Presidential search nearly complete

By Lilyanne McClean, Julia DiMartino and Paul Mampilly

The search for a new president entered its final stages this week as the Board of Trustees interviewed the candidates recommended by a search committee. An open reception was also held for each candidate this week so that he/she could meet with the college community.

The candidates include Richard A. Lynde, acting president, MSC, and Irwin R. Reid, Dean and John Stagmaier Professor of Economics and Business Administration, The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

Other candidates are Helen Popovich, president of Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton; Florida and Michael P. Riccards, president of St. Johns College, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

One candidate, Dr. Kala M. Stroup, president of Murray State University, said, "I want to build bridges to the alumni because with their help MSC can become stronger."

Popovich added that she hopes to increase financial and alumni support. "I would work towards increasing private and corporate donations to aid the state's diminishing input," she said. "I want to build bridges to the alumni because with their help MSC can become stronger."

Popovich, who received her Ph.D. from the University of Kansas in 1965, said there is a need for a balance between the professional studies programs and general education requirements. "I have greater respect for pre-professional studies than the liberal arts program because they are teaching skills the student needs for their first job experience," she said.

"I will set the tone for a humane environment at MSC," Popovich said. "A college must possess integrity and optimism; colleges must be the most optimistic institutions in society," she said.

Michael P. Riccards, President of St. John's College, presented his vision for MSC on March 28.

Riccards talked about finding endowments from corporations to fund programs at MSC in a period of economic decline. "I have greater respect for pre-professional studies than the liberal arts program because they are teaching skills the student needs for their first job experience," she said.

"I will set the tone for a humane environment at MSC," Popovich said. "A college must possess integrity and optimism; colleges must be the most optimistic institutions in society," she said.

Michael P. Riccards, President of St. John's College, presented his vision for MSC on March 28.

Riccards talked about finding endowments from corporations to fund programs at MSC in a period of economic decline. "I have greater respect for pre-professional studies than the liberal arts program because they are teaching skills the student needs for their first job experience," she said.

"I will set the tone for a humane environment at MSC," Popovich said. "A college must possess integrity and optimism; colleges must be the most optimistic institutions in society," she said.

For details on the presidential candidates and their credentials, see p. 7.
GO FOR THE GOLD

EXECUTIVE BOARD POSITION

PICK UP YOUR PETITION:

TIME: March 27th - April 7th

PLACE: Student Government Office
Student Center, Room 103

DEADLINE: April 7th - Noon!!
“Satanic Verses” seeks to excite Moslem world

By Tammy Burke
Correspondent

“The Satanic Verses” may be the most unread, bestselling book in recent history,” said Dr. Tom Benediktsson at the Institute for the Humanities’ discussion of Salman Rushdie’s controversial novel, March 15. This statement was evidenced by the fact that only one person in the audience admitted to have read one-third of the book.

Nevertheless, the discussion led by Benediktsson, Dr. Faizia Afzal-Khan of the English department, and Dr. Adele McCollum of Philosophy /Religion focused on to why this novel has caused such an uproar.

According to Afzal-Khan and McCollum, Rushdie knew that he would be creating controversy when he wrote the novel. Afzal-Khan went as far to say he “overstepped his bounds to inflict his anguish on others.”

The consensus of the audience and the speakers was that Rushdie does not deserve to die for it.

McCollum said this book was Rushdie’s way of ridding himself of Islam. This highly complex book satirizes and questions every aspect of Islam. According to one Moslem observer, “The book attacks Islam in its essence.”

Ambrosia addresses SGA

By James Harris

N.J. is going to get money from the federal government. “The state will have to pick it up,” Ambrosia said. “We are going to have to pay a progressive income tax in.”

Ambrosia also talked about the problems with car insurance. Ambrosia said, “The JUA (Joint Underwriters Association) was very badly run. We should go back to square one and not get involved in a state-run insurance system. The Governor is the number one culprit in this, and if he was here, I would tell him.”

Poison was one issue Ambrosia said was close to his heart. “We generate enough sewage sludge to fill Giant Stadium three times a year,” Ambrosia said. He also mentioned that we accept garbage from other states to keep our incinerators running.

Ambrosia added that his brother and sister graduated from MSC, and he knows this institution well. “There is a commitment to making our college system one of the best in the country,” Ambrosia said.

Senator Cardinale, a republican representative of Cresskill, will speak with the Student Government on April 12. The meeting is at 4 p.m., and students are invited.

A tax increase was something Ambrosia was certain of. Ambrosia said, “We have to raise taxes in this state. We doubled our budget; we went from $6 billion to $12 billion under the Kean administration.” He added that there is no way to go on the state, “Li-
Students Speak

How was your vacation?
Photographed and compiled by Kristin Marcussen and Barclay Minton

Bryan Peacock - Willi­amsport, NJ. I didn't go anywhere or do any­thing. I may not have a tan, but I have Money!

Dorothy McGlone - Trenton, NJ. Very relax­ing! I didn't have to do a thing, just hung out with my friends and boyfriend at home.

Paul Picasso - Daytona Beach, Florida. It was out of control, a melee! Even though the hotel was so far away...

Kim Kowalak - Nassau, Bahamas. It was excel­lent! I'm tan and that's all that matters.

Chip Hyde - Myrtle Beach, So. Carolina. Sleep all day & party all night! (Maybe that's why you got a cold, Mr. Hyde)
College Students:

Funds

Are now available for your Education

If you are interested in receiving scholarships*, fellowships*, grants*, your eligibility is guaranteed regardless of financial status or academic performance.

For more information call:
1-800-283-8328

A national service committed to higher education.

*These funds do not require reimbursement.

Academic Financial Advisory Program.

Speaker warns against repeat of the Holocaust

Yale today is doing a better job in terms of morals, ethics and commitment to life itself than was being done in the world-ranked universities of Berlin, Heidelberg, and so on in 1924, 1925.

"Universities defend rights without protecting rights, they are long on academic freedom but short on academic responsibility," said Littell.

