3-30-1989

The Montclarion, March 30, 1989

The Montclarion

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/561

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Presidential search nearly complete

By Lilianne McClane, Julia D'Martino and Paul Mamilly

The search for a new presi­dent entered its final stages this week as the Board of Trustees interviewed the candidates recom­mended by a search com­mittee. An open reception was also held for each candidate this week so that he/she could meet with the college community.

The candidates include Rich­ard A. Lynde, acting presi­dent, MSC, and Irwin R. Reid, Dean and John Stagmaier Pro­fessor of Economics and Busi­ness Administration, The Uni­versity of Tennessee at Chatta­nooga.

Other candidates are Helen Popovich, president of Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton, Florida and Michael P. Riccards, president of St. Johns College, Santa Fe, New Mex­ico.

One candidate, Dr. Kala M. Stroup, president of Murray State University, Kentucky, withdrew, citing personal reas­ons.

Acting President Lynde pre­sented his ideas and views on MSC, and what he plans to do if he is appointed president by the board, on March 27.

According to Lynde, govern­ing a campus is an extremely complex process. He compared it to a tug of war between various interest groups. The president's role is to mediate and be an intermediary and a communication point between the groups, said Lynde.

SGA News:

N.J. Senator addresses SGA on student issues

By D. Thomas Checkur, Staff Writer

Senator Gabre Ambrosia, a democratic representative of Bergen County, spoke with SGA legislators last night concern­ing the controversial issue of which have been affecting the student body.

Ambrosia, who is the chair­man of the committee investi­gating the Garden State Park­way toll increase, strongly condemned the increase prop­osal.

“We discovered a whole series of abuses,” Ambrosia said. “All of those meetings were done in closed session; in total violation of the Sunshine laws.” He said the violations were systematic and determined.

According to Ambrosia, the Parkway administration de­fends the toll increase for the purpose of paying for road maintenance. He said the large bulk of the budget isn't used to upkeep the roads.

“Only $30 million goes to the road maintenance,” Ambrosia said. “$400 million goes towards toll collection costs and the administra­tion.”

Ambrosia also felt that rem­oving the toll plazas would eliminate many problems. “The road would be a much safer road without toll barriers,” Ambrosia said. “Traffic would move freely.” He added that stop and go traffic contributed to cont. on p. 3

SGC's advisement system, re­ward good teaching and encour­age innovation in the college as president,” Popovich said.

“Want to make the students feel they are part of the college,” Popovich said.

Popovich added that she hopes to increase financial and alumni support. “I would work towards increasing private and corporate donations to aid the state's diminishing input,” she said. “I want to build bridges to the alumni because with their help MSC can become stronger.”

Popovich, who received her Ph.D. from the University of Kansas in 1965, said there is a need for a balance between the professional studies programs and general education require­ments. “I have greater respect for pre-professional studies than the liberal arts program because they are teaching skills the student needs for their first job experience,” she said.

“I will set the tone for a humane environment at MSC,” Popovich said. “A college must possess integrity and optimism—colleges must be the most op­timistic institutions in society,” she said.

Michael P. Riccards, Presi­dent of St. John's College, presented his vision for MSC on March 28.

Riccards talked about finding endowments from corporations to fund programs at MSC in a period of economic decline.

Riccards said a “happy student and a well-regarded student” would be the best way for MSC to regain its pre-eminence among state colleges, rather than in a major investment in media consultants and other such devices.

“The role of the president should include more communica­tion with legislators” said Riccards, “so that the message of what's being done is spread.”

Asked about the increased rate of adjuncts in the school, he said he felt “a decrease in adjuncts will come only when they become so expensive that they are not an alternative.”

The presidential search began in the fall of 1988 after the resignation of Dr. Donald Wal­ters.

Higher education cited for failing to include humanitarian qualities

By Joan Groom and Sean Macc

Dr. Franklin Littell, a Methodist preacher for 55 years, spoke on March 15 at 8 p.m. in the Kops Lounge. He was the second lecturer in the series titled: “New Departures In Jewish-Christian Rela­tions,” sponsored by the School of Humanities and Social Scien­ces.

Littell asked, “How would you answer the charge that the typical product of the modern university is a technologically educated barbarian?”

Today's college graduate is “someone who knows how to do something highly specific in the technical sense and is not inhibited by questions of mor­als, ethics or religion,” he said. These graduates may not be any different than those that master­minded the Holocaust, said Littell.

Littell emphasized that Christendom was important to regain its pre-eminence among state colleges, rather than in a major investment in media consultants and other such devices.

Himmler was proud of the large number of Ph.D.'s he had in his department,” Littell said. “The Holocaust was a wa­tershed event in human history, not only something unfortunate that happened to the Jews, but something very unfortunate that happened to the credibility of Christianity,” he said.

He said, “I want to build bridges to the alumni because with their help MSC can become stronger.”

Lynde did refer to a “signif­icant shift in the public” that the re­lationship between the govern­ment and the publics is soured. “It is the public's sense of responsibility for the apathy to spending, admission policies and financial matters were barely mentioned.

Lynde said to the audience that “We must deal with the truth.”

Littell said, “I think it would be a very risky bet to say that Temples, or Northwestern or..." cont. on p. 5

For more details on the presidential can­didates and their cre­dentials, see p. 7.
Go for the Gold

EXECUTIVE BOARD POSITION

Pick up your petition:

Time: March 27th - April 7th

Place: Student Government Office
      Student Center, Room 103

Deadline: April 7th - Noon!!
“Satanic Verses” seeks to excite Moslem world

By Tammy Burke
Correspondent

“The Satanic Verses” may be the most unread, bestselling book in recent history,” said Dr. Tom Benediktsson at the Institute for the Humanities’ discussion of Salman Rushdie’s controversial novel, on March 15.

This statement was evidenced by the fact that only one person in the audience admitted to having read one-third of the book. Nevertheless, the discussion led by Benediktsson, Dr. Fawzia Afzal-Khan of the English department, and Dr. Adele McCollum of Philosophy, Religion focused on to why this novel has caused such an uproar in the Islamic World.

The consensus of the audience and the speakers was that Rushdie does not deserve to die for it. McCollum said this book was Rushdie’s way of ridding himself of Islam. This complex book satirizes and questions every aspect of Islam. According to one Moslem observer, “The book attacks Islam in its essence.”

According to Afzal-Khan and McCollum, Rushdie knew that he would be creating controversy when he wrote the novel. Afzal-Khan went as far to say he “overstepped his bounds to inflict his anguish on others.”

The controversy for the Humanities’ discussion of the novel was that only one person in the audience admitted to having read one-third of the book. Nevertheless, the discussion led by Benediktsson, Dr. Fawzia Afzal-Khan of the English department, and Dr. Adele McCollum of Philosophy, Religion focused on to why this novel has caused such an uproar in the Islamic World.

Ambrosia addresses SGA

N.J. is going to get money from the federal government. “The state will have to pick it up,” Ambrosia said. “We are going to have to put a progressive income tax in.”

Ambrosia also talked about the problems with car insurance. Ambrosia said, “The JUA (Joint Underwriters Association) was very badly run. We should go back to square one and not get involved in a state-run insurance system. The Governor is the number one culprit in this, and if he was here, I would tell him.”

Poison was one issue Ambrosia said was close to his heart. “We generate enough sewage sludge to fill Giant Stadium three times a year,” Ambrosia said. He also mentioned that we accept garbage from other states to keep our incinerators running.

