the proper attention. Their acts deviate from the American big top clown antics and often gaudy/unimpressive routines.

One example from Ringling Brothers, et al, at Madison Square Garden last year involved a daring alligator wrestler. Come on, if he hadn’t swung the passive prey symbol around, there would have been no competition.

But here, the audience is dazzled by skillful, more unique acts.

From a famous form of foot juggling, incorporated from the Chinese acrobats, sisters Svetlana and Kristina toss balls and large poles to and fro with their feet. To help them catch the balls and toss other props are the symbolic bears of the Soviet Union.

Dressed in bright hats and “boy-girl costumes,” two cubs led the dance. They are a hit, replacing the clowns of the American circus and side show.

No circus would be complete without a single man in a cage with 17 Sumatran tigers. Trainer Nikolai Pavlenko commands the beasts through rings and hoops of fire. They also leap over one another and dance for Pavlenko.

An on-stage band mimics the performers with drum beats as they land, and horns as they fall. Unfortunately, all of their numbers sounded like pieces from the Starkies and Hustch series of the 1970’s. Next, let’s bring on the dancing horses! Charging onto the stage they wildly race around the ring. Acrobat mount them and swing beneath the animals and hang from manes. The trust of excitement is sounded in the same way as the audience watches in amazement.

The danger of the animals reached the patrons of the orchestra seats most as they bent up their necks to see ferocious cats at play.

Light humor is next attempted by Soviet slapstick performers. They use technical instruments for props instead of water guns and red noses. Rehearsing Benny Hill doodles and Three Stooges stunts, they live up to the reputation.

Oohs and aahs fill the theatre as The Cranes, trapeze artists, reach new heights. With grace and beauty, daring men and one woman soar in an aerial ballet. Using the backdrop, not available in an arena, stars and colors are illuminated to the music. The Cranes dismiss the standards of flying through the air with the greatest of ease.

Cirque de Soleil suspicion is a humorous circus for people of all ages. In the words of P.T. Barnum, from Barnum, their productions makes you want to “join the circus like you wanted to when you were a kid.”

Wiedlin making of her own

By John Martucci
Correspondent

This is the second part of a two-part interview with rock artist Jane Wiedlin.

Jane Wiedlin - We met and fell in love first, he was working as a manager in London when I met him, and he uh...dated or whatever for two years and then we got married just over a year ago. At that time I had fired my manager and was looking for new management and I couldn’t find anybody that I liked, I return as far as I know there isn’t a lot of good managers out there that are trust-worthy, want to work real hard and believe in their clients.

Her was this guy I was in love with right here at my disposal. So after we got married and we both decided that it would make sense for him to manage me...and people told us not to do it, that it was a big mistake.

In a way it’s worked out fine, but I will say that he’s a lot more business oriented than I am; and where as I can just walk away from the interviews and the promotions and this and that and at the end of the day, he has a real hard time not thinking about it.

Mont. - I saw the liner notes on the Scarlet and Black album (another group he manages), and they mention your relationship as proof that management and artists can work together as friends.

J.W. - Yeah, that was nice of them to say that.

Mont. - Do you have a favorite song on the album?

J.W. - Probably two, “One Heart, One Way” because it’s so romantic to me. It’s really about my husband, and some of the lines in it are written in the letters that I had sent him. So, that’s very close to my heart.

Also “Fur” because I do feel so strongly about animals and I especially enjoyed to write a song that actually had a message, but was still fun to listen to.

Mont. - Who would you like to work with in the future? Who would you like to tour with?

J.W. - Well my favorite band is Crowded House, and we’ve been trying to get on their tour, and they’re having a lot of set backs. I guess their second album isn’t doing quite as well as they wished. But, I really, really admire Neil Finn. I mean I think he’s a brilliant songwriter, and the best singer, and I guess if I could do anything with someone, I would love to either write a song with him, or sing a duet with him or something.

Mont. - You mention Neil Finn, who else do you admire?