"Professors cannot deal with their colleagues who are anti-semitic," he said. If they chose to act responsibly, "universities can yank degrees as well as grant degrees," he added.

Littell also compared American tolerance for destructive ideas with that of pre-Nazi Germany.

Germany was a democracy when Hitler took power, but it did not protect itself from Hitler, he said.

We are being frivolous when we fail to take seriously such movements as the Neo-Nazis or Identity Churches which arm themselves and advocate the overthrow of democracy, he added. We need to know the difference between a freedom fighter and a terrorist, he said.

"I am throwing these things in because I want you to think with me about the way in which we fellow citizens; Catholics, Jews, Protestants and, if I may use the phrase, secular humanists, owe it to each other to strengthen and sustain what is in many respects the most remarkable experiment in human liberty and self government made by any people on the face of the earth," Littell said.

Littell answered questions from the audience about the historic setting of Hitler's rise to power, the implications of his ideas to both women's rights and animal rights, and protecting freedom without being repressive.

Littell is the founder and honorary chairman of the Anne Frank Institute, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He is also the author of A Pilgrim's Interfaith Guide to the Holy Land, The Atlas History of Christianity, and editor of The German Church Struggle and The Holocaust.

Attention Accounting and Finance Graduates

What salaries do accounting and finance graduates command in the marketplace?

What type of accounting and finance positions are available?

What immediate position is the best to increase your chances of accomplishing your long term career objectives?

The answer to these questions and much more information is available free in Source Finance's 1989 Accounting and Finance Salary Survey & Career Planning Guide.

To receive your free copy call Cliff Miras, CPA at (201)338-5200 or write to Source Finance, 300 Broadacres Drive, 4th Floor, Bloomfield, NJ 07003.
CLASS ONE CONCERTS PRESENTS

"LITTLE FEAT"

MONDAY

APRIL 17  8 P.M.

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

TICKETS: $13 W/MSC ID
$15 NON-STUDENTS

TIX ON SALE  9 AM - 4:30 PM

April 3-7
Student Center Annex Rm. 117

April 10-14 & 17
Student Center BOX OFFICE

Also April 6 & 13 7-9 PM in the Box Office

FOR MORE INFO CALL
(201) 893-4478
Candidates present diverse credentials

Four candidates for President of Montclair State College have been on campus this week for interviews with the Board of Trustees and to make formal presentations and meet informally with members of the community.

A fifth candidate, Dr. Kala M. Stroup, president of Murray State University in Kentucky, was here earlier this week but withdrew her candidacy, citing personal reasons. The final decision on the presidency will be made by the board from among the following:

Richard A. Lynde

Acting president and professor of chemistry, Montclair State College. An 18-year member of the MSC community, Dr. Lynde has been acting president since November 1987. At the time of his appointment, he had been vice president for academic affairs for four months. Previously, he had been dean for 11 years of Mathematical/Natural Sciences, and before that, a faculty member in Chemistry.

Lynde holds a Ph.D. degree in inorganic chemistry from Iowa State University and a bachelor's degree in chemistry from Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y. In 1981, he attended the Institute for Educational Management at Harvard University.

Helen Popovich

President and professor of English, Florida Atlantic University. Boca Raton, Fl. Popovich has held her current posts since 1983. Previously, she was at Winona State University for five years, serving a dean of liberal arts, vice president for academic affairs and, finally, acting president for two years. Before that, she had been at the University of South Florida, first as associate chairperson of the department of English and then as associate dean of arts and letters.

Popovich holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Kansas and bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas at El Paso.

Irvin D. Reid

Dean and John Stagstainer Professor of Economics and Business Administration, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. In his current post for the past six years, Reid previously was head of the department of marketing and business law and professor of business administration there, and before that, a member of the marketing department faculty at Howard University.

He has also served as consultant and staff specialist for the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Administration and on the faculties of Drexel University, the Philadelphia College of Art and St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia.

He holds Ph.D. and master's degrees in business and applied economies from The University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School and master's and bachelor's degrees in general experimental psychology from Howard University. He also attended Harvard University's Institute for Educational Management.

Michael P. Riccards

President, St. John's College, Santa Fe N.M. Before assuming the presidency at St. John's, Dr. Riccards was at Hunter College, City University of New York, first as professor of political science and later as provost and vice president for academic affairs.

Before that, he was dean of arts and sciences at the University of Massachusetts, chairperson and faculty member in the political science department at the State University of New York at Buffalo and special assistant to the New Jersey Chancellor of Higher Education.

He holds Ph.D. and master's degrees in political science, as well as a Master of Philosophy and a bachelor's degree in history, all from Rutgers University. He also was a research fellow at Princeton University.
SOUP pours out students’ thoughts

By Valerie Kalfrin
Head Feature Writer

Say “soup” to anyone at MSC and a number of things come to mind. One in particular, though, has nothing to do with vegetable, tomato, or chicken noodle.

In fact, the only food it offers is for the mind.

SOUP, or Student Organized Uninhibited Publication, first arrived on campus earlier this semester. Although independent of the SGA and other organizations, it has its roots in two of the literary groups on campus—the English club and Four Walls.

Tom Violet, president of the English club, came up with the idea for another campus publication last semester. “I had an idea of doing a different kind of magazine,” he explains.

“We wanted to give students room to express themselves, to reach a lot of different segments of the population. We didn’t want to duplicate Four Walls or The Montclarion. They do a good job with what they do.”

Originally meant as a project of the English club, the publication became independent once Violet spoke to students, who felt it should be separate.

He, Angel Mossucco, literary editor of Four Walls, and David Craig met with professors from the English department such as Sharon Spencer, Carol Stone, Rita Jacobs, and Tom Benediktsson. With the help and contributions of about ten other students, SOUP began.

The first issue was received well by both students and faculty. Violet recalls letter he received from Dr. Jean Armstrong, vice president of academic affairs, in which she called SOUP “a cut above” the other magazines she had seen.

SGA President Tom Mergola also approached SOUP after the first issue.

“He asked us if we wanted to apply (to become part of the SGA). We’re not interested right now. A lot of people on campus have an SGA bias, and say if we’re independent, they’ll contribute,” Violet says.