Ambrosia added that his brother and sister graduated from MSC, and he knows this institution well. “There is a commitment to making our college system one of the best in the country,” Ambrosia said. Senator Cardinale, a republican representative of Nassau, will speak with the Student Government on March 12. The meeting is at 4 p.m., and students are invited.

The Greek Council's decision is not final.

Ambrosia added that his brother and sister graduated from MSC, and he knows this institution well. “There is a commitment to making our college system one of the best in the country,” Ambrosia said. Senator Cardinale, a republican representative of Nassau, will speak with the Student Government on March 12. The meeting is at 4 p.m., and students are invited.

The Greek Council's decision is not final.

There is a NEW LSAT

Starting June '89

Train with the LSAT Expert!

Limited Enrollment for June, Oct. & Dec. Tests

The ONLY Test Training Designed EXCLUSIVELY for the NEW LSAT

For FREE Information CALL

LAW BOARDS
Test Training
1-800-274-7737
Box 7570 + W, Trenton, NJ 08628

There is a NEW LSAT

Starting June '89

Train with the LSAT Expert!

Limited Enrollment for June, Oct. & Dec. Tests

The ONLY Test Training Designed EXCLUSIVELY for the NEW LSAT

For FREE Information CALL

LAW BOARDS
Test Training
1-800-274-7737
Box 7570 + W, Trenton, NJ 08628
Students Speak

How was your vacation?

Photographed and compiled by Kristin Marcussen and Barclay Minton

Bryan Peacock - Williamstown, NJ. I didn't go anywhere or do anything. I may not have a tan, but I have Money!

Dorothy McGlone - Trenton, NJ. Very relaxing! I didn't have to do a thing, just hung out with my friends and boyfriend at home.

Paul Picasso - Daytona Beach, Florida. It was out of control, a melee! Even though the hotel was so far away...

Kim Kowalak - Nassau, Bahamas. It was excellent! I'm tan and that's all that matters.

Chip Hyde - Myrtle Beach, So. Carolina. Sleep all day & party all night! (Maybe that's why you got a cold, Mr. Hyde)

---

PUT THE MAGIC OF THE DISNEY EXPERIENCE TO WORK FOR YOU!!

Enjoy a paid semester working in sunny Florida!

The Disney Experience includes:

- Over 24 hours of formal classes
- A choice of working in retailing, attractions, hotels, or food services.
- Living with hundreds of students from all over the Eastern U.S.A.
- Low cost housing
- Earn college credit

Ideal for Business, Recreation, Food Service, Communications Majors!

Co-op Ed: The Competitive Edge

Three good reasons why you should go:

1. Disney is one of America's top corporations - cited in "In Search of and Passion for Excellence!"
2. A good work reference from Disney can greatly improve your chances for employment with any company upon your graduation from MSC.
3. There are abundant employment opportunities with the rapidly growing Disney Organization upon graduation from MSC.

Disney is coming toMSC - be there!!!

---

ATTENTION COLLEGE STUDENTS

TUITION SHOULDN'T BE YOUR BIGGEST WORRY

They say these are the best years of your life, but not if you have to worry about paying for next semester's tuition. A part-time job at UPS can help erase that concern forever.

We're looking for people to work approximately 4 hours a day, Monday-Friday, no weekends! The schedules are flexible, and you'll start out earning $8/hour -- even if you have no experience! After just six months, you'll get a benefits package that includes medical, dental and life insurance, vision care and prescription drug plans. Sick days, vacations and paid holidays too! But the best part is our Tuition Reimbursement Program which offers $2,000 a semester on selected sorts.

For full details on how to banish those tuition blues, apply in person at the location nearest you:

- Parsippany
  799 Jefferson Road
  201-428-2200
  Interview Hours: Mon, Tues & Thurs 9AM-5PM
  Tues & Thurs 2PM-4PM

- Saddle Brook
  280 Midland Avenue
  201-330-2315
  Interview Hours: Mon & Wed 6PM-8PM
  Tues & Thurs 2PM-4PM

- Secaucus
  493 County Avenue
  201-330-2315
  Interview Hours: Mon-Thurs 8AM-8PM
  Friday 8AM-12NOON
  6PM-8PM

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

United Parcel Service
College Students: FUNDS are now available for your EDUCATION.

IT YOU ARE INTERESTED IN RECEIVING Scholarships*, Fellowships*, Grants*

YOUR ELIGIBILITY IS GUARANTEED! regardless of financial status or academic performance.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL: 1-800-283-8328

A NATIONAL SERVICE COMMITTED TO HIGHER EDUCATION

♦These funds DO NOT require reimbursement

ACADEMIC FINANCIAL ADVISORY PROGRAM

Here's a tip . . . a Tax Tip.

If you have at least one dependent child living with you and your income is less than $11,000 a year, you may qualify for the Earned Income Credit and receive money back from the IRS. Publication 596 can tell you how. Call 1-800-424-FORM (3676) or the IRS Tax Forms number in your phone book to get a copy.

Speaker warns against repeat of the Holocaust

cont. from p. 1

Yale today is doing a better job in terms of morals, ethics and commitment to life itself than was being done in the world-ranked universities of Berlin, Heidelberg, and so on in 1924, 1925. "Universities defend rights without protecting rights, they are long on academic freedom but short on academic responsibility," said Littell.

"Professors cannot deal with their colleagues who are anti-semitic," he said. If they chose to act responsibly, "universities can yank degrees as well as grant degrees," he added.

Littell also compared American tolerance for destructive ideas with that of pre-Nazi Germany.

Germany was a democracy when Hitler took power, but it did not protect itself from Hitler, he said.

We are being frivolous when we fail to take seriously such movements as the Neo-Nazis or Identity Churches which arm themselves and advocate the overthrow of democracy, he added. We need to know the difference between a freedom fighter and a terrorist, he said.

"I am throwing these things in because I want you to think with me about the way in which we fellow citizens; Catholics, Jews, Protestants and, if I may use the phrase, secular humanists, owe it to each other to strengthen and sustain what is in many respects the most remarkable experiment in human liberty and self government made by any people on the face of the earth," Littell said.

Littell answered questions from the audience about the historic setting of Hitler's rise to power, the implications of his ideas to both women's rights and animal rights, and protecting freedom without being repressive.

Littell is the founder and honorary chairman of the Anne Frank Institute, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He is also the author of A Pilgrim's Interfaith Guide to the Holy Land, The Atlas History of Christianity and editor of The German Church Struggle and The Holocaust.

ATTENTION ACCOUNTING AND FINANCE GRADUATES

What salaries do accounting and finance graduates command in the marketplace?

What type of accounting and finance positions are available?

What immediate position is the best to increase your chances of accomplishing your long term career objectives?

The answer to these questions and much more information is available free in SOURCE FINANCE'S 1989 ACCOUNTING AND FINANCE SALARY SURVEY & CAREER PLANNING GUIDE

To receive your free copy call Cliff Miras, CPA at (201) 338-5200 - or write to Source Finance, 300 Broadacres Drive, 4th Floor, Bloomfield, NJ 07003.
CLASS ONE CONCERTS PRESENTS

“LITTLE FEAT”
MONDAY
APRIL 17 8P.M.
MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

TICKETS: $13 W/MSC ID
$15 NON-STUDENTS

TIX ON SALE 9 AM - 4:30 PM
April 3-7
Student Center Annex Rm. 117
April 10-14 & 17
Student Center BOX OFFICE

Also April 6 & 13 7-9 PM in the Box Office

FOR MORE INFO CALL
(201) 893-4478
Candidates present diverse credentials

Courtesy of the Office of Public Information

Four candidates for President of Montclair State College have been on campus this week for interviews with the Board of Trustees and to make formal presentations and meet informally with members of the college community. A fifth candidate, Dr. Kala M. Stroup, president of Murray State University in Kentucky, was here earlier this week but withdrew her candidacy, citing personal reasons. The final decision on the presidency will be made by the board from among the following:

Richard A. Lynde
Acting president and professor of chemistry, Montclair State College. An 18-year member of the MSC community, Dr. Lynde has been acting president since November 1987. At the time of his appointment, he had been vice president for academic affairs for four months. Previously, he had been dean for 11 years of Mathematical/Natural Sciences, and before that, a faculty member in Chemistry.

