Rise in thefts and security at Clove

By Anthony DiPasquale
Staff Writer

In response to an extreme increase in apartment robberies during the fall semester, campus officials recently met to discuss possible safety measures.

Among those present at the Jan. 26 meeting were Philip Calitre, director of Campus Police, and representatives from Residence Life, including supervisor Doug Cooper, investigating officer sergeant Debra Newcombe, and Clove Road’s new director, Shelley Jackson.

Clove Road experienced 18 break-ins of both the downstairs and upstairs residences this past semester. According to campus’ police records, last year there were four attempted forced entries and only one successful break-in.

“Rise has been a different type of forced entry this year,” Newcombe said. “Usually, the only problems we’ve had has been when a window has been left open, but with these cases there is a great deal of damage to the doors and locks.”

Calitre said that he and Dean of Students Dr. Edward Martin, in conjunction with other Residence Life officials, have begun to develop new strategies for apartment protection.

Newcombe said the new measures planned are improving security hardware such as better reinforced dead bolts for the doors, and strike plates for each individual apartment and main entries and only one successful break-in.

Flea Market
The flea market sells a variety of low-priced, high-demand items on the first floor of the Student Center. Gold, silver, and costume jewelry are sold in the flea market, along with leather handbags, scarves, clothing, and records and tapes. Many merchants offer a free layaway plan for students, and have special sales near the holidays. The flea market is located between the Bookstore and the candy store.

SGA News
SGA President shows concern over yearbook cartoon controversy
By Tom 'Bull' Correspondent
President Thomas Mergola expressed concern last night at the SGA meeting over a controversial cartoon published in the yearbook last semester. The cartoon, which illustrates the hiring of a Black man because of his race, has recently been the focus of much attention.
"The repercussions of such a sensitive issue are going to affect us all," Mergola said. "There [students], administrators and faculty, are very unhappy about it." He also said that there is a petition being signed by many people on campus.
Mergola asked the twenty-five attending legislators to review the cartoon and give him their reactions. As for his own personal opinion, Mergola said, "I'm not going to let that be known at this time."

The free phone service, traditionally offered by the SGA, will be reinstalled this semester. The service, which allows students to place certain long-distance calls for free, was discontinued last semester because of excessive vandalism. Mergola said, "I think it is one of the best services we can offer."

Finally, it was announced that another house in the Greek Council will be formed. It is being established for professional fraternities.

New Rat hours
The Rat will be open again on Thursday nights serving alcoholic beverages and soda. Admittance will be with MSC I.D. only.
The Rat has also announced a new service which went into effect last night. A non-alcoholic bar complete with DJ and sparklers was opened to all patrons under 21.
The service has been introduced for a trial period of four weeks, and if results are good, will become part of the Rat's regular activities every Wednesday night.

Douglas A. Blackburn has been chosen to replace William H. Griffith to head the department for finance and administration in the capacity of vice-president.

Blackburn will serve in the position until MSC can find a replacement.

Griffith has accepted a similar post at California State University at Long Beach.

Blackburn took over on Jan. 25, although the transition process has been taking place over the last two months. He is currently the chief operating officer of the Faculty Student Co-op.

He has also been a partner in a Big Eight accounting firm and chief financial officer of a major corporation. Blackburn is also an independent management consultant.

Educated at Yale, Rutgers and New York University, he has a bachelor's degree in industrial administration, an MBA in accounting and an advanced degree in human resource management. He has also taught at New York University as an adjunct professor.

While he has been in office for only a short period, he has already faced a host of issues. Blackburn said that a financial audit had given MSC a clean audit report which means that no irregularities have been found in the accounts.

He added that the financial statements show adequate reserves that could be used to tide over the current financial crisis in the state which will consequently affect MSC.

"The college receives 75 percent of its revenue from the state and hence if the state has budgetary problems, MSC can expect to feel the effects of that," said Blackburn.

He said "We have been examining Governor Tom Kean's budget, but in initial analysis, it seems we haven't got everything we asked for." "We requested approximately $41 million and against that the governor has authorised about $39 million."

He also addressed the hiring freeze that is currently in effect.

"We are prepared to work with the state on limited resources to the college, but we cannot run it if every applicant has to be run through a review board," he said.

"The freeze is across the board unless there is a specific exemption. We have got adjunct faculty to a large extent. We have submitted a substantial amount of material for the board to review, but we have not received any response yet."