Contributions are what SOUP hopes to get from the student community, while giving something to the students as well. In addition to gaining recognition for MSC, SOUP hopes to be a learning experience for the students as well.

Unlike Four Walls, a strictly literary publication that judges each piece before printing, SOUP aims to be “less critical.” However, Violet maintains that SOUP will not be completely “hands-off” to submissions.

“We’ll really accept any kind of writing,” Violet says, mentioning poetry, short stories, essays or something completely different. Artwork is also accepted.

“We want to bring a social awareness to MSC through articles about topics such as the homeless; however, Violet maintains that SOUP will not become a soapbox for anyone or a place to showcase the work of those involved with the magazine.

Once off the ground, SOUP will be a monthly publication, and with its budget, will sponsor workshops and seminars with faculty members. “Professors are dying to work with students, outside the classroom,” Violet says.

Independence is one aspect of the publication that has both its advantages and its problems. SOUP has no official editor or officers; those who organized it remain a “student-run thing.”

While SOUP is relying on monetary contributions at the moment, it does have a bright future. Several bookstores in Montclair have expressed interest in selling the magazine, although no offers are definite yet.

In the future, Violet hopes for some criticism from the campus. “We want their critical response so we can improve,” he says. “If people aren’t responding, they really aren’t reading it.”

SOUP’s second issue is due out at the end of April; those involved hope it will make a greater impact on campus.

Whatever the response, SOUP’s future hinges on students sampling this food for thought, and offering some of their own. In this case, too many “cooks” can only enhance it.
Canadites must address student apathy at MSC

The question of student apathy has often been addressed by administrators and professors alike. However, it has never been considered a very important issue—it was just one of those persistent topics that never seemed to die, like insufficient parking or lines at the registrar's office. In fact, the issue of student apathy has hardly been mentioned this academic semester—until the candidates for MSC's presidency came on campus.

When Acting President Richard Lynde was asked during his presentation if the apathy on campus bothered him, the question was neatly evaded with the standard excuse: the majority of students that attend MSC commute, and don't participate in activities. Hopefully this possible change in student apathy can have a positive affect on the forthcoming SGA elections.

The wolves are howling at President Bush's door already. His administration has been accused in recent weeks of being adrift, suffering malaise and lacking an agenda. The story from Washington is that Attila the Preppy is reeding into history and George the Wimp is on the march—or limp. Critics are seizing on the slowness of his appointment process, the lack of a specific legislative program and as evidence that Mr. Bush may not be up to the job.

Well, I'm as willing to declare a presidency failure as the next fellow—more so, actually—but I generally like to wait until he's been in office a full 90 days before I do it. I realize that a know-it-all columnist should be able to declare an administration in terminal disarray in six weeks, but I like to give a new kid on the block the benefit of the doubt. I'm conservative that way, if no other.

Admittedly, Gentle George has started slowly, particularly for someone who was supposed to bring the advantage of continuity to the office. In his first 100 days in office Franklin Roosevelt put the basic structure of the New Deal in place. The chief accomplishment of Mr. Bush's first 100 days will be the confirmation of his Secretary of Defense.

But that doesn't mean things won't get better down the road. The problems facing him are big; perhaps a deliberate style is called for. In any case, he wasn't elected to do things, he was elected not to do things, primarily raise taxes, burn the flag and let Willie Horton out of jail. These he has not done, which I'm sure accounts for his relatively high approval ratings in the polls.

The encouraging thing about the Bush administration thus far, at least to me, is that it has been so different from the Reagan administration. The efforts at media manipulation have been so inept as to be endearing, and there's been no playing pekopoo with a president sheltered from contact with the outside world by a palace guard for shouting of questions over the roar of helicopters. Mr. Bush has made himself accessible to the media and has been able to handle tough questions without making a complete ass of himself. That indeed is a change and a welcome one. A president may not have all the answers, but he should recognize the questions.

President Bush even came around a little on the AK-47 issue the other day. He OK'd a ban on imported assault-style rifles, pending a review of whether the semiautomatic weapons are being used for sporting purposes. This was a switch from his previous position that rifles don't assault people, furloughed criminals do. Now if you get caught in the cross fire of a drug shootout, you can take comfort in the fact that, chances are, you'll die American.

I find amusing, however, the notion that it may be "sporting" to hunt with a semiautomatic weapon. I would have thought that a real sportsman would depend on his skill and marksmanship to bring down game, rather than the ability of his gun to shred his prey. What do these people use for fishing lures, dynamite? Still, it's a start. We have to be patient with Mr. Bush. He's only little.

Even the Senate's rejection of John Tower as defense secretary has a plus side for the president. He made the egregious error, born of loyalty, of proposing as his defense chief a man who combined the libido of Harpo Marx, the drinking habits of W.C. Fields and the ethical sensibilities of Spiro Agnew, but he was saved from his folly by the ineptitude of his efforts to support the man.

Now, having shown himself a steadfast friend to the fallen Tower, he will have a defense secretary in place who has the respect of Congress and the good opinion of mankind.

It could be that Mr. Bush will prove to be a lucky president which, as his predecessor demonstrated, is often better than being a good one.

Not that I really think he will. It seems to me that the flaccidity of his administration's early days has been just what one would have expected from so vacuous and small-spirited a campaign and the days ahead will see more of the same.

But I really think we should give the guy 90 days or so before we make a definitive judgment.

Donald Kauf is a syndicated columnist with Tribune Media Services, Inc.
Economic pressure provides stability

Boris Yeltsin is publicly campaigning for office in Moscow on the grounds that his free market perestroika—Walter Mitty time in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, but it is happening.

In China, a national congress convenes, and is finding it difficult to repress Chinese intellectuals who threaten to pound on the table and demand greater freedom than they are stiffly permitted under the post-Mao regime. It is even being debated whether the huge portrait of that ugly man should be removed from the prominence it has in Tian An Men Square. Remove a picture of the Great Helmsman? Rather like plucking the heart from revolutionary China—certainly the equivalent of plucking the windpipe from it.