Lynde holds a Ph.D. degree in inorganic chemistry from Iowa State University and a bachelor's degree in chemistry from Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y. In 1981, he attended the Institute for Educational Management at Harvard University.

Helen Popovich
President and professor of English, Florida Atlantic University. Popovich has held her current posts since 1983. Previously, she was at Winona State University for five years, serving a dean of liberal arts, vice president for academic affairs and, finally, acting president for two years. Before that, she had been at the University of South Florida, first as associate chairperson of the department of English and then as associate dean of arts and letters.

Popovich holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Kansas and bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas at El Paso.

Irvin D. Reid
Dean and John Stagamaier Professor of Economics and Business Administration, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. In his current post for the past six years, Reid previously was head of the department of marketing and business law and professor of business administration there, and before that, a member of the marketing department faculty at Howard University.

Reid has also served as consultant and staff specialist for the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Administration and on the faculties of Drexel University, the Philadelphia College of Art and St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia.

He holds Ph.D. and master's degrees in business and applied economics from The University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School and master's and bachelor's degrees in general experimental psychology from Howard University. Reid also attended Harvard University's Institute for Educational Management.

Michael P. Ricards
President, St. John's College, Santa Fe N.M. Before assuming the presidency at St. John's, Ricards was at Hunter College, City University of New York, first as professor of political science and later as provost and vice president for academic affairs.

Before that, he was dean of arts and sciences at the University of Massachusetts, chairperson and faculty member in the political science department at the State University of New York at Buffalo and special assistant to the New Jersey Chancellor of Higher Education.

He holds Ph.D. and master's degrees in political science, as well as a Master of Philosophy and a bachelor's degree in history, all from Rutgers University. He also was a research fellow at Princeton University.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS TO EXPAND YOUR HORIZONS

MASTER'S DEGREE OPPORTUNITIES

WILLIAM PATerson COLLeGE

Wayne, New Jersey

Unique Resources And Challenging Programs:

- Biological Science
- Business Administration
- Communication Arts
- Communication Disorders
- Counseling Services
- Educational Administration
- And Supervision
- Elementary Education
- English
- Journalism
- Social Science
- Special Education
- Urban Education
- And Community Service
- Visual Arts

Enjoy the advantages of a mid-sized state-supported suburban campus with easy access to the educational, cultural and employment resources of the New York-Metropolitan area. Our graduate programs feature unique opportunities to learn and apply advanced knowledge and skills.

GRADUATE ASSISTSHIPS

Yearly stipend of $4000 + waiver of tuition and fees. Opportunities include research, computer-based instruction, writing, editing, and production activities in media technology and other academically-oriented activities in:

- 14 Academic Programs
- Institutional Research
- College Communications
- Library Services
- Minority Education

STUDENT SERVICES INTERNSHIPS

Yearly stipend of $4000 + waiver of tuition and fees. Opportunities include advising, program development, management and other activities in:

- Counseling
- Career Counseling
- Residence Life
- Student Development
- Intercollegiate Athletics
- Alumni Affairs

FOR INFORMATION, CALL OR WRITE:

Graduate Admissions
WILLIAM PATerson COLLeGE
Hobart Manor - Wayne, New Jersey 07470
(201) 595-2126

Search continues cont. from p. 1

The board appointed an 18-member search committee on Nov. 3, 1988 on which there are 16 voting members. During the fall, the position of President was advertised in various publications including The New York Times, The Star Ledger and The Chronicle of Higher Education.

140 applications were received through Jan. 13, 1989. The search committee, chaired by Dr. Robert Altman, evaluated each application and chose 13 candidates for interviews.

Flea Market

The flea market sells a variety of low-priced, high-demand items on the first floor of the Student Center.

Gold, silver, and costume jewelry are sold in the flea market, along with leather handbags, scarves, clothing, and records and tapes.

Many merchants offer a free layaway plan for students, and have special sales near the holidays.

The flea market is located between the Bookstore and the candy store.

May 10th-24th

COMING UP IN JUNE

$1 MILLION ADVANTAGE Task for Books Sweepstakes

Send for your free catalog

Government Books & More!
Send for your free catalog

Free Catalog

Washington, DC 20031-7000

Each year cancer strikes 120,000 people in our work force, and causes our economy to lose more than $10 billion in earnings. Earnings that American workers might still be generating if they had known the simple facts on how to protect themselves from cancer:

Protect your employees, your company, and your local unit of the American Cancer Society and ask for their free pamphlet, "Helping Your Employees to Protect Themselves Against Cancer." Start your company on a path of good health today.
SOUP pours out students’ thoughts

By Valerie Kalfrin
Head Feature Writer

Say “soup” to anyone at MSC and a number of things come to mind. One in particular, though, has nothing to do with vegetable, tomato, or chicken noodle. In fact, the only food it offers is for the mind.

SOUP, or Student Organized Uninhibited Publication, first arrived on campus earlier this semester. Although independent of the SGA and other organizations, it has its roots in two of the literary groups on campus—the English club and Four Walls.

Tom Violett, president of the English club, came up with the idea for another campus publication last semester. “I had an idea of doing a different kind of magazine,” he explains. “We wanted to give students room to express themselves, to reach a lot of different segments of the population. We didn’t want to duplicate Four Walls or The Montclarion. They do a good job with what they do.”

Originally meant as a project of the English club, the publication became independent once Violett spoke to students, who felt it should be separate. He, Angel Mousso, literary editor of Four Walls, and David Craig met with professors from the English department such as Sharon Spencer, Carol Stone, Rita Jacobs, and Tom Benediktsson. With the help and contributions of about ten other students, SOUP began.

The first issue was received well by both students and faculty. Violett recalls letter he received from Dr. Jean Armstrong, vice president of academic affairs, in which she called SOUP “a cut above” the other magazines she had seen.

SGA President Tom Mergola also approached SOUP after the first issue.

“He asked us if we wanted to apply (to become part of the SGA). We’re not interested right now. A lot of people on campus have an SGA bias, and say if we’re independent, they’ll contribute,” Violett says.

Contributions are what SOUP hopes to get from the student community, while giving something to the students as well. In addition to gaining recognition for MSC, SOUP hopes to be a learning experience for the students as well.

Unlike Four Walls, a strictly literary publication that judges each piece before printing, SOUP aims to be “less critical.” However, Violett maintains that SOUP will not be completely “hands-off” to submissions.

“We want to be a clearinghouse for students’ opinions, expressions, and writing that’s as least editorial as possible. We won’t judge whether it’s in (the publication) or out. Students don’t learn that way.”

In addition, SOUP hopes to bring a social awareness to MSC through articles about topics such as the homeless; however, Violett maintains that SOUP will not become a soapbox for anyone or a place to showcase the work of those involved with the magazine.

SOUP hopes to get from the student community, while giving something to the students as well. In addition to gaining recognition for MSC, SOUP hopes to be a learning experience for the students as well.

SOUP’s second issue is due out at the end of April; those involved hope it will make a greater impact on campus.