"With regard to the searches for the president and the vice president for finance and administration, both have been exempted from the freeze," said Blackburn.

"With regard to the job thus far, he said, "It has been a very interesting week. I have inherited a very talented and capable staff and I am looking forward to serving for the next several months."

AARGuard Detective Agency, has been alerted to the situation, and will take more active measures of patrol, along with both visible and undercover surveillance, said Calitre.

Campus Police and the college administration will be looking at all possibilities throughout their investigation, not excluding the chance it might be a resident or other inside party.

“We are looking into the possibility that it might be an inside job,” said Calitre. “Surveillance, in addition to patrols which have been immediately summoned to the scene of the crime, has investigated the surrounding woods and roads without finding any trace of the thieves.”

For now, the only thing certain is that there is no pattern of time or area for the break-ins. The thefts occur at all times of the day and night, often with the residents still home in the apartments, Martin said.

Martin added that he wants the Clove Road community to “be aware that something unusual is going on and to take extra measures to protect their valuables and irreplaceable items until the problem can be resolved.”

Periodic safety and maintenance inspections of the apartments will also be enacted, and those who fail to comply with the regulations will be fined, he said.

Lynde discusses faculty concerns

Addressing the hiring freeze, he said that despite his efforts to get a host of appointments exempted from the Employment Review Board, only a small number of adjunct faculty and the president and vice-president vacancies were allowed.

Lynde said that the college would attempt to dodge the hiring freeze through the development of a human resource system. The system will allow MSC to control its own payroll and hence be independent of any freeze in the future implemented by the governor.

Clothing theft in College Store

By Rob Tomeo
Staff Writer

On Jan. 18 at 3:00 p.m., the Book Manager reported to the campus police that a bookstore employee saw another bookstore employee leave the store with a college sweatshirt concealed under his clothing.

The bookstore pressed criminal charges of shoplifting against the accused thief who is a student. The alleged thief is appearing in Little Falls Municipal Court on Feb. 1.

Back in September, three female Bohn Hall residents signed complaints against a male Bohn Hall resident who had been harassing them. On Jan. 30, in Clifton Municipal Court, the male resident pleaded guilty to several charges brought against him, and received fines totalling over $1,000.

He also received a 10 day jail sentence which was suspended and will remain suspended providing that he does not violate his probation. He also has been banned from all residence halls and must enroll in an alcohol/drug program.

On Jan. 14, four juveniles were arrested after illegally entering Blanton Hall at 11:20 p.m. A patrol officer had observed the four youths running toward Blanton Hall.

He then saw them in the building lobby. The officer called for assistance, and the police searched the building, eventually finding the juveniles on the 3rd floor.

The juveniles fled the scene and the police finally apprehended them outside. The youths said that they had been drinking in a nearby park and were looking for a vending machine. No charges are being brought against them.

On Jan. 24, at 4:40 a.m., in the Clove Road apartments, it is believed that two individuals forcibly entered a “C” apartment and then went upstairs where they opened the door to a girl’s bedroom.

The intruders stole a T.V. and then fled. The campus police have no suspects.

On Jan. 25, a car stolen from East Orange was recovered in lot 28. The thieves that abandoned the car made failed attempts to steal an 84 Dodge Conquest and an 87 Isuzu Impulse, but finally succeeded in stealing an 87 Mazda RX7. The car was recovered in Newark on Friday, Jan. 27.

Between 8:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m., on Jan. 29, someone set women’s underwear on fire near the women’s lockerroom in Panzer Gym. The matter is being investigated.

Millard Fuller, founder and executive director of Habitat for Humanity, will speak at MSC to celebrate New Jersey's first campus chapter on Feb. 11, at 7:30 p.m. in rooms 411-414 of the Student Center.

Habitat for Humanity, an ecumenical grassroots ministry founded in 1976, is committed to helping provide poor families with housing through the use of private funds and volunteer labor. Today, Habitat has 324 projects in the U.S. and works in over 25 countries.

The new MSC/Habitat chapter will support the local Newark and Paterson projects. A special collegiate volunteer work day is planned for Feb. 11, at the Newark work site located in the Central Ward at 294-298 South Orange Ave.

Many public and college officials, including Newark Mayor Sharpe James and MSC's Acting President Richard A. Lynde, will be a part of the work party.

Plans now call for the structure to be renovated into five to four bedroom units with a community center.