And in South Africa, the Dutch Reformed Church sheepishly admits that all the time, all those years, it was mistaken about the inherent justice of apartheid. You cannot be a Christian in good standing and endorse apartheid. The meaning of this, coming from what amounts to the established church in South Africa, cannot be overestimated. Those who cling to apartheid as a means sanctioned by Christian tradition of solving the problem of mixed races suddenly stare down and keel of their proud vessel is gone.

It is not to give in to economic determinism to reflect on the proximate pressures bringing about these reforms. The late Alan Paton over and over again stressed that reforms would come to South Africa as a result of economic pressures.

Paton himself was something of a scrambled socialist, but he always insisted that the need of South Africa for black technicians and for black economic patronage would edge the nation away from apartheid. As that which the nation clearly needs becomes transparent, the reigning church re-examines its doctrines and conforms to the transfiguration of the agricultural picture. In four years, production increased by 350 percent.

The demonstration—what a semi-free agriculture would do that socialized agriculture could not do—is the starkest evidence that the turn to the right was a turn in the necessary direction. The Chinese communists are not likely to renounce the phantasmagoria explicitly, nor to sacrifice what they call socialist centralism. But they are driven, driven by the laws of the market.

And the relative civil serenity of the one-party state permits a prospective rise in economic production that is proving impossible in the chaotic political situations that characterize Latin America. In Brazil, inflation brings unemployment, multiplication and grinding poverty.

Brazilians complain of having to make payments on their staggering national debt, and the burden is real.

But that burden is being met by the simple expedient of printing more money, with the result that inflation will be on the order of 1,000 percent during the year. In Peru, also suffering from a heavy debt, it didn't work for the demagogue who serves as president simply to suspend payments.

The Shining Path guerrillas are as implacable as the guerrillas in El Salvador, and the tumult begins by disincrediting democratic stability, and ends by terrorizing those who seek to keep democracy in place.

Venezuela explodes under the burdens. And of course in China, the reign of Deng Xiaoping brought in nothing less than a transfiguration of the agricultural picture.

In Brazil, inflation brings unemployment, multiplication and grinding poverty. Brazilians complain of having to make payments on their staggering national debt, and the burden is real. But that burden is being met by the simple expedient of printing more money, with the result that inflation will be on the order of 1,000 percent during the year. In Peru, also suffering from a heavy debt, it didn't work for the demagogue who serves as president simply to suspend payments.

The Shining Path guerrillas are as implacable as the guerrillas in El Salvador, and the tumult begins by disincrediting democratic stability, and ends by terrorizing those who seek to keep democracy in place.

Venezuela explodes under the burden, and Carlos Andres Perez, president for the second time, considered calling in the army, settling instead for a curfew.

But the knock on the door—in Brazil, Peru, Venezuela—may come from the army the next time around. Economic forces bring discontent, but progress requires political stability. They say the market is ruthless. But one can only be glad for the pressures it exerts.

William F. Buckley Jr. is a syndicated columnist with the Universal Press Syndicate.

---

Library responds to students

Library tries to be fair to all students

To the editor:

In her letter to the editor, The Montclarion March 9, 1989, Kristin Roome claims that she never received a straight answer about her request for refund from two library books for which she paid.

The Library's policy is not to give a refund once payment is received for our books. The process of refunding and accounting for the money re-funded, withdrawing the information which we keep for our books (and then re-adding the same information for these books), and the possibility of refunding money for a book which we have reordered, makes the giving of refunds very difficult, and costly, for the library.

In February, 1989, the first time Ms. Roome contacted me about her situation, we had taken the many steps we have to follow to account for the monies collected for these books and to withdraw the information about these books from our records. We had even reordered one of these books.

Ms. Roome also claims that the overdue fines for these books would have been seventy cents. The books were due on May 23, 1988. The fines would have been much more than that. She could even have returned the books in October during our amnesty month and avoided paying any overdue fines.

Ms. Roome was not referred to the Business Office until almost four months after the books were overdue. We did try to notify her about these overdue books. On July 18, 1988, we sent her a certified letter notifying her of the overdue books. The Post Office returned the letter to us on August 10, 1988, as "unclaimed."

The Library tries to be fair to individual students, while developing policies which protect the entire student body. By not returning her books on time, Ms. Deoprore deprived fellow students of the opportunity to use these books. The circumstances regarding Ms. Roome's request for a refund were thoroughly reviewed. There was nothing in Ms. Roome's situation which necessitated an exception to our refund policy.

Sincerely,

Luis Rodriguez

Circulation librarian/Sprague Library

---

Get Involved

The Montclarion offers the unique opportunity for all MSC students to have a voice on campus. We encourage all students to express their viewpoints in the Letters page.

All letters must be:

* typewritten and double spaced
* addressed to the editor
* submitted by 4 PM on the Monday before the Thursday issue
* include student ID number, year, major, and telephone number for confirmation.

Letters must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request. These guidelines must be met or the letter will not be printed.

---

The Montclarion Letters Policy

Time for students to clean-up MSC

To the editor:

It's time for spring cleaning, let's pitch it in before we strike out.

The cans, wrappers, bottles, papers, they are all around. Are we a dump? Can we get our premises clean?

The Montclair State Softball and Baseball teams are pitching away. That's a hint. Let us pitch, too. This is not for us to sit here at home! For all those bodies getting in shape let's shape up our campus.

For all those hands we get to pinch hitting ourselves here at MSC.

M. Scott Peck, in his book The Road Less Traveled speaks of love and how it takes effort against inertia. How true. Too, true is the effort needed for MSC to delight us with its cleanliness.

Coming to MSC this morning I was struck by the sight beginning on Valley Road, of loveless thrown cans, bottles, wrappers, trash everywhere. Everyone could pitch in and help.

Newspaper just that everything that folks toss wherever, as though our land were their own private trash can.

How come? The Student Center has a recycle bin next to the Pepsi/Coke machines on the 1st floor. There are stone, black, and blue top cans all over. Perhaps you will join the Conservation Club and set aside a whole day for the campus to remember our environment and clean it up. There are enough examples in every corner of the campus to illustrate a photographic essay on cleanliness in the Time/Life manner.