Whatever the response, SOUP’s future hinges on students sampling this food for thought, and offering some of their own. In this case, too many “cooks” can only enhance it.
DROPPIN CENTER FIGHTS FOR SPACE

Almost everyone who visits Montclair State campus asks: "What is that little house?" It's a cozy building, a vast expanse of green, trees, from the front art of the campus. It serves as a recreation for students gathering meetings and games. What little house is that?

Volunteers run 24-hour Montclair State counseling center

Currently, there are almost 350 volunteers working there. Many of them are students, some of them are recent graduates of the campus, and some of them are professionals. It's a busy place, a place where people can come and go, a place where they can talk and listen.

Student counsel service

Drop-in center here to help

A Little House Deals With Big Problems

Record number of suicide calls prompts Drop-In Center seminar

Fight Should Continue

The wolves are howling at President Bush's door already. His administration has been accused in recent weeks of being adrift, suffering malaise and lacking an agenda.

But that doesn't mean things won't get better down the road. The problems facing him are big; perhaps a deliberate style is called for. In any case, he wasn't elected to do things, primarily raise taxes, burn the flag and let Willie Horton out of jail. These are not done, which I'm sure accounts for his relatively high approval ratings in the polls.

The encouraging thing about the Bush administration thus far, at least to me, is that it has been so different from the Reagan administration. The efforts at media manipulation have been so inept as to be endearing, and there's been no playing peekaboo with a president sheltered from contact with the outside world by a palace guard for shouting of questions over the roar of helicopters. Mr. Bush has made himself accessible to the media and has been able to handle tough questions without making a complete ass of himself. That indeed is a change and a welcome one. A president may not have all the answers, but he should recognize the questions.

President Bush even came around a little on the AK-47 issue the other day. He OK'd a ban on imported assault-style rifles, pending a review of whether the semiautomatic weapons are being used for sporting purposes. This was a switch from his previous position that rifles don't assault people, furloughed criminals do. Now if you get caught in the cross fire of a drug shootout, you can take comfort in the fact that, chances are, you'll die American.

I find amusing, however, the notion that it may be "sporting" to hunt with a semiautomatic weapon. I would have thought that a real sportsman would depend on his skill and marksmanship to bring down game, rather than the ability of his gun to shred his prey. What do these people use for fishing lures, dynamite? Still, it's a start. We have to be patient with Mr. Bush. He's only little.

Even the Senate's rejection of John Tower as defense secretary has a plus side for the president. He made the egregious error, born of loyalty, of proposing as his defense chief a man who combined the libido of Harpo Marx, the drinking habits of W.C. Fields and the ethical sensibilities of Spiro Agnew, but he was saved from his folly by the ineptitude of his efforts to support the man.

Now, having shown himself a steadfast friend to the fallen Tower, he will have a defense secretary in place who has the respect of Congress and the good opinion of mankind.

It could be that Mr. Bush will prove to be a lucky president which, as his predecessor demonstrated, is often better than being a good one.

Not that I really think he will. It seems to me that the flaccidity of his administration's early days has been just what one would have expected from so vacuous and small-spirited a campaign and the days ahead will see more of the same.

But I really think we should give the guy 90 days or so before we make a definitive judgement.

Donald Kaul is a syndicated columnist with Tribune Media Services, Inc.
Economic pressure provides stability

Boris Yeltsin is publicly campaigning for office in Moscow on the grounds that his free market agenda has been insufficiently implemented under perestroika—Walter Mitty time in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, but it is happening.

In China, a national congress convenes, and is finding it difficult to repress Chinese intellectuals who threaten to pound on the table and demand greater freedom than they are fitfully permitted under the post-Mao regime. It is even being debated whether the huge portrait of that ugly man should be removed from the prominence it has in Tian An Men Square. Remove a picture of the Great Helmsman? Rather like plucking the heart from revolutionary China—certainly the equivalent of plucking the windpipe from it.

And in South Africa, the Dutch Reformed Church sheepishly admits that all the time, all those years, it was mistaken about the inherent justice of apartheid. You cannot be a Christian in good standing and endorse apartheid. The Church sheepishly admits that all the time, all those years, it was mistaken about the inherent justice of apartheid. You cannot be a Christian in good standing and endorse apartheid. The Church sheepishly admits that all the time, all those years, it was mistaken about the inherent justice of apartheid. You cannot be a Christian in good standing and endorse apartheid. The Church sheepishly admits that all the time, all those years, it was mistaken about the inherent justice of apartheid. You cannot be a Christian in good standing and endorse apartheid. The Church sheepishly admits that all the time, all those years, it was mistaken about the inherent justice of apartheid.

It is not to give in to economic determinism to reflect on the pytestatic pressures bringing about these reforms. The late Alan Paton over and over again stressed that reforms would come to South Africa as a result of economic pressures. Paton himself was something of a scrambled socialist, but he always insisted that the need of South Africa for black technicians and for black economic patronage would edge the nation away from apartheid. As that which the nation clearly needs becomes transparent, the reigning church re-examines its doctrines and conforms to the transcendent message of the Bible, which has to do with neighborliness, not fences.

And what is it that tempers the appetite of Mikhail Gorbachev for bloody expansionism? Answer: There is no evidence that his appetite is tempered, but much evidence that his appetite cannot be sated because of what George Bush might call “the economic thing.” In Afghanistan, his legions came upon one U.S. Stinger too many; and to mount the kind of military campaign he’d have needed to kill another million Afghans (or 2, 3 million) would have strained his sparse resources; so he had to retreat. As it retreats, however ambiguously (the Cuban troops aren’t due home until 1991), from Namibia. So far, he has yet to retreat from Cuba (cost: $8 million per day) or Nicaragua (cost: over $1 million per day), but he relies on his successful guile to get West German banks and other centers of capitalist sentimental greed to finance these sallies together with his ongoing rearmament.

And of course in China, the reign of Deng Xiaoping brought in nothing less than a transfiguration of the agricultural picture. In four years, production increased by 350 percent. The demonstration—what a semi-free agriculture could do that socialized agriculture could not do—is the starkest evidence that the turn to the right was a turn in the necessary direction. The Chinese communists are not likely to renounce their phantasmatism explicit, or to sacrifice what they call socialist centralism. But they are driven, driven by the laws of the market. And the relative civil serenity of the one-party state permits a prospective rise in economic production that is proving impossible in the chaotic political situations in so much of Latin America.

In Brazil, inflation brings unemployment, multification and grinding poverty. Brazilians complain of having to make payments on their staggering national debt, and the burden is real. But that burden is being met by the simple expedient of printing more money, with the result that inflation will be on the order of 1,000 percent during the year. In Peru, also suffering from a heavy debt, it didn’t work for the demagogue who serves as president simply to suspend payments: The Shining Path guerrillas are as implacable as the guerrillas in El Salvador, and the tumult begins by discrediting democratic stability, and ends by terrorizing those who seek to keep democracy in place. Venezuela explodes under the burden, and Carlos Andres Perez, president for the second time, considered calling the army, setting instead for a curfew.

But the knock on the door—in Brazil, Peru, Venezuela—may come from the army the next time around. Economic forces bring discontent, but progress requires political stability. They say the market is ruthless. But one can only be glad for the pressures it exerts.

William F. Buckley Jr. is a syndicated columnist with the Universal Press Syndicate.

Time for students to clean-up MSC

To the editor:

It's time for spring cleaning, let's pitch in before we strike out.

The cans, wrappers, bottles, papers, they are all around. Are we a dump? Can we get our orderliness back?