Five families have already been selected as homeowners. Under Habitat guidelines, these homeowners must contribute 300 hours in building or renovating their own home.

For further information about Habitat for Humanity or the work day/campus celebration, please call the Newark office at 373-1238. Students who would like to become part of the new MSC campus chapter should contact Gennyfer Davenport, acting president, at 783-1875 or Lise Greene at 893-4213.

CLASS I OF SGA
The problem with p. 133 edition. How exactly does a political cartoon become more “racial” for administrative quotas?

In a memo written by James E. Harris, assistant dean of students, Memos written from three faculty members suggest that the MSC administration made a mistake when they allegedly hired Dr. George R. Petty to cash a $5 personal check in this country than it is to buy a gun. The NRA would have us believe that its main preoccupation is the protection of the constitutional rights of people who wear those big earmuffs when they shoot their pistols with the fun handle or who people who enjoy “harvesting” the occasional deer. Not really. Those people have no stake in seeing the legalization of armor-piercing bullets of mass murder weapons; gun enthusiasts are just shills.

According to Webster’s Dictionary, a yearbook is a school publication that is compiled by a graduating class and serves as a record of the year’s activities. So even in those broad terms, the MSC track team controversy deserves mention in a publication whose sole purpose is to document events that occurred in that year. No one said these events had to be sugarcoated for faculty and administrative consumption.

MSC administration made a mistake when they allegedly hired a Black coach over a white one simply to fill a quota. The solution is not to simply make La Campana the scapegoat because of a re-published cartoon. Instead of trying to show the track coach incident under MSC’s giant carpet we should use it as an opportunity to see our mistake and make sure this type of racial incident never occurs again. Isn’t that the responsibility of a student publication?
More problems plague Clove Road residents

To the editor:

What a break I had! I got to relax a little, catch up on the latest movies, I even squeezed in a little job-hunting. But I think the highlight of my vacation was coming back to my modest little Clove Rd. apartment on New Year's Eve to find the door lock broken and the majority of our valuables gone. Just imagine the excitement I felt when I found out the lock couldn’t be fixed until two days later! (I suppose locksmiths need a vacation too)

“That’s alright,” said our unit manager, “our trusty campus police will be keeping an extra eye out.”

Well, that certainly comforted me.

Since there was no way I was going to stay in an empty apartment with no lock, I was forced to leave with the doors open, with the sole comfort of knowing that campus police were keeping an “extra eye out.” Needless to say, the thieves returned to steal the last item of value left hidden in my room.

I kept having to ask myself if all of this really happened. Every time a U.M. number was dialed (he or she was not made aware we were robbed from the previous U.M. on duty) Campus police didn’t seem to know much about our predicament either, even though we had filed a report (I guess they were too busy keeping that extra eye out).

I appreciate the necessity of having different shifts of people on duty. But is it too much to ask for a little communication between them?

Today I heard some rumors on the shuttle bus that they might have caught the person(s) who knew how to climb a ladder. But as of this writing, we have yet to be contacted by anyone with the good news of our valuable items being returned.

They say an advantage to living in Clove is not having to move all of our valuables out during the month of January. I suppose in a way that is true. I guess it doesn’t matter any more—not for me, anyway. You see, I have no valuables left. Might I make a suggestion for other residents who plan on living here for semesters to come? When you leave your apartment, put your stereos and TV’s outside the door. This way, the thief won’t have to bother breaking in (he or she will get in anyway), and you won’t have to go through all of the red tape of getting maintenance to fix your lock, (it might not get fixed, anyway). Oh, did I forget to mention we had to wait an extra day for the locksmith?

So here I sit in my painfully quiet apartment, which will most likely remain so for the rest of the semester. I don’t see a need to reinvest in more equipment only to have it stolen during spring break.

Paul's gag offends reader

To the editor:

I found John Paul’s Gag Reflex drawing in the December 15 issue of The Montclarion obscene, to say the least. Please note that I do not call it a cartoon because cartoons are supposed to be funny.

As a mother, I find it insulting to all mothers.

Since Paul so proudly put “MOM” on the Christmas stocking, he must not have any respect for his own. Perhaps, he is to be pitied.

Proposition 42 and 48

Educational disadvantages that students may have received from a poor educational system.