Let's choose a day where we could all pitch in. Maybe the SGA could provide bags and we could all institute a System whereby we throw away and to Manc's seize the day with MSC's motto Carpe Diem.

There's enough for all of us. Team work makes hard jobs easier. It's worth the effort. Let's go for it.

Thelma Duscio

---

The Montclarion reserves the right to edit letters for style and brevity.
SAB Concerts presents

the FIIXX
AT SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

April 9, 1989 at 8 p.m.
Walsh Gymnasium
Tickets $10.00
NO LIMIT
Call and order your tickets at the Seton Hall ticket office at 761-9098
or
Get them at Vintage Vinyl in Fords N.J.
Stories from the Big Apple

By Lynn M. Cowan
Editor-in-Chief

The film New York Stories is the result of the combination of three directors' slices of New York culture—"Life Lessons," by Martin Scorsese; "Life Without Zoe," by Francis Ford Coppola; and "Oedipus Wrecks," by Woody Allen.

"Oedipus Wrecks" is without doubt the finest film of this trio—unfortunately, it is also the last, so you have to sit through the other two before it. Allen is at his neurotic best in this scene of New York jowislation, complete with the standard psychoanalyst and an embarrassing mother.

Allen plays the son of Sadie Millstein, a squat bundle of terror who doesn't have any reservations about informing his fiancée of his bedwetting habit as a child. Allen's mom greets her son by saying, "You look awful," and constantly needles him about his eating habits and the fact that he is marrying too soon.

A special source of angst for Sadie Millstein, a fact that her son has changed his name to Mills. "He hates this apartment," she confides to Mia Farrow, his fiancée. "He thinks it looks too Jewish."

Allen vents his frustrations to his psychoanalyst: His mother talks too loud, she embarrasses him—his life is a living hell. "What I'd really like," says Allen, "is for her to disappear quietly."

His wish comes true when he takes mom out to a magician's show and she's selected for the disappear act. After an initial act, promising her, "I'd do anything for you," every time Arquette threatens to leave, the artist gets desperate, promising to keep their relationship non-sexual and saying, "You're going to leave the city? Where can you go? Where else do you get free room and board, a salary, exposure to some of the people in your field, and invaluable life lessons?"

The final scene of "Life Lessons" adds a surprising twist to Nolte's character. Arquette has left for good, and the artist is "mingling" at a new showing of his work.

He comes across a beautiful bartender, who confides in him that she, too, would like to be an artist. Nolte asks her how she is surviving in the city, and she admits it's tough.

Finally, the camera fixes on various parts of her anatomy, and Nolte looks her in the eye and says, "You know, I need an assistant. You get free room and board, a salary, exposure to some of the top people in your field, and invaluable life lessons."

The artist is suddenly transformed into the lecherous fraud he has shown glimmers of previously, and the scene closes. "Life Without Zoe" is a miserable mess. Considering that 85 percent of the cast is under 14, one wonders what can be said for "Life Without Zoe"? That it's short and it does give a view of how a very small percentage—the obnoxiously rich—live in the Big Apple.

For anyone who enjoys the City, these three New York Stories will have something for everyone.
Why are good concert tickets hard to find?

By Oren Silverstein
Staff Writer

There are certain things a person accepts as a given when going to a concert. Things that happen so often that people believe them to be inevitable. Like what, you say? Well, here are a few examples.

First, there are the people who believe that their goal in life is to find out how much alcohol a human can possibly consume without bursting into flames when someone lights a cigarette in their vicinity.

That is if the crack security force hasn't confiscated all your supply already. Of course, these same security people are never around when one over-zealous fan is beating another into a grease spot three rows in front of you (not that I'm so concerned about the one being beaten, it's just that they're blocking my view).

If your refreshments are confiscated, there is always the snack bar provided every fifty feet. For only $3.75, you can get a drink with a chunk of ice in it roughly the size of the one that took down the Titanic. I won't even comment on the food, let's just say that everyone knows that there are terrible things in hot dog, but in an arena hot dog you can taste them all.

From the snack bar, it's just a quick trip down the hall to the souvenir stand. For an investment somewhat less than the national debt, you can show you allegiance to your favorite artist. Choose from a wide selection of band t-shirts, sweatshirts, tour programs, buttons, headbands, boxer shorts, drinking glasses, jumper cables, condoms, shower caps. Okay, I got a little carried away here, but you get the idea.

I am willing to accept all of this and more because I guess, it's part of the fun or at least it's part of the experience. The one thing that I will not put up with, and neither should you is the near impossibility of getting good seats at a show.

I've been to around twenty shows. Out of those twenty times, I've had floor seats a grand total of three times. For the rest of the shows, I had seats that ranged from decent to ones that I swear were in different time zones.

At this point, you, the reader might say "Stop whining Oren, that's just the way it is; c'est la vie and all that." I disagree. It doesn't have to be that way because those in power are taking advantage of us, the consumer.

Did you know that arenas are allowed to sell to the licensed ticket broker? These are the same brokers who are somehow allowed to sell tickets from anywhere from double to ten times their original price.

You might think that if you get to the box office the first few days tickets are on sale, you won't have to worry about that. Wrong. It is perfectly legal for the venue to sell to licensed brokers after as little as twenty four hours after tickets go on sale.

While we're on the subject of ticket thieves...oops, I mean brokers, how come they are allowed to remain in the business? Doesn't New Jersey have an anti-scalping law? If you look at the services! For God's sake, these people are businessmen, they want to make money. If there is no demand, then there is no need for the suppliers. Think before you buy these ticket brokers next time; do you really need to see Bon Jovi from the 10th row that badly? Or only a fair seat and use that fifty bucks you've saved and spend it on something else. Don't make it more difficult for the rest of us to get seats.

The next step is harder. You need to write letters to everyone that will listen. Write to record companies, promoters, the venues, radio stations and the artists themselves. If no one takes action, those who can do something about it will only think nobody cares.