The Montclair State Softball and Baseball teams are pitching in. Perhaps you will join the Student Center's recycle bin next to the Pepsi/Coke machines on the 1st floor. There are stone, black, and blue top cans all over.

Perhaps you will join the Conservation Club and set aside a whole day for the campus to remember our environment and clean it up. There are enough examples in every corner of the campus to illustrate a photographic essay on cleanliness in the Time/Life manner.

Let's choose a day we could all pitch in. Maybe the SGA could provide bags and we could all institute a ban to MSC. Let's seize the day with MSC's motto Carpe Diem. There's enough for all of us. Teamwork can win. It's worth the effort. Let's go for it.

Theresa Dusco

Get Involved

The Montclarion offers the unique opportunity for all MSC students to have a voice on campus. We encourage all students to express their viewpoints in the Letters page.

All letters must be:

- typewritten and double spaced
- addressed to the editor
- submitted by 4 PM on the Monday before the Thursday issue
- include student ID number, year, major, and telephone number for verification.

Letters must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request. These guidelines must be met or the letter will not be printed.
SAB Concerts presents.....

the FIXX

AT SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

April 9, 1989 at 8 p.m.
Walsh Gymnasium
Tickets $10.00
NO LIMIT
Call and order your tickets at the Seton Hall ticket office at 761-9098
or
Get them at Vintage Vinyl in Fords N.J. stories from the big apple

by lynn m. cowan
editor-in-chief

the film new york stories is the result of the combination of three directors' visions of new york culture—"life lessons," by martin scorsese; "life without zoe," by francis ford coppola; and "odipus wrecks," by woody allen.

"odipus wrecks" is without doubt the finest film of this trio—unfortunately, it is also the last, so you have to sit through the other two before it. allen is at his neurotic best in this scene of new york jewish-dom, complete with the standard psychoanalyst and an embarrassing mother.

allen plays the son of sadie millstein, a squat bundle of terror who doesn't have any reservations about informing his fiancee of his bedwetting. at last, allen found a wife is just like his mother. only worse, however, when allen steps out of a deli one day to discover dozens of cars piled up and pedestrians gawking at the sky. he looks up, and lo and behold—sadie millstein has been transformed into an appar- tion the size of the good year blimp.

she admonishes allen from her lofty perch, "look at you! you look awful!" she then proceeds to answer all her baby pictures with hundreds of aston- ished new yorkers down below.

a late night newscaster catches wind of a story and comments, "mrs. millstein has a son who changed his name to mills. not much is known about mills except that he is a lawyer and he used to wet his bed."

the whole of new york joins sadie's fight to keep everything in allen good, clean and jewish, and strangers in the street stop him to ask if he's dressed warmly enough or whether he's eating properly.

his mother's drive to stop his marriage to too soon takes on epidemic proportions, and strangers in the street stop him to ask if he's wetting his bed.

as she screams yiddish insults at his bride from above the empire state building.

finally, allen is pushed to despairing means. he enlists the help of a jewish psychic who in turn takes the place of his fiancee. at last, allen found a woman with whom his mother can connect. however, he must now live with the fact that his new wife is just like his mother. only in new york.

nick nolte proves he can actually do more than growl in films when he stars as a successful, lecherous, middle-aged artist in "life lessons." the camera work couldn't be better, as the frequent shots on various parts of her anatomy and nolte looks her in the eye and says, "you know, i need an assistant. you get free room and board, a salary, exposure to some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?"

the final scene of "life lessons" adds a surprising twist to nolte's character. arquette has left for good, and the artist is "mingling" at a new showing of his work. he comes across a beautiful bartender, who confides in him that she, too, would like to be an artist. nolte asks her how she is surviving in the city, and she admits it's tough.

finally, the camera fixes on some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?

for anyone who enjoys the popular art of seducing arquette after she says, "do you love me?", waits for the affirmative, and laughs, "well, i don't love you."

nolte bumbles after the lissome arquette in scene after scene, promising her, "i'd do anything for you." every time arquette threatens to leave, the artist gets desperate, promising to keep their relationship non-sexual and saying, "you're going to leave the city? where can you go? where else do you get free room and board, a salary, exposure to some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?"

the final scene of "life lessons" adds a surprising twist to nolte's character. arquette has left for good, and the artist is "mingling" at a new showing of his work. he comes across a beautiful bartender, who confides in him that she, too, would like to be an artist. nolte asks her how she is surviving in the city, and she admits it's tough.

finally, the camera fixes on some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?

the film and cultural values series will be featuring the battle of nagaraya on thursday, apr. 6 in calcia auditorium. directed by shohei imamura, this film depicts the extraordinary attempts of a woman to assure her family's survival.

the guest speaker at this function will be robert tranchin, an independent filmmaker who has lived and worked in japan and written extensively on japanese film.

this feature will be presented at 7 p.m. in the fine arts building. admission is free and open to all.

if you come dressed as a sheik or a sheisha to the speakeazy musical cabaret on april 6, 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 at 8 p.m., you could win a dinner for two at a local restaurant. the contest, sponsored by studio theatre series, will result in twelve semi-finalists who will win free tickets to the show, and two finalists who will win dinner for two at jw winbury's.

in addition, members of the cast will be performing in the student center cafeteria on april 4, 5, 11 and 12 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

opera workshop performs

the whole of new york joins sadie's fight to keep everything in allen good, clean and jewish, and strangers in the street stop him to ask if he's dressed warmly enough or whether he's eating properly.

his mother's drive to stop his marriage to too soon takes on epidemic proportions, and strangers in the street stop him to ask if he's wetting his bed.

as she screams yiddish insults at his bride from above the empire state building.

finally, allen is pushed to despairing means. he enlists the help of a jewish psychic who in turn takes the place of his fiancee. at last, allen found a woman with whom his mother can connect. however, he must now live with the fact that his new wife is just like his mother. only in new york.

nick nolte proves he can actually do more than growl in films when he stars as a successful, lecherous, middle-aged artist in "life lessons." the camera work couldn't be better, as the frequent shots on various parts of her anatomy and nolte looks her in the eye and says, "you know, i need an assistant. you get free room and board, a salary, exposure to some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?"

the final scene of "life lessons" adds a surprising twist to nolte's character. arquette has left for good, and the artist is "mingling" at a new showing of his work. he comes across a beautiful bartender, who confides in him that she, too, would like to be an artist. nolte asks her how she is surviving in the city, and she admits it's tough.

finally, the camera fixes on some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?

for anyone who enjoys the popular art of seducing arquette after she says, "do you love me?", waits for the affirmative, and laughs, "well, i don't love you."

nolte bumbles after the lissome arquette in scene after scene, promising her, "i'd do anything for you." every time arquette threatens to leave, the artist gets desperate, promising to keep their relationship non-sexual and saying, "you're going to leave the city? where can you go? where else do you get free room and board, a salary, exposure to some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?"

the final scene of "life lessons" adds a surprising twist to nolte's character. arquette has left for good, and the artist is "mingling" at a new showing of his work. he comes across a beautiful bartender, who confides in him that she, too, would like to be an artist. nolte asks her how she is surviving in the city, and she admits it's tough.

finally, the camera fixes on some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?

the film and cultural values series will be featuring the battle of nagaraya on thursday, apr. 6 in calcia auditorium. directed by shohei imamura, this film depicts the extraordinary attempts of a woman to assure her family's survival.

the guest speaker at this function will be robert tranchin, an independent filmmaker who has lived and worked in japan and written extensively on japanese film.

this feature will be presented at 7 p.m. in the fine arts building. admission is free and open to all.

if you come dressed as a sheik or a sheisha to the speakeazy musical cabaret on april 6, 7, 8, 13, 14 and 15 at 8 p.m., you could win a dinner for two at a local restaurant. the contest, sponsored by studio theatre series, will result in twelve semi-finalists who will win free tickets to the show, and two finalists who will win dinner for two at jw winbury's.

in addition, members of the cast will be performing in the student center cafeteria on april 4, 5, 11 and 12 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Commentary:

Why are good concert tickets hard to find?