But it's more than that. We're talking about the role of sports in education. Basketball is a business. The athletes are part of that business. They are often paid for their services, and that payment can come from the institution or from sponsors. So, when we talk about Propositions 42 and 48, we're not just talking about the school's ability to recruit. We're talking about the impact on the athletes themselves.

At the root of the problem is the fact that these athletes go through 12 years of school without learning much, but such is the state of the American educational system.

Consider the scholarships a salary. Mike Royko suggests paying those athletes, since they are working and not learning. As far as I'm concerned, they are already receiving payment for their services, in the form of a four year scholarship that many academic students could only dream of.

No deferments will be given for PLUS or SLS Loan Applications. You must file these applications by May 1, 1989 and have loan proceeds to meet your fall term bill.
Players’ performance reveals a hideous fate

By Antoinette Doherty

What is hell? Players’ presentation of No Exit, by Jean-Paul Sartre, is a poignant depiction of what hell could be. The cast consists of four actors. The Bell Hop, played by Jonathan “Craig” Adams, is the host in the beautiful resort called Hell. One by one he leads his guests into a room with no mirrors, windows, or light switches. Each guest expects to find some hideous fate awaiting them. Much to their surprise, there are no such obvious tortures. Cradeau, played by Mark McCausland, is the first of the trio to be put in the room. He tries to come to terms with his situation. When Inez, portrayed by Cheri Fiora, and Estelle, played by Kris Albertson, are placed in the room with him, that is when the torture begins.

Cradeau is the only one to truly figure out the situation. For these three, hell is other people: each other.

Cheri Fiora’s portrayal of Inez is energetic. Her manipulating, sarcastic personality is displayed with clarity and a little slyness. She is ruthless. One can easily see how she got where she is. Kris Albertson, as Estelle, does a splendid job of creating Inez’ hell. Materialistic, superficial, and cruel, Estelle insists that she does not belong in hell. Ms. Albertson’s combination of femininity and a calculating manner creates an incessant struggle between Inez and Cradeau for Estelle’s affection. Mark McCausland does his job nicely, however, at times he should have been stronger in trying to overcome his cowardice, but he balances the two women well and is successful in trying to bring some logic into such a ridiculous situation.

Set designer, Brian Shnipper, creates a plain set that is complemented with lighting by Julie Altheimer. There was a feeling of doom and ugliness lacking from the furnishings that was more than made up for by the eerie red lighting that created a certain depth in this illusion of hell.

Director LaVaughn Slaven unites all aspects of this production with style. The ensemble cast reflects this style through their closeness and accuracy. This show is definitely worth the effort. No Exit runs February 1, 2, 3, 4, at 8 p.m. with a matinee at 2:15 p.m. on Feb. 3. All shows are in room 126 in the Student Center Annex. For more information call 893-5159.

The Living Years breathes new life into Mike and the Mechanics

By Dominic Pandiscia

The Living Years, the latest release by Mike & The Mechanics, is the second project of such by Genesis member Mike Rutherford. This follow up album to the highly successful Mike & The Mechanics is filled with many of the same pop hooks and catchy lyrics as its predecessor.

The Living Years is a strong follow up to the previous Mike & The Mechanics album and features the same lineup of musicians including Paul Carrack who offers his soulful voice to the catch songs on the album, which proves to be somewhat weak lyrically.

Mike Rutherford, being 1/3 of the creative force behind Genesis, provides lush keyboard arrangements to the pop-based songs which make up The Living Years. At times, the keyboard arrangements prove to be the saving grace of the songs.

Members of Genesis offer their contribution on “Black & Blue,” as the liner notes state, playing the “riff” for the song. This cut proves to be among the strongest on the album. Another suggested cut from the album include “Don’t” which is a sarcastic ballad, “Blame” which could easily be on the Billboard dance charts, and “Beautiful Day”, which would successfully fit in on any Genesis album of the past 6 years. Another cut entitled “Nobody Knows”, which sounds strikingly like “Throwing It All Away” from the Genesis release, Invisible Touch.

Although these are perhaps the strongest cuts on the album, the remainder is still worth giving attention to. In places that at times, the songs may border on banal pop music, but they are successfully saved from the abyss by the creative talent of Mike Rutherford. The final product is a selection of songs which could easily find its way to the Billboard top 10 chart, while providing the listener with much more substance than the average chart topping releases.

WELCOME BACK MSC

We at The Montclarion hope you’ve had a restful, fruitful break. Now that you are back, we hope that you would entertain the thought of writing for our arts pages. Yes, you too can be a star. Please leave responses of interest in the Student Center, room 113. Have a great semester!