The most important people to write to are your government representatives. Every week a nice chunk is taken out of your pay for taxes. We are supposed to get something in return. If enough people protest, maybe we can get the legislation changed.

We have the vote now. We have a voice, we have the power, we can make a difference. As author Paddy Cheyefsky once wrote in his novel Network "I'm mad as hell, and I'm not going to take it anymore." You shouldn't have to either.

SpeakEasy: A cabaret to sizzle the STS stage

By Barbara Smith
Staff Writer

Al Capone, Bugsy Malone, the Flapper, the Charleston and prohibition spells the roaring '20's, and for the Studio Theatre Series of MSC, adding dazzling song and dance, it means SpeakEasy: A Musical Cabaret.

Over one dozen crooners and tappers will be heating up the joint with the best of Broadway, jazz and popular song hits that made the 1920's roar.

The Studio Theatre presentation of SpeakEasy: A Musical Cabaret runs Thursday through Saturday, April 6-8, and April 13-15. All shows begin at 8:00 p.m. No reservations are accepted and seating is by general admission.

Inside the speakeasy, the joint will be jumping with music, romance, sex and glamour. It will be dripping with danger as the hoidy-toidy of society rub elbows with gangsters.

Put to music, this hot spot will be shaking with the rhythms of Cole Porter, Irving Berlin and George Gershwin's: "Puttin' on the Ritz" and "Take Care of This House," "How Long Has This Been Going On," as well as many other toe tapping, finger snapping hits like "Baby Face," "The Shiek of Arabey," and "The Charleston!"

This original musical was conceived and directed by MSC faculty member Eric Diamond. Scott Schneider, technical theatre student in the department, will be the scenic and lighting designer. Mark Kalet will stage manage the production. Assistant to the director will be Hilary Nugent.

Alumni Kim Palmisano returns to choreograph the show. The musicians include: Eric Diamond on the piano, Craig Scoppa on the drums, and Mathew Hurst on the saxophone.

Shieks, shebras, gangsters, and dumb Doras include: Jay Bardin, Peter Casbar, Candy Cordes, Chris DeBari, Denae Dobrosky, Antoinette Doherty, Marcelino Feliciana, Jase Hudnut, James Hyler, Deanna Jividen, Carolyn Kovalski, Peter LiVechi, Gena Lustig, Gina Millevol, Donna Nagy, Sam Newman, Laura Pavlich, Reginaal Ros, Celeste Russi, and Jeffery L. Wingfield.

Ticket prices are: standard, $3; MSC students with ID, $2; faculty, staff, and senior citizens tickets are also discounted. For directions and the above information call 893-5112 during business hours.

The STS 1988-89 season concludes with A Staged Reading, May 18-20.
-To Stacey the AIX pledge can’t wait until you in love you- A family member.

-M.C.(lot the phone Co.) Now that it is over I see is done with these riff raff!!! Sorry about St. Patty’s I owe ya one! Love-K

-G-man-What’s more dangerous? A helicopter or a cow? -Marisa and Mike-Have you heard a pure bred “S1” is on the Loose!!! -You-Sweetie, I love you like you can’t believe. Happy Anniversary, Joe.-I love Ioved Penrod’s, thanks for taking me. I still think NY. should have won. Frank.

-D.H.H.-Just a reminder that you have you. Had an awesome time over Spring Break. (“down there”)-Hope the summer will be just as great. All my love and kisses!! Love-TAG

-Christ-WATCH OUT! (bums) for that cement divider. Jughead

-Chris-How about doing Mr. Toad, or maybe the Three Little Pigs again.-Linda-Look into my eyes, deeply, and realize you are the love of my life.-Gail

-To my new car — I’m glad it’s yours. Thanks for taking care of it. -Joe-1 loved Penrod’s, thanks for taking care of it.-Marisa and Mike-Have you heard a pure bred “S1” is on the Loose!!! -Guy

-M.C.-How about doing Mr. Toad, or maybe the Three Little Pigs again.-Linda-Look into my eyes, deeply, and realize you are the love of my life.-Gail

-To Room 218-Here’s to Heffer’s, Halford and Mr. Busser. Thanks for a great time. Jughead

-Greg-Ask Liz for a longer leash, maybe she’ll let you hang with us. C.G.G.

-To Linda, Maggie and Pauline-If they only knew about the bathtub-qua-Gail

-To my little sisters (Chris and Jessica) — You two are my best pledges but don’t tell any Frank.

-To the Pledges of AKPs; You guys are doing a great job, don’t give up now. -PSN- Have you noticed that hours were thrown away?-Stacey and Cheri

-To Missy, Tammy and Jennifer—You’re doing a great job, don’t give up now.-To the “girl” who is giving up on men:-Amy #41—your boyfriend is queer Ha! Love your big sister. This semester has really brought us close, like a family should remember forever!-Gena—Just wanted to say hi. From someone who thinks very highly of you too.-Love

-To Amy-You’re doing out of respect! Only 2 more weeks. Do your best, it’s worth it.-To Tammy-Don’t tempt me in my darkness.-Jo-It’s all over. Mr. Schnapps here we go. Let’s make it ONE FOR THE BOOKS. Reg.

-To Kim—Thanks to everyone for a great year.-Liz-You’re the love of my life.-Gail

-To the sisters of AIX- You’re the greatest!!!-Love, Debbie

-Shonee-You’ve saved my life for you and I’ll wait till next year. Love, ya Don Ho!!

-Amy #41—your boyfriend is queer Ha! I love you—Fozzie #10

-To the “girl” who is giving up on men: Just because you can’t get a date because your standards are too high! Don’t go projecting your attitude on the whole male gender. Signed A Great Guy

-Tammy—To start. As I say I do never gave up. Is love what you want? Maybe I already do just for you. J.

-To AIX sister Maryann: Need a Pizza!! Love Cheri

-Jen — Luckily only half of CLUB is on blue!

—Boston (or somewhere around there) here we come.

-Hey Mags—Thanks for letting me take a look on your car.