By Oren Silverstein
Staff Writer

There are certain things a person accepts as a given when going to a concert. Things that happen so often that people believe them to be inevitable. Like what, you say? Well, here are a few examples.

First, there are the people who believe that their goal in life is to find out how much alcohol a human can possibly consume without bursting into flames when someone lights a cigarette in their vicinity.

That is if the crack security force hasn’t confiscated all your supply already. Of course, these same security people are never around when one over-zealous fan is beating another into a grease spot three rows in front of you (not that I’m so concerned about the one being beaten, it’s just that they’re blocking my view).

If your refreshments are confiscated, there is always the snack bars provided every fifty feet. For only $3.75, you can get a drink with a chunk of ice in it roughly the size of the one that took down the Titanic.

I won’t even comment on the food, let’s just say that everyone knows that there are terrible things in hot dog, but in an arena hot dog you can taste them all.

From the snack bar, it’s just a quick trip down the hall to the souvenir stand. For an investment somewhat less than the national debt, you can somehow show you allegiance to your favorite artist. Choose from a wide selection of band t-shirts, sweatshirts, tour programs, buttons, headbands, boxer shorts, drinking glasses, jumper cables, condoms, shower caps……Okay, I got a little carried away here, but you get the idea.

I am willing to accept all of this and more because I guess, it’s part of the fun or at least it’s part of the experience. The one thing that I will not put up with, and neither should you is the near impossibility of getting good seats at a show.

I’ve been to around twenty shows. Out of those twenty times, I’ve had floor seats a grand total of three times. For the rest of the shows, I had seats that ranged from decent to ones that I swear were in different time zones.

At this point, you, the reader might say “Stop whining Oren, that’s just the way it is; c’est la vie and all that.” I disagree. It doesn’t have to be that way because those in power are taking advantage of us, the consumer.

Did you know that arenas are allowed to sell to the licensed ticket broker? These are the same brokers who are somehow allowed to sell tickets from anywhere from double to ten times their original price.

You might think that if you get to the box office the first few days tickets are on sale, you won’t have to worry about that. Wrong. It is perfectly legal for the venue to sell to licensed brokers after as little as twenty four hours after tickets go on sale.

While we’re on the subject of ticket thieves…oops, I mean brokers, how come they are allowed to remain in the business? Doesn’t New Jersey have an anti-scalping law? If you look on the back of a ticket it says that it cannot be resold for more than $3 or 20% of its original face value.

I’ve heard of Springsteen tickets going for as much as $500 each. I dunno, I’m no math whiz, but I believe that’s a little more than a twenty percent increase on a $20 ticket.

By the way, where do these brokers get the tickets from? Many places say that they get their tickets from people on the streets; the fans.

Let me ask you this: you’re a fan and have just been waiting in line for seven and a half hours in the blazing sun or the freezing cold to get tickets for someone you waited months or perhaps even years to see. Do you mean to tell me that you would just sell them to the first person who offers you money for them? I think not.

Well what can we do about it? The answer is simple. Stop using the services! For God’s sake, these people are businessmen, they want to make money. If there is no demand, then there is no need for the supplier.

Think before you buy these ticket brokers next time; do you really need to see Bon Jovi from the 10th row that badly? Get only a fair seat and use that fifty bucks you’ve saved and spend it on something else. Don’t make it more difficult for the rest of us to get seats.

The next step is harder. You need to write letters to everyone that will listen. Write to record companies, promoters, the venues, radio stations and the artists themselves. If no one takes action, those who can do something about it will only think nobody cares.

The most important people to write to are your government representatives. Every week a nice chunk is taken out of your pay for taxes. We are supposed to get something in return. If enough people protest, maybe we can get the legislation changed.

We have the vote now. We have a voice, we have the power, why we make a difference. As author Paddy Cheyefsky once wrote in his novel Network “I’m mad as hell, and I’m not going to take it anymore.” You shouldn’t have to either.

Speaking Easy: A Cabaret to sizzle the STS stage

By Barbara Smith
Staff Writer

Al Capone, Bugsy Malone, the Flapper, the Charleston and prohibition spells the roaring 20’s, and for the Studio Theatre Series of MSC, adding dazzling song and dance, it means Speaking Easy: A Musical Cabaret.

Over one dozen crooners and tappers will be heating up the joint with the best of Broadway, jazz and popular song hits that made the 1920’s soar.

The Studio Theatre presentation of Speaking Easy: A Musical Cabaret runs Thursday through Saturday, April 6-8, and April 13-15. All shows begin at 8:00 p.m. No reservations are accepted and seating is by general admission.

Inside the speakeasy, the joint will be jumping with music, romance, sex and glamour. It will be dripping with danger as the hoidy-toidy of society rub elbows with gangsters.

Put to music, this hot spot will be shaking with the rhythms of Cole Porter, Irving Berlin and George Gershwin’s: “Puttin’ on the Ritz”, “Let’s Misbehave”, “How Long Has This Been Going On”, as well as many other toe tapping, finger snapping hits like “Baby Face”, “The Shiek of Arabey” and “The Charleston”.

This original musical was conceived and directed by MSC faculty member Eric Diamond. Scott Schneider, technical theatre student in the department, will be the scenic and lighting designer. Mark Kalet will stage manage the production. Assistant to the director will be Hilary Nugent.

Alumni Kim Palmisano returns to choreograph the show. The musicians include: Eric Diamond on the piano, Craig Scoppa on the drums, and Mathew Hurst on the saxophone.

Shiek, shebas, gangsters, and dumb Doras include: Jay Bardin, Peter Casbar, Candy Cordes, Chris DeBari, Denise Dobrosky, Antoinette Doherty, Marcelino Feliciano, Jase Hudnut, James Hyler, Deanna Jividen, Carolyn Kowalski, Peter LiVecchi, Gena Lustig, Gina Millevoi, Donna Nagy, Sam Newman, Laura Pavlich, ReginaD. Ros, Celeste Russi, and Jeffrey L. Wingfield.

Ticket prices are: standard, $3; MSC students with ID, $2; faculty, staff, and senior citizens tickets are also discounted. For further information call 893-5112 during business hours.

The STS 1988-89 season concludes with A Staged Reading, May 18-20.
To my AIX pledge sister Dinley: I'm glad we're together...how could we not be dear? Love you!, Cheryl.

-M.R.- Always remember. Wet t-shirts, taco cheefes, knock on doors, rice check money, teenage seagulls, killer pointy plants, the washer and dryer, and moonbathing! The memories will last forever. Love always, C.

-Move away from Italy. With discussion, alterations, and compromises, everything could be perfect. Open your heart to me. Spring is here, summer is coming, boat, bear mountain, Darlington etc. The Party Animal is breaking out of his shell.

-Mike H- Your little sister is counting on you! Love your "Little" Amy

-Kim- Thanks for being such a great big sister. This semester has really brought us close, like a family should be. Love your little #80

-AJX pledge- Good luck and hang in there, I'll be behind you every step of the way. Love your big sister!

-Wendy- You are doing great! Only 2 more weeks. Do your best, it's worth it! Love you, Wendy.