J.W. - John Lennon, ah shoot...there are a ton of people out there. Bryan Ferry I’ve always been a big fan of. Although I guess these days I’m most interested in anyone that is associated with him as I was as a teenager. When I was a teenager I just thought he was the most sophisticated that I could imagine. I think that time to myself where I can be able to think, it changes me and any one I can write a song with him, or sing a duet with him or something.

Mont. - Do you have a favorite song on the album?

J.W. - “One Heart, One Way” because it’s so romantic to me. It’s really about my husband, and some of the lines in it are written in the letters that I had sent him. So, that’s very close to my heart.

“Fur” because I do feel so strongly about animals and I especially enjoyed to write a song that actually had a message, but was still fun to listen to.

Mont. - Who would you like to work with in the future? Who would you like to tour with?

J.W. - Bindley and George Gershwin and people like that, they did really good stuff. I really admire people like that. Hank Williams Sr. is someone I just think is, or was, awesome. It’s really tragic that he died so young. So...I don’t know, I guess just good songwriters mostly are people I look up to.

Mont. - When does songwriting continue for you, or do you ever stop?

J.W. - Actually I go in and out of phases of songwriting. I’ll write and write for months or so and then I won’t do any writing. I can’t easily write when I’m doing business stuff. Like ever since the album came out it’s turned into this whole business that I’ve just full of doom and dronm, and you commit suicide because everythings horrible. Or you can be doing business in Ireland, he refused to kiss the Blarney Stone for fear of catching AIDS or something worse. Is this guy for real!!!

Mini-Notes: People leaving record companies is starting to become commonplace. Debbie Harry has left Geffen; Sheena Easton has traded EMI for MCA and Rick James left Motown for Arista. The latter two left causing major legal battles...U2’s Rattle and Hum movie will debut in London on Oct. 20. Anyway wanna go! In MTV’s latest contest, why is INXS giving away a trailer park?

Mini-Notes II: From the “is it just me” file: Is it just me or do women in the music biz get better with age? Take Joan Jett, Lita Ford, Nancy Wilson, Belinda Carlisle, and any one of the Bangles for example. And so guys get worse? For instance, the Stones’ Mick Jagger and Keith Richards and Aerosmith’s Steve Tyler look like anorexic skeletons. Whereas on the other hand, Freddie Jackson got bigger after each album. He’s only released three albums and he’s three times the size he was on the first cover.

Quote of the Week: Bon Jovi on loyalty and friendship, “It’s important to me to have people I can depend on. What I look for in romance is friendship. I can get laid anywhere.” Well Isn’t that special? We don’t have an ego now, do we?

The answer to last week’s question (given to me by Mark MacDonald): Sting was given his nickname in high school, for wearing black and yellow sweaters that resembled a bumblebee. This week’s question was given to me by Evan Wesissman. We all know that George Harrison, Beatles guitarist BUT who preceded him? Think about it...Until next week.

Dining out

Tasting a touch of Spain

Imagine yourself in a café in Spain complete with white-washed stucco ceilings, candlelit tables and a warm, cozy atmosphere to top it off. Sounds romantic, doesn’t it? You say you don’t have the time or the funds to whisk yourself away to sunny Spain. Then why not do the next best thing? Try you hand at a Spanish dinner at Rincon de Espana. Located on 226 Thompson St. in Greenwich Village, N.Y.C., two blocks away from the Blue Note Jazz Club, The Rincon de Espana (corner of Spain) offers a fine selection of authentic Spanish cuisine.

Entrees range from the old standard of arroz con pollo (chicken with rice) to gambas al ajillo (shrimp in garlic sauce). The quality of food was excellent and the flavor was unmistakably Spanish. Most of the cuts on this record are taken from the early 1950’s when “Chicago Blues” was still forging its impression on the music world. Listeners of this record will be able to pick out the licks which Eric Clapton stole from Hubert Sumlin (Wolf’s guitarist) long before the term “Clapton is God” became a catch phrase of 1960’s.