—You don’t tempt me against my will in the dark!—Jo el-1981 Kawasaki Jet Ski 440. Hull in good condition $ 150. Call 783-2083 and ask for Scott 1973 Chevy Citation, 4 spd., 6 cyl., firm ex., cond., owned by one owner, $ 1,800. Call 203-213-59

-1983 Izu Impulse, Black w/ gray interior. PS/PB, AM/FM cassette, many options. Runs great, asking $ 4,500 or best offer. Call 525-2836

-1976 Datsun 280Z, Black. Automatic $2,000 or best offer. For more info. Call 385-4198

-Help Wanted

-Activists — Do something important with your life. The fastest growing lobby in the U.S. is hiring N.J. cannassiers for civil, women’s and gay rights. Earn $ 250 to $ 375/ wk, f/t and p/t. Call the Rainbow lobby 744-5540

-Help Wanted Summer Camp Staff — unit staff, cook, kitchen staff, administrative assistant, waterfront director, pool staff for day camp in Mendham, N.J. Morris Area Girl Scout Council, P. O. Box 88 Mendham, N.J. or call 538-4936

-Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

-Personal Opportunities available in the exciting field of automotive retailing. Justus Buick, 880 Bloomfield Avenue, West Caldwell. Call 226-7871

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261

—Word Processing of resumes, Psychology thesis you speciality. Located in Little Falls, off Rt. 23. Special Student resume rates. Call 256-4261
Attention

The Montclarion is (as always) looking for all types of students (English, Business, Phys. Ed, Psychology, and all other types of majors) to become part of the staff. We are in need of photographers, news, arts, and sports writers. Not only will this look good on your resume, you will also enjoy pizza on Wednesday nights, have access to a fully equipped darkroom, and make friends you’ll never want to see again. We hope that you can come down on any Wednesday night and see for yourself just how interesting it is, because if you like it enough you can become an editor next year and make advertisements like this.
Collège Life Union Board Presents...

1989 Spring Ball

Information: April 13, 1989
8:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.
Fairfield Sheraton Hotel
Full course dinner
4 hours open bar (ID required)
Dancing all night
Guaranteed Fun!!!

Tickets on sale-
March 28 - 30 & April 3 - 5
11:00 a.m.- 6:00 p.m. in the ticket booth

Also: Have your couples picture taken by a professional photographer that night!

2 5x7 $12.95
4 wallets

2 5x7 $14.95
4 wallets
2 table pictures

Pay when you buy your tickets!
Gonzalez and Monaco will make you believe

By Kenny Peck

Wrestlemania ran wild The success of Karl Monaco and Pete Gonzalez this season (and in the last three seasons) is something that everyone can relate to. The two were able to overcome all the odds in their quest to be Division I national champs. Yes, they fell a bit short, but their determination and desire is something that many people can learn from. They were truly the best they could possibly be. Credit is certainly due to MSC wrestling coach Steve Strellner and his staff as well.

They never listened when people told them they were from a small, Division III school. Imagine a wrestler from Montclair State facing a wrestler from Iowa State, a wrestling powerhouse for years, for the national championship. To put it in perspective, imagine the MSC football team facing Notre Dame in the Fiesta Bowl, or the basketball team facing Duke this weekend in Seattle. It's amazing, really. Yet no one really flinches. Gonzalez and Monaco don't really seem fazed by it either, but that's probably because they knew all along where they'd be come March of 1989. And something tells me they know flinches.

At the Meadowlands

Precious Paul & Deadly Dorone
Psycho Rich & Dave the Barber
Dr. Panto
Paradise Landing
Sweet Thoughts

Mike the Spike & Kenny Do It?
Wrangler
Scene Topper
Yankee Tee
Lavish Laura

Tony the Tiger & Frank the Fade
Franky C
Rudybe Hanover
TK's Skipper

Based on a $2.00 across the board bet:
+$28.80 -$3.20
+$11.20 -$11.00

Lacrosse team rolls over FDU-Madison, 16-5

By Tony D'Antonio
Correspondent

Junior Joe Petrone scored four times while sophomore Peter Zorich had three goals and four assists to lift the Indians over New York Maritime Tuesday at Sprague Field. MSC jumped out to a 4-0 lead after the first quarter as Petrone had two goals. John Huffstutterm and Zorich each scored twice in the second period when the Indians moved out to a 10-3 lead.

The Indians improve to 3-0 with the win.

The remainder of the lacrosse schedule is as follows:

Apr. 1 Widener A 2:00
Apr. 6 Marist A 3:30
Apr. 9 ESSU A 1:00
Apr. 12 Drew H 8:00
Apr. 15 Kutztown A 1:00
Apr. 17 Pace H 3:30
Apr. 19 Stockton H 7:30
Apr. 22 Fairfield A 8:00
Apr. 27 Keen H 8:00
Apr. 29 South Hampton A 12:00
May 4 USMMA A 3:30

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week's issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What was the least number of pitchers used by one team in a complete World Series?
2. Who is the Louisville Lip?
3. What is the nickname given to the sports teams at the University of Massachusetts?
4. Who was the catcher for the Oakland A's during their consecutive championships in the 1970's?
5. Against what team did Pete Rose get his 4,000th lifetime hit?

Answer to last week's stumper:
The only Rose Bowl game not played in California was played in what city? Durham, North Carolina.

Submitting the correct answer:
Russell Sapio.

This week's stumper:
What was the greatest number of home runs hit in one ball park by a player in one season?

The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. This week's stumper:
What was the greatest number of home runs hit in one ball park by a player in one season?

Answer:
The record number of home runs hit in one season is 718, set by Roger Maris in 1961 at Yankee Stadium.

Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m. for the next issue. Answers will be published in the following issue.

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week's issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What was the least number of pitchers used by one team in a complete World Series?
2. Who is the Louisville Lip?
3. What is the nickname given to the sports teams at the University of Massachusetts?
4. Who was the catcher for the Oakland A's during their consecutive championships in the 1970's?
5. Against what team did Pete Rose get his 4,000th lifetime hit?