-AJX pledges- Only 2 more weeks- keep up the good work! #82

-To sister gui-thanks for a lot- EVERYTHING! We love you! C and S.

-To the sisters of AIX- You're the best!! Love, Debbie

-Shoekill-1 will save your life for you and your family! Hang in there! Love ya Don Ho!

-Amy #4- your boyfriend is queer Ha! I love you-Fozzo #80

-To the pledgers: Hang in there on me; Just because you can't get a date because your standards are too high.-Don't go projecting your attitude on the whole male gender. Signed A Great Guy

-Tammy- To start as I say I do not never give up. Is love what you want? Maybe I already do just for you. J.

-To AIX sister Maryann: Need a Pizza!! Love Cherri

-Jen- Luckily only half of CLUB is on blue!

-Boston (or somewhere around there) here we come.

-Hey Mags- thanks for letting me listen to the song on your car.

-Hey you- Don't tempt again me in the dark.

-Jo-hel (with the funny name) here is your personal.

-It's about time that you got the batteries, Your boss.

-To the cowboy on the horse. Hope you like eating dirt.

-Hey Lisa- so much for the single girls, good luck with the 'rock', just don't forget the 'little' people (poor Alan, so small). Haha. Love ya, Jen P.S. 111111 count!

-More NACA quotes - But forgot you have a party! Save up party master general's office, can I help you? I past NACA's crash and burn, dude.

-Jo-el- cheer up 3 more weeks and it's all over. Mr. Schnappes here we come.

-Love over winter week cohorts.

-Welcome to the jungle.

-Attention Seniors- senior banquet May 12 th. Look for more info.

-Attention Seniors - Partly sunny April 14 th. Contact SGA office X2402, for ticket sales.

-1-239, 1-289, 3-26-89 - The three best days of my life! Easter wasn't that bad either. I love you!

-To my new car - I glad you mine. Love you, my twins who paying $ 200 per month for the next 48 months.

-ZoÖ- I'm going to need a new stereo for my car soon. Can you help? How about the one in your car? Mr. turtle.

-RC- So who is going to be the lucky girl escorting you to the Spring Ball? I hope it's not your mom again. Curious.

-TP- You're right. 22 is a good number.

-Karen, how's your arm? Susan

-Scott, take your money and run!

-Run and Cook in AC.

-Where’s the jenie?

-Kenny, I had the best time. Susan.

-Did you pay that guy for a cigarette?

-Will you have we are guests in this hotel at one time?

-304- Do your laundry and remember: I aw smed, I was found, and I am not a llopop-Becke

-Glen- Just wanted to say hi. From someone who thinks very highly of you so far.

-Tim C- The comly chair awaits!-Val

-Honey, Thank you for all that you've done for me. Looks like I may get to return the favor sooner than I thought. Love you.

-Who is Aunt Rose and how did she get in my dreams anyway?

-Kenny, Spano, Pavo- seven weeks to go.

-Dave-makes it ONE FOR THE BOOKS. Reg.

-We got shipwrecked by the Captain.

-’I’ll have you know we were guests in this hotel at one time.

-Susan- Happy Anniversary -Love Penny

-’Ready to go and when I go I’m gone!

-CRW-Cape May was great! When can we do Cape May again?

-MJU-I’m really looking forward to the next trip. Can’t wait to be knocked of my feet!

-MJU-Sunday night. A night I’ll remember forever

-Maggie, Where are you? I’m trying to fill some space again. Kris.

-Gene, the other little sister isn’t here so I’m on my own, here’s a personal, I know how original.

-Gene, It’s me again.

-Go ahead sit over there see if I care.

-Philo- Do we really have to meet with the weenie?

-Raynie, I don’t think Bu liked the velcro on his dashboard.

-John M.- Just checking to see if you were looking this week, didn’t want to let you down. Miss ya!

-Chipmunk- You’re right. It will never work. What’s Love, Squirrel.

-...Just one thing - do you think I could have a cup of tea before I turn around and drive back ? - “No way” you wierdo - you’re having dinner” - “No, tea will just fine”.

-S.G.- I waited for you called, but I had to leave. Maybe next week. Save some bunnies for me-V.K.

-ZoÖ- You make my toes tingle.

-Michelle

-ZoÖ - you make me puke. Love Mr. Turtle, Esq.

-Tony- These Irish eyes are smiling because of you. Kerry.

-Nixon, your shoes don’t match. You should ask Teddy to help you next time.

-xoxoxo-Becker

-Hot Tomate, I love you! Love your little tomato.

-Bernard is not me in 106C.

-Phi Alpha Psi Senate Pledges- Enter Hell Night at your own RISK!! -Blended. Boys.

-Day Summer Camp group leader- Great stuff. Maybe a bit tiresome for term. Great salary. Hours & Call at Beth @ 446-4100

-Day Summer Camp staff 2nd year. 50% scholarship- Student. College senior or higher. Great salary. Call Beth @ 446-4100

-Day Summer Camp needs pool staff with ALS or WSI. Good hours and salary. Call Beth @ 446-4100

-Experienced, responsible babysitter wanted for 6 month old. Mondays 2-6 pm, and alternate Weds. 12-4 pm. Non-smoker, references required. Call 783-7349

-Day Summer camp counselors - Contemporary NJ girls resident camp seeks qualified staff who enjoys children and the outdoors.

-Specialists needed: gymnastics, mime, karate, A.C. Call 232-3236.

- Lawn mowing: professional person wanted to mow my lawn with my mower. Call Judy @ 746-4437

-Babysitter: for 2.5 year and 15 month old girls. Occasional weekday and weekend evenings.

-For additional information call Debbie after 5 pm @ 239-5726.

-Verona

-Heading for Europe this summer (or anytime)? Jet there for no more than $ 160 with AIRHITCH(R), as reported in Consumer Reports, NY Times, Let's Go, Go. Leave message for more information. Call Debbie after 5 pm @ 239-5726.

-SAT

Dr. Blank teaches 8 session personalized SAT course. In-depth analysis of question type; four full-length SATs. Advice. Reasonable Cost.

Dr. Blank 966-9054
Attention

The Montclarion is (as always) looking for all types of students (English, Business, Phys. Ed, Psychology, and all other types of majors) to become part of the staff. We are in need of photographers, news, arts, and sports writers. Not only will this look good on your resume, you will also enjoy pizza on Wednesday nights, have access to a fully equipped darkroom, and make friends you’ll never want to see again. We hope that you can come down on any Wednesday night and see for yourself just how interesting it is, because if you like it enough you can become an editor next year and make advertisements like this.
Collège Life Union Board Presents...

1989 Spring Ball

Information: April 13, 1989
8:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.
Fairfield Sheraton Hotel
Full course dinner
4 hours open bar [ID required]
Dancing all night
Guaranteed Fun!!!

Tickets on sale-
March 28 - 30 & April 3 - 5
11:00 a.m.- 6:00 p.m. in the ticket booth

Also: Have your couples picture taken by a professional photographer that night!

2 5x7 4 wallets $12.95
2 5x7 4 wallets $14.95
4 wallets
2 table pictures

Pay when you buy your tickets!
Wrestlemania ran wild

The success of Karl Monaco and Pete Gonzalez this season (and in the last three seasons) is something that everyone can relate to. The two were able to overcome all the odds in their quest to be Division I national champs. Yes, they fell a bit short, but their determination and desire is something that many people can learn from. They were truly the best they could possibly be. Credit is certainly due to MSC wrestling coach Steve Streliner and his staff as well.

They never listened when people told them they were from a small, Division III school. Imagine a wrestler from Montclair State facing a wrestler from Iowa State, a wrestling powerhouse for years, for the national championship.