Both humorous and ironically serious songs appear on this album which serve as the perfect vehicle for Williamson’s trademark harmonica playing. Williamson’s impact on the music world was so strong that he even found himself being backed by The Yardbirds, The Animals, and The Spencer Davis Group by the end of his career.

The last 12 cuts of this album, the final series of records from Chess records is undoubtedly one of the most influential albums in the history of rock music. The artist is Muddy Waters and the album is a reissue of Chess 1511. It is on this album that Muddy Waters achieved his trademark sound which influenced so many people in the music world.

Soccer team knots Kean, tops Dowling

By Jan Saermann
Staff Writer

The MSC soccer team battled conference leading Kean to a 0-0 tie on Wednesday night at Union.

The game was marred by bad calls and ejections. MSC Head Coach Dave Maas was ejected in the second overtime for arguing a call that almost cost the Indians the game. A Kean player was also ejected in the first overtime.

Besides the bad calls, the game was very well played. The Indians’ (7-2-3) best opportunity to score came on a corner kick by Mike Nothofer.

The ball went to freshman Louie Ken-Kwofie who had his shot hit the post and bounce away. Even though the Indians would have liked a victory, they are still unbeaten in their last seven games. Their record has jumped to 7-2-3 during that time. MSC has also moved into a tie for second place in the conference.

"The team is coming together real well," co-captain Mike Notherfer said. "One of the major reasons why is goalie Jim Stahl, who once again recorded shut-out. Center half back Charlie Smith also had a great game for the Indians.

MSC 4-Dowling 1

John Rubinietti and Charles Smith sparked the MSC soccer team to an early lead as the Indians beat Dowling 4-1 in Montclair on Saturday. The Indians took a 2-0 lead into the locker room at halftime. Dowling scored quickly in the second half, however, on a goal by James O’Boyle to cut the lead to 2-1.

Stahl concluded, "As long as we all continue to do our part, after all, I can give up five goals as long as we score six."

Stahl named Athlete of the Week

By Mary Carlonagro
Staff Writer

Senior goalie Jim Stahl has been an integral part of the strong Indian defense this season. The Indians are presently 7-2-3.

"I am very happy about the season, we’re improving with each game. With every game we click a little bit more," Stahl said.

Stahl, this week’s Montclair Athlete of the Week, believes that MSC has been successful due to a group team effort. Although the Indians are now playing together as a unit, which is the key," he continued.

"As for the rest of the season," it looks challenging, as long as we all continue to do our part. After all, I can give up five goals as long as we score six."

Look to bounce back from Pride Bowl loss

Witzal and Clark try to instill spirit in Indians

By Mary Carlomagno
Staff Writer

Trying to come back after a tough Wagner loss, seniors Mark Witzal and Matt Clark believe that character, leadership and a winning attitude will put MSC back on top.

The expectations of the entire MSC team are high. Last year was the only year the Indians did not win the conference in the past six seasons.

"We're not supposed to lose," said co-captain Witzal. Witzal, a defensive tackle, has made the New Jersey Athletic Conference All-conference team twice. This year, he was named pre-season All American.

"Last year we didn't feel like we accomplished what we wanted to accomplish, even though a lot of schools would kill for that record," Witzal continued. Clark, a three-year veteran at noseguard who made second team all-conference last year, stated, "Since I've been here, I have only lost six games. We are in a position where we will always be in contention of winning the conference or continuing into playoff games."

The example set by the veteran players will be a key in the Indian success. "The true leaders have to get back to everyone thinking as a team, whether it seems plastic or not. We have to bring the team back as a whole," Clark said.

Witzal and Clark share a true commitment that is an important part of the Indian tradition. By seeing some very good leaders through their college football careers the two seniors are able to 'role models that give that extra effort,' according to Witzal.

"What I've gotten from being at MSC is seeing good leaders come and go in the program. I keep them in the back of my head when setting an example for the younger guys, because I care very much about this team in the future," Clark explained.

A building of character through experience begins the first day of camp, Witzal stated. "It happens little by little, but, by the end of camp, the younger guys have gained the respect."