Nolan’s Notes

By Jarrett Nolan

Hello and welcome to the first column of 1989. On Monday, Jan. 30 the American Music Awards were broadcast. The show itself was slow paced, almost comatose. However, I muddled through three hours of glitz to give you this report.

George Michael was the most noted artist with four nominations and ended up walking away with three awards. Ironically, two of his wins were in the R&B field: favorite male and album. Michael Jackson was given a special award for lifetime achievement, but before Eddie Murphy had given it to him, we had to sit through a 10-minute video montage of M.J.’s nation wide tour. Other winners included Freddie Jackson, Guns N’ Roses, D.J. Jazzy Jeff & the Fresh Prince, Tracy Chapman, Al B. Sure!, Del Leppard, and Gladys Knight & the Pips.

MINI-NOTEs, VOL. 1 & II: Rod Stewart performed Forever Young on the AMA’s complete with the Little Orphan Annie-looking kid. Why was he there? Wasn’t it past his bedtime? Guns N’ Roses performed their acoustic favorite, Patience. Is it just me or did they play the same as he did in the Sweet Child O’Mine video only slower?...M.J accepted his award sporting black patent leather and a World Wide Wrestling Federation belt. (Got one?)

While he was on stage, I was staring hard at the TV for his plastic surgery scars and melting face...Whitney Houston’s acceptance speech consisted of: 6 “Thank you’s,” 5 “Ooh’s,” 4 jiggles, 3 jumps, 2 hops, and 1 “Look, Ma! I got another one! This makes 10!” You ungrateful bum...New Edition should keep up on other people’s albums instead of only their own. While reading the nominations in the heavy metal category, they said Appetite for Destruction and O.U.B’twelve’. Wake up guys and get a clue...

In an unrelated note: M.J.’s sister, La Toya, recently posed nude for Playboy. Let me guess, this is a last ditch effort to boost a [[X]] non-existent career...And now, the first trivia question of the year: In the Information Society single, What’s On Your Mind, Leonard Nimoy chants “Pure Energy.” I wanna know what Star Trek episode that line is from. Think about it...Until next week...

The MSC hockey team rolled over Columbia University Sunday night, on the strength of a Jon Capristo hat trick.

Winter break brings peaks and valleys

Liddy led the Indians with 14 points and 4 rebounds while junior Pat Brunner and Fitzpatrick each registered 13 points.

Mon., Jan. 30-The men took on Hartwick College in a non-conference matchup at Panzer Gym. Down by ten at halftime, the Indians swiftly cut the gap and took a two-point lead on a Liddy jumper five minutes into the second half. But MSC collapsed thereafter and dropped an 85-77 decision to the Warriors. Liddy finished with a team-high 21 points.

Tues., Jan. 31-The lady Indians lost a tough one to Kean, 57-55, at Panzer Gym. Down by as many as nine in the second half, MSC clawed back into it and tied the score, 55-55, on Stephanie Zielinski layup. After a Susan Rice jumper gave the Cougars a 57-55 lead, the Indians had a chance to win it but couldn’t convert at the buzzer. Wilson led MSC with 18 points, while Savio had 19 boards.

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

By Kenny Peck

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Some foods may promote cancer, while others may protect you from it.

Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A in carrots, pumpkin, winter squash, and tomatoes, citrus fruits and Brussels sprouts.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, Kohlrabi, cauliflower.

Fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fats, salt or nitrite-cured foods such as ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Now, more than ever, you know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

MSC’s Monaco to face Krieger in battle of best

By Kenny Peck

Sports Editor

MSC wrestler Karl Monaco, ranked second in the country at his 150-pound weight class, will face number one ranked Tim Krieger of Iowa State next Tuesday in Pennsylvania.

Monaco, who sports a career record of 120-7, is confident but wary of his February 7 opponent.

“He’s quick on his feet,” the senior from Clifton said. “I’ll have to be able to out from the bottom in order to win.”

Monaco came into the season ranked third in the country but moved up to second when Dave Morgan of Bloomsburg was defeated. He, along with Pete Gonza­le­z of MSC, is looking to eventually become only the third wrestler to emerge from the Division III school to win the Division I National Championship.

In preparation for the match, Monaco has done something he doesn’t ordinar­ily do—watch films on his opponent.