To put it in perspective, imagine the MSC football team facing Notre Dame in the Fiesta Bowl, or the basketball team facing Duke this weekend in Seattle. It’s amazing, really. Yet no one really flinches. Gonzalez and Monaco don’t really seem fazed by it either, but that’s probably because they knew all along where they’d be come March of 1989. And something tells me they know where they’ll be in September of 1992. Then maybe people will realize the talent these guys really have.

At the Meadowlands

Precious Paul &Deadly Dorone
Psycho Rich &Dave the Barber
Mike the Spike &Kenny Do It!
Dr. Panto
Dare You Too
Joe's Scooter
Wangler
Twister Rainbow
Scene Topper
Psycho Rich
Lavish Laura
Parmel Landing Sweet Thoughts
Twinster Rainbow
&Dave the Barber
Mike the Spike
Yankee Tea
Frank the Fade
Frankie C
TK's Skipper

Based on a $2.00 across the board bet:
+$28.80 -$3.20
+$11.20 -11.00

$300 to $500

“Opportunity”
Looking for aggressive individuals to earn $300 to $500 per week part-time in your own area. Call Russ at 718-343-3819.

Petrone leads with four goals

Lacrosse team rolls over FDU-Madison, 16-5

By Tony D’Antonio
Correspondent

Junior Joe Petrone scored four times while sophomore Peter Zorich had three goals and four assists to lift the Indians over New York Maritime Tuesday at Sprague Field.

MSC jumped out to a 4-0 lead after the first quarter as Petrone had two goals. John Hufstutler and Zorich each scored twice in the second period when the Indians moved out to a 10-3 lead.

The Indians improve to 3-0 with the win.

The remainder of the lacrosse schedule is as follows:

Apr. 1 Widener A 2:00
Apr. 6 Marist A 3:30
Apr. 9 ESSU A 1:00
Apr. 12 Drew H 8:00
Apr. 15 Kutztown A 1:00
Apr. 17 Pace H 3:30
Apr. 19 Stockton H 7:30
Apr. 22 Fairfield A 8:00
Apr. 27 Kean H 8:00
Apr. 29 South Hampton A 12:00
May 4 USMMA A 3:30

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week’s issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What was the least number of pitchers used by one team in a complete World Series?
2. Who is the Louisville Lip?
3. What is the nickname given to the sports teams at the University of Massachusetts?
4. Who was the catcher for the Oakland A’s during their consecutive championships in the 1970’s?
5. Against what team did Pete Rose get his 4,000th lifetime hit?

Answer to last week’s stumper: The only Rose Bowl game not played in California was played in what city? Durham, North Carolina.

Submitting the correct answer: Russell Sapio.

This week’s stumper: What was the greatest number of home runs hit in one ball park by a player in one season?
Sports

March 30, 1989

Tops several Div. I schools in Florida

Baseball team can play with the best of 'em

By Al Langer
Sports Information Director

Considering the challenge that was facing the 1989 MSC baseball team when they took to the air ten days ago for its annual opening season Florida trip, an optimist would have had to say that a .500 record coming home was one to be proud of. After all, an opening schedule that consisted of four Division I schools and four Division II schools was designed to toughen the team for its northern opponents, not to grab some wins in the sun. So what happened?

The Indians, ranked third in the country in Division III the week they left for Florida, showed the collegiate world that they can not only play with Division I schools, they could beat them.

MSC suffered only two setbacks in the eight game schedule and took three of four from backs in the eight game schedule showing the collegiate world that they could beat them.

After all, an opening schedule would allow them, and it was quite a ride.

Monaco and Gonzalez Div. I All-Americans

By Kenny Peck
Sports Editor

MSC wrestlers Karl Monaco and Pete Gonzalez took their dreams as far as reality would allow them, and it was quite a ride.

Both Monaco and Gonzalez were named Division I All-Americans for their performances at the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I national championships in Oklahoma last week. Gonzalez finished fifth and Monaco finished second overall. The top seven wrestlers in each class are All-Americans.

The two were both attempting to become only the third wrestler ever from a Division III school to win the Division I championships. Both wrestlers started out well, as they each won both of their matches on Thursday. On Friday, however, Gonzalez fell to the eventual second place finisher, Michael Stokes of North Carolina State.

Softball team (11-3) kept Rucker on the edge of her seat in Florida

By Al Langer
Sports Information Director

If MSC head softball coach Willie Rucker didn't have a gray hair before she left for the annual southern trip to Florida, it's a good bet that she has one now.

The Indians, who came home with an impressive 9-3 record after their Florida excursion, made their coach's heart beat a bit faster during the trip with five one-run victories, including a one-run nailbiter over Muskingum College.

MSC, ranked fifth in Division III, started the season with a 3-2 win over Buena Vista, followed by a 5-4 decision over Benedictine, not exactly comforting scores. In the second game, MSC broke a 4-4 tie in its final at bat to win the contest. When the Indians were not involved in one-run games, they were busy scoring some runs, as they did in a 19-2 rout against Hope College. MSC also scored 10 runs (against California of Pennsylvania) and eight runs (against Muskingun).

Monaco was also down 7-4 in the eighth inning against Michigan State before a six-run rally gave the Indians the victory. A 6-3 deficit against Florida Atlantic was erased as MSC emerged with a 9-6 win.

The Indians were also powered by John Deutsch, who finished the week with a .320 average, two home runs and a team-leading 15 runs batted in. John McClain led the Indians with a .387 batting average, two homers and a team-leading 15 runs batted in. Devins and Wayne Masters keyed a turnaround toward week's end.

Devins finished the Florida swing at 2-0, grabbing a win in relief and then going eight innings against Florida Atlantic for the other.

Jeffrey Coach of the Year

MSC women's basketball coach Jill Jeffrey was named Coach of the Year for the New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC) as well as for the Mid-Atlantic Region. Also, co-captains Sue Becker and Carolyn Savio were named to the NJAC First Team All Conference team. Kim Wilson was named to the second team. Becker also made several other all-star teams, including All-State and All-Region.

John Deutsch

Of the six wins, four were dramatic come-from-behind victories, including a stunning seven-run final inning against Southern Illinois University that turned an 8-2 deficit into a 9-8 win. A two-out, two-run single by Leroy Horn scored Ralph Doerfler and Mark Gavin.

Wille Rucker

Heavy hitters for MSC in the Sunshine State were Cindy Dorrman, who hit a blistering .459 in 12 games with five RBIs, and Andrea Peters, who hit .450 with eight RBIs, six doubles and three triples.

On the mound, Johhna Toleomeo has answered some questions about the MSC pitching staff as she tossed her way to a 6-1 record with an ERA under two. Fresnohna Lois Fyfe (3-2) has also seen action on the hill for MSC.

Monaco and Gonzalez Div. I All-Americans

"I didn't expect to lose, but I knew he was a tough kid," said Gonzalez. "I thought I had him on his back about 15 inches into the match, but I didn't get the call."

Monaco, meanwhile, ventured into the finals on Saturday night after two wins on Friday, and faced Tim Krieger of Iowa State, who defeated Monaco earlier in the season, for the national championship.

Krieger took a 2-0 lead early, but in the third period, Monaco appeared to register a takedown out of bounds line. But the referee refused to count it, apparently ruling that Monaco's feet were out of bounds, although the replay appeared to show otherwise.

Krieger went on to win the match by a 5-0 score, a score that doesn't reflect how tight it was.

"It was great to get that far, because that's what you work for all year," said Monaco. "I'm happy with the way it went."