"We are not a true team just because we wear the same color jerseys or come from the same school. We've put a lot of time in. Everyone who made it through camp became a family and it's this family that will be either successful or unsuccessful, but whatever the outcome, it's going to be together," said Clark.

"There is no animosity on the team. Everyone genuinely cares about each other and wants to win so badly," Witzal said.

Both veterans stress the idea of a "complete dedication" which sets the Indians apart. Witzal and Clark share a feeling of team unity and togetherness that serves as a backdrop. They feel that winning the national championship, not individual play, is the focus.

"I want to play my position as well as I can, knowing that if everyone approaches it that way, as a team we will be successful," Clark added.

"Individual play is not as important as winning as a team. If you're a star that's great for you, but it doesn't show anything for the team," said Witzal.

Clark attributed the Indian's success to friendship, such as the bond that he and Witzal share. This in itself is the passing down of the Indian tradition. Keeping this in mind, certain expectations become harder to live up to.

After suffering a defeat to Wagner last week, the Indians are hungry for a win. "Bouncing back" becomes essential at this point.

"Perhaps this loss was a blessing in disguise," said Witzal. "Before the Wagner game we were looking down the road too far in advance instead of taking one game at a time. After all, you can't win your fifth game until you win your fourth game."

Clark said of the Wagner loss, "I don't know which is the greater pain, you hearing it and living it for yourself or being constantly reminded by other people. Now we have an opportunity to gain back our pride and respect."

Regardless of last week's upset, MSC must approach every game like it is the biggest," said Clark. "We need to take it one play at a time."

'We have the individual talent, and if everyone plays together, we will pull through. We haven't peaked yet, but when we do, we will be unbeatable," Witzal said.

Clark concluded, 'In all hopes, everyone will take this loss constructively and begin to realign their thoughts. We know now that every play is do or die.'

Fall Baseball

The Indians traveled to Rutgers-New Brunswick last week for the second time this season but fell to the Scarlet Knights, 13-8. Last weekend, MSC took a three-game trip to North Carolina and returned home with a 1-1-1 record, as they defeated Wilmington, 13-4, played to a 3-3 tie with Methodist on Saturday and lost to the same team on Sunday, 6-5.
Don’t panic! MSC still has good shot

Post-season play began Tuesday in the baseball world, and the opening game pitted the New York Mets against the Los Angeles Dodgers. The game was the opener of a best-of-seven series to determine the National League champion.

Billed as the “battle of the aces”, the game turned out to be just that as Dwight Gooden (NY) and Orel Hershiser (LA) put on a spectacular display. Gooden threw a four-hitter going seven innings and Hershiser carried a shutout into the ninth inning. Suddenly the seemingly invincible Hershiser cracked. Following Gregg Jeffries’ single, he gave up a double to Darryl Strawberry, scoring Jeffries.

Tommy Lasorda, manager of the Dodgers then committed what proved to be a fatal error for the Dodgers, as he took out Hershiser despite the fact that Hershiser had just allowed the first scoring Jeffries.

The Indians would certainly love to win this game, if for no other reason than to avenge last season’s loss which essentially cost MSC the NJAC conference title. But it’s also a big game because it will be interesting to see how the Indians bounce back from last week’s game. Last year, the Indians faced East Stroudsburg for a season-opening loss to Wagner, and won a game that wasn’t as close as the 13-2 final score appears. And after the Indians lost to Keansauk, they beat Ramapo 65-0 the following week.

Track team 5th in Bloomburg Invit., blanks NYU

By Tracy Anderson

The MSC track team once again proved to have a powerful group of legs as they vigorously ran into position five at the Bloomburg Invitational last Saturday and achieved a major shutout Tuesday against New York University (NYU).

The two top runners, Rosa Domingues and Jennifer Abraham, brought home excellent standings as they placed ninth and tenth overall in Bloomburg and first and second with times breaking 20:00 in the dual meet at NYU.