Answer to last week's stumper:
The only Rose Bowl game not played in California was played in what city? Durham, North Carolina.

Submitting the correct answer:
Russell Sapio.

This week's stumper:
What was the greatest number of home runs hit in one ball park by a player in one season?

Answer:
The record number of home runs hit in one season is 718, set by Roger Maris in 1961 at Yankee Stadium.

Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m. for the next issue. Answers will be published in the following issue.

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week's issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What was the least number of pitchers used by one team in a complete World Series?
2. Who is the Louisville Lip?
3. What is the nickname given to the sports teams at the University of Massachusetts?
4. Who was the catcher for the Oakland A's during their consecutive championships in the 1970's?
5. Against what team did Pete Rose get his 4,000th lifetime hit?

Answer to last week's stumper:
The only Rose Bowl game not played in California was played in what city? Durham, North Carolina.

Submitting the correct answer:
Russell Sapio.

This week's stumper:
What was the greatest number of home runs hit in one ball park by a player in one season?

Answer:
The record number of home runs hit in one season is 718, set by Roger Maris in 1961 at Yankee Stadium.

Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m. for the next issue. Answers will be published in the following issue.

Trivia Time-Out

Each week, The Montclarion publishes a list of sports questions and answers to test your knowledge of sports trivia. In addition, there is a sports stumper which will be answered in the following issue.

If you think you have the correct answer to the stumper, drop it off at The Montclarion office in Room 113 of the Student Center Annex. The names of those submitting the correct answer will be published in the next week's issue. Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m.

1. What was the least number of pitchers used by one team in a complete World Series?
2. Who is the Louisville Lip?
3. What is the nickname given to the sports teams at the University of Massachusetts?
4. Who was the catcher for the Oakland A's during their consecutive championships in the 1970's?
5. Against what team did Pete Rose get his 4,000th lifetime hit?

Answer to last week's stumper:
The only Rose Bowl game not played in California was played in what city? Durham, North Carolina.

Submitting the correct answer:
Russell Sapio.

This week's stumper:
What was the greatest number of home runs hit in one ball park by a player in one season?

Answer:
The record number of home runs hit in one season is 718, set by Roger Maris in 1961 at Yankee Stadium.

Deadline for submissions is Monday at 3 p.m. for the next issue. Answers will be published in the following issue.
Sports

March 30, 1989

Tops several Div. I schools in Florida

Baseball team can play with the best of ’em

By Al Langer
Sports Information Director

Considering the challenge that was facing the 1989 MSC baseball team when they took to the air ten days ago for its annual opening season Florida trip, an optimist would have had to say that a .500 record coming home was one to be proud of.

After all, an opening schedule that consisted of four Division I schools and four Division II schools was designed to toughen the team for its northern opponents, not to grab some wins in the sun. So what happened?

The Indians, ranked third in the country in Division III the week they left for Florida, showed the collegiate world that they can not only play with Division I schools, they could beat them.

MSC suffered only two setbacks in the eight game schedule and took three of four from Division I opponents. The two losses came to Florida Atlantic (by a 6-5 score) and the University of Massachusetts (5-1).

John Deutsch

Of the six wins, four were dramatic come-from-behind victories, including a stunning seven-run final inning against Southern Illinois University that turned an 8-2 deficit into a 9-8 win. A two-out, two-run single by Leroy Horn scored Ralph Doerfler and Mark Gavin.

Softball team (11-3) kept Rucker on the edge of her seat in Florida

By Al Langer
Sports Information Director

If MSC head softball coach Willie Rucker didn’t have a gray hair before she left for the annual southern trip to Florida, it’s a good bet that she has one now.

The Indians, who came home with an impressive 9-3 record after their Florida excursion, made their coach’s heart beat a bit faster during the trip with five one-run victories, including a one-run nailbiter over Muskingum College.

Rucker took a 2-0 lead early, but in the third period, the Colono appeared to register a takedown out of the bounds line. But the referee refused to count it, apparently ruling that Monaco’s feet were out of bounds, although the replay appeared to show otherwise.

Krieger went on to win the match by a 5-0 score, a score that doesn’t reflect how tight the match was.

“It was great to get the win, because that’s what you work for all year,” said Monaco. “I’m happy with the way it went.”

Softball team (11-3) kept Rucker on the edge of her seat in Florida

By Al Langer
Sports Information Director

Wille Rucker

Heavy hitters for MSC in the Sunshine State were Cindy Dormann, who hit a blistering .459 in 12 games with five RBIs, and Andrea Peters, who hit .450 with eight RBIs, six doubles and three triples.

On the mound, Johanna Tomocheo has answered some questions about the MSC pitching staff as she tossed her way to a 6-1 record with an ERA under two. Freshman Lois Fyfe (3-2) has also seen action on the hill for MSC.

MSC 9-FDU-Madison 1
Tomocheo ran her record to 7-1 with a fine performance in the opener of the Indians’ doubleheader with FDU-Madison Tuesday.

The righthander struck out six and walked one, allowing only four hits. Peters had four runs batted in for MSC.

MSC 11-FDU-Madison 0
Fyfe threw a one-hitter in the nightcap as the Indians (11-3) rolled to a sweep of the doubleheader, thanks in part to Tomocheo and the Indians with two RBIs in the 10-run MSC second inning.

Indian Info: The Indians will host the MSC Invitational Softball Tournament this weekend. MSC, William Paterson, Cortland State, Ithaca, Salisbury State, and Kean.

The action kicks off tomorrow at 2 p.m. when WPC takes on Cortland State at the North Field and Salisbury State faces Ithaca on the South Field. MSC is in action at 4 p.m. against Kean and 5 p.m. vs. Salisbury State.

Both games are at North Field. The tournament continues through Saturday...

Jeffrey Coach of the Year

MSC women’s basketball coach Jill Jeffrey was named Coach of the Year for the New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC) as well as for the Mid-Atlantic Region. Also, co-captains Sue Becker and Carolyn Savio were named to the NJAC First Team All Conference team. Kim Wilson was named to the second team.

Becker also made several other all-star teams, including All-State and All-Region.