Co-captain Gilmore a bright spot in a dark MSC season

By Mary Carlomagno

Staff Writer

Consistency is Greg “G-man” Gilmore’s main objective for the remainder of the 88-89 season. Although the Indian hoopsters have struggled through most of the schedule, there has been a few bright spots. Gilmore is one of them.

At the New Jersey Institute of Technology (NJIT) Winter Classic on January 6th and 7th, MSC waxed Fairleigh Dickinson 84-63, gaining their largest margin of victory in the last two years.

The NJIT tourney provided many opportunities for the young Indian tribe. Not only did MSC have its largest point total of the year, but also afforded the Gilmore-led Indians a chance to perform.

“At NJIT we proved to ourselves that we have the ability to beat the better teams,” co-captain Gilmore said.

A 10-1 NJIT team fell to MSC in the tournament championship, which ended in an 81-79 overtime win. Gilmore, who was instrumental in the MSC victory was named tournament MVP.

Although Gilmore was the team high-scorer with 16 and 17 points respectively, Gilmore attributes the award to his defensive play.

“I prefer the switch to forward where I feel more comfortable,” said the one-time guard.

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia.

In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week’s issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. Who said of left field in Yankee Stadium in October: “It gets late early out there”?
2. How many home runs did Mickey Mantle hit the season Roger Maris belted 61?
3. What piece of track and field equipment is eight and five-eighths inches in diameter?
4. What infielder-outfielder was dubbed Otto the Swatto?
5. Who was baseball’s Old Roman?

This week’s stumper: What National League team rotated coaches as manager in 1961 and 1962?

MSC hoop teams endure long road stint, losing streak over winter break

By Kenny Peck
Sports Editor

For MSC's two basketball teams, the winter break was an emotional roller coaster during which time both teams hit incredible highs and disappointing lows.

Wed., Dec. 14-The men traveled to Jersey City to take on the Gothic Knights after posting their first win of the season on December 10.

An erratic beginning put MSC in a hole early, a hole that Jersey City never let MSC climb out of. Trailing 43-22 at halftime, the Indians played a much-improved second half, outscoring the Knights 30-26, but fell, 69-52.

A bright spot for the Indians was the defense, which caused Jersey City to turn the ball over 32 times. Chris Albertson led the Indians with 12 points and seven rebounds.

Sat., Dec. 17-Both the men and the women played William Paterson, with the women traveling to Wayne and the men playing host at Panzer Gym.

The lady Indians, coming off an unbelievable come-from-behind win over Jersey City, could not pull another one out as they trailed by as many as 18 points en route to a 54-50 loss.

Sue Becker led the Indian attack with 22 points while Donna Gulbin added 13 and 12 apiece from Albertson.

The men fared no better, as they lost to the Pioneers by a 76-59 margin. The Indians had an 11-point second half lead and then watched it disappear again on February 11.

Juniors Greg Gilmore and Chris Albertson led the way 11 apiece, while Vin Gulbin added 10 for MSC.

Thurs., Dec. 29-30-The lady Indians took part in the Florida Atlantic Basketball Tournament and came away with a third place finish.

MSC, the only Division III school in the tournament, was overwhelmed by a tough Northern Michigan squad, losing by a 76-44 count. Carolyn Savio registered 20 rebounds for the Indians.

But MSC bounced back in the consolation game, however, posting a 67-61 victory over Rosary College. Becker had the best game of her fine career, scoring 34 points to pace the Indians.

Tues., Jan. 7-The lady Indians emerged with a 66-62 overtime win, as Sue Becker scored the final 11 points of regulation for MSC, including a bucket with 13 seconds left, to send the game into overtime.

Becker finished with 23 points, while Wilson had 16.

In the opening round game, MSC got 18 points from Gulbin and 12 apiece from Albertson and Tim Liddy to secure an 84-63 victory over FDJ-Madison.

In the championship round, the Indians were led by Greg Gilmore, who poured in 17 points, and Liddy, who knocked in 14. It was the first time in two years that the Indians won two games in a row.

Sat., Jan. 7-The lady Indians traveled to Union but were downed, 78-66, as the Cougars shot almost 60 percent in the second half.

Wilson netted 28 and Becker contributed 27 points.

Thurs., Jan. 12-Despite a 24-point performance by All-American Greg Grant, the Lions cruised to a 110-73 win at Panzer Gym. cont. on p. 22