“My times are improving, but I’d like to get them even lower,” said Domingues.

“They are very consistent runners and have high potentials,” said Blanton. Anderson and Wypisz took third and fourth positions at NYU Tuesday afternoon.

Despite the victories this past week, Blanton has anxiety in his voice while talking about the New Jersey Championships being held Saturday at Holmdel Park.

“We have the top four runners racing as a pack, but we need a fifth up there or else we are in trouble,” said Blanton. Blanton is looking toward sophomore Teresa Lewis or junior Jill Robinson to join the pack.

The lady Indians will be competing on a difficult course and against outstanding runners but assistant coach Collura is confident the girls can take first place.

“The team is running very well and I think the girls can pull it off and shoot for first place on Saturday,” said Collura.

The team will be in action in the NJIAAW/NJAC championships meet in Holmdel Saturday, and will travel to Lincoln University Wednesday for a 4:00 meet.

Wagner quarterback Greg Kovar threw three touchdown passes, all in the first half, to lead the Seahawks to a 51-21 victory over MSC Saturday in the tenth annual Pride Bowl.

The Wagner point total was the second highest point total ever scored against MSC. The school record, set by East Stroudsburg in 1946, is 53 points. The Indians found themselves behind 14-0 after the first quarter and 28-0 at halftime.

The Indians found themselves behind 14-0 after the first quarter and 28-0 at halftime before scoring two touchdowns in the third quarter to cut the deficit to 28-14.

The Seahawks held MSC to 16-14 in their only conference game.

Defending champ Kean to get stiff test from MSC

By Bryan Morytko

The New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC) champion Kean Cougars take on the Indians Saturday in Union.

Last year it was Kean's upset of MSC that set the stage for their conference title. Both MSC and Kean finished the year 5-1 in the NJAC. However, because Kean defeated the Indians 16-14 in their only meeting, the Cougars snatched the title.

Second year Head Coach Glenn Hedden, a 1972 MSC graduate, admits that the conference will be more balanced this year but feels Kean can defend the conference.

That will very likely depend on this week's game as MSC is favored to win the NJAC. The Indians' response to Hedden? As quarterback Ed Baffige said, "We'll (Indians) be looking for revenge in the Kean game."

The Cougars lost only five lettermen last year, among them only two starters. Thus, this is essentially the same squad that surprised the Indians last year.

The offense is led by senior quarterback Dave Johnson and his favorite receiver, tight end Kevin McGuirl. This combination accounted for ten touchdowns last year and could be the key to the Kean offense.

Sophomore running back Daryl Butts ran for seven touchdowns last year to lead the running game. Meanwhile, Craig Davis averaged seven and a half yards per carry on 73 attempts.

Along with McGuirl, sophomore split end Rodney Scott is a formidable receiving threat.

Key Matchups:

MSC QB Ed Baffige vs. Kean Secondary- Baffige racked up a lot of yardage last week but seemed to make a lot of forced passes while the defense pressured him. The Kean secondary is a young but powerful one.

MSC Outside Linebackers vs. TE McGuirl- McGuirl is the key to the Cougars' passing offense. Coming off a season in which he was named Kodak All-American, McGuirl looks to finish his career on a high note, and this may be the biggest game of the season. If the Indians can shut him down, or even slow him down, Johnson will have to find some other sure hands to lead the Cougars down field.

MSC Receiver Amod Field vs. Kean Secondary- Field has ten receptions on the year for 247 yards and an incredible 24.7 yard average. Last week Field caught his longest of the season at 80 yards. If the Cougars can't stop Field, it will prove to be a long night for Kean.

MSC split end Amod Field caught two of Baffige's three touchdown tosses. The first, an 80-yard bomb, set a Pride Bowl record, while the second was a 15-yard reception.

MSC fell to 3-1 with the loss, while the Seahawks improved their record to 3-1.

The Indians will play their second conference game of the year this week when they travel to Union to take on Kean, while Wagner returns home to face Newport News Saturday. For a preview of the MSC-Kean game, see the story below.
